Now that the water ban has been in effect for a week there are known instances where violations are continuing. Citizens were warned fairly and were asked for complete cooperation, however as is usually the case, there are those who think the rules were made only for the other fellow. Many of the violators are known to the local authorities and a list is being compiled. Those caught infringing on the regulations will be metered and charged accordingly, and in addition they could easily be fined or their water shut off entirely. Town officials say the ban is no joke. It was placed into effect only after much thought and discussion. Unless it rains, and rains plenty, there will be additional restrictions placed on all of us. Some of the nocturnal sprinklers feel safe but their neighbors know what is going on and they feel sheepish as they stand there sprinkling idly away knowing that they are being watched . . . by their neighbors . . . and by Town officials.

Vacation time is here again and many Emmitsburgians are on their way. Some travel great distances, to Europe, Hawaii, etc. Almost anywhere you roam you bump into an Emmitsburgian enjoying a respite from his business or job. The town really seems quiet with so many people away and especially with the by-pass taking the heavy traffic through the outskirts. For hours you're apt to see only a car or two around the Square these days and one wonders if the town is being deserted. Not so, I say. In just a short month there'll be 1500 college students in our midst once more and I'm certain you'll see a lot more excitement when conditions return to normal and all the vacationers are back on the job once more. Oh yes, come this fall we'll have a new business here . . . a Snack Bar. This operation will sort of replace the one which was destroyed by the fire at the Recreation Center, and it'll be operated by local people.

The State Fire Marshall was in town last week and I imagine there'll be a flood of letters received by local residents in the very near future. Preliminary reports indicate that some properties will be in for a multitude of changes and improvements, so to cost a considerable sum of money. Naturally there will be some resentment by being told what to do and when to do it, but then you know it's all for the best. Many hazardous conditions have existed in some local properties for many years and we really have been lucky. A lot of us will breathe easier when these conditions have been eliminated.

Mass Concelebrated In Mount Chapel

Another historic mark in the long history of Mount St. Mary's College was taken last week when Mass was concelebrated in the college chapel by Rev. Peter A. Coad, dean of the faculty, and Rev. Thomas G. Smith, spiritual director of Mount St. Mary's Seminary. Rev. James F. Kelly assisted at the Mass. Special permission was granted by His Eminence, Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, Archbishop of Baltimore, for the Mass to be concelebrated in keeping with the new liturgy. Permission was also granted for a Mass to be concelebrated each week.

A special altar was constructed near the main chapel for the convenience of Father Coad, who is recuperating from a recent illness. Father Coad, who last year celebrated the 70th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, remarked of the experience of concelebrating Mass with Father Smith, that it was like saying his first Mass all over again because of the newness of the liturgy.

Swimming Classes Over

The construction work at Saint Joseph College makes it necessary to close the pool for the remainder of the summer. No swimming classes will be taught before next summer.

Dudash's Service Station Is Robbed

A string of robberies in five service stations in the Emmitsburg-Thurmont area early Wednesday morning were reported to state police authorities, who are continuing their investigations of the break-ins.

Thieves took approximately $8 in cash and $200 in merchandise at Dudash's Phillips 66 gas station on Route 15 south of Emmitsburg in the one station entered in the Emmitsburg area.

Entry was gained through a back door which was smashed by the thieves, who took four tires, two radios, batteries, and other merchandise. The robbery was discovered by Paul Dudash, the owner, when he opened the station for business at 6 a.m.

The station is in the process of being painted, and the thieves left fingerprints on the wet paint, which may lead to their identification and apprehension. Tfc. Earl F. Tracy is investigating.

Two Youths Break Into Hahn Home

Two young men broke into the home of Clarence Hahn, Waynesboro Road, early Tuesday morning around 1:00 o'clock and stole a coin collection worth approximately $10.

Entry was made through a back window by removing a screen. The thieves searched the downstairs for other valuables, and then ransacked the upstairs rooms while the residents were sleeping. They were frightened off when Clarence Hahn awoke and spied them.

Hahn notified state police authorities, and Trooper Sanders is investigating.

High School Band Spends Week Here

A marching band from Lebanon Catholic High School, Lebanon, Pa., composed of 47 girls and 27 boys, returned to Lebanon today after spending the week at Mount St. Mary's College rehearsing their marching and playing preliminary to entry into national competition.

Arrangements were made for the boys to room at the Mount and for the girls to stay at Saint Joseph College. All meals were taken at the Mount in the dining hall of the Cogan Student Union.

