Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Quite a number of the citizenry was rather riled over the Fourth of July weekend when units of the National Guard broke camp and hit the highways, right in the middle of the regular traffic stampede that occurs each year at this time. Needless to say the trucks and soldiers created quite a traffic menace with many thousands of motorists bent on reaching their destination in the usual hurry. I am at loss as to why encampments have to be terminated at this particular date. It would seem far more sensible for those in charge and responsible for the safety of the men, to stagger their training period so as not to interfere with the particular holiday period. It would appear to be a simple thing to change the date of the camp training period. With the Governor screaming for safety and numerous safety drives in effect to try and diminish traffic slaughter, I feel His Excellency should look into this matter right away and take the Army off the highway during such periods . . . in the interest of safety.

With the Army trucks on the move this didn't seem to be enough to infuriate the motoring public. Along comes the State Roads Commission on Monday, the day before July 4th, right in the middle of the mess, and starts to paint middle stripes in the road thereby forcing one-way traffic for long periods of time. Talk about your poor judgment, wow. They couldn't have picked a better time to gum up the works. Imagine, and they have the year around to do the job but wait until the Fourth to start to paint the highways. Certainly someone should look into the matter.

I simply must commend those who promoted our Fourth of July parade. It was miniature in size but just the same it represented the spirit of those involved. It was simply grand to see our little boys and girls and the new fire engine come marching down Main Street. Let's hope this little group will form a nucleus for bigger and better parades and civic pride in the future years. Let's hope it grows and grows. The Boys and Girl Scouts did a bang-up job and the interest in the activity was manifested by the large group of people that trekked to the ball park to see the concluding ceremonies and hear the speakers.

Bible School Closing Program Well Received

The closing program for the Vacation Bible School was held last Friday in the Social Hall of Elias Lutheran Parish House to a capacity audience. Each department had a part in the program, telling by song, story, or dramatization some of the things the children had studied in the course of the school. Visitation was held in each of the classrooms where an exhibit of the workbooks, projects and craftwork was shown.

Rev. Forrest Davis, Pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church, read the Scripture and Rev. William Hendricks, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church, led in the evening prayer. Rev. John Chatlos, Pastor of Incarnation United Church of Christ, in presenting the statistics of the school said that there had been 155 children enrolled. Of these 155, 105 of them had a record of perfect attendance for the ten-day session. Each pupil was given a certificate in recognition of attendance and creditable work with a gold star on the certificate of those having had perfect attendance.

Rev. Philip Bower presided at the program, and in his remarks thanked all those who had helped in any way with the Bible School. He presented certificates of appreciation to 42 adult helpers in the school without whose help the school could not be held.

A wonderful picnic was held on the church lawn at the close of the morning session on Friday. Sandwiches, potato chips, cookies, iced tea, and ice cream disappeared as if by magic when attacked by the 150 children of the school.

J. Ward Kerrigan has returned to his home here after vacationing in Bermuda.

Jaycee Safety Check Sunday Afternoon

Numerous Emmitsburgians are expected to take advantage of a free safety inspection to be held Sunday, July 9 from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Safety Check is being sponsored by the Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce and will be held on the grounds near the Texaco Service Station. Sterling White, chairman of the check-up, urges all Jaycee members to be present Sunday to help with the inspection and advises the general public to take advantage of the opportunity to have their cars undergo a free safety inspection.

Burgess J. Edward Houck upon issuing a proclamation for the event, urges the public to have their cars checked in the interest of general safety.

The Burgess said: "This voluntary Vehicle Safety-Check gives every motorist a chance to do his part in making our community a safer place to live," he said. "Even our best drivers are poor risks if they are driving cars with bad brakes, worn tires, or other neglected items."

"Equally important in our Safety-Check is the challenge to all drivers to check their conduct behind the wheel. Both safe cars and safe drivers are needed to check accidents," he declared.

White announced check lanes will be set up which will give motorists an opportunity to take advantage of the free and voluntary 10-point Vehicle Safety-Checks. The lanes will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. and will be operated by qualified mechanics and volunteers.

"One out of six vehicles checked in the 1960 nation-wide Safety-Check needed immediate attention to one or more of the ten items affecting safe-driving condition," White reported. "The ten items safety-checked are brakes, front and rear lights, steering tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn."

A "Safety-Checked" windshield sticker reassures owners their vehicles were checked and found in safe operating condition," White remarked. "Vehicles found to be unsafe permit owners to have dangerous conditions corrected before they become a factor in a traffic accident." Many motorists don't know they are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families, and their community. A Safety-Check is the best way to find out," he added.

"When you have your car safety-checked you have joined the 'Circle of Safety,'" Chairman White explained. "You will receive a copy of the folder Safe Driving Tips at the check lane. Each driver will want to keep this folder as a reminder to stay in the 'Circle of Safety' by checking his driving to check accidents," he said.

The Safety-Check in Emmitsburg is part of the annual National Vehicle Safety-Check for Communities sponsored by the Auto Industries, Highway Safety Committee and Look Magazine, with the cooperation of the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators. In 1960 nearly 3,000 communities in states not requiring periodic motor vehicle inspection conducted voluntary Safety-Checks. Over three million motorists had their vehicles checked and thousands had unsafe items repaired and their cars rechecked—thus demonstrating their personal responsibility streets of their communities.

State Library System Shows Remarkable Advancement In Past 3 Years

Maryland has made steady progress in library development over the past 15 years but increased demands for library services, coupled with exploding populations and rising school enrollments today threaten that progress.

Miss Nettie Taylor, director of the Division of Library Extension, State Department of Education, Baltimore, and immediate past president of the Maryland Library Association made the statement at a meeting with MLA members at Bladensburg, June 30.

"The great gaps that formerly existed in the provisions of library services to all citizens of the State are closing—and closing rapidly," Miss Taylor said.

"But there has been an astonishing increase in the use of libraries within the past three years. Even though almost all libraries are desperately short of staff, particularly trained librarians, and fall far short of the supply of books and other materials that they need, the use of libraries in the counties increased almost 30 per cent between 1957-1960 and last year there were more than six and a half million books borrowed through the public libraries in the counties alone.

"Maryland libraries need more resources of books and staff to meet these demands," Miss Taylor declared.

Reviewing the steady gains made since the first Maryland county library law was passed in 1945, establishing county-wide public library service and providing for administration of federal funds for public libraries through the state board of education, Miss Taylor declared there was need today for "new standards and new trends."

She noted that Maryland libraries lack the books, the staff and the income that national standards recommend and, in many cases, the county units are too small to meet independently such standards.

National standards recommend that a library system contain at least 100,000 books, have a staff of seven professional librarians and provide service to a population area of at least 100,000, Miss Taylor explained.

She said "areas of improvement considered essential and recommended by the State Library Development Committee" included:

Appointed Music Instructor

Mrs. Mary Louis Schwartz has been appointed instructor in music education, chapel organist and choir director at Gettysburg College succeeding Miss Lois Kadel who resigned at the end of the school year. Mrs. Schwartz will begin her new duties at opening of the September term.

