Emmitsburgians were sickened and numbed by the action of the assassin, Lee Oswald, who triggered off a deadly shot Friday that slammed into the brain of President John F. Kennedy, causing his death within the hour. The incredible and horrible action came to the nation's youngest President at what was perhaps the zenith of his career. Beloved by the world as well as his own people, President Kennedy already was being proclaimed as one of the Nation's great Presidents, a position he so rightly deserved. The full impact of the deadliness and dastardly action of the assassin left the entire town prostrate. Almost immediately streets were deserted and business in general came to a halt. Businessmen claimed they never saw their places so deserted in such a short space of time. This quietness permeated the air until our beloved President was laid to rest in Arlington Cemetery three days later. It is believed most residents glued themselves to their television chairs for most of the three days, reticent to leave their homes for fear of missing a single detail and also to get last glimpse of our great President. Politics were not even discussed and even the most bitter opponents of the present Kennedy administration were stunned into shock and silence. Friendly people we have known all our lives broke down emotionally and wept as the discussion involuntarily turned to the dastardly deed. The reaction of Emmitsburgians was a carbon copy of the Nation as a whole. The people of Dallas reacted the same as elsewhere in the Nation. I personally don't think we should hold any malice against Dallas or its citizens. After all this infamous act could have taken place in any city or hamlet in this country, even Emmitsburg, and I for one, wouldn't accept any blame for the act of a two-bit punk such as Oswald.

There is only one course to follow in our deep sorrow caused by the bereavement of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, and that is to adhere to his sound and intelligent policies, many of which already have been put into practice, and many of the future ones which have as yet not been proven. Congress has proven a stumbling block to a number of important pieces of legislation proposed by the deceased Chief Executive, and this legislation is being held up at this very moment. I am confident that if this legislation were enacted and put into effect immediately the public would see the logic and wisdom and benefit that the futuristic mind of President Kennedy intended it for and that the benefit it would bring not only for Americans but humanity in general. We should implore our present Congress to enact this legislation immediately. These are the things our President gave his life for and easily could be adapted to the rapidly changing world of today.

Our Nation has lost a brilliant and great leader but there are others in our midst, who if given a chance, can and will guide this, the greatest country in the world, on to world leadership and for the general betterment of mankind.

Lyndon B. Johnson, now President Johnson, is just such a man. He must be given a fair and unshackled opportunity to show his colors and greatness. It was God's will he is in the White House this very day and as our leader in this time of world crisis we owe him our unqualified support.

To the Kennedy family, we offer our deepest condolences and sympathy. He was the leader of your family and he also was our leader. He was loved deeply by you and by us and he will remain indelibly impressed in our minds and hearts forever.

Safety Warning

Lt. Carroll E. Cook, commander of Barracks "B" State Police, issued a warning to all motorists this week to avoid winding all windows up in their cars while the motor is running.

The commander said that all motorists should always have at least one window open in the car to allow the flow of fresh air and to diminish the intake of carbon monoxide fumes.

Mountaineers Open Season Saturday

Coach Jim Phelan's Mt. St. Mary's cagers will engage powerful St. Joseph's in Philadelphia Saturday night in the curtain raiser of the 1963-64 basketball season.

Action in the Palestra at the city of Brotherly Love will pit the Mount against St. Joseph's and LaSalle battling Albright in a double-header event.

One of the big problems facing Coach Phelan is speed, much of which disappeared when Eddie Pfeiffer and Dave Maloney graduated. Also missing via graduation is John O'Reilly, the husky rebounder and prolific scorer. All were handicapped by injuries a year ago and missed many key games.

According to Phelan the Mount will play a more deliberate brand of ball and go for the good shot. "We've got good overall shooting and adequate rebounding," says Phelan.

Jack Campbell, 6'6, who left school last winter, has returned 40 pounds lighter and is expected to clinch a regular berth. Backing him up and pressing strong is Bill Neuss, 6'6.

At present it appears John Carrell, 6'3 Sophomore, and Ed Folk, 6'5 Junior, will pair off at forwards with Mike Costello, 6'0 Senior, and Bernie Haag, 6' Sophomore, in the back court.

Jim Livelsberger, 5'10 Senior guard, who led Delone High in scoring in his Senior year, has been tabbed by Phelan as probably their best dribbler and quickest shot.

Among other strong candidates are Fran Fenerty, 6'6, Lou Martine, 6'3 and a trio of Freshmen, Pete Johnson, 6'3, Ed Sarmir, 6'3 and Mike Lyons, 6'1.

Last year the Mounties recorded only a 13-12 record but won their third straight Mason-Dixon Conference title with an 8-6 mark.

A 22-game schedule has been arranged for the Mountaineers and includes the following:

November 30, St. Joseph's at Philadelphia; December 3, Shepherd, away; 5, American, home; 7, Susquehanna at York; 10, Baltimore, away; 13, Catholic, away; 16, Roanoke, home; 27 and 28, Battlefield tournament at Gettysburg College.

January 7, Western Maryland, away; 8, Shepherd, home; 10, Old Dominion, home; 11, Loyola, home; 16, Shippensburg, home; 27, Rider, away.

February 7, Hampden - Sydney, home; 8, Loyola, away; 11, American, away; 14, Randolph-Macon, away; 15, Catholic, home; 17, Western Maryland, home; 18, Washington, home; 27-21, Mason-Dixon finals.

The game with Susquehanna University at York on Dec. 7 is being sponsored by the Sertoma Club of York, which donates the proceeds to charity. The game will be held in the Central High School gymnasium, with proceeds to be used to purchase and install a swimming pool at Camp Pennwood, a day camp for retarded children. The game will start at 9 p.m. and will be preceded by weightlifting by members of the York Barbell Club and college wrestling exhibitions, and a posing exhibition by Vern Weaver, Mr. America of 1963, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Sodality Xmas Party Dec. 17

The regular monthly meeting of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Joseph's Church, was held on Monday evening in St. Euphemia's School hall. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Father Staube, spiritual director and was presided over by the president, Mary Sherwin. The ladies decided to hold their annual Christmas party on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, at 6:30 p.m. at the Green Parrot Tea Shop. Consultants of the Bands will contact their members about tickets. The full price of the menu is $1.50, but it was voted by the group to sell tickets for $1.00 and pay the balance of the price out of the treasury. Each member will bring a gift of $1.00 value and these gifts will be exchanged among those present.

