Opponents to school consolidation within the county have resorted to a new method to prevent the relocation of their school. In the lower part of Frederick County a group of parents and property owners has entered an injunction against the Board of Education with the intention of erecting a new school in the area and closing down the local school. The new angle came about when the group had the soil analyzed and learned it was not conducive to good sewerage conditions. They determined it (the soil) was of insufficient percolation qualities and therefore would jeopardize the health of the entire community. Also, as an added measure they claimed that the roads there were possibly the most dangerous and antiquated in the county and as an additional deterrent to the construction they maintained the cost of transporting the children to the almost inaccessible area would be an unbearable and foolish strain on the taxpayers' pocketbook. So far the idea has worked and the Board of Education has been given a set date by the judge to show good and sufficient reason why the injunction shouldn't be made permanent. We've heard of a lot of ideas pertinent to consolidation, both advantageous and disadvantageous, but this one takes the cake.

Wednesday's electric current interruption once again demonstrated to us the degree to which we are dependent on this service. The interruption came totally without warning to the general public. One humorous aspect of the disruption came about when a local barber was midway through a haircut. The customer was compelled to hang around the shop for an additional hour until the restoration of service was made. Gas stations couldn't pump fuel; factories sent their employees home for the morning; beer coolers began to get warm; restaurants were without hot coffee and electric fans ceased to oscillate. I don't know what the law calls for when repairs are to be made and a disruption of service is made, but I think it only fair that the public should receive some type of warning prior to any interruption of electric service. Naturally there are conditions over which we have no control, such as a short circuit, broken wire, car breaking off pole or damage by the elements, but unless it is an emergency I maintain the public should be notified. I'd venture to say we need electricity and are more dependent on it than any other type of utility or service.

While there is no record being set hereabouts as far as weather goes, the general public has been forced to endure terrific high humidity these past few weeks. With the small portion of rain we've had this season it's hard to understand why the humidity is so high. It's mighty discomforting to all of us, I'm certain and I'm sure it'll be a welcome relief if and when we get a dip in the thermometer, or some cool and comforting rain.

Oops, it happened again. Margie M., wife of the filling station owner, out of gas again and much to her embarrassment, right on the Square. With a little manpower exerted in the right direction the car was pushed to safety and later rescued and refueled by her son.

Building Permits Are Issued

Building permits were issued this week in Frederick for several properties in Emmitsburg District. A four-room frame home with bath and basement on the Keyville Road near U. S. 15 was granted to Kermit G. Glass for Billy Lee Glass, $5,000. A $500 house remodeling on a 50-acre tract on Friends Creek Church Road owned by Mrs. G. Immerwahr of 715 Winna Way in Baltimore, to be constructed this year by Samuel T. Royer. The other Emmitsburg permit was a $300 house repair on Station Road near Saylor's Store, to be completed this year by applicants, Edward F. Plumer and Elizabeth M. Plumer, of Rocky Ridge.

Thurmont Tops Local Little Leaguers

A 10-run uprising in the top of the sixth frame led by a home run off the bat of Valentine knocked Emmitsburg out of the running in Maryland Little League tournament play as Thurmont took a decisive 10-6 decision last Thursday evening at the local Little League Field before a large turnout of fans.

Emmitsburg belted out five solid hits in the first frame to score five runs and take what looked like a substantial lead. Emmitsburg hurler, Jack Dillon, pitched shutout ball for five innings allowing only three hits.

In the sixth frame Dillon retired the first two batters. Then the roof caved in. The third man singled followed by Valentine, who blasted a home run which started the rally. Dillon was replaced by Denny Stahley, but before the third was made and the dust had settled Thurmont had crossed the plate eight more times. The majority of Emmitsburg's five errors were committed in the disastrous sixth.

Emmitsburg managed to add another tally in the bottom of the sixth.

Line Score:
Thurmont 10 14 3
Emmitsburg 6 12 5
Batteries: Thurmont; W. Beard, Stitley and Duncan. Emmitsburg: Dillon, Stahley and Byard.

