The present debacle which involves our country and the Russians is a very regrettable one and one that might have been avoided had our State Department been on its toes, so to speak. We had a perfect out when Mr. K made the announcement that one of our espionage planes had been downed. Mr. K at the time announced that he was certain Mr. Eisenhower did not know of the spying activities, which naturally he did. However the State Dept. announced that the President was aware of the situation and that the flights would continue. As long as Mr. K was content to believe that Ike wasn't in the "know" it would have been the wise thing to do to just let it slide by. Now that the Summit Conference has been sabotaged by the Russians the cold war will most certainly be intensified. This means that more money must be spent for defense measures and that we dare not let our guard down for many years to come, skip the disarmament talk and get down to the business of preparing a stronger nation.

Mr. K's indignation over the incident isn't entirely justified by any means. He has a few skeletons in his own closet. If you remember his visit here last Sept. when he appeared so friendly, and inquisitive, there was spying going on at that very moment, by the Russians. Our State Dept. has announced that while the Red Boss was here two spies were apprehended and deported to Russia while Mr. K was right here in the U. S. The incident was hushed by our authorities to prevent or avoid any unpleasantness during the Budapest Butcher's visitation. As a result before we released the spies and I can't help wonder whether the Russians will be reciprocal in the action... will they release our American flyer? When Mr. K announces the termination or abandonment of the Communist party (fifth column) in this country, then we will know for certain that he really wants to talk peace... but not until then. In the meantime we must back the decision of our President and prepare ourselves for any eventuality.

We talked with our old friend Phil Sharpe the other day and learned that something new in long distance phone calls came to Emmitsburg last Friday. At noon, Phil talked 32 minutes with Brisbane, Australia—about half-way around the world. Phil estimates the airline distance at about 16,000 miles.

The call came in at noon, local time—which was 2 a. m. Brisbane time. We asked Phil what it was all about and he just said—"business—our Australian distributor was planning his sales and production orders for the fall of 1960 and 1961." Naturally I was curious about this call and wanted all possible information. Phil stated that most of the distance was by radio. He got most of his information from the Australian operator. When the call was received, it was so tin-panny as to be practically unintelligible. Phil asked the operator to clear the line. The telephone operator at Oakland, California, came in as clear as a bell. Over the years Phil has talked monthly with his Oakland office and reports that they came in as clearly as a local call—so Oakland called in the operator at Sidney, Australia. He came in OK. About half of the time of the call was spent talking with the Sidney operator to hold the line open while he tried to clean his lines, so Phil had a chance for some small talk.

It seems that in Australia most of the night shift of long distance operators are men. He announced that he could "read me perfectly"—telephone talk for a clean signal. He said that the trouble was overlaid between Sidney and Brisbane, some 600 miles to the north. He asked how Phil "read" him, and was told that "I do not know the decible output, but you sound like a local call." The operator became interested in that and asked if Phil was a "wireless man"—Britain and British colonies do not use the word radio. He was informed that Sharpe played with short-wave 25 years ago. He told the

Couple Observes 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Haley Jr., were the guests of honor at a 25th wedding anniversary party given them by their children last Sunday in the VFW Annex. Over 100 friends and relatives were present for the occasion. During the evening an orchestra provided music for dancing and entertainment and a buffet luncheon was served. The couple was the recipient of numerous lovely presents and a host of friends dropped in to offer congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Haley were married on May 11, 1935 in St. Joseph's Church, Emmitsburg, by Rev. Fr. Charles Stouter. They have 5 children and two grandchildren.

Boys' Camp Owner Seeks Tax Assessment Easement

An owner of a boy's camp located in Eyer's Valley, near Emmitsburg, asked the County Commissioners for tax ease in a hearing held this week in Frederick.

Maurice Weisberg, who also teaches at Mt. St. Mary's College, said that his assessment on Camp Pioneer was raised from $3,100 to $19,000, making his tax bill eight times above the previous one. His tax bill showed an increase from $50 to $400.

Weisberg said he was not complaining about the assessment—but rather he asked the commissioners if there was not some way the increase could be made gradual instead of all at one time.

Lumen Norris, supervisor of assessments, explained that the property assessment was fair in keeping with the state directive and that there was no amortization plan as far as taxes are concerned. He said that Emmitsburg had not been reassessed since 1951—and that if it had, Weisberg's buildings would have been included in part on previous bills.

Weisberg claimed that people are being penalized for improving properties. He said he bought a "run down" farm, made several improvements and transformed it into a camp for boys. His improvements include several cottages, swimming pool, fishing lake, gymnasium and mess hall and art studio. He said the gymnasium-mess hall was converted from an old barn and the art studio is located at what once served as a pig house.

He told the commissioners that his improved property has increased the value of other properties in the area, and said he should not be "penalized because he made a place beautiful.

Weisberg said his property is located amid a "slum area" and asked the commissioners if they could not do something about those who take "squatter's rights" and keep undesirable properties. He said he felt there was a fallacy in the tax structure, if persons could not be forced to improve their property.

It was explained that the county has no building code. The only way areas can be controlled is through zoning, and this cannot affect buildings existing prior to the zoning laws.

Weisberg pointed out that the county school children participating in the outdoor education program make free use of his facilities. He also said that during the summer he takes some boys who do not have financial ability to pay for camping.

The commissioners said, since it was agreed his assessment was equitable, there could be no ease. They noted however they would have the county attorney investigate the situation as far as tax ease in using the facilities on a part-time basis for a county educational program.

Weisberg told the commissioners, the county was missing a good thing when it does not explore improvements that would attract more tourists to appreciate the natural beauties of the area. He said one of the most scenic lookouts is now the site of the Emmitsburg dump.

Vandals Still Operating

Vandals continued their depredations despite repeated warning by the Town Council this week. Most of the destruction has occurred around Community Field. In addition the theft of a number of baseballs from the baseball clubhouse was reported. The Police Department announced that several traffic stop signs had been knocked down again after having just been replaced last week.

Repeated warnings by Town Officials has not deterred this wave of vandalism and parents are asked to cooperate with the Police Dept. by making certain that none of their children are involved. Offenders apprehended will be prosecuted by law.

The Council also announced this week that there would be no free weed cutting in the alleys or around property this year. Property-owners are responsible, under law, to keep weeds trimmed during the summer months, or growing season. Streets and roads are scheduled for improvement this summer within the corporate limits.

Building Permits Issued

Building permits were issued this week in Frederick to Ellsworth Feeser, Taneytown, who is constructing an $11,000 brick veneer house with five rooms, bath, basement and garage on Six's Bridge Road in Emmitsburg District for Paul Six of Route 2, Emmitsburg, and for a $4,000 frame home with four rooms, both, basement and carport on the Kelbaugh Road in Thurmont District to be completed next year by Charles Brooks of Route 2, Thurmont.

