The feat accomplished this week by one of our space astronauts flying the experimental plane X15 50 miles high at 4000 miles an hour shows us how rapidly our country is forging ahead in the race for space. Just last week we bounced a gadget off the moon and a series of these shots will continue. There's no doubt about it that we were five years behind the Russians a short time back but unquestionably we now are narrowing that gap and perhaps are even ahead to some degree.

Our Little League is organizing for another year and desperately needs the support of the community. New uniforms, costing several hundred dollars, are needed this year and individuals and merchants are being asked to contribute. Let's get those donations in early folks because I don't know of a worthier cause than our Little League which develops our youths mentally, physically and sports wise. It's a good deal all around and merits our support.

With our local election settled we have now switched our attention on the coming primary and indications are it will be a spirited one. It is believed that a very heavy vote will transpire throughout the county and possibly the entire state. The candidates have made the issues clear and we just about know where we stand at this time but the candidates continue to hammer away at each other. Few changes in the minds of the voters will take place in the next 10 days as I believe most have already formulated their opinion and are ready to ballot. Both Democratic headquarters report sizeable numbers visiting and asking questions about the various candidates. Interest is running high and the battle lines are drawn waiting for the signal on May 15. Be sure you are at the polls that day. They are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. (DST).

Rumors still persist that present plans for the rerouting of Route 15 may be changed but there is no official word from the State Roads Commission about any such plan. With the announcement that the proposed Monocacy Dam would flood certain sections of the new highway speculative individuals apparently spread the rumors with the hope the Roads Commission would pick them up and probably re-route the road. Exactly nothing has happened to date and very likely won't as the proposed dam is many years in the future.

3000 Expected At Mount Weekend

Three thousand persons are expected to be on hand for the Annual Parents Day Weekend to be held at Mount St. Mary's College on Saturday and Sunday, May 5-6, according to Rev. Hugh J. Phillips, college chaplain.

The fifth annual Parents Day dance will be held on Saturday evening, May 5, from nine until one in the Memorial Gymnasium of the college. The orchestra of Warren Covington will furnish the music for the parents, students and guests. During the past year Mr. Covington has concentrated on traveling the circuit. His wide range of ability enables him to adapt his music to the particular preferences of each audience. Recent engagements have included hotels, college proms and society dances. During the past summer Covington's group was voted the most popular band at Sunnyside, a Pennsylvania dance hotel which features some of the nation's top dance bands.

On Sunday the Annual Parents Day program will open with a Solemn High Mass at 11 a.m. with the Right Rev. Robert R. Kline, Ph.D., president of the college and seminary, as celebrant. Opposes Candidate's License Plan

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Recently a great deal has been written in your papers about the issuance of license tags locally. As I understand it, the proposal would call for the issuance of these tags by the County Treasurer at the office in the Court House, as well as in the various incorporated municipalities. I am for those things which result in a convenience to our taxpayers. On the other hand, I feel that there must be attention to efficiency and economy in our government. I wonder how much thought has been given by those who propose this matter as to its cost and possibility of operation. I should therefore like to make the following points for our taxpayers to consider:

1. It would be impossible to locate such an operation in our present County Treasurer's Office or in the Court House because of lack of space.

2. Other counties which have attempted such a system have found that the cost of operation far exceeds the charge made for the issuance of tags.

3. The issuance of tags would come at the busiest time in the County Treasurer's Office and therefore necessitate the employment of a great deal of extra help.

4. Under such a system as presently operated by other counties, tags could not be issued if the applicant changed address, did not receive an application, desired to change titles, wanted truck tags with insurance, etc. Applications in these instances would still have to be processed by the Department of Motor Vehicles. As a result there would be great confusion in the operation of the system.

5. In addition to the lack of space in our Court House, there is also a lack of parking space in the area of the Court House.

6. Today one can procure automobile license tags by simply filling out application blanks sent to car owners by the Department of Motor Vehicles every February, attaching a check or money order in amount required; place same in a self-addressed envelope provided by the above named department, put a 4c stamp thereon and in a few days will receive the license tags, instead of standing in line waiting to get the tags. If the tags were obtained at the County Treasurer's office, as well as various incorporated municipalities, the State would allow 15c per set of tags issued. Experience in some areas has shown the actual operational cost to be twice as great.

