BY ABIGAIL

Hold your hats, folks, or better yet, hold onto your wallets for if what is proposed actually happens you'll be in for another substantial hike in real estate taxes. It was recently proposed by the Board of Education to build a spanking new high school for Frederick City. Well, perhaps they need such accommodations. But here's the one that will floor you. Under consideration to be included in the new school is a new swimming pool. This modern contribution to the advancement of physical education in our county schools would cost you, the taxpayer, a cool $350,000. Understand it correctly, that is the cost of the pool—not the school!

With the teachers demanding annual pay increases year after year and the cost of construction at an astronomical figure I can't understand why the Board of Education can't see the handwriting on the wall, so to speak. Just how extravagant can they become before they realize that they have broken the back of the taxpayers? Actually Frederick County is fast becoming a Mecca for teachers. Even the superintendent of schools for this county last week was given a cool $2000 increase bringing his total stipend to exactly $17,500 per year. A tidy sum indeed! This is actually only two or three thousand less than the superintendent of Baltimore County schools receives. In addition to the pool a new field-house and auditorium will be included in the setup. What the overall cost of the entire structure will be I'd be afraid to even estimate. Now then, this benefits Emmitsburg, Thurmont and the rest of the county exactly nothing, even though they will have to help pay for it. Should we all cry for the same privileges being extended or proffered Frederick students? If our pleas were heeded there wouldn't be enough money in the county to accommodate all of us, so why stick your neck out to start with? Before the plan goes any farther it should be nipped in the bud. By the way, I wonder what ever happened to the familiar Fact Finding Board of a year ago? In my opinion there is absolutely no justified reason for this extravagance with almost every school in the county operating overcrowded. It is more imperative to provide more classroom space than these "luxuries" which teach the children exactly nothing that they couldn't get elsewhere, and free of charge.

Littering the countryside still is a major problem and there's one brewing company, besides other agencies that is going to try and do something about it. The National Brewing Co. is to be commended for its forthcoming campaign to help diminish or eliminate altogether the extremely bad habit of litter-bugging that is causing our beautiful countryside to become unsightly. Anyway this brewing company is sponsoring an entire advertising campaign in the near future to educate the public against the nasty practice. In the future the company will devote the entire bottom of its familiar "six pack" to advertising calling for "Keep America Beautiful" and these packs will be shipped into 20 states. In Maryland county newspapers will carry paid advertisements admonishing the public against litter-bugging. This truly is a step in the right direction and its effect on the public will be measured on how clean our highways and countryside are kept. Let's cooperate folks, and our thanks to the National Brewing Co. for a grand public service.

Grange Plans Outdoor Meetings

Master William Wivell presided at the regular meeting of Emmitsburg Grange 407 held last week in the Emmitsburg Public School. The group decided to sponsor a bake sale and baking contest sometime in August.

Bernard Welty gave a report on the group's recent trip to the Carroll Manor Grange where it presented the program for that chapter's Friendship Night. Fourteen members made the trip.

A communication from the national master was read. The letter expressed the desire to reduce the debt of the National Grange Building in Washington and asked for additional help from all members of the Granges on a national level. A committee of Clara Harner, Bernard Welty and William Wivell was named to take action on the request. The next meeting of the group will be a wiener roast to be held at the cottage of Norman Shriver along Middle Creek, on July 5. In August it is planned to hold a covered dish social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred M. Watkins.

Application forms are available in the ASC county office for use in filing this request. Mr. Dudley states that applications must be filed in writing by July 1, 1961.

CLARENCE HAHN APPOINTED TO ROADS BOARD

Following through on views expressed by County Commissioner C. Burton Cannon, the County Roads Board voted to invite Edgar G. Emrich of Creagerstown to continue as chairman of a far-reaching study of employe relations for the County Roads Department. Mr. Emrich, whose term as a board member recently expired, would be asked to continue his work for the survey on an ex officio status.

Tuesday night's regular monthly meeting of the advisory roads board was the first session for Clarence E. Hahn of Emmitsburg. He was appointed to succeed Mr. Emrich on the board when the Democratic Central Committee failed to recommend the committee chairman for reappointment.

Mr. Hahn will serve as spokesman for the northern county section.

The subject of the county's survey of employe relations, including such important topics as possible salary adjustments, pension provisions and the feasibility of the merit system for employes of the department, was mentioned by Commissioner Cannon shortly before adjournment. He reminded members of the board that Mr. Emrich had directed much effort to preliminary work on the study, started last January, and said:

"I just don't feel it's good to have so much capable work go to waste. Mr. Emrich has gathered much information that could prove of great benefit to the county's future growth."

"In his effort, I believe Mr. Emrich has given far over and above anything he would ever get out of such a thankless task. I don't feel we should let it go to waste."

Members of the board readily agreed with Commissioner Cannon's view and urged that steps be taken to ask Mr. Emrich to continue work in behalf of the survey. County Commissioner A. Irvin Renn, who presided in the absence of County Commissioner Delbert S. Null, planned to contact the former board member without delay.

Commissioner Renn, at the opening of the meeting when he introduced Mr. Hahn to the other members, paid tribute to the work accomplished by Mr. Emrich. "He has contributed a lot to the Roads Board. He has been a very valuable asset," the commissioner said.

He simultaneously welcomed Mr. Hahn and invited him to visit the various facilities of the Roads Department. The new member was made familiar with how the Roads Board operates, and how he will serve as a link between that branch and the northern section of the county.

