

100 YEARS AGO

FLEET UNDER FARRAGUT CAPTURES NEW ORLEANS

By Lon K. Savage

It was a clear, quiet night on the Mississippi River some 75 miles south of New Orleans, but in the darkness, Union soldiers hustled about their ships. At 2 o'clock that morning of April 24, 100 years ago this week, they saw two red lights rise silently up the mast of the "Hartford," flagship of their fleet. Anchors were raised, and the ships began to move upriver and around the bend.

Suddenly, the night erupted into a roar of fireworks. Cannon—there were 109 of them—belched forth flames and smoke from two Confederate forts, one on each side of the river. Still more cannon—there were 192 of them on the 23 federal ships—fired back from the water.

Back behind the river bend, stubby, wide-mouthed mortars blasted from 15 federal mortar boats, and the lighted shells arched high in the sky, then plunged downward into the Confederate positions. Five other mortar boats came forward and hurled grape, canister and shrapnel directly at the forts. Confederate ships upstream headed toward the noise, their guns at ready, flaming rafts, ignited and turned loose by the Confederates, began floating downstream into the federal fleet.

And the whole affair was going just about as planned by Captain David Glasgow Farragut, commanding the federal fleet.

Months Of Planning

For the past three months, Farragut had been planning for this moment. For the past month, he had been working his huge fleet through the tricky Mississippi passes. For the past six days, his mortar boats had lobbed nearly 17,000 shells into Fort Jackson, the larger of the Confederate forts. And now Farragut was trying to run the gauntlet between Fort Jackson on the west bank and Fort St. Philip on the east and charge upstream to his prize—New Orleans.

It was not easy. One federal ship, the "Varuna," outran the others and found herself surrounded by Confederate ships which sank her. Another, the "Iroquois," was cut up by the guns of Fort St. Philip. A third, the "Brooklyn," was struck 17 times in the hull.

And Farragut's own ship, the "Hartford," caught fire when a flaming raft was pushed against it. His men extinguished the flames as Farragut shouted, "Don't flinch from that fire, boys. There's a hotter fire than that for those who don't do their duty."

But the Confederate ships fared worse. Nine were sunk or captured. By daylight, Farragut's fleet was steaming unmolested upriver toward New Orleans.

Forts Surrender

The mortar boats, under David D. Porter, remained behind, and Porter demanded surrender of the forts. The Confederates refused, and Porter opened on them again. The troops inside Fort Jackson—most of them Northerners or foreigners—mutinied; Porter landed troops and brought up gunboats, and within three days the forts had surrendered.

Meanwhile, Farragut arrived at New Orleans in a rain-storm on the 25th and was greeted by an angry, spitting, howling mob. Two federal officers walked through the mob to demand the town's surrender, and although the city officials refused, the American flag flew over the New Orleans mint next day. It was pulled down and ripped to shreds by a man named William Mumford, who later was hanged for the offense, but it soon was replaced for good, and the South's most important seaport was in federal hands.

On May 1, Gen. Benjamin Butler took possession of the city and began the iron-handed rule that was to earn him the nickname "Beast."

Next week: Corinth Besieged; Yorktown Evacuated.

Senator Kennedy Lauded Mahoney

The following are the remarks of Mrs. George P. Mahoney given on WBAL-TV Wednesday evening, April 25.

"I want to speak to you, especially to the wives and mothers throughout the State of Maryland—about George Mahoney, my husband.

"I suppose I'm like all of you. I take pride in my husband's work—in his accomplishments. But that is not why I wish to speak to you. His work, his accomplishments can and do speak for themselves.

"But I am often asked: Abs, why does George Mahoney want to be Governor?

"And in answering that question to the best of my ability, perhaps I will be able to convey to you some measure of the man I earnestly hope will be the next Governor of Maryland.

"My husband has always been one to get things done. As a young man, he had to make his own way. He made his start helping to build tunnels in New York by day. At night, he studied engineering. He studied, worked and built up—from the bottom—his own construction and engineering company.

"But I am proud to say, personal success has never marked the boundaries of what my husband wants to do with his life.

