Now that the decorations are in place and Sunday is Advent we are officially ushering in the Christmas season. The decorations which were new last year have not been added to as was expected. Apparently the citizenry is content and apathetic about the decorative scheme believing that the new adornment will suffice for several years. Be that as it may, I feel that something is missing around the Square. It would be nice if some organization or merchants would get together and place a few pine trees on the corners to break the barren look and to give a Christmassy appearance. Any takers?

The town's industrial health was given an injection this week when the Toor Shoe Co. began building a large addition to its present facilities here. It is planned to eventually double the production of the concern and this is certain to mean much more employment here as a resultant factor. Doubling the capacity almost means doubling the operating personnel and that is just what we need here. We are sort of proud to have the Toor outfit among us. They have proven themselves an integral part of this community and we hope they stay. We like the way they operate. Coming here a number of years back they asked exactly nothing of the town. They spent their own money, paid taxes and operated in an exemplary manner. Some industries want free land, a building built and free taxes for a number of years. Not so of the Toor concern. They paid their way, every red cent of it.

We don't know what happened to the other industry's plan to enlarge. Things were right hot several months back and it was believed progress was being made, then all of a sudden the thing cools off and now you don't hear a word. I do hope it hasn't fallen through.

Tht basketball season has suddenly come upon us. Tomorrow night Jim Phelan's national champions begin the defense of their title and I imagine it'll be a whale of a season. It seems only just a few short months ago when we welcomed the Mountaineers back from Evansville in one of the most enthusiastic ovations and receptions ever accorded anyone in the history of the town. Let's hope we can have a repeat performance this year boys. I'd venture to say that winning the national championship brought more prestige to Emmitsburg than any other event in my ancient recollection. Now then folks, if you want to see some really excellent games this year sport fans, the Mount's the place to go.

Mount Opens Court Season Here Saturday

Coach Jim Phelan's Mt. St. Mary's NCAA champions begin defense of their national title in Emmitsburg tomorrow night when the champs take on Hofstra's Flying Dutchmen. The Mount has seven home contest scheduled for the coming season.

New Hofstra mentor Paul Lynner a bright Rutger's star ten years ago, brings in a veteran crew minus All-American Richie Swartz, a fine backcourt ace, and Bob Stowers, a real stickout performer. Jim Boatwright, a slick 6'4 center, moves into one of the vacant spots with soph Stan Nisenson, a 6'1 soph, working in backcourt. Back to plague the Mountaineers are Ron Alfiere, who got 10 points in last year's game, Bill McCollough and Lew Coach Phelan has, already had a deluge of injuries. Ed Pfeiffer, a great backcourt operative, may miss the Hofstra game. Lou Martine is sidelined with a bad leg and Bill McDermitt who figured to start at center, is out with a bad knee. If Pfeiffer misses the opening whistle, letterman Mike Costello will probably get the nod. Freshman Fran Fenerty will have to learn the center job under fire, as will classmate John Carrell, a bright prospect at Dick Talley's forward spot.

Veterans John O'Reilly and Dave Maloney will have to carry the slack in early season while the team licks its wounds. Whether they can carry the green Mountaineer club should be demonstrated Saturday evening. Lynner's crew will confront the Blue and White with a deliberate offense, good speed, good rebounding and good shooting. It will take a max-Mountie effort to stifle Hofstra hopes. In the past four seasons the visitors have won more than twenty games a year. Only in 1959 did they lose more than four games. In each of the past three seasons the Dutchmen were ranked among the top ten small colleges in the nation.

Hunters, he explained, tend to sit and relax when the weather is mild but move constantly to keep warm when the mercury plunges below the freezing mark or when the woodlands are snow covered. This movement, he continued, tends to flush the deer and "get them on the move."

Mount Schola To Give Concert In Baltimore

The Mt. St. Marys Seminary Schola Cantorum will break a long-standing tradition when it presents its first off - campus Christmas concert with a performance of "Christmas in Song and Verse" at St. Mary's Church, York Rd., Baltimore at 4 p.m. December 9. The 27-voice schola under the direction of Rev. Dr. David W. Shaum, professor of music at the Mount, will be joined by the 60voice St. Mary's Boys' Choir directed by Sister Gerald Marie, S.S.N.D. Tenor Maynard Spedden will be guest soloist.

