It was very gratifying to learn this week that the local Chamber of Commerce was reorganized and got off on a solid footing after a lap of perhaps some five or six years. There is a definite need here for such an organization and I am certain that a lot of good and beneficial things will come out of the reorganization. Just one of several encouraging aspects I learned, was the interest our two local colleges showed by sending delegates to the meeting and taking membership in the organization. In the past decade these two institutions have practically doubled their enrollment and that naturally means, quite a larger faculty, composed of educated and learned individuals who can, if they are really interested, do good work for this community. Hardly any other small town in the country is as fortunate in this category as we are here in Emmitsburg. This infusion of learned men and women into our local organizations can be a boon to this area and their influence with about 8,000 alumni just might materialize into something good for the town. Anyway, I am confident the new Chamber has a bright future ahead of it and I urge all local citizens, in business or otherwise, to take a membership.

Now that the din and smoke of the battle for elective offices has subsided once more we can settle down and analyze just what happened. We know that George P. Mahoney won the Democratic gubernatorial contest but we don't know exactly why. Many are trying to inject the racial prejudice picture into the issue. While Mahoney's stand on open housing probably did get him some votes on the other hand it cost him many. Mahoney always has been a popular candidate in this state and is recognized as one of the best vote getters in a century. He has maintained a steady following and has thousands of unwavering loyal voters throughout the state. This undoubtedly, was what carried him through to victory. The two other major candidates dodged the issue, straddled the fence or double-talked their way out of the issue and also the votes. Quite a number of citizens are critical of Mahoney's stand on open housing and we don't necessarily concur with his ideologies but at least he had the courage to stick by his decision and the public knew where he stood. Now cries of prejudice, bigotry and racial hatred are being injected into the contest for Governor, led principally by those who were defeated and lacked the fortitude to take a stand. It was not open housing that elected George Mahoney, it was the Mahoney personal magnitude and courage to crusade for what he thought was right, and the best interests of the people. Just look what Congress did to the civil rights bill this week. The issue was battled to a stalemate and who knows if it will ever be settled. Senator Everett Dirksen led the fight against the bill and I'll guarantee you he will be elected again. Mahoney led a bitter fight and I predict he will win in November.

Mount Begins 159th Year

A record enrollment of 859 collegians has been reported by the Registrar's Office of Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg. The incoming class of freshmen, who registered on Sunday, totaled 241 neoticut, 27; Delaware, 14; other which is approximately the same as last year. The increased enrollment of nearly 40 students is attributed to the number of transfer students accepted from other institutions, primarily community or junior colleges, according to Dean of Studies Rev. Carl J. Fives.

There are 161 seniors, 218 juniors, 236 sophomores, and three special students registered in addition to the freshmen. Among these the state of Maryland leads with 234 students; Pennsylvania, 221; New Jersey, 174; New York, 110; Virginia, 33; D.C., 26; Connecticut, 27; Delaware, 1; other states and countries represented include Florida, Massachusetts, Ohio, Oklahoma, Michigan, Tennessee, West Virginia, Alabama, California, Illinois, Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Cuba, and Kenya.

"The Three Tabards of Shakespeare" under the direction of Phillip Lawrence, distinguished Shakespearean authority, is scheduled for November. Dramatic selections from the great tragedies, comedies and histories of the Bard are included in the presentation. December's offerings will feature performances by the colleges' own groups in concerts to be announced.

C., presenting selections of both classic ballet and modern dance; and Ulrico Sghettini, muralist, will lecture on "The Architecture of Christopher Wren in London." Mr. Sghettini will spend the week of April 10 on the Saint Joseph's campus, during which he will hold an informal convocation to discuss the composition of images and the theory of ornamental colors, and will execute an original mural, allowing students and guests to follow the work as it progresses.

Official announcements of all cultural events will be sent to interested persons and friends of the two colleges. Those wishing to be included on the mailing list are invited to send their names and addresses to the Dean of Students, St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg, Maryland 21727.

Shades Of Emmitsburg's Bi-Centennial

It was a happy group of bearded and mustached gentlemen that embarked on this bus trip early in June of 1957. The elaborate hirsuts belong to a local group of gents who set out to advertise the Emmitsburg Bi-Centennial back in '57. The trip was to a Baltimore brewery and an Oriole ball game. Lawrence Sprankle, seen beside the late Prof. McCullough, far right standing, later won first prize for his elaborate set of Santa Whiskers. Recognize any others?