Appropriate Money

James H. Grove, Chairman of the Frederick County Sanitary Commission, which is the governing body of the newly-created Frederick County Metropolitan District, announced that the County Commissioners would make $7,000 available for its budget for the remainder of fiscal year 1961.

Jaycees To Honor Past Presidents

The Emmitsburg Jaycees' first annual Past President's Banquet will take place next Thursday evening, July 13 starting at 7 p. m. in the VFW Annex.

The occasion will be devoted to honoring all past presidents for the excellent work done by them in guiding the organization during their term of office. To be honored at the affair are George McDonnell and Donald Eyer, the only two past presidents of the young Jaycee Chapter here. All Jaycee members and their wives are urged to be present at the banquet and each is being permitted to bring along one guest. Reservations should be made to Patrick Boyle by Saturday, July 8.

Principal speaker at the affair will be Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr., dean of English of Mt. St. Mary's College who is interested in many civic affairs here. State President Warren Stroth also will be on hand and will make brief remarks. Following the banquet dancing will be held with music being supplied by jukebox.

Appreciates Local Support Of Tuesday's Parade

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

May I use the columns of your newspaper to express a word of thanks and appreciation to the many people who helped with the parade and the program on the 4th of July?

To the representatives of the various organizations which took part in the parade and thus showed their interest in the youth of our town and their community spirit—thank you.

To the leaders of all the Scout Troops—both boys and girls—who by their own enthusiasm were able to interest the youngsters to turn out for the parade, and who helped to keep things moving—thank you.

To the members of the Emmitsburg Band who provided the drum beats and the music for the singing during the program—thank you.

To George Danner for his work setting up the public address system without which the program would not have been heard—thank you.

To Mrs. George Danner for the fine job she did in contacting the many organizations and people who took part in the parade and program—thank you.

To the men who participated in the program at the ball field: Fr. Twomey, Mayor Houck, Rev. W. R. Jones—thank you.

To the people who helped in any way with the softball game between the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts—thank you.

To the many people who lined the streets and waved and applauded as the parade marched by—we express our appreciation for your interest and encouragement.

Emmitsburg has a wonderful "gang" of youngsters in the Scouting program. They are grand to work with and to have fun with (poor English but good sentiment). They need the interest of the adults of our town and the leaders could probably all use some extra help occasionally, so why don't you join the forces for good, and in some practical way show your concern and desire to help.

I could not close this letter without a word of appreciation to the Scouts themselves. Thank you for coming out in full force to the parade. We hope that this observance may become an annual affair and that as the parade goes down the street, a flag will be flying from every house and businessplace in town. We have a wonderful country and we should show our love and loyalty for her more often.

To the Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, Brownies, and Intermediate Girl Scouts—thank you for inspiring us on this past 4th of July.

Mr. Editor, didn't these boys and girls look just fine as they marched down the street? In them we have hope for the future.

To all who helped in any way, in case I have overlooked someone, my personal thanks and appreciation. Nothing like this can be done by one person alone; cooperation by all is necessary. Thank you.

Sincerely yours,
Sheila J. Chatlos

VFW TO HOLD SHRIMP FEED

The local Veterans of Foreign Wars this week announced they would hold their annual shrimp feed on Saturday evening, Aug. 19. The affair will be held at Kump's Dan.

Record Death Toll Established Over Fourth

That nightmarish period between last Friday at 6 p. m. and lasting until midnight Tuesday will go down in the records as one of the bloodiest and disastrous in the history of this country.

This was to be an occasion of rejoicing over our Independence and perhaps a visit with friends and relatives. Well over 500 who started out never reached their destination and are now resting in graveyards.

Traffic deaths climbed to record heights for a summer holiday during the long Independence Day weekend.

The tally today also showed that the over-all accident toll, including a heavy loss of life on water, reached an all-time mark for any holiday period.

Late reports boosted the motor vehicle fatality total beyond the 500 mark. It passed the previous high of 491 set during a four-day observance of Independence Day in 1950. That had been the top mark for any summer holiday period. And it went far beyond the National Safety Council's advance estimate that 450 Americans might die in traffic accidents during the 102-hour period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

The statistics show:
Traffic ..... 503
Boating ..... 62
Drowning ..... 202
Miscellaneous ..... 148
Total ..... 915

The previous record for deaths in accidents of various kinds, including traffic, had been established in the four-day celebration of Christmas in 1956. It was 884. During that same period traffic deaths soared to 706, a standing record for any holiday period.

The death rate on the highways slackened late Tuesday. Council officials said the homeward bound traffic was the heaviest in history for the final hours of any holiday. They said the fatality rate dropped from an hourly average of between five and six to about two to three.

This year's Fourth of July holiday traffic count compared to 462 for the recent four-day Memorial Day period, a record for that holiday. In last year's three-day observance of Independence Day traffic deaths totaled 442.

Three deaths in fireworks were reported during the count of violent accident deaths. That was the largest total since four died in 1954.

Boys Defeat Girls In Softball Game

In a hard fought softball game the Boy Scouts downed the Girl Scouts in their annual game July 4th, to the tune of 22-15. It was a beautiful day, just right for a ball game at the Little League Field. Enthusiasm ran high during the last half of the last inning when the girls began to score but the inning was not long enough for them to overcome the lead the boys had on them.

Girl Scouts participating in the game were: Gloria Orndorff, Frances Wagerman, Joyce Sanders, Dorothy Humerick, Phyllis Chatlos, Judy Harman, Sharon Cornett, Elizabeth Wildie, Shannon Boyle, Betty Tokar, Mildred Harner, Juliet Eckenrode, Betsy O'Melveny and Margaret Masser.

Umpires were Curtis Topper, Allen Stoner, Gene Ling and Tom Humerick. Boys' Coach was Bob Simpson and Girls' Coaches were Mrs. Richard Topper and Mrs. Louis Orndorff.

Describes Visit To Montevue

By NICK YINGER Architecturally speaking, it is of interest at this time to note the difference in today's Montevue, Frederick (1870-1961) as compared to when it was built five years after the American Civil War. With the building amputated, roof and porch, together with the trees which parallel the long entrance lane from the Fourth Street Pike and the big wooden center entrance porch that one climbed to the second floors, most of the beauty and serenity I enjoyed in my childhood is gone. It seems ironical that all that beauty was outside—but inside just 50 years ago there was madness! Yes, I saw it all over and over in the old days. And yet, even as a boy the important thing that impressed me, still does in fact, concerning those insane, both black and white, that this madness was caused primarily from the iniquity of the fathers are visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate Me." (Exodus 20:5).

