Our local coming election promises to be an exciting one with no less than six candidates vying for the two jobs available on the Town Board. It has been many a year, in fact it might be the first time, we have had so many aspirants to office. It is a healthy sign and we like it, and may the best man win. We can't fathom the sudden influx of candidates because there are no great issues to be decided so I guess it can be charged up to civic interest and pride. At any rate we are happy that so much interest has been generated. Other years friends had to persuade friends to run for office in an effort to keep our pride from being defeated. The field of candidates is a good lot and it is up to you to pick the best of the lot. Study the qualifications of each candidate well and then be sure to cast your ballot. There are young ones, middle aged ones and older ones. There are businessmen, experienced men, farmers and others mixed in the list of candidates. There should be no trouble picking the two that might serve our purpose best.

Ray Keepers, local farmer, reported this phenomena of nature this week. Ray, who raises blooded Holstein cattle, reports that a calf born this week on his farm had no tail. The birth was reported as of April 10 and the calf was a female. With the fly season in the offing we really pity the poor critter.

My attention has been called to what is described as the deplorable condition of Mountainview Cemetery. A number of residents complain bitterly about the state of disrepair the cemetery is in and feel that something definitely should be done to restore the grounds to its proper dignity. Privately owned, the upkeep of the cemetery is solely in the hands of the owner.

However, people who have loved ones buried there have a perfect right to demand that attention be given to the condition of the lots. Most cemeteries have a perpetual care plan and families of deceased people can expect something for their money. Let's hope that something can be done, and soon, to bring this cemetery up to the expectations of those concerned.

The appointment of "Dick" Kline to the Frederick County School Board is a good one in our estimation and should go a long way in maintaining peace, harmony and good public relations. The young man, just turned 35, is thought to inject some new lines of thought about the building and operation of our county schools. We feel that the Frederick County Central Committee has made an excellent selection.

EGG HUNT SUNDAY

An estimated 500 children from the Emmitsburg Community will converge on Community Field Sunday afternoon to participate in the annual Easter Egg Hunt.

The event is sponsored by the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658 and will get under way promptly at 2:00 p. m. Commander Donald F. Topper and members of the post colored the eggs late this week and all is in readiness for the affair Sunday.

Bernard J. Ott, Jr., chairman of the hunt, announced that 100 dozens of eggs have been prepared for the egg hunt and all the children from this community are cordially invited to attend and participate. Quite a number of eggs will have separate markings on them and when surrendered by the finders to the proper officials, will be redeemed for small amounts of money. In addition to the eggs it is planned to distribute candy to the little ones.

In case of inclement weather, the hunt will be held on Monday afternoon at the same time.

This is another of the many community projects sponsored by the local VFW Post.

Two Judges Rule On School Issue

Two Circuit Court judges ruled last Friday that the Town of Emmitsburg and several citizens who have obtained an injunction against building the new North County High School in Thurmont, have a legitimate grievance to be aired and ordered the Maryland State Board of Education, Dr. James A. Sensenbaur, president, to grant the local protesters a hearing in the very near future. Frederick County School Board Attorney Charles U. Price and County Attorney Samuel W. Barrick, were on hand to explain their action in seeking a demurrer to lift the injunction.

Dr. Sensenbaur had previously refused the Emmitsburg group a hearing when requested to do so by Emmitsburg's attorney, Aleck Resnick of Baltimore. "This does not appear to be a matter that can be summarily decided through correspondence and material, submitted without granting the aggrieved parties a right to be heard," said Judges Patrick M. Schaeffer and Ralph G. Shure in postponing a decision on a complaint filed by residents of Emmitsburg.

Suit was filed in equity in Frederick several months ago by C. A. Elder, Emmitsburg newspaper publisher; J. N. Flax, J. W. Houser, Town of Emmitsburg, Robert C. Simpson, Mrs. C. A. Weyerhoffer, and Bernard H. Boyle, all residents of Emmitsburg; and the Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, to enjoin the county Board of Education and the Board of County Commissioners from expending additional monies for planning, development, or construction of a high school on the Staub site.

Judges Schaeffer and Shure said, in part: "The court has been given an order of June 9, 1964, from the State Board of Education, indicating that no issue was presented which they desired to consider. In the order it is stated that this decision was based on correspondence and materials submitted; and it seems apparent that no hearing was

Firemen Have Busy Week

Quick work by the Vigilant Fire Company saved a loafing shed and possibly other buildings on the Regis Sanders farm about a mile east of town Tuesday night. The call for assistance was received at 11:55 p.m. When the fire Co. arrived the roof of the structure was ablaze. The local company summoned assistance from the Guardian Hose Co., Thurmont, which sent two trucks to the scene. Pumping water across Rt. 97 from a farm pond, the fire companies had the situation under control in short order. They were at the scene about an hour and ten minutes. Chief Sterling White said the roof of the shed was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars but that the rest of it received little damage.

Firemen were able to remove 20 calves and three ponies from the burning building.

On Monday the Fire Co. was called to the Ernest Shriver property near Zora to extinguish a grass and woods fire which burned about two acres. The blaze occurred about two p.m. and the Fairfield Fire Co. assisted the local company.

Tuesday afternoon at about 2:30 o'clock the firemen were called to Benchoff's dump on the Hornet's Nest Road, west of town where a blaze had gotten out of control. The firemen were at the scene about 20 minutes.

Chief White issued a caution to local residents this week urging them not to burn trash or weeds while the strong winds were in progress and because of the dryness of the ground at this time. He warned of state laws prohibiting unprotected burnings and asked the cooperation of the populace in keeping these brush fires to a minimum. The Fire Co. has posted warning posters in many business and public places in the community and ask that citizens heed these warnings. On occasions brush burning has gotten out of hand and serious damage to property has resulted.

held, in any form.

"The court feels, therefore, that in accordance with Section 21 of Article 77 (Annotated Code of Maryland), and in accordance with the procedure that has been followed in other cases of this type where controversies arise over the selection of school sites by local boards of education, that a hearing should have been held, and we will therefore withhold any ruling on the demurrer for a reasonable time pending a hearing by the state Board of Education.