The schola's long history began many years ago when the Seminary Choir annually serenaded the Mount students with an informal program prior to the Christmas vacation. More than 10 years ago Rev. Fr. Shaum formalized the was a son of the late Frank and time to a capacity audience. Nev

The St. Mary's Church concert will be a three-part affair. "The Word," "The Witness" and "The Liturgy," featuring excerpts from Benjamin Britten's St. Nicholas Cantata with Maynard Spedden handling the solo passages.

The first part of the program will present Jacobsen's "Richard de Castre's Prayer to Jesus," Shaw's "I Sing of a Maiden," morning at 11:30 o'clock at St. Bach's "My Spirit, Be Joyful" Cantata No. 146! Goemanne's "A" Virgin Most Pure," with Maynard Spedden: di Lasso's "Hodie Apparuit," and the ancient carol 'Christ Is Born of Maiden Fair.'

Britten's St. Nicholas Cantata will make up the second part of the program. Written in 1938, the libretto is based on legendary incidents in the life of St. Nicholas, universally known as Santa Claus and the patron saint of children, seamen and travelers. The chorus and soloist describe his miraculous adventures with the vivid conviction of eye-witnesses, transforming themselves into the contrasting characters of the drama as it unfolds and drawing the separate threads of the story together with each climax of their prayer and

Wide Use Of Salt Seen This Winter

Use of salt for the quick removal of snow and ice from the nation's streets and highways in the winter of 1962-1963 will save 325 lives, avert personal injuries to 32,000 persons and save half a billion dollars in storm losses, projection of past experience

Because of these advantages and ts economy in comparison with other methods, salt's use in deicing has multiplied more than two and one-half times since 1950. In that year, studies by New York City showed "bare pavement" winter maintenance with salt had cut skidding accident deaths and injuries in half. The years of pre-salt use in New York City, 1930-1936, showed an average of 21 fatalities and 1,635 injuries within New York City; whereas the years of salt use, 1940 to 1950, showed an average of nine deaths and 736 injuries. These 50 per cent-plus reductions are more impressive considering they took place during years in which traffic volume had sharply increased. The New York City data applies to the 4 per cent of fatal accidents and 11 per cent of injury cases that the National Safe-Council has found occur on nowy or icy payments.

100 YEARS AGO

SUGGESTED BY LINCOL

By Lon K. Savage

President Lincoln came forth with a new idea for freeing the slaves 100 years ago this week.

The plan: to give the states of the Union 37 yearsuntil January 1, 1900-to free their slaves. Those states which did so would be compensated for their loss.

The plan was outlined in Lincoln's second annual message to Congress on December 1, and it included—was based upon, in fact—a proposed amendment to the Constitution. That amendment already had been drafted.

"Every State," it said, "Wherein slavery now exists which shall abolish the same at any time or times before the first day of January, A.D., 1900, shall receive compensation from the United States . . ." The payment was to be made in United States bonds, and blanks were left in the document for Congress to fill in, naming the amount to be paid for each slave thus freed.

There were other parts of the amendment, too. One part authorized Congress to provide for colonizing freed slaves outside the United States if the slaves wished. But the idea of compensated emancipation by 1900 was the nut of the idea.

'A Compromise'

Lincoln described the plan as "a compromise . . . with the friends and not with the enemies of the Union."

Since it was an amendment, two-thirds of Congress and three-fourths of the States would have to agree to the plan before it could be used, and that assured that emancipation would take place. At the same time, as Lincoln stated, "the length of time should greatly mitigate" the dissatisfaction of those who favored perpetual slavery and would spare "both races from the evils of sudden derangement."

The cost would be large, he admitted, but not so large as the cost of continuing warfare. "The plan would, I am confident, secure peace more speedily and maintain it more permanently than can be done by force alone," Lincoln said.

Finally, Lincoln pointed out that his recommendation would not delay his earlier proclamation of the preceding September that all slaves in rebellious states or parts of states would be freed on January 1, 1863. The new plan was recommended "as a means . . . additional to" all other plans—including warfare—for restoring the Union.

There was much more to that annual message from the President to Congress. Lincoln reviewed the facts of the war; he told of achievements of his administrationincluding the creation the preceding spring of the United States Department of Agriculture. But his emancipation plan, clearly, was his chief idea.

The idea was to go unheeded. Except for some efforts toward compensated emancipation in Missouri, the idea never got off the ground. Senator Orville Browning of Illinois wrote in his diary after hearing the message that the President suffered from a "hallucination . . . that Congress can suppress the rebellion by adopting his plan of compensated emancipation."

BARSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON Babson Further Discusses Going To The Moon

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 29 - Although I have already discussed this subject, in my column of November 8, I believe readers will want to know more about the probability of going to the moon. This likelihood is confirmed by my most faithful friend, James P. W. Davidson of Wellesley, Mass., who has just returned from a 10,-000-mile trip visiting the leading "space" plants of the United States. He aroused my enthusiasm with his account of the way their activity is helping to prolong prosperity, and I was especially impressed by the large percentage of men entering that field.

This "great moon project"

may not only be very important of itself; but it may bring about a new era in economic history, as did the steam engine, the electric motor, and the automobile. This project may prolong the present period of prosperity which otherwise might now come to a close. Therefore every wageworker should help the cause along. I also advise my readers to scan the article in This Week Magazine for Sunday, Nov. 11, on "The Incredible Laser". Watch 1967

An idle daydream only a decade ago-going to the moonis today a practical, feasible engineering and medical subject. Many of the hazards involved in this 238,000-mile trip through outer space have been anticipated and solutions have been found to minimize the dangers. Others require further research. Spacecraft with human cargo have already completed space orbits around the Earth, simulating many of the conditions to be encountered in the longer

The Apollo project is the one that is currently concerned with placing man on the moon by 1967. It will be preceded by an initial testing of a three-man space flight around the Earth in 1965, a similar flight around the moon in 1966, and finally a twoman LEM (lunar explorotory capsule) landing on the moon in 1967. The ultimate project involves landing the spacecraft on the moon by 1970.

25,000 Miles An Hour ments and testing will be completed, the Apollo spacecraft containing three men and a LEM will "blast off," presumably from Cape Canaveral, Florida, on its voyage to the moon and back. After traveling only a few hundred miles, its speed will stabilize at 18,000 miles per hour and the spacecraft will go into orbit around the Earth. At the proper "instant" while in orbit, a second "blast off" will boost the speed to 25,000 miles per hour in the

Feeding Fallacies

Even though many of America's pet pups have better bal-anced diets than the members of the families they live with, com-mon fallacies about dog feeding

Some dog owners, for instance, feed raw eggs. This should neve be done since raw eggs contain the en zyme avidi. which pre

Dog experts of the Purina
Dog Care Center have this to say about self-feeding: "In general, growing dogs will do well if a balanced ration is always available. Fresh water should be readily obtainable. A properly adjusted hanging feeder does an outstanding job in reducing outstanding job in reducing waste. The big advantage in selffeeding is the time that is saved. Most dogs can be self-fed." What about table scraps

Think you're doing your dog big favor by feeding them? Fais, when you add table scraps to a diet of commercial dog rations which are scientifically formulated to meet the requirements of dogs, you may be diluting the concentration of some needed nu-

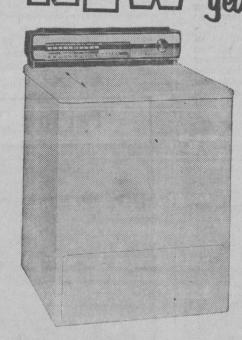

Another common fallacy is the belief that limiting water is a satisfactory way of controlling a dog's weight. This is cruce and dangerous . . . may result in damage to liver and kidneys.

When in doubt about your pet's diet, consult with your vetproper direction to reach the moon and escape the Earth's Finally, after 220,000 miles (and 66 hours), the speed will slow to 2,000 miles per hour and the astronault will guide the spacecraft into orbit around the moon. Two astronauts will then enter the LEM, drop away from the spacecraft, and land on the moon. They will return to the "mother" craft by blasting off from the moon, going into orbit around the moon, joining with and entering the "mother" craft while in orbit, then blasting off for their return trip to Earth.

My Reasons For Writing This Where does the investor fit into this picture? To complete the Apollo project will require the participation of hundreds of companies both large and small. The cost of the project will run into billions of dollars (from $20 billion to $40 billion is the estimate). Fields of activity include the manufatcure of propellants, spacecraft, guidance systems, instruments, and heatand radiation-resistant materials. Involved are chemistry, biology, medicine, psychology, m a thematics, communications, and astrophysics.

My reasons for writing this are to suggest: (1) Readers should ask their investment advisers to name the companies that will be benefited by the

The Leftward Fringe

As the pre-election debates were tending more and more to concern themselves with American foreign policy, the Cuban crisis swiftly came to a head on the basis of aerial reconnaisance photos. The press services and editorial writers were soon observing that the nation was closing ranks behind President Kennedy so that near unanimity prevailed in support of the President's firmness. The only exceptions, it was pointed out, were to be found on the farleft on the lunatic fringe.

