Twenty-one accidents and four deaths is the score at the new bypass east of Town. Wednesday the 21st accident was recorded as a motorcycle and car crash sent two more to the hospital. Since the bypass was opened last December 10 four people have lost their lives and still the State Roads Commission has not taken any remedial action except to erect a few more signs which actually add to the confusion of crossing the vast intersection. The site remains unlighted at night except for a winking traffic light. Near "misses" are observed almost every hour of the day as the traffic swirls in all directions through the busy intersection and it is only through providence that more wrecks haven't occurred there. Governor Tawes has been notified of the situation as well as the State Roads Commission heads but a public-be-damned attitude seems to have evolved from the situation. I would venture to say the intersection of Rts. 15 and 97 is the most dangerous one in the State of Maryland. It represents a veritable death-trap and I can't understand why the insurance companies who have paid out thousands of dollars in death claims and untold thousands more car damages, haven't applied pressure to have the State take a sane view of the situation. I wonder how many deaths, maimed bodies and broken vehicles the State Roads Commission uses as a standard to realize that the intersection is an extremely dangerous one, designed by so-called "engineers" (and I use the term loosely). Twenty-one wrecks at the same spot in nine months is too much to expect of the public to sit back and take it on the chin.

President Johnson's speech Wednesday lifted a cloud of gloom that hung over the Nation. Thousands of families who have sons in the National Guard and Reserves were sweating it out as the Nation's leaders discussed the situation in Vietnam during the past few weeks. The average person doesn't realize what a family goes through during such a crisis and it was with a blessed sigh of relief that the President's words dispelled any immediate need for calling into action these two groups of trained men. This doesn't lessen the seriousness our Nation faces during the lessened present crisis and it doesn't mean we are out of danger but it seems any respite from conflict of this sort is welcomed with open arms. Naturally the draft quotas will be doubled and many will lose out in our colleges but the immediate threat that we endured has been abated . . . at least for a few more weeks.

VFW AMBULANCE

Bell was transferred from the Warner Hospital to the Western Maryland State Hospital, Hagerstown. Ambulance drivers were Leo M. Boyle and John S. Hollinger. Also taken to the hospital in the ambulance were Linda Lipman, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Paul A. Dowgh, Bethesda, Md., victims of an accident at the intersection of Rt. 15 and 97.

Two-Car Crash

Police estimated damage to the Mahamy car at $2,000 and to the Hess vehicle at $500.

The eighth annual Novena in honor of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary will be held at the National Shrine Grotto of Lourdes on the grounds of Mt. Sister's Recipe Wins $500 Prize Flavor reminiscent of creole cookery today won the plaudits of food editors and experts for Sister Mary Amelia, Chief Administrative Dietitian at St. Agnes Hospital operated by the Daughters of Charity in Baltimore. Named one of four top winners in the 1965 National Sandwich Idea Contest in ceremonies at the Tavern-on-the-Green in Central Park, New York City, Sr. Mary Amelia won $500 and the trip to New York to attend the contest's annual Coronation Luncheon, staged this year for Sandwich King Terry Vince of Detroit.

Sr. Mary Amelia's French Toasted Shrimp Sandwich features a salad mixture of shrimp, bacon and chili sauce between bread spread with cream cheese, French toasted, and garnished with crisp bacon slices. Her sandwich was selected in three judging stages from hundreds entered each year in the contest, planned to recognize the contribution of restaurant and institutional food people to American culinary art.

Three other final winners, from Detroit, Columbus, O., and Dresher, Pa., were announced at the luncheon before an audience of leading food editors, writers, and representatives of food and related industries. The event is sponsored by the American Dairy Assn., National Livestock and Meat Board, National Restaurant Assn., Poultry and Egg National Board, and Wheat Flour Institute.

Sister Mary Amelia, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Zurgable, Emmitsburg, was educated at St. Joseph's High School and Saint Joseph College, Emmitsburg. She served a dietetic internship in Charity Hospital in New Orleans, where she gained her prize-winning "creole touch" in food. She has also been associated with the St. John's Home for Children, Utica, N. Y.; St. Ann's Infant Home, Washington, D. C.; Sisters Hospital, Waterville, Me.; and the House of Studies in New York. Sister is also a member of the Maryland Dietetic Association.

With Trailer

Article Last Week

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

In regard to the letter printed in your paper last week about the "invasion" of house trailers in town I suggest that the person or persons who wrote the letter, visit a few of the trailers to see just what they are really like. The owners are just as proud of their mobile homes as anyone would be with a house. They are modern, compact and designed in every way for easy living and require very little care. The owners are either young married couples or older couples that have no more use for a large house.

