One of the lamentable facts about the lack of accommodations in this north county town is the complete absence of any state or county recreation spot or habitat. While millions are being spent state-wide and even in our neighboring towns, to offer people recreational privileges, we in the Emmitsburg area can't even obtain a picnic table along the roadside. I was really amazed and the thought had never crossed my mind until I saw some strangers in a local grocery store obtaining some provisions. Upon completion of the purchases the party asked the proprietor where they could find a roadside table to hold a little picnic lunch. The owner was stumped for an answer. I couldn't come up with the answer either. Come to think of it I don't believe there is a table available from here to Frederick, from here to Gettysburg, from here to Westminster or from here to Waynesboro. One would certainly think the State Roads Commission or the State Dept. of Parks and Forests could afford us a little picnic table when they are spending millions on dams, roads, parks and camps all around the state. When these politicians come to town, which they are now doing, how about mentioning our plight to them?

While on the subject of lack of accommodations, etc., there is increasing evidence that we need some sort of mailbox on the Square or as a matter of fact, several locations. Almost daily now one can hear strangers asking where's the mailbox or where's the Postoffice. Tourists stopping at our colleges and stores buy postcards and then start looking for stamps or a mailbox. It seems ridiculous and incredible that this Town cannot obtain a simple collection box on the Square. I understand the Lions Club is interested in the project but to date no news has been heard.

The recent rains did little to alleviate drought conditions here. While other towns have been able to lift water bans in some instances, we must continue to conserve whenever possible. While we had possibly an inch or more in accumulated totals, the reservoir, I am told, has actually dropped and is not holding its own. In just three short weeks we'll have two colleges and three local schools drawing on our water reserves. We struggled through the summer with reserved use of water and no rain but I shudder at the thought of the schools opening . . . and still no rain. Actually, the schools use more water than the Town itself, so unless there is rain, and plenty of it, there'll be a dry time in the old Town next month.

K. Of C. Plan Crab Feast

The regular monthly meeting of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, was held in the Council Home Monday night, Grand Knight Arthur Elder presiding. The purchase of a new television set was approved and the Council voted to hold a crab feast in the home on Sunday, Sept. 11 with Carl A. Wetzel being named chairman of the affair. The Grand Knight reported on the semi-annual audit of the Council's books and expressed appreciation to the trustees for their excellent work on the books. The annual Charity Ball will be held in Baltimore on Oct. 8 and Laurence F. Orendorff was named chairman of the ticket and raffle committee. The 50th anniversary of the Council was discussed and some planning done to commemorate the affair in some manner during the anniversary month of December. The Grand Knight reported on an invitation extended to the State Council to hold a meeting in Emmitsburg this year. A letter from the State Deputy pertinent to this meeting was read and it was felt that it was highly possible the affair could be held here in October. District Deputy Paul A. Keepers was named chairman of a committee to make arrangements for the state meeting.

ST. JOSEPH'S TO CONDUCT ADULT CLASSES

The Adult Education Program of Saint Joseph College, will continue this year with a practical course in Upholstery and Drapery. Classes will start on Thursday, September 1, 1966, 7 to 9 p.m. Registration will be limited and accepted on a basis of first-come-first served. Call or write to Sister Madeleine, Chairman of Home Economics, Saint Joseph College, for application. Course work will consist primarily in practical projects done by the participants. The initial purpose of the adult education program continues to be helping interested, local people to help themselves in the happy, economical management of family life and the purposeful development of the individuals within the family. Basic principles involved in calculating needed materials, available sources for these, approximate costs and techniques will be included. Participants will be expected to use the class periods for the actual work of reupholstering a small or medium sized piece of furniture, including any necessary wood refinishing, and/or make draperies for their own or someone else's home. The do-it-yourself techniques are not difficult but once learned can contribute greatly toward balancing the budget. In draperies, the cost of making them is approximately one-fourth of the cost of having the same quality custom made. Economy is only one of several reasons for adult education courses. Management, of family time, energy and interest, is also an important factor. This is true because time is money. It is more important, though, for family interest and participation because, from these, family appreciation and cooperation grow and deepen. This course will be held every Thursday evening from September 1 to, and including, November 17, 1966. The next course will begin in early March and extend to the end of May. Because of uncertain weather conditions, no classes will be held during the intervening months. A $10 fee will be charged for the course in Upholstery and Drapery, payable on or before the night of the opening class. These classes will be held in the home economics department which is located on the southeast end of campus.

