BY ABIGAIL

A number of inquiries has been received through this department concerning the status of the school problem which has confronted the Town and Community for the past several years. It will be remembered that the last action resulted with the County Commissioners refusing to cooperate with any move to have the new school located half-way between Emmitsburg and Thurmont. A letter has been received from the lawyer retained to fight the case and in which he states that he has asked the State Board of Education for a hearing on the matter in the near future. At present time the situation is at a standstill and no further action is expected until the meeting with the State Board is held.

Union Bridge residents were in for a shock this week when they learned that they were in for increases in real estate taxes, sewerage service increase and water rent hiking. I can realize the resentment caused there by this sudden turn of events. When I think of the break we are getting here with our fair rate of 70c on the hundred dollars, the cheap $25 sewer rent per year and the low water usage charge, I can't help but sympathize with our neighboring towns. Really I believe Emmitsburg is the cheapest incorporated town in which to live in Frederick County . . . and we have all the facilities and necessities, and many of these are even better than more expensive towns and we get them for almost half of what our neighboring friends receive them. Even with the new water rate about to go into effect, we are still getting a break.

Emmitsburg's Youth Program is making rapid strides forward and it is expected to have the program in operation perhaps within the next two weeks. Begun a mere two months ago the plan has met with widespread approval and cooperation with members of all local churches and it is anticipatory that the program will work out splendidly and afford our teen-agers various activities the year around.

Better do that shopping today folks. Most stores here and in neighboring towns will be closed for the big holiday Saturday. Memorial Day ushers in the picnic and travel season and the roads will be heavily traveled so please be careful my friends because as usual, no amount of warning will slow 'em down and come Monday there'll be about five hundred more lying in the cemeteries. Once again, have a nice trip, but DO be careful.

Orendorff's Market In New Location

Orendorff's Food Market has moved to its new location in the Irelan Building, Center Square, from its former location in the Farmers State Bank Bldg., near the Square.

Owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. J. Laurence Orendorff, the store had operated at its former location for the past 15 years. The new store has been modernized with new lighting, shelving, show cases and air-conditioning, and features many famous brand foods. Mr. and Mrs. Orendorff are assisted in the operation of their store by their son, Laurence F.

Garden Club Holds Meeting

The May meeting of the Silver Fancy Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Clingan, Taneytown, last Thursday with 14 members present. Mrs. Andrew Eyster, president, conducted the business meeting. Various committee chairmen presented their reports. Mrs. Vernon Keilholtz brought a very lovely arrangement of blue iris for comments by the club members. Tea was served by the hostesses. The next meeting will be held June 18th at the home of Mrs. Thomas J. Frailley, Emmitsburg, with Miss Liza Carpenter and Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner as co-hostesses.

New School Superintendent Is Named

Dr. John L. Carnochan Jr., Asst. Superintendent of Frederick County Schools since last October, has been named acting superintendent to replace Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh.

The appointment was announced perintendent on June 1. Mr. Thomas, president of the Board of Education. Dr. Carnochan, who received unanimous endorsement from the school board, will begin this two-month term as acting superintendent on June 1. Mr. Thomas said the board would name the new superintendent of schools at a later date. Under state procedure, the county school boards appoint superintendents for four-year terms in August.

Dr. Sensenbaugh, who served eight years here as superintendent of schools, has resigned effective at the end of this week to become state superintendent of schools. Mr. Thomas said Dr. Carnochan was chosen acting superintendent from eleven applicants for the position. All of the other applicants were from school systems in the state and most were superintendents. The applicants were interviewed last month in Dr. Pullen's office.

Dr. Carnochan came to the county last year from the State Department of Education office where he was an assistant to Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, retiring state superintendent. Dr. Carnochan has specialized in the science and mathematics fields and is also experienced in television teaching programs.

A native of Western Maryland, Dr. Carnochan, 45, holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Western Maryland College, Westminster, and a doctoral degree from Columbia University Teachers College. He began his teaching career in 1941 at Hancock High School but resigned to enter the armed services during World War II. He resumed his teaching career in 1945 at Boonsboro High School and later taught in the Washington Street Junior High School and the Hagerstown High Schools in Washington County until 1955.

He was named principal of the Maugansville High School in 1955 and served in that position for one year before becoming principal of the Williamsport High School where he served until 1961. During 1961 and 1962 he was given a leave of absence to study toward his doctor's degree. While attending Columbia University, he worked part-time for the Harrison-West Chester County School Systems as co-ordinator of the education television projects.

In August 1962 he was appointed supervisor of the teacher recruitment program for the State Department of Education.

Dr. Carnochan currently resides in Ellicott City with his wife and six children. He is a member of the Church of the Brethren.

VFW Scholarship Is Awarded

The Scholarship Committee of the Emmitsburg Memorial Post 6658, Veterans of Foreign Wars, recently announced that Clarence Samuel Valentine has been awarded the annual VFW Scholarship, which is a $250 grant per year for four years.

The competitive examination was given on May 16 to eleven seniors from St. Joseph's High School and Emmitsburg High School. Samuel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Valentine, plans to enter Western Maryland College in September, and is the seventh recipient of this annual scholarship. The past winners are as follows:

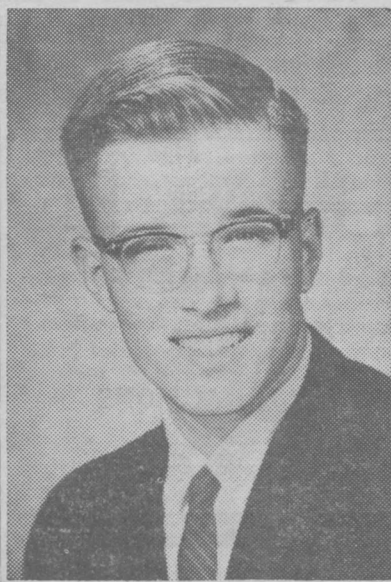

Michael Topper, graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College; Justin Wasilifsky, graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College; Jack White, now attending Johns Hopkins University; Jerry Rignour, now attending Carnegie Tech; Joyce Meadows, now attending Frostburg State College; and Lona Frock, now attending Frostburg State College.

Bogus Checks Being Circulated

State Police Tuesday reported that within the past two weeks, the Foodland Groceries at Mt. Airy has lost $540 through the cashing of four bad checks.

Besides the Groceries, four other checks for various amounts bearing the same name have been cashed at stores in Emmitsburg and Taneytown. The investigation is continuing.

Student Receives High Honor

William Merritt, senior at St. Joseph's High School has been awarded the Bausch and Lomb award for his high scholastic standing in science subjects.