7. No authority exists presently to issue tags in the incorporated municipalities of this County. Even if the Legislature granted this authority, it would necessitate the installation of expensive equipment in the small towns of Frederick County and employment of even additional help in our small communities, which in my judgment would not be justified by the revenue produced.

I would be much more impressed with the argument of those who propose a local issuance of tags if they would give us an answer as to where the space is to be provided, the cost of renting or building the extra space that would be required, the cost of employing personnel to run the operation at our County Treasurer's Office and in the various towns of the County, and a comparison with the use of such a system in a county similar to Frederick. Convenience is certainly desirable but it is time the taxpayers of this County began to think of cost to the taxpayers.

Very truly yours,
J. L. NESTER

Firemen Called Three Times

The Vigilant Hose Company responded to three alarms on April 27. The first in a series of fires occurred at 1:05 p.m. at the William Myers property on Orndorff Road where five acres of grass were burned. The blaze was reported by State Trooper Earl F. Tracey. At 3:20 the firemen were called back to the Myers farm on Orndorff Road to quell another fire.

School Conducts Clothing Drive

TIME OF DECISION

The Duvall Swadner Future Teachers of American Club of Emmitsburg High School collected six hundred pounds of usable clothing from both the elementary and high school. The student body responded very well to this project. After collecting the clothing, the FTA members packed them for shipping. They were quite pleased to find that they had filled twenty-nine bags. This clothing will be sent to families in the United States and over the world who have need for it. This is the first year the clothing drive has been sponsored by the FTA although it had been collected at the school before. Previously the FTA Club had sponsored a similar drive to collect toys at Christmas. The toys were then repaired and distributed through this area as Christmas gifts for school and preschool children.

Mayor Houck Endorses Mahoney Ticket

J. Norman Flax, Town Commissioner and campaign manager for the George P. Mahoney ticket, announced this week the endorsement of the Mahoney ticket by Mayor J. Edward Houck. It was felt, Mr. Flax said, that with the help of the Mayor and other influential citizens of the town, that enough strength here for Mahoney would help to effect his election to the governorship and that better cooperation would be forthcoming from Mr. Mahoney than has been received from Governor Tawes.

Flax stated that he had been in contact with Mr. Mahoney, the gubernatorial candidate, and that if elected he promised to look into the existing problems now plaguing the town. Flax quoted Mr. Mahoney as saying that Route 15 from the Mason-Dixon Line south to the Mother Seton School, was a disgrace to the State of Maryland. Speaking generally on the coming election Mr. Flax said it would be quite an honor to have an Attorney-General coming from Frederick County for the first time in the history of the state. He had reference to the County's "favorite son" candidate Samuel W. Barrick of Frederick. He is now serving the people as a State Senator and formerly as States Attorney.

Mr. Flax invites all Democrats to attend the Grand Primary Rally at the Frederick Fairgrounds, Saturday, May 12-3 to 6 p.m. The featured guest at the Rally will be George P. Mahoney, gubernatorial candidate and his entire dynamic ticket. Come one, come all, meet the men who will lead us from a listless state administration. Bring your children to meet the men of ACTION.

Mrs. Yarroll

Well Qualified For Treasurer's Job

(Political Advertisement) With the knowledge gained from twenty-two years of service in the office, Mrs. Charlotte W. Yarroll, Democratic candidate for the office of County Treasurer, assures the citizens of Frederick County a continuity of what is widely regarded as a maximum-quality fiscal operation. With this background, Mrs. Yarroll seeks her party's nomination at the May 15th primary election.

Mrs. Yarroll's wealth of experience had its inception back in 1939 when she was first employed in the Treasurer's office as a clerk. Five years later, in 1944, she was appointed a Deputy, in which post she continued until the death of County Treasurer James H. Falk in May, 1960.

Upon recommendation of the State Central Committee for Frederick County, Mrs. Yarroll was appointed by Governor J. Millard Tawes as Treasurer to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Yarroll continued and expanded upon the policies in administering the office, with the result that the County Treasurer's office has enjoyed an outstanding reputation for efficiency and integrity. This is the first time she has ever been a candidate for elective office.

