The people of Emmitsburg have spoken and we'll have new faces on the Town Council come Monday night. There were times during the campaign that ugly rumors might break through and eventually become festering sores. Apparent attempts by out-of-town reporters "to get something started" failed dismally as the local candidates, or the people, would not take the bait. It is a very simple thing to bring personality clashes into the offing during a time like this, but fortunately the efforts fell on unfertile soil. I must commend the candidates for "keeping" their heads during the past trying two weeks.

Mayor Ralph Irelan and Commissioner J. W. Houser deserve the thanks of the entire public for the effort they put out during Irelan's last three years and Houser's last six years. The jobs are of a thankless nature and criticism is always freeflowing and people are prone to lose sight of the accomplishments that have been made and little praise is heard. The record speaks for itself and the Town is deeply indebted for the services donated by Irelan and Hous-

Below is a letter in the form of a few Maryland firsts, compiled by a little friend in Baltimore. I thought it right interesting and worth publication.

Dear Abigail: While browsing recently, thru a very diversified collection of books, I discovered some interesting mrs.s which the state of Maryland has contributed to our national heritage. Perhaps, the following will arouse your interest and I hope, whet your appetite. Maybe . you readers will want to contribute some records or traditions originating in our small but proud State. These contributions depict, for the most, "Baltimore and sur-rounding firsts." I thought this a good place to start, Baltimore being our largest Maryland city. Did you know that . . . The first existing makers of silverware in this country opened shop in Baltimore in 1815? Samuel Kirk, the founder, was a Quarker, descended from English silversmiths. A note of current interest . . . I am sure you have recently read where President Johnson's soon to be married daughter, elected to choose her silver service here. Upon a visit to Kirk's factory some time ago, I learned that a great deal of the elegant custom made sterling silver and gold service pieces at the White House, have been crafted by Kirk's craftsmen, through many, many years. Did you know that . . . The first company to import and package tea in America was the "Martin Gillet and company," established in Baltimore in 1811.

Did you know that . . . Ottmar Mergenthaler invented the world's first typesetting machine in Baltimore in 1883? . . . and revolutionized the printing industry. Mr. Elder wishes to say that he is most grateful to Ottmar Mergenthaler.

Did you know that "Men's Hats, Inc.," of Baltimore, was the first in the country to manufacture straw hats? This company operated the Nation's largest plant for many years.

Did you know that . . . The first church conference ever held by the United rethren Church denomination took place in Baltimore, in the Otterbein Church Building, Conway and Sharpe Streets, in 1789.

Did you know that . . . The first regular steam vessel to cross the Atlantic Ocean from the United States direct, The Steam Packet, City of Kingston, sailed from Baltimore in 1839

Did you know that . . . The Baltimore Steam Packet Company (Old Bay Line), is first in the field of steamboating, being the oldest active steamboat line to the best of my knowledge, it was operating until several years ago). This company began operations in 1840.

Did you know that . . . The first American umbrella factory was established in Baltimore in

Mount Registrar Refutes Baltimore Senator's Charge

Charges that Mount St. Mary's College, together with other Catholic colleges in Maryland were mishandling the state scholarship program were dismissed yesterday by Mount St. Mary's officials as due to a misunderstanding.

The complaint made on April 27 by State Senator Joseph A. Bertorelli of the first legislative district, arose from the fact that Senator Bertorelli wrote the Office of Admissions at Mount St. Mary's on April 6 announcing his appointment of Robert T. McFaul of Baltimore to a full state scholarship. McFaul, however, never made application to the college for admittance so that his case never came before the Admissions Committee.

Senator Bertorelli was informed on April 14 that McFaul had not applied to Mount St. Mary's. The letter to Senator Bertorelli to this effect from Guy A. Baker, Jr., college registrar reads as follows:

"I have your letter of April 6th appointing Robert T. McFaul to a full scholarship from your District. Unfortunately Mr. Mc-Faul has never made application to Mount St. Mary's. We have a waiting list of approximately two hundred students who have qualified for admission but accommodations are not available to permit them to enter.

I am sending Mr. McFaul an application and if he wishes to send the application, as well as his high school record, test results, etc., we will be happy to consider his application and make every effort to admit him for September 1966. Since conditions are, as I have already explained, overcrowded, I cannot guarantee that he will be allowed to enter in Sep-

With best personal wishes, I am Sincerely yours, Guy A. Baker, Jr.