"We agree that, insofar as the Board of County Commissioners are concerned, the law of Maryland does not grant that body the right to select school sites."

"It is quite possible that matters could be called to the attention of the State Board on appeal that were not presented before the county board.

"And it is not clear to the court that all the materials and matters that were presented to the county board were ruled on by the state board of education, because, as evidenced by their order, they only refer to limited things which they considered in arriving at their findings."

The bill of complaint, filed for the Emmitsburg group by Atty. Aleck A. Resnick of Baltimore, says the county school board in 1962 approved the purchase of land known as the Jaamison-Wivell site for construction of a consolidated school to serve the Emmitsburg-Thurmont area.

The bill says the county commissioners told the school board the price of the land was too high and to renegotiate, but that the board did not renegotiate, voting instead to purchase the Staub site.

The Jamison-Wivell property is located approximately midway between Emmitsburg and Thurmont, and was favored by the Emmitsburg group. The Staub site is located in Thurmont.

The bill charges unreasonable and arbitrary conduct on the part of the school board in purchasing the Staub site.

Father Yeager Is Elevated

Rt. Rev. George L. Leech, bishop of the Harrisburg Catholic Diocese, this week announced that His Holiness, Pope Paul VI, has elevated Rev. Fr. Louis J. Yeager, pastor of St. Ignatius Loyola Church, Buchanan, to domestic prelate, with the title of right reverend monsignor.

He was one of seven priests in the diocese to be so recognized. Among the others was Rev. Fr. John J. Onofrey, a former pastor at Fairfield. Monsignor Onofrey, a native of Lebanon, served parishes in Berwick, Roaring Creek, Lebanon, Mt. Carmel, Fairfeld and New Freedom before becoming pastor of Sacred Heart of Jesus Parish at Harrisburg in 1948.

Monsignor Yeager was born in Carlisle August 28, 1895, and attended the public elementary schools there. He graduated from Mt. St. Mary's High School; Mt. St. Mary's College with a Bachelor of Arts degree, and from Mt. St. Mary's Seminary with a Master of Arts degree. He was ordained into the priesthood in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg by Bishop McDevitt on June 10, 1922.

He served parishes in Lebanon, York, Bloomsburg and Lancaster. In 1929 he was on special assignment in New York City with the Apostolate Mission, with residence at St. Stephen's Parish in Manhattan.

He was named pastor of the St. Ignatius Church, Old Jesuit Mission, in Buchanan Valley in 1947. The church was built in 1817 and plans are under way to observe the 150th anniversary in 1967.

Fire Company Lets Contract For New Annex

Chief Sterling H. White reported Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held in the Fire Hall, that eight bids had been handed since the last meeting. President John S. Hollinger presided over the meeting.

Guy R. McLaughlin, membership chairman, announced that 12 individuals would be accepted into honorary membership. New equipment for the fire chiefs was authorized and will cost approximately $250. The building fund committee reported $402.30 netted from a recent shooting match.

President Hollinger announced that a contract to build the new annex would be signed April 15 and that work was to start immediately. Eugene Myers was named as an active member and Larry W. Little and William Eiker were proposed for membership.

The advisory commission on school building costs he mentioned was set up by an addition to the bond issue authorization bill, passed by the state legislature but not yet signed into law by Gov. Taves.

The council would be strictly advisory, and would be composed of two of the commissioners, two school board members, and three private citizens.

Horman said "It is up to the county commissioners to decide if school construction costs are reasonable. Unless we compare the requests with costs in other counties, we are merely rubber-stamping the excessive requests of the school administration."

"The school superintendent now says he can get money for the Urbana school from the Sabilville school when we would not allow him to spend the excessive amount he requested from county funds. Now he tells us he did not need that amount. Why was the request for the Sabilville school so much to begin with?"

Horman also said inspectors should be on the sites of all school construction projects at all times. He said the county had recently acquired some school construction inspectors, "but they have not found anything as yet and it took the health department to find the obvious deficiencies in the Carroll Manor school cafeteria."

Com. Horman Fights For School Building Economy

County Commissioner Russell Z. Horman promised this week to battle excessive school construction costs here "even if I get voted out of office for it."

He said he favored standardized school construction and the addition of wings to existing schools, rather than construction of entirely new schools.

"This has been an honest administration," he said, "and we have economized on everything but school construction costs. We are paying from 50 to 100 per cent more than any other Maryland county for school construction."

"Every cent of money under the county's new $5 million bond issue must be spent under the supervision of an advisory council on school construction," Horman told the Frederick Young Republicans.

The advisory commission on school building costs he mentioned was set up by an addition to the bond issue authorization bill, passed by the state legislature but not yet signed into law by Gov. Taves.

The council would be strictly advisory, and would be composed of two of the commissioners, two school board members, and three private citizens.

Six Candidates Vie For Offices

Emmitsburg's teeming race for two Town Commissioners took on added interest this week when three additional citizens tossed their hats into the ring to battle it out for the two available seats on the Town Council.

What was at first thought would be a rather tame election has turned into a sizzler, one of the hottest in quite a number of years.

First candidates to file for the office were J. Norman Flax, incumbent Commissioner, and Bernard H. Boyle, local grocery store operator. Shortly after Flax and Boyle filed with the Town Clerk, Charles W. Bollinger, retired farmer, announced his candidacy.

During the past week three additional citizens registered at the Town Office. Charles F. Stouter, Quinn F. Topper and William Ryder, in that order. This brought the total number of candidates to six, with two to be elected. Deadline for filing for the office is April 17 which also is the deadline for any citizens wishing to vote to be registered.

Town Clerk Yonnie Baker announced this week 20 new registrants which swelled the list

Father DePauw Drops Leadership In Traditionalists

Stating that he was devoting his time to teaching canon law at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Rev. Fr. Gommr DePauw, traditionalist movement leader, turned over the leadership to another Catholic priest this week, but not revealing the priest's identity.

At the same time he said he would not appeal to Pope Paul VI, Lawrence Cardinal Shehan's directive that he get out of the movement.

The movement is highly critical of recent liturgical changes approved by the Vatican Council. DePauw says the changes, including dropping Latin from the Mass, threaten to "Protestantize" the Catholic church.