The girls arrived at the Mount campus each day at 10 a.m. and remained until 4:30 o'clock. Both boys and girls spent the days practicing their marches on Echo Field.

Mr. Mann, instructor of the band at Lebanon Catholic High School, as well as other faculty members, accompanied the group.

The airman is a graduate of Gettysburg Area High School.

Weekend Rains Help To Break Hot Spell

A cloudburst drenched the Emmitsburg area Sunday afternoon with another cloudburst in the evening, to bring some welcome relief from the scorching heat of the weekend as well as some needed addition to the almost depleted water supply.

Approximately half an inch of rain fell on Sunday, and while the rain was very welcome in the parched area of Emmitsburg and vicinity, a great deal more rain will be needed in order to bring the rainfall up to normal for the month.

Water emergency precautions are still in effect, and residents are urged to conserve water as much as possible in order to avoid the imposition of more stringent regulations.

Local Cooperative Elects Officers

Robert Martin of Sabillasville, and Paul Wivell, of Emmitsburg, were elected to the local Southern States Agency Advisory Board, at the annual membership day held in Emmitsburg on Tuesday. Over 25 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Charles Brauer of Rocky Ridge was named chairman of the Board while Harry Swonley of Emmitsburg, was picked as secretary.

Elected to the local Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Kermit Glass and Mrs. Carroll Wivell, of Emmitsburg. Mrs. James Sanders of Emmitsburg, was chosen as chairman of the committee while Mrs. Albert Wivell was named secretary.

Maurice Fuss of Emmitsburg was chosen as a delegate to represent the local membership at the Southern States Cooperative's 42nd Annual Stockholders Meeting in Richmond, Va., on November 11 and 12. Charles Brauer was named alternate.

There was also the election of a delegate and alternate to a District Election meeting to be held in Winchester this fall. Kermit Glass was named delegate, while Raymond Keilholtz was named as alternate.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the financial report of Southern States Cooperative, given by R. A. Nickle of Walkersville, a regional representative of the organization. According to the report, members of the organization in a five-state area put through their Cooperative about $90,300,000 worth of purchasing and marketing during the 1964-65 fiscal year.

There was also a showing of color slides of the cooperative's 41st annual stockholders meeting held in Richmond last fall.

Ralph Lindsey, manager of Emmitsburg Feed and Farm Supply, gave the report on local operations and services, and showed color slides of local patrons farming activities.

Canvassing Starts Monday In Drive For Ambulance Fund

Contributions to the ambulance fund drive of the local VFW have now reached a total of $2524.50 to date, according to an announcement by Chairman Guy A. Baker, Jr., who has expressed satisfaction with the progress of the drive.

Baker stated that a total of 273 contributions have been received toward the purchase of the new ambulance, and he hopes that additional donations will be obtained in the house-to-house canvassing of individuals who have not yet mailed in their contributions. This direct solicitation will begin Monday, August 16.

The new ambulance, which will cost approximately $10,000, is expected to arrive here for operation around the middle of September. Expressions of appreciation to the VFW for their service to the community in operating this ambulance service continue to be received in the mail daily, and additional contributions are being received each day.

Names of contributors to the drive to date are being published in this issue of the Chronicle. Additional names will be published next week as donations are received.

He was unconscious upon admission to the hospital with injuries which necessitated the amputation of an arm, and remained in a coma until Sunday.

Thurmont police said Garner, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, failed to negotiate a curve, crossed into the opposite lane of traffic, and crashed into a vehicle driven by Larry Hauver, of Thurmont.

The members were also asked to help to sort the clothing on Thursday evening prior to the regular meeting. It was also decided to sell homemade soup at the Rummage Sale. Gloria Martin will be in charge of publicity for the sale and Hazel Topper will contact members for donations of clothing and soup.

The President asked the members to publicize the fact that the Auxiliary does cater to wedding receptions, since she had several inquiries regarding this service.

He hath put a new song in my mouth.—(Psalms 40:3)

There is a song in our heart, given to us by the Creator. It is a song of joy of living. As we let this joy flow out to all persons, we are kept whole and free. The people around us are blessed because of the response our song calls forth from their hearts.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws. Clip and save for future reference.

Questions And Answers

Q. I have been asked to attend a church convention this summer as a delegate from our congregation. Will my expenses be deductible?

