Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

The citizens of Emmitsburg and surrounding territory were thoroughly amazed last Saturday as they attended the opening of the new St. Joseph's Provincial House located south of town. The weather was ideal and from the opening hour on throughout the day a steady flow of individuals threaded its way through the spacious building. It is estimated that several thousand took time out to visit and inspect the monumental building which will be formally dedicated on May 1. Nun residents of the building which represents the Mother House of all Daughters of Charity east of the Mississippi, acted as guides and gave a running description as the groups meandered through the seven miles of corridors and the new chapel. Midway through the tour guests were treated to coffee, cookies, cake and ice cream and then continued on their hour and a half journey through the three floors.

Complete astonishment reflected as groups entered the magnificent chapel. Disbelief and wonderment was registered on thousands of faces as they gazed in amazement at the beauty of the chapel. Actually I don't believe there is anything in the United States that is comparable in beauty to this chapel and all who were fortunate to see it were happy over the time spent at the scene. The new building and chapel are certain to become one of Emmitsburg's most prominent landmarks. "Out of this world" was the common ejaculation of those who viewed the chapel. The community will be eternally grateful for the kindness of the Sisters who so graciously volunteered to open the doors of their private domain to the Town of Emmitsburg and its environs.

A concrete demonstration of how our money was well spent was given during the devastating fire that destroyed the local bowling alleys and snack bar last week. Firemen were delighted and amazed at the steady pressure of the water and also the adequate supply. For four or five hours four engines kept a constant flow of water on the blaze and the pressure never wavered. This is in contrast to the massive fire that destroyed the church adjacent the Recreation Center just 15 years ago when the old water system was sorely inadequate and water had to be pumped from streams several thousand feet away. The Town can well be proud of the new municipally-owned system which will be eventually worth its weight in gold.

An Emmitsburg business establishment is happily observing its 19th anniversary today. Chouse's, operated by Walter and Edna Crouse, opened its doors to the public 19 years ago on April 2, 1946. The firm has shown steady progress and today represents one of the town's most popular shopping establishments. Happy anniversary!

The town's newest establishment, Harriett's Beauty Shop, will open its doors to the public next week when it will hold an "open house". The shop is operated by Harriett Valentine, the former Harriett Hahn, daughter of Mr. Harry Hahn and the late Mrs. Hahn, and is located in the Reave's Electric Shop building on West Main Street where the old Allison Funeral Home was located. The doors will be open to the public for inspection on April 5 from two to six p.m. Everyone is cordially invited. We wish the new enterprise the best of success.

Special Meeting Of Firemen

A special meeting of the Vigilant Hose Company has been called for Monday evening, April 5 at 8:30 o'clock in the Fire Hall. Purpose of the meeting, President John S. H. Jinger says, is to review the bids received on the erection of the new building. At the meeting the building committee will announce its plans and all bids received will be reviewed.

Mount Priest "Traditionalist" Leader

A group of Catholic men and women, claiming to represent the majority of American Catholics, made public this week the text of a "Catholic Manifesto" which it has sent to the Catholic Bishops of the United States.

Among the "suggestions", "respectfully submitted to the Bishops for their urgent consideration" are: full option and adequate opportunity to assist at Mass in the traditional Latin form; an end to mandatory "regimented" group participation at Mass, and instead full permission for individual silent participation; elimination of practices or hymns with non-Catholic overtones; continuation of such Catholic customs as genuflections and kneeling before the Blessed Sacrament; encouragement of the "eminently Catholic" devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary; "mature loyalty and filial obedience to the Pope; continuation of priestly celibacy; and only those changes in nuns' dresses which "will still allow the Sisters' uniform to remain indicative of their special dedicated position among God's people."

The appeal reserves its strongest language for what it calls "a small but well organized minority in their ivory towers isolated self-appointed so-called liturgical experts" who allegedly extorted from the Bishops all sorts of changes not called for by Catholic "public opinion."

The manifesto also states that "the liturgical conservatism is increasingly and alarmingly appearing to many as only the first phase of a broader scheme intent to 'protestantize' the entire Catholic Church." While expressing its "true respect" for all who follow their conscience, the text "in candid honesty" calls for the proclamation of the "full unadulterated doctrine of Christ's Catholic Church."

The group, calling itself the Catholic Traditionalist Movement, lists its address as G.P.O. Box 2225, New York, N. Y. 10001, and claims to echo the majority views of an opinion poll conducted among Catholics in all parts of the U.S.A. Executive Director of the Movement is Gloria F. Cuneo, a College of New Rochelle graduate who serves as substitute teacher in both the public and parochial school systems of New York City. The Movement's coordinating committee has as its Chairman the Rev. Dr. Gommara A. De Pauw, Professor of Moral Theology and Canon Law at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Mount Art Classes Are Begun

The first in a series of two-hour art classes was held at Mount St. Mary's College on Wednesday evening under the direction of Mr. Marc Starkins, director of the Gettysburg Art School and Studio, Gettysburg, Pa.

Forty students, including collegians, seminarians, and interested faculty members, are enrolled in the program which is being sponsored through the efforts of W. Richard Etchison, assistant professor in the history and fine arts departments of the college, and Francis X. Ligorano, director of the Cogan Union.

The first course was concerned with an introduction to drawing with emphasis on "Chiaroscuro", the contrasting of light and dark. The medium utilized during the first session was pencil and charcoal.

By the conclusion of the series the class will be exposed to various mediums and models including water colors, oils, still life, living models, and landscapes.

The classes will be held on Wednesday evenings from 7:15 until 9:30. Persons interested may contact the student union director.

Boyle's Store Robbed

Police are continuing their investigation of the thieves who escaped with more than $135 in cash late Monday night or early Tuesday by stealing the cash register of an Emmitsburg grocery store.

The cash register was found empty and broken Tuesday. Several boxes of cigars were also stolen from Boyle's Grocery Store on East Main Street.

Cpl. William F. Davis is investigating with Emmitsburg Police-man Wilmer E. Law.

The store, owned by Bernard H. Boyle was entered by prying open a garage door.

The four-drawer cash register was found by police along Creamery Road, which runs behind the store and between Main Street and U. S. 15.