The trailers are new in town therefore draw attention. The real problems in property devaluation have been here for years and go unnoticed. For those citizens that are becoming alarmed at the influx of mobile homes and feel that they devalue the real estate values, may I suggest that they take a good look around, as an outsider, at the houses that haven't seen paint in years, the yards full of weeds and trash, the unkempt vacant lots or the junk yards.

You don't have to look far, it's all right here in town. If the writer is still looking for a cause, why not try to get the theatre open or find something to do for the crowd that sets around the Square all day and night, or get some kind of industry to move in to keep the younger generation from leaving as soon as they finish school. How many people feel like driving 10 to 20 miles to see a movie or go to work? These are some of the things that people look for when buying land or building a house. As the tourists flow thru to Charnita, or Gettysburg or the colleges, what impression do they have of Emmitsburg? Will they want to stop and look around or are they just laughing at the sign on the theatre? This is what raises or lowers real estate values.

Rev. Dr. David W. Shaum, professor of music at Mt. St. Mary's College and Seminary, will take part in the tour of Europe next month sponsored by the National Catholic Music Educators Association, Inc.

The group will leave Kennedy Airport, New York, by jet on August 5 and return on August 26. They will visit England, Germany, Austria, Italy and France.

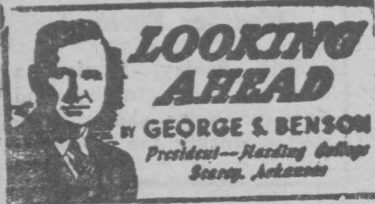

Highlights of the tour will be attendance at music festivals in the countries visited, such as a performance of the Sadlers Wells Festival in Bayreuth, Germany; the Munich Opera in Munich, Germany; the Augsburg Music Festival; the Mozart Festival in Salzburg, Austria; a concert in the Vienna Opera House; and an opera or a ballet in Rome.

It is expected that the group will be received in audience by Pope Paul VI during their stay in Rome.

Recent visitors at the Dutch Wonderland, Lancaster, Pa., were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Little and family and Mrs. Monroe Hewitt and daughter.

Mrs. Charles Hubbard and children, Roland, Patricia, Mrs. Suzanne Kreit, Linda Heffner, and Cloyd W. Seiss, visited Mrs. Hubbard's son, Charles, in Augusta, Ga., recently. While there they attended the graduation of Charles Hubbard from the M.P. School.

On Being Right Sometimes

The American Presidency, a complex enough position in the domestic and world power structure, requires continuous study and explanation. Add a complicated, many-sided personality of near-genius stature in some respects, like that of Lyndon Johnson, and you soon have material for more analysis than can be accomplished in a score of books. Whatever it is that makes LBJ run, those matters are of prime interest today to every American, for all of us hope and pray that the most powerful figure in today's world of big decisions will have at least some of the right answers.

The British statesman showed sympathy who recently observed that no matter what President Johnson does in sending or not sending Marines to preserve peace in such places as the Dominican Republic, he is always wrong. This implies there may be a wide variance in what people think is the proper course but surely the right course of action is not to be determined by whether it is a majority view, a minority view, or even whether anyone accepts it. Everyone, for that matter, might be wrong. It is a whopping task to seek principle, but seek it he must.

Changing The Mind

One way to be sometimes right is to frequently change your position. The President has done this aptly. If he seems to have no conclusive position of his own, it may be that he looks to future elections when voters also may have views that bear little resemblance to their present ones. Suppose the President really wants to reduce "conflict in our national labor policy" by repealing the right-to-work laws. After nearly 20 years of Congressional activity for them, he goes on record against them. The answer: he will require union backing in 1968, and such a need will not allow this pragmatic compromise the convenience of his own beliefs.

There seems to be some political virtue in taking turns pleasing various segments, then subtly changing or diluting the original direction so as to please opposing elements. In his Dominican policy, the President at first showed a strong anti-communist position. Soon, however, this resolution appeared to be softened as his top foreign policy aide tried to develop coalitions that would bring into the government various radicals and doubtful elements, thus diluting the victory sought by the anti-communists who originally, seemingly, had the same goals as the U. S. Marines.