A. If you are attending as a duly elected delegate and not solely as a member, then your reimbursed expenses directly connected with the convention could be a deductible charitable donation. You will need adequate records to substantiate your expenses. Also be sure that you do not include any personal expenses such as sightseeing, or any expense for your wife or children.

Q. How long should I keep copies of my past tax returns?

A. As long as their contents may become material in the administration of any internal revenue law. Most records in support of items appearing on an income tax return should be retained until after expiration of the statute of limitations for the tax year covered by such return. These records can also be useful to you in preparing future tax returns, claims for refund, or to your executor.

Q. How long does the government have to check your return?

A. The basic statute of limitations is three years from the date the return was filed. In certain other cases, the period is longer. In all cases the period does not begin until after the return is filed. When there is fraud or failure to file a return, there is no limitation.

Q. I just bought a trucking business. When do I have to file my highway use tax return?

A. A return is due on or before the last day of the month which follows the month in which a vehicle is first used on the public highways. The regular tax period for vehicles begins July 1. It is most likely that the person you acquired the business from took care of the tax for the current year although this is something you should be sure of. If he didn't pay it you could be liable for the tax during the part of the current year he owned the trucks.

The requirements of this tax are explained in Internal Revenue Service Publication No. 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck Tractors, and Buses." It is available free at any of our local offices.

Q. I lost my refund check. What should I do?

A. Report this to your local Internal Revenue office. They will explain the procedures for reporting this loss and making a claim for another check.

Q. I read yesterday where the government settled its tax claim against some celebrity for 10 cents on the dollar. How do you justify that?

A. The description of a settlement in a tax case as being made on the basis of "so many cents on the dollar" is misleading and quite unjustified. A settlement, regardless of its amount, reflects the amount of tax in controversy that is properly due. Such a negotiated agreement often eliminates the need for a court trial to decide the matter.

For a number of reasons, it may be necessary for the Revenue Service to set up taxes which are substantially greater than the amounts ultimately found to be due. For instance, the period of limitations may be about to expire and the taxpayer has not yet produced the evidence needed to support his position, or perhaps the taxpayer has refused to cooperate, which is quite common in a case of fraud.

Also, duplicate assessment must occasionally be made until it is determined which of two or more taxpayers actually owes the tax. When all the facts are developed, the amount previously set up are reduced to their correct levels and this leads to a settlement of the type which you describe.

It is the policy of the Internal Revenue Service to dispose of disputed cases upon a basis which is fair and just under the law to both the taxpayer and the government, considering all the facts and circumstances involved. The standard on which cases are settled is the correct tax liability without regard to whether the taxpayer is prominent or unknown.

For further information contact your local Internal Revenue office.

erations impress the budget-minded family man. But there is another advantage above economy and mobility. The camping trailer is part house trailer and part tent, and many people find it valuable convenient to have their hualing trailer and well-designed, commodious tent one indivisible functional unit.

"If you enjoy family-style conventional tent camping, chances are excellent you'll be happy with a camping trailer," points out John Jobson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. For family-type auto camping, it is far and away more convenient than the straight tent setup. Generally, all you need is self-contained in one superbly engineered unit. As the great canvas portion (the main living quarters) blossoms out from the neat trailer box, everything is at your fingertips. There are, of course, the storage sections of these rigs, and full-size beds and/or bunks are immediately ready for use. The bottled-gas stove is ready to go, and so is the icebox or refrigerator. Some models have private toilet facilities and water-storage tanks. This style of camping is not easily classified. It is not exactly conventional tent camping, nor is it travel-trailer or pickup-coach living afield. It is a way of life of its own—camp-trailer adventuring.

patients. Fifty of them showed improvement at the end of their two-week course. Six months later, all but ten of the original group were checked again and nearly three out of four continued to feel better. Which indicates that good breathing instruction can do a lot of patients a lot of good.

Chronic cough and shortness of breath are common symptoms of Respiratory Disease. If you have either or both, your Christmas Seal association advises an immediate medical check.

