The local Presbyterian Church will soon celebrate 200 years of proud history in this locality. Preparations for the observance of the bicentennial of the church, established here in 1760, are being made and a commemorative ceremony is planned for August 26-28. Advancing from a crude structure originally erected in 1760, the present edifice is a tribute to a proud congregation and its determination to carry on its noble and justifiable tradition. The parish maintains one of the most well-kept cemeteries in the community, despite the smallness of its congregation, numbering about 70. The founder of Emmitsburg, Samuel Emmit, lies buried in the neatly-kept cemetery just north of town. Parishioners and friends of other religious denominations will have an opportunity to meet a number of former pastors of the church at the services and a cordial invitation to all to attend the commemorative services is extended.

Some 30 people were given the thrill of a lifetime this week when the well-known "incline" in Pittsburgh, sheared off a wheel and became lodged on the middle of the mountain-side for two hours. Anyone familiar with the world-famous inclines which operate in that city can appreciate the predicament the occupants of the car were in during those hair-raising two hours. The inclines are used to shuttle people over the steep hills in some localities of Pittsburgh, some of them several thousand feet in length.

The Pennsylvania State Commission seems to be doing the fair and sensible thing by inviting property-owners and businessmen who will be affected when the new bypass of Gettysburg is made in the next two years. Several meetings have been held at which these people were invited to express their views. Naturally quite a few would be severely affected in business by the bypass and other privately-owned homes would possibly be ruined but at least they had a chance to air their complaints before a final decision is to be made. Present plans call for the bypassing of Gettysburg to the east side and to continue to the Maryland State line sometime before 1963. Maryland also has pledged to connect with the new road by that time and this road would bypass Emmitsburg to the east also. It is the intention of the two states to have the project completed so that traffic can use it in time for the centennial celebration of the Battle of Gettysburg which will be held in 1963.

The influx of city people buying mountain land here continues at an unabated pace as each month shows several more tracts changing hands. I have maintained all along that Emmitsburgians were "missing the boat" by not developing this land for resort purposes but apparently money is lacking here for such an enterprise. I will venture to say that within a very few short years the entire mountainous section here will be developed and some lucky people will be the beneficiaries of such an enterprise. Rumor has it that a large motel will locate just south of Emmitsburg in the near future. The enterprise will contain a service station, swimming pool, etc. and will cost in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars. This enterprise should bring more tax money and employment to both Frederick County and Emmitsburg. It most certainly will be a welcome asset to this community.

Car Wash Held

Considering the conditions under which the affair was held, the announced car wash last Saturday by the Emmitsburg Jaycees, was a success. Despite the abbreviated time the Jaycee members washed 23 cars at $1 each. The event was scheduled to start at 8 a. m. but rainfall caused postponement until 1:00 o'clock that afternoon. David Glass was chairman of the affair, and expresses his appreciation to those who had their cars washed.

Electric Rates To Be Revised Downward

D. E. Stultz, president of The Potomac Edison Co., this week announced his company has filed revised rate schedules with the Public Service Commission of Maryland which will result in reducing the cost of electricity to the company's customers by approximately $342,000 annually and will also make a new special low rate available to users of electricity for house heating purposes. The formal filing of the new rates follows a series of conferences with the Maryland Public Service Commission and its staff and provides that the new rates shall apply to all meter readings on and after September 1st of this year. In addition to resulting in moderate reductions in the cost of the individual customer's electric service, the proposed schedules considerably simplify the company's present rate structure by reducing the number of basic residential rates from five to two.

In commenting on the changes, Mr. Stultz pointed out that while the effect of the proposed reduction will be modest in so far as the individual customer's bill is concerned, it is a development that is completely contrary to the general trend of costs today. He stated that it has been made possible only by the greatly increased use of electricity, particularly in the residential field, and by the installation and use of more efficient, more productive and more completely automated equipment in the company's generating plants. As a result it has been possible to hold down production costs even in the face of steadily rising costs for labor and materials. Much of the future growth in the residential use of electricity is expected to come from the rapidly increasing acceptance of electricity as the modern and most desirable means of heating homes. It is to develop, encourage and expand this market that the new special low rate for house heating has been filed. This rate will make substantial savings possible for the "all electric home" owner.

French Teachers Workshop To Be Held By College

Sister Margaret Flinton, Doctorate de l'Universite, Professor of French and Chairman of the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures, Saint Joseph College, Emmitsburg, will conduct a workshop on the Teaching of French in the Junior and Senior High Schools at Marie Joseph Academy, Bliddeford, Me., from August 17-19.

Sponsored by Rivier College, Nashua, New Hampshire, the theme of the workshop will be Tradition and Innovation. Sister Claire de la Croix, M.A., and Sister Marie du Laus, M.A., faculty members at Rivier College, will assist with the program.

Morning and afternoon sessions will include, among others, such topics as a brief sketch of the history of foreign language teaching in America, standards for the French lesson, lesson plans illustrating various methods, the use of audio-visual aids, the cultural aspects of language learning, and parallels between art and literature. A demonstration of the Language Laboratory will be given by a representative of Magnetic Recording Industries.

Rivier College will grant academic credit upon completion of the prescribed conditions.

Jaycee Barbecue Sunday

Emmitsburgians and their friends will have the opportunity to enjoy barbecued chicken this Sunday afternoon when the Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsors its first annual chicken barbecue, Patrick Boyle chairman, announces. The general public is cordially invited to attend the affair, admission being $1.50 per person. The barbecue will be held on the Carnival Grounds adjacent Community Field. In addition to the chicken a number of other delicacies will be offered.

License Issued

A marriage license was issued this week in Frederick to Clay Lamar Green and Ann Marie Kelly, both of Emmitsburg.

Novena Scheduled At Local Grotto

Novena devotions in honor of the feast of the Assumption, an annual tradition, will be held at the Grotto of the Blessed Virgin, Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, from August 7-15 inclusive, at 7 p. m.

Rt. Rev. George Mulcahy, rector of the seminary, and Rev. Hugh Phillips, college chaplain and director of the grotto, will conduct the services which will include novena prayers, congregational singing, a short three minute talk, and benediction.

The grotto, the oldest Lourdes replica in the United States, dates back to the founding of the college in 1808. It has been completely renewed and recently copper Stations of the Cross have been erected along the avenue leading to the shrine. The figures, made in Austria, are life size and set in stone receptacles.

A life size statue of the Blessed Virgin, a copy of the model in the Esplanade at Lourdes, has been erected also.

Utility Issues Safety Warning

A seasonal warning was issued today by Mr. J. W. Morgan, manager for the Potomac Edison Co. in this area, who asked all local residents to "be extra cautious with outside work which involves metal equipment."