Today the old order of things is gone. Milk cattle gone, dogs gone, cats, hogs, horses, pigeons, bulls, potters field, chickens, barn yard, smells, hung-out laundry, fields ripe to harvest, all gone—everything gone but the Indian darts! The place seems strange to me—and yet I am certain that strangers are welcomed there. Everyone I meet seems so friendly, like in the old days! Even today's old George, the colored man who used to live on South Bentz St. That's him sitting in his chair outside the building. He never fails to wave his hand. It really is a wonderful thing to go back to something you have loved and enjoyed as a youngster: muskrat and skunk trapping, fishing, a drink from the cool spring! Many Indian tribes camped here having left their campfire charcoal mark in the fields. Gone too from the big spring is the antique cast-iron dipper I drank from as a boy—and later. It was chained to the big sandstone slab at the spring, and had a long iron handle. Good thing for me I carried a drinking cup. Why doesn't someone place a drinking cup there? The aborigines had no trouble—they used turtle shells and home-made pottery. Potters field that was bought for "thirty pieces of silver," is full, so I was told that all unclaimed bodies are taken to Baltimore. Sewerage, which formerly flowed into Carroll Creek, now goes to the municipal disposal plant at the mouth of Carroll Creek. Burnable garbage which used to be burned in the old pond is now dumped back of the local Fairgrounds near Sister's Hill.

Recently I counted 25 heifer feeding on the lush meadow grass along the creek near the spring. These are Herefords, a breed beef cattle developed in Hereford, England. There is a new cattle loading platform in a swampy meadow just a stone's throw southwest of the well-kept chronic hospital. The platform borders the newly-constructed 23-foot wide macadam road that curves about a half mile from the Fourth St. Pike to the Shooktown Road. It is well used today. I remember it better as a youngster with a .22 single-shot Stevens catrifle to take home the big fat pigeons that offered a sitting target as they sat cooing on the promontory or ridge of the well-filled big red barn. Today the barn is painted white and the pigeons, like the rats and mice and of course the cats, are gone. I counted only two horses on the place and they were in pasture. But the unusual thing I enjoyed was the little friendly long-haired donkey or burro. It was reminiscent of the ones I see on TV that prospectors use in search of minerals and gold. Why a donkey at Montevue? It followed me around as if expecting a lump of sugar! Part of the chicken house is remodeled into a shelter for heifers with salt block licks and the trimmings.

One outside improvement is the new fencing of better grade, wire hung and stretched tight on slender creosote-coated posts. Part of the old Brunner Mill race still can be found near the farm pond. Inspection of the fences built at Montevue today indicate they are built by craftsmen who know basic construction for durability, attractiveness, strength and at the same time easy on the eye and to climb over.

Laboratory and the Maryland Livestock Sanitary Laboratory, which incidentally could account for the fat contented Herefords in the meadows.

Montevue today seems to be developing from what I call light from the darkness of ignorance, suspicion, distinction and the inevitable discrimination.

Some time ago I picked up at Montevue spring the most rare of all Indian artifacts, a banner-stone made from green serpentine, a marble-like rock, mottled and spotted with colors. This rock also was "used by the ancient Romans." Some collectors erroneously call the unusual stone "dolomite." Some know it as the butterfly type but this one I have dates to more than 5000 B. C. It was used in aboriginal religious ceremonies to their Great Spirit Manitou. It also was used on the Atlatl weapon. My research on Frederick County aborigines indicates they were not far from our concept of what we call immortality, or life eternal—even though their Bible was what they saw, enjoyed and loved in creation.

When I visit Montevue I like to take the dog "Skippy" and follow my heart up Carroll Creek. Sunday afternoon was beautiful cool, full sun, no clouds and with the blue Catocin hills showing part green after a long sleep!

After tramping over Montevue grounds in and out of buildings for hours, I headed for home along the creek when a very unusual thing happened. Walking along the bank between the overflowing Montevue farm pond, fed entirely by the mountain spring water branch we call the Shooktown branch, I was between the pond and Carroll Creek when this big muskrat (Fiber Zibethicus) came up over the high creek mud bank between me and Skippy. Everybody surprisingly saw each other at the same time. The frightened rodent turned and dived for the safety of its den at stream bottom with Skippy trying to latch on the long flat tail of the aquatic rodent. It was comical! After 10 minutes' research on the dog's part I was forced to call her off for fear of wearing-out her toenails on the den. Big things are in progress at Montevue, now for sometime, both inside and outside. It is indeed a real pleasure to visit Montevue, and meet the congenial superintendent, Mr. Schell and his capable staff.

About 85 grizzlies, or about two apiece for each of the licensed guides are taken yearly in the Yukon.—Sports Afield.

SPEAKING OF CARDS

SPEAKING OF CARDS

INSTANT BRIDGE

Contract Bridge has become so popular throughout the world that the ability to play the game is now considered one of the social graces. Yet many people have never tried Bridge because they feel it is too difficult to learn.

But given just 22 minutes, a deck of playing cards, and a minimum of self-confidence, anyone can learn to play Bridge!

At least that's what the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers claims. To back up this claim and to encourage more people to discover the fun of playing Bridge, the Association has published a booklet with that very title, "How to Start Playing Bridge in 22 Minutes."

All that is required is a standard 52-card deck, four people to play, twenty-two minutes to read the rules, and a free evening to practice playing the game. It's as simple as that.

To help you understand the rules of Bridge, the booklet is colorfully illustrated with cartoons and diagrams which also make it easy and interesting to read. For instance, the rank of the suits is illustrated in cartoons by the use of military designations. Thus, the spade suit rates a colonel's eagle, the heart suit a captain's bars, the diamond suit a corporal's chevrons, and the club suit a single pfc's stripe. No-trump outranks any suit and thereby rates a general's star. This sets the tone for the entire booklet.

The booklet goes into the "mechanics" of playing by explaining that the object of play is to make your contract; that is, take as many tricks as your contract calls for and more if possible.

In a simple yet interesting way, it explains that a trick is a set of four cards, one played from each hand and is won by that player who played the highest ranking card on that trick. Each trick is closed before the next is played, the booklet states simply.

Also explained in basic terms are bidding and playing. Eight so-called common rules of leading are offered along with six rules covering the commonest playing situations. Two full pages are devoted to scoring including the explanation of such terms as game, vulnerable, overtricks, slam, undertricks, rubber, and honors. Complete details on Bridge etiquette and the differences between rubber, party and duplicate Bridge are also covered.

To obtain your copy of this important booklet, send ten cents to cover cost of postage and handling to the Playing Card Association, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.

Child's Arm Turns Hard, Stony; Medical Treatment Slows Process

Christine Versluis, who is nine and lives on the shores of Lake Ontario at Hilton, N.Y., is unable to straighten her right arm because of rheumatic disease.

Her arm and parts of both shoulders are becoming increasingly calcified, which means change of the muscle tissue into a hard stony substance.

