

DIAL SYSTEM TO CHANGE IN NEAR FUTURE

All-number dialing is on the way for telephone subscribers of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland according to Carl V. Weakley, manager of the Frederick office. The C&P announced it is planning over the next few years to eliminate gradually the present use of letters and numerals for telephone numbers. The new arrangement identified as "All-Number Calling" (ANC) will get underway beginning May 1 in the Frederick area as new telephones are installed or where changes are being made in telephone service. In place of the 2 letters and 5 numerals in use today, the ANC system substitutes 7 numerals, which in most cases is equivalent to present telephone numbers. For example (MO 3-9901) will become 663-9901. C&P Manager Weakley, in explaining the reason for the change, said, "The phone system is growing so fast that the telephone company anticipates that it will run out of the present type telephone numbers in the foreseeable future." Nearly 25 million telephones have been added to the nationwide network since 1950. Here in Maryland, the C&P is serving more than 1,300,000 phones, half of which were added in the last ten years.

Along with the long distance dialing by customers, a nationwide system of uniform telephone numbers was introduced in 1947. At that time, the country was also divided into numbering plan areas and Maryland was assigned area code "301."

Within each numbering area all central offices must have different names. However, the demand for communication services has grown so fast in various areas that there just aren't enough to go around. Today there are approximately 70 million telephones in the United States. For each of these a telephone number is required. With the familiar 2 letters and 5 numerals, there are only 540 usable central office names. However, with "All-Number Calling," there will be 800 dialing combinations available. Weakley pointed out the ANC doesn't require any change in the dial equipment since the machine can not distinguish between letters and numerals. For example, the letters A, B and C and the numeral 2 all transmit the same electrical impulses to the equipment.

Looking to the future, Weakley said, "Customers are now dialing to Canada, operators are dialing to Hawaii and we must plan for world-wide dialing. In spite of differences in alphabets and languages, numerals, like music, can be universal."

Glass Resigns As Road Attorney

Thomas S. Glass has resigned his position as Assistant Attorney General for the State Roads Commission in Frederick, Howard, Carroll and Washington counties.

Mr. Glass submitted his resignation to Joseph D. Buscher, special attorney general in charge of the legal department of the State Roads Commission a few days ago, it was learned recently.

Mr. Glass said that his resignation was in order to devote his full time to his legal practice. He is a Frederick attorney operating in partnership with Richard R. Burgee, with offices at 126 North Court Street, Frederick.

Twins Expire

Twins were born early Saturday at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Bushman, Emmitsburg. One was dead at birth and the other died three hours and 25 minutes after birth.

William Lee Bushman died at 3:40 a. m. after being born at 12:15 o'clock. Sandra Lee Bushman was dead at birth.

Surviving in addition to the parents, Charles William Bushman Jr. and Sylvia Springer Bushman, are these grandparents: Mrs. Minerva Springer, Thurmont R2, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bushman, R3, Emmitsburg.

Graveside services were held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Mountainview Cemetery, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. Philip Bower, officiating.

I keep telling myself that when I read the name of a foreign country and am unable to locate it mentally, I'll look it up in my atlas, but I fail to heed my resolution; in consequence I can't place the location of half the nations I read about in the news columns.

100 YEARS AGO

Lee And Grant Join Respective Armies

By Lon K. Savage

Five of the greatest military figures of the Civil War joined their respective armies 100 years ago this week. For the South, the gains were in Robert E. Lee, Joseph E. Johnston and Thomas J. Jackson (who was not yet known as "Stonewall"). For the North, it was Ulysses S. Grant and George B. McClellan.

The war had been a tremendous blow to Lee. Only weeks earlier he had written, "I cannot anticipate a greater calamity for the country than the dissolution of the Union." But during the week after Fort Sumter, he had followed his native state of Virginia and, on April 20, had resigned from the federal army. He went immediately to Richmond, arriving the night of April 22, and that very night agreed to take over command of all Virginia forces.

Lee Commissioned
The next morning, 100 years ago this week, he was escorted before the Virginia convention where he was formally commissioned a major general, the highest rank then offered. A week earlier, in a conference at Washington, he had turned down command of the Union army.

While Lee was being ceremoniously installed into the Virginia army at Richmond, a stooped, plain little man was making a far less auspicious beginning in the Union army. Ulysses S. Grant, who was to accept Lee's surrender near Appomattox Courthouse four years hence, was drilling a company of soldiers at Galena, Ill.

Grant had been having hard times. Although a West Point graduate, he had been forced to resign from the army in 1854 for face charges of drinking. Since then he had tried farming, selling real estate and finally, clerking in his father's leather store at Galena.

Immediately after Sumter, Grant began training the men around Galena for war, and his life took on new meaning. After a week, he took them off to Springfield where, on April 28, he accepted an insignificant post with the adjutant general's office of the state of Illinois.