The utility company manager said that extreme care should be taken that metal equipment stays far away from all electric wires. "Far too many persons are injured," he said, "while installing TV aerials, flying kites and model planes, using metal ladders, or operating spraying machines, wire diggers, cranes and other equipment. "These injuries," he stated, "could be eliminated if only people would remember that electricity is just as safe as the person using it."

In commenting on this, the utility spokesman said that the basic rule to remember is: "Do not take the slightest chance of metal coming in contact with any wire."

He also suggested that in aerial installations, care should be taken that aerials be placed where they will clear all power lines in case they are blown over or accidentally fall. Equal care, he said, should be taken with aerial guy-wires and lead-ins.

A special warning was given by the company official to those who operate equipment in orchards or anywhere that electric wires may be hidden or obscured by trees. "In areas of dense foliage, you must take every precaution that metal does not come in contact with wires which may be hidden from view on the ground," he warned.

Little League Picnic Thursday

All members of Emmitsburg's Little League teams are invited to attend a picnic to be held next Thursday, Aug. 11 at 6 p. m. at Kump's Dam.

Action will continue in the Emmitsburg Little League Tuesday night when the Cards are paired against the Yankees. The game will be played on the local Little League Diamond and will commence at 6:15, it has been announced.

The Cardinals, still alive in Little League play, moved into first place with a 23-2 win over the Yankees Tuesday evening. While the Red Sox, their schedule complete, stand by with a 8-4 record, the Cards need wins over the Yanks and Giants to clinch the flag. A split would tie them with the Red Sox and force them with a playoff. Johnny Sherwin gave up two runs in the first inning Tuesday, then muffed the Yankee hitters the rest of the way to win easily as the Yankees could never find the handle on the ball.

Yanks Blast Giants

Billy Weidner coasted to a 24-9 victory in Emmitsburg Little League play last Thursday as the Yankees continued their unbeaten skid over the Giants. Weidner also walloped a grand slam homer to ice the game.

Financier Bernard Baruch got 25 cents a week allowance while a student in College of the City of New York; 10 cents extra for carfare in bad weather.

Local Presbyterian Church Planning Observance Of 200th Anniversary Soon

The members of the Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church are busy working on the program for the observance of its 200th birthday. Memorial plates have been made and are available to those who would like to have one and an interesting booklet containing the history of the church has been published.

The public is cordially invited to attend the bicentennial activities which are as follows: On August 26, the Rev. William M. Hendricks, pastor, will offer greetings at the Friday evening anniversary service which will also feature comments by guest ministers and a history of the church by the Rev. John Ross Hays, a son of the Emmitsburg Church. A social hour will follow.

The bicentennial worship service will be held August 28 with the Rev. George P. Kerr, D.D., associate secretary of the department of Town and Country of the Board of National Missions, delivering the sermon.

The history of the Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church dates back to pre-Revolutionary War days. During the period of the French and Indian War, some villagers organized a congregation.

The minutes of the Presbytery of Donegal show that the Rev. Robert McMordie was appointed to supply at 'Monakasy' on the second sabbath of September 1760. The date of the original formal church building is not known but the original name was Toms Creek Church, and the building was located one mile north of Emmitsburg along the Gettysburg Road. The Presbyterian cemetery is still located there, and Samuel Emmit, the founder of the town, is buried there.

In 1839 the entire church building removed to Emmitsburg to occupy the property where the Presbyterian Church now stands. In April, 1867, the session of Toms Creek applied to the Presbytery for a change of name and the name was changed to Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church.

In 1879, the entire church building was razed and a new church was built in its place. This building continued in use until August 28, 1902, when it was struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

The members of the church in the early part of this century built a beautiful Gothic-style edifice with lovely stained-glass windows and high vaulted ceilings. Except for some remodeling in 1960, this is the present Presbyterian Church.

Morgan Horse Show August 19 & 20

Arrangements for the 5th Annual Mid-Atlantic Morgan Horse Show are in the final stages, it was announced by Bob Tichnell, general chairman.

This unique show is to be held at the Frederick Fair Grounds on August 19 and 20. Attracting entries from the entire area east of the Mississippi, this year has gained in prestige each year. It presently is recognized as one of the outstanding horse shows in the entire United States.

Four performances are planned. A show will be held Friday night, August 19 and Saturday morning, afternoon and evening, Aug. 20. With over 40 classes of entry, the horses will be judged for performance, quality, manners, and suitability. The judging is so arranged that all areas of horse showmanship is covered. This creates a wide audience interest. Twenty-one of these classes are sponsored locally and trophies and six ribbons will be awarded in each class.

Under the sponsorship of the Frederick Junior Chamber of Commerce, all profits will be used for their Community Project Fund. The Jaycees feel that this show not only attracts national attention to Frederick, but also affords local citizens the opportunity of seeing an activity that usually is reserved for large metropolitan areas.

Consolidation School Plans Dropped

Emmitsburg High School will remain intact indefinitely it was decided Wednesday at a meeting of the Frederick County Board of Education held in Frederick.

Plans for a consolidated school in the Thurmont area were abandoned on a motion by board member Norman W. Etzler. Original plans called for the purchase of a number of acres of ground situated near Royer's Restaurant on the outskirts of Thurmont, where a consolidated school to accommodate pupils from Emmitsburg and Thurmont schools was to be constructed.

Considerable opposition to the plan developed by citizens and taxpayers of both Emmitsburg and Thurmont and Wednesday it was decided by the Board of Education to shelve the plans for the time being. It is the feeling of most people in this area that a new consolidated school should be located near Payne's Hill, about half way between the two towns, should it become necessary to increase student accommodations in both schools. Supporting the contention that it wasn't feasible at this time to build in the Thurmont area were the Frederick County Commissioners who stated they could not go along with the plan and therefore there would be no available finances for such a project.

In spite of the opening of two new schools in the county this fall at Walkersville and Urbana, the shortage of classroom facilities was in evidence Wednesday as members of the Board of Education asked for more exploratory work in locating a suitable site for a new Frederick High School and approved a shuttle-service plan which will affect some 150 or 175 students who would normally attend West Frederick Junior High School.

The board discussed several locations on the northern part of the city as the possible site for a new high school which will be needed within the next four or five years, according to Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, Superintendent of Frederick County Schools.

Several members of the board asked for more exploration of other possible sites.

Acting on the problem at hand of what to do with the overflow of students at West Frederick Junior High School this year, the board approved a shuttle-service plan whereby some 150 or 175 seventh grade students who would normally attend this school will be taught in the old Urbana elementary school which is being vacated with the opening of the new school at Urbana.