Previous courses offered in the program have included; Fundamental Clothing Construction, Advanced Clothing Construction, Management in the Family and Interior Decoration. Enrollment was not limited in these previous courses. However, the popularity of the Interior Decoration, in particular, has proven limitation necessary. Pat McGucken Back In Race

Pat McGucken Back In Race

An Anne Arundel County Circuit Court this week order the name of a congressional candidate placed on the ballot and ruled that a gubernatorial candidate had been properly refused a place there. The two men affected by Judge Eugene Mackel Child's rulings are William A. Albaugh, of Mount Ranier, the gubernatorial candidate, and Patrick F. X. McGucken, of Emmitsburg, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Sixth District. According to the judge's opinion, Mr. Albaugh had refused to appoint a campaign treasurer and Mr. McGucken had appointed his treasurer August 8, 66 days after he had filed for election. Mr. Albaugh had argued that the appointment of a treasurer would compromise his position as a candidate running on a "no contributions" platform. Mr. McGucken had joined in the case, citing his agreement with constitutional arguments used by Mr. Albaugh. However, the judge ruled that it was mandatory that a candidate appoint a treasurer under the state corrupt practices law but that the time with which this must be done is discretionary.

Buchanan Valley Picnic August 27

The annual picnic of the Old Jesuit Mission at Buchanan Valley will be held in Adams County, midway between Gettysburg and Chambersburg, this year on Saturday, August 27, Msgr. The affair begins at noon and continues until midnight. There's entertainment for both young and old and good old mountain music for dancing. In recent years a spacious diningroom has been erected and comfortably seats several hundred at a time. A special feature of this annual event is the delicious ham and chicken dinner that is served family style. On hand to provide entertainment and dance music will be Merle Everts and his Hilltop Harmonizers featuring Juanita Kaye. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Road Relocation Stirs Controversy

By Jim Gilford (Reprint Frederick Post)

If you ever looked a gift horse in the mouth, now's the time to do it. Maryland's Department of Forests and Parks has offered to build nearly a mile of "improved" road in Frederick County, "free of charge" they imply, since it would be at State expense. At least that's one of the reasons given last week when they asked the County Commissioners for permission to relocate part of the Catocin Hollow Road at Thurmont.

The state wants to relocate this section of road to make way for an impounding dam and reservoir Delegate William Houck insists on having built at Cunningham Falls State Park. It's true that, if the dam is ever built, this road would have to be relocated, since the present road would be flooded. But while Spencer Ellis, Director of Forests and Parks, is anxious to start his road building, there is no assurance that he ever will be able to build Mr. Houck's dam.

This spring the General Assembly appropriated 3/4-million dollars for construction of the impounding dam. But, according to a knowledgeable Baltimore attorney, Lloyd M. Gerber, this appropriation is not legal. State law requires that engineering plans accompany all such requests to the General Assembly for construction money. When questioned by Gerber during the State Finance Committee hearings this spring, Ellis was forced to admit that engineering plans for the impounding dam were not available.

And this point was reaffirmed only last Tuesday when Houck admitted that the engineering plans for the dam were, at this late date, still only 70% complete. So sure is attorney Gerber that the procedure was illegal, that he intends to seek an injunction to prohibit the signing of any contract for construction of the dam itself. Still another stumbling block facing Ellis and Houck is the Department of Water Resources. Before the dam could be built, Ellis must obtain a permit from Water Resources, and this involves a public hearing.

In the past, both Ellis and Houck have done everything possible to avoid discussing their plans in public. You'll remember it took three published invitations to get them to appear at the East Frederick Elementary School last fall.

Hutton Seeking Commissioner's Job

The people of Frederick County are through with personal popularity contests to see who will be elected to the responsible jobs of County Commissioners, said Wallace Hutton, candidate for County Commissioner this week.

Hutton, in a release to the Press, said he thinks they are disappointed in any candidate who asks to be elected as custodian of Frederick County affairs on the basis of his pedigree, or for how many generations he and his family have lived in Frederick, or because of his family name, or because he is a nice guy.

The real interests of Frederick County now are with the issues of the day and the problems that will be confronting Frederick County in the next four years.

Hutton stated he was not a lifelong resident of Frederick and is not in Frederick because he was born there but because his job required that he live there. He chose Frederick County because it was the community he wished to raise his children in and he voluntarily came to Frederick because he wished to be a part of that dynamic, growing community.

Hutton says one of the major issues that the people of Frederick County are concerned with is the qualifications of the candidates. The County budget this year was more than 10 millions of dollars, which in simple terms, means the County Commissioners are spending over $41,000,00 during a normal week day. This daily expenditure, if divided between the three County Commissioners, means each of them is spending more than $13,500.00 a day, which is more money than most of us earn in a year. With a budget that is constantly growing and this year is more than 10 millions of dollars with County assets in excess of 300 millions of dollars, and faced with the prospects that the next Board of County Commissioners will be dealing with problems that may well involve appropriations, expenditures and the introduction into our economy from government and other sources of something in the neighborhood of 80 millions of dollars, I think the people of Frederick County are looking for a progressive, well-educated, professionally experienced and relatively young man to lead this County and be one of its Commissioners.