On that day that Lee appeared before the Virginia convention, Joseph E. Johnston, acting against his wife's wishes, walked into the Secretary of War's office in Washington and resigned as quartermaster general of the United States army. He then crossed over to his native Virginia and headed for Richmond where, like his West Point classmate, Lee, he was to become a major general.

Jackson In Richmond
Still on that day, a serious-faced man in his 30's, Colonel Thomas J. Jackson, busied himself about Richmond, where he had just arrived. Jackson, a professor at Virginia Military Institute, had brought the VMI cadet corps to Richmond two days earlier to join in the war effort.

Within the week, he was assigned to command the Virginia volunteers at Harpers Ferry, and he set out for his new post April 26 with a happy heart, writing his wife that he had "the post which I prefer above all others."

And again on that memorable day, a young man in Cleveland, Ohio, suddenly became, like Lee, a major general. George B. McClellan, 34, assumed command of Ohio volunteers.

McClellan had shown himself already a brilliant author of military books and, in civilian life, had risen to a $10,000 a year job as a top official of the Ohio & Mississippi Railroad. This advancement was relatively slow when compared to the meteoric rise he was to experience in the Union army within the next seven months.

Next week: Two more states join the Confederacy.

In 1891, a special detachment of U. S. Marines was assigned to the Navy's Pacific Squadron to halt the wholesale destruction of seals in the Bering Sea by poachers operating out of season.

It's a good idea to stun a large fish, such as a pike or musky, before removing the lure from its mouth. These species of fish thrash around terrifically and could cause havoc in a small boat.

THE DICK POWELL SHOW, an hour-long anthology series, is set for NBC's Tuesday-night-at-9 slot next season. As host and occasional star, Dick Powell has already set David Niven and Charles Boyer, two of his partners in Four Star Productions, as guests in early episodes. Curt Jurgens, Robert Morley and Jack Hawkins are also in the plans as guest stars. . . . Dinah Shore, parting with long-time sponsor Chevrolet, may step into NBC's Wednesday-night-at-10 spot next season. Bonanza will take over Dinah's present spot on Sunday nights.

Jackie Cooper will take Hennessey on a couple of sea voyages next season, one on a submarine, and will also look at some of the Navy's experimental work. . . . Ex-Maverick star Jim Garner's first movie after his tiff with Warner Brothers will be "The Children's Hour." Garner will share the starring roles with Audrey Hepburn and Shirley Maclaine. . . . The planned Ginger Rogers series at 20th Century-Fox will have her playing the dual role of twin sisters, one a magazine writer, the other a fashion designer; Charlie Ruggles will be caught in the middle playing the uncle. . . . Bing Crosby Productions has just finished the test film for Eve Arden's new series, The Colonel's Lady. Miss Arden co-stars in the series with her actor-husband Brooks West. . . . CBS plans to replace Red Skelton and Garry Moore for the summer with 13 of the best Playhouse 90 shows; meanwhile, the network plans to do an hour-long version of Playhouse 90 in the fall.

ERNEST HEMINGWAY'S "HOMAGE TO SWITZERLAND", his first half-hour TV story, will be held back until next fall by G.E. Theater. Reason: the film won't be ready until late spring, when the audience tends to fall off. . . . Du Pont Show of the Week will be launched in September on NBC. Project 20 producer Don Hyatt will contribute most of the shows, but some will come from Irving Gitlin. . . . Goodson-Todman's hour-long series Las Vegas Beat debuts on NBC in the fall. Peter Graves will star in the role of a press agent. . . . Musical Chairs on Madison Ave: reruns of December Bride, axed in mid-season, will replace the canceled Ann Sothern Show. Reruns of Ann Sothern Show will be summer replacement for Danny Thomas or Andy Griffith.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By Roger W. Babson

Babson Says "Read The Fine Print"

BABSON PARK, Florida, April 27—I believe in insurance:—life insurance, fire insurance, accident insurance, and especially in the "Blue Cross" and "Blue Shield." If I were not a statistician, I would be selling insurance.

The 1960 Hurricane
I own property a few miles north of here which got sad treatment from "Donna." I am now down here settling up my losses with the insurance company. These losses were first on the house, which (after some dickering) we agreed would be $400.00. This included leaks in the roof, windows and screens broken, and other damages.

The insurance adjuster finally gave me a check for the damages. When looking at it, I saw it to be for only $300.00. When I complained he courteously asked: "Have you read the fine print of your policy?" I replied that I had not; but upon doing so I learned that the insurance company can make a deduction of $100.00. In fact, if the loss had been only $100.00 I would have received nothing!