Under the plans of the shuttle-service schedule, five sections of students each with about 35 students will be transported daily to and from the Urbana school from the West Frederick school location.

Even though the school day for these students will be somewhat shorter than for other students in the county, it was felt by the board members that this plan would be more suitable than renting space at local churches or at the armory.

It was added that some of the students from the south end of the county who would normally pass by the old Urbana school will not have to ride all the way to Frederick and then board another bus and go back to the school but rather can leave the bus at Urbana.

Dr. Sensenbaugh added that there would probably be some cafeteria service at the Urbana location, however, he doubted whether the students could have hot lunches. It was reported that most of the equipment has been removed from the school.

It was added that there will be no separate principal for the school but will be under the direction of a senior teacher who will be in charge who will in turn be under the direction of the principal of West Frederick Junior High School.

Dr. Sensenbaugh added that it was estimated that three buses would be needed to transport the students to and from the location.

Now Comes Miniaturization!

The Space-Age man dreams big but thinks small. He has to because the mathematics of space are brutal. It takes 16 pounds of missile to provide enough thrust and velocity to fire one-pound of instrument weight into orbit. The designer who lightens a component by 125 pounds cuts over-all weight by about one ton. How does he save weight? By making things smaller—and by making them better. The business of getting more and more for less and less is known as miniaturization. Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, says that miniature ball bearings that were installed in the Score satellite were less than three-eighths of an inch in diameter and were so small that a technician used a hypodermic syringe to lubricate them. Made of tough vacuum-melted steel, they were precision designed to perform without fluttering at speeds of 4,200 rpm, unaffected by the shock of the blast-off and the ride through the earth's atmosphere.

Caution In Use Of Charcoal Urged

Most families keep a bag of charcoal handy in car trunks or garages for outdoor cooking during summer months.

Sold in lumps or briquets, it's a convenient fuel for barbecues, grilles, picnics and campfire cooking. "You need to use this fuel in a safe manner to avoid accidents that sometimes happen with careless handling and haste," says

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

THERE IS A SCIENCE IN FAITH

There is a science in faith. There is a definite way to approach it. Faith is not something you ask for, not something you try to get; it is something you already have.

In Romans 12:3 the Bible says, "... God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith." God deals to every individual a measure—a measure of faith. Everyone comes into this world with it. You have it; I have it. Some may not use their measure of faith; some may lose it; some may misuse it; some may learn how to use it well, but each of us starts life with a measure of faith.

However, the faith that is given us is deposited in seed form. It is planted within us. We have the innate capacity for faith—the potential power to believe. But, there is a difference in faith as such and faith as an act of positive believing.

When someone approaches me and says, "Brother Roberts, I have all the faith in the world," immediately a question comes into my mind: If you have, why has it taken so long for you to put it into practice? You can have all the faith in the world but until it becomes action, until it becomes a strong, positive, motivating attitude, your faith is powerless.

Jesus said to Thomas, who had doubted his Saviour's resurrection from the dead: "Thomas, see the evidence."

Look upon me and see my nail-pierced hands." And when Thomas saw that it was the real Christ, Jesus said, "Be not faithless, but believing."

Jesus made a difference between the word faith and the act of believing. He meant this: "You may have the capacity for faith, the power to believe, but I want you to start believing."

You may be seeking divine healing from God; you already have the faith (God gave each of us a measure of faith), but are you using the faith you have? Has your faith become a living, dynamic thing? Do you feel your faith? Are you aroused to action by it? Does it push outward, striking a blow for deliverance? Does your faith bring you to a point of decision? Do you act upon your faith?

When faith is alive in you, you feel it. It is something which causes you to believe in a stronger, more positive manner.

There is a science in faith. You must learn how to use it to get what you want from God.

Faith is the very heart of the Bible's teaching. Your faith can become a living force. When it does it becomes a weapon, an instrument of deliverance, a mighty power that brings you to God and what He has promised you.

Joanne Reitz, extension home management specialist at the University of Maryland.

First, set your grill or dig the barbecue pit in an open place—well away from buildings, trees, dry leaves, grass or brush.

If you use a charcoal-lighting fluid, use it according to directions. Soak a little fluid into the briquets before lighting them and be sure all the liquid fuel has soaked in well before you start the fire.

Another way to kindle charcoal is to use dry, crumpled paper or a light substance like excelsior under the pile of charcoal. Light the paper as in starting an ordinary wood fire. It may take a little fanning to get the blaze going. The charcoal is kindled when you see grey or whitish spots around the edge.

Miss Reitz says never use gasoline, paint thinner or any other highly combustible fluid to kindle charcoal.

Other precautions against accident with outdoor cooking include wearing fireproofed gloves both in building and using the fire. A fireproof apron is an added safeguard.

Outdoor cooks should have a sprinkling can filled with water as part of their equipment to douse the fire in an emergency or when leaving the picnic site.

Long-handled forks, tongs, shewers, skillets, swabs or brushes for handling barbecue sauce, saucapans, add comfort and safety measures for cooking out of doors.

Miss Reitz says, to allow about 20 minutes for the charcoal to get hot enough to grill. Rushing the fire and preparations often result in accidents that could be avoided by careful planning and procedures.

parently the only thing which Aroostook County cannot control is the rainfall, which may be too much, or too little, or occur at wrong intervals. I understand that the two reasons why Idaho potatoes are such a strong competitor to Maine potatoes is because the Idaho potato growers use considerable irrigation and freely spend money on advertising. Maine people need education on the value of advertising.

University Of Maine Agricultural Department

Preceding my trip through Aroostook County I spent several hours with Dean Winthrop, who probably knows more about potatoes than anyone in Maine. He explained that the potato is really a part of a stem, and not a seed, or a bulb, or a root. In fact, the tiny potato seeds which come from the blossoms are of no use to the industry. As most readers know, new potatoes are obtained by cutting an old potato into several pieces, each containing one or two "eyes" which develop sprouts and give us the new potatoes.

Dean Libby's wife, who was a teacher of Home Economics, says that the perfect menu from a dietitian's standpoint is a potato with a piece of butter thereon, a glass of milk, and some orange juice or fruit. Furthermore, the potato contains only 20% starch compared with 40% in bread and 60% in rice—hence it is really a food for reducing, rather than being fattening. Maine is very backward in not advertising this.