The candidate went on to say, we must have mentally and physically qualified Commissioners capable of understanding and dealing with the complexities of our growing County. Qualifications of candidates is an issue of utmost significance.

Why a lawyer, asks Hutton? Because as an individual, I am concerned with the problems facing Frederick and I wish to participate in the orderly growth and development of the County. I feel that the education and experience of a lawyer are well-suited to the demanding requirements of County government. Other counties, including neighboring Washington County, have elected lawyers who have contributed much to those counties' development. I think the same would hold true in Frederick.

Tomato Production Off One-Half

Production of tomatoes for processing in Maryland is forecast at 57,000 tons—46% less than the 1965 crop, according to the Md.-Del. Crop Reporting Service.

Prospective 1966 production of sweet corn for processing in Maryland is 59,300 tons, 35% less than a year earlier. Total production in the U. S. is forecast at 1,793,000 tons, 11% more than last year and 11% more than average.

The Aug. 1 production estimate of Maryland snap beans, 16,800 tons, is 38% less than 1965 production.

The planting of lima beans in Maryland and Delaware was virtually completed by late July. Extended periods of hot, dry weather reduced crop prospects in both states and retarded plant growth.

By the first of August the harvest of pickles and cucumbers was nearing completion. Drought conditions have hurt non-irrigated acreage but irrigated acreage has generally produced a good crop.

High School Band Practicing At Mount

Fifty-nine members of the Lebanon Catholic High School Band, from Lebanon, Pa., arrived late Sunday afternoon by car at Mt. St. Mary's College to attend their second annual week-long band training camp.

The main purpose of the camp is to help the band to function as a unit. The band will concentrate primarily upon marching technique, hoping to get a head-start on the up-coming school football season.

The students will also present an outdoor concert during the week for the Sisters of St. Joseph at St. Joseph's College.

In preparation for camp, Mr. Thomas E. Mann, LCHS Band Director, recently attended the Eighteenth Annual National Band Directors Conference at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Mr. Mann and Mr. Harold Ritter, Drill Master for the band, also attended the Marching Band Workshop held recently at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois.

Last Friday the band initiated its football drill season when it provided pre-game entertainment and the halftime drill at the Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, All-Star football game.

Accompanying the students on their trip, in addition to Mr. Mann and Mr. Ritter, are Band Parents Mrs. Peter Pete and Mrs. Cyril Ward, who will chaperone the girls at their dormitory at St. Joseph College, and Mr. Gregory Sorcsek, who will assist in drilling the band and also will chaperone the boys in their quarters at Mt. St. Mary's College.

The band members are quite enthusiastic about this annual event. In fact, this year many of the students themselves provided the funds to cover lodging expenses.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Club Meets

The monthly meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club was held recently at the home of Mike Smith with 29 members present, Becky Keilholtz, president, presided over the meeting.

In the order of old business, the club discussed the County Campfire and Field Day held at the Ralph Keilholtz farm on July 16. Members commented on how much they enjoyed the entire day. The club decided to institute a new office into the club as representative to the new county 4-H club. This office would require the representative to attend all meetings and report back to the home club.

The next meeting will be held at Mt. Tabor Park with members and their families invited.

Many Voters Register For Coming Primary

County election officials said this week that 228 people registered to vote Monday, the final day of registration before the Sept. 13 primary.

Election officials were pleased with the turnout, but it is by no means a record number. The majority of Monday's registration was in the morning and afternoon and the office in Winchester Hall closed on time at 9 p.m.

With more than 500 new voters registering during the registration drive during the past few weeks, almost 40,000 people in the county are now registered.

The breakdown in the affiliation of registered voters as of Aug. 1 was as follows: Democrats, 17,312; Republicans, 12,292; declines, 730; Socialist, 1. The election officials have not completed the breakdown for the newly-registered voters.

According to James Messersmith, registrar, last week was the busiest week of registration with about 350 people registering.

Election officials also report that there were 200 changes of addresses on Monday. A spokesman attributed the unusually high number to fear of a vote being challenged because a voter is registered in the wrong precinct.

Although registration for the September primary is now closed, the election board will reopen on Sept. 24 and remain open until Oct. 3 for those persons not previously registered who wish to vote in the November general election.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On: The Over-65 Market
 BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 18—They are a minority, but quite a massive one. They are not heard from very often as a group, but they represent a huge and stable market for retailers and service dispensers of all kinds. Distributors, ad men, clothiers, food marketers, TV programmers, and a host of other commercial entrepreneurs would do well to give them more attention. We refer to the approximately 19 million men and women over 65 now living in the U. S.

