Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

The recent announcement that a certain large industry was going to hold the line on any price increases despite the granting of wage increase itself, is looked upon by many as a bit of political chicanery, especially since the Vice President appeared on the scene during the final settling stage. Few if any, knew that Mr. Nixon was participating in the settlement of the strike and his very presence there at such a strategic time naturally leads one to suspect a motive, especially since this is an election year. Other sources intimate that just as soon as the election is over prices will spiral in a heretofore undreamed of fashion. This being an election year one just has to read between the lines to make any measure of truth out of the many statements already made and for the multitude yet to come. One indication that the price rise hasn't yet been slowed down is the fact that the President will ask Congress to raise the postal rates again. You can rest assured this will be followed by many other items needed to maintain our standard of living.

Now that the local Chamber of Commerce appears to be breathing its last there appears to be an opening for a Junior Chamber to supplant the almost defunct adult group. Plans are afoot to organize such a group here in the northern end of Frederick County and there is no reason why Emmitsburg couldn't muster up an enrollment of at least 30 young members. Any youth of good moral character who has the interest of his community at heart is welcome to join the organization and many of them will be approached by organization workers in the near future. This particular group is well organized throughout the county and the plan calls for the possible formation of an Emmitsburg-Thurmont group. There isn't space enough to cover the numerous activities and good done on a national level by this young group but a quick resume of the record will reveal it an outstanding body, one of which any community can well be proud of. The age bracket for the group consists of these young men between the ages of 21 and 35 and the purpose of the club is to develop community improvement and personal development. Here's your chance young Emmitsburg... let's show the older ones how to do it!

Some towns have been able to hold the tax rate stable despite increased costs of town government and improvements. Westminster just announced it was retaining the same rate as in the past several years, 60c on $100 and Union Bridge at its old rate of 50c on the $100. Both towns are situated in Carroll County. The recent discovery that broken pipe lines to the new sewer system disposal plant were taking in excess water and overloading the plant does not free local property owners who have rain water tapped into the sewer lines from removing this menace. The sewer ordinance prohibits the piping of rain water into the sewer line and those individuals who have been getting away with it will be dealt with in a manner prescribed by the ordinance, provided they don't remedy the condition, the Town Council stated this week. Several sections in the new line were discovered broken this week. The leaks allowed excess water to enter the line thereby overloading the disposal plant. The condition is being corrected.

Roving Dogs Cause Complaints

A warning was issued this week by County authorities that stray dogs are being, and will continue to be, picked up even if they have county tags on their collars. "These tags do not give a dog the right to roam at will in Frederick County," warned authorities. "Dogs are free to roam only on the property of their owners and at all other times must be under some kind of restraint such as a leash."

Mounties Continue Win Streak

Mount St. Mary's Blue and White cagers, reaching mid-season form, stole a thrilling last second victory Tuesday night from Randolph-Macon, in a Mason-Dixon Conference game played at Ashland, Va. It was the eighth victory in a row for Coach Jim Phelan's aggregation.

The Mounties last Saturday evening finished strong in outdistancing Roanoke on the home floor here.

Saturday's game was close until the final six minutes of play when the Mountainers broke the contest wide open.

After holding a scant 34-32 half-time lead, the Mount was held in check by the Maroons for 14 minutes of the last half. With six minutes left, Coach Jim Phelan's outfit led 63-60 but then a well-balanced attack sent the Mount steadily to the front, winning by a score of 81-69.

Jerry Savage was top point producer for the Mountainers with 22 points, including 10 free throws in as many attempts. Dick Talley added 19, Jack Gunn 14, Mike Costello 11 and Mike Callahan 10. Ed Pfeiffer, the freshman ace, was held to but three points, the first time this season he was kept out of double figures.

A push shot by Dick Talley with three seconds remaining gave the Phelanmen a thrilling 59-57 victory over Randolph-Macon Tuesday evening.

The Mount led throughout the first half and was on top 30-23 with 1:30 left but three straight goals by Walt Pendley of the Yellow Jackets slashed the advantage to 30-29 at intermission.

Randolph-Macon opened fast in the second half and built up a 44-36 lead in the first five minutes before the Mount rallied on the shooting of Jerry Savage.

Jack Gunn gave the Mount its first lead in the second half at 57-56 on a goal with 1:20 remaining. Budy Allen netted a foul for the Jackets which tied the score with 11 seconds left. Talley then came through with his winning shot.

The Mountainers shot 48 per cent from the field while their opponents netted 33 per cent. Talley sparked the winners with 16 points and Mike Callahan and Savage each netted 12. Pendley and Blunt each looped 12 for Randolph-Macon.

The Mount, 8-2 overall and 3-0 in M-D play met Baltimore U. last night and will play host to old rival Loyola Saturday night at Memorial Gym. Game time is 8 p. m.

LIONS CLUB WILL PROMOTE HORSE SHOW

Twenty members were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday night at Fitzgerald's Mason-Dixon Inn, President Ralph D. Lindsey presiding.

A communication from the Taneytown Lions Club was read announcing the candidacy of one of its members, Harry Dougherty, for the district governorship. No action was taken as far as an endorsement was concerned at this time.

Several means of raising revenue for civic projects were discussed and it was decided to investigate the possibility of conducting a broom sale in the near future.

A large portion of the meeting was devoted to discussion of the Horse Show which the club has been sponsoring for the past 12 years. The group went on record as favoring the continuation of the show and a committee was appointed to set a date and make the necessary preparations. Heading the committee is William G. Morgan, chairman, assisted by Delbert Piper, Clarence E. Hahn and Arthur Elder. It was not decided definitely which show circuit the club would enter. For 11 years the show was a member of the Maryland Horse Show Association, but switched allegiance last year to enter the Penn-Maryland Association.

State Gas Receipts $55 Million

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced today that Fuel Taxes for the calendar year total receipts from Motor Vehicle 1959 amounted to $55,128,796.58 and that a total of $2,679,747.96 was refunded to taxpayers during the year, leaving net receipts of $52,449,048.62 for the year.

LETTERS

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

As you say, where can teenagers go? If you wouldn't be so cheap around Emmitsburg, afraid to spend a little bit of money, maybe we would have somewhere to go. Other towns have dances in their fire halls, and empty movie halls. You could make something out of that. Like for instance, a skating ring or a swimming pool. What about all of these beer joints around here for adults? And pool rooms and dancing. But where is there anything for us? Like that new bowling alley so far out of town. What do you expect us to do, walk? Some of us can't afford cars and some are not old enough. To rake leaves and all that, well we do that but it doesn't take a whole week.

Fed-up Teen-ager

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Our children were given to us in the state of perfect freshness, free from fear, selfishness, disobedience and all other traits that lead to emotional insecurities. As these helpless tiny creatures grow into the different stages from babies to pre-school and college ages it is our responsibility to rear their individual disposition into a mold that will make them staunch, well bred persons. Let's give them love and a real sense of belonging as they reach this difficult stage of becoming teen-agers. This is probably their last stage where they will need patience and understanding parents. We must never allow ourselves to get fed-up but to use every ounce of energy within us to keep them and give them examples as they too will soon have to follow the same circles. With each generation striving to do their utmost, before long it will be a better world in which to live for our teen-agers, and the fed-up adults will be able to take pride in a job well done.