Since McFall was the only student appointed to Mount St. Mary's College by Senator Bertorelli the charges made by the Baltimore legislator are completely unwar

Pvt. Bower Killed In Plane Crash

Funeral services for Pvt. John Roop Bower, 19, son of Master Gunnery Sergeant and Mrs. Fred B. Bower, Santa Ana, Calif., formerly of Emmitsburg, will be held Sunday at the Lutheran Church. Interment will be made in Mountainview Cemetery.

Pvt. Bower was one of the 90 some young servicemen killed last week in the crash of a military plane bound from Califoria to Fort Benning, Ga. The crash occurred in Oklahoma.

The youth's father, Sgt. Bower, has been stationed in Vietnam for the past two years and his wife, the former Jean Bollinger, will arrive here in time for the funeral.

Successful in his first bid for public office was Guy A. Baker, Jr., 35, registrar at Mt. St. Mary's College, who polled 174 votes for Mayor, unseating incumbent Ralph F. Irelan who garnered a total of 119 votes. Irelan had previously served a one-year term and has just concluded his first two-year term, for a total of three years at the helm

The other candidate for the top office, Charles B. (Toss) Shorb, polled 53 votes.

In the uncontested election of Town Commissioner, Clarence P. Wachter, maintenance supervisor at Saint Joseph College, polled a healthy 246 votes. L. Michael Boyle, a write-in candidate for Commissioner, polled a surprising 42 ballots and Dr. J. W. Houser, incumbent Commissioner who did not seek re-election, was given six complimentary

There were no issues at stake in the election and the nice turnout of voters was surprising. The new officers will take their oath of office before Magistrate Guy A. Baker, Sr., local magistrate, and incidentally father of the new Mayor, within 10 days.

The new officials will take office at the next regular monthly meeting of the Town Council on Monday night, May 2. At that time Mayor-elect Baker is expected to make appointments, on an annual basis, with the approval of the Council, of the Town Clerk, Chief of Police and Public Works Director. Hold-over Commissioners are J. Norman Flax, Joseph M. Haley and Quinn F. Topper. Commissioner Haley's term expires next year.

A New Soldier Speaks

Basic Compat Training was rough. It was eight weeks of run, run, run.
At first I wondered if I would make it and if all the strenuous training was necessary. The transition from civilian to soldier is not an easy one, but fortunately the Army realizes this and gives considere attention to the problem. By instilling the recruits with discipline, pride, and purpose, the adaptation to the militaryoriented life is accomplished.

I learned to form and march. I made perfect scores on the tests on military justice, customs and courtesy, and the Code

I mastered the physical training, adding 20 pounds of muscle, and fired expert with the M-14.

I learned to defend myself with the bayonet and hand-tohand combat. I made the change and on the way I earned my Expert

Badge and a plus-90 score on my proficiency test. It was rough: long days of vigorous and challenging training, long hours of physical exertion, and nights of

But it was satisfying and well worth it. The Army has gained another well-trained and disciplined soldier, physically and mentally capable of responding to the demands of combat as well as to the requirements of daily tasks.

And I gained pride of accomplishment and confidence in -Adapted from an essay written by Pvt. Michael Clayton, Fort Monroe, Va. (ANF)

Mount On Highways

Fourteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police. Seven of those killed were drivers; six were passengers; and one was a pedestrian. Alcohol was a contributing factor in three of the deaths; speed in five; and "driver error" was present in 12 of the fatalities.

"In eleven fatal accidents last week, in which fourteen persons were killed, we saw the usual gamut of causes," commented Col. Carey Jarman, Superintendent of Inflation-As A Way Of Life?

Two actions of our Federal government in 1947, immediately following the Presidential proclamation "ending hostilities" of World War II, made certain that the dollars earned by the working members of America's 55-billion families would be cut year after year in purchasing power-by inflation. Two major factors in money inflation are government deficit spending and rising production costs in industry without corresponding and offsetting increases in production per man hour. Both factors emerged in Washington in 1947 as acceptable as patterns for inclusion in our economic system.