The Paper Products Industry

I am told that 90% of the great State of Maine is covered with growing timber; also that this timber is growing faster than it is being cut and used. I was astounded to stand at Bangor & Aroostook Railroad and see a ship 400 feet long the Searsport terminal of the loaded with newsprint made from Maine trees by the Great Northern Paper Company. There, however, are several other paper mills in Maine. Your newsboy probably delivers to many of you each day State of Maine newsprint; and even the books which you read and your telephone directory might well have been printed on paper made by Maine mills. Maine is also benefiting from the growth in packaging of almost everything sold in supermarkets, as well as from the increase in use of cartons and box-boards. These products, however, are suffering from lack of proper advertising.

The State of Maine is doing very little to help the manufacturer of these paper products. This especially applies to newsprint, which is absolutely dependent upon newspaper advertising. Radio and television advertising and the beautifully colored magazine advertisements are all indirectly aided by the federal government; but the State of Maine is doing nothing to increase newspaper advertising, the promotion of which is left to individual newspapers. Yet, the State of Maine is largely dependent upon the advertising which the newspapers of the country—yes, and of the world—carry. As newspaper advertising increases, the number of pages of newspapers increases and the demand for newsprint increases. Inversely, as the number of pages of newspapers decreases, the demand for newsprint decreases proportionately. Furthermore, the continued prosperity of this nation depends upon increased use of newspaper advertising. I only wish the Legislature of the State of Maine would realize its responsibility in helping to build our nation's prosperity by stimulating newspaper advertising.

Opportunities For Young People

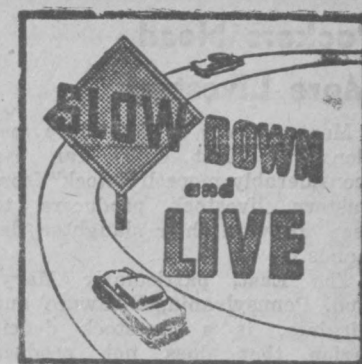

There are numerous small industries which should attract young people to Maine. Unfortunately, too many young people are leaving the State. This sad fact, however, furnishes more opportunities to young people from other states to come to Maine and start a small business. There are in Maine small woolen and other textile mills, shoe factories, and possible forms of mineral extraction. The field of recreation also holds many opportunities for starting a small independent business. Maine's surplus of water power makes for reasonable operating costs; while its labor situation is especially favorable. The efficiency of the workers is to be commended. Maine people are instinctively religious and conscientious. They are anxious to give a day's work and are naturally ingenious.

For young people who want an independent business, I especially recommend that they visit Augusta, Maine and see the Department of Economic Development, or Dr. Robert G. Doyle of the State Geological Department. I especially commend the good work of Dr. Robert L. Dow of the Sea & Shore Fisheries Department. Any ambitious young person can well spend two or three days at the State House at Augusta, Maine, where he will find intelligent experts eager to help him. The greatest of all opportunities lies in selling advertising to Maine potato growers, to Maine's manufacturers of paper products, and to those in the State producing a hundred other commodities. Natural resources are of little use unless accompanied by the courage and "gumption" of advertising.

Babson Discusses Advertising Opportunities

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 4—It has been my custom to spend a part of each summer visiting a different section of the country. This summer I have chosen the State of Maine. I have been truly astounded by its size, its coastline, and certainly its natural resources.

Through the compliments of the able President of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, Mr. W. Gordon Robertson, I have been able to travel through the approximately 150,000 acres of growing potatoes. The plants were in full bloom with their white blossoms when I took the trip, and I was able to talk with some of the leaders in the industry. The potato growers are more than "just farmers." They are progressive businessmen who are constantly seeking new varieties of potatoes and attempting to improve the quality of the crop. The best potatoes are marketed, while the small ones are used for producing frozen "french fries," pre-mashed potatoes, starch, and other by-products.

When you eat a finely flavored mealy potato, you have no idea of the patience, brains, and hard work which have been put into raising the potato. Ap-

Packers Need More Livestock

Meat packers in Baltimore and along the East Coast can use "considerably more livestock" from Eastern livestock producers to keep up with their slaughter demands.

The East, particularly Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Virginia, is a livestock deficit region that does not produce enough livestock to supply the slaughtering needs of the packers, according to Frank G. Fitz-Roy, president of the Baltimore Union Stock Yards.

"Because of this deficit," Mr.

Fitz-Roy said, "the packer must order some of his hogs, cattle and sheep from the Midwest, when he would rather buy them locally to save freight and possible death, loss or injury in shipping."

The meat packers, now slaughtering far more livestock than they can buy locally, are paying higher prices in Baltimore than they are paying elsewhere. Prices at the Baltimore stockyards in July, for example, were about three to five per cent higher for comparable livestock than at the Chicago stockyards.

Mr. Fitz-Roy added that the Baltimore Union Stock Yards, and its livestock commission merchants have pledged support to the packers to do everything possible to provide an increased supply of livestock to meet their demands.

Additional Grants Aid Heart Research

Three additional Maryland scientists have received grants-in-aid totaling $21,000 from the American Heart Association to conduct research on diseases of the heart and blood vessels, it was announced today by Dr. Sidney Scherlis, President of the Heart Association of Maryland.

The grants are among 216 totaling almost $1,700,000 awarded to scientists throughout the country under the national research program of the American Heart Association and its affiliates.

The Maryland research men recognized in today's announcement are: Dr. Milton Landowne of the Levindale Hebrew Home and Infirmary, Baltimore; Dr. Ennis C. Layne of the University of Maryland School of Medicine and Dr. William R. Milnor of

The Johns Hopkins School of Medicine.

Early in June, Dr. Scherlis announced the appointment of seven Maryland research specialists to fellowships and investigatorships with the American Heart Association. These awards amounted to a total of $66,300. This brings to a total of over $77,000 the amount to be invested by the American Heart Association this year in research work at Maryland institutions.

Dr. Scherlis pointed out that contributions provided by the Heart Association of Maryland help support the national research professional and public education programs. In the 1960-61 fiscal year of the Heart Association, the total to be devoted to research in the national program will approximate 59 per cent of funds received.

In addition, the local Heart unit underwrites scientific studies in this area. Dr. Scherlis said that the scientists to receive these locally-sponsored awards are now being notified, and that public announcement will be made within two weeks.

"Altogether," Dr. Scherlis said, "close to $50,000,000 contributed by Americans to the Heart Fund during the past 12 years have been used to further research gains against diseases of the heart and blood vessels. Heart Fund dollars are backing scientific exploration into all areas that show promise of yielding clues toward the conquest of these diseases that now afflict more than 10,000,000 Americans."

The grant-in-aid to Dr. Landowne has been given to assist him devise practical aids for the early diagnosis of hardening of the arteries that supply blood to the arms and legs.

Dr. Layne's grant is to support him in his study in rabbits of how cholesterol, a fat found in the blood, is manufactured in blood vessel walls.