Teen-age Sympathizer

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

We feel that we are speaking for all the teen-agers of Emmitsburg. We think teen-agers getting jobs is a good idea. We also agree that helping our parents is our obligation.

In the radius of two miles of Emmitsburg, we counted 12 beer gardens and bars, but only one recreation center for teen-agers.

Your telling us to grow up and quit being a cry baby. Well, what are we to grow up in? "A bar!" Don't you think you should be setting a little example for us? Are we your beloved sons and daughters or just a burden?

How did you act in the 20's? You think rock and roll is bad, well what about you with that charleston and those short dresses and speakeasies?

We are trying to cover up the 20's with rock and roll and 1960.

If you have a better idea what teen-agers can do in this town, we would like to hear it. All work and no play will make only old crabs and there are too many in the town anyway.

Fed-up Teen-agers

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Here is another Fed-Up Adult of Teen Aged being given too many privileges. I read the article in last week's Chronicle and I think it should be printed again for the benefit of those who may not have read it. I think all parents should see to it that the children read it or have it read to them, as I did. I just wanted to let you know it was a good story and should be republished again.

Thurmont Woman Is Suicide Victim

A 54-year-old Thurmont housewife who had been in ill health for some time died Tuesday morning as the result of a self-inflicted gun-shot wound. The suicide was effected by a shot from a .25 caliber revolver, police reported.

The victim, Mrs. Mabel C. Martin, 54, wife of W. Henry Martin of Thurmont, shot herself in the head at 10:45 a. m. She was rushed to the Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, by Dr. Thomas A. Love for treatment of a serious brain injury. Mrs. Martin died four hours later.

According to Thurmont Town Officer James Dubel, Mrs. Martin was alone at the time. The gun-shot was heard by her mother-in-law, who lives in a small house behind the Martin home, and was standing by her mailbox when she heard the sharp pistol report from the Martin home. She rushed into the house and found her daughter-in-law slumped on a sofa with a revolver near her side.

Mrs. Martin was pronounced dead at Washington County Hospital by Dr. E. W. Ditto Jr., Washington County medical examiner who gave a verdict of death due to a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Mrs. Martin was the daughter of the late Edward and Effie Fry Deweese. She was a member of the Thurmont Methodist Church. According to close friends of the family, Mrs. Martin was suffering from poor health and had undergone recent nervous breakdowns.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Martin is survived by a son, Merl Martin; five grandchildren, and the following brothers and sisters: Howard and Ray Deweese of Thurmont; Norman Deweese, Rocky Ridge; Mrs. Howard Martin, Baltimore; Mrs. Dorothy Haugh, Thurmont; Mrs. Marie Hoch of Baltimore; Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Graceham and Mrs. Henry Chalmers of Milford, Mass.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2 p. m. from the Creager Funeral Home, Thurmont, with Revs. Cameron Johnson and Lloyd L. Wolf officiating. Interment will be made in Blue Ridge Cemetery, Thurmont.

Social Security Reports Due

February 1, 1960, is the deadline for filing the employer's tax return which reports the cash wages paid in 1959 to farm employees. W. S. King, Manager, Hagerstown District Social Security Office, stated this week.

Farm owners or farm operators who had paid as much as $150 in cash wages to any farm worker in their employ during 1959 must file an employer's tax and information return for such farm employees. They must also report each farm employee who worked for them on 20 or more days during the year regardless of the amount of those wages if they were figured on a time rather than a piece rate basis.

For 1959, the social security tax rate is 5% (2 1/2% each for employer and employee.) This tax applies to cash wages paid to a farm worker up to a total of $4,800 in the year. The tax amount must be entered on Form 943 (Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees) together with the total amount of cash wages paid to the farm worker. It is required that the farm employer do this and file the return with the District Director of Internal Revenue at Baltimore on or before the due date mentioned above.

King points out that in applying the 20-day test, the farm employer should count only days for which the employee works for cash wages figured on a time basis. However, if the worker meets this test, the farm employer must pay social security taxes on all cash wages paid the employee during the year (whether on a time, piece work, or other basis.)

Farm employees include household workers if they were employed on a farm operated for profit. Farm employers include crew leaders who supply workers to do farm work and who paid them, unless the crew leader and the farmer had a written agreement showing that the crew leader was an employee of the farmer.

The USS Lexington, on Dec. 18, 1931, furnished electrical power to the city of Tacoma, Wash., when a drought had caused the city's hydroelectric power to fail to a serious low.

Junior C. of C. Will Be Organized

The possibility of organizing a Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Thurmont-Emmitsburg area will be aired at an open meeting which has been scheduled by the Frederick Jaycees for 7 p. m., Wednesday, January 20th at Royer's Restaurant, at the North end of Thurmont.

According to Frederick Jaycees members, the meeting was set at the request of many city young men who have expressed an interest in forming a Junior Chamber unit here.

James W. Powell Jr., extension chairman of the Frederick chapter has reported that many young men, already contacted, will be present for the meeting.

At the briefing meeting, Frederick Jaycees will explain various phases of their own operation, community and membership benefits resulting from Junior Chamber operations, and Junior Chamber chapter and membership requirements. A question and answer period will close the session which is expected to last an hour.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is a civic organization whose membership is open to all young men between the ages of 21 through 35.

Purpose of the world-wide organization is the improvement of the communities in which units are located and personal development of its members; both objectives being accomplished through a wide variety of project activities.

Junior Chamber chapters are located in 3600 communities in the United States and have a total membership of over 200,000. Internationally, Jaycee chapters exist in over 88 countries and territories.

Jaycees in this country have their own headquarters in Tulsa, Oklahoma—a memorial in honor of World War II dead—built at a cost of over $300,000 from contributions received from Jaycees throughout the nation.

Youth Meeting Tonight

For the first time ever in Frederick County a "Funspiration" will be held on Friday evening, January 15 at 7:45 p. m. in Staley Park Field House at the corner of Tenth and Motter in Frederick. A "Funspiration" is a professional party for teen-agers. Preparations are being made for 200 teens to participate. To conduct this affair, "Danny" Skelton, Youth For Christ club director from Chester, Pennsylvania, has been engaged. ## Writer Lauds Teen-Agers

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

In last week's paper some so-called "Fed up adult" complained about the teen-agers. This person said that the teen-agers have a plaintive cry: "What can we do? Where can we go?" This person also had some suggestions. Well I have some suggestions for them and some answers to their suggestions. The Fed-up adult said to "Go Home!" To some of the teenagers, what is home? Where is home? Do you call a home a place where the parents are out all night drinking or with someone else's husband or wife? Is this home? Get a job! Where? In this town an adult can't find a job, how do you expect a teenager to find one? Many of the teen-agers would like to have work. After all, we are not as lazy as you think. And as far as: Put on the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, learn to cook, scrub the floors and repair the sink, well many of the teen-agers do this and many other things, and what do they get in return? Nothing! Not even thank you.