There are 709 Senior Citizens in Emmitsburg and surrounding area who should be served as a group and would be eligible for such a grant.

The next meeting will be held October 18, at which time it is hoped a permanent meeting place may be available. Delicious punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Eyster and Mrs. Ada Sperry.

Fairfield Plans New School

An estimated $1,100,000 was given as the cost for the proposed new addition to the Fairfield High School at Monday night's board meeting in the school library.

The addition would include a new elementary and high school addition, enlargement of the present cafeteria, a new gym and conversion of the present gym into an enlarged library. The present library would be used as a part of the music department.

Dr. Curvin Smith, supervising principal, said that the proposed addition would provide for a projected enrollment from the present 800 to 1,200 in 1972, which would give the system three sections per grade. This is based on an expected 50 per cent increase in the school population in the next six years.

Firemen Consider Walkie-Talkies

The regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. was called to order by President James Fitzgerald on Tuesday evening, September 13. The minutes of the August meeting were approved as read by secretary John Balmer.

President Fitzgerald gave a report on a Directors' meeting held the evening before with all directors and chiefs present. The directors voted in favor of buying two additional turn-out coats and six safety vests for the Fire Police to use. The possibility of buying Citizen Band Walkie-Talkies for the Fire Police to use in order to keep in touch with the scene of a fire was discussed and will be looked into at length later. The directors also voted in favor of having an underground gasoline storage tank installed. This would simplify the paper work involved in keeping the gasoline tax records and also would permit the trucks to be returned from a late evening emergency with a full tank of gas.

Accepted to full active membership after serving the six-month probation period were Mike Orndorff and Billy Weidner. Treasurer Ronald Stouter gave his financial report, and Chief Guy McGlaughlin reported seven fires since the last meeting. Three of the fires were assists to neighboring companies and one was a false alarm.

Thomas White reported that the Fund Drive was falling short of its goal but that there were still some routes to be turned in. James Pryor was elected to active membership on a six-months probation period. One person was proposed for membership. This will be voted on at the October meeting.

Richard Sprankle, chairman of the summer feed, reported it was a social and financial success. Ronald Stouter, chairman of the money raising committee, gave a report. Charles Stouter, Mike Boyle, Paul Keepers and John Balmer volunteered to arrange a shooting match in the near future. Michael Boyle, John J. Hollinger and George Danner of the By-Laws Committee, gave a report and presented a list of changes which they felt necessary along with a few added by the members present. The proposed changes were tabled until the October meeting when they will be voted on by the membership.

Chief Guy McGlaughlin appointed 1st Asst. Chief Charles Stouter and 2nd Asst. Chief John S. Hollinger to make arrangements for activities during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9 thru 15. Fire drills for the schools will be on the list.

The company wishes to thank Eugene Myers for the air-conditioner which he donated for the meeting room. Frank Reilly and Billy Weidner will serve on the refreshment committee for October.

During the recent heavy rain, the company answered 16 service calls. The date for the shooting match will be Oct. 16 at Stouter's Meadow for the benefit of the company's building fund.

Miss Martin Wins Academic Awards

Miss Susan E. Martin, daughter of Mrs. George Martin, Emmitsburg, has received academic achievement for the fall semester at Western Maryland College, it has been announced.

Miss Martin was presented with two history awards by Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president, at the recent fall convocation. Miss Martin was the recipient of the Hugh Barnette Speir, Jr. Prize and the United States History Award.

Pledges Support To George Mahoney

Robert E. Dailey, Jr. charged that the Democratic State Central Committee for Frederick County "violated tradition" by not giving the highest vote-getter for the post an opportunity to accept the chairmanship.

Dailey, 33, polled 4,129 votes to lead the voting for the seven-member committee that oversees the work of the Democratic party in the county.

Re-elected head of the central committee was Austin C. Powell. Named vice-chairman was John O. Ramsburg. Secretary will be Joseph J. Coady. Named to succeed Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher as treasurer was Lloyd M. Fogle.

Dailey said that he was not even considered for the chairmanship, which he would have accepted if asked, and assailed reports that he did not want to head the committee.