He played for Camp Lejeune, N. C., last winter, averaging about 35 points a game.

In signing with the Capitols, Sullivan passed up a chance to sign with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball League. His salary with the Capitols was not disclosed.

After the 1956-57 season, as a senior at Mount St. Mary's, Sullivan was selected on the Little All-America team. He also was a four-time Mason-Dixon Conference all star selection.

Record Number Visit State House

The 50,000th visitor to the Maryland State House this year arrived June 12, said George W. Hubley Jr., Director of the State Department of Economic Development. "This is 16 days earlier than the arrival date last year," he said.

"Last year there were 87,000 visitors for the full 12 months. We look for well over 90,000 in 1961."

For ten years it has been a custom to count the annual number of visitors to the State House. In 1951 the figure was 13,000.

"The steady increase is an index to the growth of tourism," observed Mr. Rubley.

CONGRESSIONAL VIEWPOINT

By John Marshall Butler
U. S. Senator, Maryland

WASHINGTON—Like Old Man River, the public debt just keeps rolling along, becoming bigger and bigger every year. At present, the national debt is $290 billion, a sum of money so large that the American taxpayer pays $9 billion every year just for its interest. Of course, some attempt is made to keep this monstrous liability under control by the device of a "debt ceiling," which is temporarily set at $293 billion. However, on June 30 this "ceiling" will drop down to $285 billion, which means that within the next week or two the Secretary of the Treasury will ask the Congress to raise the ceiling once again.

If the situation were not so serious, I would be tempted to suggest to the Secretary that he "go for broke," which is what this country might become if Federal spending continues upward and upward. And the prospect of an ever-increasing debt does not appear to disturb the Executive Branch. Indeed, the President states that it is not important to balance the budget in any one year over a period of years. But what assurance has been given that the budget will be balanced at all? Deficits are predicted for 1961 and 1962 to the tune of $5 billion and they are almost certain to run higher.

I, and every other concerned member of Congress, am pledged to protect the money of the American people, presently saddled with a debt of $290 billion. If each one of the 67 million American workers were asked to contribute equally to dispose of the debt, he would pay $4.32. That's a nice little sum—the price of a beautiful new car, the cost of two or three years of education at a top university, a solid down payment on a new house or a needed operation for an ill parent. To my way of thinking, it is a sum which is too high and which must be reduced. And it can be reduced by one of two ways: higher taxes or less government spending.

I believe that most taxpayers will agree with me that taxes are high enough already. Which leaves us with the alternative of paring government spending. Of the $3.4 billion which the President has asked for in his '62 budget, $2.3 billion, or 67 per cent, are for non-defense spending proposals. While it is true that this country can afford to take care of those who cannot take care of themselves, it cannot afford to support welfare programs which will create inflation — a bigger problem than any they might solve.

School Closings Bring Safety Warning To Drivers

School is about to close for the annual summer vacation. Remember, death and injury will lurk on each and every block in every city, town and country of our Free State of Maryland. During 1960 throughout the nation 265,000 pedestrians were injured and 7,600 were killed. Of this group 400 children were killed and 16,860 injured while playing in the streets. 700 persons were killed and 6,130 injured while walking on rural highways. 165,850 persons were injured and 4,940 killed while crossing intersections. 20 youngsters were killed and 1,280 injured while hitchhiking a ride on vehicles. 40,110 persons were injured and 470 killed coming from behind parked cars. 320 persons were killed and 11,500 injured walking along the highway even though they were well off the roadway. Bearing in mind now that school is over for the summer, there is going to be an increase in skates, scooters and bicycles on the streets. Last year throughout the country 430 persons were killed and 52,300 were injured while riding bicycles.

We are asking the motorist to think of our youngsters at all times of the day on every one of our streets, not only in Baltimore but throughout the State.

Mrs. Helen Tullis, chairman of Pedestrian Safety, Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, has called to the attention of motorists and parents that the "Three P's"—Public, Private and Parochial Schools will be closed for summer vacation and three-quarters of a million school children will be out.

These statistics furnished by this department have proven to Mrs. Tullis that the motorists should expect our children to dart out into the street at any time despite all the warning and caution signs. Remember, these youngsters are immature and are depending upon the motorists to look out for them. How many of these children will be killed or injured, never returning to their class rooms will depend a great deal upon the courtesy and careful consideration of our motorists and parents in heeding this most serious warning.

Governor Tawes and the members of The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission are anxious to alert the motorist to vacation danger.

Sister-Formation Conference Held At Local College

The Sister-Formation Conference, a section of the National Catholic Education Assn., held its Sixth Regional Meeting at Saint Joseph College last weekend. The conferences, attended by a large number of religious orders, were concerned with methods of promoting the religious, cultural and professional formation of Sisters.

The weekend meeting was held under the patronage of His Excellency, Francis P. Keough, D.D., Archbishop of Baltimore. Commenting on the significance of Sister-training, the archbishop declared that "Catholic education will maintain the high place it deservedly holds in the United States as long as Sister-educators continue to progress in truly solid educational theory and practice."

