Prof. Antolin Addresses Students

On Tuesday, Dr. Viktor Antolin addressed a group of students of Saint Joseph College on "International Relations and Social Problems." This was the last in a series of lectures which Dr. Antolin has been giving to the young sisters and postulants. Previous lectures were on the natural law and social order, the Catholic Church and social order, and the principles of private property and socialization.

Sister Rosemary Pfaff, president of Saint Joseph College, arranged this special series to promote understanding of the Social Doctrine of the Catholic Church as explained in the Encyclical of Pope John XXIII, "Mater et Magistra." Participants in this program grew in understanding of such important concepts as: the norms of natural law as the basis of social order; the natural obligation of all men to work for the common good, the greater obligation of Catholics as members of the Mystical Body of Christ to contribute to the common good.

Dr. Antolin is presently the assistant professor of philosophy at Saint Joseph College. He pursued his studies at the Gregorian Institute in Rome and at the State University of Italy. He received a master of arts degree in philosophy at the University of Toronto and his doctorate from the Central University of Madrid. The doctor also earned a diploma in social studies from the Social Institute of Leo XIII in Madrid, Spain.

Publicist Joins Cancer Society

The appointment of Mr. Edward F. Tormay as Assistant Executive Director of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society was announced recently by Dr. John M. Dennis, M.D., Vice President of the Division.

"Mr. Tormay brings to the Society an experienced background that will be an asset to the Division in its dedicated work to destroy this dreaded disease," Mr. Dennis said.

Formerly the Director of Development for St. Joseph College in Emmitsburg, Mr. Tormay assisted the college in such areas as fund raising, industrial liaison, and alumnae and public relations.

Mr. Tormay received his bachelor of arts degree in Journalism and English from Syracuse University in New York, and was engaged in public relations work with the Navy and various Adirondack resorts. His experiences took him into the field of radio where he was an account executive. He was later engaged in sales managing and sales promotion.

A resident of Towson, Mr. Tormay lives with his wife, Margaret, and their four children at 506 Overcrest Road.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Meeting Held

The monthly meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club was held Friday, April 5, 1963, at the home of Gary and Dennis Valentine. There were 45 members present and one new member, Dale Valentine. Marshall Sharrer announced that the yearly 4-H bake sale would be held Saturday, April 6 at the Emmitsburg Fire Hall.

The 4-H Baby Beef sale is scheduled for Saturday, April 13, and Monday, April 15. Randy, Doug, Jeff, Robert and Karl Valentine, Steve Deberry, Ronald Krom, Mary Ann and Ralph L. Keilholtz are going to the sale. The club decided to break into groups according to the projects. The junior leaders are going to help with the group of children carrying certain projects. Alan Brauer is going to help Mr. Jim Hill; Ronnie Krom is going to help Mr. Ralph Keilholtz with the beef projects and Marshall Sharrer with Mr. Charles Brauer and Mr. Richard Valentine with the tractor projects. After the meeting the Valentine family served refreshments.

Deegan's Mount Teams Improve

Jim Deegan's unbeaten Mt. St. Mary's College track squad captured its fifth straight meet when it crushed Towson State 103-18 Tuesday afternoon here.

The Mountaineers won 13 of the 14 events and smashed two school marks in the process. John Clarke set one new record in the 880 in 1:58 and John Dolan accounted for the other in the 330-yard hurdles in 39.3 seconds. Dolan also won the high hurdles while Lange copped the 440 and 220 runs.

Jeff Glover, Towson's lone winner, set a track and school record of 9:49.4 in the two-mile run.

Next action scheduled for the Mount is the Gallaudet Relays at Washington, D. C., Saturday April 20.

Ball Team Loses

Held to but two hits by Neil Voyle, Rider College left-hander, the Mt. St. Mary's College baseball team suffered its third loss in as many starts Tuesday at Emmitsburg when it was blanked 9-0.

Voyle fanned 14 Mount batters while giving up four walks.