Throughout the United States, educators recognize the annual Bausch & Lomb Science Award as evidence of superior scientific aptitude. This award provides appropriate recognition to senior students with the highest scholastic standing in science subjects. The Science Award—a handsome bronze medal—is presented at graduation in more than 7,500 schools. Since its introduction in 1933, there have been 154,000 winners. Surveys have revealed that more than 80% of the winners have been encouraged by the award to follow scientific careers.

The Bausch & Lomb Science Award and Scholarship Programs have been officially approved by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Lions Prepare For Horse Show

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club was held Monday evening at the Mt. Manor Restaurant, President Arthur Elder presiding. Ralph McDonnell gave a report on the Go-Cart racing at the Civic Grounds and stated it was expected that more entries would participate in the future dates for racing. The public is invited to attend the races free of charge.

President Elder appointed the following advertising committee for the coming Horse Show in July: Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Beegle, Ralph McDonnell, Clarence G. Frailley, Charles F. Stouter and Arthur Elder. The club authorized a contribution to the Vigilant Hose Company's annual financial drive.

The president announced that the newly-elected officers would be installed by District Governor Charles Joy at the June 8 meeting.

Visits World's Fair

Miss Mary Catherine Shields, 203 Homewood Ave., Waynesboro, Pa., visited the New York World's Fair for one week recently. Miss Shields is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Shields, Toll Gate Hill, Emmitsburg. Miss Shields was accompanied on vacation by two of her Alpha Iota Sorority sisters from Waynesboro: Miss Lucille A. Barkdoll and Miss Shirley Ann Adams.

The girls spent several days at the fair; shopped; saw a Broadway show; and toured many of the famous sights in New York City. The girls were guests of the Wentworth Hotel on West 49th St., near the heart of New York City.

School Patrol Visits Capital

The patrol boys of Mother Seton School went to Washington Saturday for the annual patrol outing.

The girls of the Eighth Grade of Mother Seton School held a picnic along the creek at St. Joseph's College Saturday. The picnic was preceded by a visit to the chapel and recitation of the Office of the Children of Mary. On Monday the graduating class of Mother Seton made their class trip to Washington. This trip is presented annually to the graduating class by the PTA of the school.

On Sunday, May 31, the parents-graduates luncheon will be held in the school cafeteria at 2:30 p.m. Commencement exercises will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 5.

Three Lawyers Seek Second County Judgeship

The names of three prominent attorneys were forwarded this week to Gov. J. Millard Tawes and the State Bar Association as recommendations by the County Bar Association for the newly-created second Circuit Court judge for this county.

Being recommended are Robert E. Clapp Jr., James McSherry, and Charles Urner Price. Murray H. Fout, president of the Frederick County Bar Association, stressed that the names are being presented for equal consideration with no preference being listed by the local bar association.

The names were selected for recommendations by the bar following a special meeting held Monday afternoon at the court house. The new judgeship was created for here by an act of the special session of the State Legislature this spring. The second judgeship post becomes effective June 1, indicating that Governor Tawes will act promptly on the recommendations.

Writer Recalls Johnstown Flood

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: On the eve of the 75th anniversary of the Johnstown Flood, it may be of interest to record that a group of young men from Emmitsburg went to Johnstown to help clean up the debris.

The group consisting of some dozen men, including my father, David Cassidy O'Donoghue, with George Slade as the leader, attended a dance before leaving town. They told no one of their plans and quietly slipped away after the party.

They walked the entire distance of 120 miles, taking about 5 days to arrive at their destination which can easily be covered by automobile now in 5 hours or less. On their second day, a man on horseback passed them and said he would be waiting for them in Johnstown. On the fourth day they passed the horseman, whose white horse had become lame. They had the big Tuscarora Mountain to climb as well as several other mountains, and finally rested along the Juniata River.

They spent some two weeks in Johnstown, which was under martial law, and once outside the guard lines, no one could enter or leave after dark. One night they had no tent or bunk beds, and it is said that George Slade shouted that the flood was rising, and everyone left pell mell. The mess sergeant would shout that the meal was over, and jump on the table with a broom and sweep every thing on the ground.

In the way back they hopped a freight train near Hancock, Md., and jumped off at Brunswick, and then another long walk back to town. When going through the tunnel at Bolivar Heights, they were struck by the metal guards hanging down as a warning, which was a big and exciting experience to them.

On Decoration Day, 1924, my father and his brother, Jere, were standing at the gate when Mr. Slade walked past. They talked about things in general until my Uncle Jere reminded them that it was the 35th anniversary of the Flood. My father was 19 years old at the time that they had this adventure.

John A. O'Donoghue

CAPITOL COMMENT

by Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman, 8th District, Maryland

Viet Nam—A Tragic Story
The eyes of the whole world are focused on the struggle between freedom and communism in Southeast Asia. During the past week our representatives in the United Nations have been presenting the American position forcefully. There is no doubt that we are having a real struggle with the communist expansive thrust in Southeast Asia, diplomatically, politically and militarily.

is not well enough known to the American public. At this very moment many American men are risking their lives to maintain the position of freedom in Southeast Asia. While they are there in technical positions as advisors and military trainers, they are in exposed positions and are being killed. I want particularly to call attention to the name of Captain Robert Grumet whose residence was here in our own Sixth Congressional District. Bob Grumet lived at 9211 Shelton St., in Bethesda, Md. He was killed when the plane in which he was flying failed to come out of a dive. The reason it failed was that its wings fell off and the plane plunged into a rice paddy beneath. This report port was given by eye witnesses to the tragic event.

Military Equipment Obsolete
The story was written by Scripps Howard staff writer Jim Lucas who commented that: "Here we are the most powerful nation on earth, boasting every day of our superiority in modern arms and we send our men out to fight a ruthless determinel foe with equipment long past its prime."

The T-28 in which our fellow citizen, Bob Brumet, went to his death is a trainer plane and was out-moded in 1953. It is a two-seater, propeller-driven craft. In Viet Nam they have been loading the wings with bombs and napalm. If flown long enough, the wings fall off. This is what happened to Bob Brumet.

Another plane which is being used extensively in Southeast Asia and with equally disastrous results is the B-26, a World War II attack bomber, outmoded by the end of that war. Until recently it has been flying combat missions in Viet Nam. Helicopters, while doing good service, have been another source of trouble because we are using the H-21—"flying-banana"—which is old and slow and imposes unnecessary risks on the men who fly it.