Serving of the Father-Son breakfast for the Knights of Columbus was discussed, but due to the small attendance, final decision was delayed until the next meeting. Election of officers and a short business meeting will be held after the Christmas party. Reception of new members will be held in the Church on Sunday, December 8. Any ladies of the parish who are not members and wish to join, are asked to contact any member or officer. Mrs. Eunice Neighbour's name was called for the door prize, but she was not present. Father Staube closed the meeting with a prayer. Father asked the members to recite the Rosary for the late President, John F. Kennedy.

36 K-C Members Received Degree

The second degree was exemplified to 36 candidates at Mount St. Mary's College last Sunday afternoon. A number of the group were members of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, Emmitsburg.

Present at the exemplification were Paul A. Keepers, District Deputy, District Warden Carl A. Wetzel, Grand Knight of Mt. St. Mary's Council Daniel McDonald, Past Grand Knights of Brute Council William E. Sanders and Laurence Orendorff, and Deputy Grand Knight Arthur Elder. The degree exemplification was in charge of the Pangborn Council, Hagers-town. The third degree will be given at the Mount on January 12. The second degree class was dedicated to the memory of our deceased President John F. Kennedy.

An 18-year-old Wisconsin boy was killed Saturday morning and another injured when the car in which they were riding slid sideways into a metal light pole on West Main Street near the Doughboy.

Pronounced dead at the scene by County Medical Examiner Dr. E. O. Thomas Sr., was David G. Gregus of Beloit, Wis., a passenger in the car being driven by Richard James Karashinski, 19, of the same address.

Rev. Fife Will Be Guest Minister

Dr. J. Frank Fife, President of the Maryland Synod, of the Lutheran Church in America, will be the guest minister at Elias Lutheran Church on Sunday, Dec. 1.

A graduate of Gettysburg College and the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Gettysburg, Reverend Fife is the first President of the Synod to serve full-time in that capacity. Previous Heads of Synod also served as Parish Pastors. Many in Emmitsburg will remember Dr. Charles Reinwald, a former Lutheran Pastor here, who also served as President of Synod during 1906 and 1907. Dr. Fife was Secretary of Synod from 1934, and president since 1947.

Ordained in 1929, he served the Woodsboro parish and at Holy Comforter Church, Baltimore, before being called to Synodical positions.

Prior to entering the ministry, Dr. Fife taught in the York County, Pa., school system. He is a native of that county.

December 1 is the First Sunday in Advent, and marks the beginning of a new Church Year. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Reginald Zepp, will sing selections from "The Messiah," by Handel. They will be accompanied by Mr. Paul Spring, an organist and student from the Seminary.

Serving as Liturgists at the service will be the Pastor, W. Ronald Fearer, and Seminarian, Theodore Wachhaus. Dr. Fife will preach the morning's sermon.

Following the service, a fellowship luncheon will be held for Dr. and Mrs. Fife, members of the Congregation and friends.

Taneytown PTA Will Present Show

The Elementary PTA of Taneytown is pleased to bring to children and adults of all ages this wonderful afternoon and evening of entertainment. You may obtain your tickets at the door or from any member of the PTA.

Town To Lose School; Commissioners' Decision

The Frederick County Commissioners, Irvin Renn, chairman, Russell Horman, and Lawrence Dorsey, reversed their previous decision not to appropriate sufficient funds for the location of a consolidated school at Thurmont Tuesday when they made available adequate funds for the purchase of the Staub site in Thurmont.

For a number of years the issue has been before the people of the two towns and it was felt that an equitable decision would be forthcoming from the Commissioners, especially when the Commissioners demanded that the School Board offer an alternate site for the new school. However, the Board of Commissioners apparently threw caution to the winds and when the Board of Education, either by default or deliberate intention, offered no alternate site, the Commissioners went ahead and okayed the sight and appropriated the necessary money. It is understood that under law the Commissioners had the right to demand and receive, an alternate sight. This, according to reports, was not done, and there is some question as to the legality of the action.

amount of time and that it was apparent that the Board of Education was not going to offer an alternate site.

The Commissioners emphasized that the Board of Education is required by law to select the school sites and then ask the County Commissioners for funds. The Commissioners have power only to approve or reject the request of the Board of Education, they said.

The county officials said they have given the matter much consideration before voting on the request. They also visited the various sites mentioned as possible locations for the school.

Although the decision by the Commissioners sets the stage for the Board of Education to proceed with plans for building a school, Emmitsburg residents have been pleading for a school halfway between the towns or one at Emmitsburg. Some Emmitsburg representatives have threatened a court battle to "keep from losing the school to Thurmont."

In announcing their decision supporting the purchase of the Staub site for $750 an acre, the Commissioners noted that money was not appropriated for the first site recommended (Wivel - Jamison) because the price of some of the land "far exceeded the reasonable value."

The Board of Education then chose the Staub site for the location of the school. When this request was received in October, the County Commissioners asked for an alternate site because the people of Emmitsburg and Thurmont had been asked some years ago to select a compromise site. The Commissioners felt this compromise should be honored, they said, therefore they delayed action on purchasing a site until it was apparent the Board of Education was not going to offer a compromise site.

Garden Club Plans Christmas Activities

The Silver Fancy Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. R. MacPherson on November 21. In the absence of the president, Mrs. George W. Green presided.

After a brief business session, plans were made to hold a workshop at the home of Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner on December 16 for the purpose of making Christmas door decorations to be presented to the patients of the Victor Cullen Hospital, Sabillasville. A committee was also appointed to take two bushels of apples to the patients for Thanksgiving.

Charity Fair Highly Successful

"A pall of sadness hovered over our annual Charity Fair, but it seemed to spur our guests to new heights of generosity, with the result that financial returns were greater than anticipated," said Sister Rosemary Pfaff, President of Saint Joseph College. "We are ever grateful to our workers, our friends, our faculty and students, who displayed a magnificence of spirit despite their overwhelming sorrow at the news of the President's death just a few hours before the Fair opened. Since they felt, however, that the cause of charity would suffer most by a cancellation of the program, our workers voted to continue with their plans to hold the Fair on Friday and Saturday as originally scheduled, and to dedicate their activities to the memory of President Kennedy."

Under the supervision of Sister Madeleine Wheeler, Assistant Professor of Home Economics, and Senior Student Chairman, Roberta Davis of Baltimore, the Charity Fair netted over $4,500 for local charities and the Bolivian missions of the Daughters of Charity. The coronation of the Charity Fair Queen, senior Anne McAllister of Bryn Mawr, Pa., brought the event to a close. The Senior song-fest, traditionally the closing event of the Fair, was cancelled.