Withholding Principles

Another way to be right only occasionally is to advocate sound policies based on true principles, but only for limited applications to special sectors. The President told the steel industry recently, for example, that only non-inflationary wage increases would help keep the economy in a sound condition. Nothing is said about following non-inflationary policies elsewhere, for either the federal government or the nation as a whole. Instead, the Congress is encouraged to go ahead spending more and more, without apparently caring for the future stability of the economy.

Then, a President can pay political debts only to regret them, even if it means later changing what was wrong in the first place. Why top labor officials wanted to ban the braceros is mystifying in the first place. But it brought near disaster both to the braceros and the farmers, and then gave a taste to consumers when prices of vegetables zoomed.

Search For Values

The emergence of a Johnson who si always right would, considering the nature of man's fallibility, be expecting too much. Neither would we urge this politician's politician (nor any other president) to sit in his rocking chair and wait in a state of suspended animation for the outcome of the opinion polls.

What most of us would like of an American president, and even of the majority party whose banner he carries, is the greatest possible measure of disregard for popularity and for pleasing everybody, along with a greater devotion to those basic principles that require no alteration to fit exigencies. The ready abandonment of political advantage, the preference of being right over being elected, is what stands out so large in a Patrick Henry or a Henry Clay. In this troubled age when too many have given up searching for true values, the challenge of being on the right side is difficult enough. But it is not impossible.

YOUTH CENTER ACTIVITIES

Two games were played and two had to be cancelled in the Emmitsburg Youth Center basketball league but when it was over Gene Eyer's Blue Jays were still on top with a 6-0 record. Jack Topper's Green Indians upset Dennis Stahley's Hustlers to pull themselves into a second place tie with the Hustlers.

Green Indians 43; Hustlers 34. If there is any doubt as to the value of Ray Baker to the Hustlers, it was dispelled this week as the Green Indians upset the Bakerless Hustlers 43-34. The last time these two teams met the Hustlers, with Baker, downed the Indians 40-28. The Topper Indians jumped out to an 18-8 half-time lead and held on during the Hustlers' rally in the second half. George Knox continued his fine play with 9 points and Dick Wivell, playing his first game for the Indians, tied him with 9 markers. Dennis Stahley was high for his team with 12 points while Gerry Orndorff contributed 9.

Blue Jays 54; Night Owls 50. In what started out to be a rout but ended in a closely contested game, Gene Eyer's Blue Jays preserved their unblemished record with a 54-50 win over an undermanned Night Owl team. Harry Hahn personally took charge of the game in the first period, scoring 15 points, and giving the Blue Jays a seemingly uncatchable lead. In the second half Jim May arrived and Gene Lingg entered the game to draw the teams closer together. But the Blue Jays had too many points and too much talent. Harry Hahn was high for the game with 23 points while Eddie Baker continued his fine play with 9 points. Ed Adelsberg, or played valiantly for the losers, scoring 13 points and an outstanding floor game.

Library Donated History Of Town

Emmitsburg is proud of the service it can render to the Emmitsburg Public Library patrons and frequently we are able to help someone from out side the town. A copy of the History of Emmitsburg has recently been donated by Mrs. Anne Thompson. This copy will be cherished and practically kept under glass. Two reference questions have been answered by our having it in the Emmitsburg Collection. A patron from Hagerstown found just the bit of ancestry he wanted and a Miss Chio Arnold is searching for any information on a Mr. Henry Arnold who was one of the four Trustees of the original St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Henry Arnold is mentioned frequently in the history of Emmitsburg, but evidently was one of the older settlers who left Emmitsburg for the West. If anyone knows of the older Arnold settlers, the Library would appreciate the information. Also if there are any copies of the History of Emmitsburg for sale in the area, the Library would be pleased to know.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Alfalfa Versus Corn or Sorghum Fodder or Silage

The two great grain and silage crops of the nation are corn and the sorghums. High-yielding hybrids of both feed crops have suggested to some enthusiasts the desirability of greatly reducing legume and grass forage crops in favor of increasing the acreage of the two leading feed crops.

Dr. Bohstedt

It seemed that the protein, vitamins and minerals of the low-growing forages could rather easily and cheaply be supplied by urea and mineral preparations to be fed with corn or sorghum silage. Some rather persuasive cattle feeding demonstrations have presented a strong argument in favor of this line of reasoning.

And still, wouldn't we miss more than merely the smell of new-mown hay? Wouldn't something essential drop out of the cupboard of our farm animals? A recent report from the Wisconsin Experiment Station states that the important micro-organisms in the paunch of cattle and sheep, the protozoa, may not be able to live and grow without an unidentified nutritional factor which is present in alfalfa and possibly similar forages.