WILBUR D. FUSS

Wilbur David Fuss, 60, a lifelong resident of Emmitsburg died Monday afternoon at 4:30 in the Gateway Convalescent Home, near Hagerstown. He had been in ill health for four years.

A son of the late Asbury and Carrie (Hawk) Fuss, he was a member of Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, and was a farmer. He was unmarried.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Alice Ohler, Emmitsburg R.D.

Funeral services were held yesterday (Thursday), from the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, with his pastor, the Rev. W. Ronald Fearer, officiating. Interment was in Mountainview Cemetery.

SOFTBALL MEETING

An important reorganizational meeting of the Emmitsburg Softball League will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Fire Hall. Much business is to be taken care of and officers for the year will be elected. All officers, players and interested persons are requested to be present at this meeting.

Fire Levels Bowling Alley, Snack Bar

An exploding deep fryer set off a devastating fire that completely destroyed the Emmitsburg Recreation Center and Bill's Snack Bar last Thursday night. Members of the Vigilant Hose Co. and the Guardian Hose Company of Thurmont battled the flames thru the wee hours of the morning and succeeded in preventing damage to the United Church of Christ which stands along the side of the bowling alley, and also the Laundry-Mat which is located across the alley to the west of the burning building.

Emmitsburg Fire Chief Sterling White said the fire broke out in the snack bar at 11:25 o'clock.

A mother and three small children were rescued by firemen from a second-floor apartment in the brick and concrete block structure across the street from the old Gem Theater.

White said occupants of three of the four second-floor apartments in the building were able to escape, some in their night clothes but Mrs. Andrew Mitchell and her three small children were prevented from escaping by heavy smoke in the stairwell. Firemen raised a ladder to a window and assisted the mother and children to the ground.

A new piece of equipment, a "Cascade Air Truck," containing tanks of air, a compressor and other equipment needed to fill air tanks of breathing masks at the scene of the fire was rushed from Frederick to assist the Emmitsburg and Thurmont firemen battling the blaze.

One of the local firemen, Jason Green, was overcome by smoke and was removed to the Warner Hospital for treatment.

White said Miss Norma Hartle and James Grindler were in the process of closing the snack bar in the front of the building, owned by William D. Boyd, when a deep fat fryer exploded. The two escaped without injury.

The fire spread from the restaurant into the bowling alley. The building and bowling alley are owned by Charles A. Harner.

The restaurant and nine-alley bowling lanes were destroyed. The roof over the one-story rear portion of the building in which the alleys were located burned through and fell onto the alleys. Two apartments were damaged. Some of the apartments suffered damage by smoke.

Preliminary damage estimates made by some of the firemen ranged up to $75,000.

Those who escaped from the apartments in addition to Mrs. Mitchell and her children were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Troxell, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Manahan, and Mrs. Alma Eyer.

Firemen, who brought seven pieces of apparatus to the scene, poured water from the Laundry-mat and Church roof adjoining the structure.

Among buildings threatened was the United Church of Christ, which was gutted by fire in 1950.

Chief White was loud in his praise of the municipally-owned water system, saying that as four engines pumped from four different fire hydrants at four various locations the pressure remained constant and that there was a more than ample supply at all times, even after many hours of peak pumping capacity. Thurmont and Frederick firemen also stated that the Town could be proud of its new water system and expressed perfect satisfaction with the pressure and flow.

Local Bowlers In Tournament

Last Saturday, the Texaco Stars of the local Ladies' Bowling League, journeyed to Hagerstown for the 35th annual National Tournament of Duckpin Bowlers. They rolled against The Pearls of Hagerstown. Sue Sanders of the local team rolled a 150 game and received a "Turner 150 Club" pin, given to her by the owner of the establishment, and she will also receive a patch.

The ladies, who bowled a set of 1541 to 1440 for their opponents, had the following scores: E. Wivell, 85-99-99-283; S. Burrier, 102-99-107-308; R. Wivell, 91-99-99-289; S. Sanders, 107-94-150-361; and D. Stouter, 97-96-117-310.

The health benefits of wholesome exercise are just as pertinent to the female as the male. Children don't outgrow crossed eyes. Eye exercises, glasses or corrective surgery may be indicated.

Adult Classes Well Received At Local College

Public reaction to the Adult Education classes to be sponsored by St. Joseph College has been most gratifying according to Sr. Madeleine, chairman of the Home Economics department and coordinator of the new program. More than 50 questionnaires have been returned in response to the first announcement publicizing the proposed course.

Although as yet no date has been set for the beginning of classes, Sr. Madeleine will keep the applicants informed as to plans, and will notify each person individually when classes will begin. The schedule will be determined by the choice of subjects of most interest to the applicants. Mrs. John J. Dillon, lecturer in Home Economics at the college and specialist in clothing and textiles, will also teach some of the courses.

Sr. Madeleine explained that the courses will be short, thus enabling the participants to pick up additional classes if they wish. Speaking for the administration, she said, "St. Joseph's is happy to be able to offer this program and thereby serve the community."

Course offerings include Art for the Home, Consumer Economics, Family Relations, Interior Decoration, Home Management, Clothing Construction, and Tailoring. If sufficient interest is shown in other courses, however, their inclusion will be considered.

Courses will run six to eight weeks at convenient times for the homemaker. If the applicants indicate an interest in summer sessions, courses will be scheduled for two-week periods in August. No educational pre-requisites are required.

Applications are still being accepted, and men or women interested in the Adult Education Program may contact Sr. Madeleine, Chairman of the Home Economics Department, St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg, Md. 21727. A survey questionnaire will be returned to them which will ask for preferences of courses and time.

Valley Home Day Scheduled For St. Joseph's

Valley Home Day at St. Joseph College will be held on Saturday, April 3, for parents of the juniors and sophomores. The occasion highlights the presentation of school rings to the junior class, and school blazers to the sophomores. The ceremonies, originally part of the long Valley Home Weekend held annually in the fall of the year, have since 1964, been observed in the spring due to the increased enrollment of the past few years. The college administrators feel, by isolating the ceremonies from the fall convocation which traditionally stresses the final days of the senior class, that the juniors and sophomores are accorded the time for proper emphasis of their achievements and responsibilities.