Retired People No Longer 'Old'
 In days gone by, it was popularly assumed that those over 65 were about ready for pasture. But healthier living, medical break-throughs, and more intelligent over-all personal care have laid that myth away. The retired population is to an amazing degree lively, mobile, and interested in everything that is going on. It is tomfoolery to ignore this responsible, responsive group and act as though only the young were worth soliciting in selling, entertainment, recreation, and promoting our wares.

Only one TV station, for example, has come to our attention as directing a program series beamed toward the older viewers, catering specifically to their interests and needs. This New York channel has joined forces with the N. Y. State University to bring retired men and women a wealth of seasoned suggestions on such widely diversified topics as keepig trim by exercise, selective purchasing, drawing up wills to avoid exaggerated probate costs, tips on home repair, saving money on staples, and part-time jobs. Social Security Bolstering Buying Power

While many folk are able to retire with at least a moderate nest egg to smooth their later years, many are not. It is here that social security and other forms of public assistance contribute importantly to the economic stability of this group. During 1966 alone, just about $20 billion will be paid out under the Old-Age, Survivors' and Disability Insurance System, the core of the federal social security program. Much of this money will go to about 11 million retired workers. The rest will help support our economy through its distribution to 8.7 million dependents of retired, disabled, or deceased workers, and to one million disabled who are under 65.

Added Effects Of Medicare
 Even though many fear Medicare as a first step toward total socialized medicine, its effects will be favorable in terms of maintaining the purchasing power of retirees. As of this last July, most persons over 65 came under the protection of hospital-cost provisions. And it is estimated that some 95% of these have signed up for the additional coverage of doctors' bills and services under the voluntary insurance plan. This means, of course, that our over-65 big minority will feel less reluctant to spend money for travel pleasant extras, and even occasional "luxuries" than they did before.

The impact of this radical innovation may not be especially spectacular at any given time, but it will add to the fundamental purchasing strength of our older citizens. As long as consumer prices take a continually larger hunk out of personal income, the buying psychology of those no longer working is inclined to become steadily more cautious. This will still be true to a considerable extent, but the knowledge that health costs will be taken care of in case of trouble will make many more willing to spend for other purposes.

Built-In Stabilizers
 There are other significant cushions for the economy brought about under the broad coverage of the Social Security Act of 1935. Joint federal-states Public Assistance programs are giving benefits to better than 8 million persons at the present time. Even with unemployment low as it is, it is thought that some 3 million or more people will have received jobless payments in the course of 1966. When you also take into consideration the enormous number of federal, state, municipal, and industrial pensions now functioning, it is not surprising that consumer sales hold so well even when the stock market and international events advise "caution."

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Hiking And Health
 Your doctor says, "Take a walk." Take a long walk, every day, if you can find the time. Any sort of walking is good, but a brisk walk is better. Walking or hiking is an excellent exercise that involves many of the muscles of the body. One of its big advantages is that walking is universally available as an exercise nearly every day of the year. The strain of the activity depends on the pace and distance. Walking can have mental health values, as well as aid physical health, if we learn to enjoy the exercise and the open air, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association. Pleasant physical activity can help relieve emotional tension. Exercise is most likely to be enjoyable when the activity is done with ease and skill.

'Flying Professor' To Appear At Air Races

Featured between heats of the Washington National Air Races— at the Frederick, Md., Airport, Sept. 2-5—will be the zany antics of "The Flying Professor."

Performed by Navy Reserve Captain Dick Schram of Chicago, Ill., "The Flying Professor's" maneuvers will be easy to watch since they are done so low to the ground that it appears that his Piper Cub was made for cutting grass rather than chasing clouds.

A comedy of ballet in the air, the "Flying Professor's" art depicts the problems of an absent-minded professor who has learned all of his flying from his own book, and suddenly finds himself in the air—but without his flying book! What occurs is a hammerhead stall on take-off, and undescribable acts of unorthodox flying that make it appear that Schram is literally bending and twisting the little aircraft from one impossible maneuver to another. For this act Schram is decked out in his top-hat, black bow tie, professor's get-up, which can be seen since he sometimes is half-in, half-out of the aircraft as he performs his dizzy maneuvers at altitudes under 300 feet.

To fly so "gaddy", one should be an expert pilot, and Schram has been a pilot as well as an engineer for over 25 years. For over two decades he has performed his "Flying Professor" act to promote the Naval Air Reserve.

When not publicizing military aviation, Captain Schram is Mr. Schram as Director of Military Relations for Chicago Aerial Industries.