What do they owe the world? Maybe some fortunate teen-agers owe the world something, but to many the world owes much. And as far as the village, it certainly does owe them recreation facilities. You wonder why the teen-agers are always getting into trouble? Well, find something to keep them off the streets, besides making slaves out of them, and there won't be trouble.

"Grow up". They will grow up if the parents and other adults keep off their backs. If they stop nagging at them and try to encourage them instead of condemning them, they will develop a backbone if you quit bawling and breaking it. After all, what do you expect, do you think they should carry you around on a silver platter all your life?

I'm a teenager, and I am tired of being cursed, called a baby, being denied, and no one trying to help us. All you do is condemn us. The trouble is that the ones who are always complaining are the ones who are to blame. Your trouble is you can't stand seeing the teen-ager having fun. Maybe your fun days are over, but this is no reason for stopping theirs.

"Fed up Teen-ager"

DANIEL R. SHORB

Daniel Roy Shorb, 73, a former resident of Adams County and a native of near Taneytown and more recently a resident of Waynesboro, died suddenly at noon Monday in the The First National Bank and Trust Co. of Waynesboro.

Dr. John P. Manges, the Franklin County coroner, said Mr. Shorb had gone to the bank on business and was stricken while there. He attributed the death to a heart attack.

In failing health for the last several months, Mr. Shorb was born near Taneytown, a son of the late Daniel T. and Henrietta (Miller) Shorb. He resided at Taneytown during the earlier years of his life, then moved to Adams County, near Emmitsburg, where he was a farmer.

In more recent years he resided with a brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Myers, in Waynesboro and then, upon the death of Mrs. Myers, resided for a time with another sister, Mrs. Susan McCleary, in Waynesboro. A year and a half ago, when Mrs. McCleary moved to California, he returned to the Myers home at 212 W. North St., Waynesboro.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Susan S. McCleary, Seaside Calif.; Mrs. Catherine Gallagher, Cuyahoga Falls, O., and Mrs. Emma Krieger, Baltimore, and a brother, Charles Shorb, Emmitsburg. Also surviving are a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Grove Funeral Home, Waynesboro, with the Rev. H. Clayton Moyer officiating. Interment was in the Keyville, Md., Cemetery.

Building Permit Issued

A building permit was issued this week in Frederick for the erection of a six-room and bath brick veneer house in the Emmitsburg District at an estimated cost of $10,000. The permit was granted to Joseph M. Haley Jr., Emmitt Gardens.

TAX RATE SAME

Westminster Mayor, Joseph L. Mathias, announced this week that Westminster's municipal tax rate for 1960 has been set at 60 cents on the $100, the same that has been in effect since 1957.

The lazier a man is, the more he plans to do tomorrow.

School Supt. Differs With Commissioners

Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, county superintendent of schools, took issue with a recent statement released by the County Commissioners in which it was stated that the commissioners were seeking legal means of placing all future bond issues on the ballot in public referendums, rather than passing on future school bonds themselves.

"I believe economy and efficiency can best be served by demanding that our public officials retain their power to float bonds for public improvements."

Dr. Sensenbaugh declared: "Direct voting on issues as well as candidates may be democratic in principle, but it usually doesn't operate as such. This is particularly true where civic issues are concerned."

Dr. Sensenbaugh continued: "When we elected the County Commissioners, their position on such issues as school improvements and expansion was supposedly clarified in their platforms. Thus, the public did actually have something to say concerning the county educational program."

"Baltimore County is a highly urbanized county that is rapidly expanding in all directions, populationwise. Thus there is a need for increased school improvements in all areas of that county and the voters of Baltimore County have supported school referendum issues in the past two elections."

In commenting on an observation by one of the commissioners that "we must retrench a little now in order to prevent our educational needs from being retarded in the future," Dr. Sensenbaugh declared:

"Retrenchment now by Frederick County on its school program will be dearly paid for in the future. In this post-war period of inflation, we haven't yet reached that point when delay in progress pays off."

County Tax Bills To Be Mailed

The first 1960 Frederick County tax bills were sent out this week to residents of the Buckeystown district in the earliest mailing of tax bills in the history of Frederick County.

About 850 tax bills were sent to the Buckeystown district last week and on Friday, County Treasurer James H. Falk began mailing the 8,000 or more tax bills necessary for the residents of Frederick County.

Frederick City tax bills were completed this week and were followed immediately by the mailing of tax bills to the Frederick City suburban area and then to the twenty-four other election districts of Frederick County, in numerical order.

This means that, following the Frederick City mailing, tax bills will go out to Middletown, Creagerstown, Emmitsburg, Catoctin, Urbana, Libertown, New Market, Hauvers, Woodsboro, Petersburg, Mount Pleasant, Jefferson, Thurmont, Jackson, Johnsville, Wolfsville, Linganore, Lewistown, Tuscarora, Burkittsville, Rallenger, Braddock, Brunswick and Walkersville, in that order.

A total of 28,000 tax bills will be mailed out by the end of January, it was reported. This is a radical departure from previous years, when all of the tax bills were saved up and mailed out at one time in February.

Because of new automatic equipment installed in the Court House in the past few years, no additional personnel is needed to mail out the tax bills this year.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gebhart, Emmitsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Ann, to William Franklin West, son of Kelson West, Cascade, Md.

Miss Gebhart attended Emmitsburg High School. Mr. West graduated from Smithsburg High School with the class of 1955, and is now employed with the National Guard at Harve de Grace, Md.

No date has been set for the wedding.

To Hold Evening Of Games

The Auxiliary of Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, will hold an evening of games on Saturday, January 23, in the post home.

The Continental Congress passed an act on Dec. 12, 1775 to build a navy consisting of 13 frigates.

IN MEMORIAM
LONGENECKER—In loving memory of my dear father, Jacob 1t

Read Psalm 42:1-6.

Put your hope for good and all in the grace that is coming to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ. (1 Peter 1:13. Moffatt.)

Clouds are gathering, darkened by the turbulent winds of hatred, jealousy, envy, and fear. Many persons are losing hope in things worldly. When trust in things of the world fails, we then look for hope from above.

If we lift our eyes to the hills, we can behold the sunlit mountains of God's holiness. On top we can see a cross from which light is streaming upon our darkened world. This cross of Christ radiates the splendid glory of God's unending love and grace.

We have just lately observed Christmas, the birthday of our Lord and Saviour. The Christmas story is a very simple one—God's love revealed in Jesus Christ. To know this is sufficient for us. What do we need more than to have Christ as our master and friend. He is the light of the world and the hope of man.

Let us have hope in God and faith in His Son.

Prayer

O God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, we beseech Thee to be with us this day. Strengthen our hearts, comfort our troubled souls. Guide us as we travel on our journey of life. Lead us in the way of the cross of Christ. Help us in all things, for the sake of Christ and in His name. Amen.

Thought For The Day

Christ is the hope of the world, and my hope.