Rev. Martin J. Sleasman, C.M., college chaplain, opens the day's program with Mass at 11 in the college chapel. A parent-daughter luncheon follows in DuBois Hall.

Presentation ceremonies will take place in the afternoon in DePaul Auditorium. Constance Spanarelli of Rutherford, N. J., sophomore class president, will welcome the parents, and Joan Crowe of Woodridge, N. J., sophomore vice president, will explain the significance of the blazer. Singing of the class song will close the sophomores' part of the activities.

Brenda Nanley, Port Tobacco, Md., junior class president, will offer the juniors' welcome, and Rose Serio, Baltimore, junior vice president will comment on the tradition of the onyx and gold ring. Sr. Rosemary, president of the college, will make the presentations and close the ceremony with a brief address.

Mount Schedules Career Day

Speakers are: Mr. Thomas J. Murphy, personnel director, Civil Service Commission, Baltimore; Hon. Francis J. Donovan, District Court Judge, Nassau County, N. Y.; Mr. Frank A. DeFilippo, political editor, the Baltimore News-American; Mr. Leslie F. Randall, personnel manager, The Budd Co., Philadelphia; Prof. Paul Calabrisi, Ph.D., chairman of the admissions committee, George Washington University School of Medicine, D.C.; Mr. James J. ## Warner Hospital Is Accredited

The Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, is among approximately 4,200 hospitals on the accredited list of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The list, issued by the commission's office in Chicago, covers hospitals throughout the United States and its territories, including hospitals of U. S. government agencies at home and abroad.

Dr. Denver M. Vickers, acting director of the commission, said "Accreditation of a hospital means that it has voluntarily submitted to a survey of its facilities and its patient care. It is a badge of recognition which the hospital can display to its community to prove that it conforms to high standards of patient care."

If you want to paint a waterline, one good way to find it is to let your boat sit in dirty water for several days.—Sports Afield.

Interest was generated into Emmitsburg's approaching Town Election this week when two local men announced their intention of seeking election to the two Commissionerships which are now open for filing.

Town Clerk Yonnie Baker reported that Monday Incumbent Commissioner J. Norman Flax had filed for re-election to his job of Commissioner. On Wednesday, and Emmitsburg businessman, and a newcomer to local politics, Bernard H. Boyle, also filed for the office of Commissioner. There are two vacancies existing on the Board. Persistent rumors have it that at least two more individuals are interested in the offices.

For several weeks now Commissioner Flax has been announcing that he would not seek re-election but during this time friends have been "working" on him and it was not until this week that he reconsidered his position and announced his intention to again run for office.

The Town Charter has been amended this year to provide for a four-man Board of Commissioners and granting the Mayor voting privileges. Heretofore, the Town operated with a three-man Board and the Mayor had no vote.

The election will be held in the Town Office on Tuesday, April 27. Other interested persons wishing to file for office have until 10 days before the election, or Saturday, April 17, to declare their intention. It is to be noted that the Town Office will be closed Good Friday and Saturday. Mayor Ralph F. Irelan still has another year to fill out his two-year term as does Commissioner J. W. Houser.

Approximately 500 local citizens have registered to date and are eligible to vote in the coming election. The Town Clerk has been revising the list removing the names of deceased persons and those who have moved to other communities. The clerk announced the following new registrants this week:

Warthen, Monica Seton
Topper, Mrs. Gertrude
Topper, Ann Marie
Hoke, Thomas E.
Shorb, Mrs. Margaret
Storms, Rev. Louis B.
Balmer, John J.

Additional registrations will be received until 10 days before the election which would mean the registration books will close on April 17, however, the Town Office will be closed on Friday and Saturday, April 16 and 17 so the final day of registration will be April 15.

10 Die On State Highways In Week

Four of those killed were drivers; one was a passenger; and five were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in one of the deaths; speed in two; and "driver error" was present in five of the fatalities.

The highway fatalities so far this year total 129—16% above the number last year for the same period.

Phone Company
Lists Sums
For Improvements

The board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland has approved during the past 12 months expenditures totaling $87,000,000 according to L. Mercer Smith, vice president of the company.

This total includes nearly $13,000,000 authorized at the board's regular meeting on March 29.

The largest single amount approved in the March meeting was over $9,600,000 for a number of projects throughout the state for the construction and expansion of telephone facilities.

To expand and improve service in the Baltimore Metropolitan area, about $700,000 was approved for five projects. Additional dial switching and Touch-Tone equipment is planned for Cockeysville, Ellicott City, Pikesville, Reisterstown and Towson.

In preparation for the coming change to dial operation at Berlin and Snow Hill on the Eastern Shore, the board authorized more than $900,000 for additions to and the extension of the outside cable and wire networks to the new dial centers in these areas.

An expenditure of $294,000 was approved for two projects which will add underground interoffice cable facilities between Bel Air and Edgewood, and between Baltimore, Havre de Grace and Perryville. The second project is engineered to provide improved voice transmission and establish a route which will provide safer working conditions than the present railroad bridge river crossing affords.

For Western Maryland, approval was given to spend $82,500 to furnish cable for local use throughout the Frostburg area. This will free long distance facilities in the Mt. Savage-Frostburg cable heretofore utilized to furnish local service. Also $76,000 was appropriated to establish a direct trunk route between Oakland and Gorman, W. Va. to meet increased interoffice calling volumes.

For the fast growing Maryland area suburban to Washington, projects totaling over $848,000 were authorized.

The board allocated $233,000 for dial switching equipment to serve the Washington Company's Fairland Data Processing Center now under construction.

A expenditure of $295,000 was approved to provide 600 additional interoffice voice channels between the Silver Spring and Hyattsville offices.

Also $320,000 was earmarked to provide voice channels between various Washington Suburban offices and the new Arlington long distance dial switching center.

Social Security Tax Reports Due

Employers have until April 30 to file quarterly social security tax reports on wages paid their employees during the 3 months ending March 31, according to W. S.

King, Social Security District Manager in Hagerstown.

Failure to file these reports on time may cause a delay or loss of benefits due the worker and his family when he applies for payment at the time of retirement, disability, or death.

Wages paid employees in a regular trade or business must be reported even though the total wages may be small. Cash wages of household workers who work in a private home must be reported by all employers who pay cash wages of $50 or more to any employee during the calendar quarter.