This somber-faced child is the tragic victim of dermatomyositis, one of the forms of rheumatic disease. Another form is rheumatoid arthritis. The majority of people don't know that children suffer from arthritis; they believe mistakenly that arthritis afflicts only the aging—someone's grandfather or grandmother, surely not the very young.

But there is urgent reason today why grownups and parents especially should be intelligently informed about arthritis among children. Dr. William S. Clark, director of medical care of The National Foundation, whose expanded program embraces arthritis, birth defects and continued work in polio, said this week:

"Rheumatoid arthritis is a type that can make children very ill indeed. They may become severely crippled. Their joints may 'freeze.' Happily, we can now demonstrate today that with proper treatment and care, most of the crippling caused by juvenile rheumatoid arthritis can be prevented."

But the cardinal point, Dr. Clark emphasizes, is that thousands of children have rheumatoid arthritis without knowing what the disease they suffer from really is. Their parents may dismiss the aching in neck, knees, wrists or elbows (or, more rarely, in all these joints simultaneously) as "growing pains"; or for a variety of other reasons, the right diagnosis is not made.

Nine-year-old Christine Versluis must hold her right arm in this awkward upright position because it is turning into hard, stony substance. But there's hope for her in research sponsored by The National Foundation.

"We now estimate that in the United States, more than 50,000 adults who suffer from rheumatoid arthritis had their actual onset of the disease in childhood," Dr. Clark added. "Had they received modern treatment at that time, most of the crippling in maturity could have been prevented. That's one reason why The National Foundation's program in arthritis and patient aid for the young is so significant."

Child victims of rheumatoid arthritis are estimated to total 30,000 in this country alone, with 16,000 a year ill enough to need medical care. About 5,000 or 6,000 of these may require treatment as intensive as the rehabilitation needed for those stricken by paralytic polio.

There are at least 11 millions in the nation today who suffer from some form of rheumatic disease, including arthritis. Rheumatoid arthritis victims total about 1,500,000. The disease is the nation's No. 1crippler.

To return to Christine, the little girl with the arm and shoulders turning into a stony element, she is receiving treatment at the March of Dimes-supported Arthritis Study Center at the University of Rochester School of Medicine—one of four National Foundation arthritis centers around the country. Her doctors hope they are slowing the advance of calcification but the outlook at this time is not certain. Uncertainty, then, is the disquieting prospect facing this little girl. Her mother, Mrs. Eugene Versluis, hopes that if enough people support National Foundation research, perhaps in time Christine's right arm will fall back where it belongs and the stoniness will disappear; and that eventually the appalling figure of 30,000 children with crippling rheumatoid arthritis each year will decline.

Fourth Of July Brings Battle, Call For Troops

The fireworks of the first Independence Day of the Civil War were almost drowned by war cries and cannon shots.

In many areas of the United and Confederate States that day 100 years ago this week, troops either prepared for battle or actually fought.

At Washington on that Fourth of July, President Lincoln went before a special session of Congress with an important message. He drew sweeping applause when he asked for 400,000 men and 400 million dollars—"the means for making this contest a short and a decisive one."

While Lincoln spoke, troops were moving in southern Missouri and Arkansas. Union Col. Franz Siegel pulled a force of 1,000 men out of Neosho, Mo., and headed for nearby Carthage. There Missouri's displaced, secessionist Governor Claiborne Jackson waited with more than 4,000 state troops ready to do battle.

Battle Of Carthage

The result was the battle of Carthage on July 5, when Siegel attacked Governor Jackson. While Jackson's ill-equipped army fired iron spikes, chains and cannon balls at Siegel's men, his horsemen drove at Siegel's flanks, sending the northern force fleeing toward Springfield.

Back east on that Independence Day, sober-faced Gen. Thomas J. Jackson wrote his wife from his camp at Darkesville in what is now West Virginia and told her about his first good fight.

It had occurred July 2 at Falling Waters, when Union Gen. Robert Patterson finally completed the movement of his army of Pennsylvanians to the Potomac. At Williamsport, Md., the men had waded across the river where they ran headlong into Jackson's attack.

Jackson Withdrew

Heavily outnumbered, Gen. Jackson withdrew quickly after the attack, leaving more than 60 Union casualties while suffering less than half that number. A cavalry colonel, "Jeb" Stuart started his climb to fame in the skirmish by single-handedly capturing a company of 49 Union soldiers. And the Rev. W. N. Pendleton an artillery commander under Jackson, made a little history when he aimed his four guns—named Matthew, Mark, Luke and John—at the northerners, raised his head, closed his eyes and ordered: "Aim low, men, and may the Lord have mercy on their souls."

When the fight had ended, Patterson's men occupied Martinsburg, W. Va., where they celebrated the Fourth with fireworks. One celebrating Union soldier pushed his way into a private home where he came face to face with a fiery young Southern lady named Belle Boyd—to become immortal as a Confederate spy, Miss Boyd, furious at the intrusion, shot and killed him.

Next week: McClellan wins in West Virginia.

Miami Brewery

BALTIMORE — The National Brewing Co. has acquired all of the assets of the Miami brewery of Anheuser-Busch it was announced this week by Jerold Hoffberger, president of National.

No sale price was announced but it was reported that the figure was in excess of $3 million. The National Brewing Co. which has its headquarters in Baltimore also operates plants in Detroit, Michigan and Orlando, Fla. Their product is sold in 21 states, mostly in the east and midwest. The newly acquired brewery has a capacity of 400,000 barrels annually which brings the overall capacity of the company to 2,300,000 barrels. With the new acquisition, total employment will amount to approximately 1,500.

In commenting on the purchase, Mr. Hoffberger said, "For some time our Orlando brewery has been up to capacity and we have been looking into the possibilities of either expanding that plant or acquiring additional facilities. The acquisition of the Miami brewery will provide us with the needed additional capacity to enable us to supply our rapidly expanding Southern markets."

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Investing His Own Funds

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 6—I have had so many inquiries during the past two years asking how I invest my own money, I have finally decided to disclose this information in this weekly release. Frankly, I try to invest in something in which I am doing much good, so that I will have a satisfaction in my heart as well as in my pocketbook. I am today describing two companies by way of illustration—the products of which especially appeal to me.

Gibson Greeting Cards, Incorporated

This is one of the four leading companies which print greeting cards. Its headquarters are in Cincinnati, Ohio. All of these companies started in a small way. When I was a boy, there were no such things as greeting cards. We had terrible comic valentines which we sent out to friends and enemies; but I do not remember sending a Christmas card, or Easter card, or birthday card. As soon as this greeting card industry was started I felt that it had a future, and I believe it has an even greater future in years to come. The one thing that we all are short of is time. Greeting cards not only retain our circle of friends, but the sending of them takes no time and yet often takes the place of a letter. They surely make millions of people happier.

The above company in which I have invested has the following to commend it. If you divide the number of greeting cards which this one company sells annually by the number of stockholders in the company, you get a result of nearly 100,000. I have always received a dividend on this stock; but, if it missed a dividend some year, I would still feel that my stockholdings (representing my share as one of the stockholders) are making 100,000 people happy each year. This is one illustration. But now to a second, which is even more marvelous.