The researchers say that without the growth factor in alfalfa the protozoa disappear within eight days. That this factor was heat stable and not soluble in water, and that work was continuing to establish its identity.

State of Georgia experimenters report that dehydrated alfalfa in amounts of 3 to 5 pounds per cow per day cleared up a rancidity problem in milk within 36 to 48 hours.

Nature has packed a lot of essential nutrients into leafy alfalfa and even timothy, to a lesser extent into the coarser forages mentioned. With a similar dry matter content corn silage has 5.3 milligrams of carotene per pound, but alfalfa silage 15.1 and even timothy silage 14.1 milligrams. The major minerals, calcium and phosphorus are in similar proportions, as well as most of the minor or trace minerals.

So it would not be surprising if in keeping with the greater abundance of known nutrients, the as yet unknown but essential nutrients may be found in alfalfa or similar forage crops in greater quantities than in corn and sorghums.

While in the tropics, I was impressed by the tendency of most grasses and even adapted legumes to grow to ceiling heights, but while high in fiber, to contain little of the protective nutrients. As in other respects, the most valuable things are apt to come in small packages.

Question: If parakeratosis is a skin disease of growing pigs, is zinc supplementation necessary for adult swine?

Answer: It has been found that zinc-supplemented gilts averaged two more pigs per litter than unsupplemented gilts, and with new-born pigs a half pound heavier. Also none of the pigs from zinc-supplemented sows had parakeratosis at weaning time, while half of the others had it.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws. Clip and save for future reference.

Questions And Answers

Q. I have some building and loan shares which mature this year. Will there be any tax advantage to me if I don't cash them in?

A. No, income on shares such as these is reportable under certain conditions in the year they mature or in any year in which it may be withdrawn. It makes no difference whether they are redeemed or not.

Q. An old friend of mine who has been unable to work for some time has just moved in with us. Under what conditions would we be able to claim him as a dependent?

A. You may not claim him as a dependent this year since he was not a member of your household for the entire year. If he has an income of less than $600 next year, lives with you for the whole of that year, and if you provide over one-half of his total support, you may claim him as a dependent for that year.

Q. How can I find out what credits I have in my Social Security account?

A. Ask for a self-addressed post card (Form 7003) at your local Social Security office for use in obtaining a record of income credited to your account. This statement of earnings cannot be furnished without a signed statement from you.

Q. My son qualifies for the tax relief President Johnson recently authorized for servicemen in Vietnam. When an amended return is filed, how much of his pay may be excluded?

A. Commissioned officers may exclude up to $200 and enlisted men and warrant officers may exclude full pay for each month during any part of which they served in Vietnam or adjacent waters since January 1, 1964, or during which they were hospitalized as a result of such service.

This exclusion should be taken on Line 4, Part III of Form 1040. "Combat Zone" should be written just above Line 4, Part III. To speed the processing of refunds, these returns should be clearly marked "Combat Zone" at the top of Page 1, too. The return now being filed should also be marked "Amended Return."

Q. I'm taking a research fellowship. Will this grant be considered taxable income to me?

A. Within limits, scholarship and fellowship grants are usually tax exempt. Check with the institution giving you the fellowship or with your local Internal Revenue office to see what the law specifies in your particular case.

Q. I am leaving the country next month for a job overseas. Do I have to file a 1965 income tax return before I leave?

A. No you don't. Be sure to obtain a copy of the booklet, "Tax Guide for U. S. Citizens Abroad," Internal Revenue Service Publication No. 54, available free at your local Internal Revenue office.

Q. I just retired after turning 65 last month. For income I will have my Social Security, a company pension and a monthly annuity check from my insurance company. What part of this will be taxable?

A. Social Security benefits are not taxable. Also, those portions of your annuity check and company pension which are a recovery of your cost of the annuity or contributions to the pension plan are not taxable. Your annuity checks will be taxable only to the extent your proceeds are greater than the cost of the policy.

Computation of the taxable portions of these items are explained in the I.R.S. publication Document No. 5569, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans," and Document No. 5018, "Retirement Income and Credit." They are available free at all local Internal Revenue offices.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Sun Is Fun (Not Too Well Done)
"What a lovely sleep I had on shortly before the chills and fever the beach!" said Snoozy Susan set in. It happens every summer—a new crop of victims to the innocent idea that you can't have too much of a good thing.