The quarterly social security tax report should show the employee's name, correct social security account number, and the amount of wages paid during the quarter.

Employers who need tax forms or have questions regarding their preparation should get in touch with the Internal Revenue Service. Social security information can be obtained by calling or visiting the social security district office located at 59 North Cannon Avenue. The office hours, Monday through Friday, are from 8:45 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and the telephone number is 731-1000, Extension 1264.

Public Demands
Repeal Of Phone
Tax Law

Congress now has before it a Bill which will repeal a number of the Federal Excise Taxes now levied upon certain commodities used by the American people. A recommendation is expected to come down from the Committee considering the Bill about April 1st, with Congressional action scheduled for about June 1st.

Most of these excise taxes are "war measures" and were enacted in the first place to provide for the burden of carrying hostilities. It was expected by the American people that once the war was ended, these burdensome taxes would be repealed. But they have not been repealed, and in a few instances have been a few instances of relief accorded the taxpayer.

The present effort to get rid of these unfair and discriminatory taxes is looked upon as perhaps the last hope of discontinuing them for some time to come, and the danger is that even now certain of them will be permitted to remain. A particularly sore spot is the excise tax on telephone messages.

The telephone is now freely admitted as a practical necessity to the conduct of business as well as to general communication between individuals. It is the only public utility service so taxed. While electricity, gas, water and other household utilities are free from such burdensome levies, the telephone continues to be considered in the category with such non-essential items as jewelry and furs.

It is estimated that the average telephone user pays around $20 per year in excise taxes on his telephone bill. In the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland alone, the government collects $3,477,665 each year, and in the entire State of Maryland $16,765,959. The "take" from the entire country is about one billion dollars.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
The Board of Education of Frederick County, 115 East Church Street, Frederick, Maryland, invites bids on supplying and installing a communications system in the Brunswick High School. Specifications and proposal sheets may be obtained at the Board of Education Office. Sealed bids will be received at the Board of Education Office until 10:00 A. M. (EST), April 20, 1965. The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive informalities. BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF FREDERICK COUNTY.
JOHN L. CARNOCHAN, JR.
Secretary-Treasurer
Bid #651-B-2 1t

Telephone users should be able to use this money for other telephone service conveniences or to save it for other purchases if they so desire. This tax is a business deterrent, a drag on employment and unjust because it singles out a particular segment of the population. It should be repealed, and the time is now. Write your Congressman and Senator and urge them to get rid of this unfair, burdensome tax, a relic of war days. — Reprint Catoctin Enterprise.

Exhibits Enlarged

Richard Tawney, manager of the Emmitsburg Gas Company, announces the addition of a series of new exhibits, features and attractions for the Festival of Gas pavilion at the New York's World Fair. The Emmitsburg Gas Co. is one of the sponsoring companies for the gas industry's six million dollar exhibit at the Fair.

Included in the new features announced by Tawney are "a totally new exhibit area for the pavilion's Carousel, an expanded Gaslight Patio accenting the fun of outdoor living, new films and cookery's role throughout the Fair, live cooking demonstrations and an appliance display in the pavilion's gardens."

Tawney said that the gas industry's role throughout the Fair was "an outstanding source of pride to the industry." He said that gas was providing 80% of the air conditioning, 90% of the heating and water heating, and 99% of the cooking to the entire Fair.

Firemen's Efforts

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

We extend our hearty thanks and deepest appreciation to our local firemen and neighboring fire companies who assisted in controlling the flames at the Recreation Center. It was a hard fight and they did a marvelous job. The town is to be commended on having an ample supply of water to take care of these situations.

We regret the damage and shock to our tenants and appreciate the kindness and consideration shown us by our friends.

LEE'S LINE BREAKS; RICHMOND SURRENDERS

BY LON K. SAVAGE

Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia—the thin, gray line that was the last hope of the Confederacy—was broken wide open 100 years ago this week, never to be put back together again.

And when it broke, all that the Confederacy had dreaded came to pass in swift succession: Petersburg, the last Confederate stronghold, fell to Ulysses S. Grant's assailants; Richmond, the capital of the Confederacy, surrendered; and Lee's army reeled off in a stumbling march to the west as the fabric of the Confederacy unraveled.

The break came in a one-two-three attack by Grant's 120,000-man army in the closing days of March and the first days of April. Both presidents—Jefferson Davis in Richmond and Abraham Lincoln at City Point just behind Grant's lines—and a long roster of famous generals like Pickett, Longstreet, Meade and Sheridan were on hand for the kill.

Sheridan Attacks

Phil Sheridan with 13,000 cavalymen opened the first part of the final Federal assault March 29 by wheeling behind Grant's lines at Petersburg to the southwest, turning and plunging into Lee's right flank toward Dinwiddie Court House.

Lee fought like a tiger to the last. He sent George Pickett—the man who had led the famous charge at Gettysburg—with 15,000 men to stop Sheridan's assault, leaving the rest of the Southern line dangerously weak.

Sheridan and Pickett tangled March 30 and 31 in the rain, and Lee's gamble began to pay off. Pickett stopped Sheridan, then began driving him back.

But the odds were too great. A full corps re-inforced Sheridan, who renewed his assault next day, galloping down his line on his black horse, waving his hat in a manner that had made him famous. The men in blue went forward into the Battle of Five Forks, ripping Pickett's defenses to pieces. Suddenly Pickett's line was gone, 2,500 men having fallen in battle and another 4,500 gone as prisoners of war.

That was just the beginning. Grant knew Lee had weakened the rest of his line to stop Sheridan, and now he, Grant, ordered his full army—the whole mass of men that had been waiting for this day for nearly a year—to sweep forward.

And forward they went all along the Petersburg line in the second part of the assault. The Confederates fought tooth and nail, but they were overwhelmed. First, the Federals broke through at a single point; then they broke through at another point, and then at another and another. Then they linked up, and the whole Petersburg line had caved in.

Davis Flees

It was Sunday, April 2, and Jefferson Davis was in church in Richmond, when a messenger arrived with word of the disaster. Davis hurried from the church and that same afternoon left Richmond with his cabinet and the national archives on a special train for Danville, Va.