Mrs. Yarroll is a graduate of Frederick High School, Class of 1934, has completed business courses at the Visitation Academy and pursued general accounting activities. However, due to the nature of her work over the period of years, her knowledge has been specifically channeled in the general fields of county fiscal affairs. In this, she has been unchallenged. She has rendered valuable service to her party as treasurer of the Women's Democratic League of Frederick County.

Mrs. Yarroll is also well-known for her talent as a vocalist. She is a member of the choir of All Saints Episcopal Church and has made her services available as a soloist at various other churches.

Mrs. Yarroll and her husband, Harold Reeves Yarroll, prominent musician, reside at 613 Magnolia Avenue in Frederick.

100 YEARS AGO

YORKTOWN EVACUATED: CORINTH SIEGE BEGINS

By Lon K. Savage

It was Saturday night, and the federal troops sat in their trenches in front of Yorktown in southeastern Virginia with pleasant thoughts drifting through their heads.

The Civil War would soon be over, they thought. Richmond, the capital of the Confederacy, lay less than 75 miles to the east. They were part of an army of more than 100,000, under the famous Gen. George B. McClellan. For a month they had besieged Yorktown, and now they were ready to go crashing through the Confederate lines, and Richmond would be doomed.

It was May 3, 100 years ago this week.

But the guards that night heard unusual activity from the Confederate lines, and something mysterious seemed to be going on. Next morning, reconnaissance patrols were sent forward. They returned with astounding explanation:

The Confederates had abandoned their Yorktown line. McClellan Surprised

McClellan could hardly believe it. It had taken a month to get into position to smash the Yorktown line, and now, just as his preparations were about to pay off, the line was given him—free of charge. The Confederates under Gen. Joseph E. Johnston were withdrawing, quite intact and in good order, back toward Richmond.

Immediately, McClellan ordered his troops in pursuit. By early afternoon, his advance had caught up with Johnston's rear guard, and the skirmish drew troops to it from both sides. The result: the battle of Williamsburg.

It was an unexpected battle, but it was bloody nonetheless. By Monday morning, May 5, six federal generals were on hand with their troops, and one of them—Joseph Hooker—attacked the Confederates with full fury. Successful at first, Hooker eventually was driven back under a counter-attack with heavy casualties, and the little battle rattled to an end. Some 2,000 Yanks and 1,200 Rebels had been killed or wounded.

And the Confederates continued withdrawing toward Richmond, little having been accomplished by the bloodshed. McClellan's Peninsula campaign was now nearing its goal. On May 6, federal troops marched through the quaint and historic town of Williamsburg, and Richmond lay only 60 miles away.

Halleck Advances

As the siege of Yorktown ended unexpectedly, another siege began in the Civil War's western theatre.

On April 30, federal Gen. Henry W. Halleck decided that his huge army of 100,000 was ready to move on Corinth in northeastern Mississippi. Since early in the month, the army had been assembling and regrouping on the battlefield of Shiloh before setting out for the important railroad juncture 22 miles southwest.

And on that day, Halleck's giant army began creeping southwestward with a caution that would have made even McClellan seem fast. His target, the army that had gotten away from Grant at Shiloh—the men under Gen. Pierre G. T. Beauregard.

Halleck's men went forward slowly, under orders not to do battle. After a short advance, they entrenched; roads were corduroyed to their trenches; artillery was brought up; and the process would start all over again.

Unlike the troops at Yorktown, the men under Halleck began to realize it would be a long, long war.

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Says One Half Of Buyers Of Stocks Make Mistakes

BABSON PARK, Fla., May 3—One half of the buyers of the stocks on the New York Stock Exchange buy when they should sell; and sell when they should buy. This is because there cannot be a seller without a buyer; or there cannot be a buyer without a seller. Even Bankers Are Sometime Duped

I once knew a Massachusetts bank director who founded a successful machinery company which is now listed on the New York Stock Exchange. He was a very generous man and provided a four-acre Golf Club in New Hampshire for his friends and summer residents. Many fine homes were built there and are now occupied in the summer by very prominent people. In Boston financial circles this man's opinion on investments was given serious consideration.