The Sept. 2-5 renewal of the Washington Air Races feature planes powered by 190-cubic-inch engines producing speeds up to 225 miles an hour and sports bi-planes whose top speeds are about 160mph.

Both classes are single-seat aircraft flown around the pylons at an altitude of about 50 feet.

Crowds of 40,000 a day are anticipated at the Frederick Airport for the event.

How can we expect another to keep our secret if we cannot keep it ourselves?—La Rochefoucauld.

BRAKING TIPS

While you probably consider yourself a good driver, nevertheless poor braking habits may be causing you to waste money on gas, tires and brake replacements—perhaps even risking your life!

According to safety engineers in the brake lining division of Johns-Manville, more than 60% of all fatal accidents on the road are caused by excessive speeds and faulty brakes. Actually, from a safety standpoint, your brakes constitute the most important part of your car.

The big automotive news for 1966 is the disc brake—long used on racing cars and jet aircraft, and now available on many new model cars. Automotive engineers report that disc brakes develop less fade at high speeds and provide steady braking power.

But no matter what model car you own, these tips from Johns-Manville may help you put the skids to some common driving problems:

1. Give your brakes a break. The harder you use them, the quicker you'll wear out the linings. Try to ease up to stops you know you must make.
2. Don't ride the brakes. Quick, short applications and relief, are most effective to prevent heat build-up in the drums and to maintain the friction you need for smoothest stops.
3. Watch for symptoms of "sick" brakes: too much pedal movement toward the floor, grabbing too abruptly, noisiness, dragging, and brakes pulling car to one side.
4. If fluid has to be added more often than every 1,000 miles, have the entire system checked for leaks.
5. Listen for trouble evidenced by typical noises when stopping. Such as a hollow groan meaning worn or loose parts, or a shrill screech meaning the lining is worn down to the rivets and they are scraping the brake drum.
6. In case of brake failure, first apply the parking brake. Many people forget it's there. Put car into low and pump the pedal to build up pressure in the system. If your brakes fail to operate properly because they're wet, you should either stop and wait for them to dry or drive for a few minutes with one foot on the accelerator and the other on the brake pedal.

By heeding these six safe, economical tips, you should be able to give yourself the "brake" you need.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

 Women's Medical News Service
Tips On Beating The Summer Heat
 Here are a few sensible ways to beat the heat short of spending the summer at a mountain or shore retreat. Experts agree that if you wear light-weight, light-colored, loose garments you're likely to feel cooler than when you wear a chic, fitted little black something. Light fabrics reflect heat; dark ones absorb it. Loosely fitted garments permit heat to escape. Your body needs fewer calories in the summertime, so eat less and cut down on fats. Drink lots of liquid to replace fluid lost through perspiring, and add an extra dash of salt to your food to replace salt lost the same way.

Watch that picnic food. Summertime is the season of food poisoning. Salads, fish, meats, and sandwiches dressed with mayonnaise and left unrefrigerated for hours invite germs to colonize. Better discard such food than to take a chance on its being contaminated. Keep picnic goodies refrigerated until chow time. Bathe more frequently than you do in cool weather. You'll feel fresher and will rid the skin of wastes that cause odors. Dusting powders and deodorants will add to your summertime comfort.

Fertility Control A Medical Right
 "Physicians, public health workers, and municipal authorities must show greater courage in breaking down the barriers to providing birth control services in all public health and welfare programs and in municipal hospitals. This is not and should not be a religious issue. It is, instead, a matter of giving first class medical service to all citizens." This is what Dr. James Z. Appel, outgoing president of the American Medical Association told physicians attending the recent scientific convention of the AMA.

In this connection, Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood/World Population, pointed out that only one out of nine women of childbearing age who live in poverty in the U. S. now receive family planning information and services.

Research has shown, he said, that most poor women are eager to have small families and are conscientious about following a contraceptive regimen. Dr. Guttmacher urged the federal, state, and local governments to quicken the pace of support for family planning programs.

Mandatory Pap Smear To Head Off Cervical Cancer
 Noting that cancer of the uterine cervix is usually curable — when detected and treated early enough—Dr. Leopold G. Koss, attending pathologist at the Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, in New York, recently proposed that a Papanicolaou test for the disease be made mandatory.

The American Cancer Society points out that cancer of the uterus is potentially one of the most curable forms of the disease. Despite this more than 14,000 women will die of uterine cancer this year. Why? For the most part because it is not detected early enough.

Dr. Koss proposed that all women from the age of 20 on who had borne one or more children have the Pap test once a year. Short of this, he urged that all women be tested during their prenatal visits to private physicians or clinics.