JOINT FHA COMMITTEES ARE FORMED

The Frederick and Montgomery County Committees of the Farmers Home Administration have been combined into one joint county Area Committee which will review all FHA farm loan applications in both counties.

The announcement of the consolidation of the two county committees was made on Tuesday by H. Bryce Hopkins, Supervisor in charge of the Farmers Home Administration Office in Winchester Hall, Frederick.

The county committee consolidation is part of the expansion of the local office of the Farmers Home Administration to cover Baltimore, Carroll and Howard counties as well as Washington, Montgomery and Frederick counties.

The new joint Montgomery and Frederick County Area Committee of the FHA will consist of William Browning of Bartholows, chairman, Glenn Springer of Emmitsburg and Charles Savage of Gaithersburg, formerly a member of the Montgomery County Committee, representing that area in the new joint committee.

Retiring from the two formerly independent county committees under the new setup are Roy W. Schaeffer of Linden Hills, a former member of the Frederick County Committee, Cramwell King of Woodfield and Harold E. Young of Rockville, former members of the Montgomery County Committee.

The new Area Committee members, all of whom are required to be experienced local area farmers, will have the same duties as the former county committee members.

LOCALS DROP CLOSE CONTEST

All three games in the Pen-Mar League Sunday afternoon were tight extra-inning affairs.

The league-leading Boonsboro sewed up at least a tie for first place by nipping Fairfield 5-4 in a 10-inning affair at Hagerstown. Boonsboro needs but one more victory to clinch the regular season title.

Taneytown 3-2 on the Hanover second place by topping invading Hanover solidified its grip on diamond.

A two-out single by Lee Calimer in the 10th inning drove over the winning tally as Blue Ridge edged Emmitsburg 8-7 on Community Field.

Veterans' Block Party Friday, Saturday

Friday and Saturday nights have been set aside as the dates of the big gala Block Party, which will be sponsored in Emmitsburg by the local Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658.

Lumen F. Norris, post Adjutant has announced this year's party is being staged to augment the scholarship and ambulance funds of the local organization which the group maintains on a permanent basis. The scholarship fund was established last year and will annually send some Emmitsburg boy or girl to the college of their choice. The fund pays $250 each year toward the tuition of some local student and within four years will cost the veteran's group $1000, with four students matriculating at one time. It is a well-known fact that it costs the post another $1000 yearly to maintain the fine free ambulance to the community. All net proceeds from the affair will be placed in these two funds and the public is asked to generously support the Block Party.

Harold M. Hoke, general chairman, announced that on Saturday night, commencing at 8 o'clock, a band concert has been scheduled, with the consent of the Burgess and Commissioners who have engaged the band. Supplying the music for the occasion will be the Emmitsburg Municipal Band, under the direction of Walter Simpson.

Friday night music will be supplied via recordings. On hand for the entertainment of the crowd will be various games for the amusement of both young and old and a wide variety of good food. Bingo will be played each evening with a nice assortment of prizes to be awarded. It is the hope of the veterans to realize at least $1000 from the affair. Other Block Parties in previous years have been well-attended and enjoyed by the citizens from Emmitsburg and surrounding towns and it is anticipated that this year's affair will be even more well - patronized. The community well realizes the valuable asset it has in the excellent ambulance service which costs nothing, all expenses being absorbed by the local VFW. The scholarship award is comparatively new and two local students are now using the fund. The public is invited and urged to attend this fine social affair promoted by local war veterans.

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Matthew 6:27-34.

Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. (Matthew 6:34.)

Recently I heard the story of an old clock. As the clock was set in place for use the very first time, it meditated upon its future. The clock figured that it had to tick twice each second. That would mean 120 times every minute, 7,200 times every hour, 172,800 times every day.

At this point, so the story goes, the clock fainted from nervous anxiety. Soon it revived and saw things in a new light. It had to tick only one tick at a time. So the clock started to tick. After fifty years it was still going strong.

Are we not much like the clock? We are so prone to be anxious about ourselves, about the future. The cure of anxiety is to trust in the Father's care today. We need to face life in the spirit of Jesus, to seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness.