Lions Will Sponsor Kiddies' Party

Plans for the annual Kiddies' Christmas Party were formulated at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in Mt. Manor Restaurant, President Arthur Elder presiding with 20 members in attendance.

Following the reading of the minutes by Secretary Eugene G. Sappington, a minute's silence was observed in memory of the late President Kennedy.

Tips on car care

MODERN MOTORIST

by W. A. "Red" HALL... Automotive Specialist

It's a good time, with summer upon us, to think about the oil in your car's crankcase. Did you know that in most cases there's a simple, economical way to reduce oil consumption and other oil problems that often increase during hot weather?

The answer may be use of a heavy-bodied additive, such as Du Pont's new Golden "77" engine conditioner, to keep oil from thinning out at high temperatures. Such a "viscosity improver," as it is called, is especially valuable in older cars that burn a lot of oil because pistons and cylinders are worn and loose.

Just ask your service station man to pour a can of the additive into the crankcase each time the oil is changed. It not only cuts down oil burning but also reduces exhaust smoking and quiets noisy valves.

New car owners, too, can benefit by use of Golden "77". It's true that most manufacturers now equip cars with long-life oil, and recommended intervals between changes are as high as 6,000 miles. Just the same, maintaining the thickness of oil, when long summer trips would normally cause it to thin, protects engine parts against possible costly damage. Instead of flowing or blowing out of action, the hot oil keeps fast-moving parts lubricated. The additive also increases engine efficiency by raising oil pressure, thus boosting compression in the combustion chamber.

Whether your goal is to save oil money on an old car, prolong the life of a new one, or just keep the engine running smoothly, adding a good viscosity improver to your oil occasionally is well worth the small investment—especially in the summer.

Veterans' Program Is Widened

A marked increase in the scope of the Veterans Administration Guardianship program was recorded during Fiscal Year 1963, F. E. Quinn, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Baltimore, said he had been advised this week.

TREASURE CHEST, new idea for showers, complete with cosy blanket, a "secret" treasure and gift card. By Baby Pepperell. 2J

A total of 139,000 new beneficiaries—minors and either incompetent veterans or incompetent dependents of deceased veterans—were added to the rolls, he said.

During the year, 120,000 beneficiaries were released from the guardianship rolls, making a net increase of 19,000 beneficiaries and a new total of 530,000 wards under the guardianship program. More than 80% of the wards are minors.

Under the Guardianship Program, beneficiaries in the 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the Republic of the Philippines are served through the Chief Attorneys in 65 regional offices.

Mr. Quinn said the program protects beneficiaries by selecting the best-suited persons to manage their estates. Supervision by the Chief Attorney assures use of VA funds for current needs of the beneficiaries with conservation of any funds surplus to those needs.

Assets of 400,775 beneficiaries accounted for during the year totaled $764 million, with receipts of nearly $276 million.

Mr. Quinn said VA attorneys also recovered for the United States $2.1 million from escheated funds, overpayments and other collections.

100 YEARS AGO

GRANT DEFEATS BRAGG AT MISSIONARY RIDGE

By Lon K. Savage

Gen. Ulysses S. Grant finally broke the back of Confederate Gen. Braxton Bragg's Confederate army 100 years ago this week, but the way he did it was somewhat of a surprise even to himself.

Grant had planned his battle to destroy Bragg's two flanks, but he won the battle by tearing through Bragg's middle.

The Battle of Chattanooga—or Missionary Ridge—started as Grant had planned it. Gen. George H. Thomas' Army of the Cumberland, acting under Grant's orders, made a demonstration in the plain south of Chattanooga on November 23d, capturing some territory. The attack was designed to cause Bragg to fortify his center.

Then, next day—a cloudy, drizzly day—the real battle began. To the east, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman smashed in with 8,000 men at the northern tip of Missionary Ridge on Bragg's right flank. To the west, Gen. Joseph Hooker, with 9,000 men, charged up Lookout Mountain attacking Bragg's left flank. In the center, the Army of the Cumberland waited impatiently for action.

Little Success

Grant's plans did not succeed entirely. Sherman's men successfully carried what they thought was a portion of Missionary Ridge, only to find it an isolated and almost useless hill. Hooker's men whipped heavily outnumbered Confederates on Lookout Mountain in what was dubbed "The Battle Above the Clouds," but the gain was not of great consequence. So the first day ended.

Next day was bright and sunny. Sherman renewed his attack on the left but was stopped by stiff Confederate resistance. Hooker, on the right, swept over Lookout Mountain and down into the valley toward Missionary Ridge, only to find a bridge across an important creek had been destroyed. It took him three hours to get his army across the creek.

Central Attack

Grant, who was watching all this with Thomas on a little hill, applied more pressure. He ordered Thomas to move his men out toward Missionary Ridge in a central attack, to divert Bragg from his flanks.

And at mid-afternoon, the Army of the Cumberland, which had been champing at the bit, went off into action and the history books. As if on parade, the 18,000 men swept out across the plain toward the ridge, flags flying and drums beating. Ahead, the bulk of Bragg's Confederates waited in lines of trenches along the side of the ridge.

Artillery and musketry filled the air, and Federals fell by the score, but on they came toward the base of the ridge. Suddenly, the soldiers—avenging their defeat at Chickamauga—were at the base, driving Confederates from their trenches, then occupying those same trenches. There they were supposed to stop, but they did not. Instead they clattered out the other side of the trenches and started up the ridge without orders.

Grant, watching the incredible feat, asked anxiously who had ordered the men up the ridge. "I did not," answered Thomas.

The Cumberlanders now were scrambling up the hill hard on the heels of retreating Confederates. Southerners on top could not fire down without fear of hitting their own retreating men. Then, all at once, the three-mile long Federal line reached the crest, as Confederates scrambled down the other side. And with that, Bragg's whole army collapsed.

The battle had cost nearly 6,000 casualties for Grant, nearly 7,000 for Bragg.

Next week: Knoxville Siege Ends.

WANTED BY THE FBI

EDWARD HOWARD MAPS

Edward Howard Maps, "beatnik," firearms expert, college graduate, artist and sculptor, who is charged with brutally slaying his wife and four-month-old daughter, is one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Firemen attempting to extinguish a blaze in Maps' Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, home on January 21, 1962, found the infant dead of smoke inhalation, and Maps' young wife dying of a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage. At least ten fires had been set in the home and the gas oven was turned on.