Note to women: Don't wait for legislation. Arrange to have a Pap smear at least once a year.

County Receives OEO Grant
 Sidney H. Woolner, Acting Regional Director, Middle Atlantic Regional Office (OEO), announced this week a grant of $31,546 to Frederick County, Maryland, for a 12-month Administrative program.

The applicant agency is the Board of County Commissioners of Frederick County and the local share of the grant is $4,463. This program will make it possible for the Community Action Agency to continue and complete survey work initiated by its Program Development phase, and to plan programs to meet the needs of the county. This component will make possible the hiring of additional disadvantaged persons, on a full time basis, to make personal visits to area families for the purpose of determining individual family problems, to aid groups to organize for self help, and to help in surveying the needs of the county.

Under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Tannenbaum, the staff consists of two professional, and four non-professional, employees.

Delicate Graham Meringues
 Perfect For Beach Baskets

When you are planning a beach party or picnic, pack plenty of small sweets as a light touch for dessert. Delightfully airy Graham Meringues combine a topping of subtly spiced meringue with a base of delicious sugar honey graham crackers. Take them to the beach in an airtight container and serve with a refreshing beverage. Here's how:

Graham Meringues
 12 whole Sunshine Sugar 1/2 teaspoon finely grated
 Honey Graham Crackers 1/2 lemon rind
 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar 1/2 cup sugar
 1/8 teaspoon ground cardamon 2 egg whites, at room temperature
 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves

Preheat oven to 300°F. Separate crackers into thirds, place on ungreased cookie sheet and set aside. Blend cream of tartar, cardamon, cloves and lemon rind into sugar. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Slowly add sugar mixture to egg whites, beating constantly until meringue holds stiff and glossy peaks. Drop a teaspoonful of mixture on each piece of cracker, spreading lengthwise and making little whirls and peaks. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes, or until meringues are golden. Cool away from drafts. The meringues will shrink and crinkle slightly. They may be stored for several days in an airtight container. Yield: 36 meringues.

Personal Income Up In State

Personal income in Maryland has increased 45% since 1960. Louis L. Goldstein, the State's Comptroller, said this week in commenting on a progress report just received from the Income Tax Division.

Mr. Goldstein said that Maryland has had an outstanding rate of growth surpassed only by the State of Nevada. Per capita income in 1965 was $3,104 which is 11% more than the national average.

"Personal income in Maryland rose by 9% in 1965 while the average throughout the U. S. was only 7%," Mr. Goldstein said.

Pointing to the ever-increasing population and expanding economy in Maryland, Mr. Goldstein said that it naturally followed there was a substantial increase in the number of income tax returns filed each year and cited taxable year 1959 when he took office. In that year the State received 889,482 resident individual income tax returns.

Mr. Goldstein estimates that when final tabulations of all 1965 income tax returns (the last calendar year for tax returns) has been made the State will have received approximately 1,150,000 or a percentage increase of 29.3%.

The subdivisions of the State share in the income tax paid by resident individual. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1966, the allocation to the political subdivisions reserve was $37,676,157.15 with the remainder of the tax paid by individuals, $123,233,044.15 going into the General Funds of the State.

During the fiscal year just ended the subdivisions, which include the City of Baltimore, the 23 counties and 160 incorporated cities, towns and taxing areas of the State, were paid $34,637,137.83 from the individual income tax collections. When final tabulations of all 1965 income tax returns have been completed another distribution to the subdivisions will be made, Mr. Goldstein said.

Other information in the Income Tax Report revealed that although the enactment of the State withholding law had increased the administrative work load, primarily because of the refund problems involved . . . there had been no reduction of services to taxpayers.

In keeping with his views that taxpayers are his employers, the State's Comptroller said that although the practice of preparing income tax returns for the taxpayers had been somewhat curtailed by the Internal Revenue Service, there has been no change in Maryland's policy in this regard.

He said the Income Tax Division still visits every county seat and many of the principal towns preparing returns, giving information and distributing all types of forms. Nine branch offices, Mr. Goldstein said, are available to taxpayers throughout the year.

When Mr. Goldstein became Maryland's State Comptroller in 1959 he initiated the "Open-Door" policy with the people's right to know . . . a policy he says the Income Tax Division subscribes to wholeheartedly. At his instigation each individual income taxpayer of Maryland receives a fiscal report along with their income tax forms. This report, he believes, has enabled the taxpayers to have a better understanding of the financial affairs of their state.

Mr. Goldstein said that as a result of this Annual report the taxpayers know "where the money comes from and where the money goes."

ON THE LAWN
With Larry Lawrence

I can't remember a hotter summer, can you? Records have been broken all across the country, not being somewhat improved in the only for maximum readings but for long spells of broiling day-after-day heat without relief. All of which has been tough on lawns as well as people.

