Now that the big Centennial in Gettysburg is over a post mortem is being held as many individuals are licking their wounds and wondering what happened . . . as if they didn't know. Advance publicity certainly didn't give the town a break by any stretch of the imagination as the word was spread that prices had been inflated highly in the Pennsylvania town. With television and newspapers and touring guides warning the public in advance, small wonder then that people stayed away from the town as if it were cursed with a plague. It has been told now that families planning to stay a week in Gettysburg pulled up stakes and left in two or three days as their money got away from them. Yes a great many got into the act and tried to make a killing. Well perhaps some did but in my opinion I think the whole mess will leave a "dirty" taste in the public's mouth for some years to come.

General desecration of our local National Grotto Shrine is a reflection on this whole section. One of the greatest assets of our cultural and religious phase of life here, we were mighty proud to have such a place in our midst. There has been a generous reward offered for information leading to the apprehension of the vandals who desecrated the Grotto and we do hope the culprits are apprehended and punished as they rightly deserve. There is no excuse for this wanton destruction and such acts set one to thinking just what type of individuals are on the loose in our community. Most of us don't like "informers." However in this instance I feel that it is one's moral obligation and duty to pass along any information in this case that might lead to the arrest of these vandals. Damage has not been limited to just the Grotto. Our local Lutheran Church has been desecrated and tomb stones there overturned and broken. Red or pink paint has been smeared over the natural stone outside of the building and now flood lights have had to be installed to afford the edifice and cemetery a measure of protection at night-time. This vandalism must cease immediately and it is the duty of every one of us to do what we can.

The new bypass has sent business people along old Rt. 15 actually reeling and many will be forced to close their doors soon. Already a number of places have laid off help and don't know just how long they can hold out financially. Small wonder then they have formed a group and have appealed to the State of Pennsylvania to try and do something about informing the motoring public of the best possible way to entering Gettysburg. The approaching signs are very misleading and uninformative to say the least. The first sign you come to says: Next Exit Steinwehr Ave. You can imagine what this means to a traveling motorist from Florida, or any other state for that matter. It means exactly nothing and is utterly confusing. Old Route 15 North is still your best bet if you are really going into Gettysburg from a southern approach. However the public doesn't know this. The state has renamed old Rt. 15 as State Rt. 34, meaning exactly nothing to strangers coming to the area. Should the State cooperate and erect the proper signs, merchants along old 15 will be much better off and perhaps could still remain in business.

Possibility Exists School Could Be Relocated

Indications are that the Frederick County Board of Education could be leaning toward the idea of locating a senior high school meant to accommodate Emmitsburg and Thurmont at the latter town in the next few years.

Since the two committees appointed some time back to select a site for a consolidated school have not come up with a solution as to where the new school would be located, it is becoming apparent that the School Board just might take the "bull" by the horns and pick a site itself.

The proposed consolidated Emmitsburg-Thurmont High School might be located at the edge of Thurmont instead of between the two towns.

The Board of Education appeared to be leaning in this direction at its meeting last week when board member Ross V. Smith of Thurmont, was appointed to contact the site committee for the towns to see if it will be agreeable to have the school built at Thurmont.

Moving the school to Thurmont was but one of the avenues of thought discussed at the meeting. Condemnation of the ten acres of land owned by Charles H. Jamison of Poolesville, was also mentioned as was the locating of the school along the Old Frederick Road on the Harry Prongas farm.

Mr. Smith informed the board that the orchard property located at the edge of Thurmont is still available for $800 an acre, but he reminded the other members that the joint committee representing the two towns agreed a long time ago to locate the school between the two towns.

Several members of the board remarked on the advantages of having the school located at Thurmont. It was noted that by building at Thurmont the new school would be where most of the children are, the land would be less expensive than at the site chosen between the two towns, and it would probably be possible to join into the Thurmont water and sewage system thereby saving considerable funds.

It is expected that the school will house about three times as many children from Thurmont as it does from Emmitsburg.

Also noted was the cost of transporting the students to the site between the two towns. If the school were located between the two towns, all of the students would have to be transported by bus. If the building were placed at Thurmont, however, some students could walk to school and because of the small amount of students coming from Emmitsburg two buses would be all that would be necessary to haul them. And the travel time from Emmitsburg to Thurmont would be no more than five minutes more than from Emmitsburg to the site between the two towns.

The Board of Education had decided to purchase the site between the two towns but Mr. Jamison stymied the action by refusing to accept less than $1,000 an acre for his ten acres of land along Route 15. J. Norbert Wivell, who owns land adjoining the Jamison property is willing to sell for less than $800 an acre. The board appears reluctant to enter condemnation proceedings because of the court costs involved and the possible period of time which the project will be held up.

Route 15 Merchants Lament Misleading Signs On New Road

Alarmed by the almost complete diversion of traffic from old Rt. 15, now Rt. 34, as a result of the recently opened Gettysburg by-pass, proprietors of 20 service establishments held an informal meeting Monday to consider steps to alleviate the situation.

The main contention of the group was that the roads, both the new by-pass and old Rt. 15, are poorly marked. Northbound traffic, with which the group was mainly concerned, "has no sensible indicators." The first by-pass sign notes that the next five exits are Gettysburg exits, but then reference is by area, like Steinwehr Ave which is "meaningless to travelers." The old Rt. 15 is now marked Rt. 34 on the new Pennsylvania map, a route number meaningless to everyone. It directs traffic to Mt. Holly Springs and Carlisle.

The group decided to take the following steps:

1. To take proper action to see that all by-pass exit markers carry the notation "Gettysburg," as well as the street designation, and, if possible, "service area."
2. To meet with the Gettysburg Travel Council to discuss the situation.
3. To study the possibility of erecting a sign at a suitable place indicating that the Steinwehr Ave. exit of the by-pass coming north leads to the service area and the battlefield.
4. To ask Maryland highway officials to remove the road block at the run-around at the junction of the by-pass and old Rt. 15.

Foreign Prelates Visit Mount

The Most Rev. Blaise Kurz, D.D., apostolic prefect of Yungchow, China, now in exile in this country, and the Most Rev. Jorge K. Pifano, D.D., vicar apostolic of Concepcion, Bolivia, were recent visitors at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg.

During their respective visits the two prelates discussed the forthcoming session of the Second Vatican Council with Rev. Gommor A. DePauw, J.C.D., academic dean of the seminary, who served as theological advisor to both while at the opening session of the Council in Rome last fall.

Father DePauw said that he believed that there will be no new matters discussed at the session which has been called by Pope Paul for September 29. The business of the session will follow the schemata prepared from the business discussed at the first session last fall.

The arguments of the group were supported by evidence that persons having reservations for various motels during the past 10 days had frequently ridden past the area and had to retrace their steps. A quick survey this week showed that only two motels from the Maryland line to the Gettysburg limits had anything like normal occupancy.

All admitted that they had expected a decrease in traffic, but nothing as drastic as has taken place. If markers could carry Rt. 15 for the by-pass and Rt. 15-A for the old road, the group felt the situation would be vastly improved, even if both the Rt. 34 and 15-A signs were together. Proper marking of the Steinwehr Ave. exit signs was considered crucial.