"Mad" Anthony Invitational Pace Friday night, Aug. 13. Under the tutelage of Stanley Dancer, whose NZ pacer Cardigen Bay captured last year's "Mad" Anthony classic, Oreti has won close to $100,000 this season defeating many top American free-for-alls. Past Maneuvers—1896 Style

MECHANICAL MANEUVERS—Members of the United States Military Academy Class of 1896 take part in mechanical maneuvers at Fort Clinton, West Point, N. Y. Today's cadets undergo intensive military training two months each year during the summer. Plebes (freshmen) are taught the customs and traditions of the Army and of the Military Academy, and are schooled in basic individual military subjects. Yearlings (sophomores) receive intensive training at Camp Buckner, near West Point. They learn squad and platoon tactics, fire various weapons, and study the functions of the branches of the Army. All cadets, as juniors or seniors, serve as junior officers in Army units during the summer months.

Among the advantages of the folding trailer is convenience in towing and overall handling. You don't need special rear-view mirrors, brakes or complex trailer hitch.

The trailers are exceedingly light in weight and thus present no towing/handling problem for the family-size automobile. This is a feature in cruising the open straightaway turnpikes, on long hill ascents and descents—and in negotiating truly rough backcountry roads. You can take camp trailers where you can take no standard-size travel trailer or lofty pickup coach. For what you get, they are truly inexpensive. Folded (compacted) for traveling, they are no larger than the average utility hauling trailer, and so the camper doesn't have to go to great lengths equipping his automobile for heavy-duty towing. CARE OF YOUR DOG'S NAILS
By Bob Bartos, Manager
Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

The most frequently neglected part of a dog is his nails. This is because many owners assume that regular exercise wears them down. Unfortunately, the majority of dogs don't get the amount of exercise on hard ground that it takes to keep paws well pedicured. The result of such nail-neglect can be sore feet and lameness, and the development of a faulty front gait, particularly in the growing youngster.

To shorten your dog's nails you need two pieces of equipment; a special nail clipper for dogs which is available in pet supply stores; and a good file, either a "four-way shoe rasp" or a "double cut bastard" available in hardware stores.

Start by clipping off a little of the nail at a time if this is your first attempt at the job. The beginner must beware of cutting into the quick, the live pink flesh within the nail which is easy to spot on a light-nailed dog but difficult when nails are dark. If you should inadvertently hit the quick, the pain is apt to make your dog touchy about the feet; wary of hard to manage during subsequent pedicures, so do be careful.

After you've cut as much away as you feel is safe, use the file to smooth off rough edges. Draw it in one direction, from the top of the nail downward in a round stroke, to the end of the nail or underneath.

If you introduce your dog to regular monthly pedicures when he's still a puppy he'll learn to patiently tolerate the procedure. It will make all subsequent nail clippings during your pet's lifetime much easier on both of you.

Feeding tip: Nothing puts excess fat on your dog faster than too much fat in his diet. The best way to make sure your pet gets just the amount that he needs to maintain good health and weight is to feed him canned Friskies dog food.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Breathing Easier
Punctual with your breathing lately? Getting it done at the right time in the right way? Silly notion! Everybody knows breathing is effortless—it "just happens."

But does it? Not if you ask the 225 people who've attended the "school for breathing" that's been going full blast in Alameda County, California, since 1962. These are people suffering from asthma, emphysema, or chronic bronchitis—severe forms of RD (Respiratory Disease). Victims of these ailments—notably emphysema—have to fight hard and painfully for every breath they draw.

Which brings us right back to the "school for breathing," run by the physical therapy department of Merritt Hospital. As Dr. E. Ronald Riggall explains: "People with emphysema cannot get the air out of their lungs and for some reason try to breathe only with the upper part of the chest. . . . Purpose of the breathing class is to teach these people to breathe with the large and flexible lower chest and diaphragm."

Patients also learn about posture and rhythm in breathing; posture; and how to relax. They are advised not to smoke, and to engage in moderate exercise. They are given a try at a compressed air breathing machine.

How well does this "curriculum" work? The National Tuberculosis Association, which combats all forms of Respiratory Disease including TB, financed a survey of results in the first class of 78

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point of View On:
Consumer Goods And War
BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 12 — Since President Johnson gave his talk on the attitude of our government regarding Vietnam, there has been a general feeling that the public might get excited over a possible shortage of consumer goods and rush to the stores to stock up. This is what happened after the Korean War really got "hot".

Conditions Different Now
When people talk today about possible shortages of consumer goods as a result of war-scared buying, they should remember that the situation is quite different from what it was fifteen years ago. At that time, the country had not made up the big World War II deficiencies in cars and household goods owned by our citizens. So when the Korean War grew in size, men and women who had thought they had plenty of time to replace worn-out refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, radios, etc., unlicked and cleaned out merchandisers' shelves.