Steve Mascia, who started for the Mountaineers, was tabbed for two runs in the second inning and was the losing pitcher. Bill Durham walked and Bill Tuskie was safe on an error. Bob Kristofik then rapped the first of his three hits to drive in two runs. Ed Folk pitched the final seven innings for the losers and was tabbed for seven hits.

Drop Close Game

A six-run explosion in the bottom of the sixth inning gave the unbeaten Towson State Teachers College baseball team a 9-5 victory over Mt. St. Mary's in a Mason-Dixon Conference game Monday at Towson.

The Mount is now 0-2, both in league play.

A pair of three-run homers turned the trick for the Knights. Chris Terry rapped the first circuit blow in the last of the fifth to break a scoreless tie. The Mount rallied with four runs in the top of the sixth for a short-lived 4-3 lead. The highlight of Towson's six-run splurge was another three-run homer by Dick Stallings, the Knights hurler.

The Mountaineers out-hit Towson 6-4 with Tom Wahl and Ed Shorn each collecting a pair.

Trackmen Win

Unbeaten Mt. St. Mary's hung up its fourth successive track triumph Saturday afternoon when it captured the annual Catholic University invitational meet at Washington, D. C.

The Mountaineers placed first in six events to pile up 56 1/2 points. Other team scores were: American University 33; Gallaudet 31; Catholic 29, and Bridgewater 13.

Two meet records were set. The Mount 880 relay team of Dave Landis, Ed Abrams, John McKee and Art Perelless capped twenths of a second off the old mark by racing home in 1:23.8. John D'Orazio, Catholic, heaved the shot-put 45 1/4 to better the old mark of 44-9.

John McKee accounted for two Mount firsts by taking the 880 and mile runs. Other Mountaineer firsts were by Clarke in the 440, Neidhart in the two-mile run and the mile relay squad of Knitting, Lange, Dolan and Clark.

Completes Course

Pvt. Richard A. Cullison, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Cullison, Littlestown R2, recently completed a 10-week supply and parts course at the Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va.

During the course Cullison received instructions in the maintenance of records pertaining to receipt, storage, issue, shipment, classification and salvage of engineer material.

He entered the Army in October 1962 and received his basic training at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Cullison attended Emmitsburg High School.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Joy were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Joy and daughter, Sandra, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Joy and daughters, Karen and Cathy, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Joy and family, Mrs. Michael Joy and daughter, Mrs. Robert Joy and family, Mrs. William Martin and sons, Mrs. Robert Henke and family and John Joy.

FORT SUMTER ATTACKED FEDERALS ARE REPULSED

By Lon K. Savage

Historic Fort Sumter, guarding the entrance to the harbor at Charleston, S. C., had leaped into the headlines when Federals in the fort and Confederates at Charleston began shooting at each other on April 9, 1861—the first day of the American Civil War. One hundred years ago this week—almost exactly two years after that fateful day—the fort leaped into the headlines again.

The occasion for the second set of headlines came on April 7, 1863, when nine Federal war ships attacked the island fort and the Confederates who now occupied it. The Federals' success in the 1863 battle was no better than their success in the 1861 battle: they were forced to yield.

Admiral Samuel Francis Du Pont led the Federal attack, and his opponent was the same man who had commanded Confederate forces at Charleston on the first day of the war—Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard. This time, however, Du Pont thought he had a weapon that would change the outcome; his attacking ships were ironclads, loaded with rifled guns and armored so heavily that, Du Pont hoped, Confederate shells could do them no harm.

April 7 was a beautiful day in Charleston when the ironclads, their armored turrets bristling with weapons and their hulls mostly submerged, formed a line and moved to the attack.

Confederates at Fort Moultrie, another fort defending the city, fired the first shot at the first ship in line, the "Weehawken." It missed, and the "Weehawken" steamed to within 1,400 yards of Sumter and opened fire.