Opening with a Dialogue Mass Saturday morning in the college chapel, the general session was welcomed by Sister Isabel, provincial superior of the Eastern Province of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent dePaul. The theme, "Practical Experience in the Operation of a Juniorate," was the initial discussion highlighted by presentations by the Very Rev. Celsus R. Wheeler, O.F.M., on the American Religious and the Apostolate, and a survey of the Need for Juniorates in the United States, delivered by Sister Mary Annette, C.S.J., national executive secretary of the Sister-Formation Conference. Sister Hilda Gleason, president of Saint Joseph College, served as chairman for the program.

Saturday afternoon, Sister Mary Ignatius, S.J., of Brentwood, L. I., presided over a panel program on Intellectual Formation in the Juniorate. Mother M. Rose Elizabeth of Washington, D. C., acted as consultant for the discussion. The panel consisted of Sister M. Jame-setta, S.S.J., of Nazareth College;

Mother M. Stella Maris, R.S.M., Sisters of Mercy Generalate in Bethesda; Mother M. Brendan, R.S.H.M., of Marymount College; and Sister Mary Jean, O.P., of Mt. St. Mary College in Newburgh, N. Y. The topic, "Spiritual Formation in the Juniorate," was considered in a panel led by Chairman-Sister Maura, O. P., of Caldwell, N. J. Consultant for this phase was Sister Ritamary, C.H.M., of Ottumwa, Iowa, with panelists Sister Jeanne Marie, O.P., Maryknoll, N. Y.; Sister Grace Marie, O.F.M., of Williams-ville, N. Y.; Sister M. Cecile, S.C.C., of Mendham, N. J.; and Sister St. Mary Adrien, S.N.D., from Staten Island.

Mother M. Hildegard, R.G.S., of Peekskill, N. Y., directed the Sunday program which centered on the promising practices in the operation of Juniorates, and included a wide variety of topics concerning the enrichment of the programs offered to the Juniorate Sisters. A group discussion of the ideal Sister to be formed by the Juniorate was headed by Sister Mary Jeanne, R.S.M., from Bethesda, Md., and followed by reports of the organization and a general discussion. An evaluation of the Sister-Formation Section are Sister Catherine, D.C., Chairman; Mother Regina, R.S.M., Vice-Chairman; and Sister Mary Annette, C.S.J. the Executive Secretary.

Missouri Capital Falls; Harpers Ferry Burned

By Lon K. Savage

This week 100 years ago was a bad one for the Confederacy. Federal troops occupied Jefferson City, capital of Missouri, and defeated state troops at Boonville. And Confederate troops under General Joseph E. Johnston set fire to the arsenal at Harpers Ferry in northern Virginia and withdrew, leaving it to the Yankees.

The conflict between state and federal governments in Missouri erupted again June 11th, when Governor Claiborne Jackson and his military commander, General Sterling Price, conferred at St. Louis with Nathaniel Lyon, former commander of the St. Louis arsenal who had just been promoted to brigadier general.

The meeting was futile. It broke up after four hours with Jackson's refusal to allow federal troops free movement in his state, Lyon's insistence on that very thing. The result amounted to a mutual declaration of war.

Jackson and Price hurried back to Springfield that night and by morning had called for 50,000 troops to repel "invasion" by the federal troops. Next day, the Missouri government, with a rapidly forming army of volunteers, withdrew to Boonville, 50 miles up the Missouri River, and set up their defense.

Lyon Moves Out

Lyon, meanwhile, began moving 2,000 troops and artillery by steamer toward Jefferson City. Arriving on the 15th, they occupied the city and raised their flag over the state capitol.

From there, Lyon again pushed westward on the river and landed his men unopposed on the 17th four miles south of Boonville. There he met Jackson's troops in a sharp fight and drove them from the town. Though casualties were small on both sides, the fight left nearly all of Missouri in federal hands and drove Jackson and his government into refuge in the southwestern corner of the state.

Johnston's Withdrawal

Meanwhile, back east, Johnston had been watching with trepidation the advance of a federal column under General Robert Patterson from Chambersburg, Pa., south toward Harpers Ferry, and each day his fears grew. The Union victory at Philippi had alarmed him to some extent, and almost daily there were demonstrations against his men. (Part of his fear was based on a June 13 raid against Confederates at nearby Romney—a raid led by Colonel Lew Wallace, who was to go down in history as the author of "Ben Hur").

Having completed the job of moving usable firearms and equipment from Harpers Ferry, Johnston finally resolved to leave the position which "it perfectly suited the enemy's views" to have him occupy. On June 14, 15 and 16, he blew up the town's long railroad bridge over the Potomac, set fire to the public buildings and evacuated his 7,000 men from the fortress in a long, dusty caravan. With black smoke curling up from the town behind them, they headed south through Charles Town, camped at Bunker Hill and finally stopped near Winchester.

Patterson, meanwhile, advanced with painful caution. His men crossed the Potomac, tested the arsenal, and, with some surprise, found it empty. Taking courage from the withdrawal, Patterson reported the rebels "have fled, and in confusion. Their retreat is as demoralizing as a defeat."

The withdrawal was taken that way in Richmond, and both Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis were unhappy over it. Nevertheless, Johnston's new position at Winchester was to prove crucial in the most important battle of that first year of war—First Bull Run.

Next Week: McClellan advances into West Virginia.