"That is why, when he was appointed Chairman of the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, and later the American Cancer Society—raising contributions for cancer research, he went at it so actively that record amounts of money were raised for his cause. It was a matter of planning, organizing and then following through—the pattern of my husband's approach to any job.

"I remember when he was appointed Chairman of the Racing Commission. George's work with the commission was what first brought him into national prominence. He worked closely with men like J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F.B.I. and Harry Anslinger, United States Commissioner of Narcotics. As a matter of fact, in his recent book, Mr. Anslinger devotes a section in tribute to my husband's work in the fight against narcotics.

"But I'm sure there is no finer tribute to George Mahoney than what was said of him in October of 1956 and I quote, 'We need men like George P. Mahoney—men with his industry and initiative, with his experience in public affairs, and above all, with his devotion to progressive democratic government. We need men like George P. Mahoney, who believe in a policy of peace through strength, not weakness. Maryland has a real stake in the election of Mr. Mahoney.'

"The speaker? John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

"I can only add one thing to that: My husband wants to be Governor because he is a man who cares. He is opposing a group of men who do not care about the people. My husband cares. And the thing that makes me proudest of all is that he cares, not only for his wife and children, not only for the thousands he has known and met—but beyond them to all the citizens of our state.

"He knows he can give them an administration that will restore pride to the name of our State. And that's why he wants to be your Governor. And, with your help, he will be."

DONALD A. WOODS

Democratic Candidate for

COUNTY TREASURER

Education Plus Experience
Equals Ability

34 years old, Donald A. Woods served as Clerk and Treasurer for Brunswick from 1952 to 1954, previously serving as the assistant since 1947. Following, he was associated with a Certified Public Accounting firm for 2 years, and for the last 6 years has been County Accountant, assisting the auditing firm in the development of the present modern record keeping system. By attending night school for 4½ years, he received his degree in accounting from Southeastern University in Washington in 1960. This 13 years of public service in Frederick County, plus his diversified educational background, makes Donald A. Woods your most capable candidate for County Treasurer.

Definite and sound ideas to up-date the workings of the County Treasurer's office:

- MAKE AUTO TAGS AVAILABLE LOCALLY

With this system, license plates would be issued directly in Frederick. In addition, every effort will be made to offer this service in all other towns in the county. This way, you make only one trip to both apply for and receive your tags, thus saving you time and the inconvenience of the present system. The authority to issue tags in Frederick was granted in 1941, but Frederick is still one of only 7 counties not offering this service.

PLUS, DOG LICENSES WOULD ALSO BE MADE AVAILABLE IN LOCAL COMMUNITIES.

- A SYSTEM TO PAY TAXES LOCALLY

All state and county real estate and personal property taxes would be paid at financial institutions in your immediate community. And, money paid to these institutions would remain on deposit with them. Again, you would save the time and inconvenience of making a special trip to Frederick.

A Vote for Donald Woods Will Assure You of the Same Privileges Given Taxpayers in Other Counties!

"The Place To Go For The Brands You Know"
BALTIMORE STREET GETTYSBURG, PA.

Read Psalm 34:13-22. The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart. (Psalm 34:18.)

When Samuel Bradburn's wife Betsy died, the young preacher wrote these words in a letter to his friend John Wesley: "Despair and killing anguish have drunk up my spirits and nearly consumed by body."

Wesley wrote in reply: "Our comfort is, He that made the heart can heal the heart. Your help stands in Him alone. To His tender care I commend you."

This reply of the great man of God points to the true source of light in the darkness of bereavement—to none other than the living Christ. It is He who causes His friends to rejoice, giving them "beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified."

Prayer O Father almighty, Thou who didst raise from the dead Thy beloved Son, number us among the rejoicing friends of the living Savior. Pervade our hearts with the light of His spirit. Grant us power to do His bidding. Render us joyful in service to our Savior who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Thought For The Day "He that made the heart can heal the heart."

Hume Endorses Carlton Sickles

The following is a statement by David Hume, Democratic candidate for Governor:

With the strength of my candidacy for the Goernorship increasing now with each day, I feel that the first of several goals has been reached.