Now, when we look into our neighbors' homes, we find that the so-called invisible consumer inventories of nearly all kinds of hard and soft goods are close to record levels. And most yards and garages have not just one, but two or more, shiny automobiles. Certainly, even a much bigger war in Vietnam than President Johnson now talks about could hardly bring on a wave of consumer buying like that touched off by the Korean scare.

Merchandisers Should Avoid Panic Stocking
Merchandising methods too have changed markedly since 1950. Huge shopping centers, vast centrally located warehouses, computer-operated inventory control systems were just on the drafting boards for most store chains when the Korean War broke out. Today such modern merchandising tools are commonplace. Economists have said lately that the new methods of storekeeping have gone a long way toward warding off the old-fashioned sequence of boom and bust. Improved warehouse tie-ins—interconnected with all stores, and with a central control by electronic data processing—have made it possible for merchants to avoid overstocking of inventories. By keeping their shelves relatively clear of pile-ups, the need for hasty liquidation of stocks—bringing competitive pressure on other merchandisers—has been largely eliminated.

However, regardless of the marvelous new systems of merchandising and inventory control that have been developed, it is not the wires and the computers that operate the vast chains and the beautiful shopping centers. It is the men behind the systems that still "call the shots". If they panic and decide to overstock their warehouses and shelves, we could still have an old-fashioned inventory "bust".

Events Hold The Answer
At this moment, it seems pretty certain that the war in Vietnam will be greatly stepped up during the months ahead. That should mean a greater emphasis on the production of goods that will be used to advance the war effort. As consumers see production being directed more and more toward the materials of war, they may crowd into the stores to add to their already bulging home inventories.

Nevertheless, we do not believe that any wave of consumer scare buying would last long or be of great size—for the reasons given above. The real danger in any rush to the stores would be its effect on the attitude of the managers of the big chains. If they should "tell" their computers to load up on all kinds of goods, we could see a sharp run-up in prices and a buildup for later trouble. Nor do we believe that a sudden "peace scare" is impossible. The Communists may make moves toward negotiation if they find their "summer monsoon" offensive has not defeated the South Vietnamese or scared the Americans off. And sudden peace news would immediately halt any consumer rush to buy goods at climbing prices.

Panic In Consumer Goods Could Result
Indeed, if merchants should lose their heads in any war scare build-up of inventories, they could be laying the groundwork for later forced liquidation. With the present modern warehousing and electronic control methods, such an overstocking of goods certainly is not necessary. Hence, regardless of developments in the weeks ahead, smart merchants will not "go overboard" in adding to inventories.

OUTDOOR SPORTING TIPS

Funny Funnel
Got an odd-ball sized bottle or jar you want to fill? But no funnel will fit it? Make a pin hole in a section of inner tube and stretch it over the bottle neck. Now fill tube with liquid and watch it run in. No leaks.

Pursed Bullets
A wide-mouthed coin purse makes a good holder for bullets. Clip attaches to your belt in the handiest spot for quick action.

Keyed
You can tell in the dark what key goes where if you file "Code" notches in the handles (and remember them).

Desert Icebox
Keep camp food fresh with a desert ice box. (Weather must be hot and dry.) Place food in a wooden box in the sun. Cover with burlap. Punch enough holes in large cans so filled with water they keep burlap moist. Evaporation draws heat out.

Ice House
Don't store your collapsible ice fishing shack during the summer months. Adapt it for use camping or even as guest sleeping quarters in your backyard.

Leader Button
A white button slipped down your leader a yard or so from lure or bait attracts fish, increases strikes.

Boat Anchor
If you come to a good fishing spot but left your boat's anchor home, hook a plug into nearby branches or rocks and tie line to oarlock. You'll be surprised at how well a light fishing line will hold a boat.

Turtle Raft
Make a raft 3 ft. by 3 ft. In the center attach a wire basket baited with chicken or fish guts. Around the basket fasten gang hooks. Turtles try to get the bait, get caught in hooks. (Don't get "caught" taking them off.)

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Consternation in Chillicothe

About the only Thoroughbred aficionados who do not think affectionately of Mrs. Ethel Jacob's horse of the same name are those in Chillicothe, Ohio, home town of a turf heroine of another era, Imp.

As of now, Imp, who was affectionately known in her day as "The Coal Black Lady" and "Queen of the West," is 10th in the ranking of Ten Greatest American Race Mares, a roster established by Delaware Park. The top ten are reappraised from time to time by a "jury" of horsemen and it may be that affectionately will inspire such a reappraisal this year.

