Hardly anyone is cognizant of the tremendous effort being made by Town Officials to provide clean water for local consumers during the transition period of changing over to new water mains in the mountainous area. The system must be maintained while workmen are presently engaged in installing all new pipes. An uninterrupted stream of clean water must be maintained at all times. Our water supply system consists of four reservoirs and presently No. 3 has been cleaned and is undergoing a go-around for the first time in a number of years. Supply sources for this reservoir have been diverted to the other supply stations and the flow of water continues uninterrupted. Beginning at Rainbow Lake, actually Reservoir No. 4, there extends down through the mountain and three other reservoirs a vast network of new pipelines destined to bring to Town adequate supplies of pure water, the best in the State. At the present time things are working out beautifully but should there be heavy rain consumers are apt to face a cloudy condition of the water. Under construction now is a large steel reservoir tank, in the proximity of No. 3 Reservoir and should a heavy down-pour occur during this construction period there is apt to be some cloudiness experienced in the clouds until the water from this particular reservoir can be diverted.

A trip to the scene will prove interesting to those who are interested in such matters as to the origin, base of supply, chlorination and purification and density of supply of our water. Without question management of the installation of the new system has been excellent and when completed will represent an outstanding asset to this community. There are quite a number of residents and property-owners who need new service connections to their homes at this time but the Town workmen are hard-pressed right now with the installation of the new system and Town Officials ask the indulgence of these individuals until some time in the near future when all these secondary matters can be attended to, and I know they will be.

Rumors have it there has been quite a few nightly sessions of "drag" racing on Old Route 15 north of Town. Since the new by-pass road was put into operation traffic on the old road has been reduced to a trickle. Practically the only ones using this section of the road are those who live in the area. It is reported that groups of young drivers have been using this strip of highway as a "drag" strip. The death of a young boy there this week indicates that police will keep a sharp eye on the area in an effort to break up this foolhardy practice of racing by youthful drivers.

Property-owners in the East End who will be affected by the new Rt. 15 by-pass are at a loss why the State Roads Commission insists on coming right in on the Corporation limits of the town when there are acres and acres of empty fields all about this section. Affected will be three valuable homes at the edge of Town and really folks, it seems senseless to disturb these homes when there is so much vacant land in the area. In addition the Town itself may be forced to relocate the sewer and water lines in the area due to the decision by the Commission to come right inside the Town with the new by-pass. Before anymore damage is done to these properties the Commission would be wise to re-examine the whole situation and perhaps move the new road another hundred feet east, thereby not damaging any houses and eliminating needless expense to the already heavily overburdened taxpayers.

100 YEARS AGO

COLD HARBOR: GRANT LOSES 5,000 IN HOUR

By Lon K. Savage

"I have always regretted that the last assault on Cold Harbor was ever made," General Ulysses S. Grant wrote in his Memoirs late in his life. That battle, fought 100 years ago this week, furnished ample reason for Grant's regret, for seldom in history have so many men been shot down in such a short time to accomplish so little.

Cold Harbor was actually a three-day battle, but it climaxed in one horror-filled hour on the morning of June 3. Five thousand Union soldiers fell within those 60 minutes—many of them shot to death and many others shot down in a "no-man's land" where they bled to death within calling distance of the two fighting armies.

Cold Harbor, itself, was certainly not worth fighting for. A little crossroads just east of Richmond in Virginia (it was neither a harbor nor cold), the place somehow became geographically important in the campaign between Grant's army and that of Robert E. Lee. The two armies while facing and fighting each other, had side-slipped south-eastward down from the Rapidan River all through May, and suddenly both Grant and Lee realized that Cold Harbor would be a strategic point to control.

Sheridan Arrives

Phil Sheridan, Grant's cavalry leader, reached Cold Harbor first but immediately had to start fighting to keep it, as Lee's army began moving in. Grant ordered his whole army of 113,000 men into the area at top speed, and Lee did the same with his 78,000.

On June 1, as the two armies were converging, Grant launched his first assault at Cold Harbor, and it met a modicum of success. His men broke Lee's line, and the Confederates had to fall back. The attack cost Grant 2,200 casualties—for more than Lee's losses—but still there was something of a victory for the Federals.

Next day, June 2, Lee attacked Grant's right and won a minor victory, but still the battle was far from settled. Then Grant ordered an all-out frontal attack against Lee's line for the next morning.