I next showed the insurance adjuster where my beautiful palm trees had been torn out. These had cost me $75.00 or more each. We agreed that my loss on the valuable trees, shrubs, etc. was at least $900.00. But when I asked for a check to reimburse me, the adjuster inquired if I had read the fine print in my policy which specifically exempted the insurance company from all such losses! But this was not all. I also suffered the loss of fifty feet of concrete wall eight feet high attached to my house. Surely, I expected to be reimbursed for rebuilding this wall; but for the third time the adjuster asked: "Have you read all the fine print?" Upon doing so I found that the fine print on the policy held the insurance company absolutely exempt from responsibility for damages involving the destruction of any walls! Insurance Companies Not

To Blame

It is not the fault of the insurance companies if you and I fail to read "the fine print." Furthermore, if all of these exceptions were not specifically spelled out, the premium which I paid would have had to be much higher. It is the old story: "We cannot have our cake and eat it too." When buying insurance, or real estate, or anything else, we cannot beat the basic laws of mathematics. The only safe way to try and beat and insurance company (or a real estate agent) is to buy when interest rates are high and cash in when they are low.

The same general principle applies to buying stocks. Insurance companies make money by selling umbrellas when the sun is shining. But brokers make money by selling stocks today when everyone wants them. The careful investor will not be fooled by popular demand, which is usually wrong. Write on the cover of your check book:—"Come into my parlor," said the spider to the fly.

What About Insurance Stocks?
As most people are stupid and usually do the wrong thing at the wrong time and never read the fine print, I have decided to invest more money in insurance stocks: life, fire, accident, and casualty. In fact, over the past fifty years the life insurance stocks have done more for investors than any other class of stocks.

All insurance companies are slow in getting started; they cannot pay dividends during their early years. They must use their profits for establishing reserves. Insurance companies are carefully supervised by state authorities. Yet, everyone is working to help them make money. This includes the doctors, the druggists, the legislators, the fire departments, and the schools. In fact, even President Kennedy with his work to help the aged is prolonging life, which greatly helps all life insurance companies. Hence, instead of worrying about "the fine print," I am going to go home to Massachusetts and buy more insurance stocks!

THIS NEW TYPE OF PAINT DOESN'T DRIP, RUN, OR SPATTER LIKE ORDINARY PAINT. NO STIRRING OR THINNING IS REQUIRED BEFORE USE. A WIFE CAN PAINT THE WALLS AND CEILING OF AN ENTIRE ROOM IN HALF A DAY.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Calves Need A Good Start

There are excellent commercial calf meals and even milk replacers to be had, and many dairymen depend almost entirely on them. Such formula feeds contain good quality protein, the necessary major and minor minerals, vitamins, and antibiotics. The dairyman merely supplies the necessary hay.

Other dairymen rely on farm grown products for starting their calves. To be sure, to the extent that calves are started on at least fair amounts of milk, farm grain, leafy green hay, bone meal and salt, all of which a dairyman has on hand, he has the means of doing a very good job of raising calves efficiently and economically. Many dairymen decide to use iodized or trace mineralized salt in starting their calves.

In early spring the dairyman may want to invest in a commercial source of vitamin A to mix with the milk according to directions.

This is brought out by a report from the Ohio Experiment Station advocating high roughage rations for calves. The report recommends that after three days with the dam, whole milk be fed to calves of the large breeds at the rate of 16 pounds daily the remainder of the first week, and 12 pounds daily the second week. The amount is gradually lowered until only 4 pounds of milk are fed by the end of seven weeks and then omitted. Small breeds are fed from 2 to 4 pounds less than those amounts daily. A good milk replacer can be substituted for all or part of the whole milk after the second week.

Fresh water should be supplied at all times. It is especially important that calves on high roughage diets be encouraged to drink water at the time milk feeding is stopped. In cold weather warm water may well be offered immediately after milk feeding.

Emphasis is placed on a proportion of hay twice the weight of the grain, preferably fed free choice as a pelleted mixture the first 2 months. After two months, loose hay is recommended in the ratio of 2 hay to 1 grain. Early pellet consumption can be encouraged by placing a handful of the pellets in the milk bucket after milk feeding.

The upper limit of grain for Holsteins, once they are on loose hay and grain, is 4 pounds, and for Jerseys, 3 pounds grain per day. A heavy roughage ration encourages early rumen function, more so on high-roughage pellets than on loose hay and grain.

Herd replacement can be made less costly by the production of high-quality roughage and its liberal use for growing calves, as demonstrated in the tests reported by Ohio. Question: When cattle or sheep eat a lot of salt on self-fed salt-oilmeal mixtures, is there any accumulation of salt in their bodies?

Answer: No. The body has a way of getting rid of the salt, mainly through the urine and feces. Even when eating a pound of salt a day in this way for months at a time, cattle have shown no significant change in the composition of the blood nor of lean meat nor other parts of the body. They have remained in good health.

Questions from readers will be answered in the columns or by direct reply. Please send your questions to Dr. Bohstedt, 221 North LaSalle Street, (Rm. 507), Chicago 1, Illinois.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Luke 2:41-47.

After three days they found Jesus in the temple, sitting in the midst of doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions. (Luke 2:46.)

One snowy day I was busy skimming through some books in a store. An old woman came in. She spoke to me, and I looked up and answered her greeting.

She began to relate her life story. She said she was 79 years old and lived by herself in an apartment. She went on to tell that her only child was now a practicing lawyer and that she had two grandchildren. After five minutes of talking, she said, "Thank you for listening."