In 1879, storefronts were decorated with bunting, bands blared and a holiday-spirited crowd jostled for position along the main street of Chillicothe. A stranger might have thought a local hero was returning from the war against Spain, but no, the town had turned out to welcome D. E. Harness, trainer Charles E. Brossman, and their race mare Imp, home from the turf wars in New York. And Imp herself led the parade with her negro jockey, Pete Clay, up and clad in a freshly laundered set of orange and black silks.

Imp campaigned for six seasons, retiring in 1900, winning 62 of 171 races (she started 50 times at three), while place and show shares of 64 other races brought her total earnings to $70,110.

Fulbright States The Case Undoubtedly some worried Democrats were wondering last month if the Johnson administration's fortunes did not need bolstering for 1966 and 1968. With many of its intellectual stalwarts either abdicating or teaching-in, the souring press around the liberal world pouring acid on the President's reasonable actions, and top level assistants having a rough time out on the circuit explaining what needed no explanation, something had to be done. It was perhaps time for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman to make a statement.

Senator J. William Fulbright therefore spent several hours with the President. When next he made an address he cited the "steadfastness and statesmanship" of Mr. Johnson, a compliment that only would have restated the obvious in other circumstances. But now the President's liberal friends had been yakking that the Presidential advisors are "Men of unparalleled arrogance, stupidity, and incompetence." Other senators were rising to emotional peaks in their unreasoned attacks. Perhaps no liberal in ADA, unless it was Vice President Humphrey, could now go all the way with LBJ.

Some Reality, More Myth It was an appropriate time, therefore, for Senator Fulbright's summary of Johnson's foreign policy that comprised a portion of his speech. His realities—no withdrawal from South Vietnam that would "betray our obligation to people we have promised to defend," et cetera—were perhaps more obvious than his myths. Also, his point was well-made that Peking must not be allowed to get away with the belief that guerrilla infiltrations are a cheap and safe way to expand Communist power. This much of the Senator's speech, at least, needed saying and truly reflects the views of most Americans.

Unfortunately, however, the Senator went on to fall into the same ditch with the rest of Mr. Johnson's critics when his interpretation of the U. S. dilemma in Vietnam led him to the pessimistic comment that victory there would be too costly, considering the "requirements of our interest and honor." Only a "holding" action, he indicated, would be required to "persuade the Communists that we would not be driven out and that Saigon could not be crushed. The Alternatives

The Senator again has demonstrated his flair for muddying the waters by saying some good things stirred in with a great many nonsensical notions. He opposes escalation, whatever that is, because bombing has so far failed to weaken the North Vietnam capacity, because it invites great numbers of troops from the north into South Vietnam, and because we are not prepared to accept either a jungle war or the alternatives. Well, there is nothing in all this except a fearful re-statement of the liberal dilemma that knows nothing more than to give ground before the push of the Communist world revolution.

Making concessions now or any other time gets the U. S. nowhere with the Communists, a fact of history which Senator Fulbright ought to know. Distorting History These current distortions of history, to use Senator Dirksen's phrase, ignore the expressed Communist intention to expand and to swallow up by force, deceit, and intrigue any free countries they can and finally the whole free world. One of their planned techniques is actually being tested in South Vietnam, that of infiltration and treachery within. Such readiness to let them have their way, coming from the Senator and others in high places, only encourages the Reds to believe they can get away with it. If the Communist world is convinced that we are divided and uncertain, the pressure is going to remain on us indefinitely.

And they will divide us at home if they can. They understand the fatal chink in leftward thinking only too well: that Marxism is first tolerated and then embraced. This blind side of our intellectuals shows up in this debate with increasing clarity. It appears they do not want democracy or freedom in Vietnam half as much as they want a green light for Marxist ideas at home and abroad. Increasingly, the noisy academic "intellectual" dissenters to the President's policy are showing their true colors: socialist pink. The full body of American opinion, Mr. President, remains anti-Communist. So take it from there and 1968 will take care of itself.

The first application of high-strength nickel steel in bridge construction was in the Queensboro Bridge spanning the East River in New York City. A double cantilever structure with two main spans of 984 and 1,182 feet, the bridge was completed in 1909.