"Since there were no by-laws to govern the central committee," Dailey declared, "precedent should have ruled, and the highest vote-getter should have been given the opportunity to accept or decline the chairmanship."

Instead, Dailey said, he was not offered the chairmanship, or even nominated for the post, when the new central committee held its organization meeting this week.

"The central committee has a responsibility to the Democratic District central committees throughout the county to create an era of better understanding and cooperation," Dailey said.

And, he added, it also has "a responsibility to the citizens of the county to see that suitably qualified individuals are recommended to positions of trust and responsibility in our community."

The committee for Frederick County decided to throw its full support behind apparent gubernatorial nominee George P. Mahoney.

C. of C. Holds Organizational Meeting Here

The reorganizational meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce got off to an excellent start Tuesday night when numerous business people and other interested individuals met at the Emmitt House for a delicious turkey dinner.

A representative group of local citizens was present and heard Mayor Guy A. Baker, Jr., discuss the town's water problems and the corrective methods that will be employed to remedy these persistent problems which have plagued the community during the five-year drought cycle.

Nominations for officers were made at the meeting as follows: President, Eugene Myers; vice president, Sydney Sappington; secretary, Mrs. Valli Ryan, and treasurer, Ralph D. Lindsey. The nominations will remain open until the next meeting when an election will take place.

The organization gained 10 new members at the meeting and the group decided to make its regular meeting night the third Tuesday of each month.

Floyd Lewis was named the group's public relations chairman and Mr. Darcus, Emmitt House manager, was appointed membership chairman.

The next meeting of the group will be held at Mt. Manor Restaurant on Tuesday, Oct. 18 at 7:30 o'clock. During the evening general discussions were held pertaining to Emmitsburg's needs and future plans talked over. The local Chamber is an affiliate member of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Annual dues are $10 per membership and all interested local citizens and businesses are invited to join.

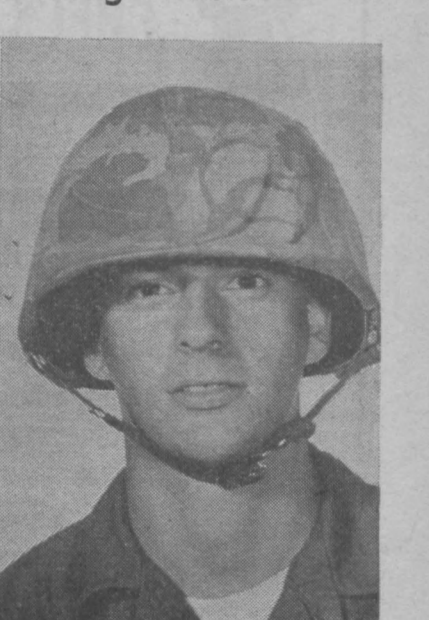

Community Show Will Be Held Here Oct. 14-15

The Emmitsburg Grange, at its meeting Wednesday night, reversed its decision concerning the annual Community Show and decided to sponsor it again this year. Due to many requests from citizens of the local community and offers of help from neighboring friends in Thurmont, the Grange felt that it would be able to carry the Show again. The dates will be Friday, Oct. 14 and Saturday, Oct. 15 at the Emmitsburg Public High School auditorium.

Canned and fresh food products, sewing and other handwork, arts and crafts, home products units and farm produce will be on display and judged during the afternoon of Oct. 14. A listing of the classes for this exhibit will be published in the Chronicle soon. Everyone, children and adults, who live in the Emmitsburg community, is eligible to participate in the show.

A program is being planned for each night. There is no admission but a silver offering will be taken to defray expenses. Candy and other sweets will be for sale. Make your plans now to exhibit something and to attend this annual affair.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

By Malcolm Lewis

Home Care Improves Maternal Health

When impoverished women can't or won't come to hospital clinics for prenatal care, what can the hospitals do to protect their health? An original and unusual answer is being given by Lincoln Hospital, a municipal institution in New York. It brings the hospital to the women.

An obstetric home-care service, complete with doctors, social workers, and mothers' helpers, is just completing its first year in one of the city's deprived areas.