Lee's Defense

But in the meantime, Lee's army was building a defense to stop the best that Grant could put forth. Entrenchments ran everywhere through the Confederate position, zig-zagging in all directions in a maze from which Confederates could pour gunfire into every nook and cranny of the battlefield.

Morning came; a night-long rain ended, and out of their lines came thousands upon thousands of Federal soldiers, moving with their guns ready into the field of fire of the Confederates.

It was not just one big bloody battle but, rather, a series of smaller ones—each occupying only a few minutes. The Confederate trenches blazed forth with gunfire as the Federals approached, and the Northerners fell by the hundreds. Caught in the maze, the Federals found that they were running into a crossfire no matter which way they turned. One soldier told of seeing a whole company drop to the ground as if on command—but this company never got up.

After an incredible hour of this, the Federals had had enough. Grant ordered new charges, but they never were quite understood at the front. The men just stood or sat in something of a stupor and did not move.

Cold Harbor cost Grant 12,000 men. Lee lost about one-fourth that number.

Next week: Lincoln renominated.

The exhibit, sponsored by the John F. Kennedy Library, will include 70 photographs and many of the historic documents and personal papers associated with the Kennedy administration. Among the latter will be the President's notes on the Cuban missile crisis, the Test Ban Treaty discussions, Civil Rights and many speeches.

Also included will be actual notes President Kennedy scribbled on dinner menus, envelopes and other scraps of paper. One menu drawn up when he was serving in the Senate, shows his handwritten addition of the name "Jackie Bouvier" to the guest list.

The Kennedy Library will be built along the Charles River in Boston, on a site chosen by the President last Fall and donated by Harvard University.

The Library will be built by contributions from the American people, at a cost of $10,000,000 and then turned over to the Federal Government which by law operates all Presidential Libraries, including those of President Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower.

In the meantime work is going forward on the various aspects of the Library according to Eugene Black, former president of the World Bank and Board of Trustees of the Library.

One component of the Library will be an oral history section containing tape recorded interviews with approximately 400 national and other leaders concerning events in which they and President Kennedy participated. About 340 of the interviews are with American and the remainder with foreign figures.

This project is approximately one-half finished with 40 interviews completed and another 150 under way. It is anticipated that the interviews will be completed by the end of the summer.

Another aspect of the Library will be microfilmed copies of the records of the various governmental agencies and are relevant to major decisions made during President Kennedy's administration.

That project conducted by the National Archives also is about one-half finished, with approximately 1,500,000 records microfilmed so far. This project is expected to be completed during the summer.

Mr. Black said there are no architectural plans for the Library yet, but a committee of 19 distinguished architects and designers has submitted a general survey. Several American architects are now under consideration by the Kennedy family and it is expected a choice will be made by mid-summer.

A veteran who is permanently and totally disabled may be entitled to additional benefits if he is blind or helpless enough to require regular aid and attendance, according to the Veterans Administration.

With only seven per cent of the total Federal civilian employment, the Veterans Administration last year hired 29 per cent of the government's handicapped workers. They prove to be efficient, reliable employees.

Laurel Raceway
Readies For Opening

Laurel Raceway, ushering in its 17th season of trotting and pacing on Monday, June 15, for 32 nights, rolled out the proverbial red carpet Monday, to horsemen from near and far who began an industrious training campaign.

President and General Manager Dick Hutchison announced that the half-mile racing strip was in tip-top shape for the pre-meet rehearsals. It was over this course in 1953 that Hi Lo's Forbes inked the first "miracle mile" in the State of Maryland, completing the twice-around chore in two minutes flat.

(There have been only two other "miracle miles" in Maryland since then—in 1957 at Baltimore Raceway when Adios Harry raced in 1:59.4 and at Ocean Downs when Torpid notched a 2:00).

President Hutchison said training operations promise to be considerably more attractive than ever before, this indicated by a strong increase in stall applications. Space requests for 1,250 horses were received.

Laurel, Maryland's pioneer harness oval in 1948, will be a base of operations for many of the nation's foremost drivers. They include Billy Haughton, Johnny Simpson, Del Miller, Stanley Dancer and Del Insko, who have some of the top two-and-three-year-olds in the business, and Bucky Day, Paul Battis, Bill Hubbard, Tom Crank, Bob Cherrix, Roy Riddick, Bill Myer and Joe Eyer.