Susan felt robbed when the blisters began forming, because she thought she'd acted with just the right amount of caution. The sky was overcast—so where was the danger of sunburn? Unfortunately it doesn't work that way. You can get as cruel a burn on a hazy day as on a bright one.

Skins differ in their sensitivity to sunlight. Children burn more quickly than adults. Babies under two, and delicate children of any age, need to be watched closely when sunbaths are taken. But even for grownups, more than 15 minutes of exposure for the first time in a season can be dangerous. After that first quarter-hour, the exposure time can be increased by another 15 minutes each day. That was a gradual suntan builds up—the kind that furnishes real protection. The other way can put you to bed for days.

Sunbathing if not overdone is beneficial to most people, but can be definitely harmful to others. People with TB, for example, have been known to suffer from a worsening of their condition after prolonged exposure to the sun. Getting overheated in the hot sun can put a strain on the internal organs, particularly the heart and blood vessels. An elderly person, or one with heart trouble or any other serious disease, should consult his doctor before sunbathing.

Severe sunburn can cause serious illnesses accompanied by chills, fever and delirium. A doctor should always be called if blisters develop; blisters bring danger of infection.

In short—have a nice day at the beach! You will if you take your sun in sensible doses.

While stalking always try to have the sun at your back, so that a deer is looking into the brilliant glare and vice versa—Sports Afield.

Accidents can be prevented by intelligent effort and understanding of safety measures.

relatives and friends, and—in many instances—their employers. Hence, we indicate for our readers the probabilities as well as they can be weighed at this point of crisis in Southeast Asia.
No Early End

Of Commitment in Sight

U. S. forces are now actively involved in the fighting—in addition to their earlier role as trainers and consultants—and there will be a steady build-up of both material and manpower
in Vietnam for an indefinite period. Almost certainly there will be no slowdown in our shipment of troops for at least several months—even if unexpected progress should be made toward a negotiated truce and a potential cease-fire. Readers can be sure of one thing: President Johnson does not want to settle for anything short of complete independence and freedom for South Vietnam like that achieved in South Korea.

While there are reported to be about 75,000 of our men in Vietnam at this time, more will be needed. The Pentagon has implied that as many as 250,- 000 men could be sent to Southeast Asia without our having to increase our over-all armed forces strength of 2.6 million.
But the government knows well that further escalation in Vietnam could prompt the Communist world strategists to complicate matters. They could rekindle trouble in Korea; and they could inflame any number of festering sores in Africa, Malaysia, Cuba, and Central and South America.

Draft "Take" Will Climb

So it is wisest for all concerned to prepare for the worst and count on heavier draft calls for some time to come. Up to now, the military has expressed no intention of drafting married men. Nor is there any expectation that student deferments will be revoked; boys already in college can still hope to complete their education and get their degrees. Little has yet been said officially about business deferments; but if we should go on any sort of emergency basis, the pattern of World War II would probably be followed. This would mean by-passing those younger industrial workers considered essential to the war effort and not easily replaceable by older men.
Specialists in the space program would surely be added to the list for deferment.

All inducted men are put through a regular basic and advanced training program of 12 weeks, at minimum, before they can be sent overseas. Until the U. S. forces in South Vietnam extended their efforts recently from the advisory field to open combat, relatively few draftees were sent over because they lacked experience and special teaching skills. However, draftees rate no separate consideration; they may be sent to Vietnam after what the Pentagon considers thorough preparation.
So it is likely that their number will henceforth edge upward proportionately, especially if the war intensifies.

Over Half The Men

19 To 26 Will Serve

The U. S. Department of Defense reports that 58% of the nation's youths either are serving—or have served—by the time they reach 27, the age when eligibility ceases. About 30% fail to meet physical, mental, or moral requirements. The remainder are deferred in accordance with basic draft-board regulations. The military would prefer a system that would give them the younger men first instead of the older. Certainly, some changes may be made along these lines if manpower needs have to be increased substantially.

In summary: Young men today face more than a 50-50 chance of military service, as either draftees, volunteers, or reservists. Even if there should be a distinct improvement in the international situation, this is undoubtedly the way things will be for some months to come. Personal and business plans should therefore be lined up accordingly.

Bullets Announce Ticket Plans

The Baltimore Bullets this week announced they will sell their 1965-66 tickets at five prices instead of four, to conform with other major sports events which take place at the Baltimore Civic Center.

The scale will be $4.00, $3.50, $3.00, $2.50 and $2.00. Previously, the scale was $4.00, $3.00, $2.25
and $1.50.