Confederates began zeroing in on the ironclads from all directions—from Sumter, Moultrie, from Battery Bee, from Battery Beauregard and Cumming's Point. All nine Federal ships now began shooting back, mostly at Sumter but occasionally at the other emplacements.

A Federal officer later described the scene: "It seemed as if the fires of hell were turned upon the Union fleet. The air seemed full of heavy shot, and as they flew they could be seen as plainly as a baseball . . ."

The Federals found their mark on Fort Sumter, but their shells did little damage. The fort's five walls ranged from five to ten feet in thickness.

The Confederate shots had more effect. (The Federal ironclad "Keokuk"—nearest to Fort Sumter—was hit 90 times, and she got out of the battle only to sink to the bottom next morning. The "Weehawken" was hit 53 times, and water flowed through her deck. All the other ships were hit at least a dozen times.

Not even ironclads could stand such torture. As evening came on, Du Pont ordered a temporary withdrawal. By morning, he decided to make the withdrawal permanent.

And the battle ended a victory for the Confederates—their second in Charleston harbor.

Next week: Grant Moves South.

Laurel To Feature Reading Races

The largest contingents of horses to race in Laurel Raceway's two-year-old Reading Futurity classics this summer have been nominated by harness racing's top money-winning drivers of last season and the man who chalked up more two-minute miles than any other reinsman in the country.

President Dick Hutchison, Jr., announced that a total of 37 two-year-olds from the elite stables of Stanley Dancer, No. 1 money-winner with $760,343, Billy Haughton, second-leading money-winner with $670,163, and Del Miller, who piloted 35 horses in 2:00-or-under last season, are in nomination.

A total of 146 youngsters have been nominated for the time-honored events, taken over by Laurel Raceway in 1958 after their 31-year reign in Central Pennsylvania, to be presented the first two weekends of the 24-night meet which gets under way Monday, June 3.

The Main Division Trot for colts is on June 7; the Pace for Fillies, June 8; Trot for Fillies, June 14; and the Main Division Pace for colts, June 15.

"The tremendous response from Dancer, Haughton and Miller, as well as other big name trainer-drivers, indicates the importance they attach to the Reading races," Hutchison stated.

Haughton, acting as agent for various owners, has the widest swatch—10 trotters and 7 pacers. Dancer, handler of the great Su-Mac Lad, "Horse of the Year" last season, has 4 trotters and 8 pacers in nomination, and Miller, 2 trotters and 6 pacers.

Get of the sires Rodney, who died last month, and Star's Pride, both top money-winning sires (close to $2,000,000 together last year among 253 starters), outnumber all others on the nominating roster for these events, each having nine.

The late Rodney's progeny are Lively Rodney, Dear Rodney, Avalon Roxie, fillies; L. M. Rodney, Smart Money, Rodney Hill, Square Deal, Magnetic and Blockhouse, colts. From the court of Star's Pride there are six fillies and three colts: Brisk Hanover, Golden Make It, Neon Hanover, Ray-ola Hanover, Meadow Hazel and Lady Liane, the fillies; and colts Space Freight, Lindsey Hanover and Lou's Star.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Speculating In "Seeds" BABSON PARK, Mass., Apr. 11—As earlier stated, I believe that the two industries which now have the greatest future are electronics and synthetics. Of course, another discovery may at any time occur which will put some other industry in a class with them; but I do not see much on the horizon at present unless it is in connection with seeds.

Watch The Botanists

We hear today only of the wonders of chemistry, electronics, and space travel—including "going to the moon". But we must not forget the work of humble botanists and biologists. We may now be on the verge of the discovery of an artificial origin of life cells without any human or sex contact. The elements that may very well accomplish this are referred to as DNA and RNA, about which I have previously written.

Experiments in this field often go unnoticed by the public. But scientists are working with these chemicals which have such miraculous possibilities. One of the greatest mysteries is the effect of sunlight in turning the leaves and the grass green; this process is known as photosynthesis. When its secret is discovered, this will be very revolutionary and will form the basis for many new fortunes.