Asgrow Seed Company

Although there are several seed companies in the United States, I think this one is the largest of all. Not only are seeds very essential to a nation—whether it is a democracy, or one ruled by communism, or whether it is an underdeveloped nation with increasing population and a shortage of food, good seed is probably the greatest need. Furthermore, few people understand that unless the seeds are carefully selected each year from the healthiest plants, the quality of the seeds quickly runs out and the vegetables ultimately return to their native wild state. Furthermore, a purchaser of seeds cannot tell whether they are good or bad until after they are planted, which is too late. It is absolutely important, therefore, to deal with companies of the highest reputation.

As an illustration of the seed volume of this company, I understand they sell 10 billion bean seeds, 7 billion of corn, and many billions of pea seed. Figures for the small seeds, such as cabbage, broccoli, and celery, are also stupendous. To illustrate—this company sells nearly 70 billion carrot seeds each year. The company spends so much money on selection and keeping up the character of its product that it does not pay great dividends; but if I did not get the money in cash dividends I would get the satisfaction of knowing that the number of seeds raised and sold, divided by the number of stockholders—of which I am one—would give about one-half billion seeds per stockholder. All these seeds sold add up annually to some 250 billion seeds. In other words, I have the great satisfaction of knowing that, as an average stockholder, I have the honor of planting half a billion seeds each year! I really get a great kick out of this.

Seeds and Greeting Cards

In Russia
When I was in Moscow, I found the best-treated people were scientists and ballet dancers. On the other hand, the two businesses which were allowed to continue as manufacturers under government supervision were the seed business and the greeting card concerns. This is because the raising of seeds depends absolutely upon the character of those in it, while the preparing of greeting cards requires an artistic originality which cannot be purchased with money or forced upon people. It must be voluntary.

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

A total of 370 candidates for admission to the University of Maryland started a special six-week summer course last week aimed at easing their transition into college study.

The students in the Pre-College Summer Session, as the course is called, are those whose high school grades were dubious.

The pre-college session replaces the previous university policy of admitting students on probation. All students admitted to the next autumn session will be on regular status.

The students at the summer session will each take two regular university courses: English and a choice of mathematics, government or sociology. They will receive a full credit for successful completion of the courses.

In addition, they will attend a laboratory in reading and study skills. This laboratory will be geared to the ability and speed of each individual student.

To be admitted to the university in the fall, a student must pass both courses and receive a grade of at least C in one or both of them.

Ten counselors and six reading and study skill specialists will be available to advise and guide the students.

The English classes will be limited to fifteen students, about half the usual number.

RED SKELTON IS AUTHORIZING a book on his experiences in Japan. Despite the improbable title, "Ten Ways to Cheat at Hara Kiri," it's to be a serious piece of writing . . . Paramount has reached into the television studios for the cast of its feature picture "Hell Is for Heroes." The stars include Steve McQueen, Bobby Darin, Fess Parker, Bob Newhart and Harry Guardino. Incidentally, Newhart may have his own TV show in the fall. NBC has scheduled a variety series for him on Wednesday nights at 10 . . . Roger Moore is reported to be leaving Maverick and Warner Brothers to free lance . . . The status of Checkmate on CBS next fall isn't definite. One of the show's principals, Doug McClure, will be busy this summer in Frank Sinatra's remake of "Gunga Din."

Red Skelton . . . turns author

AUDIE MURPHY'S WHISPERING SMITH series takes to the NBC air shortly, after long delays . . . Sponsor of Alcoa Presents is dropping the half-hour psychic-phenomena show next season in favor of alternating hour and half-hour anthology series, 14 of each . . . Lawrence Welk's contract for his new stand at the Hollywood Palladium starting in July reads "for as long as you elect to remain, for the rest of your life" . . . Nanette Fabray and Jackie Cooper have signed as guests on NBC's TV Guide Awards Show, June 13 . . . Test films for Jan Clayton's Mother Climbs Trees series and Eddie Albert's My Uncle Louie series will be showcased as forthcoming G.E. Theater episodes . . . The new Robert Young series, set for Mondays next season on CBS, has been titled Window on Main Street.

JIM GARNER MAY RETURN TO ABC to star in "Destry Rides Again." The show will be one of some 18-hour-long specials sponsored by Westinghouse and spread over all three networks during . . . may ride again the 1961-62 season. Tentative schedule calls for musicals and variety shows on ABC, including "Destry" and a presentation of "The Nutcracker Suite"; dramas on CBS, including a Leland Hayward production based on Walter Lord's book "The Good Years"; and public affairs programs on NBC, using Huntley and Brinkley . . . ABC news chief James C. Hagerty has pinned down the network's Sunday night at 10:30 spot for a summer series of news reviews. Every third show will be reserved for production by local stations.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read John 10:11-18. You are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's. (I Corinthians 6:20.) A woman I never met influenced my life. She was a Russian nun by the name of Sister Maria. During World War II, she was the head of a convent school in Paris during the Nazi occupation. Utterly unselfish and valiant, she sought to relieve the suffering, not only of her fellow Catholics, but of the persecuted Jews, some of them in her school.

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

New Fashions In The Stock Market

This week's Research Round-Up has spot-lighted four stocks which we believe to be particularly attractive. These are all rated favorably in our Sentinel Service, which is available at any of our branch offices.

A revamped management team has given new life to Fruehauf Trailer now selling at about 26. Fruehauf, the leading trailer company in the world, should benefit considerably from the general economic recovery and it is anticipated that earnings will rebound in the second half of this year and continue to improve next year. A trend towards containerization and piggyback and fishyback adds to Fruehauf's attractiveness.

Pacific Industries has rid itself of three unprofitable divisions and now operates four divisions that offer strong growth potential. It is now selling at about 15-16 times estimated 1961 earnings of $1.00. The two electronics divisions contribute 50% of earnings. A favorable technical pattern indicates higher levels for the intermediate term.

Showing steady improvement since the beginning of this year, Rayonier, Inc. (21 1/4) we feel, continues to offer excellent value. A rise in consumption of cellulose, the company's main product, is expected and will lead to a growth in earnings. Huge timber holdings, estimated to have a value of over $40 per share, give Rayonier large asset value. Another optimistic note is the opening of two new mills on the West Coast. An earnings rate of $3.00 per share by the end of 1962 is a definite possibility.

A very attractive, broadly based scientific company with outstanding sales and earnings possibilities is Robinson Technical Products (29), manufacturing specialized shock and vibration mountings, components, power supplies and assemblies for computers, and other space projects. Earnings this fiscal year ending June 30 will approximate a year ago, but fiscal 1962 might offer the investor $2.00 per share earnings. A 20-25% annual growth rate in both sales and earnings is a possibility.