This home-care service is the brain-child of Dr. Joseph J. Smith, director of obstetrics and gynecology at Lincoln, and associate professor of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

Dr. Smith told Women's Medical News Service he was appalled that more than half of the maternity patients left the hospital only 24 to 48 hours after their babies were born and failed to return for their postpartum check-up. Lack Bus Fare

A large number of the women, he said, had not seen a doctor before or during their pregnancy. They didn't come to the hospital clinics because they couldn't take time off from work, or the endless waiting and impersonality of the clinics discouraged them, or because they couldn't afford the cost of a baby-sitter or bus fare. Or they didn't understand the importance of prenatal care.

The infant and maternal mortality rates among these impoverished women, as for the poor throughout the nation, were two to four times that of the middle class.

In an effort to remedy this situation, Dr. Smith decided to send the necessary medical and social services to the women, in their homes. Two specialists in obstetrics and gynecology and two social work assistants were assigned full-time to visit the patients at home.

Lincoln's district is one of the most impoverished in the city, Dr. Smith points out. Its public assistance rate is twice that of the rest of the city, its unemployment rate is eight percent, and family incomes are in the lowest quartile.

To add further complications, the population is largely Puerto Rican and Spanish-speaking.

For this reason, Spanish-speaking doctors, nurses, social workers, and mothers' helpers staff the home-care service. There is even a bilingual telephone operator assigned to the program.

The home-care visits, while aimed mainly at mothers and their newborns, now also include pregnant women with medical complications such as diabetes, heart trouble, or other serious problems that can complicate pregnancy. In the past year, more than 2,500 patients were visited by the obstetrical teams, and the number of prenatal examinations rose from 3 percent to 10 percent.

Mothers are given family planning information and select the type of family planning method they desire. "These women, and their husbands, too, are enthusiastic about contraception," Dr. Smith said. "Many of them had never heard about the various methods now available. As soon as they are assured that contraception doesn't interfere with a normal sex life and with good health they are all for it."

Another important innovation at Lincoln is the obstetrical technician. She is a neighborhood woman, who after receiving six months' training in the hospital and serving a six-month internship, assists in the delivery rooms and in other ways relieves the obstetrical nursing shortage. "Our obstetrical technicians are helping us build bridges to the mothers," Dr. Smith observed. "They are familiar with the many problems these women face and help us gain insight into their needs."

"The aids demonstrate that despite the handicaps of inadequate education and poverty they can do a rewarding, useful job. This builds morale and confidence."

Service With Dignity

The hospital has just opened a maternal health clinic in the heart of the community, a distance away from the hospital. Unlike the traditional clinic, there are no hard benches, no long waiting periods, no perfunctory examinations, Dr. Smith says.

Patients are seen by appointment. Examinations are dignified and thorough. The waiting rooms are cheerful and comfortable. Among the facilities are a nursery with a child psychologist in attendance, and a waiting room for fathers. A full-time director of family planning provides birth control information and contraceptive materials.

"Our clinic and home populations are being given totally integrated services. We are trying to prevent and cure physical ills, to be sure. But we also give our families information on social services in the community that might be helpful to them, and we guide them to the surplus food program in the hope that their diets will be improved," Dr. Smith pointed out.

Many Improvements In Restyled 1967 Chevrolet Truck Line

Clean, trim practical styling that gives a low, fleet look to this Fleetside pickup is only one of many advances in the 1967 Chevrolet truck line. Vision, cab comfort, and corrosion-resistance are improved. Other new features in the line include longer bodies and more power for Chevy-Vans, a redesigned, lower four-wheel-drive series, and diesels in forward-control delivery vans. In some larger models, a new shorter cab and front sheet metal design give a shorter wheelbase for improved maneuverability with no loss in load space.

Motorcycle Fatales Steadily Increasing

"There was a large laceration of his scalp and injury to his brain," reported Surgeon James C. Drye of Louisville. "His right lung was torn and there was a fair amount of blood in his chest. His spleen was ruptured and bleeding. There were about three quarts of blood in his abdomen. His left leg was almost amputated. His pelvis was fractured. He was not hit by an artillery shell in Viet Nam, as one might think from the extent of his injuries. He was wounded while riding a motorbike on the streets of our community."

The same sort of report, published by the American College of Surgeons, could have come from any city in the country. The number of motorcycles and motor scooters on U. S. roads has doubled in three years to a current total of more than 1,250,000. Sales are still accelerating, and the number of accidents is mounting faster than the number of vehicles. Deaths increased from 882 in 1963 to 1,118 in 1964 to 1,580 last year, and are expected to reach 1,900 this year. The fatality rate for cycle riders and their "buddy seat" pals is five times that of automobile occupants.