When this well-known man died, he left two sealed trunks in his attic. One contained Russian rubles and the other German marks. He left a note stating that he had paid nearly $2,000,000 for this foreign money. As he had always been very kind to his neighbors they took up a collection to pay his debts; his young wife (a second wife) went to work. How To Lose $45,000,000

A man known world wide in utility circles had a winter home at Mountain Lake, Florida, near where I am writing my column this week. He had a chair and desk which the present generous owners of his late home gave to Webber College. This famous man was written up in the magazines during the 1920's as "America's Richest Man." Well, he told me shortly before he died: "I made $50,000,000 sitting in that chair in 1926-28; then I lost $45,000,000 in 1929-30, sitting in the same chair." He did his business by telephone; never wrote a letter.

I give the above illustrations not to criticize anyone. During my fifty years of active life I have never met any man (or woman, except Hetty Green) who would claim never to have lost money speculating. The lesson, however, which I want to drive home to readers is the importance of knowing when to stop. The time to retire from the stock market is when things look good and your friends are all bullish, and you are "walking on air." That is the time to stop. What this stock market will do before 1962 is over no one knows; but I do earnestly advise that you sell enough and take profits enough to pay up all you owe.

Corporation Officials Take Notice

This is an era when corporations are making foolish "splits." After you receive a stock dividend your original stock, plus the new stock, is worth no more than before. Yet the price goes up even on the rumor that such a stock dividend will be paid. Since the Securities & Exchange Commission has been organized, many men with money have refused to be directors of corporations. The officers are given "options" and other incentives to compensate for the risks they are taking.

Surely nothing could have prevented the two men described above from losing their money. Furthermore, I could give many other similar illustrations. These men had economic education, robust health, honest intentions, and were as good men as any reader of this column. Securities & Exchange Regulations

I fully approve all the steps being taken to make stocks and bonds safer for investors to buy. I advise my clients to cooperate with the SEC. But no laws can eliminate speculation. It is an instinct which seems inherent from birth, and endures through education, marriage, and to death. People will bet on horse races if they cannot bet on Wall Street. Furthermore, if it had not been for this instinct, Columbus would not have discovered America; yes, and the Pilgrims would never have landed at Plymouth Rock.

I believe in the Regulation Statements which the SEC requires to be prepared, printed, and distributed to prospective stock buyers; but there is no way of compelling these prospects to read them. Moreover, they are quite a burden to young and growing companies, as the cost of lawyers and accountants fees, plus printing, amounts to from $25,000 to $50,000. It is even more important that small investors read the annual reports and proxy statements which every stockholder receives free—once a year.

Around The World In 80 Days

(Miss Anabel Hartman, of Emmitsburg and Baltimore, has recently returned from such a trip and begins herewith a report on it for Chronicle readers, to be continued in successive issues.)

The official title of this Cruise by the S.S. Rotterdam of the Holland - American Line was of course suggested by Jules Verne's remarkable piece of fiction published back in 1872 and the also remarkable movie of that name in recent years. This Cruise, it seems to me, was also remarkable in a number of ways but in no other respect resembled the sources of its title. I shall not here, however, go into contrasts between the trip of 1962 and the imaginary ones of book and screen but keep strictly to the things that made this real journey such an outstanding experience. I think of them as belonging under three heads.

I. The Ship Itself

I can assure Chronicle readers that I have not been engaged to advertise the Rotterdam as a cruise ship but it played so large a part in the comfort and interest of the total Cruise experience that I feel obliged to give it a prominent place in my report. (Incidentally, this present Rotterdam, named from the city where it was built, is the fifth ship of that name and quite new, having made its maiden voyage (trans-atlantic run to and from New York) only as long ago as September 1959.) As its size is one of its striking features as a cruise ship—it is the largest one afloat as such altho as a regular transatlantic passenger liner, which it also is, it is surpassed by the two Queens and several ships of other lines—it occurred to me that this point might be made more impressive if we try to set the Rotterdam down temporarily on the main street of Emmitsburg and think of its chief measurements in comparison with something we are familiar with. As soon as we try to do this in imagination, being given the Rotterdam's width, we find that none of our streets are wide enough to get it in (not even the Square, and anyhow that would hold only about one-fifth of the ship's length). So let's just continue imagining a bit longer and set the Rotterdam down on East Main Street, say, between the bank crossing and the former Broad Alley, now Federal Avenue, that action involving the pushing back of all the buildings on each side of the street for that distance for some 18 feet, for the Rotterdam stretches out in length 748 feet. As to height, it would tower high above all the surrounding buildings and be nearly twice as high as the nearest church, for from keel to top of Radar mast, its highest point, it measures 201 ft., 10 ins. (The height of the Catholic church from ground to tip of steeple, if I understood correctly the measurement given me, is 110 feet.) I trust this effort to bring the Rotterdam in imagination to Emmitsburg will give readers who have followed it a better idea than the mere measurements could do of the size of the largest cruise ship afloat.