The stage was set through the exercise of wartime powers by President Truman. The actions were reported in the New York Times editions for the first week of January 1947. The Truman Administration that week ushered in the era of peacetime deficit spending which now has extended 20 years under both Republican and Democratic control of the Government-with the Budget out of balance 15 of the 20 years, and expenditures exceeding receipts by $60-billion. John L. Lewis Rides High

The Truman Administration in this period also established a pattern for wage increases not based on (and far exceeding) the increase in productivity which year after year has taken place because of the improvement of machine tools and production techniques. In the New York Times of Jan. 1, 1947, are two items that tell the story. From a news story on Page 1:

"President Truman's proclamation ending war hostilities was preceded by a few minutes today by Government seizure 'lock, stock and barrel' of the valuable West Virginia properties of the Carter Coal Company, which from now on will be operated for the Government's own account and at its risk. The action was taken because the company refused to pay to the United Mine Workers union five cents a ton royalty for the Welfare Fund which the Government granted when it made its contract with the union on May 29." Capitalizing On War

The background of the Carter company seizure was this: John L. Lewis, the UMW's politicallypowerful president (he boasted publicly about his $150,000 donation to FDR's 1944 campaign), made such demands on the Coal companies they contended they could not meet them and stay in business. To "keep production going," the White House asked Congress for a "War Labor Disputes Act" which gave the President power to seize and run any vital industry whose production was threatened by unsatisfied union demands.

The Times editorial, in the same edition carrying the Carter Coal seizure report, said: "The brief history of the legislation has been such as to leave few regrets over its demise. Devised to curb the activities of John L. Lewis, and passed by an irate Congress over a Presidential veto, it proved little more than a mockery even as a war measure. For as it worked out in practice, what he was unable to obtain from the mine owners (through normal collective bargaining), Mr. Lewis succeeded in getting by precipating seizure of the mines and dealing with the Government." (The mines later were returned to their owners but the Government-union contract terms remained.)

Costly To Nation

The Government-forced boost in wages, welfare payments, fringe benefits and other costly expenses that had to be absorbed into production costs, priced coal out if the market to a substantial degree. The biginch natural gas pipe lines, built by southern and western-based petroleum companies at tremendous costs, were able to bring gas to the Midwest and East as a fuel more economical than the high-priced coal. The "poverty" in Appalachia 15 years later made headlines for Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and has begun to cost the taxpaying public in all 50 states billions of dollars. The two factors-Government deficit spending and industrial price inflation—have combined in the years since 1947 to reduce the purchasing power of the dellar by approximately 20 per cent. In other words, living costs have increased 20 per cent, and they continue to rise as Government spending soars and the LBJ wage "guide lines" are shattered by powerful unions, most of whom have not even been verbally chastized by the White House.

pluses that stubbornly resist improvement. Appalachia and northern New England are two current examples, with others scattered here and there across the country. Since there are definite manpower shortages in many sections, the Administration is particularly eager to make full use of all labor.

The Joint Economic Committee, headed by Rep. Wright Patman (Dem.-Texas), has been studying suggestions for solving unemployment problems. One study, prepared by Professor Martin Schnitzer of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, is receiving considerable attention. It may become the basis for a widespread program of paying the unemployed in different areas to go where they are most needed. Interest has been increasing, and such a scheme is in line with others acceptable to the government.

Many Countries Have Tried It Strange though it may seem, a number of foreign countries -especially in Europe - have for a long time been giving allowances to unemployed workers so that they can move to where jobs are available. The reason for the outgrowth of this particular system is the reluctance of people down to move, often, of course, because they simply haven't the money to do so.

And the opposite course-bringing jobs to the unemployment centers—stubbornly refused to work out in Great Britain, Sweden, and Belgium; unemployment totals have remained high regardless of such efforts.

Hence, Britain plans to extend her policy of paying workers to move where the jobs are. Sweden permits industry to settle where resources dictate. Then the government pays labor to move where the industry has located, at least in sufficient volume to man the plants. In Europe generally, this system is not necessarily limited to areas of extreme manpower shortages, -but wherever the need for men arises. New Pilot Projects

Will Be Tried Here in the U. S. relocation experimentation began in 1963, but it covered only about 1,200 employes in 14 states under the Manpower Development and Training Act. The suggestions made by the Virginia Polytechnic Institute authorities would be on a much broader—and more realistic-basis. They would include laying out whatever funds are necessary to move workers to places of definite employment service. In this way, many who have previously refused to leave their homes might be persuaded to try greener pastures.

As in the case of many other job programs, the cost would be considerable, but it is fondly hoped gy the money spenders of the Administration that it would be worth while. The development of new pilot projects is reported to be under way, and careful examination of the results will determine just how far the procedure will be allowed to spread. Businessmen in general should be interested in such a government system, since it could bring additional supplies of labor to those who find manpower hard to come by. More Mobile Habits May Help

In recent years our citizens have gradually become less emotionally bound to their birthplaces. Automobiles have pushed back local horizons, and working habits have become steadily more migratory. It is the hope of those who support the plan of paying the jobless to go where they are most needed that today's more mobile customs will help promote their cause.