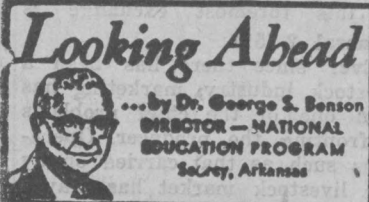

A child's first encounter with a hospital is during admission. Even though the doctor and the nurse are gentle and kind, they are strangers and most children do better if the mother does the undressing, permits the nurse to help her and holds on to the child's hand while the physician does the examination.

However, some children, when frightened (apparently feeling the protection of the mother's presence), give vent to their fears and revolt to such an extent that a satisfactory examination is impossible until the mother leaves the room.

We believe that whenever feasible, the mother and the father, if he is along, should go with the child when he is taken to his room or to the ward. This initial visit, allowing the mother to get acquainted with the nurses and to see the child's crib or bed, is very reassuring, both to her and to the child. When the child sees the mother talk to the nurse in a friendly manner, he realizes that he also can trust the nurses, and when the mother leaves with the reassurance that she will be back tomorrow, the nurse's task in quieting the child will be less difficult.

It is natural for younger children to cry as if wounded and angry when their mother leaves them in a strange situation. But if the mother comes to the hospital each day, most children will be reassured and realize that although mother is going away she will come back. They then turn to the people around them for love and protection in her absence.

It also helps a child in this age group to have a familiar and beloved object in his crib—the favorite toy or doll or blanket seems to be a tie to home, a consolation in loneliness and a token of the child's identity.

To Avoid The Funeral

Mr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of Brigham Young University, whose courageous action in crusading against the current drive for federal aid to education we reviewed in recent columns, has proposed in an address to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce a six-point program for American economic and political health. I heartily agree with him that if remedial measures are not soon taken, this greatest country in the world will conduct a funeral for freedom of enterprise, which means to bury itself. Indeed, Mr. Khrushchev may not need to turn a hand.

As concisely as possible, within the limitations of this space, I therefore would like to pass on to readers Mr. Wilkinson's six points. First of all he recommends that we reacquire the self-sacrificing patriotism of our fathers and rely upon the sweat of our brows. "We can have no double standard of stating at one time that our survival as a free nation depends on what we can do for our country and at the same time proposing a legislative program founded primarily on governmental handouts to its people."

Practice The Faith
Next, he says that we can avoid the funeral of free America by personal devotion to the cause of freedom and to our system of free enterprise. If we believe in it, we must practice it. "We must not ourselves give lip service to competition and at the same time violate the anti-trust laws which are designed to foster free enterprise by competition. If we are going to criticize government hand-outs for the other fellow, we must not ourselves sup at the public trough."

Mr. Wilkinson then proposes more adequate financial support for those fighting the battles for freedom. Our "penny wise and pound foolish" attitudes show striking contrast "with the millions poured by labor into union and political action treasuries, much of which is spent for promoting the regimentation of our economy." We must also devote the necessary time and energy to studying national problems and formulating appropriate policies.

Avoid Double Standards

His fourth point calls for the government to be fair and consistent in its dealing with all segments of the economy. "It must not have a double standard whereby it imprisons businessmen for conspiring to fix prices and at the same time promotes and encourages unions to conspire to fix wages . . . I give you the challenge, without the respect to party, to correct the present one-sided political control of our public life."

Mr. Wilkinson in his next point deals with legislation which could be designed to bring progress through voluntary action and result in better jobs for more people, not by strifling but by freeing the economy. The first of these laws would involve tax reforms that would make possible an increase in our rate of new investment. "Programs of this kind will do more to alleviate the anxiety and misery of those who are out of work than any amount of government subsidies."

Other legislation might work for increased mobility of labor and resources, for increased flexibility in both directions of wages and prices, for increased flow of invention and innovation, and for more exports in international trade. Such legislation might help eliminate restrictions on occupations, oppose payments for work not actually performed, slow spiralling wage cost increases unrelated to productivity or prosperity, encourage giving rewards to genius and labor, and promote production and trade in volume.

Finally, Mr. Wilkinson would preserve economic freedom by insisting that our schools train students in American traditions. "Here again we must do away with our double standard of giving lip service to and living off our American system of free enterprise while at the same time we either fail to teach its principles, or, in many cases, teach concepts which would destroy it." In training of teachers and in building school curricula, he believes that we have neglected to educate for economic literacy and have often supported institutions whose economic philosophy is alien to the American way.

To better inform the public of the many benefits to be derived from owning insurance of all sorts, insurance companies last year invested $312,925,000 in national newspaper advertising.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

HOW TO OPEN YOUR EYES

When puppies are born into this world, their eyes are tightly shut. They cannot see a thing, and for quite a length of time the puppies remain blind until their eyes open to a big, bright, new world.

As soon as they see the sunshine, the grass and the trees, they begin to move about. I like to think that their first little barks of ecstasy are in thanksgiving to God for opening their eyes.

I am reminded of a man in the Bible who was blind from birth. Jesus passed by and healed him, and the man began to see—his eyes were opened.

Now when a man gets his eyes opened, things begin to happen. He experiences a great change in his life. He begins to compare what he was with what he is, what he had with what he has. And the man in the Bible was no exception. When he was asked how it all had happened, he couldn't answer. He didn't know how Christ had healed him. But he said, "One thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see" (John 9:25).

When a person accepts Christ, he turns from his years of sin and opens his eyes. He feels clean and new and fresh. He feels the joy of the Lord in his heart and soul and God's healing strength surging through his body. If you were to ask this person how he had been transformed, he would not be able to tell you or to explain it. He could only say, "It's different now. Whereas I was once lost in sin, disturbed, worried, tired and diseased in body, and almost down and out, now I have abundant life. Now I am whole."