But in addition to this fact of size the external appearance of the Rotterdam is made quite distinctive by an innovation in its construction that to quote the ship's booklet on "Facts and Figures", gives it "a profile startlingly different from any other single vessel in the historic Western Ocean traffic lanes." And what is this innovation? The surprising one of doing-away with the single or double huge smoke-funnels that take us so much space and substituting two tall black - topped pillars with a connering cross-beam located near the rear of the upper deck. An article on the Holland - American Line and its flagship in a Bangkok English newspaper given each Cruise passenger the day we arrived in that city has this comment on the particular construction I am describing—note what it is called: "Her ultra - modern snail's horns not only carry off her smoke more efficiently but made room in her design for the popular 'Sky Room' and sportsdecks high above the sea."

The last part of this sentence leads us directly into the interior of the Rotterdam and suggests that it too is radically different in its layout from that of earlier ships, as indeed it is and in various ways only partly due to the 'snail's horns.' I hope that readers whose imagination will permit will come with me for a brief tour while we still have the ship so close at hand.

As the Rotterdam is now supposedly on land we have a very steep gangplank to climb to the first deck used for boarding it, known as B, for below us is C deck, the only one out of the 11 decks which is not partly for direct passenger use, this for crew quarters, baggage room, kitchens, etc.), then D, which contains, forward, the indoor swimming pool, gymnasium, Turkish baths, massage and dressing rooms, and below the depths given up mainly to the maze of compartments filled with the varied and complex machinery of the engine rooms.

On B, along with a vestibule leading to the lowest passenger state rooms, we note two of the most important accommodations on the ship: (1) a wide foyer with long leather - upholstered seats, rows of elevators on each side, and a broad double stairway leading up and down thru 7 decks in the center of the ship, and (2) at each end of this foyer a large dining-room ("La Fontaine" and "Odyssey") with decorated domes extending two decks high. The wide foyer is also continued thru the next 5 decks, adding greatly to the unusual sense of spaciousness on the Rotterdam.

Time will not permit us to stop for even a glance at the next 3 decks with their combination of state rooms and important ship offices (Chief Steward's, Doctor's, and others) but we must give at least that to the next two, known as Prom and Upper Room, for they represent another great innovation in passenger accommodation—the only ship to have two complete decks of public rooms. And what a variety, in size, shape, location, decoration and furnishing, along with purpose this means! On Prom, for example, there is the large Lounge and chief informal assembly-place on the ship, and back of it the Theatre, seating over 600 persons, with a balcony and vaulted ceiling; surrounding it in the form of an Arcade, a special recreation center, largest of its kind on any of a large horseshoe the Ocean (Continued on Page Five)

COLD STATISTICS . . . SPEED KILLS!!!

Speed is a killer on American Highways! Regardless of how safe a driver you believe you might be, in case of a mechanical failure, human shortcomings, or some slight misjudgment, the speeding driver can almost certainly become involved in a fatal accident. Cold hard statistics have proven this point many times over the nation. Most all automobile operators think of themselves as careful drivers. But, when an accident does occur, it is speed that always kills. Our citizens today are granted an operators license for driving vehicles on our highways. This is a privilege and not a right to endanger the lives of our fellowmen. All persons driving vehicles on highways are urged to drive at a careful and prudent speed. They should not drive greater than nor less than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic surface, width of the highway and other restrictions or conditions that may exist.