Maps was missing but allegedly telephoned two neighbors shortly after the crimes were discovered, threatening one with being "next." A Federal warrant charging Maps with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder and arson was issued on January 23, 1962, at Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Generally known as an artist and sculptor, he is a nonconformist who shuns ordinary footwear, going barefoot in the summer and wearing sandals without socks during the winter. A sloppy dresser of unkempt and untidy appearance, he was discharged from the Marine Corps as a schizophrenic.

A white American, born on June 29, 1922, at Passaic, New Jersey, Maps is 5' 8" tall, weighs 170 pounds, has a ruddy complexion, broad shoulders, a barrel-chested build and is unusually strong. His eyes are brown, he has bushy, curly graying-black hair and sometimes wears a full beard and mustache.

Consider Maps armed and extremely dangerous. Please immediately notify the nearest FBI office of any information concerning his whereabouts.

May Revise Congressional Districts

Action by the courts may force the Maryland General Assembly to revise the state's U. S. Congressional districts.

Filing of a suit against present congressional districting was announced this week at a board meeting of the Maryland Citizens Committee for Fair Congressional Redistricting held in Annapolis.

Attorney James H. French, Kensington, Md., general council for the committee, will file the complaint next month before the U. S. District Court in Baltimore. The suit will contend that Maryland's seven congressional districts are unconstitutional because of extreme variation in population.

The Supreme Court currently is hearing cases involving unbalanced congressional districting in Georgia and New York. Alfred L. Scanlan, Washington, D. C. attorney, briefed the committee on these, and said a Supreme Court decision against these states would establish a strong precedent for Maryland.

The state was awarded an eighth U. S. Congressman following the 1960 Census to represent its expanded population. Because Maryland has only seven congressional districts, he was forced to run in a state-wide election in 1962, and has no district to represent.

The legislature last year passed a bill endorsed by Gov. Tawes to give Maryland eight districts, but this was suspended by a citizens group's petition. Opponents of the bill claim districts it would establish would vary too widely in population. The suit to be filed also will contend that these proposed districts would be unconstitutional.

If the complaint is upheld, Maryland's present seven districts will be invalidated, and if no new districts are established before next year's elections, all eight congressmen will run at large.

"Court action has been requested as a last resort after every attempt to persuade the Governor and state legislature to pass a fair redistricting bill has been rebuffed," Dr. Roland I. Perusse, chairman of the bi-partisan committee, said.

Dr. Perusse advised that the state legislature has one last chance to pass a fair bill before the courts act. This would be in the short session of the legislature which will convene during February.

He admitted, however, that chances of passage of a bill in this session are slim, unless it were introduced as an Administration measure. This is unlikely in view of Gov. Tawes' present stand, Perusse stated.

The citizens committee requested that a special session be called to pass a redistricting bill this fall, but the Governor refused, telling the committee he preferred to wait until the referendum vote is taken on his suspended bill next November.

"The committee earnestly hopes that the Governor will change his mind, and that a fair bill will be passed in the February session, avoiding the embarrassment to Maryland of a court suit," Perusse said. "A redistricting plan approved by the committee will be introduced as a bill in February, and we will be working hard for its passage," he said.

What in the WORLD! by TED Volunteer Talent

"Marlon Brando played bongo drums here," the United Nations guide told her group of visitors. The sweep of her arm encompassed the staid General Assembly hall, majestic even in its between-sessions emptiness.

Brando was a guest star at an annual Staff Day gala, when the Secretary-General plays host to lower-echelon employees of the U.N. Secretariat.

Not that celebrities are a novelty to the U.N. The most widely known for his volunteer work is comedian Danny Kaye, globe-trotting envoy to the world's youngsters for the U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF).

But a parade of other figures of film and stage also have performed one volunteer service or another for the world organization.

Marian Anderson has sung in the General Assembly Hall at U.N. Headquarters.

Celeste Holm interviews guards, guides, interpreters and other Secretariat personnel on a weekly radio program called "People at the U.N." Basil Rathbone has been master of ceremonies for a benefit performance for the U.N. school. Greer Garson flew to New York solely to read the U.N. Declaration of Human Rights before a worldwide audience in the General Assembly Hall.

The outpouring is a multi-million-dollar array of talent—all of it cheerfully given free to the U.N.

Be Cautious With Racks

Most of our tips tell you what you can do. This time a reader offers some welcome advice on what NOT to do. His suggestion grew out of a tip that said old refrigerators could be used as smoke houses. A hot plate of hickory chips in the bottom serves as a source for the smoke. Seems that some refrigerator shelves are cadmium plated. Under intense heat, cadmium melts and if eaten with food can result in cadmium poisoning whose effects are similar to food poisoning. Unpleasant to say the least. Smoking probably wouldn't raise temperatures into the dangerous area... but don't take a chance. Replace racks or have them checked for safety by a competent authority.

BABSON

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Gives Advice To Retailers

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 28—Last week, I set forth a series of tips for housewives

...selves need tips just as much as housewives if they are to balance their budgets. Seldom before has there been such bitter competition on the retail scene as there is today. So here are some suggestions for tradesmen, based upon my many years of observation.

Great Opportunities Ahead

First of all, I want to say that Christmas business over the coming weeks should exceed previous records. Earning power is good, and employment has risen. Even more important, however, is the fact that I foresee a continuation of a good retail turnover well into 1964. So it is not a matter of retailers' preparing for just a few weeks of peak business. But during these bright times, competition will be the bugaboo. Only those retailers who are really on their toes will come out with healthy profits.

Take a good look at your establishment, your employees, your inventory, and your advertising. Be sure your store is neat, attractive, well-lighted, and near ample parking space. See to it that your merchandise is clearly visible at all levels, never cluttered so that even you are not sure where things are. Keep your stock under constant control by regular inventory checkups. Know exactly what you are selling so that you never reorder haphazardly. Clear out slow-selling items by placing them where they will get immediate attention.

Employees Can Make Or Break Profits

An astute store manager will screen employee aspirants himself. I can assure you it is worth the time. If you ask a man whether he can use a cash register and he says "yes," that is not enough. Use his references to find out whether or not (or she) will use the register honestly, or you may find some of your profits going down the drain before you have a chance even to count them. Be sure, too, that employees, after you hire them, show a real interest in the work. If they appear to be using the job as a fill-in or if they stand around wasting time between paydays, replace them at once.