BY RALF HARDESTER

MARILYN MONROE HASN'T BEEN ABLE to postpone a Hollywood movie commitment, so chances are now remote for her to star in Rain, a projected NBC special next season. She was to have taped the show this spring for televising next fall. Burr Tillstrom may return to TV next fall with his puppets Kukla and Ollie on a five-minute daily program. Show hinges on the ability of the network to clear time. Fran Allison will not join them. ABC is setting up an experimental baseball game for a Wide World of Sports showing in July. The game will incorporate many of the rules changes suggested in the game through the years. Bill Veck of the Chicago White Sox will probably serve as guest commentator.

Marilyn Monroe ... no Rain NBC's NEW WORLD OF ... series is scheduled for a debut on The Du Pont Show of the Week in October, although others in the Don Hyatt-produced series may be aired as one-shot specials. First subject is Bob Hope. Others to be visited include Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, Billy Graham and Helen Keller. Also on The Du Pont Show early next season will be an episode based on "America's Love Affair with the Automobile" ... Roger Smith, who has already scripted seven sessions of 77 Sunset Strip, has been given a contract for six more, some of them for Hawaiian Eye and Surf-Side 6. Barton MacLane has quit Outlaws, and the show may undergo a drastic change in format—more "family," less violence.

DAVID BRINKLEY'S JOURNAL, slated for colorcasting Wednesday nights on NBC, will feature some offbeat Brinkley commentary on some offbeat subjects, such as "the heartlessness of the Internal Revenue Service" and "the social structure of the world of young children." In addition, of course, to Brinkley's analysis of the week's news ... Danny Kaye's award-winning UNICEF show, featuring him entertaining around the world, may be repeated this summer as a CBS sports offering. It was shown originally on See It Now ... Jack Bailey is packing some crowns away in preparation for taking Queen for a Day to Europe for several taping sessions there. It will be the show's first venture abroad.

One day the Nazis came and demanded that she turn over all her Jewish students. Sister Maria knew that it would mean for them concentration camps and death. Our high school girl was overcome with fear. Sister Maria quickly took off her nun's habit and put it on the girl. Then she herself put over her head the yellow scarf of the Jew and said, "I'll go for you. I'll take your place," and Sister Maria died as a Jew.

The Cold War Titans

President Kennedy's visit with Mr. Khrushchev in Vienna has by now been evaluated and re-evaluated many times. The image of Communism that is retained in the minds of the American people may have been little altered by the meeting, but the nature of that image is most important for our future security. Did we view the meeting as that of two great world leaders, Titan both, keeping cool contact while measuring each other's nerve and intent about the future of the cold war? Both apparently want to keep the war as cold as possible.

But it is war, nonetheless, and it is a kind of war that is most profitable to Mr. Khrushchev. Communist leaders have made no attempts to conceal their satisfaction about the way this war is going, and they have been immensely pleased with this cold war (peaceful co-existence) for many months. Too many of our leaders, in the government and out of it, have not realized the nature of this threat to our future, to the future of freedom everywhere.

It is notable that Mr. Kennedy, upon his return, described the Communist threat as "new and different." While it may be true that missiles and troops are now more evenly matched on each side, there is little new in the Communist technique of using local conflicts with guerrillas, insurgents, and subversion. The President must surely be aware that he did not have to go to Vienna to find that out. These methods have been practiced since the end of World War II all over the world as well as in the Americas, including the United States. Infiltration everywhere has been ordered by Moscow, and they have had great success with it.

This is the story, essentially, that we have been trying to tell in some of our recent films and filmstrips. (It is this story, incidentally, that Mr. Norman Thomas objects to our telling, so much that he succeeded in getting the Pentagon to stop showing certain of these materials to the armed forces.) If the President's talks at Vienna have helped him to see what the nature of the Communist threat is, and if he can inform the American people, the trip was indeed worthwhile.

Socialist Victory In Sight
On January 6, 1961, N. S. Khrushchev spoke to a gathering of Communist Party leaders on the topic, "For New Victories for the World Communist Movement." Please consider some choice lines from this speech, from the World Marxist Review for January, 1961: "The day is not far off when Marxism-Leninism will dominate the minds of the majority of the population of the globe ... The main distinguishing feature of our time is the fact that the socialist world system is becoming the decisive factor in the development of human society. ... Victory for the Soviet Union in its economic competition with the United States, and victory for the socialist system as a whole over the capitalist

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By G. WILSON HARDER

At this point, there is no way of predicting what, if any, tax reform will come out of this session of Congress.

The nationwide membership of the National Federation of Independent Business has brought to the attention of Congress that both major political parties have pledged in their platforms to provide independent business with tax incentives to improve facilities to compete.

At the present time, it appears that if tax concessions are made in one direction, there must be additional income raised. Thus there is talk of closing loopholes, such as eliminating the first $50 of dividends or interest income as tax free, or making it law that no salesman can spend more than $25 per day for travel expenses, regardless of conditions under which he must operate, or making it federal edict a Christmas gift to a customer or client shall not be over $10.

This probably is not picking in its extreme sense, as the extra taxes realized in this manner would perhaps not finance one day of the foreign give away schemes.

On this subject of more billions down the rat-hole, Rep. John Dowdy says "If we cannot get enough votes to eliminate the fraudulent foreign aid program, our government ought or at least reduce it."

But Congressman Tom Johnson of National Federation of Independent Business

son of Maryland, in discussing the subject, is not after peanuts. He says "The closing of tax loopholes would permit the granting of tax incentives to small business. Small business represents the broad base on which entire economy rests."

But his idea of closing loopholes is the big ones, mainly the vast, huge profits of American companies in their foreign subsidiaries which go virtually, or completely tax free.

His contention is U. S. is losing billions in taxes on more than $30 billion invested by U. S. firms overseas.

A leading business publication recently estimated Colgate-Palmolive now gets 53% of its business and 75% of its profit overseas. Standard Oil (N. J.) gets over 50% of its business, 68% of its profits overseas.

It is indeed ironic that recently Hickman Price Jr., assistant secretary of commerce, in a speech, chided American business for trying to compete for world trade with machine tools made before 1946, while practically all machine tools in Europe and Japan were made since 1950. He also announced with pride that he took part in this government's give away programs to build up more efficient foreign production, which he feels has caused the drain of gold from the U. S. It's astounding that it does not get through to him that you cannot tax U. S. business to building up foreign competitors, and expect American business to be able to afford the modernization to compete. It's somewhat like a bookkeeper embezzling the firm's working funds, then accusing the boss of trying to operate on too limited capital.

system, will be a major turning point in history. . . The most important thing today is to win time in the economic competition with capitalism. The faster our economic development, the stronger we shall economically and politically, and the greater will be the influence of the socialist camp on the trend and rate of development, on the future of the world."