That afternoon, General Jubal Early's ragged army marched through the city to the west, and the word spread. Residents closed their doors and hurried from the city, bundles atop their heads. Smiling but bewildered Negroes came out onto the streets. Confederates set afire to factories to keep them out of Federal hands, and the fire got out of hand; that night, the fire swept through the city destroying nearly half of it.

Beggars and bums and underworld characters appeared, as they always do in disaster, and looting began. Liquor was found, and all that night riots and robbery continued, illuminated by the flames that ravaged the city.

Confederate Gen. Godfrey Weitzel surrendered the city to the Federals next day, and President Lincoln came in to see the place that he had been trying to capture these past four years. He visited Davis' home, sat in Davis' chair, and the North went wild with victory.

But Grant and Lee were not there. Lee stayed with his army, heading off to the west in hopes of getting provisions with which to keep the fight going. Grant was heading west too, hard on Lee's heels.

Next week: Appomattox.

Helpful Income Tax Information Listed

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws, which will help them to prepare better and more accurate returns and pay their just tax, no more, no less. Clip and save for help in preparing your 1964 tax return.

Q. My company is sending me on an extended field trip the first part of April. Can I file my return when I get back even though it might be after April 15?

A. Extensions may be granted by Internal Revenue offices if the reasons given are substantial. As there are quite a few weeks between now and April 15, it might be advisable for you to file your return before you leave.

Requests for extensions should be made on Form 2688 or in a letter. You have to supply information on whether you have filed timely returns for the past three years and whether you are up-to-date on payments of estimated tax, as well as listing your reasons for requesting the extension.

Q. Is it true that the child care deduction has been increased? If so, how much can I deduct this year?

A. The maximum deduction remains $600 for one child or dependent but goes up to $900 for two or more children. Other changes which will benefit taxpayers qualifying for this deduction are the inclusion of children under 13 years of age, rather than under 12, and the raising of the limit on income beyond which the deduction must be reduced dollar for dollar.

Q. Do I have to supply any records to take the new minimum standard deduction?

A. No, you don't. The new minimum standard deduction is to be claimed in lieu of the 10% standard deduction if it results in a larger deduction by those taxpayers who don't itemize. However, where married couples file separate returns they both must itemize or they must use the same type standard deduction.

Q. I didn't get a 1040 instruction booklet in the mail this year. Where can I get one?

A. Many banks, post offices and other public places carry stocks of federal tax forms and the instruction booklet. You can also obtain a copy at any local Internal Revenue Service office.

Q. Do I have to pay tax on the moving expense re-imbursement I received from my new employer?

A. This re-imbursement to new employees is taxable income. However, under the 1964 tax law, the costs of moving yourself, your family and your household goods and effects may be claimed as deductions on your return provided certain conditions are met. You may claim this deduction and still claim the 10% standard deduction or the minimum standard deduction.

Q. I understand there is a $100 floor on casualty and theft loss deductions. Last year, we experienced several minor losses. Taken together they exceeded $100. Can we deduct the balance over that amount?

A. No. Casualty and theft losses or property used for personal purposes must exceed $100 for each casualty or theft, and only the excess over $100 per loss may be deducted on federal tax returns. The exception to this is when a husband and wife both experience losses in the same casualty or theft. In that case there is just one $100 limit if they file a joint return. If they both lost property in the same casualty or theft all losses over $100 are deductible if properly substantiated.

Remember a theft loss should ordinarily be reported to the police, also, other substantiation should be available to establish the value of the articles involved.

Q. I should have a sizable refund this year. Can I split it up and take part in cash and part in savings bonds?

A. No. You must elect to take your refund either in cash or bonds. However, part of the overpayment may be applied to next year's tax. And then the rest taken either in cash or bonds.

For further information contact your local Internal Revenue Service office.

Now therefore, our God, we thank thee.—(1 Chron. 29.13).

If we can gather the courage to say "Thank You, God, for everything!" when we experience a trial or tribulation—and mean it—then we shall have taken the first step toward overcoming the difficulty. Every challenge is an opportunity to prove our faith in God and His goodness.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On:
The Challenge Of Lent

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 1—We have passed the midpoint of the season observed as Lent. This is a period of great religious significance to many millions of people throughout the world. Protestants and Catholics alike find it a time of commitment and renewal, a seeking of the deepest spiritual values in life. The closing days of Lent also coincide with the observance of the Passover, commemorating God's deliverance of the Jewish people from bondage in Egypt. Hence the Lenten season is a good time for all of us to ask what is wrong with the world . . . and with ourselves; and, furthermore, what we can do about it.

Better Means—
But No Better Ends

We have only to look around at our world to realize what incredible progress science and technology have made, especially in the past half-century. Processes and products, discoveries and developments not even remotely envisioned in the early years of the 20th Century have followed one upon another at so swift a pace that our minds can scarcely comprehend their possibilities. We have learned how to do a great many things. But take a closer look at our world; certainly, we have been moving fast—but where, in what direction?

As communications have broadened, the world has grown smaller. That time is long past when difficulty in one small country could be dismissed as an isolated instance which could not touch the rest of the world. A trouble spot anywhere is now an ever-intensifying danger that could plunge the whole world into destruction. We are caught in a great world struggle, in which the forces of evil seem to be prevailing. Nations everywhere are racked by hatred, violence, and brutality. The U. S. is certainly not immune . . . things have happened here that bring terror and shame to men's hearts. Spiritual Rebirth Needed

For man, with all his forward progress in probing the mysteries of science and detailing the methods of technology, has not been able to make for himself a better world. It must be a frightening experience for those with no resources beyond their own puny strengths to view the shambles man has made of the world that has been given him.

It has always been our conviction that science and technology, education and enlightenment—great as is their contribution—can go only so far in solving man's problems. Where they leave off, a Higher Force has to take over. And at this point in our observance of Lent, probably the best question each of us can ask is: "What part does God have in my own life?" For it is undeniable that we cannot simply "leave religion to the church." The church is the sum total of its people; hence the church spiritually renewed has to mean a people spiritually renewed. We can think of no better time to undertake such spiritual renewal than in this Lenten season . . . a period which is a reminder of God's unfailing promise to help those who truly seek to do His will. Back To The Bible

This should be a challenge to all of us to return again to the Bible, to read God's promises and heed His commands. If we look at the problems of this world through the eyes of man, we have to acknowledge that we cannot change human nature; but if we look at them through the eyes of God, just as surely we know that He can! We can never succeed by fighting godlessness with godlessness, indecency with indecency, dishonesty with dishonesty, or cruelty with cruelty. What we need is a return to the eternal values. We need to commit ourselves anew to the God who is greater than our highest hopes; to trust ourselves completely to His power, His wisdom, and His goodness.