To Receive Honorary Degree

The Rev Francis J. Dodd, C.M., director of the Eastern Province of the Sisters of Charity since 1929, will receive an honorary LL.D. degree at the 152nd commencement exercises of Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, on June 1 at 10:30 a. m. Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania will deliver the graduation address to the 150 seniors.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Fr. Dodd received both his A.B. and M.A. from St. John's University, as well as an LL.D. in 1957. He received his Ph.D. from De Paul U. in 1920. Ordained in 1912, Fr. Dodd taught science at both St. John's and Niagara U. In 1919 he became director of seminarians at Our Lady of Angels Seminary, Niagara U. From 1927 to 1929 he served as president of Niagara.

During World War I, Fr. Dodd served as an army chaplain at Camp Merritt, N. J. He is a member of the American Catholic Philosophic Association.

12 Seek Tax Assessors Job

Two Republicans and ten Democrats were recommended to the County Commissioners by the Democratic State Central Committee for two new positions in the local tax assessors office.

The recommendations were made last week at the same time that Mrs. Charlotte Yarroll was recommended as the new county treasurer and the 12 names recommended were forwarded to the County Commissioners late last week.

It is understood that the County Commissioners will forward all 12 names on to the State Tax Commission and let the state body decide which two to appoint.

Three recommendations are required for each vacancy in the state tax assessors office, so at least six names had to be submitted for the two vacancies, it was pointed out.

Mr. J. L. Nester, Emmitsburg, was one of the 10 Democrats mentioned for the position.

Census Shows County Growth

According to the latest census figures released by George R. Hughes Jr., district supervisor, Frederick is listed as the fourth most populated county in the 6th Congressional District.

Total 1960 Census figures for population are as follows: Allegany County, 33,834; Frederick County, 71,985; Garrett County, 20,253; Montgomery County, 338,188, and Washington County, 89,287.

In addition, 1960 Census figures for population for municipalities of over 10,000 population in the same area are:

Cumberland, 33,260; Frederick, 21,668; Hagerstown, 36,301; Rockville, 25,118, and Takoma Park, 11,104.

$1600 Damage

Damage totaled $1,600 when 2 cars collided three miles north of here on the Gettysburg Rd. Monday morning at 11:40 o'clock.

Police said Lester F. McLaughlin, 51, Gettysburg R2 was driving north and attempted to make a left turn across the highway to park on that side. Police said McLaughlin's car cut into the path of Michael Angelo Castaldo, 21, Oswego, N. Y., who was driving south. Damage was estimated at $1100 to McLaughlin's auto and $500 to Castaldo's.

Kennedy Sweeps State

Pre-election predictions came true Tuesday as Senator John Kennedy swept the state of Maryland with the largest vote ever accorded a Democratic candidate in a primary election.

It was a foregone conclusion that the young affable Senator would win over his opponent, Senator Wayne Morse, by a vast majority but it was never expected that he would garner 70% of the entire state's vote.

In Emmitsburg, the balloting ran to form, Kennedy receiving a large majority over his opponent. Precinct No. 1 gave Kennedy 66 votes to Morse's 8; Precinct 2, Kennedy 105, Morse, 4; Precinct 3, Kennedy, 62, Morse, 13. The county, following the state pattern showed Kennedy received 2306 ballots to Morse's 570.

In the race for Congress from the Sixth District, incumbent John R. Foley, Democrat, easily outdistanced his opponent, Taylor, 2479 to 423.

In the Republican race for Congress from this district Charles Mc. Mathias easily outdistanced his other two opponents. Mathias polled 2298 votes as compared to Duvall's 62 and Buchanan's 102. Mathias is from Frederick and at present is a member of the State Legislature, being a delegate from Frederick County. No presidential candidates for the Republican party were listed on the ballot.

It is interesting to note that of the 258 votes cast in Emmitsburg, 233 were for Kennedy while Morse received 25.

Statewide Senator Kennedy snowed under his opposition 200,252 to 49,225.

High School Senior Play Tonight

An evening of suspense and entertainment is being planned by the Senior Class of Emmitsburg High School, when they present the annual Senior Class Play tonight (Friday), at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium. The play they selected is a three act mystery farce by Jay Tobias entitled "Spooks and Spasms." The plot centers around an old, supposedly haunted, farm house which was inherited by the young niece, Shirley Hahn, and her family when the original owner died. To give her little brother, Clarence Umbel, a new slant on life; to cure her sister, Lois Fisher, of occultism and to release her aunt, Peninah Gingell, of the beliefs in "Spooks and Spasms," she enters into an intrigue with the caretakers. Many weird and hilarious situations develop.

The following cast of characters will make your spines tingle with their screams, ghosts, murders, and supernatural staging effects:

Minerva Hawkwood, the housekeeper, Sandra Hartle; Benji Hawkwood, her half-witted nephew, Edward Miller; Carol Calloway, the new owner of Ravenstein farm, Shirley Hahn; Miss Eunice Tuthill, her aunt, Piny Gingle; Allie Katz, her maid, Carolyn Wastler; Sidney Calloway, here little brother, Clarence Umbel; Ione Calloway, her younger sister, Lois Fisher; Dicky Bird, Ione's fiance, Jack White; Clemuel McClatchin, an undertaker, Robert Keilholtz; Rex Rosner, a young plastic surgeon, Pat Zimmerman, and Gerda Ravenstein, an escaped maniac, Violet Kefauver.

Local Team Wins Two Straight

Despite a big inning in the first when three runs were scored, Fairfield dropped a hotly-contested contest to Emmitsburg, 7-6, last Sunday at Emmitsburg, in Pen-Mar Baseball League action. An additional run in the second gave the Pennsylvanians a lead of 4-0 over the locals, a lead which they enjoyed until the fifth when Emmitsburg had its big inning, tying the score at 6-6. Another tally in the seventh iced the contest for the locals. Stoner, Dick Swomley and Boyle were the leading power hitters for Emmitsburg, Stoner rapping out three for five, Swomley two for five and Boyle, two for five. D. Sites provided the power for Fairfield with three for five. The win put Emmitsburg in first place in the league with a 2-0 record as Mike Joy pitched his second straight win.

Which Way, Mr. Khrushchev?

When I first learned of the news of the recent shooting down of an American plane by the Russians, I began to recall other such occasions in the past and asked this question, a question which has been asked many times by many Americans: "How many times has this happened in the past, and how long will it continue to happen in the future?"

The answer to this question will perhaps remain unanswered for some time to come, but it is my guess that the recent shooting down of an American plane by the Russians will not be the last, nor can we forget that it was not the first time that such action on the part of the Russians has taken place.

How long the Americans will continue to put up with such action, will of course, depend upon Mr. Khrushchev and the Russian people. Just how far Russia thinks she can go and how much America can take of such actions remains to be seen.