A Tragic Story
The story of Viet Nam is today a tragic story. It has been ten years since the Geneva agreements divided Viet Nam at the 17th parallel into North and South Viet Nam. The British and Russian governments are the chairmen or umpires who administer the agreement. Both sides have recognized that the steady build-up of communist military forces imposes an equal build up of American forces.

United States policy was outlined by President Eisenhower in 1954 and has been based upon a firm belief that internal stability in South Viet Nam is the key to crushing the communist insurgents. Today, however, the Anti-Communist position in South Viet Nam seems to be deteriorating and is precarious.

Our U. S. Military Personnel in South Viet Nam now number some 15,000 and over the years we have poured in two and a half billion dollars to the effort in this area. If Viet Nam is as important to us as this expenditure indicates, we should be sending the best of our equipment there to protect not only our national interest but the lives of our fellow citizens who are there fighting for us and a free world.

How many uses can you find for a candle in camp. Light, of course; waxing line; starting fire; waterproofing canoe or tent; lubricating stuck handles; keep pot hot. Also if you're starving, it can be eaten.

Scope Cover
A two-inch-wide band cut from an old rubber inner tube makes a fine scope protector in bad weather. Band fits easily over ends, keeps water and dirt off lenses. In an instant you can slip it off to bring rifle into action.

Arrow Finder
If you're bow hunting in a place where arrows get lost easily such as snow or high grass, tie a foot-long length of red yarn to each arrow. Deflection will be small. Recovering large.

Freeze Fish
Many agree the best way to freeze fish over a long period of time is to fill a milk carton with filets, then fill carton with water. Freeze the fish in a solid block of ice.

Costumed Plugs
Add to the excitement of your plugs and poppers with costume jewelry eyes. Buy imitation pearl stick pins, cut off pin to suitable length then mount in eyes by pushing into cork or wood body.

Camp Table
Salvage that used baby basinette heading trashward. A piece of light plywood replaces basinette part to make a good collapsible camp table.

What Makes A Fox Tick
Here's how to catch a fox: Place watch on ground, cover with grass. On top of this place fox trap, suitably chained and pegged. Cover trap with grass. Fox hears tickling, decides it's a mouse and pounces into trap. Pretty dumb fox!

IN GERMANY
Army Sgt. Carl S. Brown, whose wife, Mae, and son, Carl Jr., live on R3, Emmitsburg, participated in German-American Week, a goodwill event sponsored by the 2d Battalion of the 3d Armored Division's 48th Infantry near Gelnhausen, Germany, May 4 to 16. Sergeant Brown set up displays and arranged demonstrations. The Sergeant is assigned to the battalions' Communications Section. Brown is a 1953 graduate of Hagerstown High School.

Off - Job Safety Aim of Training

New York—(HK)—The average steelworker is safer on the job than off. So the steel industry, which for many years has had a better on-the-job safety record than for overall manufacturing, is setting out to do something about off-the-job accidents among its employees.

American Iron and Steel Institute asserts that a steelworker is nearly twice as safe at work than he is at leisure.

Through stepped up individual company programs, steel producers are now taking aim at off-the-job accidents. Companies have discovered that at special times of the year — Christmas holidays and vacation — employees seem to encounter more accidents.

To prevent such accidents from happening, companies are conducting special programs on various types of vacation activity that produce accidents: swimming, boating, hunting and skiing.

The programs are carried on through company publications, posters and letters to the employee's home. In discussing job safety with their men, foremen also discuss off-the-job accidents and how they might be avoided.

Traffic accidents are a major source of off-the-job accidents. Programs in driving safety and traffic accident prevention are regularly held. Home falls, another major accident producer, are studied to prevent them from occurring in the future.

Some companies have even conducted motivation research to learn whether there is a correlation between safety training and off-the-job accidents.

100 YEARS AGO

GRANT, SHERMAN NEAR RICHMOND AND ATLANTA

By Lon K. Savage

The Civil War somewhat resembled a chess match 100 years ago this week—a very bloody one, to be sure.

In Virginia and Georgia, the Federal armies of Ulysses S. Grant and William Tecumseh Sherman moved toward their respective targets—Richmond and Atlanta. But each time they moved, the Confederate armies of Robert E. Lee and Joseph E. Johnston moved too and kept themselves between the Federals and the cities they wished to capture.

Especially in Virginia was this true. There, for three weeks, Grant's huge army of 120,000 had hammered, hammered and hammered at the 60,000-man army under Lee, trying to break through it and head for Richmond. The Federal casualties had piled high—15,000 at the Wilderness May 5-7; 10,000 at Spottsylvania May 8-12; another 7,000 at Spottsylvania from May 12 through May 19, and still Lee's army held its line, firmly across the road to Richmond. Flank Move

Finally, Grant had decided he must try something new. On May 20, his army began slipping to the southeast in an effort to outflank Lee and get between him and Richmond. The Federals marched 20 miles to the North Anna River and thought they had outfoxed Lee, but when they got there, they found Lee's army there, too, still astraddle the road to Richmond. Lee was not easily outfoxed.

The two armies fought again there—it was getting to be habit. Grant's men were crossing the North Anna on pontoon bridges May 25 when A. P. Hill of Lee's army attacked one bridgehead. All along the river, the fighting spread; Hill was repulsed, and Grant got his men across, but when he got to the other side, Lee was entrenched in another one of his angular defenses—the kind that had cost so many Federal lives at Spottsylvania.

After two days of rather mild fighting, Grant pulled up and headed southeast again in another attempt to outflank Lee. This time, moving by night in the rain, he got all the way to Hanover and crossed the Pamunkey River, ready to move on Richmond only 20 miles away. But there he found his old nemesis—Lee's army, again firmly straddling the road to Richmond. The month of May ran out on him, with Lee still undefeated.

In Georgia

In Georgia, Sherman was having better luck. Swiftly, his 100,000 men had swept down through northwest Georgia behind the retreating Confederates under Johnston, and town after town—Kingston, Cassville, Eubarlee—fell into Federal hands.

At Dallas, 30 miles northwest of Atlanta, Sherman's corps under Joe Hooker came up against entrenched Confederates; Hooker attacked; other Federals joined in, and as night fell and a thunderstorm crossed the dark sky, the two armies tangled in earnest. Next morning, with many dead and much confusion, Sherman edged northeastward toward Allatoona in a flank movement of his own; Johnston threw an attack into one of Sherman's corps and was repulsed so emphatically that he fell back again toward Atlanta.

Sherman solidified his gains, but like Grant, his boss, he still had an important army between him and his target. Next week: Cold Harbor.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Romans 7:18 through 8:2. and recall to you everything I "The Helper, the holy Spirit whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything I have said." (John 14:26. Moffatt.) At seven o'clock in the morning I prayed, "O Father, make me an open channel of Thy love. Teach me to be perceptive and understanding, and to have good judgment that I may bless and help others."