Prayer
Dear Father, we thank Thee for Thy Son, our Saviour, who can cure our anxious souls and give us peace. In the name of the Master we pray, as He has taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Thought For The Day
This day I will claim the peace of mind that comes through Jesus Christ.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Mr. Smith Didn't Know

Mr. Smith was a man in his seventies who had always enjoyed good health. Yet he died in the hospital after only two days of illness. His wife bewildered. What had her husband died of?

The Smith's family doctor said he did not know. The symptoms might mean any one of a number of diseases. Only an autopsy could tell which one.

Mrs. Smith had the usual feeling about an autopsy. But she consented. To the astonishment of herself and her children it was found that, although Mr. Smith had died of heart disease, he also had active tuberculosis! "How could a man with tuberculosis be so well all his life?" the widow asked.

But TB—especially early TB—often gives no warning; you don't feel sick. That is why doctors tell us to have a tuberculin skin test or chest x-ray. The tuberculin test reveals the presence of TB germs in the body; the X-ray shows if damage has been done to the lungs. Both help find TB early, when it is easiest to cure.

Fewer Americans are dying from TB every year, but they are still too many. Mr. Smith, you may say, lived his three score years and ten and didn't suffer, so why worry? But Mr. Smith had a family and tuberculosis is an infectious disease.

You don't inherit TB, you aren't born with it, you catch it—from someone who has it—by breathing air with his germs in it, putting in your mouth something he has used that hasn't been sterilized, or kissing him.

Pimlico Enlarges Seating Capacity

BALTIMORE — Construction that will nearly double the seating capacity of Pimlico's modern steel and aluminum stand opened in 1954 is approaching the half-way mark, Executive Director Louis Pondfield reported this week.

The 140-foot extension to the five-floor structure will be opened to the public for Pimlico's 28-day autumn meeting, November 13 through December 15.

Complete length of the extended building will be 360 feet. The entire front facade is being enclosed in glass and a new interior heating system added for comfort during the annual autumn season.

The main reserved seat section will number nearly 5,000 with approximately 325 boxes containing four and six seats each. New escalators to all levels are being installed in the extended section to supplement those in the existing structure.

Another primary benefit of the current work is that it will completely eliminate all conflicting sight lines which existed between certain seating areas of both the new and old stands because of architectural discrepancies. There will be a full view of the complete running strip from all seats.

The steel framework for the project is nearly completed and thus the program will not be delayed by the current steel strike. Extending the stand is the second major step in a four-phase program designed to bring Pimlico, the nation's second oldest track up to ultra-modern standards.

The third move in the program will be the construction in the summer of 1960 of a completely new clubhouse on the site of the present paddock. It will relieve the crowding from the present members clubhouse which is one of the proudest landmarks in racing, a three-story Victorian Structure in use since 1870. It houses the National Jockeys Hall of Fame and the Maryland Jockey Club Library.

The fourth phase of the program includes extension of parking lots and items primarily of internal interest such as new jockey quarters, modernization of the stable area, a new paddock and new administrative offices.

Labor Bosses Ride High

After more than two years of investigations and hearings, during which his United States Senate Committee uncovered graft, corruption, racketeering and unbridled economic and political power in the hands of arrogant labor bosses, Senator John L. McClellan has soberly declared: "We now know that labor cannot clean its own house." This is a challenge to the American people. Our only recourse is through legislation in our federal and state governments. Speaking to the Freedom Forum which our National Education Program conducted in Los Angeles and to a luncheon audience of 800 Pacific Coast leaders, Senator McClellan said the situation exposed by his committee constituted a threat to the freedom and economic welfare of every citizen in America. "At no time in our generation has our country faced more intricate and perplexing problems or graver dangers than those that now confront us," he said. "They represent a compelling challenge. On how effectively and successfully we face up to our responsibilities within the next few years and meet that challenge may well depend the destiny of our nation and the fate of the entire free world."

Our Government Challenged

Senator McClellan said the unwholesome conditions in labor unions "cannot be condoned by a decent society nor tolerated or permitted to exist by a government of law and order."