007 — "One-Upped" In The Bahamas

Nassau, Bahamas — (HK) — James Bond, master of the impossible, was "one-upped" by a member of the production crew of "Thunderball"—latest Bond picture, recently filmed in Nassau.

In the film Bond pursues large gamefish with a speargun through transparent Bahamian waters. In real life the crew-member, Melvin Brennan, Jr., pursued a five-foot long, 32-pound dolphin in Nassau harbor and caught it with his bare hands.

It happened while he was boating to work on Nassau's famous Paradise Island.

Brennan noticed the dolphin feeding on a small school of fish. He decided to interrupt the feast and jumped into the sea, grabbing the fish around the neck. After a furious 15-minute battle, Brennan, single-handedly, got the dolphin into his boat.

Discussing his feat afterwards, Brennan said he'd like to take a chance at capturing some of the other record-breaking varieties of gamefish which abound in Bahamian waters. But like most visitors to the Bahamas, he plans to use conventional rod and reel, rather than push his luck with another Bond-like adventure.

SCIENCE briefs

Staying Warm A mosquito that lives near the North Pole keeps itself warm by roosting on the warmest part of an Arctic flower that follows the Sun, two Canadian scientists report.

On the Alert Rats exposed to nicotine seem to learn faster than do unexposed animals, a Nobel Prize-winning physiologist reports.

Pines for Vitamins Pine needles make a good substitute for cod liver oil or other vitamin sources in chicken feed, a Latvian laboratory has found. The needles promote both chick growth and egg production.

The Heart and the Hearth Men who job-hop and move frequently are more liable to heart attacks than men who stick to one job and one home town, three scientists report. Such nobility appears to be more closely associated with heart attacks than smoking or fat consumption, or being overweight, the study finds.

Tidal Power Harnessing the energy of the tides has been an engineer's dream for many years, but now three new projects are about to make it a fact. One is located on the Rance River in France; the second, at Passamaquoddy Bay, Maine; and the third in the Soviet Union.

He maketh the storm a calm. —(Psalms 107:29)

We can remain in charge of our emotions if we pray daily for the calm spirit and the poised manner that is becoming to a child of God. When we give conscious thought to maintaining this calm and this poise, we are never challenged to lose them. Spiritual growth brings us the faith that under God we can remain in charge of our emotions.

YOUTH CENTER

Green Indians 32; Blue Jays 24
 Coach Jack Topper's Green Indians tightened the race in the Youth Center basketball league when they whipped Gene Eyer's hitherto unbeaten Blue Jays 32-24. Coupled with a 42-39 defeat of the Panthers by the Hustlers, the two winners moved within a game of the league leaders.
 The Green Indians got solid performances from Harry Harner with 12 points, and Joe Welty with 10. After a tight first half that found the Indians on top 13-12, the winners began to pull away on the shooting of Harner, Welty and Dick Wivell. The losers could muster only five second half field goals, three of those by league-leading scorer Gene Eyer, who had been blanked in the first half. The winners were also rough at the foul line, sinking eight of fourteen tries. Eyer and Harry Hahn were high scorers for the losers with six points each. The losers sorely missed the services of Ed Baker, their top rebounder. Hustlers 42; Panthers 39

Sparked by Denny Stahley, who hit for 18 points, the hustlers moved into title contention by topping the Panthers, 42-39 in an overtime thriller. Ahead 13-12 at intermission, the winners fought off the surging Panthers with a nine basket performance in the second half to keep things tied, 36-36, at the end of regulation time. Johnny Little kept the Panthers close all night as he dropped in 17 points, nine of them in the second half. The losers also had a top performance from Boney Wireman who scored 12 points.

Meadowlarks 48; Night Owls 45
 The last place Night Owls made it a long evening for the Meadowlarks before going down to their ninth straight loss, 48-45. Jack Dillon led the winners with 16 points, including six baskets. Johnny Sherwin dropped in seven baskets and scored one foul for 15. Gene Lingg had 14 points for the losers. The win lifted the Meadowlark record to 4-3, two and a half games off the Indian pace.

The league scoring race has a new look as a result of the week's play. Denny Stahley of the Hustlers, moved into first place with a 17.1 average, just a whisker ahead of the Panthers' Johnny Little at an even 17. Last week's leaders, Jerry Orosz of the Meadowlarks, and Gene Eyer of the Blue Jays, dropped to third and fourth place.