But at nine o'clock, when a troublesome woman came once again asking for "a help," I was irritated, abrupt, and rather harsh. Only later did I realize the difference between my prayer and my action. I moaned inwardly, "I didn't remember my prayer."

This is the cause of so many failures; we are sincere at prayer time, our longing is deep and ardent. But in the hurly-burly of our daily work, or desire becomes diffused and vanishes.

Our task is to train ourselves, to discipline our thoughts to return hourly, or momentarily, to the deep inner remembrance of our heart's sincere desire. By such training and discipline, at length we abide, even amid outer distractions, in the awareness of the Holy Spirit's keeping and guidance.

Prayer
Dear Father, it is our true desire to follow the way of love. Let the power of the Holy Spirit keep us steadfast through every moment of this day. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Today with the help of the Holy Spirit, I shall not forget my divine purpose.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Possibilities Of World War III

BABSON PARK, Fla., May 28, 1964—Up until the present time, I had not been immediately concerned about the possibility of World War III; but with the developments in South Vietnam, I sent to Wellesley for my expert on international affairs, Donald W. K. Chun. Conditions In Cuba

With Cuba so near to us here in Florida, it receives considerable space in the leading daily papers. Of course, none of us in Florida want to do anything to help Castro. We are very much opposed to his position regarding our reconnaissance planes flying over Cuba, and are provoked over his cutting off water and other supplies from our important base at Guantanamo Bay in East Cuba. We have owned this base since we freed Cuba from Spain 66 years ago.

On the other hand, everyone in Florida, especially in Miami, feels it would be a mistake to attempt another blockade of Cuba, particularly against Britain's ships. It has been many years since I personally have been to Cuba, but delegations which have been recently feel that if we can avoid using force, Cuba will die on the vine, so to speak.

Importance Of Vietnam

Mr. Chun feels strongly that the real trouble spot in the world is South Vietnam. Laos and Cambodia compound the difficulty. Cyprus, and even the African trouble spots, are not to be compared with the Southeast Asia problem. Congress should give President Johnson and sec'y. McNamara the money necessary to protect South Vietnam. It is a key spot for checking the Communist spread in Southeast Asia. As long as the Peking Government can be held to the Chinese mainland, I believe there will be no war between the United States and Russia.

If, however, Vietnam should be lost to the Communists, the Chinese might be able to break through to the rich resources to the south. This would not only give the Chinese the necessary food for their people, but would bring several other nations immediately into the conflict to protect their own economic interests in Southeast Asia.

Southeast Asia

To begin with, France has large commercial interests in Southeast Asia. I personally believe that President de Gaulle went on his recent trip to Mexico and other countries to line up allies to prevent a collapse of Southeast Asia. De Gaulle recognizes that this would mean a great financial loss, and also a loss of prestige, to France.

But it could bring into the conflict other countries such as the Netherlands, Great Britain, Japan and possibly the Philippines. This would not necessarily involve the United States and Russia at first; but it could easily lead to World War III. Naturally, the United States does not want another World War at any time; but the Administration is particularly anxious to avoid such a catastrophe before the elections are over in November. Furthermore, Russia is now buying foodstuffs to make life more livable for her own people and for those of her satellites. If we should lose Vietnam and if the Chinese Communists should break through to the resources of Southeast Asia, the situation could worsen drastically.

What About Formosa?

I assume that our warships are now patrolling the waters in the vicinity of Formosa. At present our chief interest is Formosa—more than it is Chiang Kai-shek, who is satisfied with things as they are since he represents China in the United Nations. If, however, Red China should be admitted to the UN, as de Gaulle and certain other leaders desire, it would be a great disappointment to Chiang Kai-shek and to his wife. I do not see clearly how both Formosa and Red China could have representation in the United Nations, but this may be possible. Today, Formosa serves as a guard to the United States. We fought hard to get it; we would long hesitate to give it up.

This brings me back to the nub of my discussion on the possibilities of World War III. As long as we are able to hold South Vietnam and to keep the status quo, I have no fear of World War III in the reasonable future. If, on the other hand, the Communists should break through, it could so dislocate France, Britain, the Netherlands, the Philippines, and especially Japan, that it might start World War III. In another weekly column, I will discuss Japan in detail.

Man o' War, generally regarded as America's greatest racehorse,

Rich Harness Race At Rosecroft Raceway Tonight

Thirty five of America's top four-year-old pacers, including the brilliant pacing trio of Overtrick, Meadow Skipper and County Don, have been nominated for the pacing division of the $300,850 Harness Tracks of America championship series that includes a stop at Rosecroft Raceway in Oxon Hill, Md., tonight, May 29.

Rosecroft's HTA will carry a $10,292 purse and will match the nation's top 4-year-old pacers at one mile. The Rosecroft race will be the second leg in the seven race championship tour for pacers. The series includes a division for trotters and one for pacing mares. HTA, an association of 34 major pari-mutual tracks in the United States and Canada, sponsors this unique traveling series each year so that harness racing fans in various parts of North America can see the cream of the 4-year-olds and the sports' top drivers in action. The HTA is being raced at seven HTA tracks in six states, winding up on July 3 with a $50,000 final at Sportsman's Park in Chicago. Past winners have included such harness greats as Adios Butler, Eye Bye Byrd, Henry T Adios and Lehigh Hanover, and victory in HTA usually leads to recognition as national 4-year-old champion. This year interest in the pace centers around three horses that completely dominated the 3-year-old division last year. They are Overtrick, 3-year-old champion and fastest pacer in history on half-mile tracks with a mile in 1:57 1/5 in the Little Brown Jug; his arch-rival, Meadow Skipper, who defeated Overtrick by a neck in the fastest mile in the history of harness racing, 1:55 1/5, over the mile track at Lexington, Ky., last fall; and the powerful Canadian champion Country Don, who beat both Overtrick and Meadow Skipper on occasions last year.

Above all else, I hope that my thought for today as my last word readers do not consider my on the subject.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The experienced angler thoroughly dislikes a drag of any sort on his reel, except with fish that make such long, fast runs that they'd burn his thumb without one—he doesn't want his fishing mechanized, or automated, any more than is necessary. But drags are a boon to less experienced anglers who, without them, might break their lines through excitement in playing fish.

One of these latter almost invariably sets the drag so hard that a fish making a long run stands a good chance of breaking the line anyhow?

First: He'll generally pull line directly from the reel by hand, judging when the tension is safely below listed breaking strain.