They'll be shooting for an estimated $350,000 in stakes and overnight purse money during the 32-night meet.

Racing highlights of the season will be the eight Reading Futurity classics for two-and-three-year-olds of both gait, which in eight seasons at Laurel almost always have produced top stars; and three $10,000 legs of the Atlantic Seaboard Circuit pacing series which has an aggregate value of close to $200,000.

Laurel Raceway attendance shot up last year approximately 60% over the previous year and the mutual handle was up 50%. Officials now are highly optimistic over the prospect of further gains this season in light of the current increase in public interest being shown at Rosecroft Raceway and other tracks coast to coast.

Fever Blisters

The common fever blister is primarily an uncomfortable, unsightly nuisance, one that will go away in a week or so with or without treatment.

A fever blister is caused by a virus that is known medically as herpes simplex, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. It is a group of small blisters often erupting on the lips. The blisters swell, itch, hurt. Then a crust forms and healing takes place. There seldom is a scar.

The fever blister is caused by a virus, but colds, upset stomach, menstruation, illnesses accompanied by fevers and exposure to sun and wind lower our resistance and allow the growth of the blister.

There are various preparations on the market that reduce discomfort of fever blisters. It's dubious as to whether they speed healing. Doctors advise caution in using the popular remedies. Some of them may cause irritation.

Fever blisters usually are not a serious medical problem and seldom require the attention of a physician. If you have a persistent recurrence of these annoying little sores on the lips and around the mouth, it is advisable to seek medical advice.

Read Galatians 6:1-10.
But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. (II Corinthians 9:6.)

Reaping in ratio to that which is sown, as well as reaping in kind according to what is sown, is one of the certain laws of God for His world. Another way of expressing this is that we get out of anything what we put into it.

The above is true of business, pleasure, the church, and of any other activity in which we may engage.

No doubt the reason that so many of us get so little strength and help from the church is that we put so little into it. Our time, our money, and our enthusiasm for the church are often given in too limited amounts.

How can full and satisfying stewardship come to the Christian? It will come to him only when wholehearted, joyous, and abundant sowing of all that he is and has in "plowed back" into the vineyard of God and thoroughly cultivated.

Prayer

Our Father, grant that we may out of grateful hearts joyously, generously, and unreservedly put out lives and resources to work for good in Thy kingdom. We pray in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Thought For The Day

We reap the abundant life by sowing what we are and have for God's glory and man's helpfulness.

NO. 20,546 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND
ROY LEO ANGELL VS
MARY ELLEN ANGELL

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The Bill of Complaint is a suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Mary Ellen Angell.

The Bill recites that the Complainant, Roy Leo Angell, is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant, Mary Ellen Angell, is a resident of the State of Maryland, where she has resided for more than one year last past, whose last known address was c/o Mary Woods, Boyds, Montgomery County, Maryland, but two successive summonses have been issued against the Defendant, and have been returned non est; that the parties to this cause were married on the 14th day of April, 1962, at Urbana, Maryland, by Rev. Dawson, a regularly ordained minister of the Gospel; that as a result of the said marriage no child or children were born; that the parties to this cause have voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and that the separation between the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Roy Leo Angell, be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Mary Ellen Angell, and for such other and further relief as the nature of his case may require.

ORDER OF COURT

It is thereupon this 25th day of May, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks prior to the 27th day of June, 1964, commanding her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1964, and show cause, if any, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

this year's "Open House", Saturday, June 6, to the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Homes and gardens of Tyson Street will be open for inspection from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission for this year's event is a two dollar contribution to the United Cerebral Palsy Association, 1123 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 21201. Tickets are also available the day of the Open House. A ticket will enable you to visit the homes and gardens and also attend an antique auction sale, conducted by the merchants of nearby "Antique Row" during the afternoon.

The Tyson Street community has received international attention as one of the finest examples of "urban renewal through private initiative". Most of the houses were built before 1812; and as recently as 1945, the area was considered one of the worst slums in Baltimore.

After World War II, Edward Rosenfeld, an internationally famous painter, purchased 913 Tyson Street to make it his home and studio. Within two years, all nineteen homes in the block had been bought and rehabilitated.

Dr. William Holden, president of the Tyson Street Association and resident of 920 Tyson Street, reports that more than $36,000 has been raised by the annual "Open House" since its inception.