Representatives from the following businesses attended Monday's meeting: Rose Garden Motel, Carlana, Country Kitchen, Battlefield Edge Fruit Market, Battlefield Motel, Stuart's, Perfect Rest, Mountain View, Five Star Restaurant, Red School Antiques, Atlantic Truck Stop, Dudash's, Phillips 66 Truck Stop, Blue and Gray Motel, Plank's Garage, Sprigg's Garage, Stuckey's, Waggon Wheel Antique Shop, Mason-Dixon Shell Station and Stambaugh's Used Cars, Greenmount Antique Shop and Agrotors Copier Service.

Many of the group noted that they had been assured that the route would be marked Alternate 15 rather than Rt. 34 until the signs were placed.

Enters West Point

Matthew Elder Paidakovich of Silver Spring, Md., was recently appointed to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. by Congressman Carlton R. Sickles, (D.-Md.) "Matt", who graduated from Our Lady of Good Counsel High School, Silver Spring, in June, entered the Academy on July 1.

Matt is the son of Matthew Paidakovich and the former Dora Elder of Emmitsburg, and the grandson of Mrs. John D. and the late John D. Elder, former publisher of the Emmitsburg Chronicle—also the nephew of C. Arthur Elder, the present Editor and Publisher of the Chronicle.

Those who attended the impressive swearing-in ceremonies at the Academy July 1 besides Matt's parents and sisters were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Elder, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. John D. Elder of this place.

Budget To Rise

County Accountant Donald C. Linton predicted this week that by 1965 the county will have an operating budget of more than seven million dollars. This year the county is operating on a budget of a little more than $5.3 million.

The increasing cost of education is the cause of most of the increase, the county accountant stated. He pointed to figures which support his statement.

Not only has the cost of educating each student increased, Mr. Linton noted that the number of students is increasing steadily. In 1952 the average cost of educating each pupil was only $179.33, but in 1962 the average cost had jumped to $404.70. As to students in 1952 the county had but 11,000 children attending public schools but last year there were more than 15,000 and by next year the number is expected to exceed 16,000.

Mr. Linton predicted the increased budget merely by considering the increases for education. He noted that this year 55 per cent of the total county school budget is being paid by county funds. Just last year the percentage was but 52.6 per cent. In 1961 the percentage was 52.2 per cent. These figures are for current expenses.

When considering all school expenses including debt service, the county is now spending 80 per cent of its tax money for education compared with 77 per cent last year.

The county has been forced to pay a larger percentage of the education costs because of comparatively smaller amounts from the federal and state governments.

Because of the gradual increase in costs and number of children in the school system, the county accountant estimates that $4,327,000 will be needed for school current expenses next year and by 1965 the county will have to dole out $5,193,000 for school current expenses.

With the education costs rising above the $5 million mark, it was noted that increased requests can be expected from all other county services which are currently operating on a small amount of the tax dollar. Since more money will be needed for health, welfare and other county agencies, Mr. Linton predicted that Frederick County will surely have an operating budget of more than $7 million by 1965.

Birthdays Party

Road Commission To Survey County System

The State Roads Commission will survey and inventory every road in Frederick County in a several-month study here beginning in August, Southey Nottingham, County Roads Engineer, said this week.

This is the first time Frederick County roads have been surveyed by the SRC in the past 15 years, since 1948, Mr. Nottingham reported at the monthly Frederick County Roads Board meeting in Winchester Hall.

The survey will result in a complete up-to-date tabulation of all of the road mileage in Frederick County, on which the county share of the state gasoline tax is based, and may result in increased revenue from this source for road improvements and maintenance, he said.

It will also provide up-to-date records for the county's use on the type of surfacing on county roads, the condition of all bridges in the county, the location of all schools and more important dwellings on each county road and school bus and milk routes, with all of this information being turned over to the county by the state.

100 YEARS AGO

VICKSBURG CAPTURED; GRANT OCCUPIES CITY

By Lon K. Savage

The Lincoln administration in Washington rejoiced 100 years ago this week over their great victory at Gettysburg. In the midst of the rejoicing, news came in from the West that an equally devastating victory had been won. Vicksburg, Miss., the Confederacy's "Gibraltar of the West," had fallen to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. The Confederacy had been cut in two.

The city had fallen like a plum, following months of fighting and a siege that had strangled the city. It came on the Fourth of July—Independence Day. The city's surrender had been negotiated the day before, at the same moments that Federal soldiers were decimating Confederates in Pickett's charge at Gettysburg.

And when it came, it marked one of the most important achievements of the war. With Gettysburg, it provided a turning point—if not the turning point—of the Civil War.

The Siege

During May, Grant's 70,000 men had tightened their lines around the surrounded Vicksburg, digging inch by inch toward the Confederate lines. The Confederates, under northern-born Gen. John Pemberton, had gone on short rations, had gone without sleep, had manned their guns despite illness, and finally had lost hope.

There had been only one hope for them. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, the Virginian who had become a Confederate hero at First Bull Run, had an army near Jackson, Miss., during Grant's siege, and he threatened to hit Grant from the rear. But Grant showed little fear; if Johnston attacked to rescue Pemberton, Grant said, he—Grant—would let Johnston go through to the city and then capture both armies. As it turned out, the question was academic; Johnston never attacked.

On July 3, Pemberton hoisted white flags, and asked for surrender terms. Grant, following his famous ultimatum at Fort Donelson, demanded "unconditional surrender of the city and garrison . . . I have no other terms."

Pemberton balked at the terms, and Grant backtracked. He would accept Pemberton's surrender and parole the 30,000 Confederate troops—set them free on oath that they would not return to battle unless exchanged for Northern prisoners. The paroling system, Grant reasoned, would save the Union the costly job of sending 30,000 prisoners up the river to the North. Pemberton accepted.

Grant Enters City

On July 4, Grant and his men rode into the beleaguered city. They brought food with them and distributed it to the semi-starved troops and population. Northerners and

CAPITOL COMMENT

by
Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Navy Ships To Be Built In Private Yards

Led by Congressman Edward Garmatz of Baltimore, the members of the House of Representatives were able to retain the existing provision in the law which requires 35% of all U. S. Navy ships to be built in privately owned ship yards. This will make a substantial contribution to the shipbuilding industry of Maryland, while stimulating those basic industries which supply products used in the manufacture of ships. Past experience has demonstrated that construction in private yards encourages a vital American industry and saves the taxpayer money.

Drought Relief For Maryland Farmers

At the request of several Maryland Congressmen, the Secretary of Agriculture has authorized County Agriculture Stabilization Committees in Allegany, Frederick, Montgomery, and Washington Counties to permit the raising and harvesting of hay on the soil bank conservation reserve acreage and on the feed grain and wheat stabilization diverted acres. Permission for grazing and harvesting on these lands can be obtained from the County Agriculture Stabilization Office, if land retirement payments from the land used are relinquished.