Father DePauw was in New York over the weekend arranging for the transfer of leadership.

100 YEARS AGO

LINCOLN ASSASSINATED; MURDER PLOT UNFOLDS

BY LON K. SAVAGE

President and Mrs. Abraham Lincoln were driven through the streets of Washington amid a tumult of celebration. Everywhere, there was rejoicing; triumphal arches spanned the streets, and victory torches flared. It was Good Friday, April 14, 100 years ago this week, only five days after the surrender at Appomattox. That very day, the flag that had been lowered at Fort Sumter exactly four years earlier upon the outbreak of the Civil War had been raised again over the fort, proclaiming the end of the Civil War.

It was in this spirit that the Lincolns and their guests slipped into their box at the Ford Theater. The audience, who had been expecting them cheered; the orchestra played "Hail to the Chief;" the actors bowed, and the play—a comedy entitled "Our American Cousin"—began.

And before it ended, the joy, the comedy, the triumph—all had turned to abject horror. For as the Lincolns watched the final act, an actor named John Wilkes Booth slipped into the box and fired a pistol at point blank range into the back of the President's head.

And there, in one of the wildest nights in American history, the history of this nation changed.

Booth Escapes

The course of events that followed has been told many times. Booth, a Confederate sympathizer, stabbed Major Henry Rathbone in the arm as the soldier tried to grapple with him, then leaped down onto the stage, breaking his leg in the attempt. He rose, shouted "Sic Semper Tyrannus" to the crowd, ran limping off the stage to a waiting horse outside and fled.

As the theater exploded into terror and confusion and as the President, still alive, was carried bleeding across the street to a lodging house, still another attack was in progress elsewhere in the city.

Lewis T. Powell, an accomplice of Booth's, visited the home of Secretary of State William H. Seward who lay abed with an injury. Pretending to be delivering medicine, Powell ran up to Seward's bedroom, beat off his sons and his male nurse and stabbed the secretary of state about the neck and face, then fled back down the stairs, outside and away on a horse.

And a third member of the conspiracy, George A. Atzerodt, at about the same time, visited the hotel where Vice President Andrew Johnson was staying—drunk, some said. But Atzerodt, who was to finish the job of wiping out America's leadership, lost his nerve and left without making the attack.

Panic

Panic spread across the city that night, as Lincoln lay dying. Around him at the lodging house, doctors, top cabinet members, congressmen and family gathered to wait and pray. At 7:20 a.m. Saturday, Lincoln died.

By this time, police knew Booth's name and had put together much of the assassination plot. The city was sealed off; even the Canadian border was blocked to watch for the assassins. Johnson was sworn in as the 17th President—still a little drunk, according to one account. Seward, it was found, would live.

Next day, "Black Easter," the President's body lay in the White House as millions went to churches to mourn. During the ensuing week, Lincoln's body lay in state in the capital rotunda; his funeral was held, and his body began the long train trip back to Springfield, stopping at cities and towns on the way so that citizens could take one last look at his face.

In Washington, meanwhile, thousands pressed in the search for Booth. His accomplices were found, arrested and imprisoned. His path was traced to the home of a Dr. Samuel Mudd who had set Booth's broken leg; it was traced across the Potomac River into Virginia and onward to a farmhouse near Bowling Green, Va., 50 miles north of Richmond.

And there, the Federals found Booth and an accomplice in a tobacco barn. With orders to take him alive, the Federals told both to come out; Booth's accomplice did so and was captured, but Booth refused.

So the Federals set fire to the barn and watched, through the wide cracks in the weatherboarding, as the actor strutted his last act, fighting the flames with his crutch. Then, a shot was fired—by a soldier disobeying orders—and Booth fell. He died early next morning. His flight had lasted 12 days.

Next week: The End.

Huge Fish Stocking Program Slated For Maryland

The Department of Game and Inland Fish will institute one of its largest warm water fish stocking programs within the next several months, it was announced this week by the Department Director, George B. Shields.

Nearly 5,000 surface acres of water in Western Maryland will be stocked with 22,000 fish weighing about 3,000 pounds. These fish will include largemouth bass, chain pickerel, channel catfish, sunfish, great northern pike, walleye and herring. The herring will serve as forage fish for the game species.

The ponds, lakes and reservoirs in Central Maryland totaling 9,000 acres of water will receive 50,000 fish weighing roughly 33,000 pounds. In addition, nearly 1 1/2 million walleye and striped bass fingerlings will be stocked in the larger reservoirs.

Southern Maryland will receive a goodly share for its increasing number of impoundments. For its 177 acres of water, it will receive 6,000 totaling 5,000 pounds.

The eastern Shore with its many impoundments which total almost 4,000 acres will receive 30,200 fish of all species mentioned plus golden shiners and garfish. The combining weight not including fingerlings will total approximately 15,000 pounds.

In addition to stocking, many impoundments will be rehabilitated during the year and restocked with the proper species of fish, the Director pointed out.

The Department will stock all private waters of Maryland with fish, Director Shields stated, provided a reasonable amount of public fishing is permitted. All fish stocked by the State, either in public or private waters, must be secured through application submitted to the Department of Game and Inland Fish on or before May 1.

Communicable Diseases Decline

Downward trends in communicable diseases such as poliomyelitis, diphtheria and whooping cough were maintained during 1964, according to a survey of provisional year-end reports. Dr. John H. Janney, Chief, Division of Epidemiology, Maryland State Health Department, attributed the encouraging reduction in these severe infections to wide application of highly effective control measures.

"Early vaccination of the majority of children in our population has resulted in virtual elimination of polio and diphtheria as childhood health hazards," Dr. Janney said.

In marked contrast to this public health achievement is the persistence of such diseases as rubella (German measles), meningitis, streptococcal infections and hepatitis, from which no successful vaccines have been developed.

A statewide epidemic of rubella (German measles) began in February and continued until July. Immune globulin, the only preventive known, was used extensively to lessen the risk in pregnant women. Dr. Janney explained that this infection during the first three months of pregnancy can cause malformation or death of unborn children. A total of 3600 cases of rubella was reported last year.