Ibrahim Matar (Lebanon)

The Real Strike Issue

The right of a group of employees to strike for higher income and better working conditions has long been recognized by most of the people of America. When a group of employees decide to take strike action it is to be expected that they are willing to make a short-range personal sacrifice for the possibility of a long-range gain. It is to be expected that the company being struck will be at least temporarily disrupted to some extent. For many years in America's great industrial progress, the strike weapon in the hands of groups of organized employees obtained objectives, with a few exceptions.

Today, however, the strike weapon in some notable instances is being used harmfully—harmfully for all citizens, including of course our millions of wage earners themselves. It is sometimes being used by individual labor bosses as a means of furthering personal prestige and power, even in some cases as a sop to personal vanity. The steel strike is an example of the crushing harm to a whole nation that now can be wielded by a single union leader. One man can now bring to a halt the whole economy of the nation.

Higher Wages Desired
Higher wages for the steel workers was not the real issue before the public of America in this strike. Most thinking people want to see wages and salaries constantly improving. Everybody benefits in universal progress of this sort—when it comes along through the healthy, wholesome growth of industrial production. But where unrestrained economic power is applied to force an action harmful to the whole nation, it is time to stop and think. This is the issue before the nation.

One of the best known economists in America, Professor Sumner Schlichter of Harvard, recently completed a study and announced: "In the 10 year period, 1948-1958, average hourly earnings of all workers in private industry rose almost twice as much as output per man hour." This has been a factor in pricing American-made products out of the world market and thus jeopardizing our whole industrial system and the jobs of millions of wage earners. It was a factor in the resistance of the steel companies

Featured Speaker
At Farm Meeting

Dr. Harry M. Love of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Dr. Russell P. Dickerson, of Pennsylvania State University, will be two of the featured speakers at the annual meeting of the Four State Farmers Association in Hagerstown on January 22.

Dr. Love, who is head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at VPI will speak on the subject of "Vertical Integration." His topic, which is becoming increasingly important in farming today, will cover the principles involved in vertical integration, which simply stated, means that one manager controls two or more stages in the production or marketing of a product.

Dr. Love is no stranger to Four State Farmers' meetings, and is a nationally-known authority on agricultural economics and related fields.

Dr. Dickerson is Associate Dean and Director of Resident Instruction at Penn State's College of Agriculture. Discussing "Job Opportunities in Agriculture," he will draw on many years of experience in explaining the different fields open to young men interested in working closely with farm people.

Dr. Dickerson is the author of 12 manuals on Agricultural subjects for War Production Training Classes. Several years ago he served as chairman of the nationwide committee preparing "Careers Ahead," a brochure to attract high school students to the nation's agricultural colleges.

Drs. Love and Dickerson will join Dr. James Cason of the University of Maryland, Mr. George Toben of the University of West Virginia and other speakers to be announced later, in forming a highly experienced group of speakers for the annual farmers' meeting.

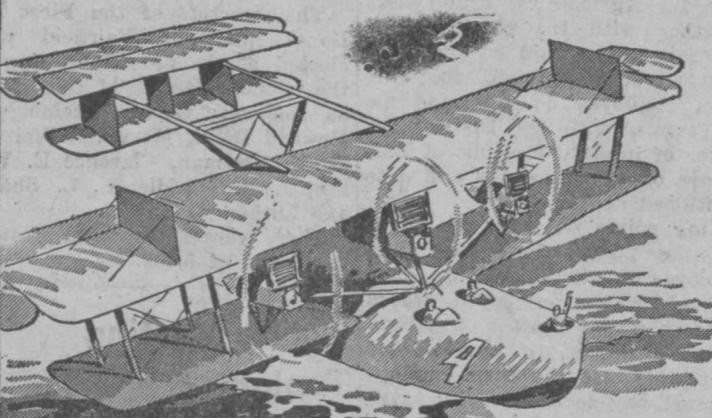

Mr. and Mrs. William Dunn and daughters flew by jet from Tucson, Arizona, to spend the holidays with Mrs. Dunn's mother, Mrs. Adele Adelsberger and family. Other visitors included: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Engle and son, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Streets, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mooney, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fleishman, all of Baltimore; and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Adelsberger and family and Misses Connie and Marsha Clarke, of Thurmont.

John Adelsberger and Miss Connie Clarke spent the New Year's Holidays visiting in Baltimore.

With any person's desire to improve his living standard, one thing is certain so far as the steel workers are concerned: With the income and benefits provided by the steel industry, as enumerated above, no worker or worker's family is going to go hungry. And another fact is certain: We are all going to suffer—genuinely suffer—if we permit American products to be priced out of domestic and world markets.

March Of Dimes Drive In Progress

The 1960 New March of Dimes launched throughout the State of Maryland on Saturday, January 2, will continue throughout January 31, with an ever-increasing list of benefit events being staged in all counties during the month. The annual campaign will be climaxed on Thursday evening, January 28, when literally thousands upon thousands of mothers will participate in the Mothers' March that evening.

The Mothers' March, an important adjunct of the drive each year, will be paired with a door-to-door census to be made that same evening by the women in order to determine the number of arthritis and birth defects cases in the state. This will be the first time such a count has been taken. It will enable the National Foundation, parent organization of the March of Dimes, to determine the scope of the job in the three-disease area it has assumed: polio, arthritis and birth defects.

According to former U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, state chairman of the March of Dimes, the National Foundation has taken on a three-pronged attack on disease. The success of this 1960 campaign will determine the extent of patient care available to youngsters in the two new fields. Mr. Radcliffe points out, however, that patient care of post-polio is still of primary importance to the March of Dimes and will be continued. It is essential that sufficient funds be raised to carry on this work in communities hard pressed by high patient-care loads.

"This is one of our most important campaigns, since March of Dimes volunteers across Maryland are fighting the attitude that polio has been licked," Mr. Radcliffe said. "We cannot forget those whose hope for continued care lies with us—before us, too, lies a great new field of research, leading to eventual cure of arthritis and certain birth defects."

Everyone from teen-agers to civic, church and social groups will assist in the month-long March of Dimes, and everything from record hops to coffee hours will be used as a means of bringing in contributions to campaign funds in Maryland.

OVER THE GARDEN WALLS

A COLUMN FOR HOMEOWNERS

If your home has been built recently, chances are your soil leaves something to be desired. Many newer houses, built in subdivisions, have filled in, or dug out lawns.

If either is the case, you may have a light sprinkling of topsoil on top of some pretty poor subsoil. You may have drainage problems. And you're pretty sure to need lots of lime and fertilizer.

Get Your Soil Tested

The first step in developing an improved lawn is to have your soil tested. Your county agent can provide you with soil cartons and instructions for sending soil samples to the University of Maryland Soil Testing Laboratory. On the basis of this free soil test, your county agent will tell you how much fertilizer and lime your lawn needs.

If you're trying to start a new lawn and the soil is hard and clayish, Dr. James R. Miller, extension soils specialist at the University of Maryland, recommends adding organic matter.

It's not easy. Nor is it cheap. But if you need it there's no substitute.

Here's what you do: add 300 to 500 pounds of organic matter for each 1000 square feet. Compost, peat, well-rotted manure or sewage sludge will do—use whatever you can obtain easily.