The Supreme Court Prayer Decision

After reading the recent "prayer case" decision I have come to the conclusion that the rule laid down by the Supreme Court in this case is neither as far reaching nor as drastic as early reports indicated. The Court relied on the provision of the First Amendment to the Constitution which declares, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof . . ." The so-called Es-established Clause is applied to the states through the Fourteenth Amendment. The Supreme Court stated, "Applying the Establishment Clause principles to the cases at bar we find that the States are requiring (emphasis supplied) the selection and reading at the opening of the school day of verses from the Holy Bible and recitation of the Lord's Prayer by the students in unison. These activities are prescribed as part of the curricular activities of students who are required by law to attend school . . . Given that finding the exercises and the law requiring them are in violation of the Establishment Clause." Thus it would appear that the Court has prohibited only those compulsory religious exercises which are "established" by law or under legal authority. The opinion of the Court does not indicate that voluntary, spontaneous religious exercises would be necessarily unconstitutional. Although I do not believe that a Constitutional Amendment is needed at this time, I am reviewing the legal precedents with the thought in mind that Congress should act to implement the second phrase of the First Amendment which forbids interference with "the free exercise" of religion by the American people.

Peace Corps

Test Date Set

Another Peace Corps placement test will be administered at more than 800 post offices and college campuses beginning at 8:30 a.m. local time on July 20.

The non-competitive test must be taken by anyone interested in becoming a Peace Corps Volunteer. This will be the last testing opportunity for persons who Southerners intermingled, discussing the campaign.

But Grant's job was not finished. He sent William Tecumseh Sherman toward Jackson, and within a week Sherman had driven Johnston and his little army back. Grant sent more men down to Port Hudson where they helped Union Gen. Nathaniel Banks obtain that city's surrender. The last Confederate position on the Mississippi River had been liquidated.

Next week: Riots in New York.

hope to enter training for a Peace Corps assignment in September or October.

Those selected for training will spend 10 to 12 weeks on a college campus or at a Peace Corps camp in Puerto Rico, studying the language, history and culture of their host country, and American affairs.

Volunteers agree to serve two years in the Peace Corps, including training time. The minimum age for volunteer service is 18. There is no upper age limit, and a number of persons in their seventies are among the 5,000 volunteers now serving in 45 nations. Married couples may serve if they have no dependents and if both husband and wife qualify for the same project.

Language training is helpful for those interested in becoming volunteers, but more than a fourth of the Peace Corps' present volunteers never had studied a language previously.

Liberal arts graduates and others with a "general" education have performed so well in teaching and community development programs that the Peace Corps is seeking more persons with this type of background.

The Peace Corps also has requests for persons with skills in agriculture, public health, forestry, carpentry and other building skills, social work, and education of all types and at all levels. Other nations have asked the Peace Corps to provide volunteers possessing more than 200 job skills. A college degree is not required.

The Peace Corps pays all of a volunteer's expenses and furnishes administrative support to him abroad. The volunteer receives, at the completion of his service, a readjustment allowance of $75 for each month of satisfactory service.

The placement test which is to be given July 20 consists of a half-hour section on general aptitude and another of the same length on modern language aptitude. Candidates with a background in French or Spanish must take an additional one-hour proficiency test. The Peace Corps placement test now being administered replaces a longer one which required four to eight hours to complete.

The placement test will be given again on August 24.

To Hold Hearing On Public Shooting Areas

The operation of public and private regulated shooting areas will be discussed at a specially called meeting by the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission on July 17 at 10 a.m. in the State Office Building, Annapolis. All interested persons are urged to attend and participate in the meeting, Director Ernest A. Vaughn announced this week. After the meeting the five Commissioners of the Game and Inland Fish Commission will consider all comments and decide the 1963-64 regulated shooting area regulations.

Topics to be discussed will include the size and number of regulated shooting areas per county, setting shooting dates, the minimum number of birds to be released, how boundary lines around the areas should be established and maintained, the number of shooting area signs to be placed, the tagging of birds killed and other pertinent matters.

Babson Appraises Air Conditioning
BABSON PARK, Mass., July 11—I have always been extremely interested in air conditioning, and the summer's first real hot spell prompts me to look again at this industry. Some years ago I wrote an article on air conditioning in which I said that merchants would have to universally adopt cooling systems during the summer in order to hold their trade. This now seems just about a fact accomplished. I do happen to know one department store not far from Babson Park that for some reason still has no air conditioning; but it is easy to see on a hot afternoon that customers dash in to buy what they want and then dash right out. I believe sales totals would be double what they are if the store were air conditioned. This likewise applies to churches and all public buildings.

Cool Air For Homes
 As air conditioning is now a commonplace in business establishments of all types, it seems to be gradually becoming a necessity in our houses and automobiles. Only a short time ago it was considered a luxury, but those days are already gone. Contractors in climates where the summers are inclined to be warm and muggy usually include a cooling system in original construction plans, as a matter of course.

You can have air conditioning installed in your own home at a considerably lower price than was the case a few years ago. For a medium-size house an efficient system can be put in for $1,500-$2,000. In connection with this matter, I should warn you that the proper size of the system is important. Too large a unit will chill the interior too quickly, then shut off and permit the accumulation of humidity. Naturally, this means too a high cost of operation for your system. So avoid oversized units.
Compact Cooling Systems
 Even for those who can't afford a completely air-conditioned home, there are inexpensive units that can make a room or two quite comfortable during the sweltering weather. They may be hitched to a window to reduce the temperature nicely in a kitchen, a living room, or a bedroom. Most are sufficiently powerful to cool at least a couple of small rooms. Generations to come will want their homes entirely air conditioned; it will be considered one of the necessities of everyday living.

I must admit that originally I thought cooling units for the interiors of automobiles were a passing fancy and would never last. But I now believe that air conditioning units will be considered accessories in practically all new models before long.
Units Pay For Themselves
 Whether for commercial and business establishments or for homes, I am convinced that air conditioning more than pays for itself. In a government survey it has been revealed that general office employees turn out 9.5% more work, on average, with air conditioning, while absenteeism is reduced by some 2.5%. On production lines output gains appear to be sometimes nearly 100% in cooled-off areas. It is estimated that a saving of only seven minutes a day for each worker will more than make up the cost of air conditioning installation and operation.

In the name it may not be so immediately easy to see how such units can pay for themselves. But the health angle should never be forgotten. Heat is bad for weak hearts,—and even strong hearts are not helped any by prolonged hot spells. If your home is temperature-controlled, you will sleep better, eat better, have relief from many allergies, and be fresh to face each day's work. Hot weather breeds fatigue, and fatigue is the enemy of accomplishment and success.

In closing, let me remind you that air conditioning means additional boosts for your local electric companies. As usage of this convenience becomes more widespread, summer electric power consumption will increase. I predict that by 1970 peak consumption of electricity may occur in summer, rather than in winter.

Electric Heating Rates To Drop

The Potomac Edison Company has filed with the Public Service Commission of Maryland a reduced electric heating rate for any general service or commercial customers to become effective July 31. The proposed rate will apply to stores, offices, motels, schools and similar commercial establishments and to any other customers who wish to take service under the rate where the entire heating requirements are supplied by electricity.

Under the proposed rate, the cost of heating with electricity will be reduced as much as twenty per cent for customers under the commercial classification.