METHODISTS TO CONVENE

The 180th session of the Baltimore Annual Conference, and the 25th since the merger of the three former branches of Methodism, will be convened June 10th in the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church in Washington with Bishop John Wesley Lord presiding. The Rev. Edward G. Latch, pastor of Metropolitan Memorial, will be host to the Conference.

The Conference will be in session through Sunday afternoon, June 14th, when the service of ordination for new ministers will be held.

This will be the first time since 1948 that the conference has met in Washington. All but two of the 25 annual sessions since 1939 have been held on the campus of Western Maryland College at Westminster, Maryland.

The Conference is expected to consider standards of merger with churches of the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction which has been ordered to be abolished by the General Conference of the Methodist Church, meeting in Pittsburgh last month. There are more than 100 Negro congregations within the bounds of the Baltimore Conference, and these churches are expected to become a part of the Baltimore Conference within a period of two years, and possibly sooner than that.

U. S. government has no interest in preserving in power (nor in imitating) a dictatorship that holds millions of political prisoners, that proposes to conquer the world, and that promotes riot and bloodshed and revolution everywhere it can. This is a Marxist regime that everywhere would replace freedom of action with state decisions and make every man a pawn to some Castro, Tito, or Ulbricht.

Mr. K's Helpers

The political nature of the planned world that the socialists see ahead has been revealed occasionaly by American planners, not all of whom are Reds.
Naturally, U. S. Communist Party officials have spoken freely of the future in store for this nation, but they have had plenty of help from various persuaders who ride the fringes of liberal politics, ready to start the revolution at the very earliest opportunity. Mr. Khrushchev has said: "We shall never forego our ideological principles. We are fighting and will fight implacably for Marxist-Leninist ideology, for the triumph of the lofty ideals of communism." He has some determined helpers on these shores.

A group of liberal eggheads recently sent a memorandum to President Johnson projecting their ideas about the new automated society ahead, with its non-workers and its state planners. Among the signers were H. Stuart Hughes, Harvard professor of history, Gunnar Myrdal, Swedish economist, and Gerard Fiel, publisher of Scientific American. The memorandum hailed an economy of abundance which would replace the economy of scarcity it thinks we have had up to now, proposing that people's views toward work and toward money would be radically altered. The present economic system, in other words, would have to be junked.
Unrecognized Crisis

Junked in favor of what?
Who will control and pay for an economy of abundance whose products are turned out largely by machines? Why, the government. The government should take over, period. The proposal therefore turns out to be a plan for collectivism: a government do-all projection that resembles the Soviet system in everything but name. The crisis that lures these liberals to such a government take-over is merely the prospect of an increasing unemployment rate. What a dismay-ing lack of faith in our own patterns of freedom!

Contrary to these dire predictions, automation may bring more jobs instead of fewer. But

LEGAL

NO. 20,652 EQUITY IN THE
CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDER-ICK COUNTY, MARYLAND
JANE R. HOOD

VS.
DONALD WAYNE HOOD

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant, Jane R. Hood, from the Defendant, Donald Wayne Hood.

The Bill states in substance that the parties were married on August 16, 1963, by Reverend W. W.
Weaver, a regularly Ordained Minister of the Gospel; that the Complainant is a resident of the State of Maryland, having resided in Frederick County for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, believed to be residing at 1876 Buckingham Road,
Apartment #8, Los Angeles 19,
California; that one child was born as a result of the marriage, being David Moxley Hood, aged four months, who is in the care and custody of the Complainant, and whose care and custody she seeks;
that the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery with women who are unknown to the Complainant at this time and that the Complainant has not condoned said adultery in any way, nor has she cohabited with the Defendant since discovering the same. The Bill prays that the Complainant
be divorced A VINCULO MATRI-MONII from the Defendant, that the legal care and custody of the said infant child be awarded to the Complainant, and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 22nd day of May, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the said non-resident Defendant of the objects and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 27th day of June, 1964, commanding him to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1964, and show cause, if any he has,
why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

the point is that anything that looks like crisis is enough to set our native socialists off on a binge to imitate the Soviets.
They must have massive public works, more power, and billions of federal spending. Where the billions would come from they do not say. But their position is that when we face crisis (manufactured or not) the government must act and provide the remedy. The real crisis is one they are unable to see: the American Way of Life is in danger because of this brand of thinking.