You Need More Than Dirt

The organic matter, fertilizer and lime should be mixed with the top 4 to 6 inches of soil to provide a desirable environment for the roots to grow. A rotary tiller will help make the job easier.

It's what's beneath the ground that counts. Without a good root system, grass can't grow properly to make a good lawn. This is why it is so very important to provide your lawn with the necessary fertilizer, lime and organic matter.

New lawns can be established in the early spring or early fall. Chances for success are best in late August or early September.

But if you're in need of a better lawn now, why not give it a try in early spring?

Start right by getting a soil test and the advice of an expert, your county agent. Your county agent has several publications that will give you the necessary do-it-yourself information.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

An unfortunate situation can't be cured until its existence is acknowledged, so let's admit right out that trout fishing is now a very poor sport in many parts of the country where it once was excellent.

Now, let's see what put trout fishing into such bad shape that it needs something drastic done to improve it.

Anglers like to blame the poor fishing nowadays on everything except the plain and obvious fact that bad fishing for about all game species except sunfish can be attributed almost entirely to removal of too many fish, states Josiah Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. This is in spite of the currently popular but absurd theory that almost unrestricted fishing can't hurt fishing—this holds true only where it's so bad that nothing can make it noticeably worse.

Pollution? Construction of various sorts, chiefly dams where they shouldn't be? Both are bad. But, after all, they are of consequence in only a comparatively small number of the trout streams of the country—and in a still tinier number of trout and bass lakes.

What can be done to make a really noticeable improvement in trout fishing as a sport?

In some of the wilder, rougher spots left, some distance from population centers, results of stocking have been quite good, when it's done with fairly large trout, and long enough before opening day so that they can gain at least some wild characteristics—those of them that are softies die promptly under natural conditions. But in more hard-fished areas, which means in much of the country, stocking can only lets can be told with 100 per cent accuracy between the fifth and seventh months of pregnancy, a researcher says. Doctor pastes electrodes on mother. These pick up electrical impulses from baby's heart. The impulses are recorded on a graph. Each separate heartbeat differs slightly electrically, so the graph shows if there is more than one and how many.

New Ailment—Television is a suspect once more, this time as the cause of coccygodynia, otherwise known to the medical profession as "TV Bottom." The principal symptom is pain, at the lower tip of the spine, often with pain in the hips and legs as well. It comes from sitting slumped in a chair watching TV for long periods of time. Victims can be easily recognized. They tend to sit down and get up cautiously, show a marked reluctance to take long auto rides or sit for any length of time. Most can be cured by heat, massage and improvement in sitting posture.

Early Start—A British doctor found cases of skin allergy and tooth decay due to nervous tension in children under five. He says some children must be born worried. The column is sponsored in the interest of better health by: Your Tuberculosis Association.

mean "put-and-take" fishing, where somebody puts in some of those innocent infant trout fully expecting practically all of them to be caught by nightfall. Such fishing isn't of the slightest interest to the more experienced angler. It's too much like catching Aunt Jane's pet goldfish.

Restricting some streams to fly-fishing is another very old method. Probably the chief thing to be said in its favor is that almost invariably a fly hooks a trout only in a lip, so that when he's returned to the water, even with little care in handling him, he stands about a 98 per cent chance of surviving. But one hooked deep on natural bait is almost certain to die if released. It is purely for this reason that in some places it is mandatory to keep all trout landed, no matter how tiny; no use in putting back a little one if he's to die.

Recently, Pennsylvania has tried a rather strange experiment. It has more streams on which you may fish to your heart's content, catch all the trout you wish, but you must return ALL of them uninjured; your limit is —NONE! In short, you must fish purely for sport, as you'd bowl or play pool; the manager won't let you take home the pins or balls you get. Pretty much to everybody's surprise, such purely-sport streams have turned out to be a great success and very popular. Perhaps it would be well to make the same restrictions on many streams elsewhere.

However, it is doubtful if all the fish biologists and sportsmanlike anglers in the world can raise trout fishing in many places to a much higher plane than catching pet goldfish except by one method: See to it that plenty of wild trout are released uninjured, to grow and spawn.

Blossom Festival April 28-29

WINCHESTER, Va.—The thirty-third annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival will be held in this apple-land capital on Thursday and Friday, April 28-29. The official dates were announced here today by J. K. Robinson, local fruit grower, president of the springtime fete.

Twelve department directors are preparing for the coming event and hundreds of men and women are currently being assigned to committees, as the Festival organization moves into high gear for the blossom-time celebration. Headquarters office of the Festival has assumed a springtime air as staff members busy themselves with correspondence, meetings and arrangements.

Winchester is preparing to roll out a springtime carpet of pink and white apple blossoms for some 200,000 visitors from every part of the country and Canada, who will attend not only the events of Apple Blossom Time but visit the historic spots of the city and section and the Shenandoah Valley area's natural wonders and scenic attractions.

The Department of the Queen and Her Court, responsible for the selection of Queen Shenandoah XXXIII, whose identity is a closely guarded secret until near fete time, is now at work. Members of this department also plan for the 36 apple blossom princesses and two maids of honor who will represent colleges, universities, and state horticultural societies in the Virginias, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Thursday, April 28, will feature the colorful ceremonies attendant to the coronation of the Queen, special events at the Handley Bowl, the unique parade to be staged by firemen of the four-state area, with the largest aggregation of volunteer fire companies and equipment in the country. Douglas J. O'Connell will direct this parade.

Friday, April 29, will be highlighted by the "Miss Shenandoah Apple Blossom" beauty and personality contest, special programs at the Handley Bowl and the far-famed Grand Feature Parade in the afternoon, with half a hundred floats, 60 bands and a Grand Marshal of national prominence. The parade will be directed by Ralph A. Chrisman, representing the Winchester Lions Club, for the 17th year, will provide the entire administrative personnel for this event. Also being planned for the Festival schedule are a Major-ette contest, Apple Blossom Jamboree for Square Dance Clubs, Apple Pie Baking contest, concerts, exhibits and balls.

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Khrushchev And Christianity

"Mr. Babson prepared this for a Christmas Column, but the 1960 Forecast and other things have delayed its publication."

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 14—I rather hesitate to write this column because some people may think that I am getting favorable toward Russia; but let me first assure you that I detest Russia as doing and was glad to get out of the country. Nevertheless, I can always learn something wherever I go, and from any nationality. Those who keep their eyes shut and their ears plugged are getting more ignorant every day and are only fooling themselves.

What Russians Mean By Saying They Are "Atheists"

Although I visited a church in Russia where, on the previous Sunday morning, there had been 4,000 people standing or on their knees (these churches have no seats), yet 95% of the one million people in Moscow and the two million in its suburbs will tell you they are "atheists." Some of them say they do not believe in "God"; but the majority will tell you they do not believe that Jesus was the "Son of God." They say that Jesus was the great leader and founder of Christianity, just as Buddha was the founder of Buddhism, Mohammed the founder of Mohammedanism, and Confucius the founder of Confucianism.