Nobody should drive any vehicle at such a speed as to endanger the life, limb or property of another person. No motorist should drive at a speed greater than will permit him to bring the vehicle to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead. True, each and every State has specific speed limits for various types of highways. This does not mean that every motorist can and should drive at that maximum speed under all conditions. For each of us the answer lies in having a thorough knowledge of our traffic and motor regulations. But this is not enough. This knowledge must be coupled with good common sense plus a willingness to realize that our driving privileges must be shared with thousands of additional drivers each year.

er for younger passengers with hot-dog stand, soda fountain and a variety of amusement devices (mainly for the regular transatlantic runs, since a Cruise ship of this kind has a conspicuous absence of young people). On Prom too are several of the half-dozen night-club type of smaller rooms for dancing and liquid refreshment; and across the foyer one of the most fascinating accommodations on the ship, to judge from the number of passengers, both men and women, who are either customers or window-shoppers. This is the unit of three small stores, one for practical necessities (trade - marked drugs, toilet aids, camera parts, etc.) and the other two, continued on the next deck, for all kinds of luxury items displayed in beautifully arranged glass cases (exquisite scarfs, jewelry, hand - bags, porcelain and pottery figurines and other lovely things that gave one pleasure just to look at (at least it did me and I am sure many others who were obliged or preferred to make their purchases in the countries they visited or in less glamorous places).

On Upper Prom, along with a number of rooms such as some not mentioned on the deck we have just left, for music, dancing, card games, I can mention only one room which, the small, is another of the especially popular places on the ship, that is the post-office, library, and writing-room, where there are desks, shelves filled with worthwhile books, and especially a counter with a fine assortment of post-cards and stamps pertaining to the country in which the next land tours are to be made, not to omit a variety of fine Dutch chocolate candy. There remain Boat Deck, Sun Deck, and Bridge Deck, each with one public room looking out on promenade or the wide sports decks already mentioned. And no space remains to say anything of the amazing variety in the architecture and decorating of all these accommodations except that they are all available to all passengers on a Cruise (but on shorter runs passengers have only a portion of the ship to use according to whether first-class or tourist), and that about 70 architects and decorators, mainly but not entirely from Rotterdam, were involved in producing the Rotterdam's unusual interiors.

State Employment Shows Gain

Employers placed 30.8 per cent more non-farm job openings with the Maryland Employment Service in March than they listed in February.

Stephen C. Cromwell, Executive Director of the Department of Employment Security, attributed the upswing in job orders to an upturn in construction in the Baltimore Area with the advent of good weather, and the establishment of new business units in the State.

A total of 1,296 professional, clerical and sales placements were made throughout the State in March, up 21.9 per cent over the 1,063 placed in February and 51.2 per cent higher than the 857 placed in March, 1961.

Job openings listed with the Maryland State Employment Service in March totaled 7,671, an increase of 30.8 per cent over the 5,863 job orders received in February, and 17.6 per cent greater than the 6,523 orders placed in March, 1961.

Faith In Fallacies
The mumbo jumbo of Communist dialectics has too often backed defenders of the free world into an ideological corner. Most of us have termed their basic ideas plain nonsense, unworthy of a second thought. Yet the minds of men throughout the world today have become fogged, and occasionally some ambitions intoxicated, with the philosophy of communism. What kind of faulty thinking goes on in the Communist mind? What kind of ideological faith is required to accept it? What belief and what enthusiasm could support the Khrushchev boast that communism would bury the free world?

That communism actually is a faith, though fallacious, may surprise some Americans who are accustomed to takings things for granted. What people believe in may not, of course, be true, even if vigorously defended and practiced with sincerity. A faith can still be dead wrong as Dr. James D. Bales has shown in his study of an ideology that has spread over much of the world. Communism: Its Faith and Fallacies (Grand Rapids 6, Michigan: Baker Book House, $3.95).

A Theory For Action
Taking Karl Marx at his word that communism would not be so much interested in interpreting the world as in changing it, Dr. Bales has demonstrated in detail how the "theory" of communism has served all these years as "a guide to action." It is folly, he says, for us to pass off Marxist dialectic as "screwball" or "foreign." Instead he proposes that Americans examine the catechism. He urges that we analyze both the theory and practice of ideological communism, to see just how it has worked out for the Communists and how they intend to use it in the future.