The epidemiologist said also that outbreaks of ordinary measles usually occur every two or three years. He noted that the 3150 cases in 1964 were within the expected range. Principal factor in such outbreaks, he explained, is insufficient use of the measles vaccines which have been proved highly effective.

The number of hepatitis cases remained high during the past year, mainly among persons under 20 years of age. A number of cases occurred in schools but the incidence was not high in any outbreak. Dr. Janney stated that this disease is particularly difficult to control because in some individuals hepatitis is not recognized although they may be carriers of the disease. Also, there is a lack of complete knowledge about the virus which causes hepatitis; consequently there is no preventive vaccine.

Figures for new tuberculosis cases indicate a reduction of 15% in comparison to 1963 statistics. Nevertheless, the average of 100 cases a month is still far too high.

LEGAL

MYRA C. GOUGE, a minor, by MARTHA V. SWEADNER, her mother and next friend, Libertytown, Maryland, vs. ERNEST F. GOUGE 1410 Cimarron Ave. Odessa, Texas NO. 20,939 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND

ORDER OF PUBLICATION The object of this Bill of Complaint is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the complainant, Myra C. Gouge, from the defendant, Ernest F. Gouge.

The Bill states in substance that the complainant, Myra C. Gouge, is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where she has resided more than one year last past; that the defendant, Ernest F. Gouge, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and when last heard from was residing at 1410 Cimarron Ave., Odessa, Texas.

The Bill further states that the complainant and the defendant were married on August 23, 1963, in Frederick County, Maryland, by Rev. Clark Aist, a regularly ordained minister of the gospel; that as a result of the said marriage no children were born; that without just cause the said defendant deserted the complainant on or about September 26, 1963 and that said desertion has existed for more than 18 months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint; that there is no reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation. The Bill prays that the complainant, Myra C. Gouge, may be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the defendant, Ernest F. Gouge, that she may be granted the right to resume her maiden name of Myra C. Sweadner, and that the complainant may be granted such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

ORDER OF THE COURT It is thereupon ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, on this 12th day of April, 1965, that the complainant, Myra C. Gouge, by Order of Publication of this court to be inserted in some newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks on or before the 15th day of May, 1965, give notice to the said defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning him to be and appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 15th day of June, 1965, and show cause, if any he has, why the decree should not be passed as prayed therein.

Ellis C. Wachter Clerk of the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland H. Reese Shoemaker, Jr. Solicitor for Complainant Frederick, Maryland Filed April 12, 1965 TRUE COPY TEST Ellis C. Wachter, Clerk 4/16/64

Dr. Janney said, and stressed the importance of early case finding. He stated that renewed efforts are being made to persuade groups in which the high incidence has been found to avail themselves of the opportunity for examination and treatment if necessary. Another aspect of the effort to reduce tuberculosis, he added, is the current investigation of the possibility of human infection among dairy farm families where cattle with bovine tuberculosis have been found.

More than 500 reported syphilis cases brings last year's figures for the state close to the 1963 total, and there has been almost a 10 per cent rise in gonorrhea. Although the prevention of venereal disease spread would be relatively easy if all cases were treated in early stages, Dr. Janney explained that public health control efforts are seriously impeded by lack of prompt reporting.

The principal factors in controlling the outbreak and spread of communicable diseases were specified by Dr. Janney as: intensified statewide public health education, greater use of available vaccines, good home and public sanitation, control of human carriers and complete case reporting.

LOOKING AHEAD

President—Harding College
Sevier, Arkansas

The Reds Against The FBI
Through his 40-year career, attacks on FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover have kept pace with the general efforts of the Left to protect its extremist elements by dismantling every possible internal defense of the country against Communism. In these prolonged attacks from the radical left, its publications and pseudo-liberal spokesmen have charges that amount to exactly nothing. Martin Luther King undertook criticism that fell into the same category, along with the Newsweek statement that Hoover would be fired.

Most Americans do not require answers to these false charges, for they take great pride in the accomplishments, the effectiveness, and the patriotism of Mr. Hoover and his agents. The critics, however, seem to care nothing for the FBI director's accomplishments nor for the principles of justice, law and order, and good law enforcement. What they obviously fear most, despite the shelter they take behind a civil rights halo or other pretense, is the success of the FBI as an anti-Communist force in America.

Now They're On Campus
Currently, the Reds appear to be making their best headway on college campuses. In a recent interview, Mr. Hoover told U. S. News & World Report that the FBI had "absolutely no interest" in legitimate activities of students, but that it would have a responsibility to investigate where any activities involve violations of federal law.
But Mr. Hoover went on to say: "I have long been concerned over the efforts of the Communist Party as well as other subversive organizations, to spread its influence in student circles. Members of the Communist Party of America frequently have appeared as speakers on college campuses. They have attempted to portray the party as a legitimate political organization, when, as a matter of fact, it is an inseparable arm of the international Communism movement, which is under the control of the Soviet Union.
"I have taken the position that it is unfortunate that some colleges in this country have provided avowed Communists—some of whom have been convicted and have served time in the penitentiary—a platform from which to espouse their godless ideology of chicanery, deceit, and treachery." Such a position is plain enough, and it is just this position that infuriates the liberals who clamor about it under the guise of "freedom of speech." Governor Brown of California has decried the anarchy of Berkeley, but he will have to look more carefully toward the Left, where he will find his trouble.
Having failed to abolish the FBI or remove Mr. Hoover, the Leftwingers are now going all out on the excuse of the recently enacted civil rights laws in plugging to revamp the FBI into a colossal national police force that would take over all law enforcement from local officials. This new line of attack no longer indicts the FBI as too powerful or dangerous to democracy. It insists that it is not doing its job and is not powerful enough. The inference is that Mr. Hoover should be replaced with a "liberal" director, who would head up a tremendous gestapo strong enough to protect presidents from assassination and enforce civil rights.
Opposes National Police
Mr. Hoover's critics know that he has consistently opposed establishing a national police force. This position is purposefully misinterpreted by some. The FBI is only an investigative agency, and that only where some 257 federal statutes are involved. Mr. Hoover has said: "The danger of a national police force is that it centralizes into one place and into the hands of one man too much authority." The FBI director has also said repeatedly that he will not tolerate political pressure, nor will the FBI yield to pressure groups which seek to use the Bureau for their own selfish aims.
The Communists have always wanted a national police force, whenever they can control it. Every Red society maintains a strong secret police setup, for they know it is required in order to subjugate the people. A disciplined police corps has always kept the regime in power in Russia. Without such a force Castro would soon be toppled. Law and order are essential for successful government, as Mr. Hoover has so often insisted. Such anarchy as that produced on the University of California campus by Communist manipulators behind the scenes can destroy a peaceful community or even a democratic nation.