The award to Dr. Milnor is to help him in his work seeking a relationship between the elasticity of major arteries and blood volume, pressure and flow.

THE TWO-HAT TRICK
Some of the best and most fascinating card tricks are often the easiest to perform. The one described here, for example, requires only an ordinary pack of playing cards and two men's hats, which you can easily borrow at the next party you attend.

Have someone shuffle the pack and divide it in two equal parts, keeping one half and giving you the other portion. Now drop your half of the pack in a hat and begin to shake it; put another hat over the top so the shaking can be done very violently and the cards will be sure to mix.

After this is done, let the other person take three cards from his hat and insert them, one by one face downward, between the brims of the hats. As each card comes in, you shake the hats to mix it with those that are already in. The other person knows, of course, each card he pushes in between the hats.

Now after lots of shaking, you remove the upper hat and reach into the lower, producing the three chosen cards one by one—much to the astonishment of the chooser.

Here's how it's done: when you place your cards in the hat, give them a good bend at the center. Better than that, shake them first, showing how they mix. Then gather them into a pack again and bend this time with the hat covering your movement.

The selected cards mix with the others, right enough, but they are straight while the others are curved and it is easy to pick them out. Then, in gathering the remaining cards from the hat, bend them the other way to straighten them and no clue to your trick remains.

It is said that this trick mystified the great Blackstone when he first saw it performed so you can be sure it will puzzle and delight your audience when you try it on them.

If you are interested in card tricks that can be performed with a regular deck of cards, there is a collection of ten card tricks that do not involve sleight-of-hand in the booklet, "Take a Card." SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

At the beginning of 1960, as Federal social security was starting its twenty-fifth year, old-age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits were being paid in Frederick County to 497 persons at the rate of $5,248,343 a year, according to W. S. King, manager of the Hagerstown social security district office. "This is an increase in number of beneficiaries of about 8 per cent since February 1959, the last previous date for which Frederick County figures are available," he said.

Nationally, about 13 1/2 million persons were receiving old-age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits at the end of 1959 at an annual rate of more than $10 billion. At the close of 1940—the first year in which monthly benefits were payable—beneficiaries throughout the nation totaled 20,900. Almost half a million disabled-worker beneficiaries and their dependents receiving benefits at a yearly rate of over $400 million are included in the figures for 1959.

Looking Ahead
...by Dr. George S. Benson
DIRECTOR—NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

Courageous Public Servant
Congressman Walter H. Judd, of Minnesota, is giving our nation the kind of leadership service that any nation must have to progress and remain free. He doesn't think first about being popular with the electorate back home. His courage and his integrity demand that his words and his actions in Congress and as a citizen be based on sound principles, no matter what the results may be politically. His 18 years in Congress are proof enough that a majority of the American people, when given a clear choice, respect and affirm sound basic principles.

In an address dedicating the Citizenship Training Center at Oklahoma Christian College, Dr.
Judd spoke out with typical frankness about the American system and government's function in a free society. He recalled that President Woodrow Wilson once said, "The history of man's struggle for liberty is the history of his struggle to hold down the powers of government." Congressman Judd said, "We must have government, but we must hold it down to the minimum. And now those who call themselves Wilson's ideological followers take every problem to Washington. And this worries me more than some of our external dan-

Big Government Reactionaries

"Some advocate returning to the system our forefathers came here to get away from,
and they call that progress!
Really it's reaction—it's going backwards, not forward. It always looks good at first to follow such a course. You can pass out something as long as it has been provided by a preceding and more provident generation. But what happens when you run out of the fat?"

"You know, I could work the arithmetic problems for my two daughters better than they could work them for themselves. I was tempted to do it at times too, because it was easier. They would have liked to have me do it, but I didn't.
I helped them, encouraged,
nudged, corrected, advised, prayed, but I didn't work the problems for them. A parent who does for a child what the child has the capacity to do for himself destroys both the capacity and incentive of the child to do for himself. And when government does for the citizen that which the citizen should do for himself, the citizen will be damaged in the process in the same way.

Learning About Wealth
"Some years ago," continued Congressman Judd, "I read of a Dutch student in a theological seminary who got a job filling in as a summer preacher in a church in Iowa while the regular preacher was gone. In his first sermon the young man got up and said that America must share her wealth with the world.
The deacons decided that he had better find out how the wealth was produced.

"So they let him tassel corn for the rest of the summer instead of preach. He found out about wealth. It's no use getting mad at fellows like that.
This one saw the gap between the way we're living and the way so many people are living, and his first reaction was that we should 'share our wealth.'
If that would solve the problem we'd need to do it, but it wouldn't solve the problem. The wealth would soon be gone. The other peoples would be no better off and we'd be worse off.
Who would that help?"

Fundamental Principles
"Wealth is a result of something. What these people need is not wealth but the secret of wealth. And what's the secret of the wealth? It's an economic system that gives opportunity and incentive for people to get ahead in accordance with their own merit, or their imagination, or effort. Where did that come from? It came from a political philosophy that recognized the rights of the individual as a child of God. And where did that come from? It came from religious faith. It didn't come from anywhere else. If there isn't a God then men cannot be His children, and if they are not children of God, they have no rights."

In his closing remarks, Congressman Judd said: "This war with world Communism is not a war for land. It is for mankind, the mind of man, the soul of man, the whole of man.
Never did Americans face such a fundamental challenge to our ultimate values. Never did we have to think so deeply and work so hard as we're going to have to do, if we're to live in dignity or even live at all. Our generation is not going to be able to escape the call to great

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE
Read Mark 4:35-41.
O Lord, how manifold are thy works! In wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches. (Psalm 104:24.)
We were living for a few weeks in a seaside cottage. One night a severe storm awakened us with resounding crashes of thunder and the roar of the sea. In the morning the sun broke through the clouds and shed its light upon every dancing wave. Color and brilliance replaced the blackness of the night. Our sense of the majesty of God in the storm was followed by a feeling of trust and security.

God our Creator reveals Himself in manifold ways. The night and the day, the storm and the sunshine are alike in His keeping. The marvels of the world unite with the handiwork of the heavens in declaring His provision and love. He overcome our anxieties and fears. Our faith in Him can carry us safely thru the darkest period of life into the light and peace of eternity.
All of life, here and beyond, is ordained to bring God's light and beauty into our souls.

Prayer
Eternal God, who hast created and knowest all things, we come into Thy presence with reverence. How great and compassionate Thou art to consider our needs! May we accept Thy grace and sovereign will in our lives.
We pray in Christ's name. Amen.
Thought For The Day
Today I will seek a closer fellowship with God.