Whether you operate a regular store or a discount house, honest and efficient help will make it possible for you to pay such workers more money because you will need fewer clerks. Never forget that a well-paid employee is a long-term asset. Nothing irritates a customer more than to be handled abruptly or discourteously. Even an unintelligent reply to a question can bring bad publicity. Because bad publicity travels much faster than good publicity, just one dissatisfied customer can do your store an awful lot of harm. Never Ignore Advertising and eye-catching window displays. Concentrate on things likely to cause people to mention your store favorably, such as friendly help, extra attention, and unusual shopping conveniences. Take full advantage of promotion material provided by many national brands, placing them where they will attract the customer and bring him inside rather than in some out-of-the-way corner where their advertising value is wasted.

I have long been a hearty booster of advertising in all its phases. Start your advertising with a tidy, well-arranged store

You will notice that the most successful merchants use a lot of newspaper space to stay in the public eye. Never underestimate the value of this type of advertising; it can often mean the difference between spectacular success and near-failure. In selecting a location, what seems to be the highest rent may be the least expensive in the long run. Get close to a parking lot. Also don't worry if you are close to a large store with a vast number of customers. A small outlet near a supermarket can count upon getting a lot of the passing traffic; but check on the supermarket's lease. In conclusion, I urge you to draw up a long lease if you have a good spot, a year-by-year lease if your location seems doubtful to you. In short, "Play ball with your supermarket."

SAFETY SIGNALS

Over 15 million American hunters will take to the woods this Fall. Here are some simple safety precautions for you to follow during hunting season. They come from shooting experts at Remington Arms Company:

Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. Never point it at anything you do not want to shoot.

Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun. And do not shoot at a flat hard surface, or at the surface of water.

Be sure your gun is unloaded when not in use and stored apart from ammunition. Remember, both gun and ammunition should always be kept beyond the reach of children!

C., who has been in their care and custody since February, 1959, and that your Petitioners entertain a deep and abiding love and affection for said child, and desire to adopt the said infant as their own child; that the natural mother of the said infant, Sara Jane Hoffman (Knox), is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address was 3755 Butler Avenue, Apartment 4, Los Angeles 66, California, and that the natural father of said child is legally unknown; that the said Glenn Castle, one of your Petitioners is 39 years of age, is self-employed as a carpenter, and earns approximately $150.00 per week; that your Petitioner, Elva C. Castle is 42 years of age, and is a housewife; that your Petitioners are members of the Caucasian race, and members of the Protestant faith; that your Petitioners have two children of their own, namely, Eugene Bruce Castle, 20 years of age, and Patricia Diane Castle, 17 years of age; and that your Petitioners can provide the said infant with a comfortable home, with proper training and environment, are willing and able to do so, and that the best interest and welfare of the said child will be promoted by the passage of a Decree of Adoption in this case.

The Petition then prays that a Decree may be passed declaring the said infant child, Terry Lynn Hoffman, to be the adopted child of your Petitioners; that the name of the said infant child be changed from that of Terry Lynn Hoffman to that of Terry Lynn Castle; and for such other and further relief as the nature and equity of their case may require.

It is thereupon this 7th day of November, 1963, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Petitioners give notice to said non-resident of the object and substance of this Petition, by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 14th day of December, 1963, commanding her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 14th day of January, 1964, and show cause, if any she has, why the Decree should not be passed as prayed.

SOURCES and USES OF FUNDS BY STEEL INDUSTRY, 1947—1962

From 1947 through 1962 the steel industry spent $15.3 billion on plant and equipment and $3.2 billion on miscellaneous investments and to increase working capital, or a total of $18.5 billion, according to American Iron and Steel Institute.

Depreciation provided $9.2 billion of the expended funds or about 50%. The remaining funds came from reinvested income, 29%; long term debt, 12%; and capital stock, 9%.

Profits and the expectation of future profits are fundamental ingredients in economic growth. Growth may be obtained either by increasing the resources used to produce goods and services or by utilizing these resources more effectively. Profits are necessary to attract the additional capital necessary to increase the amount of resources which a business can use; they are also necessary in attracting capital for making improvements in productive efficiency.

Profits, which in turn make possible economic growth, benefit everyone—the employee, the consumer and the stockholder.

TRUMPETING BUGLER—The sound of a bugle still stirs a soldier's heart, but in today's Army it is usually the trumpet which is used to perpetuate the bugle's ancient tradition. A member of the 75th Army Band from Fort Belvoir, Va., Sp4 Rockwell also sounded the calls at the recent 46th Annual National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Latin Military Coups
A popular Liberal cartoonist has shown the Latin equivalent of John Q. Public agitated fearfully by a military advisor who hovers over him pointing to a cocked revolver marked Castro's Cuba. The uniformed one holds it directly in front of the Latin's face saying "Watch!" But all the while the military figure holds a dagger in the other hand, representing the military coup, ready to plunge it into the back of our Latin neighbor. Apparent meaning to Americans: right extremists are as dangerous as Communists. This oversimplification is graphic, but it is hardly adequate to describe the alternatives of our friends south of the border.

Warnings by the Kennedy administration against military takeovers in Latin America are likewise hardly a bulls-eye. There is not always a choice between constitutional democracy and military rule. In the Dominican Republic recently, for example, the choice apparently was either a Communist regime or a military junta. The assumption of power by the junta led our Senate Foreign Relations Committee to vote a ban on foreign aid to any country which overthrows an elected government by force. This could create hardship on quite a number of members of the U.N., especially if the ban were retroactive.

Latin Methods Differ

It is understandable that we Americans abhor the military strongman type of government, which for us would be unthinkable. Yet, military rule in Latin countries may not be in every instance the outrage that unthinking U. S. observers consider it to be. Our leaders in the State Department ought to have room for some broad understandings, even if the Senate Foreign Relations Committee does not. Military displacement of Latin constitutions actually can add to an effort to preserve a nation's achievements in democratic pursuits.

The Latins do not enjoy checks and balances between branches of government and between political parties as we do, nor the more solid economic and social balance that we maintain. Until stability can be achieved through the slow growth of democratic means and institutions, the vacuum draws up military action that sometimes seems required to restore discipline and order. Such a system is less than ideal, for it ignores the rule of law and risks blood and destruction. But we shall have to be tolerant of it until the system is outgrown. Struggles For Power

One use being made of military power is by the Betancourt government in Venezuela, where it is required to crush the Red terrorism and sabotage being launched from the Cuban staging point. Such determined action by Communists to infiltrate and wage political warfare has been experienced that even President Betancourt has tried to bridge the constitutional gap by using force to protect his nation from the underhanded attack against his country. In other words, it depends on whose ox is gored as to whether the militia offers protection or danger.