All of a customer's electric use will be supplied under the proposed rate and the schedule of charges provides for four steps. The first step of 50 kilowatt hours is priced at 4½ cents net per kilowatt hour. The next 300 kilowatt hours will carry a 4 cents net per kilowatt hour. The third block of 350 kilowatt hours is priced at 2½ cents net per kilowatt hour while all usage in excess of 700 kilowatt hours will cost the customer 1 2/10 cents per kilowatt hour. To provide for capacity requirements, the new rate does include a provision for an adjustment of the third block of the rate when the customer requires capacity in excess of 7½ kilowatts. The last step of the rate is identical with that made available to residential customers in the new low residential heating rate effective this past spring.

When effective, the new rate will become available to all customers served by the Company in Maryland. It is anticipated that it will substantially increase interest in the use of electricity for the heating of commercial and manufacturing establishments.

The American Automobile Association reports that the United States, with only 6.7% of the area of the world, 6.2% of the world's population, has 60.4% of all passenger cars and 42.4% of all trucks in the world.

Crib Facts

Sleeping, standing and sitting, your baby will spend most of his first year of life in a crib. He will also establish foundations for his lifetime posture, growth and sleeping habits during his initial 12 months.

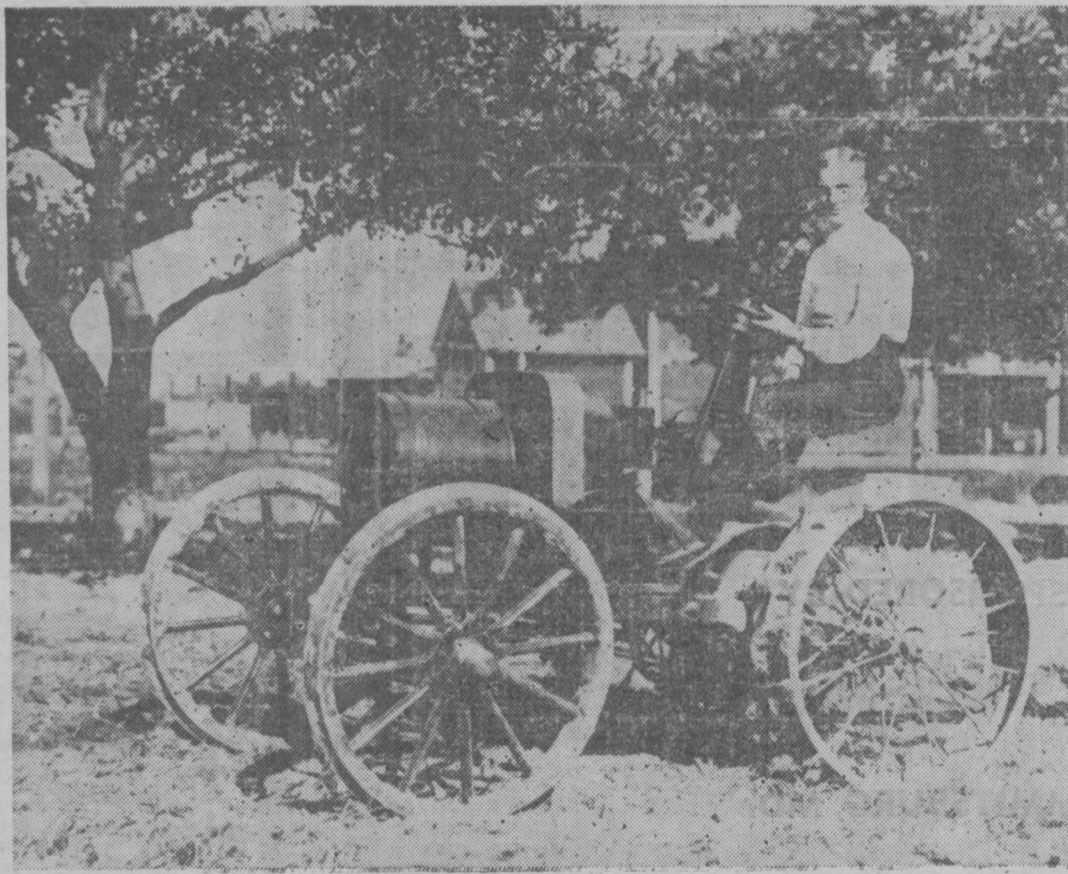

Keystone to insuring these vital foundations are laid correctly is a properly designed crib mattress. A unique result of age-old artistry and modern technology, today's quality crib mattress blends animal hair with synthetic rubber to form a core soft enough for the tiniest newborn baby and firm enough to support a toddler's first steps.

Scientifically curled to insure resilient sleeping comfort, each hair is individually coated with a specially formulated latex developed by Marbon Chemical Division of Borg-Warner Corp. Addition of the latex provides the curled hair with firmness and durability. It also permits the lifetime moisture proofing, sanitary and odor protection needed by baby mattresses.