The Same Enemy

This kind of economic planning brings political dictatorship, simply because it takes away the freedom of individual decision and the freedom of the market. Who can deny that our economic system is superior to that of Russia? It has produced for us living standards the whole world envies. Abundance is a daily phenomenon. How can we become more friendly toward the Communists, or even think of imitating their failures and mistakes. It is beyond comprehension. This communist land is the same godless, anti-freedom, Marxist state that she has always been for the past 47 years.

And now some of our would-be statesmen are asking that America warm up to Soviet Communism: We must find the strength never to be so foolish, because we might never recover
from the consequences.

Why Catholics Believe As They Do

People on the outside often wonder why Catholics keep "running to church."

And many of them erroneously conclude that this devotion is prompted by fear rather than faith, and by a sense of obligation rather than a spirit of piety and zeal.

"Catholics," they have heard it said, "go to church because they are obliged to do so. The priests keep telling them it is a sin if they don't . . . that they risk eternal damnation if they don't obey the Church. Catholicism is a religion of fear."

It may be possible to "fool all of the people some of the time." But is it not unbelievable that literally billions of people could have been deceived over a period of nearly 2,000 years?
Could Catholicism have held the loyalty of eminent philosophers, scientists and other intellectuals down through the centuries if all it offered was a doctrine of fear and superstition?

No, your Catholic neighbor
does not go to Mass and Confession and participate in other religious devotions merely because of an obligation imposed by the Church. It is, he believes, an obligation imposed upon him by God; and it isn't fear, but the desire to serve God that prompts his religious life.

Religion to a Catholic is not merely a worthy and virtuous activity. It is an absolute duty.
It is, we believe, the means provided by God for the fulfillment of the God-given purpose of our lives. It is the channel through which we acknowledge our dependence upon God, and by means of which we give expression to our love, faith and gratitude.

Catholics believe further that we must honor God in the way
revealed through His true Son, Jesus Christ, Who commanded that we "...hear the Church." We believe that Christ established the Catholic Church and that it bears all the distinguishing marks which Christ said His Church would bear. We accept the teachings of the Catholic Church, therefore, because we believe that it is Christ's Church.
It isn't fear or superstition that impels us to do this, but clear historical fact and our own reason and intelligence.

If you would like to know all about the basic Catholic beliefs
... and the solid reasons behind them ... write today for our free pamphlet. It will be sent immediately and nobody will call on
you. More than four million people have written in for pamphlets like this ... and found enrichment for their spiritual lives. Write today for Pamphlet
No. KC-10.

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses
Value Of Small Businesses

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 4, 1964 — President Johnson's naming of last week as Small Business Week reminds me to point out to my readers the great importance of this segment of our private enterprise to the economy.

Scope of Nation's Small Companies

Too many people just naturally assume that all of the truly significant trends in manufacturing, services, and trade are established by the big corporations. They are unaware of the great forces that spring from the little independents or the influences that stem from them. How many realize, for example, that there are an estimated 4.6 million small businesses now operating in this country? If each one of these concerns were to take on just one extra employee, our unemployment would be practically wiped out overnight. Such power can scarcely be overrated on the national scene.

The government, by way of its Small Business Administration, is encouraging qualified people interested in starting their own ventures. Let me emphasize, however, that those going into business for themselves must be able end ener-

BACH — TO — BOOGIE

New York — (HK) — From torts to trombone is the thumb-nail history of Paul Lavalle, who was studying at Columbia University Law School when the sound of music lured him across upper Broadway to the Juilliard School of Music.

Ever since then the conductor, composer, arranger, gardener, golfer and sheep breeder has been — in effect — beating the band. Always fascinated by Caribbean rhythms he composed the "Symphonic Rhumba" which had its premier on NBC with Leopold Stokowski leading the NBC Symphony Orchestra. The next Maestro to leave his impression on Lavalle was perhaps the greatest of all, Arturo Toscanini. He regarded Paul Lavalle as one of the finest clarinetists and saxophonists in the business and used him regularly whenever there were especially difficult solos for either of these two instruments.

For the next two years Lavalle will be playing to the largest music audience in the world — 70 million people — where he is conducting "The Cities Service World's Fair Band of America," the official band of the New York World's Fair. He will give six concerts daily climaxing the day at 9 p.m., before the Fountain of Planets. The 50 men in the band — representing the 50 states of the union — will travel about the fair grounds in a specially constructed mobile bandstand to play at regularly designated facilities or at special and official events. As one humorist put it, the two-unit bandstand can be separated to provide live stereophonic sound.

getic people with good business sense. They must be prepared to work hard to make a go of their business. In short, they need something more than money.