All wrong! He's not allowing for the comparatively great friction of the line against the guides when the rod is held well up in playing a fish. This may easily add enough tension to break the line.

Second: Even though he allows for guide friction, there's another factor he's almost certain to overlook: As the diameter of line on the reel decreases during a long run, the force necessary to pull it off increases greatly—which, of course, also may lead to a break.

Third: The strongest knot possible, which is the barrel or the blood knot is, even when tied perfectly, at least a little weaker than the line without a knot. If something should, unknown to you, go wrong when you are making it or drawing it tight, there's a possibility of its weakening the line by perhaps 20 per cent.

How, avoiding these three errors, can you set the drag so that there will be no danger of a fish's breaking your line—and still so that one cannot make an unnecessarily long run, perhaps to tangle up in weeds or brush and thus be lost?

Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine suggests the following: "Tie the end of your line to something, and walk off until you have paid out the greatest amount of line that you expect a fish to take on a run. Then, pulling with the rod bent the most you'll bend it in playing one, set the drag to what you feel is a safe tension."

'Commercials' On Auto License Plates

New York—(HK)—The Motor Vehicle Registrars of 30 states have focused their sights on New York where their counterpart is engaged in court action over the use of a commercial plug emblazoned on the Empire State's 1964 license plates.

The court action stems from a dispute over whether the use of "World's Fair" instead of the traditional "Empire State" constitutes promotion of a private enterprise. An adverse court decision could result in the issuance of new plates to all New York auto owners who request it.

The interest of the 30 Motor Vehicle Registrars has been heightened by the fact that their license plates also deliver "commercials" with a similar purpose—attracting tourists.

It has been estimated that about 30 million of the nation's approximately 65 million license plates for passenger cars, carry some slogan or symbol as they course the nation's 440,000 miles of highway.

For example, three new states joined the parade this year: Delaware with "The First State," Oregon with "Pacific Wonderland," and Nevada with "Nevada Centennial." Two others switched slogans: New York, as noted, and New Hampshire which reverted to its previously perennial "Scenic" after going through 1963 as "Photo-scenic."

In fact, about the only thing plates have in common is their basic purpose—identification—and the 1958 standardization on the six by twelve inch size and uniform location of bolt holes.

Most share one other attribute—they're made of steel. For instance, the seven states accounting for 45 percent of all vehicle registrations and 43 percent of all motor fuel taxes—California, Texas, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan—all use steel plates.

Presumably this is because such plates are tough, long lasting and least expensive. And they can be made thin enough to mail economically—a pair of Illinois steel plates weigh less than six ounces.

As for the increasing diversity of slogans—they usually express what's on a state's mind. Food is the preoccupation of many: Georgia plumps for peaches, Idaho, potatoes and Wisconsin says it's America's dairyland.

Tourist attractions preoccupy others: among luring labels are Arizona's "Grand Canyon State," New Mexico's "Land of Enchantment," Louisiana's "Sportmen's Paradise," and Maine's "Vacationland."

Two states don't beckon but order tourists to come along: "See Vermont" and "Visit Oklahoma."

Many plates carry pictures, too: a tiny heart for Alabama, a mountain range for Colorado, a small sunburst for New Mexico, a cowboy on bucking bronco for Wyoming, among others.

There are those who argue that it's wrong to clutter plates up with any information other than number, name of state and expiration date. For example, M. H. Yost, one of the nation's authorities on license plates—he's had a hand in designing the license plates of many of the 50 states,—argues that license plates are a car's fingerprints and police have enough trouble spotting them hurriedly without having to separate the figures from slogans and other decorations.

Legibility accounts for the predominant use of steel in plates, says Yost, an engineer with Pittsburgh Stamp Company, producer of the dies from which most license plates are made. He points out that such plates are more rigid and otherwise more desirable than those made of other materials that have been used from time to time.

During World War II, Illinois used a pressed fiber containing soybeans that turned out to be a favorite snack for livestock and dogs. Aluminum is used in some states but others don't like its softness and consequent susceptibility to bending and pulling out of its bracket holes. Pennsylvania, for instance, is changing from aluminum to steel.

Another license plate idea that came a cropper was roof identification for easy spotting of speeders by airborne cops!

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Small Business Gains Will Follow Tax Cut

By Eugene P. Foley

Administrator, Small Business Administration

The most urgent task confronting this session of the Congress is to revise our income tax system to reduce taxes. By no single action can this Congress contribute more to expand consumer demand, reduce unemployment, improve investment opportunities, increase productivity, and prolong the higher rate of growth and vigor essential to the achievement of our national goals.

Many of the provisions of the Johnson administration tax bill will give particular encouragement to small business.

By far the greatest benefits that small business would derive from the adoption of this tax bill would flow indirectly from participating in the general expansion in the economy that would be induced by lowered taxes. Most small businesses would immediately feel the thrust of the quickening of economic activity that would flow from the substantial, broad scale tax reductions that would become effective early in 1964.

The stimulating effect of the economy of the personal income reductions would be immediate. These tax reductions would average about 20 per cent of the current tax liabilities of most taxpayers, two-thirds of which would become effective in 1964. Historical spending practices of the people indicate that from 92 to 94 per cent of these tax savings would be reflected in increased consumer purchases. The remaining 6 to 8 per cent would probably flow into increased private savings and investments.

Small businesses would be among the first to feel the thrust of the increased consumer demand.

Throughout the South, the Central, and the Western portions of the country the increased purchasing power of the farmers and their households would be reflected in increased sales by general merchandise stores, hardware stores, home equipment suppliers, farm machinery and equipment dealers, and other small business.

Similarly, small scale trade and service industries in the industrial and commercial centers of the mid-Atlantic, North Central, and other States would immediately feel the impact of the increased after-tax take home pay of salary and wage earners.

The second most important benefit that small businesses would derive from the adoption of this tax cut bill would be the direct relief that they would be accorded. The owners of a high percentage of the four million sole proprietorships and partnerships, excluding the agricultural, forestry and fishery, and personal enterprises, would experience personal income tax reductions of more than $500 million in 1964 and an additional $250 million or more in 1965.

More than one-half million small corporations with annual net profits of less than $100,000 would have their income taxes reduced by more than $450 million in 1964. These comprise more than 95 per cent of the Nation's tax-paying corporations. Collectively, the 4.5 million enterprises comprising the small business community constitute more than 95 per cent of all American business firms and account for about 40 per cent of the total business volume.

Quite obviously, they, and the 30,000,000 people for whom they provide gainful employment, have a stake in the adoption of this tax bill. All of us who are particularly interested in the welfare of small businesses will greatly benefit through this tax cut.

after all, comparison is an instinctive human trait.