The Castro Communists are of course making their big effort in Venezuela. They hope to utilize enough sabotage and violence to prevent any democratic elections. If they can seize power, that will be alright with them. If not, then any sort of military dictatorship will suit them, for it might open the door for other opportunities to grab power. Trouble is their intent, and they are not particular just how they get it.

Support Red Fighters

During the summer in Cuba the Russians, already in full control of the military potential of the island, took steps to tighten their control over the "people's militia." This was a move calculated to protect their puppet from popular revolt by disarming his own militia. This is of course a Red move to control military force in a Latin country. Other efforts along this line are seen in the steady infiltration of Brazilian, Guatemalan, and other military components of various countries.

There have been seven coups by the military in Latin America since the Alliance for Progress was set up, and there may be others. A blanket charge, however, that all military coups are against U. S. interests will not stand. We would feel better if our government would explain more fully just what it wants to do in Latin America. But certainly we must encourage all efforts, such as the present regime in the Dominican Republic, that are anti-Communist. It wouldn't be a bad idea for the U. S. to call for a revolution in Cuba, except that it is a little late for that.

TODAY'S Meditation
from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

Read Psalm 95:1-9.

Therefore, my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that in the Lord your labor is not in vain. (I Corinthians 15:58. RSV).

It is easy to give thanks unto the Lord with words. Many times we have said "Thank You, Lord" for some great kindness He has bestowed upon us. However, it is most difficult at times to show thankfulness through our actions.

A "How-To-Do-It" PAINT POINTERS

If you've decided to remove wallpaper to paint a room, here's a tip that will save heartache and labor:

Be sure you remove all the glue that held the wallpaper to the wall. Otherwise, your paint won't hold uniformly.

If the wallpaper has been on the wall more than 10 years, chances are the glue used was an animal-base glue, is water soluble, and can be removed by washing down with a sponge and warm water. Be sure to rinse out the sponge frequently.

If the wallpaper was put on more recently, the glue may be a synthetic type. These are not always water-soluble and may require a special solvent, which your paint dealer can recommend. Best insurance is to sand lightly after the glue has been removed and the wall has dried. This will provide a slightly rough surface to which the paint will adhere without "creeping" after application. If an oil-base wall paint is to be used, a sealer coat should be applied first to the sanded wall. With a water-emulsion material like "Lacite" wall paint, no sealer is required. Also, you'll like the fact that the painting tools can be washed out in soapy water once the job's done.

(Du Pont Paint Information Service)

Men and nations judge or opinions of and our reverence for God by our actions. If our actions are inconsistent with our profession of faith, we present a confusing, untrue picture of God's love and saving power.

God Himself judges our thankfulness by the harmony between our outward actions and our innermost thoughts. When these two things are not in harmony, we are poor workers in His vineyard.

The world measures our gratitude to God by our actions. God measures our gratitude by our consistency—the matching of our actions with our words.

Prayer

Gracious God, search our hearts and point out our weaknesses. For Thy sake help us to become Thy true witnesses in the world by professing our faith in Christ and living in abedience to Thee, with grateful hearts. We pray in the name of Christ, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Ames. Thought For The Day

By being thankful, we find more things for which to give thanks. Edwin E. McDonald (Colorado)

Warns Against Sore Throat

With the onset of cold weather, the National Kidney Disease Foundation warns against the danger of neglecting a sore throat. The kidney disease glomerulonephritis may follow in the wake of certain "strep" infections which usually begin in the throat, the Foundation stated.

Four of five types of streptococcal bacteria seem to affect the kidney, and when an outbreak of one of these types occurs in a community, the prompt use of antibiotics can avert a later development of kidney inflammation. At the onset of a sore throat, the safe course, says the Kidney Disease Foundation, is to see your doctor; let him decide and do what must be done to avoid possible kidney complication.

The National Kidney Disease Foundation is the only national health agency uniquely and primarily concerned with the study and investigation of the kidney and the prevention and treatment of diseases which affect those organs.

Comment from the Capital —

ARE WE A NATION OF SHEEP?

by Vant Neff

Making a 100-year forecast is one thing. Having history prove it right is another.

Alexis de Toqueville, world-famous commentator on American democracy, did both.

Well over a century ago, he warned how the growth of big government could put the skids on our free enterprise system and reduce us to "nothing more than a flock of timid and industrious animals, of which the government is the shepherd."

What's more, he was right. That's exactly what's happening today.

The fact is that our government is mushrooming into a massive monster, with an insatiable appetite for power.

And as it grows bigger and bigger, it's crowding the priceless American traditions of rugged individualism, freedom and self-reliance, closer and closer to extinction.

Let's take a close hard look at what's going on.

Fifteen years ago, there were 7.1 million workers on public payrolls. Now there are 12.3 million—a jump of 73 percent. And don't expect it to stay at that.

But that's only a small part of this story. Those on the receiving end of federal program funds, and their dependents, plus those on federal, civilian and military payrolls, and their families may well add up to half the population of the United States.

Who says so? A highly respected Democratic congressman—Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

All this, of course, takes money, and in the end it's always the taxpayer who suffers. Federal, state and local taxes take away from us about 35 percent of our national income—more than third of what all people and business corporations earn.

Naturally, a big fat bankroll like this commands a lot of deference in the nation's marketplace. And well it should. One out of every five dollars spent on goods and services is spent by the government.

Now take a good look at those government dollars and you'll make an important discovery. They have strings attached to them—long strings that more often than not stretch all the way back to Washington.

When the strings are pulled, people and companies all over the country dance to whatever tune the Administration chooses to whistle. No dance, no dollars. After all, does it make sense to bite the hand that feeds you?

For the sake of example, let's say that you head up a major steel corporation. To stay solvent, you need your share of United States defense contracts. Then suppose that the government starts telling you how to run your business. Would you tell them where to go? Or would you toe the line in order to keep those defense contracts?

Or suppose you are the head of a great university with a contract to train members of the Peace Corps. The government tells you not only what you will teach but insists on passing on the members of your faculty who will be allowed to teach. Do you surrender your academic freedom or give up the Government contract?

Suppose you are a farmer. The Government offers you a subsidy with the one hand and with the other it compels you to grow or not to grow whatever the Government chooses on acreage which the Government determines, with your product to be sold at a Government-established price. Will you knuckle under or forego the subsidy?

It happens far more than you think, even though you don't read about it in your daily paper.

And there doesn't seem to be any end to it. The federal government keeps growing bigger, spending more money and acquiring more and more power.

As a result, there's practically nothing of any significance that hasn't been meddled with, in one way or another, by the administration.