Too many unions," he said, have "fallen into the hands of parasitically brutal, cynical men, to whom unionism means only a royal road to personal riches and power; men of beastly instinct who regard union members not as human beings but as mere chattels to be subjugated and manipulated to serve the malicious greed and avarice of their labor boss masters, or to be destroyed if they dare to protest or resist."

AFL-CIO Hasn't Stopped It

Senator McClellan said flatly: "The AFL-CIO's Code of Ethics is ineffective" to deal with the menacing situation. It has not stopped corruption or improper activities, he said. "The truth is," he said, "the Code is flouted at will with reckless abandon and contemptuous disregard by the Hoffas, the Brennans, the Cohens, the Becks, the Dioguardias, and others who neither respect nor observe it. Effective legislative remedies will have to be applied. That is now the only course we can pursue."

Challenge To You

"If we are to believe the boasts of some of the outstanding union leaders, as quoted in the press of the nation," Judge Davison said, "they now control a sufficient number of votes in that great body to bring about the enactment of such legislation as they want, or to prevent the enactment of legislation looking to their proper regulation and control, and it is being demonstrated as the days go by that this is no idle boast. If this claim is true, and if we are to judge from such past legislation as the unsavory Wagner Labor Relations Act and from the present refusal to enact any real controls notwithstanding the pressing necessity therefore developed by the McClellan Committee, then indeed are we far on the way to the fate predicted for us by McCauley."

Lord McCauley, the great English Historian, said in effect that the American Republic could not endure and that it would fall as the result of the insatiable demands of selfish, self-seeking groups aided and abetted by political demagogues."

Uncontrolled power in the hands of arrogant labor bosses is a problem which every citizen must act upon—today. Our future prosperity and freedom are at stake. Senator McClellan's Committee, and his legislation, merit the backing of all the "folks back home." That's you too.

There is not one single authenticated record of the earth's having opened up and swallowed anyone or anything during an earthquake.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

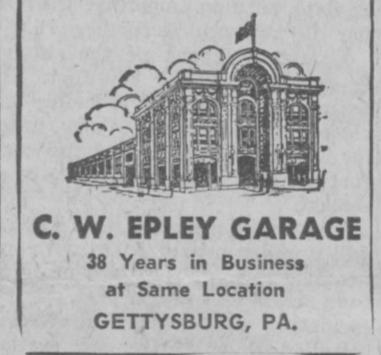

"Make sure that your employer reports your cash wages correctly," was the advice given to domestic workers today by W. S. King, Manager of the Hagerstown Social Security District Office. Mr. King pointed out that social security reports on household workers are due in July for the three month calendar quarter which ended June 30. "The amount of your future benefits depend on correct reporting."

You should discuss the matter with your employer to determine if there is any misunderstanding about the coverage of your wages under the Social Security Act. The test on such work is very simple. If you are paid as much as $50.00 in cash wages in a three month calendar quarter, the work must be reported by your employer. He should deduct 2 1/2 % from your earnings and then add 2 1/2 % of his own, making a total of 5 % which will be paid at the time he files the tax return. This return is due in the office of the District Director of Internal Revenue, Baltimore by July 31.

Seeding new lawn? Maybe you want to perk up the old one.

In either case your best bet is to start with a soil test. A soil test will help you how to fertilize and lime for best results.

Now's a good time to get your soil sampled, so that you can get back your soil test results and recommendations in time for fertilizing and liming in late August or early September.

See your county agent for instructions and a soil test sampling kit. The soil test is free, a service of your University of Md. Department of Agronomy.

If you fertilize and lime according to recommendations based on this soil test you'll be assured that you're giving your lawn just the right amount of the right kind of plant food and lime. Your old lawn will become greener and a new seeding will get off to a better start if you do.

Lime needn't be applied every year. Once every 4 years or so is often enough in most cases. Lime applied to acid soils will increase the availability of the fertilizer elements. At the same time it will provide a more desirable medium for root development, and will give you stronger plants.

Dutch Elm Disease
The American Elm tree is one of our favorite shade trees. But in some places, Dutch elm disease is wiping them out.

Unfortunately, there is no direct cure or control for this disease. But since it is spread by elm bark beetles, indirect control is possible. The second major control is to destroy infected trees to prevent the disease from spreading.