Fort Detrick Issues Call For Fire-Flies

Fort Detrick has issued a call to all fire-fly collectors to bring their frozen collections to Building T-914, Fort Detrick today between the hours of 8:30 and 11:30 a.m., and 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. Arrangements have been made to place the flies in a freezer upon arrival and pay collectors at the same time. According to previous announcements, they will receive 50 cents for each 100 flies turned in.
 Mr. J. Paul Thomas, coordinator for the collection campaign, stated that a number of young collectors have already made their turn-ins because they would be away on vacation on the turn-in date. The first collector to make a turn-in was Dale Starook, Thurmont, with 1400 flies. The second was Gary Miller, Braddock Hgts., with 1000 flies, followed by Pamela Sheetenheim, Frederick, with 595. All received their monetary awards and then departed on vacation.

Backs Smoke-Control Legislation

Rep. Clarence D. Long (D., Md.) this week urged that smoke-control devices be required as standard equipment on all motor vehicles purchased by the State of Maryland and its city and county governments.

Such a move, he said, would alleviate air pollution to some extent and help to reduce it even more by giving automakers an incentive to provide smoke-control equipment for all vehicles.

A bill introduced by Rep. Long last year would require the equipment on all new cars, trucks, and buses. Hearings on the bill were held last month by the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Rep. Long noted that the General Services Administration, which purchases all Federal vehicles, already requires that exhaust-control devices be installed on cars bought for Government use.

Noting that air pollution from motor vehicles in the Washington and Baltimore metropolitan areas is acute, Rep. Long said he particularly urged exhaust-control action by Baltimore City, and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford, Prince Georges, and Montgomery counties.

A study is underway in Baltimore to find whether the city should require Federal safety standards for city-purchased cars. Rep. Long suggested the study be broadened to include an exhaust-control requirement.

Goodwill Game Tickets Available

The Monocacy Valley Goodwill Industries is reminding all boys and girls 16 years old and under that there is still time left to get tickets for the Orioles-Red Sox ballgame on August 19th.

"The Baltimore Orioles very generously allotted us 5,000 tickets," said William Van Arnam, Goodwill director. "This may seem like a lot, but when you consider that every child 16 and under from Baltimore City, Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Carroll, Howard and Frederick Counties is eligible to get them, it isn't too many at all."

Tickets may be obtained at the Goodwill store on 10 South Bentz Street in Frederick. To get a ticket, all a youngster has to do is bring in a filled Goodwill bag or a repairable wheeled toy or a repairable electrical appliance to the store.

"We are advising all young people to hurry," concluded Van Arnam. "The supply of tickets is definitely limited."

The Friend's Creek Church of God held its annual picnic last Saturday on the picnic grounds near the church. A large crowd of church members and guests attended.

Gasoline with a nickel compound additive, being marketed for the first time by a major oil company, is claimed to reduce engine wear, inhibit carburetor icing, prevent rusting and to reduce octane requirements of automobiles.

Many industrial plants use rechargeable nickel-cadmium batteries to supply emergency lighting. Should a power failure occur, the batteries automatically cut in to provide power for emergency lights.

a Dogs Life
OBEDIENCE SCHOOL
 By Bob Bartos, Manager, Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

If you'd like to teach your dog to be more mannerly, why not enroll in a dog obedience class? Such classes are especially helpful to owners of dogs that are large and rambunctious. The cost of a series of lessons is nominal and you and your dog will have fun learning together.

To find out where and when such classes are held, check with a local dog club. Enrollment generally takes place at the opening session. Get there a little ahead of the appointed hour to make sure you get into a class. These are limited in size, and with obedience work as popular as it is today, they fill up quickly.

Don't be surprised if the first session looks and sounds like a three-ring circus. In strange quarters and surrounded by strange dogs, each student will be at his worst. By the second or third class, when all dogs are acquainted, things will calm down and progress.

Since homework, practicing what you've been shown how to do in school, is an important part of obedience training, don't even enroll unless you're prepared to devote ten minutes to it each day.

At the end of ten sessions, which is the length of most courses, there'll be a graduation complete with diplomas and prizes for the best performing dog-and-owner team and the most improved pair.

With the beginner's class completed you will have achieved your goal... a better companion. Your dog's education can end right there, or if you've been bitten by the obedience bug, you can continue with more advanced courses which prepare you both for participation in obedience trials.

Feeding tip: The most economical way of feeding a large dog is with a quality prepared dry food such as the new, improved Friskies Mix which is available in 5, 10 and 25-pound bags.