Importance Of Careful Planning

Sad to say, each year many small business ventures are started on a careless "pie-in-the-sky" plan by people who lack business background and/or adequate capital. More important, many get off on the wrong foot because the original planning overlooked certain essential considerations such as market potential, proper location, competition, and operating costs. Armed largely with hope, these people soon find their business floundering, and their nest egg dissipated.

My advice, therefore, to those planning to establish a small business is: First, be sure you have a sound plan and the requisite characteristics of initiative, courage, and stick-to-it-iveness. Such people can get help from the Small Business Administration in financing; and in management training and counseling service by government experts. Let me warn, however, that while the SBA foresees a bright future for new business ventures and will render all possible help and responsible advice, it cannot guarantee the success which comes only from good planning, sound judgment, and attention to business!

Opportunities For Small Businesses

Some of the greatest opportunities yet unrealized lie in the service fields, as more people rely on others to do their "chores" for them in order to have extra time for recreation and entertainment. This "explosion" in services is shown by the fact that employment in such fields has risen from 4.7 million in 1946 to 8.3 million in 1963, a 76% gain compared with only about 20% for total employment.

Manufacturing and retailing fields offer good opportunities. The quickening pace of change today affords the small manufacturer a potent weapon to offset the stiff competition of the larger firms. His flexibility enables him to adapt more quickly to changes in demand, and to utilize new designs and production techniques. Small retail outlets, too, can offer great possibilities. The little retail store is still vital in our economy, with some 1.6 million of the nation's 2 million retailers having fewer than four employees.

Big Ideas Spring From Small Firms

Many young folk are of the opinion that they must have sizeable capital, or highly specialized training, or a rich relative in order to start a business of their own. In my lifetime, I have seen men start off with a good idea, then—with courage and persistence—turn that idea into a thriving business. The more successful of these, however, did not sprout overnight. One should be content to start in a small way and gradually build up a solid business.

If you have the characteristics of success, I urge you to

AIN'T NECESSARILY SO

A dab of paint or the addition of a little padding may be all that's needed to salvage a lure that is not producing fish.

Color and size are extremely important in influencing the decision of a fish to smash a certain plug, comment the fishing authorities at Mercury outboards. But the lure in your hand may appear entirely different when scanned by the critical eye of a roving largemouth. He may not be impressed by either its size or color.

Instead of disposing of an ineffective plug, try changing its apparent size by painting it a different shade.

Skin divers have noted that lures painted yellow appear much larger when viewed from beneath the surface. This aberration is apparently caused by reflection, plus the magnifying effect of water. The same model in a different light-absorbing color might appear nearly normal.

Yellow and white-and-red combinations have long been favorite topwater choices; their effectiveness probably derives from the reflective qualities of these colors, not the colors themselves.

But color is not the only way to achieve a false dimension. There are other ways to pad out the girth of a lure without actually adding bulk.

Ordinary flyrod bugs with stiff hackles attached so that they stick out at right angles can create the effect of a larger apparition. The same feathers placed on the tail give the appearance of a longer lure. Neither alteration affects the casting or fishing abilities to any degree, but both create an entirely different impression on fish.

So heed the hues and pad the plugs—a phoney line has been the downfall of many a lunker.

take your plans to your local bank. Every bank in every city in which this column is published is looking for new young people as borrowers as well as depositors. Therefore, first see your local bank and show them this column with my endorsement of small businesses.

OUTDOOR*SPORTING TIPS*Camp Closet

When you break camp this fall, don't take a chance of mice, pack-rats or moths chewing good woolen blankets and clothes to shreds. Combat them with as many new garbage cans as your storage needs require. Steel cans cost little, can be nested for storage. Can't be entered by pests.

Marker Buoy

Now's the time to make a marker buoy. Take an old fish line and wrap it round and round a piece of wood or plastic detergent bottle. Tie a weight to the end and store in your boat. If something falls overboard, toss marker out. Weight unwinds the line. Buoy marks the spot.

Squeaky Oarlocks

If oarlock creaks and squeaks bother you, rub with paraffin or soap to dampen.