God's dealings are always definite and positive. He changes a person from darkness to light—from sin to salvation—from sickness to health—from death to life. Christ opens men's eyes.

Perhaps your eyes have been blind to God's love around you. Maybe all that you can see is gloom and darkness in turbulent world situations—the struggle in the atomic arms race, the threat of nuclear annihilation. You need your eyes opened to the things that are real and positive. Lift your eyes above the fog of negativism and look straight to a good God who loves you and will never desert you. Open your eyes to the strength and protection of God. When you find abundant life.

Mrs. Robert Rothenhoefer keeps track of phone calls—finds her telephone saves her $12.15 in two weeks

Baron "listens in" as Mrs. Rothenhoefer uses her kitchen extension to summon a repairman. This call saved her a 20-minute drive.

19 hours . . . 177 miles of traveling . . . $12.15!

These are the savings reported to us by Mrs. Rothenhoefer, of Frederick, after she had kept a two-week record of her telephone calls—estimating the time, travel and money each call saved.

The totals are impressive—and a surprise to Mrs. Rothenhoefer. She says, "I'm amazed to see just how much running around town our phone saves. I'm afraid I had no idea what an important part the telephone plays in our family's daily life, until now."

What would a telephone record show in your home? Chances are you'd find, too . . . that your telephone gives you far more than it costs.

WOODY'S CASH MARKET

75 Years Of Service

This old established food market and general merchandise store at 500 N. Market in Frederick is open daily and Sunday, 9 a. m. to midnight. Woodrow (Woody) Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, the Notary Public are now owners and operators.

This is one of the stores which is doing its part in furthering the progress and expansion of the area, and is well-deserving of more than passing comment in this review of the onward progress of our community. Since the general purpose of this review is to give the local and adjoining areas an adequate idea of their various products and service available to them, we deem it quite appropriate to devote this space to Woody's Cash Market at Frederick.

The men who originated this enterprise obtained a very liberal education in the school of experience and supplemented it with a study of the needs of the area, and thus equipped themselves to render an unexcelled service in their line of business.

DELBERT S. NULL

President, Board of County Commissioners

One of the names looming large in the public life of Frederick County today is that of Delbert S. Null, the auctioneer and realtor of 106 N. Court in Frederick, President of the Board of County Commissioners. He has achieved a splendid record while serving as a County Commissioner, and is prominent with leaders as well as the rank and file alike. He has fashioned and pursued a platform that is constructive and successful.

People watching him know and observe full well that he studies questions of importance in this office carefully and closely and that his mind is keyed to the responsibility he owes the people.

C. BURTON CANNON, JR.

County Commissioner

The responsible public position held by C. Burton Cannon Jr., of Yellow Springs, a member of the Board of Frederick County Commissioners, surely in our opinion could not be called by anyone a bed of roses. Official tasks have their hills and sharp corners.

Commissioner Cannon, former Clerk of the Board, ably holds this high post and is a man who works harder to acquit himself of his public official duties in an efficient manner, than were he conducting his own personal business enhancing his personal fortune. Such men are true community builders and civic leaders who are to be duly appreciated.

The moment finds us happy to comment upon him in our presentation of the "Notables of Frederick County."

This well known nursing home occupies commodious quarters, is excellently appointed and the boarding home is most modernly equipped. The rooms are well furnished and pleasant in every way, cheerfulness and an air of hope are inspired by its furnishings which have been selected with this idea in view.

They are always prepared to take care of urgent cases in the most rapid and efficient manner, but it is always best for those who are expecting to go to the rest home to make arrangements in advance.

As the purpose of this review edition is to give the outside world an adequate idea of our social, industrial, artistic and professional progress we deem it quite appropriate to call the attention of the public to the efficiency and great work that is being carried on at this ideal rest home. John (Jack) Leckron is the amiable head of this live-wire concern at 400 S. Cannon Ave., in Hagerstown. Get their free estimates on roofing, siding and sheet metal work.

No review of the business, agricultural and industrial interests of this section of the state would be complete without prominent mention of the Bonded Applicators of Md., Inc., which adds in no little measure to the progress and prosperity of this section. It is a well known fact that there is no one institution in the community that has met with a greater favor with the public than this establishment by reason of the fact that the management has had wide experience in every phase of the business and because of their comprehensive knowledge of every branch of the trade, this establishment has continued to witness an increase in their business.

They deal on a large scale and their activity is conducive to the progress and expansion of the community in no small degree. In making this review of the onward progress, we call the attention of all the people to the advantage of having a metropolitan service at their door, which has maintained inviolate service to the public. ## Oldest Flag Is Displayed At Annapolis

According to the Chief Military Historian of the United States, the oldest official American flag in existence is in the State House of Maryland at Annapolis. It is the banner known as the Flag of Cowpens, so named because, in the Revolution, it was carried at the battle of Cowpens, South Carolina, 1781.

The Chief Military Historian also believes this is the only national flag now existing that was made under the provisions of the first Flag Law, passed by the Continental Congress June 14, 1777.

These distinctions have long given the banner deep interest for the State House's thousands of visitors. A distinction of an official nature will be added, however, says George W. Hubley, Jr., Director of the Maryland Department of Economic Development, if House Bill 744, now in committee, should be passed.