I am not acquainted with all the church denominations in this country; but I am told that the Unitarian branch and some of the Pacific Coast branches of the Protestant churches may feel about the same toward Jesus as the Russian leaders. (I cannot speak authoritatively on Russia as a whole, as Moscow was the only city which I visited.)

Jesus' Sermon On The Mount

When I was talking with some prominent Communists in Moscow about Christianity, they first made the point that a very small portion of the Bible consists of Jesus' own words. They realize that the Old Testament is a history of the Jewish People and may be found in many Moscow libraries translated into Russian. They, however, would substitute the teachings of Nikolai Lenin, the founder of Communism, in place of the writings of St. Paul. When a Russian does this, he feels justified in calling himself an atheist, although this is not the description which Webster's Dictionary gives for an atheist.

I had no personal talk when in Moscow with Nikita Khrushchev, the Premier, he being in Peiping at the time; but I met people who claimed to know his thoughts. They told me that Mr. Khrushchev has said that if we Christians in the U. S. followed the teachings of Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount, Communism might have had no opportunity to develop. This is a very important statement to be remembered when we celebrate Christmas as Jesus' birthday.

The Big Difference Between Jesus' Teaching And Communism

Seldom do I ask followers of my column to read anything; but I do ask you to read to-day Jesus' Sermon on the Mount (as found in the fifth chapter of Matthew) and relate it to our present mode of life. It agrees pretty well with the Communists' goal of taking care of their less fortunate people and seeing that all are fed, housed, and clothed, and that those who are qualified have a proper education, etc. Jesus also warned against wealth as a handicap to proper living. Certainly, Jesus would heartily approve the desire of President Eisenhower to help backward nations and unfortunate people.

But, Jesus insisted that these changes should come about voluntarily and not by force. The

Claude A. Taylor Files For Congress

Claude A. Taylor, Montgomery County businessman, who for 12 years was closely associated in congressional work with a veteran Congressman, the late Rep. James G. Polk, of Ohio, Monday filed his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Representative of the Sixth District, subject to the May 17 primary.

Taylor served as a congressional aid in the 82nd, 84th, 85th, and 86th Congresses, giving particular attention to legislative matters affecting agriculture and government operation. In all, he spent ten years on Capitol Hill. He also saw service with the NATO Parliamentary Conference following adjournment of the first session of the 86th Congress.

He is married to the former Lois Polk, daughter of the late Rep. Polk, for many years a member of the House of Representatives from Ohio. He worked closely with his father-in-law, and from him gained a wide range of knowledge of legislative issues and processes. Taylor, 35, was born in Mississippi and attended public schools there before going to the University of Colorado and later to LaSalle Law School. He served as an enlisted man in the navy during the war.

Taylor moved to Montgomery County in 1948 and now lives at 8610 Jones Mill Road, Chevy Chase.

Mr. Taylor is a leader in youth activities in his community, for the last two years having been wicked massacres by the Communists in Hungary and other countries, merely to eliminate private property, would certainly be considered outright murder by Jesus. I repeat that Jesus would insist that the reforms be voluntary and that men should let God (who, He said, is a Spirit) do the punishing. In order for me to take Premier Khrushchev seriously in his purported "respect for the Sermon on the Mount," he would have to raise the iron curtain full-length and stop persecuting any people. HOWEVER, BECAUSE KHRUSHCHEV IS NOT CONSISTENT IN NO REASON WHY WE SHOULD BE LAX IN PRACTICING THE TEACHINGS OF JESUS IN HIS SERMON ON THE MOUNT.

He is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Young Democrats of Montgomery County, Kensington-Wheaton Democratic Club, Western Suburban Democratic Club, and the Capitol Hill Lions Club. He received an award for his work as chairman of the Blood Bank for the Lions Club. He was an organizer of the 86th Congress Club and was its corresponding secretary. This club is made up of the 84 newly-elected Democratic Congressmen in the 86th Congress and is organized for the purpose of assisting them with their new legislative duties.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are direct descendants of former Presidents of the United States, he of Zachary Taylor and she of James K. Polk. ## THIS 'N THAT

GEORGE W. WIREMAN

The Small Cars

At the third International Automobile Show held in April of last year in the Coliseum at New York City, American men and women were seriously engaged in small-car talk. On the showroom floors were many models of cars from sixty-eight auto manufacturers in nine countries. Most of these models were small cars. Less than ten years ago almost all American automobile salesmen were of the opinion, namely, "Americans won't buy a small car." Their reason for thinking in these terms was that the American motorist could buy a good used car (big model) for about the same price or less than he would have to pay for a foreign small car. But time has a way of changing things and the auto industry is no exception.

Today Americans are giving the small car some very serious consideration. A friend of mine recently stated: "Big cars are too cumbersome." Another has said, "They lack maneuverability and are harder to handle." A mother of three children confessed: "I never felt at ease in a big car, you can't get me to drive the big one, especially in traffic." This last statement was made after she had driven one of the small models and, being so pleased with the difference, purchased it for her own use, leaving the big model for her husband.

A secretary in a large eastern city remarked to an auto salesman, after driving one of the small models, "I didn't know what driving was until I got behind the wheel of a small car. Now that I am in the market for a new car, it's going to be a small model for driving one of these models is real fun."

The above comments are those expressed by the women, however, the men too, have high praise for the small car. They have the gas bills to pay and one of the big features of the small car is the large number of miles that can be obtained on one gallon of gas.

If less than ten years ago the experts said that Americans would not take a fancy to the small car, what has brought about the sudden change? Well, an official in the sales division of a German auto company answers that question in this manner: "Many Americans think it's smart to drive a small foreign car. It has a certain 'snob appeal.'" Another foreign auto-maker states: "It's one way of keeping up with the Joneses."

Authorities in the big-car industry claimed that Americans would not buy the small European car because of its inferior workmanship and its durability. Then, too, the big-car manufacturers claimed that the Americans who became owners of the small European cars would have trouble in obtaining parts for the car. Here again time has changed things. Parts are plentiful, and the cost of repairs is very little compared to the big-car repairs.

If the small car is inferior in construction and less durable, United States buyers have not noticed or, perhaps, did not consider those reasons enough for not purchasing one. Could it be that the big car manufacturers were wrongly advised? Why did they hesitate to enter into the small-car market until now?

We are told that as far back as 1946 General Motors had in mind to build a small car called the Cadet. In fact, they built a new plant in Cleveland, Ohio, for that purpose and invested millions of dollars before they finally decided they could not manufacture the car cheap enough. The big question in 1946 was, would the American public buy the small car? Those who were supposed to know said, no. So the Cadet program was scrapped. Since then the small European models have been flooding the market and as more and more of these models were seen on our highways further consideration was given to the small car but none of the American manufacturers wanted to face the gamble. Both Ford and Chrysler made attempts to manufacture a small car, but gave up, for fear the American public would not take to the idea.