THIS 'N THAT

GEORGE W. WIREMAN

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third and final article dealing with Civil Defense and the important part it plays in our everyday life, yet a subject which is all too often taken for granted by the most of us.

Civil Defense And You

In my column last week I covered the subject of "stockpiling" and what we have done thus far in our state of readiness program. The facts as compiled by J. Franklin Fox are indeed very gratifying and represent many hours of planning and work. But, I might add, what good is Civil Defense if the majority of our citizens take little or no interest in it and feel that it is there if they need it, but do nothing to further their education of it. Americans must be educated to the facts of Civil Defense and take a deeper interest in its operations if we are to have an effective and a well-organized system, ready for use at a moment's notice.

During World War II I served as a Civil Defense instructor and taught many classes. As assistant to the Chief Air Raid Warden it was my duty to help plan the many test operations held during the practice "blackouts" and I can recall that the interest in these activities ran high. This, of course, was due to the war and every citizen felt obligated to take an active part in the interest of the home-front.

We are not engaged in a war at the present time, but with the threats of war all around us, interest in Civil Defense should be even greater than it was during World War II. We have every reason to be prepared, for the next war, should it come, will be a war of survival. Our chances of survival will be mighty thin if we wait until the first bomb is dropped before we become interested in our Civil Defense program. It will be far too late to take any real action.

Mr. Fox has this to say about the present state of affairs with regards to Civil Defense:

"Governments in America cannot dictate what the individual citizen will do. At our respective levels of the government structure, we have done much of what is necessary and within the scope of our arrangements for the protection of lives and property, and to reconstruct our economic life in the event the blow falls."

"Yes, we will amplify our stockpiles of resources. We will increase the effectiveness of our present warning capability. We will provide for continuity of government, the preservation of essential records and; we will care for the injured and displaced, and do all of those other things that are within the province of government."

"This will be of little avail, however, if the individual does not himself, assure personal survival. The evaluation of past "Operation Alert," and the findings of the Rockefeller report indicate that the great majority of casualties from nuclear warfare, 77 out of each 100 casualties would result from nuclear fallout, and not from the direct blast or heat of a weapon explosion. This is the reason why our future readiness activities must strongly accent family fallout shelters, because if an enemy should realize that his weapons would be only 23 per cent effective, instead of 100 per cent in the immediate target area . . . approximately 3 per cent in the nation at large . . . in a massive nuclear offensive, he would certainly be reluctant to attack."

"The federal government again is taking the leadership in the program of family fallout shelters. Federally financed family fallout shelters have been opened as prototype at Wheaton, Maryland and Thomasville, Georgia. Other prototype shelters are being built with Federal funds for State sponsorship, within the region. Larger community - type shelters are also being financed within Region 2 and in other regions of O.C.D.M."

"Contractors are becoming interested, and at least making provisions for family fallout shelters in new home designs. The federal government will take the lead in fallout shelters in all new public building construction. This program is directed at the first objective of the Civil Defense mission . . . as a deterrent to attack. Other measures of readiness are complimentary to their program. Advance warning, so that the people may take necessary cover. Radiation detection and measures of intensity, so that people may know when shelter is necessary and when and for what periods . . . it may be safe to move about. Every program of civil defense, continuity of government, rural defense, industrial production, all are included in the various phases of its operations."

"Home preparedness too is related to the program of fallout shelter. I could continue on and on with some very impressive recital of statistics concerning the other aspects of our readiness posture."

"In this article, with the cooperation of Mr. Wireman, I have chosen instead to single out the program in which we are least ready to assure our individual and national survival and, by the same token, to fulfill our mission to deter either limited or general war. I am pleased with the record of Civil Defense accomplishments to date. All who have been engaged in the work of Civil Defense have much to be thankful for and proud of. Let us now turn our determined attention to the subject that is best calculated to deter war, and to save lives and make possible the quick rehabilitation of our economic and personal lives, should we ever be called upon to demonstrate our readiness to cope with the facts of nuclear warfare."

J. Franklin Fox

As I mention in a previous article, Mr. Fox and the writer of this column, both, are of the opinion that war can happen and if it comes the United States will not escape the bombings as it did during the Second World War. We will feel the effects very bluntly. It is up to each and every individual citizen to prepare himself or herself for the attack. If war never comes, we will have the satisfaction of knowing that we were at least prepared for it.

I cannot, nor can anyone connected with Civil Defense, stress too strongly, the importance of Civil Defense and its true purpose in our life today.

As I write this last article on Civil Defense, I am reminded of the Civil Defense Pledge which I took during World War II. Every American citizen should take this pledge and become an active part in Civil Defense.

try I love . . . to maintain its cause against all enemies and every danger. And to this task I pledge my whole strength and my whole heart.

This pledge still holds true to the present day, regardless of the changes that have come about in our world since the end of World War II. Perhaps at some future date, this writer will again devote some time to Civil Defense and the ways in which we as individuals may serve.

I sincerely hope that the facts contained in the three articles on Civil Defense have helped to show the readers of this publication, a much clearer picture of how we stand in our readiness program, than they had before the articles were published.

At this point I wish to thank J. Franklin Fox for the material and the facts which have been the basis of these articles. Without his help and his keen interest in Civil Defense this series would have been impossible.

In closing I leave you with this thought: If Sherman, who quoted "War is hell" were living today, and could see all the modern weapons for waging war, how would he describe it? If we will but pay a little more attention to Civil Defense and its operations, we can prevent, to a great extent, a hell on earth, should our country be the subject of an all-out attack. Civil Defense is not the answer to preventing war but we can look to it as our "port in a storm."