As I thought about the parting words, I decided that listening is both an art and a ministry. It has value not only to the listener, but also to the one who talks and shares. As a boy, Jesus asked questions and listened to the doctors in the temple in Jerusalem.

By His example we are encouraged and challenged to develop the art. We are called upon to cultivate and use the ministry of listening—with interest and concern.

Prayer

We thank Thee, Lord, for giving us all kinds of opportunities for Christian service, the ministry of listening being one of them. Incline us to listen with patience and love, and grant us sensitive hearts that will bear and share. In the Master's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day

In listening with compassion and concern, we show forth the spirit of Christ in our hearts.

Insurance Agents Warned Against Malpractices

There have recently come to the attention of F. Douglass Sears, Commissioner of the State Insurance Department, a number of instances in which life insurance policyholders have been approached by agents attempting to replace existing life insurance programs with new life insurance policies.

Many of these situations have arisen in connection with the offering of mutual funds by agents representing both mutual funds and life insurance companies. I have no objections to the proper sale of mutual funds, but I am very much concerned about the replacement of sound life insurance programs if the replacement is not in the best interests of the policyholder.

The sales arguments advanced for the replacement of the insurance in these cases have often been based on misleading or incomplete information. The agent may describe benefits and advantages available in the proposed policy, but not mention the fact that comparable (and, in some cases, preferable) benefits and advantages are available in the policies which the prospect already holds. For example, the agent may point out the loan features available in the policy he is trying to sell, without referring to the loan privileges in the existing policies. Or, he may compare gross premiums of the proposed policy with those on the existing policies without mentioning that the proposed policy is non-participating, whereas the existing policies may be participating, whereas the existing policies may be participating and entitled to dividends.

In almost all such instances where the policyholder has been persuaded to drop existing life insurance for the purpose of replacing it with a new policy, the replacement has been detrimental to the policyholder.

There are a number of reasons for this, some of which are:

1. Life insurance premiums increase with the age of the insured. The continuation of a policy issued at a lower age is therefore generally preferable from a cost standpoint to replacing it with a policy issued at a higher age.
2. The purchase of insurance policies involves certain acquisition costs. If a policyholder keeps replacing his policies, he is repeatedly paying these acquisition costs.
3. A new life policy is generally contestable usually for a period of two years.

Because life insurance is of such great importance, it is advisable that any person who is approached with a proposal that he replace his existing life insurance policies, examine the proposal with caution. The agent should be asked to state his proposal in writing and leave it with the policyholder for review. If the policyholder is not familiar with the subject, he should seek the advice of another agent, or of some independent source of information, such as his attorney or the State Insurance Department.

If the policyholder finds it advisable to make changes in his insurance program, for example, if it becomes necessary for him to reduce his premium outlay, he can very often make such changes in a manner more favorable to himself if he converts his existing policies in another company. This is so because companies generally will grant a more favorable allowance for the conversion of a policy than the amount allowed as a cash surrender value when the policy is dropped.

tle of pure white vinegar will prove useful. Rubbed on fresh eggs, it will tend to preserve them. Also, wrap cheese in a cloth saturated with the vinegar to prevent molding.

A sure-fire fire starter can be made from—of all things—a few small pieces of denture plastic. It burns long, hot and steady and will ignite even the dampest camp wood.

BOATING

If you keep your boat on a trailer and take it on long trips, here's how to keep the windshield from getting all bugged up. Coat it with window cleaner before taking off. Let the cleaner dry, but don't wipe it off until after you have arrived at your launching ramp.

THE QUACK WARD

Fire Prevention by Lassie and Smokey

FIREFIGHTERS ALL—Timmy and Lassie get a pointer or two from Smokey the Bear on the correct way of putting out a campfire. The CBS television stars join with Smokey in offering these hints for forest fire prevention: 1. Break that match; 2. Make sure your fire is out—completely out; and 3. Make sure that smokers in your party crush out cigarettes. Lassie and Timmy remind you of Smokey's slogan.

OUTDOOR SPORTS TIPS

FISHING

A hopper-swatter is a handy item to have along when you go fishing. You probably already own one and don't know it, because a plain ordinary everyday flyswatter works just fine. The trick is to swat the grasshoppers just hard enough to stun them. It'll take a few messy hits before you get the feel for it. After that you'll be able to catch more bait whenever you run out.

Spin fishing and floating bass bugs is a combination that is hard for an angler to control, but the fish like it. Try this: Tie a floating bass plug ahead of the bug instead of a plastic bubble. The plug will give that extra weight needed for smooth casting and will also be an added teaser for the fish.

If you don't believe that fish have a sweet tooth here is a tip that will prove they have. If you find the action slow someday and the live bait isn't inducing the strikes it should, place a miniature marshmallow on your hook. It's been reported it can bring amazing results.

Unhooking a hooked and boated catfish can be something of a problem, unless of course, you already know and use this final fishing tip. If you attach the hook to the end of your line with a snap rather than a knot, you can then remove the hook with the fish, snap on another hook and be fishing again fast. Later on, you'll have the time to remove the hook with ease and safety.