For example, radio and TV stations can't operate without a license . . . who issues the license? The government, of course. But only if they decide you deserve one.

Railroads, electric-power companies, pipelines, interstate truckers and barge lines aren't permitted to set their own rates. The government tells them what they can charge.

"Management of the news"—a new polite term meaning "distortion"—has apparently become a standard government procedure. (It's no secret that the White House virtually ostracized reporters from a famous New York newspaper because the President resented something it printed.)

In labor-management relations, government meddling has been downright disastrous. It's all but hamstringing business and it's also deprived the American worker of his basic freedom to decide for himself whether he joins a union and what he settles for.

Remember that the White House has issued directives to all government agencies, even the military, virtually inviting unions to move in and sign up civilian employees.

The administration's tolerance of monopolistic unions is obvious, and leads to an inescapable question: Why?

Could it be to curry favor among unions for votes that would perpetuate an administration's existence? All this just doesn't add up to the American way of doing things. The tragic fact is that within the past few decades the government has spun a web of supports, subsidies, interventions and controls that threaten to extinguish the spirit of free enterprise.

It would be difficult to name a basic American freedom that has escaped the long arm of government. Power breeds on power, and the bigger the government grows, the more greedy its demands become.

I refuse to believe that self-reliance, thrift and freedom of the individual are obsolete and have no place in modern society.

To me, just to sit back and let the Big Government take over all of my freedoms and responsibilities, and make all the decisions would be intolerable.

How about you?

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Chickenpox
Chickenpox is something that nearly all children catch at an early age, get over in two or three weeks of itchy rash, and never have again because the first case usually causes immunity. Chickenpox usually is not a serious disease and most children recover readily with no after effects. Sometimes, however, it's not quite so simple.

The disease is caused by a virus. It usually is transmitted by close personal contact with someone already infected. Symptoms are well known to most mothers—a slight rise in temperature, loss of appetite, headache and backache. The most obvious symptom is a rash of red spots and small blisters over much of the body.

Chickenpox usually requires little special treatment. Even in cases which seem to be mild, however, it's important to call in a physician to make the diagnosis and to look for possible complications. The doctor usually advises the patient be kept in bed while the rash and fever continue.

The doctor also can recommend soothing lotions or medications to relieve the itching of the eruptions. A frequent complication of chickenpox is infection of the red spots by scratching which leaves permanent marks on the skin. There are other potential complications from the disease that can be diagnosed only by your doctor.

Adults occasionally get chickenpox, and usually are sicker than the child patients.

Chickenpox is a common childhood disease, for the most part not very serious. But it can lead to more serious conditions, and thus it's important to call your physician promptly if someone in your household gets the disease.

There are no ready answers to these questions. At St. Christopher's Hospital for Children we have developed a number of ideas based on the things we are learning about the impact of illness and hospitalization on children and their families.

A child's first encounter with a hospital is during admission. Even though the doctor and the nurse are gentle and kind, they are strangers and most children do better if the mother does the undressing, permits the nurse to help her and hold on to the child's hand while the physician does the examination.

However, some children, when frightened (apparently feeling the protection of the mother's presence), give vent to their fears and revolt to such an extent that a satisfactory examination is impossible until the mother leaves the room.

We believe that whenever feasible, the mother and the father, if he is along, should go with the child when he is taken to his room or ward. This initial visit, allowing the mother to get acquainted with the nurses and to see the child's crib or bed, is very reassuring, both to her and to the child. When the child sees the mother talk to the nurse in a friendly manner, he realizes that he also can trust the nurses.

It is usually at this point that the mother and child say goodbye until the following day, leaving the nurse the task of quieting the child. In the past this separation was unavoidable due to lack of facilities for the mother to remain with the child. Considering the emotional well-being of our pediatric patients to be of great importance, St. Christopher's new 150-bed in-patient building provides accommodations for mothers who wish to remain overnight—a first in a children's hospital. A mother's cot is placed beside her child's bed and curtains may be drawn for privacy. Adequate locker, dressing and lavatory facilities are also available on each floor.

Social Security News

W. S. King, District Manager for social security in Hagerstown, said this week that a little known aspect of the Social Security Law is the use of military credits. When a veteran who has had active military service between September 16, 1940, and December 31, 1956, retires, dies, or becomes disabled he may receive credit of $160 a month wages for each month of such military service.

This military credit does not automatically appear on the individual's earning record and can be established only at the time a claim is filed. This little known aspect of the Social Security Law has helped many veterans to become entitled to social security benefits.

Beginning January 1, 1957, all military personnel were brought under the law and deductions are being made from their pay.

Mr. King pointed out that veterans and their families should be aware of these provisions. In order to receive these credits, a veteran or his survivors must present, at the time of filing a claim, proof of military service. The most acceptable proof is a discharge certificate or other official document showing the period of service.

Any veteran or his survivor who has already applied for social security benefits has had this provision of the law applied and this type of credit established in determining his benefits.

For more detailed information on veterans and the Social Security Law get in touch with the social security district office at 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown.

How to Choose Color TV for Christmas

There's no question that color TV will be a major gift for the home this Christmas. It is estimated that some 600,000 sets will be purchased this year, many of them during the Christmas shopping season. The quandary comes in making a choice from the variety of sizes and styles that are now available.

The answers to selection can be positive and easy if the tricks of master interior decorators are applied. First, determine size. Where is the set to be placed? Compact receivers, such as the Zenith Early American-styled set shown above, are suitable for small rooms.

Larger sets include lo-boys, uprights and credenza-like consoles to cover the gamut from the average-size living room, family room or den, to spacious rooms in palatial dwellings for which the "home theatre" console combinations are ideal.

Balance in relation to other furnishings in the room, decor and woods should be considered. Color sets in Italian and French Provincial lean to grandeur and belong in larger rooms with heavier furniture. Versatile Oriental is companionable with other furniture styles and is in no way limited to oriental settings. Georgian, Danish Modern and Contemporary complete the style choice range in the new color TV sets.

Cabinets come in cherry fruitwood, walnut, maple, mahogany or blond oak to match other furnishings. Consider the dramatic possibilities of introducing a contrast. It's done by experts.

Mount Harriers Outdistanced

The Mount St. Mary's College cross-country team was nipped 56-58 by Old Dominion in the annual Mason - Dixon Conference championship meet held Saturday at Washington College, Chestertown, Md.

Old Dominion placed five runners in the first 20 to edge the second-place Mountaineers. Ed Orem, American University, led the field of 70 runners home in a driving rain, being clocked in 17:23 for the 3.2-mile course.