The performances of this farleft periphery probably should concern us since it is partially indentifiable from some 30 candidates that it had around the nation in the recent elections.

These candidates were talking up such platforms as banning the nuclear weapons and ending testing, giving foreign aid to Communist satellite nations, recognizing Red China and East Germany, and being fair to Castro. With these and other proposals, for example, Harvard Professor H. Stuart Hughes was bidding for JFK's old Senate seat and for as much of the liberal vote as he could lure from Brother Teddy.

Idea Infiltration It is not so much the possibility of being chosen by the electorate that interests us now, as it is the propaganda effect of the views held by these socalled "peace" candidates. But what is perhaps of major concern is the success they often have in influencing the platforms of the major parties and occasionally in launching a kindred spirit or two into the orbit of the White House advisors. The service renedered by many of these people to World Communism in its recent drive to squelch anti - Communists was also a notable development.

It does seem to be a matter of serious concern that these Communist-sponsored ideas are infiltrated so easily into our society. If the process were limited to "ivory tower" poets and philisophers, perhaps little harm would be done. Unfortunately, however, some thought leaders are captured by the altruistic nature of these proposals. The harm is done when the Communist fifth-column sees to it that the greatest possible mileage is obtained from any idea or de-velopment that offers support of the Communist line.

The Fellow Travelers More and more the U. S. Communists are finding ways to get others to serve them. As yet, largely unregistered as foreign agents despite Supreme Court directives and still free to print whatever they please, U. S. Communist Party members work like beavers weaving their "peace" lines into every communications channel. They even get into the government. One recalls policy-maker William Wieland, a Castro friend and apologist in the State Department, who only last year enjoyed a public defense from President Kennedy.

Barely four weeks before the Navy was blockading Cuba, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee sent out a sample copy of the magazine The Minority of One, in an effort to raise money for itself and subscriptions for the periodical. The magazine, according to the Committee, "has courageously supported the Cuban Revolution despite the mounting hysteria in our country that has been encouraged by a lying press that would like some 200 million Americans to believe that 7 million Cubans pose a threat to our national securi-

A fair statement of the Communist line!

One wonders what kind of support this periodical and the FPCC receive from the Soviet agitation and propaganda arm. It is hard to believe that this magazine lists among its contributors a justice of the Supreme Court and includes on its board of sponsors at least two Nobel prize winners, several notable theologians and professors, a retired Army general, and a vice president of the Fund for the Republic! The biggest name among the sponsors, however, is that of humanist A!-Schweitzer. How subtle

Sunday, December 2, the Advent Season commences and the beginning of a new liturgical year is upon us. Advent is a season of spiritual preparation for the coming of the Savior at Christmas. It is an excellent time to esablish liturgical customs in our homes which will restore us and our children to Christ.

Displaying the Advent Wreath s the most popular of the Advent customs. German in origin, the Advent wreath is made of evergreens and btars four candles. Three of the candles are purple ones to be lighted on the "penitential" Sundays and one is rosecolored for the joyful Sunday in Advent. Purple ribbons either decorate the weath or are used to suspend it from the ceiling. The ceremony for using the Advent wreath is simple. At the end of Advent, the candles and the ribbons are changed to white and the wreath is kept until Epiphany.

Gifts for Jesus is another Advent custom particularly appealing to children. Each child is given an empty manger of paper box at the beginning of Advent. At bedtime, straw is added to the manger for kind deeds and good behavior performed in honor of the Baby Jesus. On Christmas, each child finds an infant in his manger. A child will put much love into his preparations for the Christ Child's birthday.

The Advent House is made of paper and has seven sealed windows concealing symbols of Christ derived from the Old Testament. Each day, starting December 17, a seal is broken on one of the windows revealing the symbol. On December 23, when the door on the Advent House is opened, we find the infant Jesus on His Mother's knee.

Many other delightful Advent and Christmas customs can be revived with very little effort. And uch effort will help us all to put Christ back into Christmas.