ACROSS THE MILES WITH PEN AND STAMP By Margie Blake, Carnation Teen Committee

"Will you write to me?" he asks. And away he goes to whatever it is, perhaps school or the armed forces. There's a flurry of letters, then a lull. How can you keep the flurry going? How can you make your letters the ones that get the answers?

We asked this of several boys who'd gone away to school and into service. They all agreed that daily they hung on the arrival of mail most confessed that they weren't the best correspondents in the world. We asked what kind of letters they most liked receiving.

Almost all said they like them cheerful, newsy, and not too long. References to jokes and good times enjoyed together, anecdotes about familiar places, people, and together, anecdotes about familiar places, people, and things, and progress reports on things they were interested in are all good. They like clippings from the home town paper and snapshots, too. One prep school senior said his favorite correspondent made a continued-story series of reports on a mutual friend's effort to grow a line way to earn a nice thank-you note is to send a batch of Crisp Lemon Wafers. To make 5 dozen, cream 1 cup butter with 1 cup sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in 1 egg and ½ teaspoon each vanilla extract and lemon extract. Sift together 2¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon bak-series of reports on a mutual friend's effort to grow a beard. "The suspense was terrible!" said the reader, happily. Capsule reviews of movies, books, and records are also appreciated.

A few said they liked to get long letters, but most didn't. One boy said he didn't feel right about answering six pages with two, so he didn't answer at all. Another said he didn't even have time to read long letters.

said he didn't even have time to read long letters.

Did they have any real gripes about letters they'd received from girls? Hardly any! They don't like to be reproached—for not writing, for not calling, or for anything else. ("We get enough of that without opening the mail!") They don't like perfumed stationery or lipstick marks, even if they're intended as a joke; such things make the recipient look silly

WE DON'T NEED MORE STRIKES

More labor disputes, more strikes and further increases in the cost of just about everything are things we don't need right now or any time for that mat-ter. But some of labor's friends want to give the building trades unions the right to picket an entire construction job even when they are having trouble with just one of the many individual employers on the job.

To get this right to picket the common construction site, there would have to be a change in the law. The present law against secondary boycotts, the Taft-Hartley Act, would have to be repealed and a special exstruction unions. Now this may seem incredible at a time when the building trades unions are already get-ting such high wages that government and economic leaders have publicly expressed con-cern; but nevertheless, it's true. Congressman Sickles of Maryland has introduced a bill, H.R. 10027, which would legalize secondary boycotts at construction sites. It has already been ap-proved by the House Labor Committee and has moved high on the agenda of the Rules Committee where the building trades unions say they have the votes to get it out tected from secondary boycotts. Of course, one way to protect them would be to kill the entire emption granted to the con-

votes to get it out.

The proposed bill is a bad one which would bring confusion and strikes to the entire construction industry. At the very least, missile bases, defense projects, much needed schools and hospitals, should be protected from secondary hovcotts.

"One That Got Away"

There's a stakes race scheduled at the New Orleans Fair Grounds called the Marriage Handicap which is by no means to be interpreted as a knock against connubiality.

The Marriage for which this race is named is a horse which, race is named is a horse which, like the institution, got better with age. Marriage was foaled at the Blue Ridge Farm of the late Admiral Cary T. Grayson, personal physician to President Woodrow Wilson. When the Grayson horses were sold at dispersal, Marriage, a son of Strolling Player-War Wedding, a daughter of Man o' War, brought $5,300, which, in 1938, was a good price for an untried was a good price for an untried

When Marriage turned five he had not yet earned his pur-chase price, and had been running in claiming races. One of those who owned him for a period was Hirsch Jacobs. Tolater to gain fame for claiming the $918,485-winner Stymie for $1,500. But Marriage is "one that got away." Jacobs claimed the horse for $1,400, won eight consecutive races with him but lost him to Rand Coward for $5,000. Marriage raced, thereafter, for the partnership of Coward and C. L. Dupuy, but not in claiming races. He pronot in claiming races. He proceeded to become a stakes winner, and among his victories were two consecutive runnings of the New Orleans Handicap at seven and eight in 1943 and '44. Marriage retired at 10 after winning 35 of 101 races and $216,090, an amount frequently won in a season today but then ranking him the 13th Thoroughbred to win over $200,000.