America is a nation of peace-loving citizens and we have no intention of starting a war, as we are deeply interested in maintaining world peace and have made many contributions toward this end. Russia's aim is not world peace, but to force upon the world the fact that Communism is the only way of life. Knowing living conditions as they are under Communism and comparing these conditions with those of Democracy, and the Democratic way of life, we feel that our system of life is far better, and we have a right to feel this way. Ours is a system of which we can be mighty proud, and although we believe it to be the best form of government, we do not try to force it upon other nations, as do the Russians.

This brings up the question: "If we are a peace-loving nation, then why are we engaged in activities of espionage and still trying to talk peace?" The forces of Communism give us no alternative to act otherwise and we must take such measures as to protect ourselves against a surprise attack, which may come from behind the Iron Curtain or within the boundaries of the United States of America. There is a lot of people who still believe that such an attack is "impossible," but I for one, believe otherwise. The forces of Communism are at work right here within the borders of America, and if Russia were to pull a surprise attack this very night, we might be surprised in more ways than one.

America is the land of the free, but at times we are a bit too free. We publish many facts that should remain secret and withhold many facts that don't amount to a "hill of beans." This is not true with Russia. Her secrets are very closely guarded and as long as there are forces of evil at work in the world, we should do likewise.

When the news was made public about the recent shooting down of an American plane over Russia, Americans were quick to deny any such reports, other than an American plane was missing. Washington asserted that the order for such a trip was not issued there and yet a day or so later the newspapers carried the story that the "U. S. Admits Espionage Flight Over Russia, Blames It On Soviet 'Surprise Attack' Danger." There is no doubt in my mind that Russia had all the facts in the case and as they made these public, there was nothing else to do but admit they were true. Surely some of our government officials knew of this action and yet they were so quick to deny such action when the news of the shooting was first released? Why? Because they were guilty of aerial espionage. In time of war, such action could have been understood, but with all the talks centered upon peace at the present time, such action has been looked upon as all un-called for.

Now let us examine the text of the State Department, regarding the U. S.-Soviet plane incident:

"The Department has received the text of Mr. Khrushchev's further remarks about the unarmed plane which is reported to have been shot down in the Soviet Union."

"As previously announced, it was known that a U-2 plane was missing." Here is proof that they knew about the plane and it is my guess they knew all the facts pertaining to the flight also. "As a result of the inquiry by the President," the text continues "it has been established that insofar as the authorities in Washington are concerned, there was no authorization for any such flight as described by Mr. Khrushchev."

"Nevertheless it appears that in endeavoring to obtain information now concealed behind the Iron Curtain a flight over Soviet territory was probably undertaken by an unarmed civilian plane."

"It is certainly no secret that, given the state of the world today, intelligence collection activities are practiced by all countries, and postwar history certainly reveals that the Soviet Union has not been lagging behind in this field."

"The necessity for such activities as measures for legitimate national defense is enhanced by the excessive secrecy practiced by the Soviet Union in contrast to the free world."

"One of the things creating tension in the world today is apprehension over surprise attack with weapons of mass destruction."

"To reduce mutual suspicion and to give a measure of protection against surprise attack the United States in 1955 offered its 'open skies' proposal . . . a proposal which was rejected out of hand by the Soviet Union."

"It is in relation to the danger of surprise attack that planes of the type of unarmed civilian U-2 aircraft have made flights along the frontiers of the free world for the last four years."

In the statement above, issued by the State Department, there is proof enough that we knew of such action being carried on by the United States, but no one wants to take the blame for ordering such action, now that it has been made public. The action on the part of Russia in shooting down the plane is a very grave one. The State Department's announcement does, however, concede much of what Mr. Khrushchev told the Soviet Parliament, and enough to explain the vigorous Russian reaction.

It is good to have a candid American statement including clear affirmation that the plane was on a mission considered necessary to the safety of the West. It is most unfortunate, that it is the same time, American spokesmen had given earlier suggestions that the episode was much less serious than now it appears. It is never wise to talk until the facts are in . . . as they may not all be, even now. This is what Mr. Khrushchev meant when he referred to "foolish explanations."

Reports are that Mr. K. was merry when he walked into the afternoon session of the Supreme Soviet. The morning session had cleared up a list of routine items, ratifying decrees previously issued by the Presidium during past months. After he released the news that the pilot was "alive and kicking" the deputies applauded. This information, he said, was held back purposely because there would have been "more foolish explanations."

It is wrong for us as Americans, to believe that every action taken on behalf of our government is "always" right. We can be wrong on many of our decisions and we must be ready to admit this rather than deny it. Coming as it does within a few days of the scheduled Summit conference, the plane incident merely adds to the shadow hanging over the project. For almost coincidental with the plane statement the President had announced that underground nuclear testing would resume in a few months. Here again we may be sure that the decisions taken were considered truly in the interest of the West. We must continue to make such decisions so long as the safety of the West is in danger.

The rest is up to Soviet Russia and Mr. Khrushchev. He holds the key to these and many other problems that confronts the free world today. Theirs is a decision which must be made if we are to continue to live in peace. Either they cooperate and show a sincere effort in maintaining world peace or continue as they have in the past, creating tension and unrest which in turn breeds mutual suspicion among all nations. Our action in the future will be based upon their decision.

In closing, I direct this one question to the Soviet Premier himself: "Which Way Mr. Khrushchev?"

tion was summer camping, District Camporee, the Francis Scott Key Hiking Trail and future swim meets and field days. A highlight of the meeting was a demonstration in "Fire and Science" by Joseph Elliott, teacher at Emmitsburg High School. Troop 284 was present and took part in learning new games of Scout skill. The Scoutmasters from all parts of Frederick County were in attendance and took part in the activities. The opening ceremony was headed by Explorer Robert Rosensteel and the closing ceremony was led by Explorer Ronald Stouter. Both of these boys have made reservations to go to Philmont Scout Ranch in Arizona this Summer.

Refreshments were served following the meeting by the remainder of Post 265 under chairman Robert Wagerman and William Zimmerman. Post 265 is also planning a weekend at Patuxent Naval Air Station May 27, 28 and 29. Plans are also being started for a summer camp to be held in late August.

This month marks the 25th anniversary of the 4-H Electric program sponsored by Westinghouse and the Cooperative Extension Service.

From a beginning of sporadic leadership and limited information in less than half the states, the program has developed into a highly successful activity in 50 states involving trained leaders and special educational materials.

During the last 10 years, enrollment has steadily risen from 48,000 boys and girls to the all-time high of 138,000 in 1959.

Teenagers' interest in electronics and engineering has undoubtedly spurred participation in the electric program, according to Extension surveys.

Next fall the top winner from each state will attend the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago as a guest of the Westinghouse Educational Foundation. The six cited for national honors will receive $400 Westinghouse scholarships.

VFW Backing State Safety Drive

Governor J. Millard Tawes is the state. Making the presentation above receiving the first copy of a traffic safety poster prepared by the Maryland Department of the Veterans of Foreign War for distribution throughout the state. Making the presentation is W. Earl Griffin, chairman of the VFW.