The proposed statute would make Flag Day a legal national holiday, with the same status as the Fourth of July. The new holiday would officially honor the creation of the original American flag, and Maryland's flag of Cowpens is the only example of the original American flag left. State and National Glory.

It has always been a Maryland possession. In the Revolution it was the standard of the Maryland Third Infantry. At Cowpens its bearer was a soldier named William Bachellor. He was killed and his family was permitted to keep the flag.

In the War of 1812, when the British attacked Baltimore, William Bachellor's son fought at North Point in the Maryland 27th—and carried his father's Revolutionary flag. He lived to be an old man and, at his death, presented the banner to the State.

However, though it served as regimental colors, it is still the national emblem. It is made strictly in accordance with the provisions of the first Flag Law, with 13 stars and 13 stripes. Said Mr. Hubley, "Maryland has long gloried in possession of the oldest officially correct national banner—which is also the only one known that was in both the Revolution and the War of 1812. Now, should Flag Day be made a national holiday, the State's proud possession will be an official object of veneration to the whole American people."

ures will include Baltimore Celtic players Art Donovan, Jim Parker, John Unitas, and Jim Mutscheler.

When you change your address, you wouldn't think of carrying the same old house key along after you have made the change in residence, would you? Yet, according to W. S. King, Manager of the Hagerstown Social Security District Office, there are some married women who still carry the same old social security cards they had before they were wed. Some fail to make the changes months, or even years, after they have changed their names from Miss to Mrs.

The key to your social security record is your social security account number card. No one should have more than one social security number, yet it is possible to have more than one card under different names. In the interest of having all earnings properly credited to the proper account number, the Social Security Administration needs to know about changes in names whether it be because of marriage, divorce or other reasons. Women who marry and fail to report this change may experience delay when it is time to figure the social security benefits due them.

It really is a simple matter for a newly married woman to insure that her social security records are current and correct under the proper name and number. King advised that if you can, it is best if you bring your old social security card to the nearest social security office; in Hagerstown the address is 59 North Cannon Ave. The social security people will issue you a new social security card with the same account number you had but under your new name.

Renewal Permits Being Mailed

John R. Jewell, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles this week announced that the D.M.V. began mailing applications for the renewal of operator's permits this month to persons whose last name begins with the letters "A" through "S" and whose birth-month is July through December of an "odd" year. Persons renewing their licenses this year will have had their previous permit for more than a year.

On the first of June more than 44,176 license renewal applications were mailed to Marylanders eligible for renewal in July. Under the law, the present licenses of motorists renewing in a given month expire on the last day of that month.

"It is important," Commissioner Jewell said, "that drivers realize that their licenses will expire at the end of their birthmonth and take every precaution to renew during that month."

He further noted that the Department of Motor Vehicles recently sent written instructions on the recognition of expired Maryland licenses to all law enforcement agencies and stated that they will be on the alert for drivers using out-dated licenses.

Maryland's Permanent License Renewal Program became effective on January 1. Since that time the Department has issued over 180,584 renewed licenses to state drivers.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Farm Prices
BABSON PARK, Mass., June 15—First let me say that farm prices affect everyone, not simply the farmer. They affect every consumer who reads this column. We all have to eat; and indirectly we pay what the farmer gets for his crops.

President Kennedy's Report To The Nation

As I have time to reflect upon President Kennedy's recent radio-TV report on his meeting with Mr. Khrushchev, it boils down to this—Mr. Khrushchev does not want war and is willing to cooperate on negotiations for disarmament, but he feels that Communism will gradually sweep over the world and will win without war. Of course, President Kennedy in a manful manner said "We will not allow this." There it ended in a peaceful tie.

After he talked with Macmillan in London, they concluded that the only way to stop this Communist "glacier" would be by providing the backward nations with something better than Khrushchev could offer. Furthermore, to be effective, we must not only do it as free nations, but do it first, with the United States carrying the burden of the load.

What The Backward Nations Need

President Kennedy refers to the need for education, new industries, more healthful living conditions, and food; but this is looking ahead ten or more years. The people in these poor countries which Communism plans to take over, one by one, cannot wait for food. Therefore, the fight between Communism and freedom will depend largely upon which side will first supply these poor people with food and the ability to immediately raise more crops.

In short, it seems that this cold war will be fought by farm products rather than by missiles, submarines, or men. It further seems that Congress will heartily back this new program. Most Congressmen are glad to help farmers, and all Congressmen know that American mothers would rather be taxed more than send their sons to fight in guerrilla warfare.

Farm Prices And Prosperity
A study of economic history shows that general prosperity (including stock prices) is basically determined by the condition of the farmers. The farmers' prosperity is usually determined by the price which they receive for their crops, provided the weather is normal. This means that a greater demand for farm products should mean higher prices and greater prosperity for all.

Farm prosperity benefits the railroads, the harvester companies, and a host of other industries. From the time the farmer plows his ground until he reaps his crops, he is spending money. The higher the prices he receives, the more the farmer spends to the benefit of all concerned. Even the weather is not the factor it used to be, due to the use of improved seeds and methods of cultivation.