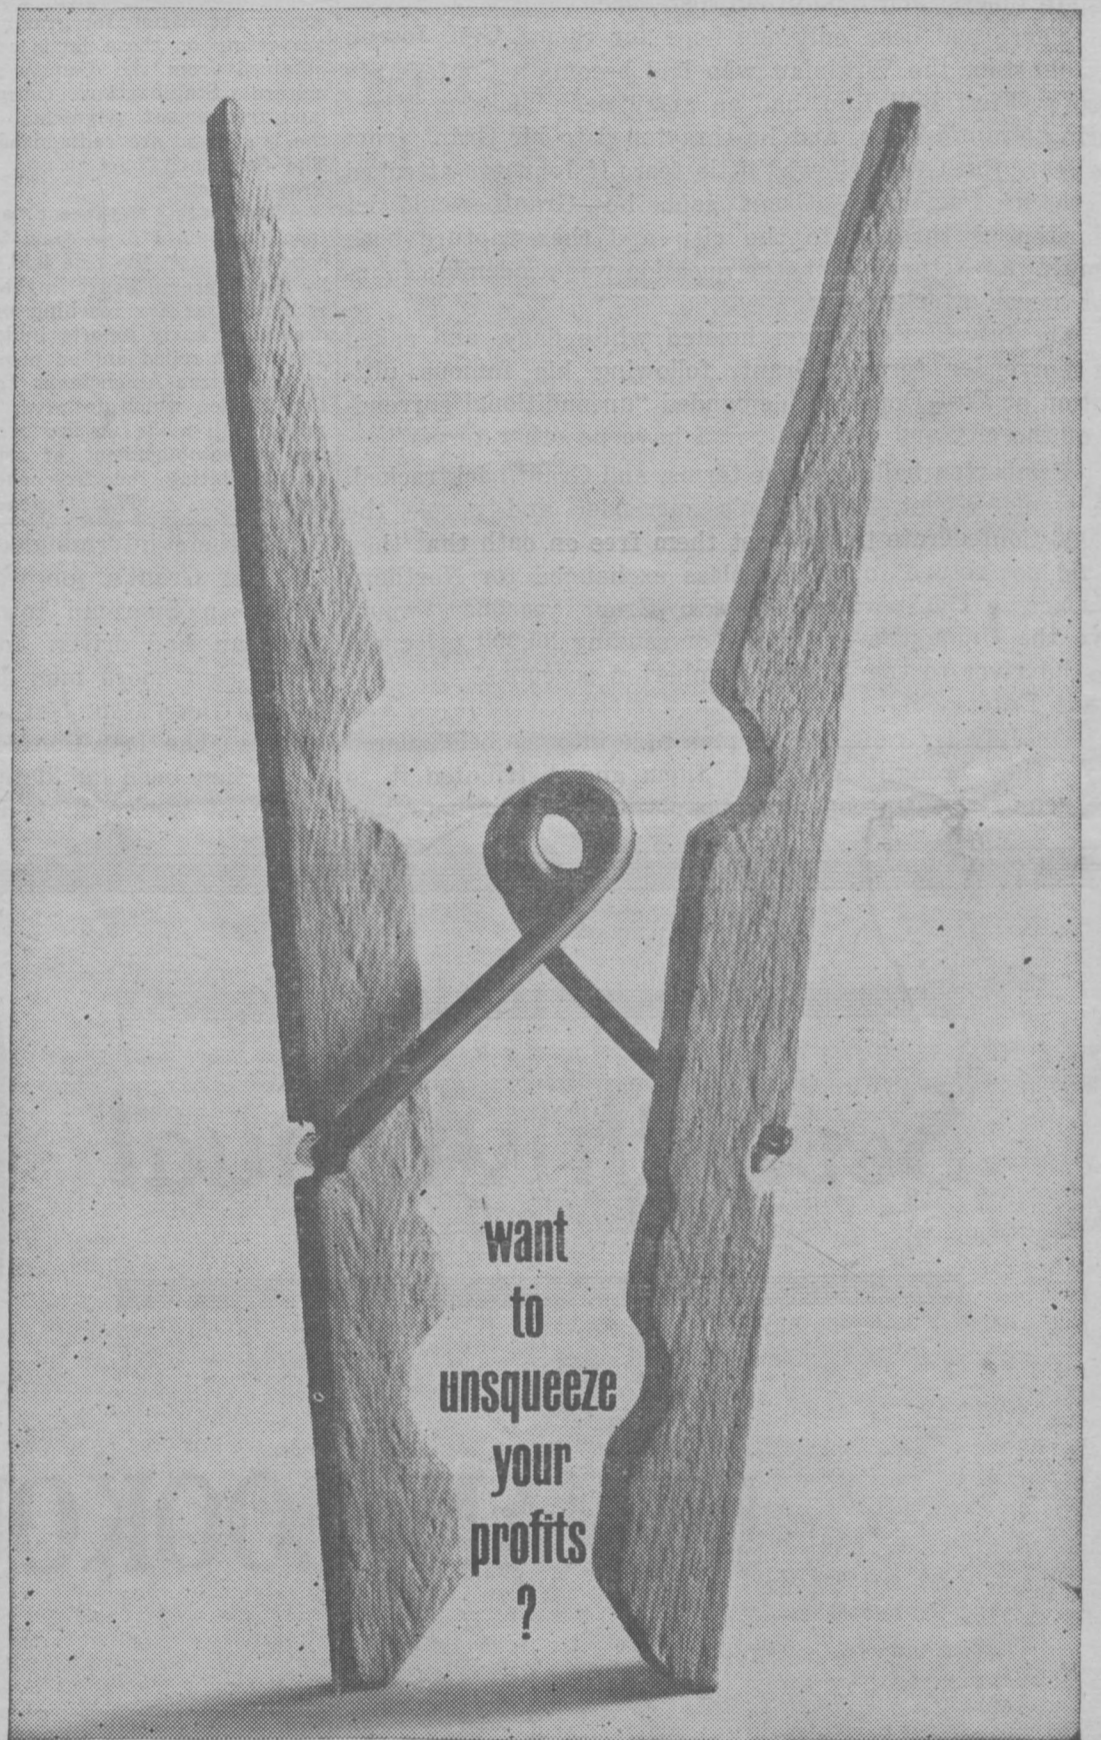

To safeguard your baby against dangers of faulty mattresses, Blockson & Company, manufacturers of mattress materials, suggests new and used cribs be tested against the following checklist:

1. Place both hands on the mattress edge and lean your full weight on them for two minutes. Does the mattress recover its shape after your weight is removed?
2. Does the mattress contain less than 20 per cent of quilted felt, cotton or vegetable fibers which may absorb odor-causing moisture?
3. Has the mattress been chemically treated to inhibit bacteria growth?
4. Place the mattress on the floor and stand on it with your shoes removed. Does the mattress provide firm footing without allowing you to sink clear through to the floor?

An affirmative to each of these questions earns a high quality crib mattress rating. One or more negatives indicate a lack of vital comfort, support or durability due to faulty design and construction or excessive wear which should be corrected by substituting a quality product.

Urged To Observe Water Safety Rules

Water safety in sports is principally a matter of knowing the safety precautions and observing them.

Deaths by drowning could be cut down to almost none if swimmers would observe a few rules—never swim alone, or at night except in well-lighted pools, or just after eating, or when overly tired.

Deaths and injuries from diving could be virtually eliminated if divers would take the trouble to know where they were diving. How deep is the water? Are there any underwater obstructions? Diving accidents almost always are caused by diving into shallow water or unfamiliar water.

Water skiing—a sport that is growing rapidly in popularity—need not be hazardous. The skipper of the boat should know what he is doing, avoiding dangerous high speeds and skimming too close to docks, other boats and obstructions. Preferably, there should be a second man in the boat, and, very important, the skier should wear a life belt to keep him afloat if he is winded by a smashing fall.

Underwater swimming and spear fishing with artificial breathing apparatus is another sport that is gaining in popularity. Here again, knowing how to swim well, how to use the aqualung and how to handle oneself under water will prevent most accidents.

In boating accidents, the cardinal safety rule is—stay with the boat. Someone will be along eventually to pick you up, and a long swim to the shore is beyond the capacity of all but a few highly trained athletes.

Sunburn, the universal hazard of water sports, also can be avoided or minimized by using common sense—don't stay out in the hot sun too long.

Knowledge of artificial respiration, with emphasis on the new mouth-to-mouth method, will save many people from succumbing to drowning. It isn't very difficult to apply artificial respiration, if you know how.

There are few water safety problems that couldn't be avoided by the application of common sense, coupled with at least a cursory knowledge of safety rules.

More And More For Everybody

America now stands on the brink of her greatest era. If we build with what is newly developed, adding to what we have already accomplished, the future looks very bright. For example, during the next 25 years more and more industrial power will come from atomic energy. This energy is becoming practical from an economic standpoint.

The Atomic Energy Commission is currently supervising expenditures of $3 billion a year in its program with about two-thirds of it military. The civilian portion, or $1 billion, is spearheading many developments besides civilian nuclear power. It is conducting much physical, biological and medical research. It is developing new ways to use radioisotopes in medicine, industry and agriculture. It is supporting nuclear education and training programs that will in many ways branch out and bear fruit in private industry year by year.

Solar energy has received much less attention, but it likely has even greater possibilities, with the supply unlimited. America is spending much more on general research than any other country, and it should therefore lead the world in developing and supplying solar equipment. The next quarter century should show great progress in this area. Much of the basic research in this and other new fields is now being done by hundreds of private industries throughout the nation.