The Finishing Touch

This beautiful planting of petunias shows how effective one kind of annual flower can be in a planting box. Although petunias are extremely popular for such plantings, many other annual flowers will thrive and provide gay color all summer.

Planting boxes are so popular nowadays that many gardeners have the fun of filling such a finishing touch to the landscaping of their homes. There are, of course, many different types and sizes of these boxes; some deep, like the one in the illustration, some shallow, others long and still more short.

When these masonry-enclosed planting areas are sufficiently wide there often are eye-greens or shrubs set in them and only a colorful foreground planting needs to be added. Narrow, shallow boxes must depend on plants with smaller root systems for their effectiveness.

No matter what the size or shape of the boxes or whether they have plants in them or not, annuals of one kind or another added to the box will assure you of a gay summer view.

There are many suitable kinds of annual flowers—a gardener is not limited to petunias although these certainly are among the most satisfactory flowers for boxes.

background planting and needs only a bright edging, consider verbenas, ageratum, lobelias or annual phlox—four annuals of differing growth habits and bloom colors.

When annuals will be the sole occupants of the box, a solid mass of one kind and color flower is probably the simplest, but not by any means the only solution. Try a green-leaved variety of coleus, in the background with dwarf marigolds in the foreground, or dwarf zinnias with blossoms of any bright color and sweet alyssum in front of them.

Any number of height and color combinations are possible with so many kinds of annuals from which to choose.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

Baby Safety Tips
By John A. Doherty, Executive Sec., Michigan Health Council
East Lansing, Michigan
It is your responsibility as a parent to keep your baby safe. Here are a number of important safety tips to help you carry out that responsibility.
In Baby's Room
Keep the sides of the crib up at all times. Buy a firm mattress that fits the crib properly. Make sure that the bars of the crib are so spaced that your infant can't catch his head between the bars. Avoid having small objects near his reach.
In The House
Practically everything within sight is exciting and interesting to babies. They need freedom to roam, but they need limits too. Gates should be installed at stairways. Unused light sockets should be capped. Fans, heaters, power tools and washing machines with wringers must be out of reach. Tablecloths should not hang over the edge of the table. Pins, buttons, needles and other small objects must be put away, out of the reach of children. Fire is a major killer. Hide matches and never leave child alone in home.

In The Kitchen
Keep pots, pans, kettles and other containers of hot food and liquids in the center of the table, out of the baby's reach. Pot handles should be kept turned toward the back of the stove. Keep strong detergents, silver polish, cleaning solutions, such as lye and the like locked and out of reach.
In The Bathroom
Never leave your baby while he is in the tub or on bathtub. Do not let him play with the faucets. A minute away from his side to answer the phone could mean death, a very serious accident, or a lifetime of pain and misery to your baby.
At Playtime
Let your baby and toddler play on the floor to his heart's content with pots, pans, drums, empty cardboard boxes, etc. These are noisy but safe, and that is what is really important. Keep nuts, popcorn, peas, beans and other small objects out of reach. Babies choke on these easily.

Never allow your child to play with plastic bags such as the type used by dry cleaners, etc. Many babies have died of suffocation from this cause. Be sure that your child does not play inside cupboards where he could lock himself inside. Remove doors from unused iceboxes on the premises so that the child cannot be locked inside.
(Two attractive leaflets on baby tips and how to handle baby emergencies are available free to anyone sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Michigan Health Council, 712 Abbott Road, P. O. Box 431, East Lansing, Michigan.)

Extend Notary Commissions

Lloyd L. Simpkins, Secretary of State of Maryland, has announced that all individuals now holding notary public commissions will continue in office until July 1, even though their commissions state that their terms will expire on May 3, 1965. According to Mr. Simpkins, the terms of notaries have always expired on the first Monday in May of the odd numbered years. During the recent session of the General Assembly, legislation was enacted changing the terms of the notaries. In the future, notary terms will continue to be for a two-year period, but will expire on July 1 of the odd numbered years. Because of this change in the law, the Secretary of State's office is faced with the almost impossible task of issuing new commissions to over 30,000 Maryland notaries to cover the period between May 3 and July 1 of this year.

Mr. Simpkins said: "As a result of this legislative Act, the terms of all present notaries will expire on July 1 instead of May 3, as stated on their commissions. During this two-month period, these individuals will have the full authority to act as notaries public."

New notary commissions will be issued in late June to become effective for the two-year period beginning July 1, 1965.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

It is interesting to watch a very young litter of puppies of any of the pointing breeds when they begin to take notice of butterflies, grasshoppers, small birds and so on and start to show the inherited characteristic of stalking. Soon comes the urge to chase. Finally, when the puppies tire or realize they cannot catch the quarry, they will settle into pointing. Some point with extreme intensity; others merely stand and look in an interested manner.

The owner can encourage this pointing instinct through several methods. The favorite is the fishing-rod-and-feather stunt. Attach a feathered lure (or a white or colored piece of cloth or even a wad of paper will do) to the end of a fishing line. Toss this out in front of the puppies, twitching it along the ground to attract their attention. The curious youngsters will chase and try to catch it. Hold the lure over their heads until they become still. Then gradually lower it to the ground. Most of the puppies will freeze into a point. If they relax, a little twitch with the lure will restore their interest. This is called sight pointing. To compare pointing attitudes and interest between the individual puppies, work them in this manner one at a time, taking each puppy off into a secluded spot where his attention will not be distracted. Some puppies love to engage in this play, as it evidently thrills them. Soon they will become so staunch that they will allow you to handle them on point. "Stroke the pointing puppy down the back, lifting his tail gently while talking to him in low tones," writes Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dog Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. When he gains a bit more confidence, gently shove forward on his hindquarters. He will usually resist this pressure and settle more firmly into his point.