Farm Problem Takes A New Turn

Up to the present time, the discussions in Congress as to how best to aid the farmer have been very controversial. The Congressmen from the Central West have fought for greater appropriations for the farmer; while the Congressmen from the East, the section which pays most of the taxes, have fought for some more realistic plan than President Kennedy has heretofore proposed. Now, if the President carries out his program to help these poor nations, the farm problem will become a national affair and be classified under Defense.

Therefore, let me summarize: (1) President Kennedy has been told by Khrushchev that Communism will win by helping the poor nations and by using guerrilla warfare when necessary. (2) The immediate help which the poor nations need is food and the ability to grow crops on their own soil. (3) This means that the side which is to be the most successful will be the one which acts first. Mr. Khrushchev as a dictator can act quickly, while President Kennedy will be handicapped by committees, politics, and Congressmen. This thought is not so optimistic. (4) When President Kennedy left on his trip, he was being advised to "freeze prices and wages"; but since his return, he asks only to be dictator to the extent of carrying out the above proposals as a part of the Defense Program.

OUTDOOR SPORTING TIPS

Fishing

Where are the fish hiding? That's a question that needs answering, most anglers will agree. Well, here's one answer that's certainly worth a try. If you're looking for a school of big bass (and who isn't?), go out to the center of a likely lake just before sunset. Watch for flat water surrounded by a slight ripple. This is the clue that there's a dropoff on the bottom below. The calm water indicates the shallow area. Work your lure in one of these spots for a lunker large-mouth.

There's many a slip betwixt an unscared fish and a fish dinner. That fish may be dead, but often it seems determined to give the angler a bad time right up to the bitter end. To hold a fish tight while you're relieving him of his scales lay him on a board and stick an ice pick through his tail. It's so easy when you know how.

Hunting
For hunters who know how, there's nothing more deadly than a duck call for luring in the mallards, blacks and cans. But, nothing will put the damper on a hunt quicker than a broken call. The part of a call most likely to break down is the reed. If you discover yours is broken, don't despair. Take a double-edged razor or blade, shape it to fit, and replace the broken reed. You will find that it works so well that you may just leave it in there for subsequent trips.

Big-game hunters spend a lot of time and money to get in a position for a shot at a trophy head. Because of this they take no chances on messing up a shot—it's always possible their lives may depend on it. Here's one trick they use worth passing on. Cut off the breast pocket of your hunting jacket. Next time a deer or rabbit pops up, unexpectedly, you won't catch the butt of your weapon on the flap or mouth of the pocket and goof a perfectly good chance.

Boating
With today's big outboards we sometimes tend to forget that speed (fast speed) isn't everything. Fish, for example, often like trolled lures presented slow and easy. If you have trouble getting your engine to throttle down, try this. Wrap a rag around the prop and secure it there. This will slow down the boat and speed up the fishing action.

2nd Installment Of Income Tax Due July 15

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reminded Maryland income taxpayers this week that the second installment in declarations of estimated income tax for the year 1961 will not be due until July 15, 1961. Mr. Goldstein stated that a number of inquiries had been received with regard to the second installment notice. These notices have not yet been mailed as the due date is not June 15 as in the case of the Federal payment, but is July 15th. Moreover, Mr. Goldstein said the third installment date was October 15th and not September 15, as was the Federal date.

Comptroller Goldstein requested all taxpayers to await the receipt of the installment notice so that the State's portion of the notice could be returned with the remittance. The notice contains the taxpayer's account number which is necessary in order to give the proper credit.

In connection with the declaration of estimated tax for 1961, Mr. Goldstein said, that it was the feeling that there were quite a number of taxpayers who may be delinquent in this regard. Persons with income not subject to withholding should file declarations, these include the self-employed and those who work for employers outside of Maryland where no Maryland withholding is made from their salaries.

Reviewing the law, Mr. Goldstein reminded taxpayers, that declarations were required in the following instances:

(a) a single person having an income in excess of $1,500, of which $500 is not subject to Maryland withholding, and (b) a married couple having an income in excess of $2,500, of which $500 is not subject to Maryland withholding.

The declaration for 1961 was due April 17, 1961 at which time at least one-fourth of the estimated tax was payable. Taxpayers who have failed to file declarations where required by law, should do so at once. Comptroller Goldstein stated. Forms for filing can be obtained by writing the Maryland Income Tax Division at Annapolis, or at any of the branch offices of the Income Tax Division.

Most men need two women in their lives—a secretary to take everything down and a wife to pick everything up.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Luke 12:41-48. The Lord said, Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall make ruler over his household? (Luke 12:42.)

If we are not experiencing the blessings of Christian stewardship, we have missed the essence of Christianity. Jesus instructs us in becoming better stewards. I recall seeing a woman so crippled that she had great difficulty getting about. I saw her sweeping snow from the church walks. Here was a person who loved the Lord so much that despite her handicap, she offered her willing hands in service. This is the kind of dedication the one of whom the Lord says, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." Prayer

Dear Lord, we thank Thee for the blessed opportunity of stewardship. Help us joyfully to fulfill our responsibility as Christians. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen." Thought For The Day

Being good stewards is the essence of Christian living.

Heart Association To Show Students Technical Training

The Heart Association of Maryland will sponsor its fourth annual Weekend With Scientists on June 16, 17 and 18. This year for the first time two boys from Frederick High School, Osborne Price and John Ferguson, will attend sponsored by the Frederick County Heart Association. Plans for the event were made public by Dr. Robert J. Wilder, chairman of the three-day event.