Mayor Hugh Cropper holds some of Anne Furniere's Spring finery as she prepares for an early test of Ocean City's salt water. The continuing movement of the Gulfstream toward shore has warmed both air and sea, and officials expect this beach to crowd up by Memorial Day, May 30th. Ocean City had 97 degree temperatures in late April.

ment. "The matter of highway safety is a serious problem," Tawes told Griffin. "Primarily, it involves education and campaigns such as that the VFW plans to carry on serve a definite public need."

Griffin said the VFW posters which read, "Be Careful, Live to be a Veteran Driver" will be distributed to VFW posts in time for posting throughout the state prior to the three-day Memorial Day holiday.

"We think it is proper that the VFW should do all it can to preserve lives on an occasion dedicated to the memory of men who have fought in defense of their country," Griffin declared.

"If we can save just one life through our efforts we will feel amply repaid. Certainly there can be no better memorial to our war dead than to come through the Memorial Day holiday without a traffic fatality."

Pimlico Features Preakness Saturday

BALTIMORE—The horses which ran one-two-three in the Kentucky Derby and about five or six fresh competitors will shoot for racing's richest added money prize this Saturday in the 84th edition of the Preakness at Pimlico.

Sunny Blue Farm's Venetian Way, the Derby winner with William Hartack up, will be gunning for the highest stakes of all—a winner's share of nearly $130,000 from a whopping gross pot of over $180,000, plus the second jewel in the Triple Crown.

Venetian Way is expected to rule a slight choice to get the double task accomplished at the direct expense again of Edgehill Farm's Bally Ache who was beaten three-and-a-half lengths thru the stretch at Churchill Downs after leading most of the mile-and-one-quarter Derby route.

There is a feeling among many experts, however, that the sixteenth of a mile shorter distance of the Preakness and the sharper turns at Pimlico favor a speed horse such as Bally Ache. Bobby Ussery will be his jockey again.

Windfields Farm's Victoria Park, third in the Derby with Manuel Yeaza riding, is being given another shot at the top pair because Trainer Horatio Luro thinks the greasy off-track going in the Derby was to the definite disadvantages of this long-striding colt.

Owners and trainers of other eligibles for the Preakness, which was first run in 1873 two years before the first Derby and is now the richest race in the world for three-year-olds, have been playing coy about their starting prospects.

Certain to add a fresh issue to the Preakness is Chase McCoy's T.V. Lark, a California-bred colt who whipped Venetian Way as a two-year-old, but Francis S., the non-Derby eligible who won the Wood Memorial and other Eastern spring stakes, is not definitely committed as yet.

Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Never Give In and Green Dunes Farm's Celtic Ash, both colts of classic breeding who look to be of championship caliber but only recently have started serious campaigning, loom as certain starters.

Llangollen Farm's Divine Comedy, who finished a disappointing ninth in the Derby after running with the leaders for a mile, will get a chance to redeem himself in the Preakness and will have the help of a stablemate, Command Pilot, for whatever it is worth. The later might try to force Bally Ache into a killing pace.

Colts with outside chances of running in the Preakness include Alfred Vanderbilt's Idolater, Edward Seinfeld's Don Rickles, Peblebrook Farm's Irish Lancer and Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Greek Page. The latter pair would run as an entry for Trainer N. R. McLeod.

Second money in the Preakness is $30,000, third $15,000 and fourth $7,500 which may be cause for some of the longshot starters.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

The beginner at bass fishing sometimes thinks that all he needs to be successful is to discover some great secret which some veteran could impart to him in half a minute, if he would.

The truth is that it doesn't take very long to become a successful bass fisherman, if one goes about it right, using his head. If one doesn't, it would take a shade longer than forever, says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

The first and most important thing you must learn if you're to be a consistently successful bass fisherman is to change lures frequently. With almost all other species, one lure and one method is all you need; if they're feeding you catch some; if they're not, you don't—and that's that. But the man who sticks to one lure and method for bass will catch them only on occasions, sometimes rare, when that method happens to suit their finicky fancy.

So keep changing types of lures (not merely changing one for another of similar type) and methods. Unless the place is about completely fished out (which a larger lake practically never is), you can always make at least a fair catch of bass if you strike on the right method for the time.

Just throwing out and reeling in is about invariably the worst possible way to try to catch bass. A slow, varied retrieve will nearly always catch a lot more.

A surface lure affords the most sport. Occasionally bass will suck such lures down quietly; more often, they'll hit with a good splash for their size—it's these dynamite strikes that really send a quick tingle down the angler's spine.

The best way, as a rule, is to cast the surface lure out and not reel in—that is, not until the ripples sent out by the dropping lure have completely disappeared: and some foxy anglers often wait scarcely said to retrieve, for nung to retrieve. Then, you can eral times this long before beginning all you do is twitch the lure very gently, with long pauses between most twitches (a mechanical monotony should be strictly avoided here as in all other retrieves for bass). You're trying to make the lure resemble some half-drowned or injured creature that is putting up a rather feeble struggle, often having to rest. A bass, of course, will almost never bite any object unless he thinks it's alive—but, smart as he is in ways, he thinks that anything moving even a little, apparently of its own volition, must be alive.

Surface lures are likely to do best just after daylight in the morning and again close to dusk—when bass fishing is at its best anyhow in a great majority of places and times.

A major airline buys as much as 62 million gallons of gasoline each year.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

The Federal Trade Commission has awakened to the fact that there is some hanky panky in the baking business, and has charged two bakers with giving discounts to favored customers.

Huber Baking Company, selling over 4,000 accounts in the states near its home base in Wilmington, Delaware, is charged with giving a few favored chain store accounts discounts of 5%.

The steps taken by Continental Baking Company in the past few years are most interesting, and would seem to explode the oft-held theory that big monopoly type operations have a higher level of ethics, and are operated by a much smarter management group than independent businessmen.

It was not too long ago that Continental was advertising its wonder bread over the radio with the startling story that "if your child has stopped growing, start feeding him Wonder bread and in just eight days he will resume normal growth."

Eventually the FTC stepped in on this, but in the meantime the big baking combine made themselves and their brand ridiculous in the minds of hundreds of thousands of mothers, who just couldn't seem to buy this story that a couple of slices of any bread would start Junior growing like a weed.

Continental also launched with huge sums of advertising a so-called diet bread named Profile. The advertising was based on the premise that bread is fattening. But a slice of Profile had less calories than ordinary white bread, including presumably their own Wonder bread.

Of course, they completely neglected to mention that their Profile bread was sliced much thinner than ordinary bread.

Now, actually, Profile and all the other diet breads haven't created enough volume to make any inroads into the market. But it cannot be said the advertising was not successful.