The watering picture has varied considerably from place to place, regularly, grass has had a hard northeast but worse in parts of the Midwest. But even where it has been possible to us a sprinkler have struggled along in a very time. Like mad dogs and Englishmen, a lawn stays out in the noonday sun regardless.

One result of the heat has been to provide a searing test of the various grass varieties. Some have just burned right up. Others end if September, the naturally weakened condition. One, Windsor, has actually seemed to thrive in the heat.

It was only three years ago that blends of Windsor were made generally available, and this has been the first really long spell of record breaking temperatures since then. And as a result of its performance this summer I expect it will be more widely used than ever. Best time to plant it, of course, is from mid-August to the constitutes our real and best nourishment time for improving any lawn.

Ike To Exhibit Cows At State Fair

Former President Dwight Eisenhower and Senator Wayne Morse will vie for blue ribbons in cattle judging competition at the Timonium State Fair which begins August 29.

Herschel H. Allen, Jr., superintendent of the Beef Cattle Department, said the judging this year has attracted a record 260 number of entrants which will represent 41 farms in Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and South Carolina.

Mr. Eisenhower will send Black Angus to Timonium from his Gettysburg farm. The herd will be in charge of Arthur S. Nevins.

The senator will exhibit in the Devon class. He will personally parade his prize beef before the critical eyes of the judges.

UTERINE CANCER
on the way out!

In grandmother's day - rarely curable. Today—practically 100% curable. Every woman should have a "Pap" test as part of her annual checkup.

Women in the "high risk" age group for early, curable cervical cancer (the 30-45 age bracket) have been sent a pipette to take their own Pap test at home as part of the Maryland Cervical Cancer Detection Project.

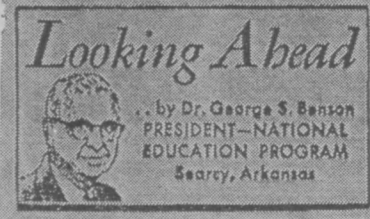

This new kit can detect cervical cancer in its earliest form when it is still completely curable. Use it - it could save your life.

Women 30 to 45 who did not receive a free detection kit may request one by writing the Cytologic Screening Center, 725 N. Wolfe Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21205.

The Blight Is Spreading
When the director of the Federal Government's "War on Poverty" stood in the Watts district of Los Angeles recently and told a cheering crowd of Watts' residents that he supported the idea of a Government-guaranteed annual income, his action gave a big boost to plans for converting our American system into a full-fledged "Welfare State."

powerful Administration voice to be raised in support of the scheme to "abolish poverty" with a dole and establish a "Federal minimum living standard."
Mr. Shriver said the "attack" on poverty should bring into operation the "negative income tax." The "negative income tax" scheme began to be mentioned in the United States after the visit here last year of British Socialist Robert Theobald who attracted followers in New York and Washington political circles.

report supporting a Government-financed "minimum annual income."
"Wholly New Approaches"
Here is the key recommendation of the Commission's report: "The Commission recommends that Congress go beyond a reform of the present structure and examine wholly new approaches to the problem of income maintenance. In particular, we suggest that Congress give serious study to a 'minimum income allowance' or 'negative income tax' program. Such a program, if found feasible, should be designed to approach by stages the goal of eliminating the need for public assistance programs by providing a floor of adequate minimum income for all."

To help stimulate some incentive to work among the millions on such a dole, Professor Lampman says a "workable plan" would permit low-wage earners "to keep at least a portion of their earned income." But this likely would expand the numbers on the dole, for the qualification for receiving a dole would thus be greatly broadened. Professor Lampman estimates that such a program would cost $23,000,000,000 (billions) at the start. And he frankly says, "This appears to be a conservative estimate."

actual return on the dollars Pop shells out for a boy's boat. These items aren't for sale elsewhere at any price.
Now, if there's anything a boy doesn't want, it's formalized instruction. Maybe he'll accept some basics from an older boy he respects; maybe he'll go for a group program of some kind of it run for kids. But if it sounds like schoolroom book learning, he'll turn up his nose—at a boat, never.

This is a broad as well as a radical proposal. If adopted in its fullest concept it would transform the American government into a "Welfare State" and impose back-breaking tax burdens upon the industrious people of the nation. In time, it would bring about the complete destruction of the American way of life, and give us poverty instead of wealth to distribute. Sociologists Pushing Scheme
The Social Security Administration, whose Sociologists and Planners are pushing various plans to "abolish poverty," classify 34,600,000 American citizens as "poverty-stricken." This classification was made in 1963. Presumably the figure is considerably higher today, since the sociological level under which a family is designated as poverty-stricken has changed. A guaranteed annual income for 34,600,000 people, paid by the Federal Government out of tax money, would require a sum rivaling what is being spent today on the Viet Nam war and the entire national defense program.