Leather Is Best

The major reason for the recent increase, says Robert O'Donnell of the Greater New York Safety Council, is the inexperience of new motorcycle owners. "The pro in cycling wears durable clothing, such as leathers, and a proper helmet, and never has bare arms or legs. He knows how to handle his machine—in contrast with the putput crowd in the go-go set. The most serious accidents happen to these people, who are not sufficiently skilled and drive around without proper equipment."

Motorcycle injuries have become so numerous that emergency-room doctors and trauma surgeons now rate them as epidemic, and they are, on the average, far more devastating than those that result from car crashes. "If you have your seat belt fastened and drive into a stone wall at 15 m.p.h.," says O'Donnell, "the car will be a mess but there won't be much damage to you. If you do that on a motorcycle, you get thrown against the brick wall, which is ruinous to flesh and bone." Since the rider is usually projected headfirst, like a missile, says Manhattan's Dr. Robert H. Kennedy, the most severe and common injuries, those that cause 70% of the deaths, are to the head. A properly designed helmet is essential for cycle safety, but many riders wear inadequate helmets or none at all. Nonfatal head injuries have caused countless cases of disfigurement, paralysis and blindness. Crippling from loss or mutilation of arms and legs is common.

California, which leads the nation with 250,000 registered cycles, compiled a grisly record in 1965 with 263 fatal accidents (some involving more than one death) for motorcycles and 13 for scooters. Ironically, the accident rate is lower on California's roaring freeways than at the low speeds of snaking mountain roads or intersections of Los Angeles' labyrinthine streets. In New York City, the very density of traffic slows cycles to a crawl and lowers the accident rate still further. Wet pavements are even worse on two wheels than on four: San Francisco makes its motorcycle cops dismount and climb into cars when it rains.

Death Inevitable

While it insists that the cycles and scooters are not inherently dangerous, the National Safety Council emphasizes that they are dangerous indeed when driven by inexperienced riders. It now advocates special testing and licensing — which presupposes special training.

Doctors are the first to agree. "As things are now," says a University of Michigan research group, "the motorcycle safety situation is just about hopeless." Says Louisville Surgeon Drye: "The motorbike is fun to ride, convenient and cheap, but is it worth the inevitable mayhem, death and economic loss? If you think so, get your son a motorbike for his 'last birthday.' If this sounds bitter, it is because I was operating on that boy when he died."

Fall Planting Season Here

With the fall planting season about to begin, the Maryland Nurserymen's Association today reminded home gardeners of a few basic requirements that go a long way in insuring the successful installation of all plants.

Although long dry periods of summer and the harsh, cold winds of winter inevitably take their toll of plant life, improper planting practices are high on the list of causes of plant deaths. Before planting, one should always be sure to acquire the necessary ingredients for a balanced soil mix. This is especially important where desirable planting sites contain only heavy clay under a very shallow surface of top soil or turf. The best planting mix is good top soil and peat moss, mixed in equal amounts by volume. Where top soil is completely unavailable, a mixture of equal parts of clay, sand, and peat moss will make an acceptable substitute.

The digging of the planting pit is also important. All too often, in the interest of expedience, the gardener is tempted to dig a shallow, saucer-like hole with tapering sides and rounded bottom. This type of depression defeats good plant growth from the outset. Since very little hard soil or clay has been removed, there is scant space either for future root development or the addition of the good soil mix. Properly dug, a good planting pit should have straight sides and a flat bottom. In effect, it should be a perfect cylinder dug into the earth.

To improve still further the plant's chances, the pit's dimensions should be greater than those of the plant's roots. Usually, a pit should measure eight inches deeper than the lowest point of the earth ball or roots and should be 16 inches greater in diameter than the spread of the roots or the diameter of the ball.

At this point one reaches the most critical step in planting: determining the depth to which the plant will be placed. In this regard the old rule is still true — never bury the root system deeper than it was in the field at the nursery. In the case of balled and burlapped material, this means that the top of the ball should be even with the soil surface. When the tree or shrub in question is bare root, the crown should be located at surface level. The crown may be easily identified as the spot where the lower trunk changes color, usually just above the uppermost roots.