As a matter of fact it was so successful that the sales of everybody's white bread went into a decline, and has not come back up yet, with the resulting loss to wheat farmers, or rather the taxpayers who make up the wheat support price payments.

So here is a perfect example of the astuteness of huge corporation management.

Now, apparently, according to FTC allegations it would very much appear that this great corporate brain decided the only avenue left open to them to hold up volume was to give special cut prices to the bigger retail outlets.

The Continental Baking story is an interesting one. If anything is ever needed to explode the myth of the higher competence of huge corporation methods over independent businessmen, this story should furnish it. And for this result, hundreds, or perhaps thousands, of good, sound independent bakers were driven out of business. It would perhaps be comical, if it were not so tragical.

"Money" Fish In Susquehanna

Somewhere in the Susquehanna River are 500 tagged fish worth $17,500. Two hundred of these prize fish are worth $50 each and the other 300 bring the lucky anglers $25 apiece. All prize money is being donated by WGAL-TV.

Each of these prize fish is wearing two plastic disks smaller than a dime. Both of the disks are printed to indicate their prize value when turned in at the WGAL-TV studios, Lincoln Highway West, Lancaster, Pa.

On June 15th, a fish worth $8,000 will be released, bringing the total prize value to more than $25,000.

Channel 8 has stocked the Susquehanna from Sunbury to Conowingo, Md., a distance of more than 80 miles. The only rules are those set forth by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission in its licensing.

The tagging method is similar to that used by the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

Farm Bureau Opposes Senate Wheat Bill

The Senate wheat bill goes in a direction opposite to Farm Bureau's recommendations, and Farm Bureau will oppose it in its present form.

Farm Bureau has called for four amendments to the Senate Committee's wheat bill.

C. E. Wise, Jr., Executive Secretary of Maryland Farm Bureau states that "the minimum improvements needed in Senate bill S. 2759 require these amendments:

(1) Set price support at 75 per cent in 1961; 70 per cent, 1962; 65 per cent, 1963. This provides treatment similar to that provided cotton, rice, corn, and other feed grains in the 1958 Act.

(2) Extend the conservation reserve and authorize 60 million acres by 1963.

(3) Reduce the payment-in-kind rate to 33 1/3 per cent of yield as provided in Senator Ellender's original bill.

(4) Delete the loopholing giving discretionary authority to the Secretary of Agriculture to increase allotments for certain kinds of wheat.

"The suggested Farm Bureau program is far superior to the Senate Agriculture Committee's wheat bill," Mr. Wise contends.

NOTICE OF MUNICIPAL CHARTER AMENDMENTS FOR THE BURGESS AND COMMISSIONERS OF EMMITSBURG

Pursuant to the Charter Amendment Resolution No. 3, passed by the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg on May 4, 1960, the following is published as a fair summary of the proposed amendments.

The proposed amendments make an entirely new charter for the municipality and changes the name of THE TOWN OF EMMITSBURG. The limit of $10,000 on property which the Town may own has been removed. Boundaries are not changed. Property qualifications for Commissioners for Commissioners are required and for the Burgess are raised, both set at $1,000 and technical changes are made in old section 153 and other sections of the Charter. The old Charter is Sections 161 to 184, inclusive, of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland—1930 Edition. Voting by machine is allowed in addition to voting by ballot. Many obsolete provisions and sections which have not been followed have been omitted. Sections 157, 158, 165, 166, 167, 173, 174, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 182 and Chapter 188 of the Laws of the General Assembly of 1939 have all been included although the wording and organization or placement of these sections have been changed. The Board of Commissioners have retained all of their specific powers and their general powers have been expressed in more general terms, thus broadening their overall powers. The Commissioners are allowed to meet as they decide; limitations on their taxing power have been eliminated; provisions regarding the constable, town treasurer and tax collector have been expressed in more general terms and financial information and requirements have been amplified and made more specific and detailed. Tax collection powers have been changed to agree with modern state law; the borrowing power has been enlarged and generalized; the town is enabled to codify its ordinances and the entire charter has been reorganized under a modern-type charter so that specific provisions may be more easily found. The NEW CHARTER shall become effective on July 4, 1960, unless a proper Petition for a Referendum thereon shall be filed as provided by Section 13 of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, and provided that the other provisions of Article 23 A of said Code applying in such cases are all followed.

This summary is published by authority of Clarence G. Frailey, Burgess, Edward D. Stom, Attorney. 5/6/60

Vaccination Of Swine Urged

Maryland farmers today were urged to adopt "vigorous preventive" measures to prevent a repetition of last year's outbreak of hog cholera in the State.

The Maryland State Veterinary Medical Association conservatively estimated that more than 600 hogs were struck with the disease in 1959 and said hog cholera appears to be on the increase. Known as the country's worst swine killer, the annual national loss to farmers is estimated at $50,000,000.

Hog cholera is highly infectious and the death rate is extremely high. Those few animals that do recover are usually stunted.

The veterinarians, declaring there is much confusion among farmers as to how hogs behave when they are coming down with cholera, describe it as a "tricky" disease that may behave somewhat differently on different farms.

The owner should be on the watch for "slow pigs" with indifferent appetites. As the disease progresses, they resent being disturbed and when on their feet they may walk with a staggering, weaving gait. Other signs include prostration and stuck eyelids, muscular twitching, convulsions and an occasional cough.

There is no cure for cholera, the veterinarians report. The only way to cope with the disease is to adopt vigorous preventive measures before an outbreak occurs.

Research has shown that veterinary vaccination of all pigs when they are two-to-four months old usually gives excellent control of cholera.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry University of Wisconsin

Salt Vital In Milk Production

Some months ago I listed the striking behavior of cows that had been deprived of salt in the pioneer salt requirement test by Dr. S. M. Babcock soon after the turn of the century. Even though the test cows were more or less average producers they reacted drastically to a salt deficiency in their rations.

Now, nearly fifty years later, S. E. Smith and associates at Cornell University have conducted a similar salt-withholding test but with distinctly above-average cows. We might expect these cows, capable of producing 14,000 pounds of milk annually, to show even more severe symptoms of salt deficiency than the "average" cows tested by Doctor Babcock. Let us read what the experimenters themselves have to say: "These cows fed no supplemental salt quickly showed a craving for salt. Within two weeks they made marked efforts to get salt when teased with block salt. They progressed to the point of depraved appetites in which urine, feces, dirt and other abnormal objects were licked or consumed, apparently in an attempt to get needed salt. About the eighth month serious symptoms developed. At this time appetites began to fail along with a precipitous decline in body weight as well as milk production. "Cow 90 became so deficient that she was unable to stand, had a body temperature of 96° F., marked abnormality of heart beat and a complete appetite failure for both feed and water. The attending veterinarian gave the opinion that death was probable in a few hours. A quarter-pound of salt was presented to the cow and she consumed this avidly at about 4 p.m. At 5 a.m. she was up, looked bright, consumed feed and water and went on to an uncomplicated recovery."