The Study Of Bulbs: Vegetable, Flower, And Other Seeds

There are several concerns which today specialize in breeding, improving, and selling seeds. I have just bought a little stock in the Asgrow Seed Company of New Haven, Connecticut. It has been working in its seed laboratories for over 100 years. This company has made slow but continual progress in improving the quality of certain vegetable seeds.

I do not expect anything spectacular of the stock of any seed company for some years to come. They all are what the stock brokers call "sleepers." Those who are seriously interested in the above should subscribe to the Seed Trade News, published by Joseph C. Gregory, Editor, 222 W. Adam St., Chicago 6, Illinois.

Make Your Own Tests Go to a hardware store and buy a 35-cent paper envelope of onion, mustard, carrot, petunia, or snapdragon seed — which is what I play with. Empty the paper envelopes into separate saucers and — even with a microscope, and the help of the bees—see if you can tell the difference between these five seeds.

Yet, given the same soil, the same water, and the same sunshine, one of these seeds will grow an onion or a carrot, while another will grow a beautiful snapdragon. But this is not all—when two snapdragon seeds are planted, one may produce a beautiful blue flower and another a beautiful red flower. I have ten colors in my garden. But note the following: Each tiny seed is full of revolving atoms.

What Of The Future?

Biologists are now using animals to make experiments as to the effect of radiation and certain chemicals on the chromosomes that determine our heredity. I understand that the Atomic Energy Commission is using seeds of vegetables to study the same effects. When their results are released, the laboratories of the important seed companies may discover how some of their seeds will develop entirely different vegetables or fruits and many valuable vegetables or flowers.

When this discovery is made, the stocks of the alert seed companies could suddenly rise greatly in price. Therefore, I urge readers of this column to read elementary books on botany and biology and inheritance. It is possible that the wonders accomplished by Professor Einstein in his Princeton laboratory—in turning the atom into energy — the scientists working in the laboratories of certain seed companies may match in importance. This may not come for many years; but I foresee that our great grandchildren will be eating vegetables and fruits of which we have never heard; if not human cells!

Graduates

Army Pvt. Larry I. Barnhart, whose wife, Sally, lives in New Windsor, Md., recently graduated from a three-week anti-tank platoon training program at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Barnhart, 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Barnhart, who live on Route 2, Taneytown, entered the Army in September, 1962, and completed basic training at Fort Gordon, Ga.

He is a 1956 graduate of Taneytown High School.

POINTED FOR THE CHESAPEAKE — Jaclyn Stable's Ahoy, third choice with City Line in the Caliente Winter Book for the Kentucky Derby, takes a gallop in preparation for the Chesapeake Stakes to be run at Laurel Race Course on Saturday, April 13. Ahoy won the first start of his career at Laurel last year and set a new track record in doing so. As a two-year-old he won four of five races, including three stakes, and in his only start this year Ahoy won the Swift Stakes. Ahoy is scheduled to meet City Line in the $25,000 Chesapeake, which is a stepping-stone to the Kentucky Derby.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

YOU'LL KNOW WHY FORD SWEEP THE FIRST FIVE PLACES AT DAYTONA...WHEN YOUR '63 FORD IS STILL GOING STRONG YEAR AFTER YEAR

Daytona's big, banked oval puts unbelievable stresses and strains on engines, steering gears and frames. The Fords that won at Daytona took all the punishment this famous track could dish out over 500 miles of grueling competition without missing a beat.

In this toughest of all stock car events, mechanical failures claimed over fifty per cent of the starting field. But of twelve Fords entered, nine went the distance. Ford took six of the first ten places.

Five-hundred-mile events like Daytona are a public demonstration of toughness, reliability and sheer engineering excellence that are part of the new generation of Fords. A test like this can't be duplicated on anybody's testing grounds—it's run right out in the open. Any car can enter. But only the car that has the best total combination of strength, balance, precision control and road-clinging suspension can win . . . that's what we mean by total performance.