Principal feature of the adjustment will be reduction of 25 per cent of last year's $4.00 seats to $3.00. These reduced seats comprise the six prime mid-court sections of the Lower Concourse.

At the same time, the Bullets made the following additional announcements relative to tickets:

There will be a continuation of past policies regarding $1.00 admission to high school students on certain non-school conflicting dates.

Plans are under way to provide other even more liberal considerations to youngsters 13 and under on certain dates—details to be announced later.

Certain other dates will be designated as Ladies Days or Ladies Nights, with special ticket considerations being provided for the lovelier sex.

Also, the Bullets are pleased to announce they already have surpassed last year's total (albeit modest) season ticket sale.

Eighty-six per cent of last year's season ticket fans have renewed their orders for 1965-66.

It is doubtful that any other North American animal remotely approaches the grizzly as a source of legends, folklore and conversational gambits around the hot stove.

He is, without question, extremely tenacious of life and can be a monumental problem to get down and keep down. The classic shot for a grizzly is much the same as with most other soft-skinned dangerous game. You try to break the shoulder's and destroy the lungs. Follow-up shots may be required, once he's anchored. The so-called brain shot (get 'im square between the eyes") is not so good, as for one thing the skull is valuable as trophy and for another it is the most unreliable mark on a grizzly. Spinal shots should be avoided. Although a front spinal shot severing the vertebrae is effective, it is a chancy thing unless you (1) possess an extraordinary knowledge of grizzly anatomy and (2) are a highly skilled marksman. A spinal hit to the rear of the diaphragm (midsection) will immobilize the hind-quarters, but this does not end the incident, as the grizzly gets about very rapidly indeed with only his front legs—and at this juncture his rage is such that just viewing it would scare the loincloth off a Mau Mau executioner.

A grizzly customarily does not maul a human past the stage at which he feels the human is dead (no longer a source of danger). "People have saved their lives by playing dead, though of course any encounter with a grizzly leaves you with a bit of a going-over," writes John Jobson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

azine. Sometimes grizzlies bury the victim in a shallow grave and cover it with brush. They do not eat human flesh, as a rule, though they are often accused of it. More likely it is smaller, less discriminating beasts who do the foul deed. But if a grizzly's tracks or sign are there, naturally he gets the blame.

In the 1880's the grizzly was called "grisly" (by Theodore Roosevelt, for one), with the attendant frightful implication. Later the word "grizzly" became the vogue in print.

Health And Safety Advice Given

Nearsightedness

The nearsighted or myopic eye is usually longer than the average normal eyeball. Rays of light from a distant object focus in front of the retina, or seeing coat inside the eye, instead of on it. Vision for near objects is clear but distant objects are blurred.

There is no cure for nearsightedness. Glasses usually will correct the problem and permit relatively normal vision.

Even in healthy children, nearsightedness usually increases during the most active growing period because the eyes also grow larger. After full growth is attained there is usually no further reduction in vision for distance.

Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, says that activities that are good for the normally sighted child are good for the healthy myopic child—plenty of fresh air, routine play and exercise to the point of normal fatigue, working in well-lighted rooms and eating a sound diet.

Some cases of myopia are seriously progressive and may be associated with disease. Fortunately, seriously progressive nearsightedness is now rare in the United States.

Myopia is corrected with concave lenses. These glasses are thin in the center and thick at the edges, causing the rays of light which focus in front of the retina to diverge and strike the retina, thus making the image clear. In middle or old age nearsightedness may improve slightly because the eye usually becomes a little more farsighted. Rarely does this change make a nearsighted eye normal.

A frequent change of prescription for glasses usually is necessary for nearsighted persons until about the age of 25. It is important for nearsighted individuals to have annual eye examinations.

With the approach of another school term in the fall, eye examinations for the family are important. Many children are nearsighted without realizing it. Sometimes the defect is first discovered by a teacher who finds that the pupil cannot read the blackboard.

See your eye doctor (ophthalmologist) or, if you do not know an eye specialist, ask your family doctor for a recommendation.

The Navy Department was originally established in October 1775 as the Naval Committee, with a membership of three.

Wreck No. 21 At Intersection

A 24-year-old Bethesda man and a 19-year-old girl are reported in satisfactory condition after their motorcycle collided with a car outside of Emmitsburg.

Margaret Ellen Eckart, 59, of Taneytown, was travelling west on Md. 97. State Police said she had stopped for a traffic signal at the intersection of Md. 97 and U. S. 15 and failed to observe a motorcycle travelling north on U. S. 15.