Without relying on another candidate to carry me in some area where I might be weak, popular response to my campaign on the issues now makes it possible for me to indicate those candidates whom I feel could best serve Maryland in the tasks that lie ahead.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

By John Lester Reichert, M.D., Associate Attending Pediatrician Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago

Constipation In Children By far the most common cause of constipation after the first year is the child's resistance to coercion in bowel and bladder training.

We are just beginning to convince parents that it is no physiologic or social stigma for a child to soil and wet himself in his second year. We still have to convince many parents that the normal method of teaching control is to get the child to associate the sensation of an impending bowel movement with the toilet seat.

Not until the beginning of neuromuscular control, which is said usually to occur between 12 and 18 months of age, does the baby recognize this sensation. Elimination is almost always an unconscious act up to a year and may be so up to the age of 20 months.

Taking the child from his play during this period and confining him to an uncomfortable and insecure toilet seat can have no meaning to him except to create anxiety. I feel it my duty to state that I intend to vote for and personally endorse the candidacy of Carleton R. Sickles for Congressman at Large.

Mr. Sickles has proven himself capable and, even more important, has shown a potential which should not be overlooked or denied by the people of Maryland.

a feeling of unjustified interference with his normal activities. When in time he learns to sense an impending bowel movement, he reacts negatively to the impulse and holds back until he has been taken from the seat.

It is this holding back that deadens the normal reflex to peristalsis, the muscular contractions and dilations of the lower bowel. The feces is thus retained in the lower bowel where it rapidly loses its fluid content, causing constipation and the problems accompanying it.

Anxious parents of constipated children should seek the guidance of their physician to alleviate their fears. Parents who clearly understand the normal limits and variations of the process of elimination are often better able to handle their child's toilet training. Often this is the only treatment necessary.

Constipation of dietary origin is less common in childhood than in infancy. By the age of one year, the child has usually made an adjustment between intake and elimination. If constipation does occur and regulation of the diet becomes necessary, the advice of a physician should be sought. The physician may recommend dietary changes and may suggest the use of a malt extract. Available as a syrup or powder, malt soup extract is a valuable product in treating constipation throughout infancy and childhood. One teaspoon, gradually increased as necessary, can be added to the child's formula or to fruit or cereal.

Music Man Contest Open To Youngsters

The "Music Man" Contest, in which many local youngsters have already entered in the hopes of winning one of the twelve local prizes, the regional prizes, and the grand prize of an all-expense paid trip to Hollywood, will close on April 30.

Young people between the ages of 8 and 18 who can perform on any recognized instrument and have not yet visited the Colonial Music Shop, 14 E. Patrick St., Frederick, the local contest sponsor, are advised to do so at once to have their talent tape-recorded. Entry blanks may be obtained at Colonial Music Shop or from the school bandmaster or music director.

The judges, Robert F. Doster, Director of Bands, Frederick High School, Thomas W. Fugate, Director of Bands at Emmitsburg and Thurmont High Schools and Frank H. Miller, Director of Instrumental Music for the Mt. Airy Public Schools, will judge the recorded tapes of the contestants during the period of May 1 thru 7, at which time contest winners will be notified, and shortly after which prizes will be awarded.

Winners of the locally sponsored Colonial Music Shop Music Man Contest may return to Colonial Music Shop's recording studio to rerecord the same or any other selection for entry in the regional contest until May 15, since these tapes must be in the hands of the regional judges in Chicago by May 18 if they are to be considered for the regional and National finals.

The prizes to be awarded to the local winners by Colonial Music Shop include a RMC Band Over-niter Case, a Webcor transistor radio, a 12" LP Record Album of music from "The Music Man" and runner-up prizes of passes for two to the Warner Bros. motion picture Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man," to be released this summer.

"Back The Attack On Traffic Accidents"

Driving Carries It's Responsibilities As A Privilege

Some Americans have the wrong slant on democracy. To only thing these people understand about democracy is that it's supposed to give them certain rights and liberties for free. But that isn't the way democracy works.