It is still true that "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." We could turn back the forces of darkness and evil if we truly believed—and acted upon the belief—that God gave no idle promise when He said: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." Lent will soon be over. But Lent could—and should—mark simply the beginning of our deepening faith in the God who created us. Man has demonstrated his pitiful inadequacy; let us humbly ask God to reveal to us His abundant sufficiency.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Cosmetics

Since the dawn of civilization the human race has sought to enhance its physical appearance with cosmetics.

Cosmetics are very much a part of 20th century life in much of the world. Occasionally they can cause health problems.

Considering the millions of daily applications of innumerable cosmetics, the incidence of skin rashes and other irritations from their use is very low, says a pamphlet of the American Medical Association. Nevertheless, sufficient numbers of cases of dermatitis (skin ailments) directly traceable to the use of cosmetic products come to the attention of the dermatologist (medical skin specialist) and the manufacturer to warrant continued search for ever safer products, the pamphlet says.

Some of the skin problems that might be traceable to cosmetics are dry, scaly, itchy skin; red, swollen eyelids; rash on the neck and ears; pigmented spots on exposed areas such as the cheek, and skin problems around the fingernails.

If you suspect that a cosmetic may be causing a skin problem, the first step is to see your doctor and ask his guidance in determining the cause. To help your doctor reach a diagnosis, there are some things you can do:

Stop use of all cosmetics temporarily.

Shampoo the hair with a bland soap to remove all hair preparations.

Stop the use of all creams, including cleansing creams, foundation creams, tissue and cold creams.

Wash the face with an unscented soap.

Remove nail lacquer.

Bring to the doctor's office all cosmetics used, both old and new, for examination and testing. This includes cosmetic sponges and powder puffs.

If there has been a recent visit to a beauty parlor, obtain the names of and samples of the actual cosmetics that were used.

If the lips are not involved, the use of lipstick may be continued.

The cosmetic responsible for the skin trouble might be a new one, or it may be one that has been used for many years. The hypersensitivity might have built up gradually over a long period of time. Or, the manufacturer may have changed the ingredients.

Once the offending agent has been identified, the means of prevention of further trouble is usually simple—just avoid this particular cosmetic hereafter. Often a switch to another brand will suffice. In a few severe cases, your doctor may consult with a manufacturer to help you find a safe product. And, rarely, it may be necessary to forego the cosmetic entirely.

To make one woman happy can be an exhausting ordeal, in my experience.

What makes life interesting to me is that things always end up happily if I pay the bill.

Cool Words And Hot Bullets

In the world-wide propaganda struggle being waged with words, Defense Secretary McNamara has described the Vietnam situation, declaring that both Peking and Moscow can be expected to stir up as much trouble as they can "whenever and wherever they can do so safely without a head-on collision with the United States military power." This is so patently true and recognizable to every earnest student of Communism, for it reflects innumerable Marxist pronouncements of both theory and practice. What all Communists want, despite the factions, is world control.

Unfortunately, some American lads are having hot steel hurled at them, not words. For them it is no longer a cold war. They know perhaps better than we do, or any in Washington, something of the intent of the Communists. Out where the infiltrator's mortar fire rips runways and destroys planes, where suicide saboteurs blow barracks apart, where U. S. military advisors put their lives on the line—some words, such as McNamara's, are understool. It is very plain in South Vietnam, the would-be world conquerors have found those who stand in their way.

A Time For Strength

In no hurry to tip his hand to negotiators, President Johnson apparently wants to talk only from strength, if there is any talking done. Whether he may fear being called a "war hawk," having very nearly followed the policies Barry Goldwater advanced, his actions have shown courage. The State Department White Paper lays violations of the accords of 1954 and 1962 clearly at Hanoi's door. North Vietnam, as Secretary of State Rusk clearly points out, is not leaving its neighbors alone.

Opinion at home appears to be slowly crystallizing. Polls have shown Congressional leaders believing the "war" will have to go on, with the U. S. trying all the while for improvement of its position. The Gallup Poll in late February was reporting some two-thirds of the American people believing the U. S. is in the right to continue its efforts in South Vietnam, including air reprisals on North Vietnam. The pessimism and frustration of recent months can yet be turned into hope, if we confront Communist purpose with strength and fortitude.

Other Viewpoints

However, mail being received by Congressmen is reported to show many people favoring immediate efforts to negotiate. Negotiate what is hardly ever the point, for the question of all-out war with the Red Chinese is still a must consideration. A few Senators are raising noisy objections to a show of U. S. strength. They beg the question, like U Thant of the United Nations, that it is not a question whether the U. S. will pull out, but when. They argue that the problem does not call for military solutions, but offer no apology for the use of force by the Communists in Southeast Asia.

What we have here is a repetition of Communist expansion, the old story of takeover by stages of pressure. China was lost in an earlier crisis by weakness and because of infiltration, some of both of these in Washington. Korea was divided under the Truman doctrine of limited warfare. The Communists, being held at bay by the redoubtable MacArthur, were told that this country would not bomb their supply depots and other strategic war-making potential. President Johnson apparently does not intend to repeat this mistake.

The Needlers Again

Politically orientated as President Johnson is, he will of course be looking to elections and campaign issues as he makes his choices in South Vietnam. Either way things go, hot or cold; his opposition can make an issue of his conduct of foreign affairs. As it is, however, the position of weakness is found in his own party where voices of appeasement are to be heard. The Republicans are largely with him for showing strength in Southeast Asia. Some of his incessant needlers, talking as usual about the fear of nuclear holocaust, are the liberals.

Why should America present a weak showing before Communist world pressure? It makes no sense to knuckle under for one takeover after another, to weakly acquiesce to world conquest by Marxism. The world is waiting for us to give the word. As the cold war reaches a climax, we cannot allow the Red international conspiracy to power to box the free nations of the world into a helpless position.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The biggest bass are caught at night. Carefully kept statistics and honest answers from guides and dock owners leave no doubt about this fact.