Rose Bush Tips Given By Experts

While it is generally conceded that it is next to impossible to kill the hardy rosebush, either with kindness or neglect, the more carefully tended the rose the more beautiful the flower.

When one considers the great effort and research that goes into the creation of today's modern rose—epitomized especially by the famous All-American Rose award winners—the simple tasks the plants ask are easy ones.

At this time of year pruning established plants should be the rose gardeners greatest concern. Though pruning tasks by now should be almost completed, there are a few pointers for the tardy rosarian.

Prune according to the individual plant. First remove all dead wood. Next remove any deformed wood and all small twiggy growth. From this point the extent of additional pruning shall be governed by the general vigor and size of each plant.

For the largest blooms with the longest stems, trim-off approximately one-half of the upper canes making the cuts one-quarter inch above a bud. If you want many blooms, with shorter stems, remove only one-third in the same manner. This is a matter of individual preference.

Even if your garden contains the vigorous growing All-American Rose varieties, it's a poor future for starving plants and proper fertilizing is an important item to remember for good production of bloom. Continue using your favorite brand or have your local nurseryman recommend a brand he approves of or order by mail. Be sure to follow the instructions on the package. Fertilize now so that your plants will have the proper nourishment to get a good start. Water in well after fertilizing.

With the stimulation of growth through fertilization, roses need moisture to maintain an even growth. Where rainfall is not enough to soak the soil at least two inches a week, supplement with weekly waterings that would be the equivalent of a good rain. Don't sprinkle from the top, it's the roots and not the foliage that require moisture.

As foliage begins to appear be certain to begin a maintenance program of dusting or spraying. Tests have proven conclusively that even more blooms and stronger plants are the positive result of this care. As with any chemicals, follow the recommendation of the manufacturer or your nurseryman.

If you have wisely stocked the gardens around your home with famous All-American Rose award winners and other quality plants, you've made a wise investment. So, give the plants the little attention needed and they will repay you many times in luxuriant blooms you'll be proud of. Anyway, isn't half the fun of growing roses putting around them and the pride in showing-off beautiful blooms?

AAA Field Agents Hold Conference

The fifty field representatives of the American Automobile Association recently held their annual conference in Chicago, according to the AAA Automobile Club of Maryland.

Based on their day-to-day observations in inspecting hotels and motels for AAA recommendation, the field men were polled as to the foremost deficiencies existing today in the accommodations industry. Seeking to improve services for the benefit of AAA's seven million traveling members, the poll was intended to be a constructive airing of shortcomings which could be corrected.

In considering hotel operations, poor maintenance and general deterioration topped the list of criticisms by two-to-one over the second major deficiency: poor management and untrained personnel. Poor housekeeping ranked third.

Recognizing that many hotels have undertaken modernization programs, the AAA reporters felt that more still could be done to update facilities and equipment. In the second place criticism, the staff noted a great degree of disinterested personnel and a lack of cordiality and hospitality.

Reviewing the motel industry, the AAA representatives put "poor management" at the top of the list. The bulk of their criticism was directed toward inexperienced management and personnel, lack of interest in the guests, absence of the "human touch" and inefficient handling of reservations.

Poor housekeeping and maintenance came out in second spot for motels and the broad area of rates showed up in third place. The latter criticism covered overcharging, juggling and lack of stability of rates. The AAA Automobile Club of Maryland reports that the AAA Field Reporters travel more than a million miles a year.

Soybean Acreage To Be Maintained

Soybean producers will be required to maintain their 1959-60 average acreage of conserving and idle land on the farm in 1961 in order to be eligible for 1961 price support on their crop, William L.

Dudley, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Farmers are urged to avoid increasing soybean acreage at the expense of acreage now under conservation practices. The requirement under the 1961 soybean price support program, therefore, seeks to insure that any additional soybean production will be on acreage that has been used for crops in abundant supply rather than from land now in conserving uses or idle land.

Price support on the 1961 soybean crop has been increased to help meet anticipated needs for this important oil crop. The national average support price for 1961-crop soybeans will be $2.30 per bushel. The support for the 1960 crop of soybeans was $1.85 per bushel.

While the soybean price support provision and the feed grain program both seek to encourage conservation and reduce the planting of crops which are in abundant supply, the soybean price support operates independently of the feed grain program. Farmers may not plant soybeans or corn or grain sorghum acreage on which a diversion payment is earned under the 1961 feed grain program. Likewise, they may qualify for price support on their 1961 soybean crop by meeting the price support conditions of eligibility and without participating in the 1961 feed grain program.

On April 6, 1959 Commander Robert E. Peary hoisted the Stars and Stripes at the North Pole and took possession of the region in the name of the President of the United States.

EAST VS. WEST—Four-and-Twenty (left), winner of California's Santa Anita Derby, and Carry Back, winner of the Flamingo and Florida Derby in Florida this winter, are the early favorites for the 85th running of the $150,000 Preakness at Pimlico on May 20. It will be the world's richest race for three-year-olds.