In this manner you can get a pretty fair idea which puppies are the best prospects for gun dogs of quality. It is not a sure-fire barometer, but it's better to spend your time or training money on the development of a puppy who will point by sight, with style and intensity, than on one who show little interest.

Pinwheel Patterns

Pinwheel patterns are of two different kinds. Both are seen in flowers. Here, Pinwheel gloriosa daisy displays the pattern of a pinwheel in rapid motion.

Pinwheel petunia, on the other hand, shows the pattern of a pinwheel at rest. Both flowers are available for your garden this year.

Pinwheels display different patterns depending on whether they're in motion or at rest. When they're going 'round and 'round propelled at top speed by the wind, the only pattern visible is a round one—a swirl of color. When pinwheels are at rest the pattern is angled because the arms are the most apparent features.

These same pinwheel patterns now are available in flowers which are, appropriately, called Pinwheel. In the flowers of the gloriosa daisy by this name there is the swirled pattern of a pinwheel in full motion colored mahogany and gold. The petunia named Pinwheel has blooms with the pattern of a stationary pinwheel in brilliant scarlet and white.

The gloriosa daisy is the latest selection from a strain of glorified black-eyed Susans. Pinwheel has flowers that reach 5 inches in diameter; makes a brilliant display in the garden and a long-lasting cut flower.

If seeds are planted early, plants will bloom the same year. Otherwise they survive the winter to bloom the following year. All gloriosa daisies are easy to grow.

Pinwheel petunia has a more uniform pattern than other bi-colored varieties of this type. Blooms are 2 inches across, start to appear early in the season, and completely cover the foot-high, compact, mound-like plants.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On:
Promoting Employer-Employee
Co-Operation

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 15—Whether a firm is large, middle-sized, or small, it gets best results in terms of productivity and profits if there is mutual loyalty between management and workers. And this is much more difficult today than it sounds. Employers, for one thing, are so caught up in the competitive rat-race that they tend to concentrate on production and marketing, and leave labor relations pretty much to unions and department heads. Employees, on the other hand, are apt to forget the good of the company and think only of fatter pay envelopes, more fringe benefits, and looking for richer jobs.

Mutual Concern Pays Off

Both attitudes are self-defeating and costly for all concerned. Astute employers recognize that their workers are not just cogs in the machinery of turning out products and getting them to market, but that they should be—and often are—co-workers and salesmen, ambassadors of good will. The extent of their value in these extracurricular pursuits is up to the foresight and imaginative vision of the employers themselves.

Naturally, it is management's responsibility to provide attractive working conditions, fair pay rates, and reasonable fringe benefits compatible with others in the same field and locality. But beyond this point the employer must start playing by ear. If he deals, for instance, in consumer goods, he can be certain that his personnel, their relatives, and their friends are possible customers. If he is wise, then, he will keep his work force constantly informed, not only regarding the workings of the factory but concerning the final products and how they may best be used. Company manuals and work-time demonstrations can easily generate employee interest and prod workers to spread the word concerning the quality and utilization of what they make.

Pride By Association

Even if an employer's products are non-consumer in nature, employees can still offer very valuable publicity if they are intimately acquainted with the special qualities of the goods they are helping to turn out. If they are shown in what respect their products excel, they will be proud of their association with the company and will enjoy being experts. Through private and personal employee contacts have come many lasting and rewarding accounts for firms whose employer-employee relations are lively and friendly.

An intelligent employee recognizes that whatever he is doing for his company he is doing basically for himself, — and for his fellow workers. To build up the company for which he works, to light up the image of its products, to help make its brand-name a byword, is to ensure his own job security and eventually to enlarge his own income and that of his co-workers. This relationship between management and staff must, however, work two ways if there is to be a truly healthy stability in any business concern.

Especially For Young Companies
Small concerns—just getting under way—will find it helpful in bucking the bitter rivalry in all important lines today if they will sell every employee, from the very beginning, on the idea of becoming a salesman for their products and services. If a man is made to feel that he is a vital part of the company he works for, that he is trusted and taken into confidence on its problems as well as its successes, he is much more likely to stay put.

Labor turnover is, of course, one of industry's heaviest financial burdens, particularly today. Hence, everything should be done to promote employer-employee co-operation and mutual understanding for the purpose of building up an establishment that can focus its attention on improvement and expansion without being plagued by needless and costly replacement of restless workers. Whether a firm is unionized or not, it can make its employees proud of their association with it and eager to make its name and its products ever more widely known.

Dentists Study Decay Problems

Many patients appear unaware that dentists can immunize their teeth against tooth decay and Dr. N. William Ditzler, Jr., of Silver Spring, president of the Maryland State Dental Association, wants to do something about that. At a meeting of the board of Governors of the Association at Rolling Road Country Club, in Catonsville, Dr. Ditzler asked dentists to be sure to mention immunization procedures so that adult patients can have their teeth protected against decay if they wished. The protection is of especial interest to Maryland in areas not provided with fluoridated water, Dr. Ditzler said. Dr. J. N. Price, Landover Hills, chairman of the Council on Dental Health committee of the state group, and a board member, pointed out that this immunization method is considered by the dental profession as superior to brushing the teeth with a fluoridated

Mt. St. Mary's Athletic Activities

Records tumbled in 14 of the 20 varsity events Saturday in the third annual Colonial Relays. Athletes from nine different schools took part in the assault.

Although failing to win any of the varsity events, Mount Saint Mary's turned in some outstanding performances. Freshman Tom Newberger stole the show from his older teammates with a leap of 22'8" in the long jump.

Not only was this a new Freshman record, but it was 7 1/2 inches farther than the varsity mark set Saturday.

Dave Landis of the Mount finished second in the 120 high hurdles and set a new Mt. St. Mary's mark with a 14.8 clocking. He was also second in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles. John McKee turned in a 3:08 3/4 in the distance medley and raced neck and neck with Barry Brown, Providence, the NCAA indoor champion. John Clarke, of the mile relay squad, was clocked in 49 seconds. Bill Walsh was fifth in the high jump and second in the triple jump.