In our democracy every right has its obligations and responsibilities. Anyone who claims his rights without also assuming his share of responsibility is taking something that does not belong to him. This is the side of democracy that many people don't seem to understand. What we call "rights" really aren't rights at all. They are privileges. They are granted with the understanding that they will be treated as privileges or else will be forfeited.

Yet the way we sometimes abuse our privileges is very strange. We seldom have any hesitancy about accepting our "rights" as a matter of course—in fact, some people go around demanding them. But when it comes down to the responsibilities involved—well—we're not too apt to let others worry about them.

That's just the way it is with many people who drive automobiles. They sometimes forget about the things they're obliged to do in return for the privilege of driving.

Good drivers voluntarily observe traffic rules when they are on the road. When you practice this kind of self-enforcement you're protecting democracy in driving. J. E. HOUCK Burgess

CONSERVATION

Confine Your Pets, Pleas Chief Of Game Management

With the nesting season approaching for the wild game mammals and birds, including the rabbit, the quail and the pheasant, owners of dogs and cats are asked to confine their pets to the immediate vicinity of the home, Chester Kerns, Chief of Game Management, pleaded this week. The annual loss to game species and songbirds from pets allowed to roam at large is heavy. Those who are permitted to run or train foxhounds are included in this request to help in the conservation of wildlife.

Kerns further pointed out that it is unlawful for any person to allow any dog or cats belonging to him to run at large on any property other than that owned or tenanted by him between Mar. 7 and September 9.

Mr. Warden, I Didn't Know That . . . Basic problems of the Law Enforcement Division for the past three months consisted of out of season waterfowl violations and illegal hunting of deer, Charles Milton, Chief of Law Enforcement, reported. I feel that considerable progress has been made in the apprehension and prosecution of those responsible for violating the game laws and regulations.

During this period over $18,000 were collected in fines involving 333 cases of which only four were found not guilty.

Outdoor Recreation Bureau Established

Secretary of the Interior last week signed an order establishing a Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in his Department. This action is in accordance with President Kennedy's instructions regarding coordination of federal outdoor recreation programs.

Director of the new bureau is Dr. Edward C. Crafts of Chevy Chase, Md., who is now assistant chief of the Forest Service. President Kennedy in a special message on conservation, said, "This new bureau will serve as the focal point within the Federal Government for the many activities related to outdoor recreation." The President called for legislation to establish a program of matching grants for developing state plans for outdoor recreation. The new Bureau will assist Secretary Udall in carrying out his federal outdoor recreation coordination responsibilities, will sponsor and conduct recreation research, develop a nationwide recreation plan, and disseminate outdoor recreation information.

Creation of this new Bureau is the first step in implementation of recommendations by the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission.

A Look At The Cancer Scoreboard
The American Cancer Society is a voluntary organization of 2,000,000 Americans united to conquer cancer. It is the only national health organization fighting cancer through balanced programs of research, education and service to patients.

This year about 800,000 Americans will be under medical care for cancer, and about 173,000 will be saved from cancer. There are 1,100,000 Americans alive today who have been cured of cancer—alive and without evidence of the disease at least five years after diagnosis and treatment, but of every six persons who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die needlessly. Only the results of research can save them, and half of those who get cancer could and should be saved, the immediate goal of cancer control.

Few know the high cost of cancer in hard dollars and cents. The cost is staggering: The nation's annual hospital bill for cancer is estimated to be over $350,000,000 and the average hospital bill for each cancer patient is $675. Nearly 50,000 man-years were lost due to cancer disabilities arising last year and an estimated $215,000,000 in service and salaries by employed persons from cancer disabilities.

The task is to support the American Cancer Society's effort to save those who will die needlessly this year; to support the Society so that through research new ways of treating cancer or preventing it may be found and brought to the public through its educational and service program.

The American Cancer Society, through the public, supports the greatest research attack ever conducted against a single disease and through its education and service programs saves lives and relieves the suffering of cancer patients.

Next week: The final article in this series demonstrates the activities of more than 2 million volunteers aimed "Toward One Goal."