"This surely is abundant proof that salt is doubly necessary for animals that are bred for, and capable of, high performance. Such animals should have one per cent salt in their grain ration along with free-choice salt available at all times.

Question: Are cattle on spring pasture more apt to suffer from "grass staggers" than later on, and can anything be done to prevent it or cure it?

Answer: "Grass staggers," also called "grass tetany" and "wheat poisoning," depending on the nature of the pasture, occurs in many parts of the country, or the world for that matter. It suggests an imbalance of minerals in much of the lush green pasture, especially in reference to an excess of calcium, which causes available magnesium to be less well assimilated. A drench of magnesium sulfate (Epsom Salts) is usually a successful treatment. It should be noted that cows on such succulent pasture crave more salt than they do later on. It is wise to humor them in this respect and to be sure they have free access to salt at all times.

Busy mother of three finds telephone gives 21 extra hours in two weeks...saves $17³⁸ and 200 miles of traveling

Mrs. Duden uses her phone to find out if a local fabric store has some material she needs.

Mrs. H. Richard Duden of Annapolis recently kept a two-week record of all her family's telephone calls. For each call she also estimated any expense, time and traveling that were saved by being able to telephone.

At the end of two weeks, her tally showed that the telephone had given them almost a full day of extra time, and had saved far more in traveling expenses than the cost of their telephone service.

Whether it was a call to summon a washer repairman or rounding up the youngsters, the phone made busy days easier.

Mrs. Duden found, too, that some calls provide pleasure and peace of mind that can't be measured in time or money saved. For instance, her husband who is an insurance representative and football coach, had to make a business trip to Florida. His Long Distance call to the family went into a "special" category of her telephone diary.

Perhaps you might like to keep a diary to see what your telephone does. We think you'd find, too, that your telephone saves much more in time, trouble and expense — than the cost of having it.

Looking Ahead

...by Dr. George S. Benson
 DIRECTOR - NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
 Searcy, Arkansas

Let's Join The Battle
 James Burnham, outstanding geo-political historian has written a short but powerful challenge to the people of the United States. It appears in The Champion Paper and Fiber Company's dramatic publication entitled "VIEW 1—The War We Are In." In it, Mr. Burnham says:

 "In half a century, the Communist enterprise has conquered a third of the earth's surface outright, paralyzed another third, and brought the remainder under siege. What is now at issue for the United States is not merely a new 'division of world power.' It is 'survival.'
 He says that America's best hope for survival would be to lead a Free World offensive for the liberation of all the people who do not wish to live under Communism and to break up and destroy the Communist International conspiracy. It would not necessarily require, he believes, military force. But it would require willingness and readiness to fight and the statement of a policy of exterminating the Communist International apparatus—if the Soviets themselves refused to liquidate

 it. It would require the waging of a "protracted war," turning against them some of the weapons which the Communists have developed and so successfully used—propaganda, infiltration, diplomatic warfare, psychological warfare, economic warfare, and so forth.
 "Containment" And
 "Co-Existence" Failed
 "Since the Cold War began in 1946," Mr. Burnham notes, "our policy has in fact been guided by a strategy of Containment, tempered by ideas of Co-existence. We have sometimes slipped into Appeasement and occasionally talked about Liberation. But under both President Truman and President Eisenhower the main line of American strategic policy has been Containment. . .
 "In these years of Containment, the Communists conquered mainland China, Tibet and North Vietnam; paralyzed India and Indonesia; broke into the Middle East; thrust powerful advance forces into Africa and the Caribbean."
 One Sided Fight
 "The rules of Containment are defensive," says Mr. Burnham:
 "To try to protect the Free World, but not to intervene in the Communist zone. Therefore the best we can do in each round of the struggle is to come out even. Since we cannot win our draw in every round, the Communists—who do not accept the rule of noninterven-tion—gradually pile up a lead that will some day be too wide to overcome. In the long run the strategy of Containment can lead only to defeat by stages."
 We cannot defend ourselves and the Free World unless we can extend the zone of freedom, he says. "We cannot counter the continuous attack of the enemy inside our zone unless we find ways to engage him inside his own."
 Act With Strength
 "Diplomatic, psychological and economic measures are all required," he says. "But military measures, direct and indirect, are also necessary. In the crucial areas especially, it is essential to have various kinds of military power—our own or that of auxiliaries and allies—ready to defend a friendly regime, and to prevent or liquidate a Communist takeover!"

He advocates the sponsorship by America of a Legion of Liberty, "made up of anti-Comm-nist volunteers from all nations, but particularly from the nations now captive within the Communist zone. The Legion of Liberty — attached formally to NATO, or to the United States or some other sponsoring national army—would function as a permanent mobile reserve for intervention into armed operations of the protracted conflict, wherever these might break out.
 By its very existence, the Legion of Liberty would become a political rallying point for the liberation sentiment of the captive peoples."

Mr. Burnham's ideas and proposals are drastic ones. But certainly they deserve the most serious consideration of our national leaders and every citizen.

Obviously, Communism continues to gobble up nations.
 However, we are swiftly gaining in understanding, in the number of informal and dedicated citizens at work, in the open discussion of the gravity of our most urgent problems.
 We can and should win. As Mr.
 Burnham says: "Freedom will win, if by correct strategy and firm resolve freedom is given a chance to win." We can't win by doing nothing.

and director of the Armagh Observatory in Northern Ireland.

In the study of meteors and their fiery trace through the earth's atmosphere, Dr. Opik is a pioneer. On the basis of research performed in the early 1920's, he worked out a theory for the interaction of high-speed bodies with the upper atmosphere.
 Opik's investigations were fundamental to an understanding of the ablation phenomenon — the peeling back of a meteor's surface as it vaporizes from the heat of atmospheric friction.

Since the nose cone of a rocket plunging back into the earth's atmosphere encounters the same destructive heat, Opik's original principles and observations were of incalculable value to the designers of space vehicles in their successful search for solutions to the re-entry problem.

Dr. Opik's meteor studies have also contributed to a better understanding of comets and asteroids.
 A colleague noted, "Dr. Opik has certainly contributed the greatest amount of ingenuity and originality to the problem of any one living."

In addition, Dr. Opik has made noteworthy contributions to other fields of astronomy and geophysics, among them studies of the planetary atmospheres of Mars, Venus and Jupiter, from which he has drawn conclusions about their surface properties.

Born on October 23, 1893, in Port Kunda, Estonia, Dr. Opik studied astrophysics at Moscow Imperial University, graduating with First Honors in 1916.

Dr. Opik is presently teaching astrophysics and geophysics at the University of Maryland, where once before, in 1956-57 he was a visiting resident professor.

Petra, the Rose-Red City...

Sunlight reflecting from the rose-colored stone, from which this Treasury of the Pharaoh is carved, gave Petra the name "rose-red" city.