We compare when we shop, hire a baby sitter, select a TV program, and give our vote to a political candidate. There probably isn't a thing that we do or say or think that to some degree doesn't include making a comparison.

Though the desire to compare is so much a part of us, take it from an experienced father—don't practice the art on baby.

You just can't compare your baby with any other baby. For that matter, you can't even begin to compare your baby with any of your other children. And for a very good reason too.

Every baby is an individual. The word "individual" means a single and particular being. In other words, your baby is his own sweet self. He cannot be an exact copy of any other baby.

For a time, during our son's first year, he gained a little over three pounds a month. We compared him with the baby across the street who was gaining hardly two pounds a month and decided we were raising a giant. Our doctor assured us our baby was normal and healthy and that his gains were in keeping with his large frame.

"Every baby," said our doctor, "develops according to his own schedule."

As we left the doctor's office, there was our neighbor in the waiting room. She had compared her baby to ours and had come to ask the doctor if she was raising a midget.

The folly of comparing one baby with another became even more evident when our daughter was born. Where the girl was early, the boy was late. Where the girl was fast, the boy was slow. Did this mean the girl was brighter than her more leisurely brother?

When we considered each child as an individual, it was quite evident that both were bright. Only the attributes, the special qualities that each possessed, were different. They're still different. The curious, fast moving little girl who poked her nose into everything is preparing for a newspaper career. The slow, easy going little boy who hummed himself to sleep, is now playing in a symphony orchestra.

LEGAL

NO. 20,652 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND
JANE R. HOOD
VS.
DONALD WAYNE HOOD

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant, Jane R. Hood, from the Defendant, Donald Wayne Hood.

The Bill states in substance that the parties were married on August 16, 1963, by Reverend W. W. Weaver, a regularly Ordained Minister of the Gospel; that the Complainant is a resident of the State of Maryland, having resided in Frederick County for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, believed to be residing at 1876 Buckingham Road, Apartment #8, Los Angeles 19, California; that one child was born as a result of the marriage, being David Moxley Hood, aged four months, who is in the care and custody of the Complainant, and whose care and custody she seeks; that the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery with women who are unknown to the Complainant at this time and that the Complainant has not condoned said adultery in any way, nor has she cohabited with the Defendant since discovering the same. The Bill prays that the Complainant be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, that the legal care and custody of the said infant child be awarded to the Complainant, and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 22nd day of May, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the said non-resident Defendant of the objects and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 27th day of June, 1964, commanding him to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1964, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

times that most boating and fishing accidents could be prevented if outdoorsmen would observe a few simple precautions.

Good manners and common sense in boating will prevent most accidents. Don't overload the boat; have life preservers for each occupant; don't stand up or change seats in a small boat while under way; keep a watchful eye out for other boats, swimmers and fishermen, and give all a comfortably wide berth. These rules are repeated each boating season, but there still are drownings because someone ignored them. Most marine operators and many sporting goods stores have pamphlets on boating safety. Get one, study it, follow it.

Pleasure lakes and streams will be more crowded with boats this season than ever before, and there's even less room for the hot-rodder with an inclination to buzz the dock, dash through an anchorage or buzz another boat. The hot-rodder is just as dangerous on water as on land, both to others and to himself.

Fishing is highly recommended by your doctor as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear those mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries. Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it. Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor will use the shank to push the hook out, point foremost. This is less painful and causes less damage.

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with hooks: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point with a small cork.

Local Cooperative Meeting Date Set

The local Southern States Cooperative annual membership meeting for the Emmitsburg area will be held August 26 at the Trinity Methodist Church.

This decision was made by local farmer-members at a recent annual planning conference held by Emmitsburg Feed and Farm Supply, local Southern States Agency. Special features of this year's session will be the showing of color slides of local farmers taken with their own enterprises and reports on Southern States Cooperative and the local Agency operations for the fiscal year which ends June 30.

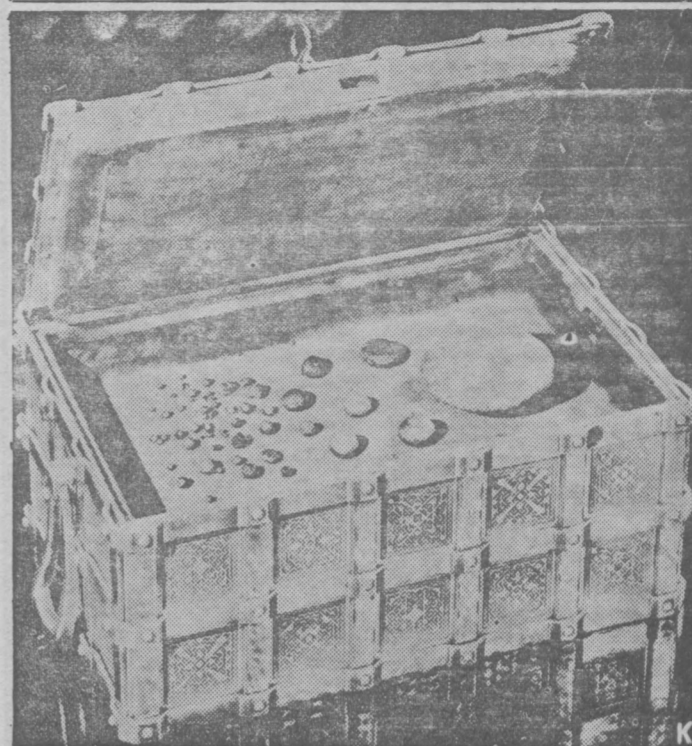

In addition, there will be special recognition of young farmers and homemakers plus the showing of a film entitled "Credit Where Credit is Due," which was produced by the Farm Credit Administration.

The annual meeting will also feature elections and other business matters. Members will elect two new board members and two new farm home advisory committee members.

What you don't worry about keeps someone else awake.

What Is It?

It's aluminum! The first nuggets of aluminum created by electrolytic process in 1886. The metal and the company that introduced it—Alcoa (Aluminum Company of America)—are both celebrating their 75th Anniversary.

Just three-quarters of a century ago, one of today's most widely used substances was as rare as one of its more costly oxides, the sapphire.

The process to obtain it economically was discovered in a woodshed laboratory. It was first offered commercially in 1888.

It is light, bright, non-magnetic. Its resistance to corrosion far surpasses that of steel, its chief competitor.

It is used in a thousand products—from missiles to such everyday things as cooking utensils and appliances, storm windows and doors, packaging and zippers.