The real reason for the American automobile manufacturers not wanting to take a gamble on the small car is that it would be a most expensive proposition. The margin for mistakes is very narrow and in the making of automobiles there is a lot to consider. For example, take the Edsel. It cost Ford 100 million dollars for tools and engineering plus 150 million dollars more for new plants and facilities, before one Edsel rolled off the assembly line. One must be sure of their product before making such a gamble, and in the case of the American auto manufacturers, they weren't sure their product would meet with the approval of the American people. This, more than anything else, is perhaps the reason for the delay in the appearance of the American small car on the market. One manufacturer states that he must sell over 300,000 or more cars to make a profit.

In 1955 about 60,000 cars were imported by the United States and in 1959 this figure is expected to reach 500,000. And so to those authorities who said it couldn't be done, this must come as quite a shock. It looks as if the small car is here to stay.

The new American small cars, Chevrolet's Corvair, Chrysler's Valiant and Ford's Falcon, are compact cars rather than small cars. They are ingeniously designed, comfortable and possess the excellent performance characteristics of the larger models. Four-door Corvair sedans run from $1,810 to $1,920. The Falcon has the longest wheel base of the new economy models. The Valiant, we are told, may be a little more exotic than the others, while Corvair's six-cylinder air-cooled rear engine is no doubt the biggest surprise.

Now that the American small car has hit the market the big question is what will they do to the seventy-six European companies listed with the United States Department of Commerce as selling their autos in the United States?

There is no doubt that the European companies were always aware of the fact that the American firms would sooner or later enter the small car field, once the American public was sold on the idea of small cars. Some say that the market for the European small car is doomed. Others say that there will be little or no big changes in the market. When you stop to consider the fact that each year the United States scraps close to 4,500,000 cars you can well understand why the experts claim the European market will not drop. If you take in cars, trucks and other commercial vehicles, some 5,000,000 machines annually end up in the nation's junk yards. In other words, the United States scraps more cars each year than are on the roads of Great Britain, France, Germany or Canada. These figures prove that the car market in the United States is big in every sense of the word, and that there is room for a great many imported models.

The European car comes in handy as a "second" car for shopping and traveling short distances between suburbs and cities. Who is there to doubt that the European cars have made good loyal friends in the United States, for good reasons that will not wear off quickly.

The American public has bought these cars at such a rate that makers have been unable to keep up with the demand and sensibly anticipate their future dimensions.

This grand surge for the small car has not been without reason. The small-car people predict that this is just the beginning. These authorities state that American manufacturers and the American public cannot deny something that is so basically needed and sensible in the United States as the small car, the kind that the European companies produce.

Authorities tell us that the number of two-car families in the United States has grown to 17 per cent of all car owners. Now the three-car family is becoming popular; there are an estimated 375,000 such families now in the United States. The economy car today meets the needs of at least 50 per cent of the transportation requirements of the United States.

The short-haul, the one-or-two-occupants-to-a-car trip is the order of the day, just as are rising costs of gasoline and maintenance. This does not mean that, like the railroads, that the big cars are a thing of the past or that they are on their way out.

From all the talk, the sales records, and the demands of the American public, one thing is certain. The small car is coming into its own. Like the hot dog, television, the rockets designed to explore outer space, the small car too, is finding a place in the American way of life.

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

At the special request of hospitals throughout Maryland, the School of Nursing of the University of Maryland is planning two workshops to be held at Whitehurst Hall in Baltimore January 25-29 and February 1-5.

According to Dr. Florence M. Gipe, dean of the school, nursing has changed greatly in the past ten years. Traditional thumb rule has given way to scientific methodology.

Much more is expected of nursing today, particularly those in supervisory positions. Not only must they have more knowledge and skill but they must also have a unique awareness of democratic processes as they apply to the management of personnel.

The workshops will give Maryland nurses an opportunity to work with nationally recognized specialists in nursing administration. Helen G. Graves, R.N., M.S., director of nursing service at Emory University Hospital, Atlanta, will direct the first workshop, on "Nursing Service Administration," planned for head nurses, supervisors, and directors of nursing service.

The second workshop, on "Clinical Teaching," will be directed by Dr. Gipe. It is planned to meet the needs of those who serve in equal capacity as head nurse and clinical instructor.

Particular emphasis will be placed upon organization for patient care, evaluation of the individual abilities of members of the nursing team, staffing, and budgeting. Teaching demonstrations in live situations will be held throughout the program.

Additional information may be obtained from Mary Carl, Ph.D., chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, 624 W. Lombard St., Baltimore.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Minerals Vital In Modern Rations

Modern breeds of farm animals make greater demands upon their rations than did their ancestors. Up-to-date rations need to be as nearly complete as possible, including the presence of all the so-called protective nutrients, the proteins, vitamins, and minerals. These are doubly necessary to support the increased rate of growth or production expected in modern management.

Because phosphorus is likely to be a limiting element in the nutrition of all farm animals, we generally approve the addition of one per cent bone meal or other phosphate in finished grain mixtures for dairy cattle and swine. This is along with three per cent bone meal or phosphate in their high-protein supplements. Poultry, and at times sheep and horses, also require additional phosphorus.

The same percentage or percentages of salt or trace mineralized salt are incorporated in the corresponding commercial formula feeds, or for that matter in home-mixed feeds. One or more of the trace minerals is just as likely to be lacking as the phosphorus. It may be iodine or cobalt, possibly even manganese, copper or zinc. Though measured in parts-per-million of the ration, any one of these "traces" may be as important to growth and production as the more bulky phosphorus.

The cost of these combined trace minerals as carried by trace mineral salt, however, is only about one-fifth of the cost of phosphorus as carried by bone meal.

How come? Let us assume certain prices. With steamed bone meal at $100 a ton, trace mineralized salt at $45, and plain salt at $26 a ton, the one per cent, or 20 pounds of bone meal in a ton of finished feed costs $1.00. The difference in cost between 20 pounds of trace mineralized salt and plain salt amounts to 19 cents, just about one-fifth the cost of the bone meal, and it covers all five or six trace minerals.

In both cases the respective minerals are added as insurance, just in case they should be needed. Considering the livestock losses often reported due to mineral and trace mineral deficiencies this is, indeed, insurance at low premium rates.

Question: Can trace minerals be depended upon to prevent or cure brucellosis, or contagious abortion?

Answer: The University of Wisconsin several years ago showed that increased amounts of manganese and other mineral or nutritional principles in general were not effective in preventing an infectious disease of this sort.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

The Federal Trade Commission is without doubt the most wonderful bureau in the whole bureaucratic shangha.

As is well known, the FTC is supposed to enforce the Robinson-Patman act, which is an integral part of the nation's anti-trust laws. Yet almost every day in almost every city throughout the land, some huge C. W. Harder retail operation is getting a secret rebate, or benefitting by some illegal practice.

And where, as all this goes on almost openly so that these illegal transactions are a public scandal, are the brave, and true lads of the FTC?

They are really busy. Right now the Federal Trade Commission is going heavily into the subject of women's legs. Perhaps on the theory that no man is dead if he notices women's legs, FTC is seeking to establish it is really not dead.

There is a firm in New York that offers correspondence courses to help women fill out skinny legs, or to reduce excessively fat legs.

Now FTC is charging that it ain't so, that presumably satisfied customers of this service are not obtaining "shapely and alluring" legs. Language in quotes is FTC's own.