The space age offers possibilities hardly dreamed of. The A.E.C. is also interested here, on account of the possibilities of nuclear propulsion and because of other needs for nuclear energy in space. The need for auxiliary power in space vehicles and satellites leads again to the harnessing of the atom. Private industry, too, is spending much for research in space problems and applications, as the Telstar drama has so well demonstrated. What is yet to come is barely understood by any except the scientist at the threshold of discovery. America has always encouraged the explorer and the dreamer, and the challenge exists today in greater measure than ever before.

Some Have Failed

Just as American research has been paying off marvelous dividends in conventional areas, work in these three new directions plus other related fields that are sure to open will make our possibilities unlimited. Automation is by now a development that is familiar to everyone, for it has helped us produce more and better goods increasingly faster. In 1962, 12.4 million workers produced 27 per cent more manufactured goods than 11.7 million did in 1958. Only 6 per cent more workers turned out 27 per cent more goods! Now, what can't we do with nuclear powered automation?

Rome one time long ago stood on the brink of her greatest possibilities too. But the Roman people muffed the ball. They turned to fighting over what they had produced, gave way to selfishness, lost their way, floundered and fell. The fall ushered in the dark ages. Progress was set back a thousand years. America could follow the course that Rome pursued, but we must not allow her to do it. That, in the atomic age, is one of the very biggest challenges.

Everybody Can Profit

A sympathetic attitude toward our industrial problems, a willingness to do unto others as we would have others do to us under similar circumstances, a determination to seek mutual understanding and to exercise fair play on the part of the public, government, employers, and employees would yet usher in America's golden age. Markets would flourish, new capital would be created, more jobs would develop, and productivity would go up by 100 per cent in 25 years. This would result in lower prices, higher wages, and bigger profits—more and more of everything for everybody.

Every time I hear ugly incriminations against labor as a whole, most of whom I know are good; or incriminations against everything government does or doesn't do (most of which I know to be good) it fills me with apprehension lest Americans follow the road that Rome followed, and start very soon down the western slope. We shall not follow the right road by chance. It will be by choice. If we follow the right road, it must be because of purpose and determination. A dead fish can float with the current, but it requires a live fish, with purpose, to swim upstream to higher levels.

The gal down the hall says a maternity hospital is an heir port.

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no anti-freeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

The choir's first appearances after leaving New York will be at The Hague and at Arnhem in the Netherlands arranged by the American Ambassador to the Netherlands, John S. Rice, a Gettysburg alumnus.

Enroute to Helsinki the choir will present concerts in Lucerne, Switzerland, Heidelberg, Bonn, West Berlin and at the Kirchentag in Dortmund, Germany, and in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Following the Helsinki engagement from July 31 to August 4, the choir will continue its tour and present concerts in Stockholm, Oslo, London and Edinburgh before flying home on August 21.

The choir will be under the direction of its founder, Professor Parker G. Wagnild. Prof. Dexter N. Weikel is choir manager for the tour.

'Strangest' Ills Under Scrutiny

Man's strangest afflictions, the 20 or so different diseases that produce "spells," "epilepsy," "focal seizures" and similar disorders are being studied at the "Convulsive Disorder Clinic" established at the University of Michigan Hospital. Research centers on anticonvulsant drugs, changes in blood chemistry that may trigger convulsions, and EEG (electro-encephalograph) tracings that record activity at the base of the brain. Disorders under scrutiny range from a mild three-second blackout to long, exhausting convulsions.

A household fluoridator for families wishing to treat their own water in municipalities that don't do it will be introduced this fall. The device will rent for about $3.75 a month. Fluoridation is believed by many to help reduce dental decay. . . . If cows are fed individually according to their production, a few might justify extra rations but unlimited feeding of a dairy herd is unprofitable, says the Department of Agriculture. Feeding most cows more won't produce more milk, the report says. It will simply make them fat and less able to convert feed into milk efficiently.

Short Circuits in a 30,000-volt power supply could play havoc with neighboring electrical systems. A high-frequency Chemtron Corp. Thermex unit that uses that much power to test new electron tubes at a Connecticut factory has a built-in "good neighbor" device that clears faults so quickly that nary a light or appliance flickers or falters in nearby homes or offices. . . . Giant bats make up about half the mammal fauna of the Panama jungle, according to the Smithsonian Institution which lists 56 species of Panamanian bats in its mammal collection. More U. S. women are getting married than ever before, reports the Population Reference Bureau. As recently as 1940, 15 per cent of women in their early 30's had never been married. In 1960, it was just 7 per cent. During 1963, the Bureau says, 1,600,000 American women will marry. And when they're 50 years old, nearly half will still be working. . . . ## SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Millions of Americans diligently save their money to buy a boat. Then, when they have bought the boat, they decide that their next move is to buy a waterfront lot on which to build a cabin or pitch a tent.

The nature and location of the lot you purchase should be selected with your boat in mind, says Willard Crandall, Boats Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. There should be protection if the boat is left in the water, or it should be possible to take it in and out with a minimum of difficulty.

The property you buy should not be so low that the waterfront is soft or swampy. It should not be too high, either. Steep banks create a problem when taking the boat in and out of the water—it can't be done by trailer. Then, too, climbing a hill after tying up the boat—or even just going down to launch it—tends definitely to restrict its use. Hill climbing also makes looking after the boat a chore. Everyone likes to putter with his own boat ashore, even if he avoids solid upkeep and repair work—but climbing a hill takes the fun out of it.

Purchasing property with too high an elevation is a common mistake. It must be guarded against, for the condition grows worse with passing time—fishermen grow old, as other people do. Nearly all purchases of vacation property are made on a long-term basis. Often, in the summer, I see kids swimming and cavorting at beaches their grandparents enjoyed many years back. Here's another point: quick dropoffs and deep water right at shore are often characteristic of high-elevation property. This not only prevents swimming problems, but may also make family boating hazardous, because climbing in and out of a small boat, and beaching it just can't be done.

Waves can be hard on boats kept at piers, in boathouses or on the beach. Waves can bang, rub and wear boats; they can make launching and landing difficult and dangerous. Unless your boat can be tied up in a small, sheltered cove, it should not face the direction of the prevailing winds. In most parts of this country the persistent winds come from the west, making the east shore of any waterway the least desirable.

Northern exposure is not considered good either, because of cold across-water winds. Then, too, there's not much chance of

TRACTOR MAINTENANCE TIPS

Young folks have been learning answers to tough tractor questions in 4-H tractor maintenance schools since 1944. Learning by doing, they've found that better tractor care results in longer tractor life, more power and lower operating costs. Here are typical questions they answer at the end of their course. What's your score?

- 1) Is it best to grease morning or evening? Why?
- 2) Do front wheel bearings with no grease fitting need lubricating?
- 3) Does too much grease on the clutch pilot bearing cause any harm?
- 4) How often should the air cleaner be serviced?

Although only a dozen or so tiny grease fittings are on your tractor, each does a big job, lubricating some mighty important parts. Remember, the best time to grease is evening, when the bearings are warm and take grease more easily. Always wipe dirt from grease fittings and the gun tip to avoid forcing dirt into bearings. Greasing at day's end also protects bearings with a film in case it rains and machinery stands idle, susceptible to rust.