SQUEEZE PLAY

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

There are some strong indications along the Potomac that the hey days of the internationalists, the foreign monopolists, and other do gooders who stampeded the nation into an expenditure of more than $70 million in all manner of foreign give away schemes, may just about be over.

For some time, on numerous occasions, the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National C. W. Harder Federation of Independent Business, have pointed out the fallacy of this nation attempting to establish a new order by throwing money around like it is going out of style.

This viewpoint is gaining in support. For example, Rep. D. R. Matthews reported on his recent attendance at the Latin American agricultural conference held in Lima, Peru.

Congressman Matthews says "I am positive that the nations of the world must solve their own problems. America isn't smart enough and big enough rich enough to solve all the problems of the world. We can help, I think, other nations to help themselves, but basically, the great problems of other nations are going to have to be solved by themselves."

He went on to say "I am confirmed more than ever before of the opinion that in many nations of the world the rich live better than the rich in America while the poor live in far worse conditions than do the poor in our own country."

This statement of the Congressman is comparable to the observations of many others who had long claimed that if the affluent of the so-called distressed nations were taxed anywhere near the American scale of taxation to help people of their own country, there would be little world distress.

But as it has often been pointed out, the taxpayers of America have been assessed heavily to maintain a feudalism status quo in many nations.

Congressman Matthews also feels that our attitude and approach to foreign trade must be changed saying "Our trade with nations must be on a reciprocal basis. America is facing tremendous problem now in maintaining its exports. We not only have the competition of the self-sufficiency ideal of under developed nations, but we have hard competition from Germany, Japan, and other nations. For our own national survival, we must not be forced out of the trade markets of the world because of an absence of bargaining at the conference table."

In the past, the American failure at the trade conferences has been the dominance at these meetings of that segment of the State Dept. which apparently has only the foggiest notion of what is meant by business negotiations. But as Congressman Matthews so well states the situation, the time has now come when America at international trade meetings must be represented by hard headed business bargaining instead of the past fuzzy wuzzy Pollyanna approach which has caused the siphoning off of the U. S. gold reserve.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

By Eldon C. Smith
Author, "Naming Your Baby"
Is the meaning of a child's name important? Should you include careful consideration of the meaning of a name when choosing one for the new arrival?

The overwhelming majority of our common given names are of derivation. All of these names Latin, Greek, Hebrew or Teutonic have definite meanings, though few people really know what they are. As I point out in my book, "Naming Your Baby" (Chilton), most of the meanings are pleasant, some are rather neutral and a few are questionable.

Is the child likely to give any attention to the meaning of his name and be influenced by it through life? That the child may be affected by his name is indicated by the emphasis placed on suitable Christian names by the Catholic Church.

If a child has a name with an unpleasant or questionable meaning or connotations, playmates may learn of it and, as children are wont to do, tease the bearer. An inspiring name may tend to stimulate the child to a successful life.

Some names that might otherwise be considered suitable have rather disagreeable meanings. For example, Calvin means "bald"; Cecil indicates "blindness"; Mary, "bitterness"; and Claudia, "lame." Many names have lost favor and have disappeared because of their unpleasant meanings. Mary, on the other hand, has withstood its meaning because of the famous persons who have borne the name, especially, the Virgin Mary.

Most of our popular given names today do not have meanings which would make them inappropriate. The Teutonic names, for example, consist, usually, of two elements with little or no relation between them, and tend to emphasize warlike terms. For example, William, which has the dual meaning, "resolution" and "helmet" and Robert, which means, "fame" and "bright."

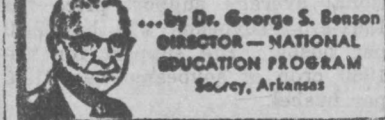

Hebrew names have a religious connotation and often relate to deity, as Elizabeth, which means, "oath of God." The Latin and Greek names tend to refer to abstract, qualities, as Sebastian, which means, "venerable" and Anthony, "inestimable."

In some cases the meaning of a name is not so important as an unpleasant connotation which it may have acquired in later years. An example is, Adolf, from Hitler's actions. Perhaps, the most notorious example of this is Judas which signifies, "praise," or "confession," but which parents will not choose because of its relationship with Christ's betrayal almost 2,000 years ago.

Some names suggest unpleasantness because they tend to bring to mind a word which is not inspiring. For example, Dulcia, meaning "sweet," makes some people think of the word, "dull." Ruth, which means, "beauty," reminds some people of the attribute, "ruthless."