Too many people do not recognize the importance of a good breakfast. To help emphasize the benefits of a hearty meal, cereal and breakfast food manufacturers increased their national newspaper advertising 30.1% in 1958

It's Time For.. EYE CARE

Dr. Newton K. Wesley

"EYES...WEAK OR STRONG?" The question is often asked-"How weak and delicate are the eyes . . . or are they considered strong?" The answer is—the eyes are not as delicate as one might think—on the contrary they are quite strong. For instance, the muscles in the eyes are from 50 to 100 times as strong as they need be. I have often thought the size and strength of the eye muscles compared to muscle-use in the other parts of the body is very much like using a crane to lift a woman's purse!

A leading ophthalmologist once said the eyes were made to work and it would be difficult to hurt them by over work or too much

Generally speaking, this is true as long as the eyes are healthy and normal. If there is strain, however, an eye doctor should be consulted.

It is a good thing the eyes are not as delicate and sensitive as some believe because most of us neglect the care of our eyes. In neglect the care of our eyes. In schools, for example, eyes are not examined as often or as thoroughly as they should be. A student's eyes should be examined at the beginning of a semester and again during the middle of the term. This latter examination would determine the effect a heavy schedule of reading and study would have on the eyes. study would have on the eyes.

The National Eye Research Foundation recommends that all of us, no matter what age, should have our eyes examined at least once every six months.

Most of the 5,800 residents of receiving social security benefits depend on these benefits for daily needs. W. S. King, Manager of the Hagerstown District Office advises that very rarely does he receive more than ten calls in a month reporting that the social security check has not arrived on

There are several reasons why a check could be delayed. Often, person will change his a dress without notifying the Social Security Office in time to permit changing the address on his social security check. Other causes of nonreceipt might be an incorrect address, lost or stolen check, or the check may have been stopped because some factor of entitlement s no longer met.

The employees at the Social Security Office know that most people who receive social security depend on it to pay bills and meet other obligations. They also know that few people can get along when this source of income i stopped. It is, therefore, the goal of the Social Security Administration to see that each entitled person receives his check on time

Dog-Gone? LEASH YOUR DOG - IT'S THE LAW!

PHILADELPHIA — Design engineers have now made it easier for pet owners to obey the law where letting dogs run loose is prohibited.

Newest development, called Dog-Tenda, utilizes an automatically retracting reel to allow a dog all the freedom necessary for exercises, but still keeps him secure.

As the dog moves around in a play area, the reel automatically retracts or extends a 15foot nylon-covered steel cable. Because both reel and cable move with the dog, there is no binding or tangling.

Manufactured by Cordomatic Corp. here, the Dog-Tenda can be attached either to house or garage, or staked into the ground. In addition to the freedom allowed by the retraction and extension of the cable, the reel housing itself swivels in a full 360-degree circle, giving the dog a total roving area of more than 700 square feet. Available in department, hardware stores and pet shops.

If the social security check does the normal date is due, get in Frederick and Frederick County touch with the Social Security Office. They will find out why your check has been delayed. The office servicing Frederick County is located at 59 North Cannon Ave., Hagerstown.

Sometimes one runs into a hunter who, it would seem, has lost find Thee, too. We ask this in sight of the fact that hunting is a sport. Since it is a sport, the sportsman has a wide range of weapons, from the modern big Magnum to the ancient bow and arrow. There's no need to be fussy about what weapon to use. However, after having selected a weapon for one reason or another, a sportsman is responsible for knowing its limitations and how to use it effectively for the game's sake, and safely, for the sake of other hunters. Having a powerful weapon doesn't relieve one of this responsibility in any way. The most powerful cartridge has definite limitations, just as the

For a while they got along splendidly. Then the man said, "Now, what gun do you prefer to carry?" He had just expressed a firm belief in a particular Magnum he owned. THOR RESEARCH CENTER FOR BETTER FARM LIVING

Many handymen, seriously bitten by the do-it-yourself bug after working with manual tools, turn to power tools to do more work faster and with less elbow grease.

The power drill boasts the title of "first bought" power tool in most American home and farm workshops. The reason is that this tool is really a small power plant that can operate some 30 attachments to perform dozens of jobs.

The drill also is an inexpensive tool tutor. By trying out the economical drill for varied uses, the inexperienced handyman becomes familiar with tools he might need to best accomplish any project he tackles.

Just a few of the uses of the portable drill and accessories follow:

-Drilling in wood or steel. The primary application is making holes for screws. A drill of a quarter-inch capacity in metal will drill up to a half-inch in wood.

—Grinding. You can sharpen knives, drill bits and other tools and finish metal work. -Sanding, buffing and polishing almost everything from furniture to silverware.