If your elm trees haven't been sprayed this year, it's too late. Spraying must be done in early spring, during the dormant season.

Signs of the disease are: wilting of the leaves, dieback of the twigs and discoloration of the wood under the bark. Leaves turn yellow or brown and fall early. Trees may die in a few months or linger for a couple of years.

These are fairly reliable signs but are not positive proof of the disease. For more information on detecting the disease, and how to control it, ask your county agent for a copy of University of Maryland Extension Service Fact Sheet 138, "Dutch Elm Disease".

Nematodes, Unseen Bot Costly
Plant nematodes, microscopic although costly and troublesome pests, take a toll of Maryland gardens and farms. Matter of fact, they take a $12 million bite out of Maryland crops each year.

Until fairly recent times, nematode damage when undetected. Or if noticed, it was blamed on something else.

Nematodes attack a wide variety of plants. Most attack roots, others the leaves.

Foliar nematodes feed on leaves of such garden plants as chrysanthemums and strawberries, causing the leaves to turn black between the veins. They may kill the plant.

Spiral nematodes attack boxwood, which is also affected by root-lesion nematodes.

Root knot is caused by nematodes. It effects strawberries and tomatoes and other vegetable crops.

But don't panic. There are ways of control.

For instance, such a simple practice as mulching mums will help prevent nematodes. Or you can treat infected soil with a nematicide, like Nemagon, 10% granular form, at the rate of 1 heaping teaspoonful per square foot of area to be treated.

Rotation, resistant varieties, clean fallow and soil fumigation are some of the other control measures which may be applied.

Some of these nematode control practices are safe bets to follow whether you have nematodes or not. If in doubt, you might submit a sample of the plant and soil roots to the University of Maryland Botany Department for diagnosis. But first be sure to get University of Md. Extension Service Fact Sheet 120, "The Nematode Problem in Maryland and its Control". It will give you detailed instructions for submitting samples for diagnosis.

A workshop for 63 Maryland and District of Columbia teachers at the North Bethesda Junior High School is providing an opportunity for observation of the teaching of gifted children. The program is being sponsored jointly by the University of Maryland and the Montgomery County Board of Education.

Fifty-five children, ranging in age from 8 to 14, with varying intellectual ability are serving as an observation class. An experienced faculty of nine educators are attempting to gain a broader knowledge themselves and train teachers in teaching the gifted child during the three-week program.

Some of the questions to which the teachers and observers are seeking answers include: How is the gifted child different? What methods are best for understanding and appreciating children with gifted ideas? How can one develop their creative ideas?

Four classes are being held each day. In the literature field, the youngsters are exploring children's books, explaining why they like a particular book and what they are getting out of reading it. In the social science area, "integrity in learning" is being emphasized rather than high ranks. Another class is taking a look at the world 100 years from now, studying anticipated problems and needs, and making predictions. The fourth class is studying the meaning, uses, types and creation of sound as a vehicle for learning to work as a group on a project.

The workshop is one of 23 being conducted at College Park during the summer for the purpose of improving teaching methods and materials at the secondary and elementary school levels.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kestm

Distemper has long been the scourge of dogdom. It is an acute highly contagious virus disease that causes the death of a great many puppies each year, particularly those less than three months of age.

Leaders in veterinary medicine have, for many years, conducted a vast amount of research in endeavors to combat this dread disease successfully. While denitive progress has been made it still may be a long time before a definite cure for distemper is found.

In the forefront of those authorities who have worked long and arduously to solve the complex distemper problem is Dr. James A. Baker, director of the Research Laboratory for Diseases of Dogs, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York. And from a new ray of hope in the form of a nomograph that predicts against distemper according to Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dogs Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. This may lead to a highly important reduction in the number of puppies that are exposed to this disease at a very early age.

Cornell researchers directed by Dr. Baker have found that natural protection against distemper is given puppies by the colostrum, or first milk of their mothers.

The amount and duration of this immunity, however, is variable. Unfortunately colostrum protection must disappear before puppies can be actively immunized.