Sure Hooked Minnow

When casting live minnows . . . or at times when you are getting strikes on live minnows, but aren't hooking the fish . . . try using two snelled hooks instead of the usual one hook. Lace one hook through minnow's back fin, the other through lips. Neither impairs live minnow's action but you can cast and catch better.

Night-Light For Crawlers

White light scares night-crawlers. A red light won't. A piece of red cellophane over lens makes collecting easier.

Hot Flame

Cement-type glue is mostly acetone. It will burn with an intense flame. Use it as a wet-weather fire starter.

Baking Soda

Baking soda is a good camp companion. It will put out a campfire, clean odor from hands, help remove pot stains and help indigestion.*Unsinkable

You can make any small boat unsinkable by glueing styrofoam strips under seats.

Corked Off

Fishing live minnows sometimes poses a problem when bottom cover is heavy. The minnow (understandably) keeps diving for cover, fish can't see it. Float minnnows in the clear with a cork fastened to long snell of hook.

Night Sight

If you have to shoot at night, wrap white handkerchief around barrel and point gun as you would your finger.

Moving to Help Unsnarl Future Traffic Problem

New York — (HK) — For all the road building and urban redevelopment going on through the nation's cities, millions still suffer the daily commuter's lot: increasing paralysis in major metropolitan areas.

How come? Reasons are not hard to find. In just 50 years the United States changed from a predominantly rural and agrarian nation to an urban and industrial dynamo. In the process people went where new opportunities awaited them—the city centers of industry.

Until 1920 the resultant urban growth was mainly upward, and these tightly packed clusters of people moved about conveniently in streetcars and railroads. But as they were increasingly rewarded by the very business that attracted them into the cities, people sought more living space.

MILEAGE RECORD

The automobile took them to it and the suburban style of life was born and still thrives. For instance U.S. Census figures show that between 1950 and 1960 population densities in the country's 167 major urban regions declined to 5,800 persons per square mile from 7,800.

In short, we have kept spreading out, using the automobile to cover the distances we have deliberately built into our lives. The Automobile Manufacturers Association reported that in 1962 Americans broke their own annual mileage record by traveling an incredible 767 billion vehicle miles.

Not surprisingly, the consequence is today's commuter woes and a growing concern with refurbishing the entire mass transit system in order to help carry the load. Atlanta, Los Angeles and Washington are just a few of the major cities studying this whole problem.

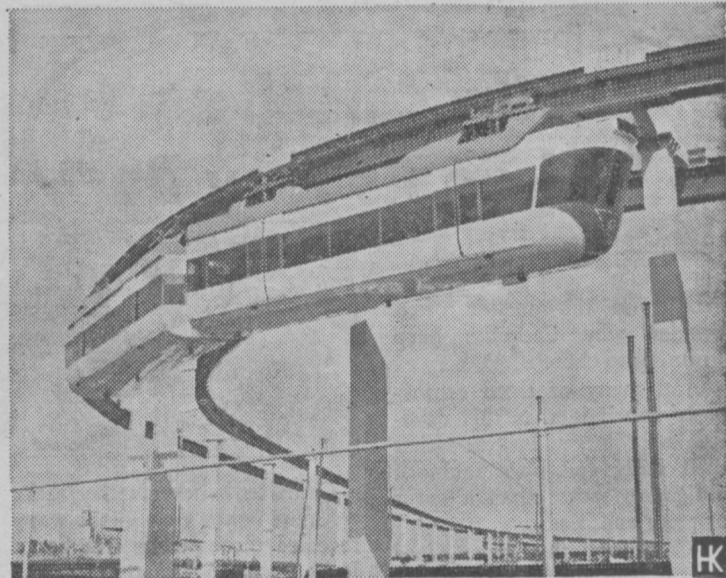

Now, the New York World's Fair has unveiled what may untie the Gordian knot of transit: Monorail. Though not the first the Monorail at the Fair again demonstrates the smooth, quiet, safe but fast ride such systems offer.

AIR SPACE

Using higher strength modern steels, the weight of the cars has been cut and the trains whiz about in secure suspension below a steel rail supported 40 feet in the air on steel pylons. Rights of way for such transit systems would be easily come by: just use the air space over existing highways and expressways.