A Continuing Crisis
Describing the Cuban victory of Castro as a war of "liberation," or an uprising against U. S. imperialism, he says: "The Communists support just wars of this kind wholeheartedly and without reservations and they march in the van of the peoples fighting for liberation. . . The victory of socialism on a world scale, inevitable by virtue of the laws of history, is no longer far off. War between countries is not needed for this victory."

Mr. Khrushchev then spends much space proclaiming that the Soviet Union wants peace, because, he says, "peaceful co-existence promotes the growth of the forces of progress, of the forces fighting for socialism." This, of course, is an "intense struggle" that the proletariat will win against the aggressive forces of imperialism which have had to fall back on the defensive and whose "prestige and international influence have never been as low as they are now."
And now Mr. Kennedy has told us that "it is clear that this struggle. . . will be a continuing crisis of this decade." Our Communism on the Map" shows how much of the globe, has already been won.

Slight Decline In Dove Breeding-Population The breeding-population index for doves for the East decreased 4 per cent from the 1960 level, according to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. However, the breeding index has been increasing generally over the 7 year period to 1961.

The indicated slight decline in dove breeding-population could be misleading, states Mr. Ernest A. Vaughn, Director, Maryland Department of Game and Inland Fish, since no estimate of the actual number of doves present is attempted in the Service report. Mr. Vaughn said that the breeding-population index serves as a guide for the Fish and Wildlife Service in setting seasons and bag limits. This system is most important in giving protection to the basic dove breeding stock.

Based on observation and field counts, the Maryland 1961 dove population will probably equal that of 1960, the Director concluded.

Fresh Water News From Western Shore Counties Fishing Outlook: All state-owned ponds and other impoundments are at their normal water level and in good fishing condition. Loch Raven, Prettyboy and Liberty Reservoirs are full and water flowing over the crest of the spillways. Crappie and bluegill fishing is extremely good in all three of these bodies of water.

Fresh water stream and river fishermen will be handicapped by the high muddy water due to the recent heavy rains. Catfish and eels are biting well in these waters and with these conditions, now is the time to fish for them. The fishing outlook in the Susquehanna River from the Conowingo Reservoir to Port Deposit is good. White and yellow perch are everywhere. Pan rock in the 12 to 16 inch class as well as smallmouth bass up to 3 pounds are being caught. Worms and minnows seem to be the best bait for white and yellow perch. Most of the large smallmouth are being caught on salamanders. Big white catfish as well as channel cats are also being taken by hook and liners practically in every good hole along this stretch of the river.

Joe Wolney of Bel Air caught 17 pan size rock and smallmouth bass in what is known as Deer Creek Falls section of the Susquehanna. Big crappie are now biting in Atkisson Reservoir in Harford County, although there was a recent "fish kill" in this body of water, probably due to careless spraying of insecticides and herbicides by someone in its watershed.

With this "fish kill" in mind, we in Fish Management work would like to take this opportunity to warn all persons using insecticides and herbicides on their field crops and fruit trees to be very cautious when drawing water and cleaning their equipment, not to allow these chemicals to escape into our streams and rivers or their farm ponds. Only a few ounces of these chemicals washed into a stream or farm pond will wipe out the entire fish population.

Deep Creek Lake Fish Bulletin Garrett County streams have been clear and have provided excellent fishing conditions this week. The Savage River area has been excellent for rainbow trout as many fishermen report taking their limit here. Fishing at Deep Creek Lake has not been as good as in previous weeks. The slack period on the lake seems to be over though, and fishermen have reported much better catches. Some northern pike have been taken along with some yellow perch and both large and small-mouth bass.

Still-fishing is still producing the best catches according to John Marple of Johnny's Bait House and Cecil Edwards, Assistant Fish Culturist.

ABUNDANT LIFE by ORAL ROBERTS WHAT DOES CHRIST OFFER YOU TODAY?

At one of our crusades not long ago, I heard this unusual, true story.

One of the prayer counselors was talking to a young man about accepting Christ as his personal Saviour. "Wouldn't you like for Christ to come into your life?" she asked. His reply startled her.

"I don't know. Just what does He have to offer, anyway?"

When I heard this story, I realized that many people probably have the same question—"What does Christ offer me today?" It is not unusual that this question should arise. Too often, people think of God as a mean, angry God with huge, horny hands, just waiting for a man to make a mistake so He can punish him. Others envision God as a God of hate—a vengeful deity. It is normal that people should hesitate to dedicate their lives to such a negative, hateful God.

But these ideas are wrong! God is not hateful, harsh and vengeful. He is not bad! God is a good God! Think of what that means. He is good, totally and completely good. And He offers nothing but goodness to those who follow His teachings. The will of God for our lives is expressed in 3 John 2: "Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth." Christ offers abundant life to those who seek Him.

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

New Fashions In The Stock Market

Now that most people seem to have accepted the fact the economic trend is upward we are getting a stronger stock market of capital that has been on the scene since the general situation was clarified. The much maligned Dow Theory comes into play in interpreting what appears to be a new rise in stock prices. Penetration of the 700 level in the Dow Jones Industrial Averages suggested to many market technicians that we are on the crest of a new upward move in stock prices. There have been two dampeners, however. First, investigations that are taking place on the American Stock Exchange, and, second, the Supreme Court ruling in the Du Pont-General Motors case. The American Stock Exchange news came first and this had a very dampening effect on the glamor stocks. It was then indicated that interest would shift to the blue chips and almost as soon as this happened the DuPont-General Motors ruling was announced. The decline in these two stocks coupled with the decline of American Telephone (now threatened with an anti-trust suit) pulled down the DJ Industrial Averages and created at least a temporary period of psychological disillusionment.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

It's Our Birthday
By William Kitay
Member, National Association of Science Writers
Editor, All About Babies

"All About Babies" celebrates its first birthday next week. It's been a good year and an exciting year and one during which we made many friends across the nation. Though still an infant in diapers, as newspaper columns go, "All About Babies" is now appearing in 525 newspaper ers and editors tell us that 13-million mothers and fathers read this column every week. Then there are the authorities and the specialists whose names each week appear atop this column. Nationally recognized experts in the subjects on which they write, they have seen fit to share with our readers the latest and most authentic information available on baby care. For all this we are thankful and grateful. That this column has won the acceptance that it has during its first year of life is something that we, as any pleased parent, are mighty proud of. "All About Babies" as the heading atop this column signifies, is a public service of the National Baby Care Council. The Council is a non-profit, independent, public service organization formed to promote the health, education and welfare of the nation's babies and to concentrate public attention on the baby—its prenatal and post-natal care and needs up to the age of two years. The purposes of the Council are:

- To collect and coordinate current information about baby health, education and welfare.
  - To identify areas in which more knowledge is needed and to sponsor or recommend research to fill the gaps.
  - To serve as a channel of communication between the many and varied professional groups concerned with the care of the baby.
  - To make information on baby care available, in understandable terms to mother, family and the community.
- The National Baby Care Council is composed of authorities and leaders in many professions and fields concerned with baby care. On its Board of Directors are representatives from the fields of medicine, public health, education, nursing, social service, community organization, hospitals, child psychology and communications. Members of the Board review these columns before they are released to this newspaper to make certain the information contained in "All About Babies" is accurate and useful in helping you raise a happier and healthier baby. "All About Babies" has but one standard, its value to you the parent. It has but one goal, the promotion of better baby care.