Archaeologists from all over the world live in tent cities while working to reconstruct Petra as it was in the days of the Edomites.

One of the major monumental sites of the Arab world, Petra, the rose-red city half as old as time, lies deep within the Jordanian desert some 95 miles south of Jerusalem.

The gateway to Petra is the little village of El Ji where people still toil in fields terraced with walls which date back to the 1st century B.C. The "gate" to Petra, a tremendous cleft in the face of El Habis mountain, is thought to have been made when Moses brought forth water from the stones.

Petra was settled by stone cutters who carved huge, fantastic dwellings and temples into the solid face of the mountain cliffs. One of the most ornate of these was the Pharaoh's treasury building. It is the reflection of the sun off the rose colored rock out of which this building was carved that probably causes the soft red glow which gives the city its title.

The ancient city was in its heyday sometime in the 8th or 9th century B.C. In the days of the Edomites, Petra was largely a place of refuge and the "Rock" mentioned in the Bible probably refers to the huge crag known today as Umm el-Biyara. It was here that Amaziah came and defeated his southern-most neighbors sometime in the 8th century B.C.

In recent years efforts have been made to resurrect the community of the ancient Edomites in order to learn more about this important civilization. The Jordanian Department of Antiquities began preservation operations in the area in 1954. The next summer a small party from the American School of Oriental Research conducted individual projects on the site.

From various projects conducted in the area came the Anglo-American expedition which took place last summer. Out of the work of this expedition, long-range plans have been set up for the complete restoration and rebuilding of Petra.

If this dream is realized, students, sightseers, and scholars will eventually be able to walk along the Roman Street of Petra and see the markets, shops, temples, and public buildings rising again from the sand in the full majesty that was theirs at the height of the splendor of the rose-red city half as old as time.

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Romans 12:1-8. Having gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us use them. (Romans 12:6, RSV.)

Ready to embark on his life work, a young man asked himself: "Shall I devote my life to a church-related occupation, or shall I seek a career in business?" He loved the church and had been active in its program. He also had qualifications for a successful business career. The conflict of indecision raged within him for many weeks.

One day he went alone to the mountains to pray and ask for guidance. The answer came, as clearly as if the words had been audibly spoken, "Go into the business for which you are fitted. The coming of God's kingdom depends as much upon true Christian laymen as upon preachers, teachers, and other workers in the church." He followed this guidance, and throughout his life there was never a question but that it was God's leading.

He believed that a Christian should put into his work just a little more than is expected. He faithfully continued his church activity and became a leader.

Prayer
Our Father, help us to place our lives in Thy hands and to follow Thy leading wherever it may take us. Help us to show by our everyday living that we are doing our best to follow the teachings Thou hast given us through Thy son. In His name we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day
The coming of God's kingdom depends upon consecrated persons, both ministers and laymen.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses The Possibility Of World War III

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 19—In view of the recent shooting down of one of our spies, there is revived interest in the possibility of World War III. I therefore am repeating in this column the first four paragraphs of my Outlook for 1960. My Reference To Russia Four Months Ago

1. Naturally, as I am just back from Moscow and Berlin, my first thoughts are what will happen to Berlin in 1960. My answer is definitely, "NOTHING WILL HAPPEN." Mr. K will make no more ultimatums; President Eisenhower will continue his peace talks. Therefore the Berlin situation will be just the same in 1960 and 1961 as it is today.

2. There will be no World War started between Russia and the United States in 1960. This does not mean that such a war will not come within 10 years; but just now neither country is ready for it. I am convinced of this after my recent visit to Moscow.

3. Airplane warfare with the dropping of bombs is a thing of the past. We are turning to rocket with pinpoint precision. Our expensive air bases may gradually be vacated.

4. Moscow is Mr. K's "pride and joy." It is a beautiful city with broad streets and thousands of new apartment houses. Mr. K does not want it destroyed. Furthermore, he wants a reduction in armaments so that he will have money to raise the standard of living in Russia. I forecast he will have to do this in order to hold his power.

Effect Upon The Next Few Months
I am very sorry about the unfortunate shooting down of our spy. In addition to the apparent "lying" in Washington about our policy upon its first announcement, it should be recognized that this airplane was about ten miles above the earth when the shooting took place. This demonstrates how high fighting can occur and also the possible aim and speed of the missile which Russia used to shoot down our plane. The successful use of the parachute from such heights also is demonstrated.

Although the event, from a propaganda point of view, is important to the Russians, yet it does not delay or hasten World War III, in my humble judgment. It seems foolish to delay the Summit Meeting, although it may prevent its accomplishing as much as it otherwise would have.

Let's Not Forget China
As I said in Paragraph 9 of my 1960 Outlook, . . . the Russians are afraid of China." Over the long pull, China is no more friendly to the Russians than she is to the United States, but she is playing one against the other. Russia feels that the Chinese would walk into Russia's "back door" if Russia should attempt a shooting war on the West. Thus, it is very important that we review our relations with China.

This Chinese situation is the reason I am anxious to visit China this year; but whether I will get a visa from our State Department is very uncertain. There is no trouble in getting to Hong Kong, as I am in immediate correspondence with Hong Kong by air mail. The postmaster in Hong Kong tells me that any mail addressed to Peiping he forwards to Canton. As to what happens to it after that, he does not know.

Effect Upon Our Election In November

Surely the events of the past week will not help the Republicans, or the election of Nixon. How they will affect the Democrats, the next thirty days will probably determine. My present hunch is that the situation will help Symington, Johnson, or one of the others familiar with the defense situation. Mr. Kennedy has not specialized in foreign affairs or defense.

Of course, the event may cause a decline in European travel this summer and it cannot be helpful to business. It will make people think more about the possibility of World War III and the serious fallout which may accompany it. On the other hand, companies actively engaged in defense work should be assured continued employment. Defense expenditures, however, will be directed to missiles and rockets, as I have said many times before in my column, rather than to airplanes.

Investors Will Review Their Holdings

Certainly readers should review their stocks and bonds at this time. I feel that as yet readers have not taken the possibility of World War III seriously. Recent events, however, should cause careful investors to make important switches in their holdings. Investors will seek the stocks of companies

Acreege Limitation Requires Study

Farmers who have placed part of their cropland in the Conservation Reserve have an important crop acreage limitation to consider before completing their planting this spring, according to William L. Dudley, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. That limitation is the acreage of Soil Bank base crops that may be planted on the farm. In general, the Soil Bank base crops include the grains, new crops, and oilseed crops.

When part of the cropland on a farm is placed under a Conservation Reserve contract there is a permitted Soil Bank base acreage established for the farm. The permitted acreage then becomes the maximum acreage for Soil Bank base crops that may be grown under the contract. On farms where all the cropland has been placed in the program, the permitted acreage of crops for harvest is zero.

In addition to the limitation of acreage devoted to crop production, the contract also provides that the cropland retired into the Conservation Reserve must not be grazed nor a crop harvested from it, nor can non-cropland be brought into crop use.