Today this versatile metal plays a key role in your life. Annual U.S. per capita consumption now is 29 pounds, and rising rapidly!

DELIVERY AND DRIVE-IN SERVICE

MEMORIZE!-

By DICK MANSFIELD

Memorial Day promises a long holiday weekend for many and will entice extra thousands of motorists to the highways. Week-enders will be dashing off for three days of fun before they return to the old grind. Others will be taking short drives to enjoy the beautiful spring weather. Too many, warns the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, will throw caution to the winds when it comes to traffic safety. Thinking only of the holiday, they will cut loose on already crowded highways, endangering not only their own lives but the lives of others. They will be dangerous demonstrators of the truth that "Speed Kills." Motorists adhering to the Do's and Don'ts of good safety practices can help make possible a safe and enjoyable holiday. So, Do drive within the posted speed limits—Don't follow too closely—Do obey all traffic signs—Don't drink and drive—Do display courtesy at all times—Don't drive when overly tired—Do limit number of miles you try to cover—Do give the pedestrian the right-of-way.

Let's cheat death out of this holiday and follow the above rules of the road. It will enhance your chances and prove that highway safety makes driving fun.

The Fulbright Controversy

Distinguishing myth from reality, and vice versa, is quite a task for the American citizen today. This strife-torn world is complex enough, without having to endure the senseless quarrels touched off by some of our biggest names in Washington who call for realities but live in a foreign relations dream world. The public debate following the Fulbright pronouncement was useful in the sense that dialog helps determine action in democracy. But time is precious, and the basic argument (if any) rather silly. Not even in an election year, we believe, should such talk bring a slowdown in this nation's effort to lead the free world away from the entrapments and snares of Communism.

Some noises are made for U. S. voters; others for Mr. Khrushchev's ear. But there is such a thing as seeking truth and trying to speak it. There exist certain old realities, we think, that need repeating lest the new generations forget. There are differences between good and evil, we think, and the conflict is likely to continue for a long time. It makes a difference which side you're on. Morality must concern the American people, even more so because of the existence of immoral, tyrannical dictators practicing their crimes throughout the world. Mr. Fulbright mostly ignores these realities, but the American people cannot afford to do so.

A World Half Free
What appears to be a developing reappraisal with Communism, if indeed it is to become a fact in our foreign policy, could set this nation back toward defeat and loss of world leadership. Senator Fulbright's suggestion that we have no proper quarrel with nations which practice their repugnant ideologies within their own frontiers can hardly be the reflection of American thought, either as it is or ought to be. While we believe in self-determination of peoples, no one conceives this to have taken place in either Russia, China, or Cuba. If the people of a nation really want Communism, so be it. But that is not the way Communism comes to power.

Surely the world is too small today for any American to announce with resignation that he is unconcerned whether his neighbor is free or slave. We have thought to make the world safe for democracy in times past, and more recently to help establish what passes for representative government in emerging lands. This new isolation the Senator proposes would take the State Department, if it has not already reneged in its duties, completely out of the battle against Communism. Apparently this is what the Senator wants.

Whose Policies?

It need not be supposed that any of these strange proposals were voiced without consultation with the White House, even including Mr. Rusk's disagreement with the Senator about Cuba. This technique is well-known for playing both ends and the middle, whenever the vote is needed. People can see through this. The liberal-style isolationists, however, who appear ready to throw any nation to the Communist bear including our own, are so enraptured with the new Fulbright Manifesto that they remain unaware of any play for votes other than their own.

President Johnson's recent assurance that general war is impossible is perhaps the biggest and most dangerous myth of all. At home, these statements are cherished by the peace-at-any-price crowd and better-red-than-dead fellows. Abroad, they bring more doubts about U. S. leadership among our allies and more plans for aggression from the Communists. Why should we reassure a ruthless foe, who has vowed to destroy this nation as we know it, that war is impossible? Improbable and unlikely, yes. Impossible, no.

Danger Of Flexibility

That we have nothing to fear from the Communist world is the developing myth that destroys us. These new "flexible," "realistic," and "open-minded" policies fall right in with the "peaceful coexistence" plans of Mr. Khrushchev. The Soviet leader has said that capitalist countries follow two trends toward socialist countries, one militant and aggressive, the other moderate and sober. The latter he much prefers at the moment, since it leads to some form of coexistence and follows the Lenin advice to "struggle for peace." In other words, he can still practice his own aggression within that framework.

If these new policy suggestions are developed from the test-ban treaty and the Fulbright line, then Russia will have experienced its own political breakthrough at our expense.

Mustang leads the stampede the big Ford started. This has been the hottest sales year in Ford Division history. We have a winner in the Super Torque Ford, a car so well built, so predictably tough, that competition-modified Fords took eleven of the last twelve NASCAR 500-mile races. Ford sales are up 17% this year. We have a luxury car that's taken off like a skyrocket: Thunderbird, with sales up 68%. Falcon is selling almost as many cars as Valiant and Chevy II combined. Fairlane continues to be a favorite in its own field. Now comes Mustang...

turning the trend to Ford into a downright stampede. Mustang, by any measure of sales or excitement, is the most successful new car ever introduced in America—ever. When you see a stampede, it makes sense to find out what started it. That's something only your Ford Dealer can tell you about.

Tips On Lake Fishing

EVERY LAKE offers built in clues to good fishing grounds. Here are some to watch for when fishing new waters.

Bays and coves. These usually have underwater weed beds which attract pickerel, northern pike, largemouth bass and pan fish. Fish over the weeds but don't neglect the outer fringe where hunkers prefer to lurk and pounce on passing bait fish.

Long, stony points. These are often the beginnings of reefs which extend well into the lake and which draw smallmouths and walleyes. Find the ridge with a sounding weight and drop anchor. If the water drops off sharply on both sides, you've found a likely spot.

Sleep, rocky shorelines. These usually indicate deep water, and a bottom strewn with boulders. Smallmouths love such a jumble, and the sheer shoreline is thus a tip-off to good fishing which nobody can miss.

Any sharp drop-off. These are seldom visible, yet they should be anticipated, and prospected for, at the outer limits of all flats and shallows which continue out from shore a considerable distance. Such flats often end by dropping abruptly into deep water, and the end of the shelf can be found by sounding. Fish just over the lip and you should have action.

The mouth of an inlet. Many a whopping trout and landlock salmon has been taken by a fisherman shrewd enough to explore the mouth of a mere trickle of spring water, and the cool water will attract other species as well. Approach slowly and carefully and cast a long line; fish in these spots are very easily spooked.