Visit your Ford Dealer before you buy any other new car. Here's what you'll find: a new kind of total-car durability, a new kind of handling ability, a suspension that is startlingly smooth yet sticks to the road like tar. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember, it's built by Ford, it's built for performance. . . total performance!

Man About Baltimore

By H. George Hahn

At the theatre there are always two shows. One is on the stage; the other is directly about you in the audience.

Glancing around before the curtain rises, we can see people in all sorts of entertaining acts. Characters abound.

There is the type who arrives two minutes before curtain time, laughingly climbs past ten others and flops heavily into her seat. This type is invariably a woman. She then looks about and comments to her friend—she's always with a friend just like herself—that she saw so-and-so, usually a prominent name, at such-and-such a place. All this is said in tones loud enough for the benefit of all about her. Or this same type has a friend who has a friend who once met the director of the show. Everyone is impressed.

Then, there are those who make the theatre the forum of the arts. These (always women) become suddenly loudly literary; "Did you see so-and-so on Broadway? He was so much better" or, "I read such-and-such a book the other day, and I feel . . ." We lost her in the din of everyone else's trying to make herself heard.

Next, enter those who obstruct our view in ten shades of resplendent plumage that generally characterize the fowl we associate them with. This type (it always comes in pairs) surveys and adjudges every other showgoer for her friend behind a fan or folded program. Her evaluation is always centered on another feathered female; "Look at that woman . . ." Then her tones become lowered and muffled behind that fan so as to escape our ears. Two heads of down continue to bob incessantly as we turn elsewhere.

Another obstruction is that toothpaste-smiling dame who poses in the aisle baring glittering ivories and blinking sparkling eyes. She'll stare to the lights to catch that certain glow—and all the eyes around her. After rising above her penciled eyebrows, we notice another foot of her piled above her forehead—all sequined, haylike, and drug-store blonde. No, no, she's going to sit in front of us. Not only must we combat the haystack, but another obstacle presents itself—the pungent and piercing fragrance that we smelled less of on the Pigalle. Her one stock line to her escort seems to be how "simply charming" everything seems to be.

Other types have rubbed elbows with viceroys, dukes, maharanees, and various other brands of assorted royalty—or, so they say. Wonder what they're doing in the upper balcony with the likes of us?

Nagging at her husband about why both should come to the show, this next type is most annoying after the lights have dimmed and we've overcome the mountainous hairpiles and jabbering hens. Her husband whines, tugs at his tie, and complains of the heat as his outspoken shrew rambles on.

The parade never ends. The only male type that we particularly abhor is the eyebrow-raised, thin, pallid, and nasal intellectual who speaks with an affected British accent. He passes judgment on every plot flaw and vociferously complains that a catharsis has not been effected. He'll raise his nose, close his bespeckled eyes, turn sharply on his heel and leave disdainfully.

Well, after such a review of the first show, we find that we've entirely missed the one before the footlights. And, casually closing our notebook, we catch some matronly dowager whispering to her companion, behind a folded program, one eye on us, "Look at that damned nut taking notes."

In reviewing that second play, we followed the circuit to Emmitsburg. Mount St. Mary's and St. Joseph Colleges hosted a performance of "Othello." The show was ridiculous.

Iago drew comic lines, Othello sounded like that whining husband sitting two rows from us and Desemona was played with all the tragic intensity of Evelyn Waugh's corpse manicurist. It was surprising that the National Players fell so beneath their usual level of top flight performances.

Diction was generally poor; words were slurred and the group depended upon loudness and power to transfer the effect of the action, rather than allowing The Bard's own elegant verse to transport its own effect.

Iago was cast absolutely incorrectly. Richard Bauer's interpretation of Othello's Ancient was just what it should not have been. He wasn't sneering and synical; by his facial expression after certain lines he actually drew laughs from the audience. He entirely failed to bring to the fore, the core of his motivation, the hinge on which the play swings, that is, his cold, intellectual superiority and contempt for Othello's simple naivete.