Dog owners everywhere will find great encouragement in the research finding that the quantity of anti-bodies in the mother's serum allowed a prediction, even before her puppies were born, of the amount and duration of colostrum protection, this offering the possibility of vaccination at a predetermined age. This should eliminate much of the long-time guesswork attendant upon the vaccination of many puppies.

These findings led to the construction of the nomograph for predicting the proper age to vaccinate puppies and the testing of this principle under field conditions. Many dogs from cooperating kennels in a number of states, and including a variety of breeds, were used in the research.

Further information concerning this valuable work may be obtained by writing Veterinary Virus Research Institute, New York State Veterinary College, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

Soil Conservation Plan Reminders

Given Farmers

William L. Dudley, Chairman of the Maryland ASC Committee today issued an eight-point reminder on the responsibilities of farmers who have entered into Soil Bank Conservation Reserve contracts as follows:

1. No crop of any kind may be harvested from your Conservation Reserve land.
2. No grazing is permitted on any Conservation Reserve land.
3. Vegetative cover must be established and/or maintained on your Conservation Reserve land.
4. If a conservation practice has been authorized for your Conservation Reserve land and the practice has not been established by the designated date, notify the county office at once.
5. If all of your eligible land is in the Conservation Reserve, do not exceed your permitted acreage of soil bank base crops.

7. Comply with any acreage allotment in effect on your farm. However, if you have a wheat allotment of less than 15 acres, you may raise as much as 15 acres of wheat (or 30 acres under the feed wheat program) with out penalty provided you do not exceed your permitted acreage of soil bank base crops.

8. Control noxious weeds on your Conservation Reserve land. Clipping should be done when and where necessary but in the process of clipping be careful to prevent avoidable destruction of wildlife.

Bacon Bran Muffins Awaken Sleepy Appetites

Whenever breakfast appetites lag—and occasionally they do—homemakers can perk them up again by serving a variety of tempting hot breads. A different type of bread each day will do the trick, adding new interest and taste-appeal to this early-morning meal.

Since muffins are a universal favorite, try Bacon Bran Muffins as a starter. This delicious version combines the nut-like flavor of All-Bran with the crisp goodness of bacon. Served with chunks of fresh pineapple, ready-to-eat cereal and a beverage, these muffins will awaken sleepy appetite every time you prepare them.

BACON BRAN MUFFINS

- 1 cup All-Bran (whole bran cereal)
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup bacon drippings or shortening
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup crisp diced bacon

Combine All-Bran and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and bacon drippings and beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; mix in bacon. Add to first mixture, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pans 3/4 full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 25 minutes.

Yield: 10 muffins, 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

IN THIS WORLD

NATURAL WONDERS NEVER END...
THERE ARE OVER 400 SPECIES OF PLANTS THAT FEED ON INSECTS. THESE PLANTS LIVE IN SOILS DEFICIENT IN NITROGEN AND GET THIS ESSENTIAL PLANT FOOD FROM THE BODIES OF THEIR VICTIMS.

VENUS'S FLY-TRAP
SWEET JUICE ATTRACTS FLY. LEAF SNAPS SHUT, INSECT IS DIGESTED... LEGS AND WINGS DROP OUT WHEN LEAF OPENS.

EARLY PIONEER FARMERS GAVE LITTLE THOUGHT TO THE NITROGEN CONTENT OF THEIR VIRGIN SOIL AS THEY HARVESTED BOUNTIFUL CROPS. TODAY, MANY OF THESE FARMS HAVE BEEN ABANDONED AS WORTHLESS BECAUSE THE NITROGEN NECESSARY TO MAINTAIN PLANT LIFE HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

THIS IS A WASTE OF OUR NATURAL RESOURCES WHEN NITROGEN FERTILIZERS, SUCH AS URAN OR FERAN, WOULD DO MUCH TO RETURN THE SOIL TO ITS ORIGINAL VIGOR.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses The 1959 Crop Outlook

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 30—I am not surprised that my first survey of 1959 crop prospects indicates a total outturn second only to the huge 1958 record. This spotlights once again the folly of crop supports. These figures do mean that farmers should diversify more and not gamble on only one crop.