New Polio Vaccine Requires No Needle

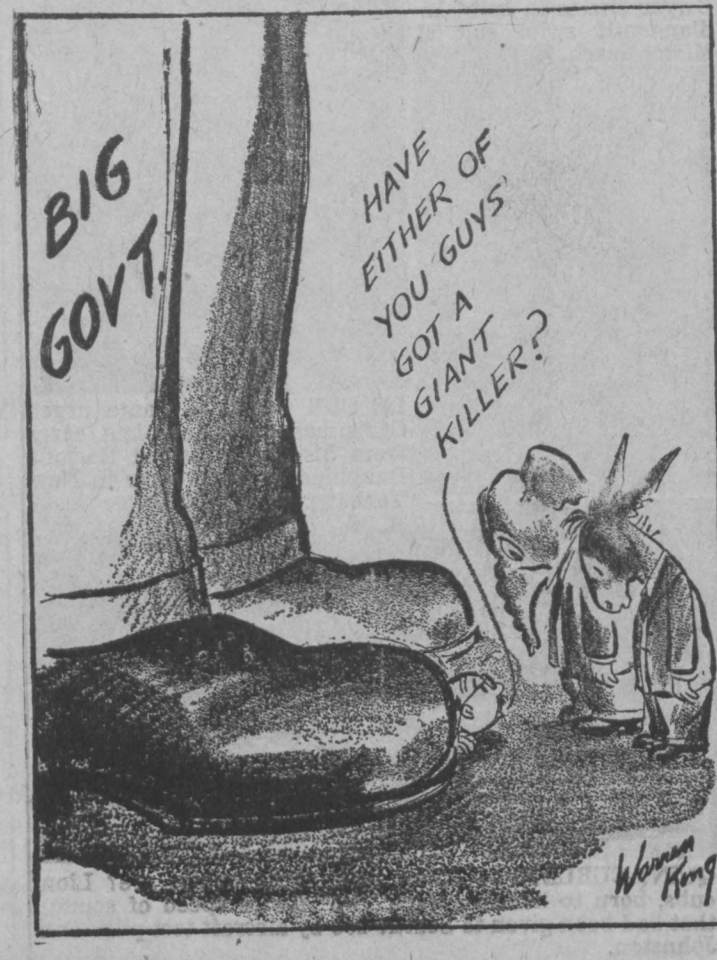

A Public Health Nurse of Costa Rica's National Health Service administers oral vaccine against poliomyelitis to a child of one of the houses in her district. These new vaccines are made with attenuated or "lamed" strains of live rather than killed poliovirus and are taken by mouth and not by injection. They are usually given in the form of pills or in fruit-flavored syrups. Costa Rica is only one of several Latin American nations now using oral vaccine in campaigns against polio.

The Pan American Sanitary Bureau, operating arm of the Pan American Health Organization and Regional Office for the Americas of the World Health Organization, assists the countries in combating this crippling disease.

THE BIG QUESTION

Today's Refrigerator-Freezers: Offer More Space Inside

Hard to believe a single refrigerator-freezer holds this much food? The fact is, this 1960 refrigerator-freezer holds even more than the stacks of fresh and frozen foods you see displayed here.

Enough food to feed a large family for a week with plenty of reserves for guests—that's the reason for the triumphant smile on this housewife's face. Her big new electric refrigerator-freezer gives her extra hours of freedom by cutting down on shopping trips and keeps her always ready for meal preparation. Both refrigerator and freezer compartments hold more food than older models because a new type of insulation permits walls to be slimmer. The squared-off design and ingeniously-hinged door let this and most other models of refrigerator-freezers fit compactly between and under kitchen cabinets, conserving space and doing away with dust-collecting niches.

Roads Commission Bans Parking On Thurmont Street

A request to allow parking on Church Street in Thurmont has been turned down by the State Roads Commission, according to information recently received by the Thurmont Board of Commissioners.

The Thurmont officials wrote the State Roads Commission on May 20 seeking permission to allow parking on the west side of Church Street just north of the square between the hours of 6 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Sundays to accommodate motorists attending church services.

The State Roads Commission notified Thurmont officials a few days ago that they could not recommend parking to be permitted on Church Street even on Sundays.

The Thurmont officials were notified that the State Roads Commission made an investigation of condition through the area and noted that there are two churches along the west side of Church Street just north of the intersection of Main Street. The state officials noted that the southernmost church has a double entrance which circles in back of the church.

Church Street through the area is 24 feet in width between curbs and is posted for a 25 mile speed limit.

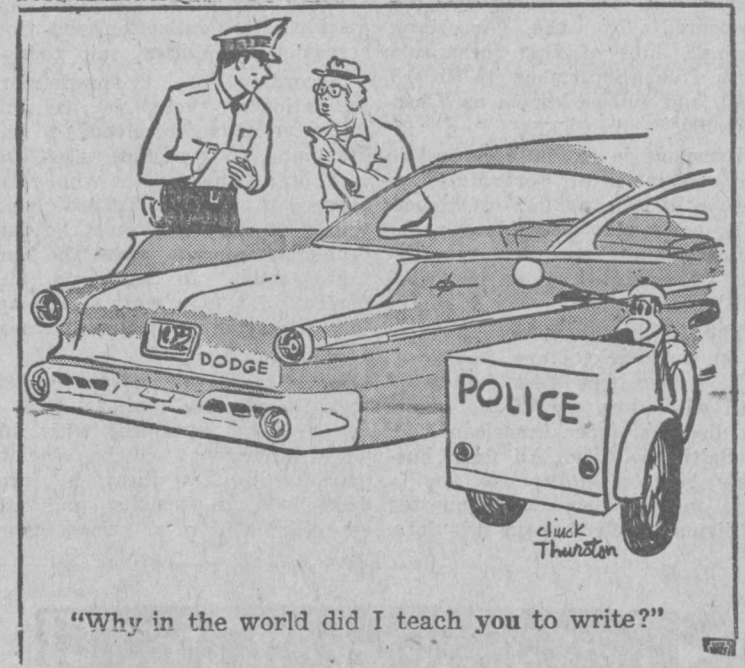

The state group said that in August of 1954 an investigation of the area was made and on September 1, 1954, a "No Parking At Any Time" zone was created along the west side of the street from the north curb line of Main Street, which runs east and west, to the Western Maryland Railroad overpass. At that time there was in existence a "No Parking At Any Time" zone on the east side of the same street.

The State Roads Commission noted that while it appears that the amount of parking in the vicinity of the two churches is rather limited, it should be recognized that a 24 foot width of roadway will not provide for a free and expeditious movement of traffic in both directions of travel when parking is permitted on one side, as it narrows the effective width to approximately 16 feet.

The commission continues that if parking were permitted on Sundays only, there would be a considerable amount of maneuvering in and out of parking spaces, not only delaying traffic on Church Street but also setting up a potential hazard by the maneuvering in and out of parking spaces.

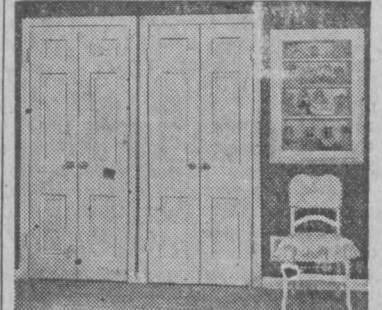

Pine Panel Doors Provide Authentic Colonial Styling

Authenticity in designing and building today's popular Colonial-style homes demands the use of materials that add to the atmosphere of warmth and dignity of the traditional home.

One way conscientious architects and builders achieve this authenticity is with panel doors. Made of ponderosa pine, these doors are true copies of Colonial-style panel doors handmade by early American craftsmen.