She pulled into the intersection and was struck broadside by a motorcycle driven by Paul Dawson Jr., Bethesda, with Linda Lipman of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a passenger.

Dawson and Miss Lipman were taken to the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, in the VFW ambulance. Mrs. Eckart and a passenger, Curtis Reid, 87, of Taneytown, were slightly bruised but refused treatment.

The investigating officer was Tfc. Earl F. Tracey.

Large Number Of Licenses Revoked Or Suspended

Some 70,851 Maryland operator licenses were either revoked or suspended during the 1965 fiscal year by the Department of Motor Vehicles, Commissioner John R. Jewell reported this week.

Of the total, 64,215 were suspended because of an accumulation of points as a result of violations of the motor vehicle law; as a result of hearings held either at DMV Headquarters at Glen Burnie or in the various counties; for failure to comply with financial responsibility requirements or for medical reasons.

The remaining 6,636 were revoked with 5,728 the result of the point system and 908 the result of hearings either at DMV headquarters in Glen Burnie or in the counties.

Although license revocations during fiscal 1965 exceeded by 272 the number revoked in fiscal 1964, the number of suspensions were 2,805 fewer in fiscal 1965 than the 67,020 registered during the previous year.

In addition to the 70,851 suspensions and revocations for fiscal 1965, another 1,898 individuals were refused licenses. During the previous year, refusals totaled 1,812.

During the year ending June 30th, the DMV administered 109,006 driver examinations with 80,869 applicants being licensed. A total of 151,391 drivers also were assessed points during the 1965 fiscal year, some 20,338 more than in the previous year.

Of the total for fiscal 1965, 94,606 were for one point each; 54,385 were for three points each, seven were for five points, 2,333 were for eight points and 5,060 were for 12 points.

Some 2,696 drivers were convicted of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of either alcohol or drugs during fiscal 1965, or 246 less than in fiscal 1964.

During fiscal 1965, some 10,407 operators completed courses at the Department's Driver Rehabilitation Clinic, 553 more than in fiscal 1964. Since the Clinic began operation on July 23, 1962, a total of 22,356 students have attended.

Local Man Quizzed In Death

A 35-year-old Route 1 man, Charles Milton Knott, was being held at the Frederick County jail on charges of assault and battery in connection with the death of Bernard H. Sirrell, 42, Washington, Pa., on July 14.

Bond was set at $1,500 police said.

Sirrell's body was found near the intersection of Route 40 and Route 27, south of Mt. Airy.

TFC William F. Holland and TFC Douglas Schotterbeck, Westminster Barracks, Maryland State Police, have been conducting the investigation.

They said Knott had committed himself to Springfield State Hospital at Sykesville, and was released last Wednesday to police. Since Knott's arrest, the investigation has been turned over to TFC William Newcomer, Frederick Barracks.

Knott reportedly told police he struck Sirrell in the stomach with an axe handle following an argument over a wine bottle in Knott's home. Sirrell then left Emmitsburg, apparently hitch-hiking as far as Ridgeville before he died.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Club Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club was called to order by the president, Jeff Valentine, at the home of Bobby Sharrer recently.

Forty-one members answered the roll call with a Bible verse. The club also welcomed three new members: Lee, Roy, and Jane Bassler. It was also announced at this meeting that Mr. Lawrence Bassler would be the new dairy project leader.

Demonstrations were given by Paula Goetz on "Forest Fire Prevention," and by Becky Keilholtz on "How to Prepare a 4-H Record Book."

Reports were given by Linda Keilholtz and Darlyn Valentine on the County County Campfire held July 2. At this event, 15 members from the club attended.

Jeff Valentine, Kim Parks and Becky Keilholtz, the members of the club who had 4-H exchanges from Iowa, gave reports on the activities held during this enjoyable week.

It was announced that the annual 4-H Tour Day will be held Saturday, July 31, starting at 9 a.m. and meeting at Saylor's Store.

The 4-H family picnic will be held August 2 at Mt. Tabor Park. The activities for this event will begin at 6:30 p.m. Only two members of the club are going to attend State 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland from August 2-6.

A committee was formed to place a booth at the fairs. Chairman of this committee is Paula Goetz. Others on the committee are Becky Keilholtz, Dale Valentine, Sharon Goetz, Linda and Mary Ann Keilholtz, Kim Parks and Gene Bollinger. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the Sharrer family.

tative in Washington to act as liaison between our State Departments, Agencies and Institutions and Maryland's congressional delegates.