But where do you find these big fish after dark? The simplest answer is—around cover. Said cover can be weed beds, logs, bushes, gravel bars, submerged trees and so forth. And this is logical, because cover is where the bass's food is found.

Around the aforementioned types of cover will be found worms, frogs, leeches, crawfish, insects, hellgrammites and other larvae and many smaller species of fish.

How do you locate this cover? The best way is to fish during the day and become familiar with a number of spots that have desirable underwater cover. Comparatively few big bass are taken on the surface. Nearly all are taken from a few feet down to 60 feet deep.

Of course, the very best way is to go with an experienced night fisherman who knows where and how deep and let him teach you the ways of night fishing. Hiring a good guide could be one of the smartest fishing tactics you've ever employed.

If you forget all else about night fishing, remember this one all-important point: most really big bass, those in the eight-to-ten-pound class, are caught at one most propitious moment—just as the lure drops off a root, limb, weed, rock or other underwater protuberance.

This will come as a surprise to many, too many, fishermen who think underwater cover like this is a snag to be avoided because it might cost them a lure.

Remember: to catch big bass, you've got to fish where they are, around cover. So expect to lose some lures, but use lures that are designed to come through snaggy cover most of the time.

Such lures are a weedless jig, a weedless spoon or a pork chunk on a weedless hook. "These are the three most popular basic types," asserts Homer Circle, Special Features Editor of Sports

Afield Magazine. "You can make your own variations by adding worms, hair, feathers or pork rind to the jig or spoon."

City people are more likely to get TB than rural dwellers.

Owners Urged To Care For Cars Now

Your car has been through a long, hard winter. Now that spring is just around the corner—and before your attention is drawn to other affairs—take five minutes to give the old buggy a once-over.

Your service station man will be glad to do this for you, and the five minutes you take will pay off in long hours of care-free operation during the coming months. Many service stations are clearing the decks for just such a once-over. American Oil Co., for example, is promoting a "Take Five" program to remind motorists of the importance of a post-winter check-up. Its dealers are offering attractively priced "Service For Safety" packages that take care of most of your car's needed services and adjustments. What are the things to look for during the five-minute check-up? First of all, the oil. The motor oil in your crankcase is winter weary. It's diluted with gasoline left behind when your car failed to start immediately; contaminated with water and acids that collected in the crankcase when the temperatures were low; polluted with dirt, dust and carbon. If your oil is in this shape, it can't keep your engine from rusting, nor prevent the wear that leads to engine damage and an expensive overhaul. A oil change is a good investment. Change the oil filter at the same time. That completes this important cleaning process.

Incidentally, American recommends that its customers never exceed the manufacturers' mileage or time recommendation for oil changes. To be absolutely sure, change oil at least every 60 days. Here are some other items that should be checked for safety and better performance:

Tires: Remove snow tires, rotate the others when you replace them, and check for wear and danger signals.

Batteries: Batteries have just gone through their roughest use. A quick check can tell you whether your present battery should have a fast charge or be replaced. Check the rest of the electrical system also: Spark plugs, distributor cap and breaker points, condenser, wiring.

Radiator: For best performance, drain out the winter's anti-freeze and flush.

Brakes: Have the brakes and wheel alignment checked. Don't forget a check on the steering linkage.

PCV: The positive crankcase ventilator valve (PCV) is on almost all 1963 and later model car engines. When it is working properly, it helps reduce air pollution. When it is not, it can impose an additional load on the motor oil and increase consumption, cause rough idling, and increase wear and corrosion in the engine. Have it checked.

The extended interval lubrication advertised for most new cars applies only to the chassis—actually, in most cases, only to the front suspension unit. Such items as door hinges, latches, bushings, grommets, shackles, pedal shafts and similar items need regular lubrication.

Steering linkage, wheel bearings, parking-brake cable, chassis-bearing seals must be checked regularly and lubricated when necessary. Shock absorbers, differential, exhaust pipes, brakes, mufflers, body bolts, lights and other parts need periodic checking.

This sounds like a long list. Actually, all these things can be checked very quickly and most, if not all, of the necessary repairs, replacements, and adjustments can be done at your regular service station.

The result is not only a better operating, more reliable, more serviceable automobile, but a safer one as well.

For safety and performance, say American Oil's care-care experts—take five, then take off.

farm. During the winter too much of each day was spent in barn feeding the beef or dairy herd, cleaning the barns and readying equipment for the rush of spring plantings. To help reduce this next winter, now is the time to plan your pasture program for maximum production. The time for plowing and fitting the soil for seeding and planting has arrived and in many instances this has been completed.

Farmers waited anxiously to turn out the stick and cut down barn work in order to devote more time to the pressing tasks connected with growing this year's crops. Because of this there is often the tendency to turn out the stock too early, while the grasses and legumes are still weak from winter's hibernation. The food stored in the roots kept the plants alive during the winter and is producing the first growth and leaves. The leaves are the organs of the plant which actually make the proteins, carbohydrates and fats that feed the animals. If they are grazed too soon or too closely, production is greatly reduced.

Several factors have a bearing on the speed of spring growth and production—the earliness and warmth of spring, the amount of rainfall and past farming practices which determine the amount of food stored up in the plant roots as well as the nutrients stored up in the soil. These nutrients include calcium and magnesium which are supplied by applications of agricultural limestone as well as phosphate, potash, nitrogen and other minor elements.

To avoid the temptation of turning cattle out too early or overgrazing permanent grass and legume pastures, plan for fall seedings of annuals such as wheat, rye, etc. Also make plans to apply between now and fall seedings the minerals, especially the calcium and magnesium, needed to make other fertilizers more readily available and to produce maximum plant growth rich in protein.

COMMUNITY HEALTH FORUM

Dr. James Q. Simmons, Jr., associate medical and research director of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society answers your questions on multiple sclerosis.

Q What is known about multiple sclerosis?

A Multiple sclerosis is a disabling disease of the central nervous system. Called the great crippler of young adults, it attacks the substance which sheathes nerve fibers causing nerve messages controlling movement, vision, speech and balance to be distorted, often blocked.