Looking Ahead

A Plea For Political Health

Just how much the nation should do for the individual is a problem that raises some very fundamental questions. The basic ideas of the Constitution, in my opinion, make it clear that our founding fathers intended to create a nation in which citizens would be able to do as much for themselves as incineration and ability would permit. The founding fathers thought that the individual was the chief recipient of this new freedom, the keystone of which was responsibility to God, to neighbor, and to self, unrestricted by tyrannical power.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Celestial Starter

Most jockeys rode horses for several years before wearing racing silks but William Downs, a Baltimore lad, donned silks and appeared, not on a horse but on a magazine cover; looked so much like a jockey he was urged to become one and did... Jockey Consolato Errico dislikes the numeral "13"; riding his 13th race on August 13, 1946, at Saratoga he won his first race was marred; he had to share the honors with Jockey Wally Gruber in a dead heat... Many race tracks are named for a nearby city or town but Sunland Park, in New Mexico, came first and now the community has a U. S. post office address of Sunland Park... My Host, a stallion standing at the C. L. H. Farm in California had a perfect record in 1960; his entire crop of 7 foals of 1953 were winners as 2-year-olds including the stakes winners Brown Eyed Mary and Casa Mia... The record book shows J. Gilpatrick as the rider of Ruthless, first Belmont Stakes winner in 1867 but contemporary accounts reveal that the name "Gilpatrick" was a contraction of Gilbert Watson Patrick; some proof-reader later took aesthetic objection to the lack of an initial and contributed the "J"... Where distinguished officials are concerned, Longacres, at Seattle, can match any race track; Zeus, Greek god of the heavens, served as Starter for the Washington Derby of 1937 using a bolt of lightning to trigger the starting gate.

ABUNDANT LIFE

ARE YOU AN "ADOPTED" CHILD?

I heard a touching story the other day about the young daughter of a friend.

"You don't really belong to Mr. and Mrs. Stevens," her playmate Judy said spitefully, "because you are adopted."

"That's not true! I do belong to Mommy and Daddy!" Sherry protested as she turned and ran home. With big tears streaming down her plump, freckled cheeks, she threw her arms around her mother.

"It isn't true; it isn't true, is it, Mommy? I'm not adopted!" she cried hysterically.

Startled, Mrs. Stevens asked, "Why, Sherry darling, who told you that?"

"Judy said I am adopted and I don't really belong to you and Daddy. You do love me; don't you?" she pleaded as if her little heart were breaking.

Taking Sherry in her arms she kissed her on the forehead. Brushing away a tear rolling slowly down Sherry's flushed cheek, she said assuringly, "Yes, my darling, Daddy and I love you more than anything else in this world. To us you are the sunshine of every day, the joy of every hour."

"When you were just a tiny baby," she continued with love and compassion in her voice, "we chose you out of a whole roomful of baby boys and girls because we loved you the most. You belong to us just as much as the stars belong in the sky. You are our own little girl, and we love you very much."

Convinced of her parents' love, Sherry never again worried because she was adopted. She had been chosen because she was loved and wanted.

We, too, have been chosen by the love of God. In 1 Peter 2:9 we are told, "But ye are a chosen generation..." We are His children, His chosen people.

God's love for His people is so great that He sent His only Son into the world that we might be saved from our sins. (John 3:16.) We have been adopted by His love. God wants us to come to Him because He loves us. When we choose Christ and accept Him as our personal Saviour, all His blessings are ours.

With God in your life, your life becomes abundant. With Christ walking by your side, you need not be defeated by sin, sickness or fear. God has promised to be your shelter in the storm, your light in darkness, your refuge in time of trouble.

God is a good God and will meet each of your needs and give you abundant life. God offers His children healing, love, peace of mind and success.

There is no limit to the love of God. The assurance we have because of God's love and goodness is a powerful force in our daily lives.

Fabric Restorer Latest Homemakers' Aid

Even the meticulous housewife generally pays a price for her passion for cleanliness. Those lovely and crisply finished fabrics, like the pitcher which went to the well too frequently, ultimately make too many trips to the washing machine. They may be very clean but also become very limp and lifeless - casualties of a housewife's energies.

But they needn't be, any longer. Researchers have come up with a home product that brings these fabrics back to life, fully restored to the original finish put there by the textile manufacturers through their complicated and costly "sizing" treatment. Crisp Products Inc., have produced a spray known as MIMI which is applied during the ironing process. The result is a full restoration of the new look of the fabric.

MIMI is non-toxic, non-inflammable, odorless and safe for tender skin. When sprayed lightly on undampened fabrics it puts life back in the material without clogging or sticking and since it is not a starch it has none of starch's objectionable characteristics such as excessive build-up in the fabric.

Posture Queen Selected

Miss Christine Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones, Hagerstown, has been selected to reign as Posture Queen of Maryland during the observance of Correct Posture Week, May 1-7, it was announced this week by Dr. Jerome Powell, of Baltimore.

Miss Jones, a pretty senior at North Hagerstown High School, where she has shown especial interest in dramatics and physical education, was chosen at finals which took place at the Baltimore Association of Commerce Assembly Room. Posture Week is sponsored by the Maryland Chiropractic Association.

Hazel-eyed Miss Jones, who has done some modeling at Hagerstown, is 5 feet, 4 inches tall. A factor in her favor was that when she stood on the weight-bearing scales, she showed almost perfect balance. She plans to take a business course after graduation from high school.