Indeed such a dole would, as the Professor says, "rob any pecuniary incentives" for millions of people! It would expand the sapping erosion underlying today of the spirit of self-reliance. The American Indian has been a ward of Father Government for more than a century, living in a Federal "Welfare State". His race has almost disappeared, and what is left of it is a miserable shadow of a once great Indian nation. We can stop the further spread of this paternalism blight upon human dignity and progress—but only if more of us take the threat seriously and become politically active.

Remember, if the boy really wants a boat, he'll find one anyway. It probably will be some beat-up relic—dangerous, a cast-off. And he may never develop any pride in it; it won't expand his world. All it offers is a rat-hole down which the youngster will pour his eagerness and growing skill to no avail until, bored, he turns to something else.
It's up to you, Pop. You've got to steer. And, as in all things, you can bear down a little too hard—or not enough. The magic phrase is: "You've got to enter his world."
You might want (and need) an 18-footer with offshore trimmings and sizzling speed; but he doesn't—even though he might think so. What he needs at this point is to

There is something definitely above and beyond a normal reward in starting a boy off with a boat. There's real significance in it.
One reason is that in this boat you are really buying a teacher; one of the most important the boy will ever have. A boat will teach some of life's most essential lessons as well—better than any other master, declares Zack Taylor, Boats Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.
Self-reliance, the value of planning, weather ways, responsibility, when to be scared and when not to be, command, courage, strength, ability to cope with the unexpected—all these and more are the

We could save 160 Maryland women. We haven't.
Cancer is not necessarily a killer. Cervical cancer is practically 100% curable if detected early and treated promptly.
Yet more than 160 Maryland women die needlessly of this disease every year. What to do—have a Pap smear as part of your annual health checkup.
Women in the "high risk" age group for early, curable cervical cancer (the 30-45 age bracket) have been sent a pipette to take their own Pap smear at home. Use it, and help us save 160 Maryland women. The chances are 99% that your test will be normal. And, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing instead of just feeling you're all right.

Your Vote and Support
sincerely appreciated

For the past several years it has been my desire to aspire for the office of County Commissioner. I fully understand the responsibility and demands that this office holds for its officials. After over 30 years of a successful business career, and now retired, I would devote my full time, interests and efforts to this important office, should I become a part of this Government body.
Through careful examination and long range planning, I feel we should prepare our County to deal with the problems of the enormous growth we are sure to have in Frederick County. I believe we can do this by taking into consideration, the best current thinking of our planners, and to utilize the assistance that is available through the various commissions.
If I am elected to this very important office, I will to the best of my ability, try to merit the confidence you will have placed in me. And may I respectfully solicit your help and support in the Democratic primaries of September 13th.

Test Your Knowledge Of Women

"Women are wiser than men," wrote James Stephens, "because they know less and understand more." Whether or not you agree, you can test your knowledge of the fair sex by marking the following statements either TRUE or FALSE:

- A woman's brain is heavier than a man's.
FALSE. According to Dr. Justus J. Schifferes, author of the "Family Medical Encyclopedia," the adult male brain is slightly heavier than the female.
- More women than men have rheumatoid arthritis.
TRUE. At least 3,750,000 women in the U.S. are victims of the most crippling form of arthritis, as compared with at least 1,250,000 men.
- Men suffer more headaches than women.
FALSE. Scientists say women have far more migraine and more everyday nervous tension headaches than men. For the latter kind of headache, there is a new and unique remedy, called Cope, which relieves the tension as well as the pain.
- Women are more easily hypnotized than men.
TRUE. While not everyone can be hypnotized, women fall under the "spell" more easily than men. You should never allow yourself to be hypnotized except by a qualified psychiatrist.

THEN & NOW

While all of us pay attention to our grooming, few people realize how ideas of what makes a man look his best have changed. And thanks to a wide array of easy-to-use grooming aids, modern man spends a lot less time on his appearance than did his counterpart of 150 years ago.

When Napoleon Bonaparte controlled most of Europe, many men of the day wore powdered wigs. Unlike his contemporaries, however, Napoleon is said to have never used one. His dark hair was almost a trade mark.

Today, men can keep their hair looking neat all day without using messy preparations in untidy tubes or jars. A new formula grooming hair spray for men from Ed. Pinaud, Inc.—a firm that sold cosmetics to Napoleon—comes in aerosol form and is not greasy, sticky or stiff. With YU hair spray, well-groomed hair is just a push of a button away.