Therefore, it must be presumed that somehow the FTC has set up a standard as to just what constitutes a "shapely and alluring leg."

Yet, with all this preoccupation with leg work, the FTC does not seem to be able to find what constitutes an alluring kickback to a big chain.

There is something utterly fascinating about all this. On reflection, it perhaps makes people want to stand up and salute Old Glory to know in this land there is a big government bureau busily engaged day after day in solemn and presumably sober deliberation of just what constitutes "shapely and alluring" legs.

As nothing is said about men, presumably the formal bureaucratic listing is "legs, shapely and alluring, feminine."

Apparently FTC is as little concerned with the allure of masculine legs as it is with the widespread violations of the Robinson-Patman laws designed to provide free, honest and aboveboard competition in the market place.

It will be interesting to see how many pages of printed matter will eventually be turned out at taxpayer's expense by the Government Printing Office carrying FTC decisions as to just what constitutes shapely and alluring legs.

But presumably, until this most vital issue is settled, and there is no doubt that it will take many a long deliberation before it is officially defined what constitutes alluring legs, the illegal rebate and kickback artists will go blithely on their way undisturbed, unhampered, and unfettered. After all, in the face of such important issues, the preservation of free enterprise in America can wait.

Brownie Troop 2, with Mrs. Louis Orndorff and Mrs. John Warthen as leaders, consists of: Karen Warthen, Kristine Oddo, Barbara Myers, Sandra Orndorff, Judy Ann Seidel, Drusilla Weedon, Mary Beth Eckenrode, Gerilyn Miller, Patricia Myers, Martha Byard, Dale Elder, Maureen Remavage, Deborah Baker, Karen Shorb, Kathryn Rodgers, Maureen Waters, Josephine Rodgers and Mary Ann Orosz.

The Brownie Troops will meet at a later date as soon as a convenient place and time for meetings can be arranged. There remain quite a number of Brownies on the waiting list, as there are not sufficient leaders to start additional troops.

The directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company have authorized the expenditure of $14,000 for additional dial equipment to serve Emmitsburg customers, according to R. P. Heck, telephone company manager.

The appropriation provides for 160 additional lines and 200 more telephone numbers to take care of Emmitsburg's increasing service requirements.

Installation of the new equipment will be started in the near future, Mr. Heck said.

Damage Suit
Enters Court

A "good Samaritan" was injured as a result of the carelessness of the person he was seeking to help, according to a complaint filed in the Adams County court at Gettysburg last week.

Lester McGlaughlin, Gettysburg R2, had previously brought suit against Emmanuel J. Kump, Emmitsburg R2, claiming that Kump ran off the road and struck McGlaughlin with his car, while McGlaughlin was attempting to assist Catherine E. Ott, Emmitsburg, whose car had overturned on the Gettysburg Rd., early on the morning of October 1.

Kump Friday, through his attorney, S. M. Raffensperger, filed a complaint joining Catherine E. Ott as an additional defendant and claiming that the injuries to McGlaughlin were all the fault of Mrs. Ott.

Kump's claim was that the driver of the Ott car did not exercise proper care in driving and as a result her car upset, partly on the highway, and claiming that Mrs. Ott should have set out warnings to approaching cars.

Kump claimed he came over the crest of a hill saw the Ott car on the road, braked, but his vehicle skidded into the Ott car, and that the Ott car then struck McGlaughlin, causing injuries which put him in the hospital for three weeks and reduced his earning capacity. McGlaughlin is asking damages in excess of $5,000 for hospitalization, loss of work, reduction in earning power, loss of teeth, clothes and pain and suffering.

Kump in his complaint holds that if McGlaughlin is entitled to damages it is from Catherine Ott and not from Emanuel Kump.

Origin Of Leap
Year Explained

It's Leap Year again . . . and you can blame the Scots for declaring it open season on bachelors.

They probably saw the custom of letting a woman pop the question as a way to put money in the treasury and take spinsters off the welfare rolls.

According to the research of World Book Encyclopedia, Scotland is said to have decreed in 1288 that ladies "of bothe highe and lowe estait" shall have the privilege of proposing during leap years.

If a man refused the offer, he was fined as much as one pound . . . unless he could show that another woman had a prior claim on his affections.

The ladies, however, had to give fair warning that they were out to catch a man. If the edge of a scarlet flannel petticoat was not clearly visible, a man was absolved from paying the forfeit.

France reportedly passed a similar law, and the ladies of Florence and Genoa are said to have been given the privilege before Columbus sailed to America.

The gallant English supposedly didn't need a law to make them give the fair but single sex a break. But they backed up the custom by depriving a man of benefit of clergy if he scoffed at a leap year proposal.

Even if he didn't hurt the lady's feelings, he was obliged to present her with a silk gown . . . as a consolation prize.

Reading Workshop Scheduled

More than 400 educators will attend the general session at 4 p. m. Saturday, January 30, at Loyola College, Baltimore, which is one of the features of the 3-day third annual workshop on vision and reading problems of under-achieving school children.

A report on the latest advances in remedial and corrective reading will be presented at this open session in Cohn Auditorium by Dr. Roy A. Kress, director of the diagnostic and remedial division, The Reading Center, Syracuse University.

Dr. H. Ward Ewalt Jr., consultant on visual problems of children and youth; American Optometric Association, of Pittsburgh, will introduce Dr. Kress, and Dr. V. Eugene McCrary, College Park, chairman of the education committee of the Maryland Optometric Association, will preside.

The workshop is sponsored by the Graduate Division of Loyola Evening College, the Maryland Optometric Association and the Maryland Chapter, Optometric Extension Program Foundation.

Registration and a tea reception will open the workshop Friday night, January 29, in the Student Union Building. Clinical sessions are listed Saturday morning and other program features have been set up for Saturday night and Sunday morning and afternoon.

State Tax Revenue
Setting Record

The first half of the State's fiscal year which ended December 31, 1959, shows income tax revenue running more than nine million dollars ahead of last year, according to figures released by State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

However, Mr. Goldstein explained that the six months income tax receipts this year included two quarters of employer withholding at the three per cent rate whereas, the corresponding six months of last year only included one quarter at the three per cent rate and the other quarter at the two per cent rate. This difference in withholding rate accounts for approximately five million dollars of our income tax increase this year, Mr. Goldstein said, and leaves around four million dollars that can be considered the real increase in income tax receipts for this year as compared to last year.

The month of December has never been a good month for income tax collections, Mr. Goldstein continued, as no return or report falls due in that month. December just past was no exception, in fact, income tax receipts this December were actually nearly $900,000 less than December of last year. November of 1959 showed collections of nearly a million dollars over last year and considering the two months together, there is just about a stand-off in income tax receipts.

Mr. Goldstein stated that although all tax forms had been mailed out, only a trickle of returns were being received. These were mostly refund cases. The Income Tax Division would greatly appreciate the early filing of tax returns, Mr. Goldstein said, by those who are able to do so. This would help to alleviate the great rush which comes around April 15 of each year.

The dollar that does the most good for us is the dollar which is kept in circulation.