In the triple jump, Jim Sherrard, of VMI, set the record at 46' 1/2". Walsh had his best-ever leap of 45' 11 1/2" for the runner-up spot.

Also Jack Campbell was second in the discus behind VPI's Fred Vaughn, 149' 1".

Netters Lose

Hampden - Sydney handed the Mt. St. Mary's tennis team its first setback of the season in a 7-2 victory Friday afternoon on the winner's courts.

The Mount, which had won its first two outings of the year, won but one singles and one doubles to account for their two points. Korosen played a big part in both tallies. He won his fifth place singles in straight sets, then teamed with Clare to produce another straight sets victory in the third doubles.

Drop Ball Game

Old Dominion banged out eight hits and rolled to a 4-2 win over the Mt. St. Mary's baseball team Friday afternoon in Norfolk. The contest was the first loss for Coach Jim Phelan's squad in two outings.

Carlson turned in a fine pitching performance for the winners as he allowed but five scattered hits through the nine inning contest. The only extra base blow for the Mount was Don Baubles' double. Kovner paced the winners with a trio of safeties.

Mounts Lose At Hampden-Sydney Coach Phelan's team dropped a 7-4 decision to Hampden-Sydney on the latter's field Saturday afternoon in a Mason-Dixon Conference baseball game.

A bases - empty homerun by Whitey Lipscomb in the bottom of the sixth inning broke a 3-3 deadlock after which the Tigers went on to their second straight conference decision in as many starts.

Split Games

Mt. St. Mary's and Western Maryland divided a Mason-Dixon Conference baseball doubleheader Tuesday at Westminster.

The Mountaineers, scoring a pair of runs in the fourth and final innings, won the opening game 7-5 while Western Maryland took the second game 7-0, darkness halting the contest after five innings.

The Mount, 2-3, will be idle until Thursday, April 22, when Shippensburg State College is met here in a non-league game.

Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Silver Fancy Garden Club met for its April meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry Mohny, Taneytown, with 13 members and one guest present. Mrs. Robert Simpson, president, conducted the business meeting. Plans were made for the annual Bridge Party to be held May 13 at 2 p.m., at the Toney Inn, Taneytown. Miss Helen Smith of Braddock Heights was guest speaker. Tea was served by the hostess.

On the next meeting date, May 20, the club will go on a House and Garden Tour at Mt. Airy, Md.

Begin Easter Vacation

Students and faculty members at Mount Saint Mary's College began their Easter vacation on Wednesday at noon. Students will return to campus on Tuesday evening and classes will resume on Wednesday morning, according to Rep. Carl J. Fives, Academic Dean.

Dentists are able to prevent tooth decay by painting the teeth with a chemical compound containing fluoride. Unlike vaccines, which stimulate the formation of anti-bodies and often must be injected, the decay preventive need only be spread onto the enamel of the tooth surface for a few minutes. There it forms an invisible chemical coating which results in 40 to 70% less tooth decay. The procedure works for all people at any age if it is repeated after each cleaning, said Dr. Ditzler.

Maryland Angus Offers Scholarships

The Maryland Angus Women's Club is offering again $450 in one year scholarship grants. The Berenice Morrow Scholarships are available to any young person who meets the qualifications. In making the awards, consideration will be given to character, achievement, and financial need.

One purpose in giving the awards is to encourage students to pursue higher education and carry forward their interest in animal husbandry or an allied field, the club says.

Open to any qualified Maryland boy or girl completing or having completed their senior year in high school, deadline for applications is May 15.

The applicant shall have manifested an interest in Angus projects, either independently or as a member of a 4H club, and shall have a part in such activities at the time of application.

The checks for $300 and $150 will be presented to the winners when they present evidence that they have enrolled in the college of their choice. In the event that they cannot enroll, the money shall be returned to the Maryland Angus Scholarship Committee.

For further details or application blanks, contact Mrs. Elmer Shaffer, Norbet Farm, Reisterstown, or Mrs. Joseph Etter, Mijo Farm, Ijamsville.

Guest Speaker At Mt. St. Mary's Career Day

Thomas J. D'Alesandro, III, president of the City Council of Baltimore, urged the collegians at Mount Saint Mary's College, to participate in the "political renaissance" which is taking place in this country. Speaking as the keynote at the college's third annual Career Day program last week, Mr. D'Alesandro said that traditional political bossism in this country is in the death throes because of the growing number of persons joining the ranks of an educated electorate.

James J. McKeon, former teacher at Emmitsburg High School and Mount Saint Mary's College, and now New Jersey secondary teacher and director of the Professional College Placement Service, Elizabeth, N. J., spoke to the 150 education majors on education opportunities in the state of New Jersey.

Mr. McKeon, an alumnus of the Mount and president of the Northern Jersey Alumni Association, traced the admission of the freshman to college, his studies in the undergraduate field, the need of graduate study and advanced degrees, as well as the discussion of the methods, principles, and problems of the classroom teacher.

Other guides to follow in good background planning were also given to the members present.

Mrs. Charles Harner had a miniature livingroom setting in which she demonstrated various colors and designs in planning a room.

Citizen Urges Flax's Election

As a town voter and a taxpayer of Emmitsburg I would like to take a few lines and give my support to our incumbent commissioner Norman Flax, to be re-elected for another three-year term to the office of town commissioner.

Here is a man dedicated to Emmitsburg and his job as commissioner for the town. With six years almost behind him now, the town has progressed a great deal, with his drive and determination to get things done.

Yes, he has been laughed at, for some of his actions, criticized strongly for others, by some of our citizens, and yes, by his fellow workers.

But then again he has been patted on the back for some of the progress the town has made in the past six years with his drive and determination to get it done.

His first three years were spent mostly in fighting for 100% tax collection, real estate and sewerage rent, not only from the citizens but from some of our industry in town, and got it, also monies due the town from state and county revenues. This took a lot of time in town and out of town, day time and late at night. Late in his first three-year term the sewer problem came up. He ran for re-election and made it. His last three years have seen him fight for the new sewer line, fighting for the town to buy the Water Co., and last but not least, has been the town's big fighter on the public high school movement, which isn't dead yet.