Dr. Wilder said that the Heart Association project gives talented young high school students an opportunity to meet and discuss medical research with scientists in the field. As for the past two years, the meeting will be held at the College Park campus of the University of Maryland. This year seventy students will take part. There will be fourteen medical research men on the faculty.

The activity is presented limited to male high school students in their sophomore or junior years. Their selection is made by the schools.

Dr. Wilder, who is Assistant Chief of Surgery at Baltimore City Hospital, said what the project has been a great success in the past three years. Similar programs are under way in other parts of the country, patterned after the effort here.

The purpose of the Weekend

3rd Mondays at 8:00 p. m.

Lions Club, 2nd and 4th Monday at 8:15 p. m.

Luther League, 1st and 3rd Sunday.

Lutheran Church Council, last Tuesday.

Masonic Lodge, 2nd and 4th Thursday at 8:00 p. m.

PTA, Emmitsburg Public School, 4th Wednesday.

PTA, St. Joseph's High School, 2nd Tuesday, 8 p. m.

PTA, Mother Seton School, 2nd Thursday.

United Lutheran Church Women, 1st Thursday.

Vigilant Hose Co., 2nd Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Veterans of Foreign Wars, 1st Wednesday.

VFW Auxiliary, 1st Thursday.

With Scientists, according to the doctor, is to give an insight to the students into the challenges and rewards of medical research work. "A growing problem in medicine," he said, "is the increasing difficulty of winning talented students to biological research. The competition for young people is very keen. It is vital to the future health of our nation, and the world, that we meet the competition. It is essential to the continuation of the splendid progress being made toward the solution of health problems."

Dr. Wilder estimated that about fifty students were chosen from the Baltimore area (including Annapolis, Howard and Carroll Counties), ten boys from Prince George's County, and ten from other areas in the state.

The subject matter to be presented during the three-day weekend will be in the nature of details and opportunities in the various medical fields. Dr. Wilder stressed that the talks will be informal and that ample opportunity will be provided for questions.

POLIO SEASON NOW ON; STATE WAS HARD HIT LAST YEAR

With the approach of a new polio season, Dr. Perry F. Prather, Director of the Maryland State Department of Health, reminded Marylanders today that this State was among those most severely struck by paralytic polio last year.

The entire United States is being urged to increase the number of persons protected against paralytic poliomyelitis by the Salk vaccine, the Director said. The President, the United States Public Health Service, state and local health departments, interested private agencies, and physicians have all joined in backing the drive to protect "babies and breadwinners," two of the highest-risk groups, from this crippling disease.

"Maryland citizens should be particularly responsive to this plea," Dr. Prather stated. "Last year, 146 Maryland individuals developed the disease; 111 of these were still paralyzed two months later; 29 required mechanical aids to maintain respiration; and 11 died. Of these unfortunate persons, 47 per cent had never received any Salk vaccine, and only seven per cent had had the recommended number of four injections. Among Baltimore children under five, the group with the largest number of cases, three or more inoculations with Salk vaccine provided protection for 92 per cent of those receiving them. It is tragic that not everyone had obtained this readily available defense against paralyzing illness."

While preschool children and young adults have been singled out as groups which are particularly vulnerable, no one is too young or too old to get polio if his body doesn't have advance protection. The public health official explained that, while it is possible for individuals over 40 to contract polio, the likelihood is far less. Those over 40 in doubt as to the need for inoculation should consult their private physician.

The full course of four injections is strongly recommended for maximum protection. Infants should be started during the first year of life and all others with no or inadequate immunization should begin at once to complete their total. The material available is the Salk vaccine, which is of proven high effectiveness. There is no live vaccine presently available for regular use.

"Maryland's recent grim reminder should be heeded. Paralytic poliomyelitis is still a threat. Those not protecting themselves and their families are taking a needless and grave risk," the Director concluded.

No Decision As Yet Reached on Cullen Hospital Senator Barrick Reports

State Senator Samuel W. Barrick told a Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association meeting this week that he has contacted Governor J. Millard Tawes on the issue of the conversion of the Victor Cullen Hospital in Sabillasville into a training school for delinquent boys.

Senator Barrick said that Governor Tawes told him that he has made no final decision concerning the use of the Victor Cullen Hospital and that no final decision has been reached at the state level.

He promised the members of the executive board of the local Tuberculosis Association that when the Frederick County delegation in Annapolis appears before the Board of Public Works to testify on the use of Victor Cullen, representatives from organizations in Frederick County opposing the conversion will be informed and invited to appear at the hearing.

The state senator added that Dr. Leon H. Hetherington, chief of the Maryland State Bureau of Tuberculosis, had told him it is his feeling that the Victor Cullen Hospital should be continued as a treatment center for respiratory diseases for at least the next eight to ten years.

When the Victor Cullen Hospital is no longer needed for this purpose, it should be converted into a State nursing home or a rehabilitation center or some other use which would not require great outlays of money for the conversion, State Senator Barrick said.

Senator Barrick admitted that when he was first approached in the subject in the summer of 1960 by Judge Thomas J. S. Waxter he felt that it would be economically advantageous to the Sabillasville area to have the Victor Cullen Hospital converted into a detention home rather than have it closed down entirely.

He added, however, that at that time he was under the impression that the tubercular hospital at Sabillasville was to be declared surplus by the State Health Dept. and that there was no longer a need for a tuberculosis facility at this location.