Q Whom does MS strike?

A MS strikes most often at young adults in the 20 to 40 age range, during the years when they should be most vital, most productive. An estimated 500,000 Americans suffer from MS and related diseases.

Q Does MS lead to total physical disability?

A Though MS can be progressive, often leading to total disability, with proper medical supervision, most MS patients continue to be active, vital people.

Q Is there a cure for MS at the present time?

A There is no specific known medical management which alters the natural unpredictable course of the disease which is one of worsening, followed by periods of improvement achieving a plateau where no change takes place. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society recommends good general medical care devoted to the prevention of intercurrent infectious illness and directed toward the control of the more distressing symptoms as they appear.

Why We Are Sure of EVERLASTING LIFE

Of all the questions that confront a human being, none is so important...none so perplexing...as:

What happens after death?

A few will contend that there is no life hereafter...that man ends his days in a blank nothingness like animals. But for most people, there is a natural and instinctive hope that life on earth is only the first step toward a more joyous eternal life to come.

This instinctive hope, however, carries with it no conclusive proof that there is a life hereafter, and no obvious "blue-print" showing how to attain it. Because of this, many are bewildered—uncertain of the earthly way of life that will determine their eternal destiny.

Catholics, of course, do not claim that they alone are capable of having a greater knowledge of eternity than is available to any one else. But where some may be confused and uncertain, the Catholic finds certainty in his Church for that time when "the night cometh that no man can work."

You may hear it said that this is only a blind and superstitious faith...that Catholics are merely "whistling in the dark"...that the Catholic Church doesn't know any more about God's plan for our destiny than does any one else.

On the contrary, Catholics believe that the way of life prescribed by Jesus Christ is God's Own plan for our salvation. We believe further that Christ established the Catholic Church to perpetuate His teaching—and administer His Sacraments...and that it has done so from the time of Peter down to this very moment.

It is often said that the faith placed in Christ by Catholics...and by other Christians, too...is unwarranted by facts and reason. A powerful answer to this will be found in our pamphlet: "The Way To Everlasting Life...The Catholic Church." Even though you may not be interested in the Catholic Faith, this pamphlet will help you better to understand God's plan for your life.

We invite all people of good will to write for a free copy of this pamphlet. It will be mailed to you promptly, and nobody will call on you. Write today...ask for Pamphlet No. KC-20.

Future Teachers Visit Deaf School

The Emmitsburg Chapter of the Future Teachers Club visited the Maryland State School for the Deaf in Frederick on March 18. They were accompanied by their advisor, Mrs. Margaret Polley. The group was conducted on a guided tour by Mr. Kriz, an instructor at the school. He showed them the sleeping quarters, dining halls, classrooms, and described the excellent equipment used in diagnosing the degree of hearing impairment and in aiding the partially hearing students to improve their hearing. The PTA members observed some elementary classes in session and were given an opportunity to try on the earphones and "tune-in" on the central classroom circuit. In the high school section, the Future Teachers visited the industrial arts department, English classes, and the library. The excursion to the M.S.S.D. was enjoyed very much. The various techniques employed by the teachers were quite interesting. The guide was very informative and patient with the many questions the Future Teachers eagerly asked. The opportunities that are offered for the teaching of the deaf are vast. This visit encouraged some members of the Emmitsburg Future Teachers to consider that branch of teaching.

Firemen Highly Lauded By Pastor

Sterling H. White, Chief Vigilant Hose Company Emmitsburg, Maryland
Dear Mr. White:
In behalf of the entire congregation of Incarnation United Church of Christ, we wish to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude to all of those members of the Vigilant Hose Company who prevented the disastrous fire from spreading any farther than it did this past Thursday night. We surely regret the excessive damage done by the fire to the property of Mr. Charles Harner adjacent to the Church.
We realize full well that if the members of the volunteer fire departments of both Emmitsburg and Thurmont had not put up such a heroic fight as they did, Incarnation Church might well have been destroyed again by fire as it was in February of 1950.
Will you please convey our heartfelt gratitude to all of the members of the Vigilant Hose Company who were responsible for keeping the terrible fire under control on Thursday night? Thank you ever so much for conveying this message from our congregation to these brave men of Emmitsburg.
Gratefully yours,
Rev. John C. Chatlos, Pastor
Eric E. Glass, Recording Secretary

over Gallaudet Saturday here as Bill Walsh stole the show in setting two new Mount records.

Walsh established marks in the triple jump and pole vault, leaping 45'3" in the jump and soaring 13'6" in the pole vault. He wound up by accumulating 18 points.

Jack Campbell took a pair of firsts for the Mountaineers, setting a new record in the discus with a heave of 146'1" and capturing the shot put with a toss of 36'6".

Reaction To Solid Foods

By Kenneth S. Shepard, M.D.
Solid foods are added to the infant's diet slowly and with discrimination, since any one foodstuff may produce an adverse reaction in any given infant.

Reactions which may be manifested in the presence of a poorly tolerated food include: Symptoms of colic, excessive regurgitation, loose stools and skin rash.

es. Symptoms may appear within a few hours after the introduction of a teaspoonful or less of the offending food. However, the infant may take a small amount without adverse reaction and have symptoms only after he has consumed several feedings of the food over a period of three to five days. In some infants, reaction occurs only when a large amount is taken at one feeding.

In general, it is advisable to offer one new food at a time, and each new food at intervals of not less than one week.

Of the cereal group, pure grain precooked cereals are used: rice, barley, oatmeal and corn. Mixed cereal is offered last, since an offending allergen cannot be identified readily.

Despite his ugly reputation, the piranha is a quite colorful fish. But like an attractive woman with bad teeth, he loses his beauty when he smiles.—Sports Afield.

His lifetime gets longer every minute.

It's a good deal longer than it was twenty or thirty years ago. And it gets longer every day, thanks in large part to medical research. Over a million men and women are alive today, cured of cancer. Research helped find the answers that saved their lives. Research costs money. The American Cancer Society invested over $12,000,000 last year in the search for more answers. Yet $2,000,000 in worthwhile research applications, could not be approved by the Society, for lack of funds. Your dollars are desperately needed to help speed the day of victory. Send your check today to CANCER, c/o Postmaster.