All these things that he stands for and argues for hasn't cost the taxpayer too much in Emmitsburg over the past six years. Yes, your water rent went up some, your sewerage rent went up some. But just go to some other towns of our size and ask the rates, you'll be glad to stay in Emmitsburg. I know, I've inquired.

I believe the water system proved itself just recently at the bowling alley fire. The fire companies had plenty of water and pressure, more than really needed, but we couldn't have said this two years ago.

Here is a man trying not to satisfy just a few people of our community but the majority of the people. And you must remember this, he is only one man of a three man board, and a Mayor. I don't know what Mr. Flax's salary is a year but I would bet there is not a man in Emmitsburg that can and would put in the hours and work that he does for the present salary. I feel that our present commissioner and the men registered to run for commissioner, can't and wouldn't do the job on a full time basis, therefore the town would have to hire a man, possible men, to do the job and a much higher salary would have to be paid, if Mr. Flax is not re-elected.

Mr. and Mrs. Voter, stop and think before you vote this year. If you have anything on your mind about the operation of the town business, and you bump into Mr. Flax on the street, stop him, and question him. I haven't seen him yet when he wouldn't talk to anyone and enlighten one on what is going on.

Then when you go to the town office on April 27 to vote, make sure you vote Flax for another three year term.

Thank you,
A Citizen

Easter Sunrise Service Scheduled

The annual Sunrise Service of the Church of the Incarnation and St. James Church R1, Littlestown, of the United Church of Christ, is scheduled for 5 a. m. The service will begin in the sanctuary of St. James Church near Littlestown on the Harney Road and will be concluded out in the picturesque cemetery of this rural church as the sun rises over the horizon. The choir of St. James Church will sing an anthem entitled: "O Bells in the Steeple", an Easter Carol by Homer Norris. James Bittle of Littlestown will be the trumpet soloist who will play as the congregation sings.

Following the Dawn Service this year, a Fellowship Breakfast will be served by the men of St. James Church in the Parish Hall. Thurmont Mayor Has Opposition Mayor Donald L. Lewis of Thurmont, seeking his third term in office, will face the opposition of Roy W. Lookingbill, a Thurmont barber, who has filed as a write-in candidate for the mayor's seat.

Lookingbill has been a barber for the past 22 years. He is a former member of the Thurmont Town Council, having served two year terms twice from 1956 to 1958 and from 1959 to 1961.

He is a native of the Johnsville area, lived in Woodsboro for several years, and is married to the former Miss Mabel Fogle of Woodsboro. The couple has two children. He was graduated from Frederick County schools.

Farm Bureau Spokesman Demands School Info

Supt. of School Dr. John L. Carnochan Jr. was threatened with a law suit this week if he does not reveal salaries of school administrators.

A sharp exchange between farm organization leader Austin P. Renn and Dr. Carnochan ended several hours of public hearing on the school budget Tuesday before the county commissioners.

Renn asked that the salaries of individual school administrators be published. Dr. Carnochan, replied:

"These individual salaries are not available. General salary scales have been published and the total salaries of principals and supervisors have been singled out for the first time in the budget.

"We are constantly criticized for the salaries of supervisors so we have listed them for people to shoot at but I will not make public unless I am forced to," Dr. Carnochan said.

Renn retorted, "Not even under a court order? It may come to that."

Dr. Carnochan had replied to an earlier query from the floor that only 1.77 per cent of the total school budget was for administration of the school system.

He said 78 per cent of the budget was for instruction, but admitted that principals and supervisors' salaries were included in these instruction figures.

"These are not just incidental administrators but essential parts of the instruction system," Dr. Carnochan said.

He admitted that the State Board of Education did not review the operations of the local school system but said that the school board and county commissioners reviews of his budget proposals were sufficient.

Girl Scout Night Planned

The Juliette Low World Friendship Fund will be presented in a novel manner showing where some of the Fund is spent to help Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding around the world.

The Cadette Troop 1316 will present its program by patrols and the program will close with all the Scouts on stage singing "Girl Scouts Together" and "Taps."

This is your opportunity to encourage the girls and the adults who work weekly with them.

HEART RESEARCH IS SAVING LIVES! Arrows show changes which have taken place, 1950-62, in the cardiovascular death rate for American men aged 45-64. Despite a 4.3 per cent increase in the death rate due to heart attack, there was an over-all decline of 7.5 per cent—thanks largely to dramatic decreases in death rates associated with high blood pressure and stroke. Over 100 million Heart Fund dollars have been channeled into heart research since the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949.

Dear Reader:

After years of planning, I would like to tell you of CHARNITA.

CHARNITA is offering NOW . . . IN THE PRESENT . . . the luxury of your future planning . . . TODAY . . . FOR YOUR IMMEDIATE ENJOYMENT . . . located within one hour's drive where you can escape from the ordinary. Our plans include a full rounded program of golf, swimming, water skiing, fishing, skiing, art, drama, education and family worship. CHARNITA LIVING will be a way of life, in a well-planned community, being developed now to fill the residential and recreational needs for the young-at-heart.

CHARNITA is making available the most unique investment and land purchase plan ever offered. CHARNITA absolutely refuses to sell or transfer title of our plan without physical on-the-spot inspection of your purchase.

Over the years land developments have sprung up all over the country . . . Most of these developments are good because they give you "dreams" of the future. Unfortunately because of the distance involved many do not live to see their dreams materialize. Many of these developments are so far away that the buyer only sees his purchase a few times in his life. Many are disappointed when the time comes to move into retirement away from their friends and family ties. Why move far away from old friends, why start life anew in a strange far away place? CHARNITA is a short pleasant drive, your friends and children will want to visit you.

Each of us at times in our life, think and plan for the future — how we will spend those final years. Will we be able to afford a few pleasures of life? Will we be able to keep our mind and body active or will the change in our lives be so drastic that we will find ourselves without purpose and direction.

Our program of planned vacation — future retirement in a completely private family residential and recreational community, where the children and grandchildren will travel thousands of miles, looking forward to a fabulous summer or winter vacation. This is available NOW and will yield the greatest return on the dollar invested for your future security. Invest your dollars wisely. Investigate with absolutely no obligation on your part. See what CHARNITA HAS TO OFFER YOU!

Sincerely yours,