The National Players is one of the best groups of its type in these United States. However, its "Othello" will remain one of the least memorable of all its offerings.

How large should casting and spincast guides be? Close to 3/8 inch for the first one and around 7/32 inch for the tip top one. Any much smaller hamper casting.—Sports Afield.

Read II Corinthians 3:12-18.

We all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord. (II Corinthians 3:18.)

The Christian journey is one of progressive stages of growth—just as with an ear of corn there is "first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear." Perhaps we could paraphrase Jesus' illustration as a description of the Christian's growth—first the convert to Christ, then the new babe in Christ, and lastly the mature soldier of Christ.

Once we have made the initial acceptance of the Savior, we begin our walk with Him. We are gradually changed to His very likeness. As a plant either grows or dies, so it is in the realm of the spirit. There is no static condition for a Christian.

It is vitally important for the Christian to receive ample spiritual food in the form of Bible reading, prayer, and fellowship. Each of us needs to make frequent and honest evaluation of his progress concerning his growth in Christlikeness.

Prayer
Dear Lord, help us to look unto Jesus, who is the author and finisher of our faith. This day grant us growth in likeness to Him that our hearts may be like His and our spirits in harmony with Thy will. We pray in His name. Amen. Thought For The Day

If we are failing to grow in Christlikeness, we are sinning against both God and ourselves. Jeanne Roberts (California)

An Easter Message

Historic records have identified many burial places more pretentious than the garden tomb in which our Lord was laid to rest on that first black Friday. The Pyramids of Egypt and the Taj Mahal of India, with all their resplendent beauty are, nevertheless, reminders that those who were buried therein were obedient to death.

The tomb in Joseph's garden, surpassed in outward splendor by many, is more glorious than all. With its message "He is risen," it is the witness that Christ conquered death. It is for us the garden of victory.

This open tomb is a constant reminder that Our Lord, graciously accepted what finite man thought was the worst the world had to offer, and has set at naught the power of sin and death. The evil forces, seeking to enslave the bodies and destroy the souls of men today, will ultimately give way to the triumphant Christ. St. Paul catches the full sweep of the victorious Christ over the tragedy of death when he says, "Death is swallowed up in victory."

May God grant each of you a victorious Easter.

Administration with the problems of the aged. Perhaps you have noticed this and wondered exactly why it was so. There are some very interesting statistics which provide the answer. Today there are more than 17 million Americans 65 years of age and over. Every day there is a net increase in this age category of our fellow citizens of 1000 per day. By 1970 their total will be 20 million. As a matter of fact they are the fastest growing age group in our population and are exceeded only by the group which includes children between the ages of 5 to 14.

Even the "very old" age group is expanding rapidly. By the "very old" age group we usually mean those who are 85 years of age and over. Today their number is not less than 900,000 in the 50 states and this represents an increase of 920% since 1920. The interest and concern of the Federal Government for this remarkable and valuable group in our population is expressed in varied ways. Much has already been said about a program of medical care for the aged and, of course, such a program was enacted in the Eisenhower Administration. It is now being administered throughout the country being popularly called the Kerr-Mills Plan.

There have been developments regarding the employment and income of older workers. The Manpower Retaining Act which was passed by the last Congress places considerable emphasis on the retaining of our older workers. In this context of course it is necessary to define what we mean by aged and in some cases an employee becomes "aged" when he reaches the age of 40. To adjust our thinking and our practices with regard to the employment of older workers there will have to be special services rendered to those who seek employment within this age group. Employers and businesses must readjust their thinking about the value of the services that can be rendered by mature, experienced employees.

There are developments in housing. Some of the recent housing acts enacted by the Congress provides specifically for programs of housing for the elderly. It is my hope that as the income and the buying power of senior citizens increases that they will be able to command the kind of housing market which will be provided by free enterprise to meet their particular needs.