Underwater springs. Spring holes are magic spots which will produce even when hot weather has killed the fishing everywhere else. They are hard to locate and perhaps your best bet is to be kind to strangers and hope that some kind hearted local fisherman will let you in on the secret.

Most of a lake's secrets can be discovered by prowling and probing and lake fishing is such that, when you find where the fish hang out, you usually have it made.

Any fishing questions? Send them to me, in care of this newspaper.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my dear mother, Emma F. Wills, who passed away four years ago, May 30, 1960.
I stood beside your bedside
And saw you pass away
Oh how well I remember
Four years ago today
She was just a plain dear mother
With a loving smile each day
Always tried to do for others
As she journeyed on her way
To those who have a mother
Treat her with loving care
You will never know her value
Till you see her vacant chair.
Loving Daughter

Safety Stressed For Holiday

Traffic accidents take no holiday and Memorial Day travelers are advised by The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission to step up their vigilance while driving, especially during this weekend when thousands of motorists will be crowding the highways throughout the country. Too many will be intent on cramming as much activity as they can into one brief holiday weekend, ignoring good driving precepts, which too often result in injury or death, Paul E. Burke, Executive Director of The Maryland Traffic Commission, warns.

Last year eight people were killed and 462 injured in automobile accident during the 4-day Memorial Day Holiday weekend in Maryland. A large percentage of these unnecessary deaths and injuries can be attributed to the over-confident and complacent drivers, points out the executive director. He urges all drivers to be realistic and concentrate fully on the task of driving. He cautioned against speeding, drinking and driving, and complete disregard of traffic laws. He said, "Super highways can be dangerous to those not accustomed to them." He warned drivers not to drive at speeds too fast for them to handle. Even drivers with experience on these modern high speed roads must guard against the hypnotic effect in driving on long straight stretches of highway and they must watch out for fatigue. Fight fatigue with frequent stops, for a stretch, and some refreshment, Burke warned.

Driving when you are ill or after you have been drinking definitely makes you a menace to yourself and to anyone you meet. Avoid mounting tension which can be a prelude to an accident. The person who is agitated and tense frequently makes errors in judgment, and his impatience goads him into taking foolish chances. The intelligent driver allows himself enough time to reach his destination in comfort. He has time to treat pedestrians and other drivers courteously—he conserves his energy, his temper and really enjoys driving.

Driving is a full-time job, Burke advised, one that demands the entire concentration of the driver, both physically and mentally. He must anticipate the worst from others, the weather and the road. Over-confidence, like alcohol and fatigue, have no place behind the wheel of an automobile. Drive defensively—it pays off in "safety" dividends.

Phone Co. Lists Appropriations For Improvements

The board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland has approved during the past 12 months expenditures totaling over $76-500,000, according to L. Mercer Smith, vice president of the company.

This total includes more than $2,900,000 authorized at the board's recent meeting on May 25.

Approval was granted to spend about $507,000 for five major projects in the Baltimore Metropolitan area.

For the company's Westminster district, approval was granted to spend $100,000 to construct a building at Mt. Airy to house dial switching equipment to serve this area. Approval was also given to spend $124,000 to provide subscriber line and dial central office equipment additions at Elkton, Hampstead and Bainbridge.

For Western Maryland, an expenditure of $97,000 was approved to erect a new dial center building to replace the present dial central office at Mt. Savage. For Oakland, authority was granted to spend $56,000 to provide additional voice channels between Oakland, Bittinger, Kitzmiller and Gorman, West Virginia and to furnish three telegraph channels between Cumberland and Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hemler and daughter, Gettysburg, visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fitz, on Sunday.

Taneytown Budget Record High

The Taneytown Town Council met last week to establish a $116,000 budget for the Carroll County town in the fiscal year beginning on July 1.

This was a $7,000 increase over the $109,000 budget for the current fiscal year.

The tax rate for the coming fiscal year was not set at the special budget meeting but a town official said that it would remain at the present rate of 85 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The tax rate will be set at the regular meeting after the Taneytown elections on June 1. The town has received enough increased income in the past year to cover the entire budget rise, a council member said.

Twenty cents of the 85-cent town tax rate goes to cover a special assessment for the Taneytown sewer bond issue which reduces the town debt by $30,000 per year. The total sewer bond issue, entered into about eight years ago on a 40-year basis, was $1,300,000 plus interest.

The second largest item in the budget is $20,000 which is the calculated cost in the next fiscal year of a continuing program of street repair, maintenance and construction.

The only notable new item included in the budget for next year was $2,395 for the construction of a tennis court in Municipal Park which will be so constructed that it can be used as a community ice skating rink during the winter.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS FACTS

"Even though an applicant may not be found eligible for social security disability insurance payments, he still may have gained an advantage by filing claim for these benefits," said W. S. King, Social Security District Manager at Hagerstown. He explained that applicants are referred to the State Vocational Rehabilitation agency. These agencies have helped many disabled persons to overcome their handicaps and become self-supporting.

He also stated that the requirements for disability payments under the social security program are: (1) that the individual has worked for at least five of the ten years before his impairment prevented him from working; and (2) that his condition be one that prevents him from doing any substantial work.

Mr. King cautioned that application for the disability payments must be filed within 18 months after the disability began, since any further delay could mean a loss of benefits.

The fact that an individual has been found eligible for cash disability benefits does not mean that he can never work again. The social security law provides that his payments will continue for a trial work period and he may receive payments for as long as 12 months after returning to work.

In this way, the law encourages a disabled beneficiary to return to work, if he can possibly do so.

Dependents of disabled workers may also be eligible for cash benefits and the law also provides benefits to the disabled sons and daughters of workers who have retired or died. In such cases, the son or daughter must have been disabled before age 18.

Persons having any questions about this part of the social security program are urged to call at the social security office, 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown, for further information.

Reader Objects To Modernization

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I can't claim residency in Emmitsburg but since I've been a young boy my summers have been spent there. I have some fine memories and I count the old grove to be the best of the lot. I used to get some lunch, trudge up the old road and hunt nothing more dangerous than some turtle; if I got lucky, maybe I would find some old .22 shells in the dirt. Not being exactly a pius kid, I didn't pray to often, but the place had a feel about, you didn't yell too often, and if you did you remembered and cut it short. The grotto has changed and I question this change. Modernization can only detract from the character (the reason for the modernization) of a place that gained its uniqueness from the simplicity of its mountain site. I question the need of walks, landscaping, the construction, these have increased the patronage, but at the sacrifice of sincerity. The new grotto will find its way into many picture albums but few hearts.

Sincerely, James McKenna Freshman, Notre Dame, Indiana.