She will appear on radio and television shows in Baltimore and Washington.

Television Star

To Appear At Blossom Festival

WINCHESTER, Va.—Gene Barry, known to millions through his role of "Bat Masterson," a current television series, will initiate personal appearances in principal cities in the United States and Canada by visiting Winchester at Apple Blossom Time. As Grand Marshal, he will lead the feature parade on Friday, April 28.

Currently, Mr. Barry is appearing at the New Lotus restaurant in Washington, D. C.

The actor won the critics' citation for his performance of the Alfred Lunt role in a revival of "Idiot's Delight" and this role brought him to the attention of Hollywood. Paramount signed him to a term contract and with that company he played an important part in "War of the Worlds." Free lancing, Barry appeared in "Soldier of Fortune," "Back from Eternity," "China Gate," "Thunder Road," and other films.

With the rising popularity of Western shows on television, Barry moved into the "Bat Masterson" role with which he is now identified and which has made him a familiar figure throughout the country.

Gene Barry's popularity has brought offers for new motion picture roles and many requests for personal appearances. The Apple Blossom Time visit here will be the first one on his extended tour.

The TV actor, in the role of Grand Marshal of the Apple Blossom Festival's feature band and float parade, has been preceded in his role by such well known predecessors as Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Van Johnson, Bert Parks, Ted Mack, Ed Sullivan, James Cagney, Howard Keel, Arthur Godfrey and Tom Tryon. Upward of 200,000 persons are expected here for the Apple Blossom Festival and the local Fruit Research laboratory has predicted a good show of blossoms for the Festival days which end Saturday, April 29.

Mrs. Craver Speaks To Garden Club

Mrs. F. E. Craver of the Wayside Flower Shop of Gettysburg, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Silver Fancy Garden Club held at the home of Mrs. Claude White, Littlestown, on Thursday, April 20. Mrs. Craver, in addition to making several attractive floral arrangements, gave a very informative talk on the care of cut flowers and potted plants.

Mrs. A. A. Koswick, president, conducted the business meeting. Plans have been completed for the Annual Bridge Party to be held at the Rod and Gun Club, Taneytown, May 16. Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner is chairman assisted by Miss Liza Carpenter, Mrs. Hewitt MacPherson, and Mrs. Frank Butler.

It was announced that Easter baskets filled with fruit and candy for the patients at the Springfield State Hospital were delivered there on Good Friday.

Mrs. Hewitt MacPherson, landscape design chairman, reported on plans to cooperate with the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Emmitsburg in landscaping the new Community Field.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. A. Koswick, Gettysburg.

Poppy Sale Will Benefit Veterans

On Friday, April 28, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Department "Buddy Poppy" Queen and her court will sell the first "Buddy Poppy" to the Hon. J. Harold Grady, Mayor of Baltimore City in his office at City Hall, at 11:00 a. m. At this time his honor will issue a proclamation for the VFW Buddy Poppy Drive May 2 to May 30, 1961.

On the same day at 2:30 p. m. the queen and her court will sell the first VFW Buddy Poppy for the State to the Hon. J. Millard Tawes, the Governor of Maryland, at the War Memorial Building. At this time the Governor will also issue a proclamation for the State of Maryland proclaiming May 2 to May 30, as VFW Buddy Poppy Drive.

Funds from this drive are used for immediate aid to disabled and needy veterans and their dependents, and, provides funds for our VFW service officer to assist veterans in adjudication of claims for compensation, pension and other benefits from the Veterans Administration.

It also provides our VFW posts with funds needed to carry on its "Welfare and Relief" work; maintenance and expansion of the VFW National Widows and Orphans Home at Eaton Rapids also benefits from these funds.

The selling of "Buddy Poppies" also aids the disabled veterans in VA homes and hospitals all over the country, which are the proud and symbolic product of the unsteady hands of our hospitalized veterans.

This year the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the State of Maryland will make our motto "To Honor the Dead by Helping the Living" a fact and not fiction.

Savings Bond Week Proclaimed

Governor's Proclamation "Minute Man Month" The 20th anniversary of the current United States Savings Bonds program arrives with the month of May.

May Day, once a day of joyous celebration for the welcoming of Spring, has been made a time for display of armed might by some of the world's totalitarian states. In this country I think it is fitting that we associate this May Day with the twentieth anniversary of the great thrift program that originated for the defense of our freedom in 1941 and has been adopted and continued by millions of Americans as a means of sustaining our defenses and strengthening our national economy so that we may continue to enjoy the blessings of freedom and abundance.

The Treasury's Savings Bonds program has been made possible these twenty years by the devoted, patriotic work of millions of volunteers. The symbol of these volunteers is the Minute Man of 1775 who started our fight for freedom. I, therefore, proclaim May 1961 to be Minute Man month in Maryland, as it will be in other States of the Union, and call upon the citizens of our State to support the U. S. Savings Bond program with the zeal that the challenge of the times demand of us.