Wheat And Other Grains

Barring serious damage to the spring wheat crop, I forecast that the total outturn of wheat this year will be around 1,155,000,000 bushels. This is down about 20% from the record 1958 production, but 7% above the 1948-1957 average. Including the estimated July 1 carryover of about 1,285,000,000 bushels, supplies for 1959-1960 are more than double total average annual disappearance. Most of the July 1 stocks were in government hands and will not glue the market. The 1959 crop will be supported at a national average rate of $1.81 a bushel. Thus bulwarked, wheat prices could average higher in the months ahead.

I expect the barley crop to be around 414,000,000 bushels—12% below the 1958 record high, but 30% above the average. With July 1 farm stocks the largest since 1943, total barley supplies should easily suffice. A smaller acreage and poor yields have cut flaxseed prospects to about 27,600,000, —down sharply from the 1958 outturn and 30% below the ten-year average. There will be no dearth, however, for here also July 1 farm stocks were relatively large. From the smallest acreage of oats for grain since 1892, farmers probably will harvest a crop of over 1,000,000,000 bushels—down 29% from 1958 and 23% below average. Even so, I expect no shortage of oats this season, since July 1 farm stocks were at a record high of around 300,000,000 bushels. The rye crop may be down to about 21,400,000 bushels—a third less than last year, and 5% below average. However, this year's crop will suffice.

Corn, Dry Beans And Rice

U. S. farmers apparently have great confidence in corn this year. The crop may hit a record high of 4,224,450,000 bushels, which would be 29% above the ten-year average of 3,251,064,000 bushels. Despite heavy consumption this season, July 1 farm stocks were the third largest for the date. Somewhat less than half this big reserve was under CCC loan. Smaller output of other feed grains, plus siphoning of sidable supplies of corn into government loans and an expected heavy total disappearance in 1959-1960, may partly offset any corn pile-up.

Another large crop of dry edible beans is in prospect. Although the indicated output of 18,434,000 bags is 3% smaller than the large 1958 crop, it is well above the 1948-1957 average of 16,804,000 bags. This crop, plus the carryover, will easily cover all needs in the 1959-1960 season. The rice crop also looks promising, with a U. S. outturn of over 50,000,000 bushels (100 pounds each) expected, compared with the 1958

Some people are only slightly affected by strokes. Others recover quickly from what may seem like a severe stroke. Still others may suffer such serious damage that it takes a long time to regain even partial use of their limbs, or speech, or whatever faculty has been affected.

The Heart Association, as a public information service, has provided four articles on "What We Know About Strokes." Today we are publishing the final installment in this series.

Rehabilitation Chances Good

For many stroke patients who recover quickly and spontaneously, rehabilitation is not a serious problem. However, the doctor should be called at once when a person has had a stroke so that he can decide what treatment is needed.

A great deal can be done to help some patients who are partially paralyzed or whose speech has been affected by a stroke. Even severely paralyzed stroke patients may make remarkable progress toward becoming self-sufficient.

Three Points To Remember

For rehabilitation to be most effective, three points should be kept in mind:

1. Rehabilitation must begin soon after the stroke as possible.
2. Rehabilitation requires cooperation of doctor, patients and family.
3. Doctor and family may call on other resources in the commu-ity to help in rehabilitation. Recurrence? Not Necessarily

A natural concern of the patient who has had a stroke is whether or not he's likely to have another attack. There is no rule about the recurrence of strokes. A person may have a series of little strokes, and then a big stroke, or he may have a number of big strokes, or he may have just one stroke, recuperate, and never have another.

Research Is The Key

It is only through research into the conditions underlying strokes that eventual victory over strokes will be achieved. And today thousands of scientists are directing their attention to atherosclerosis, the artery disease that gives rise to most strokes and to heart attacks and kidney disease as well.

The hope of medical science is eventually to discover a way to prevent strokes. It is possible in some instances to prevent multiple strokes after the first attack. However, once a stroke has occurred, the most dynamic step in current treatment is development of a sound rehabilitation program that will help the patient live and work again to his utmost capacity.