In his letter Mr. Goldstein stated that he had been considering a similar idea for quite a while and that he had discussed the matter with Maryland's Congressman At Large, Carlton Sickles, in the early Spring.

Comptroller Goldstein concluded his letter to Rep. Fallon by stating that "The Comptroller's Office maintains a Washington branch at the International Office Building, 1319 F. Street, N.W., and, for the time being, a representative from the State could use that office for his headquarters."

TRY ISOMETRIC YOGA Something new, under the sun

Take your sun in easy doses, and your exercise, too. Everybody knows that, but does everybody observe it? And be sure that the tanning lotion you pop into your beach bag has a good sunscreen, like Bronztan, for instance.

You might also take along a fascinating new book like the one about Isometric Yoga Exercise, wherein your emotional and mental outlook are duly considered, as well as your muscles. It is all devised for the housewife and the girl who works in an office, and if you've ever had the "kitchen kinks" or "shoulder blade tension," you know how you need it.

Yoga for the average young woman as presented by Mr. Richard Hittleman, in "Yoga for Physical Fitness", gives exercises for releasing tension, adding suppleness to the spine, back, legs, knees, ankles and feet; for better circulation, muscle toning, posture, headaches, even weight control, insomnia and eyestrain.

If your date is along on your next sortie to the shore, d-double-dare him to try the Yoga "Full Twist", the "All Fours", the "Locust", or the "Posture Clasp". (They are somewhat different from the Frog, the Monkey, and the Watusi.) And be sure to let him use your Bronztan Lotion if he forgets to bring his own. We repeat—it has a good sunscreen. Nothing like it for up-to-four-hours of protection without burning. It lasts even after a dip in the water, and leaves a luscious bronze tan on YOU!

An ancient exercise for relaxation. . . . Lie flat, arms relaxed, eyes closed, think of your toes. Gradually concentrate on foot, ankle, calf, knee, thigh, relaxing the muscles. Continue slowly upward through torso, neck, arms, face. Then, for one minute, visualize your body filled with light. If it fades, bring it back.

A. THE "CORPSE" POSTURE

B. OVERHEAD SQUAT
(For Grace, Balance, Poise. It also firms and strengthens legs.)

Slowly bend knees, lower the body, back straight, until you sit on your heels. Immediately push up slowly, on toes. Drop to flat feet. Repeat 5 times.

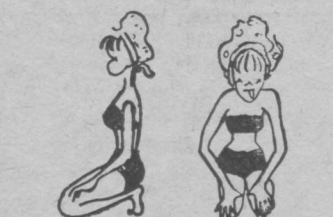

C. MODIFIED HEAD STAND
(For headaches, tension)
Take position 1. Forehead on the floor. Raise the body to position 2. Go as far as you can, and hold—for one to three minutes.

D. THE LEG CLASP
(To strengthen legs)
From standing position, slowly bring trunk forward and clasp hands behind knees. Do not bend knees. Gently pull trunk toward knees without strain. Count 10. Repeat with hands clasped behind calves and again behind ankles. Straighten up slowly each time. Do twice in each position.

E. THE LION
(For face, throat and neck)
Sit as shown. Lean trunk forward, open eyes wide, tense muscles. Try to touch chin with tongue. Feel face and neck become tense. Hold count; slowly return tongue, relax. Repeat 3 times.

F. ARM AND LEG STRETCH
(For grace and poise)
Stand solid. Raise right arm for balance. Slowly lift left foot behind you, grasping with left hand. Pull foot close to body. Drop head back. Hold—count 5. Bring arm and leg down. Twice on each side.

G. THE COBRA
(For back and spine)
Lie on tummy. In slow motion, tilt head back, raise trunk. Then place hands as shown. Push up slowly. Hold—for a count of 10. Lower slowly in reverse manner. Allow body to go limp. Perform twice.

H. PRELIMINARY LEG PULL
(For back and spine)
Sit erect. Slowly raise arms overhead, leaning backward. Bring arms forward, lean forward. Take a firm hold on knees, pull trunk downward without strain. Let neck go limp. Hold—count 5. Slowly straighten up. Repeat grasping calves, and then ankles. Perform three times.

I. SHOULDER STAND
(For circulation)
Lie flat, relaxed. Swing legs up and back so that hips leave the ground. Prop hands against hips. Straighten. Hold—one to three minutes. Bend knees and lower legs as shown. Roll downward slowly, allowing body to go limp.