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Importance Of Coal
 BABSON PARK, Mass., April 26—I do not expect a nuclear war unless one starts by accident. I do expect the cold war to last for some time, during which time fallout shelters will be constantly discussed. It is not expected that such "shelters" would protect us if our city or one nearby should be bombed. But a properly constructed shelter should protect from the "fallout" accompanying nuclear war, when some—not all—of our large cities would be destroyed.

Stocking Shelters
 It is one thing to build a shelter; but another thing to stock it properly with food and the many other articles needed to make it livable for two or more weeks. For details, send to the Department of Defense, Office of Civil Defense, Washington 25, D. C.—or check with your local Civil Defense officials. At best, only a few of my readers will build shelters. Therefore, I wish to write this week about what the rest of us will do. Here is some good advice.
 I am urging my family and friends to seriously consider how much we all owe to electricity,—our lights, oil burner, refrigerator, and often our cooking and other conveniences. Yet, whether or not we have a shelter, we would have no electricity if a nuclear war should start. Furthermore, those of us who would be compelled by law to remain indoors until the federal signal allowed us to go out should have enough food and water to care for our necessary requirements.
Have A Driven Well If Possible
 Our first expenditure should be for a driven well, to give an independent water supply. This would need a modern double-action hand pump to pump up the water. This pump should be located in the cellar, as near as possible to the "water table" level. Our city or town supply of water may be available in quantity; but it probably would be contaminated and dangerous. Whether boiling this water would make it safe to drink will be told us by Civil Defense authorities via CONELRAD (either 640 or 1240 on your radio dial).

 Until a comparatively few years ago, most homes had a coal bin and a coal-burning furnace in the cellar; also, a coal-burning stove in the kitchen. That coal bin, filled with coal each fall, was a real "safety deposit box." It could be more important than one at a local bank containing stocks, bonds, and our will.
Importance Of A Filled Coal Bin
 Such a coal bin, filled with coal, with a small coal furnace and small coal cookstove, should be a MUST for every family not near a gas reserve. At first "shot" of a nuclear war, our electricity would be cut off. Therefore we should today determine how to get on without it. A bin full of the best small anthracite or camel coal would be the answer—plus some lanterns and a barrel of kerosene. Both the coal and the kerosene are merely stored heat—which can be used to keep us warm, cook our food, boil our water, and supply us with the light which satisfied American families for over 100 years. Readers who have no coal furnace and can buy none locally may write for free catalog to Holland Furnace Co., Holland, Michigan.
 We are used to buying stocks and bonds to store in our safe deposit boxes; but during the months ahead I shall discuss stocks, bonds, and coal—with a pile of "hearts of pine" wood for starting a fire with matches. It is a shame that coal has been forgotten. Someday there will be a war from which we Americans will suffer, even if it is not a nuclear war. Just as Dr. Einstein discovered atomic energy which led to the destructive bombs, so Co. Glenn by his triple orbit of the globe showed us where the next great war will be fought—200 miles (1,000,000 feet) above our cities.
We Should Revise Our Plans
 Since February 20th we have been living in a new world. Most conclusions and measurements are useless. Even the most modern missiles may be outdated. On the other hand, those close to gas wells may see a renewed demand for property. Those of us in large cities further away may not be able to depend upon gas in case of war. I shall not count upon gas or electricity in an emergency, but only upon coal. Hence I talk about Stocks, Bonds, and Coal in my "Safe Deposit Box."