In any case, this system at the New York World's Fair is timely evidence of the new solutions now available for the transit problem. It's long past time we looked for them. As was brought out in the course of Congress' enactment of a $500 million Urban Mass Transportation Act, by 1980 we're going to have 80 percent of our population living in 160 sprawling urban areas.

If we want to be able to move then, we'd better get a move on right now.

SEVEN-MINUTE WONDER RIDE

OUTSTANDING ATTRACTION at the New York World's Fair is the AMF Monorail train. Seven two-car Monorail trains will encircle the Fair's Lake Amusement Area, carrying passengers forty feet above the ground in air-conditioned comfort. The seven minute ride affords visitors a spectacular view of the Fair's panorama.

Loosening the Grip of Choking Sands

PALM TREES being slowly strangled by a shifting dune in Al Hasa, an oasis in the Eastern Province of Saudi Arabia. Such moving dunes threaten farm lands and roads, but the country's Ministry of Agriculture is taking important steps to thwart the strangler. In the Al Hasa area alone last year over 600,000 trees, mostly tamarisk and eucalyptus, were strategically planted to break up the contour of advancing dunes. With 40,000 acres now being irrigated and cultivated, the Ministry doesn't want its carefully nurtured rice paddies and date palms to succumb to the desert. Planting of seedlings is only one of several methods Saudi Arabia is now using to defeat the dunes. Sand fences, similar to the snow fences now used in parts of the United States to control snow drifts, have been used with some success, as has spraying the windward side of dunes with asphalt. Heavy earth-moving equipment is also used on the dunes which, through a tumbling process, can travel up to 60 feet per year.

Young Boy Killed In Bike-Car Mishap Saturday

Plans of Stuart David Brines, 14, Emmitsburg R2, to go fishing Saturday night ended in his death at 7 o'clock several hundred feet north of the Maryland line on old Route 15.

The Adams County coroner, Dr. C. G. Crist, said the youth, whose bicycle collided with a southbound car, operated by David Anthony Lingg, 21, Emmitsburg R1, died instantly of a compound fracture of the skull.

State Police, coming on the scene not far from the youth's home and but a short distance from Middle Creek, where he had apparently planned to fish, found the youth's bloody body lying on the east side of the highway. On the berm off the west side of the highway, spread over a distance of about 30 feet, were the boy's fishing rod, a lunch in a paper bag, and his crushed and twisted bicycle, the front wheel separated from the remainder of the vehicle.

Lingg's car, swung violently by the Emmitsburg man to avoid the crash, was in a field, about 20 feet from the road and several hundred feet south of the point of impact.

The right fender of the car was badly damaged. The right side of the windshield was shattered where the youth's body apparently had struck it when he was thrown from the bike.

Lingg and the four other occupants of his car told police they were driving south and came over the crest of the hill just south of the Hillside Tavern above Middle Creek.

As they came over the top of the hill, according to Lingg and the other occupants of the car, they saw the Brines boy riding toward them in their lane of the highway.

Lingg swerved his car to the left, he told police, into the north-bound lane of traffic in an attempt to avoid the boy on the bicycle. The Brines boy, apparently realizing he was in the wrong lane, also swung to the east, and the bicycle and the right front fender of the car crashed.

State Police estimated damage in the accident at $200.

He was a Ninth Grade student at Gettysburg Junior High School. A native of Nome, Alaska, the youth was a son of Thomas and Mary (Ardrey) Brines. The family resides along the Gettysburg-Emmitsburg Rd., a short distance north of Emmitsburg. The father, Major Thomas Brines, is stationed at Fort Ritchie.

Dr. Crist released the body to the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg. Arrangements were made for interment in the Mountain View Cemetery at Boulder, Colorado.

The day proved to be a very profitable and enjoyable one for all.

It pays to feed heifers, dry cows the Purina Way!

Grain feeding of heifers and dry cows is an accepted practice by leading dairymen here in the East. They do it to make more milk . . . and more money. Many report 1,000 pounds more milk during the next lactation when a dry cow is properly conditioned on Purina D & F Chow. You feed it according to body weight . . . a thousand-pound cow, for example, needs only 10 pounds a day. Purina D & F—full name, Dry and Freshening Chow—is specially designed to help build body condition, which later converts to low-cost milk. You'll find D & F in coarse or pellet form, whichever fits your feeding situation best.

Either way, it's one of the smartest feed buys on the market today. Ask for it by name—"Purina D & F"—at our Store with the Checkerboard Sign.