Thy youth is renewed like the eagle.—(Psalms 103:5).

If we use our time, our energies, our thoughts in constructive and spiritual ways we can be eternally young. The Christ Spirit should never be regarded as old, worn, dull or tired but only as eternally young.

WHEN BARBARA STREISAND stood up to sing Miss Marmelstein in Broadway's "I Can Get It for you Wholesale," she suddenly became the theatrical season's most exciting personality. On her career, Miss Streisand states, "I'm a great singer; I always knew I could sing. I think I'm a great actress. But both of these things, they're all part of the same thing. A great actress rides on emotion, she makes people feel the emotion behind the lines; a great singer does the same. You have to act to be a good singer. There's no trick in getting up in front of an audience and closing your eyes and singing. That's easy. But to get up there and keep your eyes open and look at your audience and make them feel what you want them to—that's hard." As for the future, Barbara exclaims, "I want to be famous. I don't care whether it's by singing or acting or what, I want everybody to know my name, even the cowboys!"

Barbara Streisand . . . I want to be famous

Julie Harris . . . no end to learning

Morton M. Hunt, noted authority on women and author of "Her Infinite Variety: The American Woman as Lover, Mate and Rival," urges teen girls to believe in themselves as many-sided human beings. He states that the world women are living in has made it so and has been teaching them to be many-sided persons, creatures with multiple talents and good educations, women with the desire to do many things in addition to—but not instead of—the standard female things women did in most of the past. "Modern man wants his wife to be not just his housekeeper and the mother of his children, but also his playmate, his companion, his mistress, his best friend, his wisest adviser. In short, he wants her to be all things to him—a large order, but one with a great potential for happiness."

Julie Harris, star of stage, screen and television, made her Broadway debut in Curt Goetz's "It's a Gift" in 1945. Shy, unskilled and unable to take direction, she nearly lost the role in Goetz's play, which inspired a New York critic to say that "the young lady showed promise." The road to stardom was difficult and many of her roles seemed to be too much for her, but she managed to stay in the theater, learning something new with each role. Today Miss Harris states, "I hope I will always find excitement in what I learn, and give my heart and mind a chance to grow. Pierre Auguste Renoir is a great and beautiful painter whose pictures show us the joy of living, and he said on the last day of his life, 'I think I am beginning to understand. Today I learned something!'"

GLOBETROTTERS TO APPEAR IN BALTIMORE DEC. 15

The indestructible Harlem Globetrotters, still filling the air with basketballs and laughs, have maintained a hold on basketball fans world over which apparently has no end.

Now in their 37th season, the Globetrotters, who oppose the Atlantic City Sea Gulls at the Baltimore Civic Center on Sunday, December 15, at 7 p.m. hold every major basketball record, including victories, attendance and miles traveled.

The stage on which they present their fantastic show circles the face of the globe and encompasses the greatest and most enthusiastic audience in sports.

Tickets for the Trotters first appearance of the year in the Baltimore area may be obtained at the Baltimore Bullets ticket office in the Civic Center.

Where and how did the Globetrotters acquire the hypnotic, yogilike power which they possess? How can they, year after year, enthral people to the extent millions respond to their beck and call with such wild, happy elation that in some places—Thailand, Montevideo, Bangkok, it sometimes has been necessary to quell the addicts' enthusiasm by force?

There's nothing ethereal or mysterious about the Trotters' magnetism. Owner Abe Saperstein figured out the equation that has been so successful nearly four decades ago. The formula is this: "A basketball, plus skill, plus entertainment and showmanship equals a cool million dollars a year in revenue."

The actors may give way to time, but the script remains the same. The old heroes like Goose Tatum and Marquis Haynes go and new ones like Bobby Joe Mason, Connie Hawkins, and Slim Garner come into the fold.

The full Globetrotter halftime show, including the fabulous one-legged dancer, Peg Leg Bates, will be on hand at the Civic Cent-

HUNTING CRUISE Can't find a place to hunt? Then drag out your fishing boat. It can be as helpful as an Irish setter on a covey of quail.

While the outboard is indispensable to most duck hunters, it has not been used to anywhere near its full potential in other phases of gunning, say the folks at Mercury outboards. As a result, sportsmen miss many fine hunting opportunities.

Obtain a county map and you'll see why. Observe the location of roads and you'll have an indication of the regions generally hunted. Since the average man seldom ventures more than a mile off these access routes, shade in this distance on both sides of the marked roads. Invariably you'll find blank spaces along streams which represent sections of prime hunting lands.

Such areas exist almost everywhere, even in some of the most heavily populated states where shooting territory is at a premium.

All you need to reach such spots are a boat and motor, enough water to float the rig and a well trained wife to pick you up at the end of the trip.

Be careful, caution the Mercury folks, that you use your rig primarily for transportation, not as a shooting platform. Though game laws vary, in most states a boat and motor combination is considered a vehicle and is subject to the same regulations as your auto. Since the real pleasure of hunting is the stalk, beach the craft and hunt in the customary manner.

Whatever your game, cruise hunting can be the answer. It's mainly for the guy who likes to get away from the crowd, and, if he's lucky, haul in a heavy buck the easy way. Why not check your maps tonight?

"Please, ma'am,—we don't have a drive-in window!"

E. B. O'Keefe, State coordinator for civil defense in the Western Maryland area. He says each strip is complete in the scope of its presentation, treating its topic in broad outline and providing a good introduction of the subject as a basis for further discussion.

The individual filmstrips describe and explain key points for consideration in planning for civil defense in industry, organizing the employees at the workplace, establishing fallout shelters, mass movement of employees into shelter, and relating industrial hazards to civil defense programs.

The filmstrips are available without charge through the Frederick County office of Civil Defense or the Area 1 office in Hagerstown. Assistance in arranging for or conducting the presentations may also be made with those offices.

Record Bridge Ready for Road

NEW YORK CITY'S stately new portal, the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, presents this appearance to the world as U.S. Steel workmen prepare to install the roadway structure of the record-setting link between Brooklyn and Staten Island. Fifty-one thousand tons of steel will be suspended from the four recently-completed main cables—"spun" from 145,000 miles of special steel wire—in a new construction phase scheduled to start by mid-October. Steel for the center span—the world's longest at 4,260 feet—will be towed on barges down New York Harbor from a Jersey City assembly yard operated by U.S. Steel's American Bridge Division, which is building the bridge for the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority. Ammann and Whitney, consulting engineers, designed the Narrows crossing scheduled to be opened late next year.