Air-Conditioning Installation Requires Some Thought

The easiest surest way to obtain the right-sized room air conditioner for any room is to provide an appliance dealer with enough information to prescribe the "Btu" capacity needed for maximum comfort. Btu's—British thermal units—are used today by manufacturers to describe the cooling capacities of modern air conditioners. Old "horsepower" and "ton" designations have been abandoned in favor of this more accurate method of measuring the amount of heat a cooling unit can handle. One Btu per hour is roughly the amount of heat generated by a kitchen match if it were to burn an hour. An air conditioner labeled 12,000 Btu's for example would remove the heat of approximately 12,000 matches. Here's the basic information the appliance dealer will need to help choose an air conditioner for a given room:

1. Size of room and what it's used for, such as living room, bedroom or family room.
2. Exposure of its outside walls—south, north, east, or west—and the number of windows facing south or west. 3. Its location in relation to other areas of the house: under roof, uninsulated attic, or occupied room. 4. Electric circuits available, 115, 230, or 208 volts. A wide selection of room air conditioners now is available, including window units, models that install permanently through a wall, and units that provide year around comfort—cool in summer, heat in winter. Standards of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association now provide that a room air conditioner's cooling capacity in Btu's per hour be imprinted on the data plate.

Cholera Control Urged By Farm Bureau

"Hog cholera control and elimination is being urged by Maryland Farm Bureau through legislation by Congress," states Noah E. Kefauver, Jr., president of Maryland's largest farm family organization. "This dread disease has plagued hog producers for years and cost American farmers $50 million each year," stated Kefauver. "Other countries are completely controlling it," Kefauver added, "so the United States can and must do it, too." Legislation which the Maryland Farm Bureau backs will direct the Secretary of Agriculture to do three things:

1. Initiate a national hog cholera eradication program in cooperation with the various states.
2. Prohibit or restrict interstate movement of all hog cholera virus, as he finds necessary, in order to effectuate a hog cholera eradication program.
3. Establish an advisory committee composed of 11 members selected from representatives of the swine and related industries, state and local government agencies, professional and scientific groups and the general public.

"Swine producers are looking forward to cholera eradication, as this will mean an expanded and more profitable hog industry," concluded Kefauver.

Homemakers Enjoy Picnic

The annual picnic supper of the Emmitsburg Homemakers' Club was held at the home of Mrs. La Verne Swope on Thursday evening, June 29 at 6 p. m. Twenty-three members and friends were present. A delicious covered dish supper was held, after which Mrs. Charles O'Melveny gave her report on her week at College Park for the Rural Women's Short Course. Mrs. Beale also discussed some aspects of the week. Several items of business were discussed. The Homemakers have decided to help with the x-ray machine for the Tuberculosis Assn. when it comes to Emmitsburg August 3. A nominating committee was chosen, and the by-laws were discussed. The meeting was adjourned about sunset, and a nice time was had by all. The next meeting will be held Sept. 28 at the home of Mrs. Charles O'Melveny. Mr. and Mrs. George Combs and family, Arlington, Va., visited over the weekend with Mrs. Combs' mother, Mrs. Ruth Pepler.

"Mr. Seven Million Is Coming!"

...he is between 20 and 24 years old — and married...
...he is probably a high-school graduate...
...he is likely to be engaged in a semi-skilled occupation...
...he is interested primarily in a correspondence course in a technical field.

The "Mr. Seven Million" described by these clues will be the seven millionth student to enroll at International Correspondence Schools since the famous home-study institute was organized in Scranton, Pa., back in 1890. While he may not have all these statistical features, chances are he will come close to most of these basic characteristics of the typical ICS home-study student.

The lucky "Mr. 7" — who could be an office worker, an auto assembly-line mechanic or a farmer — is in for plenty of excitement when his identity is revealed sometime this summer. He'll go to Washington to be honored by a leading Government official at ceremonies to which distinguished ICS alumni will be invited.

After letting him catch his breath during an all-expenses-paid weekend at a Poconos resort, a full schedule of radio, TV and press interviews is scheduled for him. "Mr. 7" may turn out to have many of the qualifications of the other 750,000 Americans taking correspondence courses each year, but ICS plans to insure that he receives special recognition for the educational milestone he will have helped to establish.

The Battle Of Bumper Hill

When safety, appearance life, protection of body sheet metal from costly damage, and "beam strength" to support jacking-up a car for tire changes are considered, what kind of automobile bumper is best? This question has ignited the hottest kind of competitive battle between two major industries—steel and aluminum.

And, after years of being out-promoted by aluminum, steel people are striking back with vengeance. The hardest-hitting counterattack is being made by Wilfred D. MacDonnell, president of the Great Lakes Steel division of National Steel Corp., fifth largest steel producer.

Mr. MacDonnell staged a Detroit press conference test program to prove aluminum unsuitable for automobile bumpers—that they would be too light to be safe, would corrode faster than steel bumpers, would dent and pockmark easily, and suffer appearance damage from cleaning solutions used at neighborhood auto wash-racks.

Behind the seriousness of the "Battle of Bumper Hill" is that auto makers use $40 million of bumper steel for a six-million car production year.

Making his case for steel bumpers, Mr. MacDonnell said: "Aluminum bumpers would deliver the shortest appearance and service life to owners who take best care of their cars—those who visit the neighbor-

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

A Common Misnomer

The Dead Heat, once a rarity in racing and now, thanks to the photo-finish camera comparatively common, is a misnomer. Races were once decided by the winner of two out of three heats. When a tie occurred the heat was dead and had to be run off. Today the heat is only a term used for a race and it is far from dead when neither judge nor camera can separate horses at the finish; the purse is split and the payoff pools divided among the holders of winning tickets on each horse. Prior to the universal use of the finish camera 1908 recorded the most dead heats—10. In 1923 there were two and one of the horses involved was aptly named Deadlock. Today the camera records so many ties that the American Racing Manual has ceased to list them. In 1951, the last year they were listed there were 730 of which 371 were for first place. Perhaps the most famous of dead heats was the three-way tie between Brownie, Wait a Bit and Bosuet in Aqueduct's Carter Handicap of 1944. The great horse Domino figured in two dead heats, both match races, one with Dobbins at two and as a 3-year-old with Henry of Navarre. One dead heat in which neither the purse nor the betting pool was divided was that involving Princess Turia and Beyond in the Acorn Stakes at Belmont Park in 1956. Both belonged to Calumet Farm and thus ran as an entry and those who bet on either one would have collected had the other won.