Driver Registration Continues In State

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell, wants to remind drivers whose last names begin with "P," "Q," "R," and "S," that if they have not re-registered their operators' licenses, they should do so immediately, as their pres-which have their assets well distributed over the United States, in place of those concentrated in large cities. This is a matter which should be taken up immediately with your investment counselor.

We will hear more about Civil Defense, bomb shelters, and protection against fallout. Certain real estate in large cities should decline in value. But land in small cities and towns in interior states should be in greater demand.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

EVERY WHIT WHOLE

A man stood silently on one of the hills of Judea. Standing below and gathered around him was a large group of people. They had come from all walks of life—the rich, the desperately poor, the elite and the lowest dregs of human society. This strange assortment of humanity was drawn together by a common bond, a terrible and desperate need.

The man stood quietly, tall and straight, clean and strong, towering above the throng that jostled about him. As he looked about, his gentle eyes took in the panorama below.

A child, weak, wasted, emaciated, was held by its father while its tearful mother stood close by. An old, crippled, white-haired man muttered meaninglessly to himself while his grandson tried unceasingly to quiet him. Some of the people had been in deep sin; some were criminals. Young wives were there whose husbands had become wild and wicked in their ways.

All kinds of people were gathered around the man. Some were cynical and hard; some were proud and doubting; some believed and respected him—but all were desperate in their misery.

The man said to himself as he looked, "These people don't have what I have; they are sick, filled with mental stress, frustration and fear; they are burdened down with sin; they need a touch from God." And the Bible says that as Christ saw the multitude's need, he was moved with compassion and he healed them.

I can see him as, suddenly, he strides purposely down the mountain to the child and says, "The Lord doth make thee whole."

Then he turns to the old man, who is still muttering to himself as he waits for the touch of the Master's hand. "Sir, thy faith hath made thee whole."

Soon the entire multitude is rejoicing as the old man throws away his crutches and begins hopping and leaping away. Mothers and fathers clasp each other in their arms and give glory to God. Christ has made them "every whit whole."

Jesus Christ is standing today over the battlements of heaven looking down into this narrow valley of the earth and sees you and me. He sees through us and sees the need for strength, health and spiritual life in us.

Standing there he says, "They don't have what I have." And he is moved with compassion. He strides among us today reaching out his hand to heal, to give health, speaking with a triumphant voice of abundant life and eternal life saying, "Be in health; be made every whit whole."

All About Dogs

Canine Cabinet

As the presidents of the United States have all depended upon their cabinets for advice . . . so have they depended upon their dogs for companionship.

Our first president, who was first in peace, was also the first White House dog fancier. According to early records, studied by Clarence C. Fawcett of the Purina Dog Care Center, George Washington was fond of the hunt and kept a large pack of hunting dogs. He was noted for giving his dogs highly imaginative names. Sweetlips, Tippler, Taster and Mopsey were a few of the pack that led Washington across the fields of the "Old Dominion."

Abraham Lincoln loved dogs so well that he risked his life to save a dog marooned by a raging mountain flood. On another occasion he found an injured dog in the woods and nursed it back to health. His love for dogs was immortalized by a statue of him standing in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Theodore Roosevelt, who led his band of Rough Riders over the San Juan Hill, was as tender as any of his Presidential predecessors when it came to pets. In addition to a pack of dogs, he kept everything from kangaroos to lizards. His favorite dog, Skip, was a loveable canine of somewhat doubtful ancestry.

The most recent four-footed inhabitant of the nation's number one dog house is a beautiful, sad-eyed Weimaraner named Heidi—the favorite of President Eisenhower.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible And He said unto them, Where is your faith? (St. Luke 8:25) As Jesus Christ inquired of His disciples, so does He inquire of each of us this very day: 'Where is your faith?' Without that faith, nothing is possible to us except frustration, unhappiness; with it, all good things are possible-for truly Faith is the Answer.

Camp David To Expand

The Federal Government is condemning 10 acres of land between the Catoctin Recreation Area and the Foxville-Deerfield Road, including part of the county road right of way, for an addition to Camp David, the County Commissioners were informed during their regular weekly meeting this week in Frederick.

The U. S. Government will pay "Just compensation" for this land, reported to be at a price of $4,000 for the 10 acres of mountain land, County Attorney Goodloe E. Byron informed the commissioners. The property belongs to Charles and Ethel Marker of Lantz.

The ingredients were supplied by Comstock Foods, whose canned pie-sliced apples, along with prepared mixes, make baking so simple that—even a child can do it.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Private Industry Carries the Ball

The average life span of Americans is getting longer and longer. Back in 1940 the life expectancy of a newborn infant in the United States was 63 years. Today it is close to 70 years. In the past 20 years we improved life expectancy as much as in the previous 90 years.

Why are many of us living so much longer than our grandparents? Probably because more of us are better fed, better clothed, better housed and—most important—better medicated.

Certainly, the tremendous victories won in the war against disease can be credited to the great advances medical science has made in the past few years. And some of the biggest guns in that battle have been the antibiotics—the wonder drugs.

Recent discoveries have provided our doctors with a disease-fighting arsenal of marvelous power and efficiency. Indeed, about three-fourths of all prescriptions written today call for drugs that were unknown a decade ago.

Millions of Americans are alive today because modern drugs were available to rescue them from the deadly clutches of pneumonia, tuberculosis, influenza and other killers. Antibiotics have saved thousands of mothers who once would have died in childbirth. And thousands of babies who would have succumbed before their first birthday are growing up well and strong because the new antibiotics got them through their infection-ridden first year.

American private industry has taken a significant part in the fight for health. In 1958, for example, our pharmaceutical companies spent $170,000,000 in research. In 1959, they upped that figure to $190,000,000. That's close to five times the total spent on all medical research in 1940 by industry, government, universities, hospitals and foundations.

Almost all of the important antibiotics produced commercially in the United States since World War II were discovered and developed through private industry. They include all the "broad-spectrum" antibiotics, those that are effective against a wide variety of diseases. U. S. pharmaceutical firms not only spend millions in a continuous search for new discoveries, they also have accepted a self-imposed obligation to help our medical schools train physicians and conduct research.

In 1958 alone, the pharmaceutical industry allocated more than $20,500,000 in grants to medical schools throughout the nation. In addition, the Drug and Pharmaceutical Division since 1953 has contributed more than $1,250,000 in cash to the National Fund for Medical Education.

Perhaps the most wonderful discovery of all—a drug that can lick cancer—may come out of a recently organized nationwide effort. Richly experienced in finding useful new drugs amidst a multitude of compounds, the most important pharmaceutical firms are now playing a major role in the National Cancer Chemotherapy Screening Program. They are helping to sift through 40,000 chemicals a year in a magnificent joint endeavor to find new ways to attack cancer.