Khrushchev's famous 1956 speech on Stalin, Dr. Bales points out, called for a reemphasis on certain aspects of their philosophy. The Soviet leaders said then that they should "return to and actually practice in all our ideological work, the most important theses of Marxist-Leninist science about the people as creator of history and as the creator of all material and spiritual good of humanity, about the decisive role of the Marxist party in the revolutionary fight for the transformation of society, about the victory of communism." Understanding Needed

No wonder Comrade Khrushchev could announce a few months later to the West: "Whether you like it or not, history is on our side. We will bury you!" Dr. Bales makes clear in this book his conclusion that if the West had in times past seriously examined communist philosophy, our mistakes surely would have been fewer and our victories more apparent as we dealt with our sworn enemies.

He writes: "It should be obvious that if a person actually accepts the world view of communism, one should expect him to act in harmony with the basic concepts of Communism and not in harmony with the concepts of a basically different world view. In other words, if the Communist really believes in communism we should expect that his actions will be in harmony with his beliefs and not, for example, in harmony with the actions of a devout Christian. The Christian would be deceiving himself, but not the Communist, if he thinks that the Communists will act even somewhat like a Christian."

Facing Realities
If the Communist tells us what he believes, Dr. Bales goes on to say, and then spends countless millions spreading his doctrines, "reason tells us to believe that a Communist is a Communist and that he will act like a Communist." Otherwise, we ourselves refuse to face reality (a consistent fault of the Communist) if we insist that he is something other than what he is, Dr. Bales calls this "an invitation to disaster."

An understanding of Communism's philosophy will not automatically enable us to solve all the problems brought into the world or intensified by communism, Dr. Bales admits. But it is his conviction that an understanding is essential if the world is to escape enslavement. He concludes: "For the non-Communist world to plan and to act as if Communists are not Communists, will not change them into non-Communists but will contribute to the Communists conquest of the world. And this conquest, be it remembered, will not result simply in the change of one form of government for another, but the enthronement of a government and a way of life which are determined to destroy all the morals, mores, values, and ideals of pre-Communist societies."

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Hands Off The Aspirin
Do you dive into the aspirin bottle for every ache and pain? You may be masking the signs of disease. Pain is not an illness in itself. It is a symptom of something wrong somewhere in the body.

You can't tell what's wrong by where you have the pain. Pain is sometimes what the doctors call "referred." That simply means that when something is wrong with one part of your body, it hurts somewhere else. Hip troubles can give you a pain in your knee. An ailing heart can cause abdominal or shoulder pain.

You can get a false sense of security once you've managed to dispose of the pain. Meanwhile, what's wrong with you can be getting steadily worse. If you see headache or some stiff muscles from spading the lawn, it's probably okay to take a couple of aspirins and then forget about it. But if pain recurs or is persistent, stay away from the aspirin bottle and pay a visit to your doctor.

Pimlico Opens Tomorrow Pimlico Race Course, home of the Preakness, Maryland's greatest sports spectacle, launches its 146th race meeting Saturday, May 5 with a twelve-day session starting at 2 p.m. (EDT).

Highlight of the annual thoroughbred conclave will be the eighty-sixth running of the $150,000 added Preakness, which is not only the Free State's most famous racing classic, but for the fourth straight year carries the prestige of being the world's richest race for three-year-olds.

It will be run on the traditional third Saturday in May—the 19th—after a full week's build-up through preliminary activities both on and off the track. Supporting the Preakness in Pimlico's stakes program will be the $20,000-added Blackeyed Susan Stakes for three-year-old fil-

THESE MEN ARE INTERESTED IN OUR PROBLEMS!

The Present Administration Has Bungled These Projects That Affect The People Of Emmitsburg:

- Complete Dualization of U. S. Route 15 North and South, Messed Up the Past 8 Years.
- Discriminatory Treatment of Town By the State Roads Commission.
- Failure of State Department of Economic Development to Aid Town in Obtaining Industry.
- Complete School Bus Transportation For All.
- No Improvements to Streets in Many Years.
- Deliberately Betrayed Our Local Teachers.