If front wheel bearings have grease fittings, lubricate at least once a day. Use just enough grease to "ooze" it out around the inner dust seal—not so much the seal is damaged. If there are no fittings on front wheel bearings, remove the wheels periodically, clean and pack the bearings.

Take care when greasing clutch throw-out or pilot bearing; too much grease commonly causes faulty clutch operation. Grease on the clutch face may cause slippage, generate heat and score the plate. When the clutch plate becomes rough, the clutch grabs. Remember, one stroke of the gun is enough.

Engines use more than 8,000 gallons of air for each gallon of gasoline burned. Or, they require 13½ pounds of air for each pound of fuel that burns. And diesel engines suck in a full cylinder of air every time a piston moves down on the intake stroke. Air is dirty and it's the air cleaner's job to clean it. When operating in a dusty area, clean the cup once every half day, or as recommended in the operator's manual.

A dirty, plugged, air intake stack restricts air flow and increases fuel consumption. Also, a leaky hose or clamp may let enough dirt in to ruin the engine. Check for other leaks, too—a leaky manifold gasket usually causes the tractor to misfire when idling. A simple check is to put a few drops of oil on the gasket and see if oil is sucked into the engine.

PRODUCER FIELDER COOK HAS DISCOVERED A NEW SOURCE OF WRITERS FOR NEXT SEASON'S Du Pont Show of the Week. In England recently to tape Jack Hawkins and Pamela Brown in "To Bury Caesar," scheduled for Du Pont, Cook read scripts of some 100 British Broadcasting Corporation dramas, will buy some to adapt for next season's programs. Du Pont's upcoming, "A Dozen Deadly Roses," will star Lauren Bacall. . . . Plans for The Lively Ones to replace NBC's Hazel this summer are on again, with the show about 90 percent certain. If the deal jells, Vic Damone will again be host. Last summer's director, Barry Shear, has left NBC to form his own company, but he would return to handle just The Lively Ones. . . . If CBE's first Royal Ballet special next season is well received, the network will present a series of them, all filmed in England.

"By the end of the year," says producer David Dortort, "if the audience likes her and she is the right kind of girl, we'll marry them." . . . MGM is preparing a film special, "The World's Greatest Showman," based on the career of the late Cecil B. DeMille. . . . Bob Cummings . . . a new series

BOB CUMMINGS HAS AGREED TO UNDERTAKE A NEW SERIES based on the Bentz Plagemann book, "This Is Goggle." But the test film will not be shot until fall. ### The Bug-Killing Daisy

Clouds of death and destruction . . . of mites, worms, ticks, flies, ants, and locusts that killed crops, brought disease to men and livestock, were once humanity's greatest plague. Man finally struck back—but his chemical insecticides apparently were as harmful as the bugs themselves.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has approved Pyrethrum base insecticides — which kill insects on contact but won't harm people, birds, pets, forest animals. They're safe for use near babies, leave no appreciable residue in foods, come in aerosol cans for home use.

Many synthetic insecticides reportedly poisoned or sterilized wildlife, even harmed humans — while certain insect pests became immune. Science recently turned to Pyrethrum, a substance extracted from a bug-killing daisy cultivated in Kenya.

NO. 20350 EQUITY in the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland ATLEE E. GREEN, and DOROTHY I. GREEN his wife Plaintiffs vs.

The known and unknown heirs, devisees, personal representatives, descendants or successors in interest of SUSAN FOGLE Defendants

ORDER OF PUBLICATION The object of this Bill is that the court may take jurisdiction in the premises and enter a Decree removing the cloud upon the title of the Complainants, and that the Court shall declare that the Complainants have a good and marketable fee simple title to the property described in the Bill of Complaint, and may sell or convey or otherwise deal with such property without regard to the claims of the unknown heirs, devisees, personal representatives, descendants or successors in interest of Susan Fogle.

The Bill recites that the Complainants, Atlee E. Green and Dorothy I. Green, his wife, are the owners of a tract of real estate situate, lying and being in Liberty Election District, Frederick County, Maryland, said tract of land lying on the west side of the road leading from Libertytown to Woodsboro, about 1.7 miles north of Libertytown, and containing 11 acres, 1 rod and 1 1/2 sq. perches more or less, it being all and the same property conveyed to the said Atlee E. Green and Dorothy I. Green, his wife, by deed from Raymond O. Smith and Annie E. Smith, his wife, dated the 10th day of October, 1941 and recorded in Liber 430, Folio 26, one of the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland.

The Bill further states that the above described property is the same property that was conveyed to Raymond O. Smith and Annie E. Smith, his wife, by deed from Earl Steel and Margaret R. Steel, his wife, dated March 24, 1927 and recorded in Liber 632, Folio 38, one of the Land Records aforesaid; it being also the same property conveyed unto Earl Steel and Susan Fogle by deed from George T. Bowers dated January 2, 1902 and recorded in Liber DHH No. 13, Folio 193, one of the Land Records aforesaid; certified copies of said deeds being filed with the Bill.

The Bill further states that a question has now been raised as to whether the Complainants have a good and marketable title to said premises; that the Complainants are now in possession of the premises openly, notoriously, adversely under claim of right and with color of title and that the predecessors in title of the Complainants have also been in such continuous adverse possession under claim of right and with color of title since 1927; that the Complainants and their solicitor have made reasonable efforts to ascertain the heirs, devisees, personal representatives, descendants or successors in interest of the said Susan Fogle but have been unable to discover them.

It is thereupon this 1st day of July, 1963, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, and by the authority thereof, ORDERED that the Complainants, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Frederick County, once a week in each of four successive weeks, the last of such publications to be made not less than thirty days before the 3rd day of September, 1963, give notice to the unknown heirs, devisees, personal representatives, descendants or successors in interest of Susan Fogle, whether residents or non-residents, of the object and substance of the Bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 3rd day of September, 1963, to show cause, if any they have, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

NO. 20356 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY IN EQUITY EARLE D. HIGHTOWER vs.

NELLIE B. CRABBS, Widow, JOHN W. CRABBS and MARY E. CRABBS, his wife, the unknown heirs of SAMUEL A. CRABBS and GEORGE F. CRABBS, and all persons having or claiming to have any interest in the property assessed to DAN S. CRABBS in Emmitsburg District, Frederick County, Maryland, and CHARLOTTE W. YARROLL, County Treasurer for Frederick County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to foreclose all rights of redemption of the Defendants in and to a property assessed to Dan S. Crabbs in Emmitsburg District, Frederick County, Maryland, containing 8 acres, more or less. The Bill states in substance that Charlotte W. Yarroll, County Treasurer for Frederick County, State of Maryland, offered at public auction the real estate assessed to the said Dan S. Crabbs (also known as Daniel S. Crabbs) in Emmitsburg District, Frederick County, Maryland. That said real estate is now vested in Nellie B. Crabbs, widow, John W. Crabbs and Mary E. Crabbs, his wife, the unknown heirs of Samuel A. Crabbs and George F. Crabbs, and any other persons having or claiming to have any interest in said property. That said sale was held on April 9, 1962, and the purchaser was Earle D. Hightower at the sum of Eight Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($850.00). That said sale was made in satisfaction of unpaid taxes due and owing the State of Maryland and Frederick County for the year 1961. That the purchaser paid the sum of Eighteen Dollars and Thirty-four Cents ($18.34) toward the purchase of said real estate and that the sum of Twenty-Nine Dollars and Ninety-Seven Cents ($29.97) including taxes, interest and costs necessary to redeem the property has not been paid and the property not redeemed, although one year from the date of sale has passed, that a final decree is prayed for, foreclosing all rights of redemption of the defendants in and to the property assessed to Dan S. Crabbs.