The problems of research go forward and every day at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda there is research into the prolonging of life and in making a longer life richer and more rewarding through good health. The Federal Government has been particularly active in this area. As we make it possible for people to live longer, as we make it possible for people to be healthier throughout a long life, America is going to be a richer and a greater Country.

As the Nation achieves the legal and social adjustments that are required to enjoy the benefits made possible by medicine and science it will approach the idea of a healthy and energetic people whom vigor is tempered only by the maturity gained from experience and wisdom.

Hog Cholera Costly Disease

Just enough hog cholera virus to cover a pinhead can trigger an epidemic of the most costly single swine disease known in the United States.

Last year, reports the Maryland State Veterinary Medical Association, hog cholera losses were estimated at more than $50 million.

This warning about the country's top swine killer assumes special importance for the State's hog producers at this time, with the season for heaviest outbreaks of cholera immediately ahead. Recent advancements in hog production methods have, of course, caused cholera to become a year-round disease control problem.

This is why the veterinary profession recommends constant vigilance by the farmer in the control of the disease.

Cholera is highly infectious and results in a high death rate. There is no known cure and the few animals that do recover are usually stunted and worthless.

The Association points out that the only real safety lies in immunization ahead of the danger season.

Veterinary research has shown that proper vaccination of all pigs of age. Breeding herds should be vaccinated annually.

"OPINIONS FROM THE FIELD"

Tips For Opening Day
 Some fishermen have the false impression that they must have 25 dollars worth of flies in order to catch a limit of Trout from Hunting Creek on Opening Day. This is not necessary for in most cases the fishermen who creek their limit, never change from their starting pattern. Probably the most reliable fly would be a white streamer and this could be any of a number of patterns, with the Black Ghost being the most popular. The streamer should be tied to a light 6 or 7 foot leader and fished deep by using several BB size split shot about 8 inches up the leader. Cast or roll streamer toward lower end of a pool or riffle and retrieve upstream in a slow deliberate swimming action. Don't make the mistake of retrieving too fast for Trout are sluggish early on a cold morning and are reluctant to chase a fast moving lure. Other types of flies often times produce good results but their effectiveness may vary with the weather. One could hardly expect a Trout to rise to a dry up early in the morning when ice was forming on the guides of your rod. However, some fishermen will take fish on wet flies and nymphs, with the latter being very effective if fished properly. As for my opinion for Opening Day on Hunting Creek—if it's white, in the water, and moves, it will catch fish...

Not being strictly a "Purist" (one who would never stoop so low as to use anything but an artificial), let me suggest some lures and bait for fishing "open" streams such as Owens Creek, Fishing Creek, and Middle Creek. Most fishermen using worms will take fish but I have seen times when the weather was cold and Trout would refuse to bite. If this happens, try using a lure such as a Mops Spinner or something similar. I recall a day on Owens Creek when I creeled a limit of Trout while fishing just behind two luckless worm fishermen. The lure? A gold Mops Spinner. Another good bait that often produces would be minnows. I have found that Trout will take dead minnows readily and also the "pickled" variety. Minnows are attached to leader by tying loop at end of leader, hook loop over opened eye darning needle, pull loop through minnow from mouth to rear with needle, remove needle and place double hook over loop, pull leader forward and double hook will come up snugly to bottom of minnow. Fish minnow with a swimming action much like streamer fishing. If you fish quiet, deep water, try Salmon Eggs. This is probably the favorite bait used at the dam above Thurmont.

That lure, fly, or bait is the best depends on the weather, the water, and how it is presented. In past years I have taken Trout on Wet Flies, Dry Flies, Streamers, Nymphs, Spoons, Plugs, Spinners, Minnows, Worms, Hamburger, Salmon Eggs, and Cheese. Considering that there are hundreds of different patterns of flies and lures, one has quite an assortment to choose from. Take your pick...