Ideally, an architect first selects a panel door and front entranceway from one of many traditional styles available in ponderosa pine. From this design he selects a similar style of panel door to be used on rooms and closets throughout the house and for all other entrances.

This provides not only an important continuity all through the house, but gives it true Colonial styling. Panel doors of ponderosa pine are available from building material dealers in many styles and sizes.

Panel doors of ponderosa pine in this new, Colonial-style home add authenticity and beauty to its early-American design.

Commemorative Stamp To Be Issued

On September 14, 1960, the Post Office Department will issue the Francis Scott Key commemorative stamp of the "American Credo" series at Baltimore, Md., with ceremonies to be climaxed at Fort McHenry National Shrine.

The ceremonies at Fort McHenry will be attended by the Postmaster General, National, State, and city officials, including Senators, Congressmen, the Governor, and the Mayor of Baltimore City in company with Postmaster Laukaitis and members of his staff.

The ceremonies, to which the public is cordially invited, will commence at 7:15 p. m. and tentative arrangements are being made for a simulated bombardment of the Fort, a display of military equipment, and open house aboard a destroyer. The Baltimore Post Office Band and Glee Club will furnish further entertainment. The ceremonies will be concluded with a fireworks display.

In conjunction with the Fort McHenry celebration, the Baltimore Post Office will have the Francis Scott Key "American Credo" Stamp available for purchase at the Main Post Office, and all stations and branches. The area for processing and cancelling First Day Covers will be open for inspection, and this will provide an interesting and educational sidelight for stamp collectors.

Individuals desiring First Day cancellations of the 4-cent Key "Credo" stamps may send self-addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of stamps affixed, to the Postmaster, Baltimore 33, Maryland.

A close-fitting enclosure of Postal Card thickness should be placed in each envelope and the flap either turned in or sealed. Envelopes submitted should be of ordinary letter size and each must be properly addressed. An envelope must not be sent for return of First Day Covers, and orders for Covers must not include requests for uncanceled stamps.

The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed: First Day Covers

4-cent Key "Credo" Stamps Tentative arrangements have been made for envelopes having two stamps affixed to be airlifted by helicopter from Fort McHenry to Friendship airport.

Included with the ceremony at Fort McHenry and at the Baltimore Post Office will be philatelic display at the Southern Hotel sponsored by the Associate Stamp Clubs of the Chesapeake Area from September 14 to 18, 1960, and will be known as "Chesapeake 60."

Everyone is cordially invited to the ceremonies at Fort McHenry, and a limited number of tickets will be made available to the general public for the Advertising Club Luncheon at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

The luncheon will be at 12:15 p. m. and tickets are $2.75.

It is our hope that September 14th will mark one of the greatest displays of the American Flag in Baltimore City. All firms, business houses, enterprises, buildings, and residences are requested to display their flag on this date.

Farmers Approve Wheat Marketing Price Quotas

Farmers throughout the 39 commercial wheat States have approved marketing quotas for the 1961 wheat crop, William L. Dudley, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

According to a preliminary tabulation of votes in the July 21 referendum, received at the Maryland ASC Office, 87.3 per cent of all the farmers who voted favored the quotas. At least two-thirds of the votes must be favorable in order to make the quotas effective. In Maryland, 80.8 percent of the farmers voting approved marketing quotas for next year's crop.

With marketing quotas in effect for the 1961 wheat crop, a farmer who complies with his wheat allotment will be able to market all the wheat he produces without penalty and will be eligible for a price-support loan based on a national average of at least $1.78 per bushel, representing 75 per cent of parity. A farmer who exceeds his allotment will not be eligible for price support. In addition, any farmer not taking part in the feed wheat program who produces more than 15 acres of wheat and exceeds his acreage allotment will be subject to a marketing quota on each bushel of excess wheat. The marketing program for wheat in 1961 will be essentially the same as it is this year.

Marketing quotas have been in effect for the last six crops of wheat, including the 1960 crop.

Local Farmers Named On Co-Op Board

The future of farming as a business is tied to the growth of this country. As a result, farm markets will grow rather than shrink.

This fact was brought out by L. B. Baldwin, Southern States Cooperative representative, at the Emmitsburg area annual membership meeting at Tom's Creek Church on July 25.

By 1975, according to Mr. Baldwin, USDA reports that this country will have 230,000,000 people who will need 35% more poultry, 63% more red meats, 38% more milk, 31% more eggs and 57% more fruits and vegetables.

As a result, Fr. Baldwin pointed out, Southern States Cooperative must "concern itself more and more in the years ahead to increasing farmers' bargaining power through helping them control more of the phases of agribusiness."

In order to do this, Baldwin said, the cooperative must "keep up-to-date with respect to facilities, financing, member relations and utilization."

A step in this direction was the recent reorganization program that Southern State Cooperative put into effect on July 1. Under this system the five-state operating territory of the organization was divided into 10 regions. Each region has its own regional

SPEAKING OF CARDS

CALLING ALL CARD PLAYERS

Why is the King of Diamonds "one-eyed" in a deck of playing cards? Can you go out in Canasta without making a discard? What is the highest hand in Poker with wild cards? How many Bridge players are there in the United States?

These are just a few of the questions the Playing Card Association receives in the mail every day from card players all over the world. The Association's unique Information Service offers free and expert advice to the card player ranging from card table etiquette to the fine points of scoring in Pinochle. Many of the inquiries are aimed at historical facts about playing cards, the rules of an old game dimly remembered, and information on a new variation of a popular card game such as Canasta.

Although card players usually resort to a handy book of Hoyle to settle minor disagreements about rules, sometimes the players differ on vital points of play and scoring. That is when the Association comes to the rescue with a decision by an acknowledged card expert that's "according to Hoyle."

The mail received by the Association is just about evenly divided between men and women. A study revealed that the ladies ask questions about Canasta, Samba, Contract Bridge and, occasionally, Poker. On the other hand, the men write in seeking advice in settling misunderstandings about Poker, Pinochle, Pitch, Cribbage and Gin Rummy.

In case you're interested in the answers to the questions asked previously, here they are: (a) Julius Caesar is responsible for the fact that the King of Diamonds has one eye only. A likeness of Caesar's profile was the model for the original King of Diamonds, back in the 14th century, and he's been seen in profile ever since. (b) You can, of course, go out in Canasta without making a discard. (c) If you're playing Poker with wild cards, a royal flush would be the highest hand. (In Poker with no wild cards, a royal flush would be the highest hand.) (d) There are more than 35,000,000 Bridge players in the United States today.

If you have a question on cards or on a card game, write to the Playing Card Association, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.