It is THEREUPON this 3rd day of July, 1963, by the Circuit Court of Frederick County, in Equity, ORDERED that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order of Publication to be published for at least 4 successive weeks prior to the 10th day of August, 1963, in some newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, giving notice to the non-resident defendants Nellie B. ### "OPINIONS FROM THE FIELD"

The hot, humid weather of the past few weeks brings to mind thoughts of childhood days when we headed for the old swimmin' hole. At that time we could choose from a number of locations such as Roddy's Quarry, Kump's Dam, Sister's Dam, Red Rock, and the Willows, with the preference largely governed by one's ability. The kids of today don't have such a choice because the "Quarry" has been closed for years, the three mentioned locations on Tom's Creek so filled with mud and leaves that swimming is next to impossible, so this more or less limits the choice to Kump's Dam. This location was dredged out a few years ago by the local VFW but already is filling up again with muck and leaves. In addition to these facts one should realize that swimming in local streams is never very safe and certainly not very healthy. Now I would think someone should consider the possibility of building a swimming pool in Emmitsburg.

One only has to read the papers to realize that other communities have encountered this same problem and in most cases, have done something about it. Locally, the land and water should be readily available for such a project. Needed would be some foresight and capital to get started. Once built, season tickets and daily admissions should pay for maintenance, salaries, and an eventual return on the investment.

I don't think the parents and kids in this community expect or need a pool costing fifty thousand dollars. They just want a safe, clean place to learn and enjoy the wonderful sport of swimming. Once learned, swimming is never forgotten and should be considered as vital as learning to read and write. Now I'm wondering if the Mayor and Commissioners have ever discussed such a project—it would be a crime for a child to drown because he never had a chance to learn to swim....

Eclipse Could Damage Eye

The fascinating sight of a solar eclipse can mean permanent eye damage for those unsuspecting children and adults who stare at the darkened sun through sunglasses, smoked glass, or other homemade devices during the next eclipse on July 20.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has issued a warning that there is NO safe method of looking directly into the eclipse without risking incurable burns of the retina from infra-red rays of the sun.

Normally, the sun is much too bright for a person to view comfortably. But, during an eclipse enough light is blocked out to permit easy observation. This, says the National Society, is when the rays do their damage—unnoticed, because the retina is not sensitive to pain.

When the burn from these rays is serious enough to scar that small portion of the retina where the rays were focused, no treatment can cure it.

Widespread reports of damaged vision in Western states after a partial eclipse of the sun three years ago prompted this warning. The state of Utah alone reported 31 definite cases of eye burns, all but five of the victims youngsters. An estimated 75 cases were reported in Washington.

The National Society has called on parents, school personnel and doctors to help alert the public, especially children, to the eclipse dangers.

Read I John 1:5-2-2. "Him who comes to me I will not cast out." (John 6:37. RSV.)

One morning, my husband and I visited in the home of one of our daughters. Her husband had been away but returned home earlier than usual that day. One of our grandchildren, seven years old, was playing in a sandpile in the yard and did not know of his father's arrival. When the child saw him come out on the porch, he ran toward him. The child threw himself into his father's arms, just as he was—with dirty hands.

My first thought was to stop him until he washed his hands. But seeing that his father welcomed him joyously just as he was without worrying about the child's being dirty, I changed my mind.

I thought of God's great love that accepts sinners just as they are. In this incident I had a living example of the love of God for the sinner who rises from sin and throws himself, just as he is, unto the arms of Christ.

Prayer
Heavenly Father, we acknowledge our guilt as miserable sinners. Help us to lift ourselves

Ugly Crab Pretty High

The crab supply is definitely scarce this year, report many dealers. Though price indications in some stores show no immediate increase, others have already been boosted from $5 to $5.50 a bushel last year, to $7.50 to $10 this year.

Other dealers have reported no particular scarcity, however, they do say crabs are undersized. On the eastern shore numerous small crabs under four and one half inches have been caught.

Reasons for the scarcity and undersize of the seafood have been varied. One dealer attributes the decrease in amount to the large quantities of fresh crabs and other seafoods being shipped into the midwest which formerly had purchased frozen packaged fish. He did say, however, that his supply had not been hindered.

Another stated that only a few of the larger crabhouses in Baltimore are steaming them. He also pointed out the dredging being done in Virginia, which grosses such a large catch at one time. He did say that supply had picked up this week and expects it to increase.

One dealer said the cold weather experienced at the beginning of the crab season is the reason for the smaller size and believes the size will increase with warmer weather.

from the dust and come to Thy Son just as we are. Redeem us and help us remain in Thy tender care. We pray in our Savior's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day
We know that God will accept us when we come to Him because He has already come to us.

16 Die On State Highways In Week

Sixteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.

Seven of those killed were drivers; five were passengers; and four were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths; speed in six; and "driver error" was present in eleven of the fatalities.

"After a fatality has occurred," commented Major G. E. Davidson, Field Commander of the Maryland State Police, "it is most difficult to determine some of the underlying factors in 'driver error' which caused the accident. That a driver was speeding, that he crossed the center line, that he failed to yield right-of-way... these are obvious. Why he did it is not always so evident. "It is reasonable to assume, however, that impatience contributes to many accidents. Annoyance at slow moving vehicles, hurry to beat an automatic signal, unwillingness to wait to cross at an intersection... these and many other acts which are motivated by impatience can result in very serious and tragic consequences. 'Driver error' will continue until attitudes, as well as actions, have been improved."

Dimes Grant To Aid Medical Study

A study of how the nervous system develops and how it can be affected by such agents as hormones and viruses will be launched at The Johns Hopkins University under a grant of $38,708 from The National Foundation—March of Dimes.

The grant was announced jointly by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of the university, and Basil O'Connor, president of the Foundation.

The chief investigator is Dr. David Bodian, who performed outstanding virus research under March of Dimes grants from 1942 to the present. Now Dr. Bodian, also distinguished as a neuro-anatomist, will concentrate on the nervous system in monkeys.

This work, Mr. O'Connor said, is of fundamental interest in understanding various birth defects, a prime research target of the March of Dimes organization.

Dr. Bodian plans to relate observations of pre and post-natal monkey behavior to electron and light microscope and chemical studies of their nerve cells. He hopes to learn how nerve cells and their interconnections develop during the early stages of formation.

Of particular concern are factors which cause nerve cells to become less able to recover from injury as an individual grows older. In addition, Dr. Bodian will probe the effects of hormones and of viruses on developing nerve tissue.