EDWIN F. NIKIRK
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW
105 West Second Street
Frederick, Maryland

Dear Voters and Taxpayers of Emmitsburg:
Frederick County has never enjoyed the honor and distinction of having the Attorney General of Maryland elected from our midst. The prospects of electing our "favorite son" candidate, Samuel W. Barrick to this high office are very promising, and it is on behalf of the candidacy of Sam and his running mates that I am writing to you on the following issues:

- (1) The Unit System of nominating candidates.
- (2) Our personal obligation and allegiance to our "favorite son" candidate.

1. As you are no doubt aware, candidates for state-wide office are nominated on the Unit System basis, and not by the majority of votes cast in the entire state. Each county and legislative district of Baltimore City is entitled to the same number of unit votes as it has representation in the House of Delegates and Senate of Maryland. Therefore, Frederick County has seven (7) Unit Votes, and regardless of the number of votes cast for Sam in Frederick County he can only benefit by seven (7) Unit Votes. A total of seventy-seven (77) unit votes over the entire state are required for nomination. It naturally follows that our "favorite son" candidate must necessarily depend most heavily on the Mahoney-Lee, etc., ticket to carry him and his campaign in the other counties and legislative districts of Baltimore City if he is to have a ghost of a chance for nomination. The Mahoney-Lee, etc. ticket is wholeheartedly carrying Sam over the length and breadth of the Free State, consequently, out of gratitude and appreciation for what this ticket is doing for our "favorite son" over the entire State, the least we can do is to carry this entire ticket for Sam in Frederick County. In effect, a vote for the Mahoney ticket will help Sam throughout the entire State of Maryland.

2. Do we owe a personal obligation and allegiance to Sam Barrick, as our "favorite son," to support the entire Mahoney ticket? The answer must obviously be in the affirmative. When, and it appears most likely, we will have the honor and distinction of the important office of Attorney General of Maryland being selected from one of the most loyal Democratic families in Frederick County (the S. W. Barrick family of Woodsboro, Md.), we should all put our shoulders to the wheel and gratefully support the Mahoney-Barrick-Lee, etc. ticket—the ticket that will not only bring honor and distinction to our "favorite son," but to our entire County!

I personally urge you to carefully consider these aspects of the forthcoming primary, and to display that type of loyalty which has been such a great source of pride to the Democratic Party of this County in the past.

Cordially yours,

EDWIN F. NIKIRK

For Governor

"THINK OF THESE MEN - THEY THINK OF EMMITSBURG"

—Authority J. Norman Flax, Campaign Manager

GEORGE P. MAHONEY

Knickerbocker Building
Baltimore, Md.

To The Citizens of Emmitsburg:

During the past decade or so I have had many occasions to visit your town. During these visits I have had numerous conversations with the townsfolk and through these talks I have become cognizant of many of your local problems.

I have made a personal inspection of the roads in your area. I have paid special attention to the stretches from the Mason-Dixon Line south to your town and from Emmitsburg to Taneytown. These highways are in a deplorable condition and are a disgrace to our fair state. There seems to be no excuse for the delay during the past several years of improvements to Route 15. The deadend at Toll Gate Hill and in the Catoctin Furnace area are inexcusable in a modern highway.

Town Commissioner Flax has received a series of letters from the State Roads Commission. These letters were mere double-talk and mean nothing to Emmitsburg. This discriminatory action on the part of the Commission also is inexcusable. Emmitsburg deserves fair treatment the same as any other town in our state. If safety lights are paid for by the state, and other road repair, then why isn't Emmitsburg entitled to the same?

The present administration has completely overlooked the tremendous potential of the natural resources of Western Maryland and Emmitsburg. There are vast stretches of mountain and timberland in your area which could be developed by the State Parks Commission which would bring economic stability to your community, however exactly nothing has been done to develop this potential.

Yes, I am very familiar with the problems of your area and your efforts to cope with the great expansion problems confronting you by the growth of the two colleges there. I can assure you that if elected Governor I will devote time to assist you with your problems so that Emmitsburg can look forward to a brighter future.

Your most valuable assistance at the polls is needed if we are to work together for the betterment of Emmitsburg.

Most sincerely,

George P. Mahoney