New Books At Burr Artz Library
SIX CRISES—Richard M. Nixon. The former vice president has attempted to set forth detailed accounts summarizing each of six crises in his life—the Hiss Case, the Fund Speech of the 1952 Campaign, President Eisenhower's Heart Attack, Caracas, the Kitchen Clash with Khrushchev, and the Campaign of 1960. An autographed copy of this book was presented to the Library in observance of National Library Week by Mr. E. R. Price of Rockwell Terrace.
REVIVE YOUR ROOMS AND FURNITURE — Ethel Brostrom. Hundreds of ways of transforming dated-looking rooms and furniture at minimum cost are demonstrated in this how-to book. Better ways of arranging furniture, how to mend and refinish good pieces and restyle dated pieces, ways to beautify every room in the house are described. Gift of the Venture Club of Frederick County in observance of National Library Week, Miss Doris Blank, president.
GOULD'S MILLIONS—Richard O'Connor. Jay Gould exploited to the fullest a large, cheap supply of labor, taxless excess profits, negligible Federal control and a ten per cent stock margin. Ruthlessly flourishing in the speculative heyday of the Robber Barons, he eventually amassed a fortune estimated at $77,000,000—and died without a friend in the world.
EDUCATION OF THE SLOW-LEARNING CHILD—Christine P. Ingram. This book presents the educational programs designed to discover and develop the assets of a wide range of mentally retarded or slow-moving children. It begins with an examination of the needs and potentialities of the mentally retarded and the problems that teachers, parents, and interested members of the community face in providing progress of special education for these particular children. It then discusses in detail the methods and techniques of meeting these problems.
SKILLFUL DRIVING—Maxwell N. Halsey. Two hundred of the most crucial situations in modern traffic are described, with suggestions for mastering them.
IN THE CLEARING—Robert Frost. The first collection of Frost's poems in 15 years.

Marsh Targets
 To really put a fine edge on your shooting eye and your speed, walk a marsh in spring when blackbirds and other non-protected species flit and hover on the reeds. There isn't an easy shot in a carload, but an hour or two of fast sighting and shooting will make other hard shots seem easy. Be sure to check game laws in your area, though, before you put this one into practice.
Rolling Tire Gathers No Hits
 That is, it won't gather any hits the first few times you try it. But paste a sheet of cardboard over the center of an old rubber bicycle tire and try rolling it down a hill across your shooting field. It duplicates an old buck on the lam.
No Smoking Ear Plugs
 Forget your ear plugs at the range? No headache . . . if you take this tip and plug ears with the filters from two cigarettes. Fibrous interior makes a fine sound damper.
Crows Can Count
 Beginning crow shooters never had a better time than now when the small ones are gullible, guileless and no longer listening to what Mama tells them. Almost any call will bring them in if you remember the number one crow hunter's rule. Stay Out Of Sight! And this includes not being seen by even one crow getting into covers. And, if a stand of pines or thick brush can't be reached except across an open field, take this tip: Crows can count, but only up to one. If you walk into the woods, the crows will remember you're there until you walk out. But if you and your partner walk in, then one of you walks out, a short wait will bring the crows in. They counted . . . one in, one out. Deduce that all's clear.
Never Forget This One
 It's an old tip, any woodsman knows it . . . but does your boy? Tell him right now, just to make sure. If he ever gets lost in the woods, following a stream will eventually lead him out. Tell him now, please!

Chiropractors Back Good Posture Week

National Correct Posture Week—the first week of May—will be sponsored here by the Maryland Chiropractic Assn., according to Dr. D. L. Beegle, who is past president of the association. Chiropractors are especially conscious of the grave consequences which follow faulty posture, because a substantial proportion of their patients suffer from ills directly traceable to bad posture or to crumpled positions required by their jobs. Dr. Beegle declared that nearly half of all adults have bad posture habits, with resulting bad effects on their health and efficiency. Other things being equal, good posture means good health, vitality, and efficiency; bad posture means poor health, lost wages and wasted productivity, and induces emotional depression and fatigue.

Both nationally and locally, organizations devoted to child health and welfare are being invited with special cordiality to join chiropractors in observance of Correct Posture Week. Training in body mechanics comes more easily in youth; bad posture habits contracted then are harder to break, while good habits persist into maturity.

Most district chiropractors have agreed to examine school-age children free, provided they are accompanied by their parents. Appointments for these examinations, however, must be made.

Tours throughout the hospital will be available for those interested, with guides who can answer questions and offer help. Refreshments will be served by the Woman's Auxiliary at 4:00 p.m. The topic to be discussed is so important to every citizen, according to Dr. Hitchman, the chairman of the committee on arrangements, that a great many people are expected to accept the invitation.