In either case, the plant should be elevated to the proper level by first filling the extra depth of the pit (about eight inches) with the soil mix. If the plant is bare root, all roots should be spread out; if it is balled and burlapped it is best to leave the burlap wrapping on the ball. When the correct depth has been attained, the pit should be filled with the mix. The mix, in turn, must be tightly packed. The soil surface should then be pulled lightly away from the center of the plant, creating a slight basin that will catch water and direct it downward to the roots. A thorough watering plus the addition of a good mulch completes the planting operation.

How To Spend A Billion! Legislation (and spending!) in Washington is usually conceived drafted and pushed by a relatively small group of people.

And not more than five out of every 100 originate in the minds of Congressmen. Individuals and small groups representing organizations or other relatively narrow interests are responsible for initiating most of the legislation (and spending) approved by Congress.

When a bill for something "new" is conceived, and usually long before it is drafted, a promotional, publicity program, voicing the "need" for the governmental service to be sought, is launched.

begins to be talked about. If it is to become a major piece of legislation, persons on the President's staff or within the Administration are brought into the group, if possible, to begin shapning the campaign.

Public Not Pushing

Hardly ever is there any real public demand for legislation. Active persons and groups — people who write their Congressmen, organizations which will pass resolutions, and especially some of the politically-conscious women's organizations—have to be persuaded that the legislation is "needed."

Most of the "growth" of the Federal government, its spending programs and its colossal expense has been fed by such legislation. The growth will continue until and unless the 95 per cent of our people who are today inactive in political and governmental affairs are awakened to their full responsibilities of citizenship—and to the personal stake each has in soaring government costs and centralization of economic power in Washington.

$130 Billion Too Much

Here are a few recent Federal government programs that once were just ideas in the minds of a few people, and for which there never was any general public demand:

Housing and Urban Renewal, costing the first year $935 million and estimated to cost $8.8 billion the first five years; Regional Development, first year cost $665 million, five year estimate $3.3 billion; Poverty Program, first year cost of $1.8 billion, five year estimate $8.9 billion; Appalachia Subsidy, first year $365 million, five year estimate $1.6 billion.

Deficit Spending Required

Since many of the billions of dollars required to finance such massive Federal spending must be obtained by Government thru deficit maneuvering, inflation is fed and the purchasing power of every dollar is reduced.

They will not be shelved unless there is widespread public outcry. In fact, the present Congress will be pressured to expand the new programs and add others. Small but influential groups are agitating for the full Welfare State society which would mean "cradle to grave" care—up to a certain standard—by the Federal government.

Celtic Air posted the fastest 6-furlong time in Shenandoah's 8-year history of 2-year-old racing last month when he stepped the distance in 1:13 1/5 seconds.

Other likely starters include Beth's Tune, conqueror of Celtic Air in the Tri-State Prep last Wednesday; Mr. Albermarle, 4th in that one after going off as the 8-5 second choice; and Flowing Nala, who finished third to the top two in the Prep.

The Tri-State is the last futurity remaining in American racing and is the richest race in West Virginia. It was introduced in 1962 for 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Saturday's contestants are the remaining produce of more than 300 mares nominated in 1963.

Watersheds Open To Bow Hunters
The Baltimore City Bureau of Water Supply, in cooperation with the Department of Game and Inland Fish, has agreed to permit public hunting (bow and arrow only) by special permit on the Prettyboy Reservoir and Liberty Reservoir Watersheds.

The special permits and additional information are available at the Department of Game and Inland Fish Gwynnbrook Regional Office, Owings Mills, Md., Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Permits are valid for the entire season, Sept. 15 through Dec. 24, inclusive. Hunters must adhere to all Regulations established by the Bureau of Water Supply and State Game Laws. Eastern Neck National Wildlife Refuge

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service will have an open season for the hunting of deer on their Eastern Neck Wildlife Refuge in Kent County.

There will be two 6 day seasons, the first season October 17 through October 22 will be for bow and arrow only. No refuge permit will be required for this hunt. The second season from October 24 through October 29 will be a shot-gun only hunt for which a permit will be required. Permits will be limited to 100 per day and will be issued in advance of the season, without charge, to hunters selected by an impartial drawing from applications received. Applications must be received no later than October 3, 1966 at the Eastern Neck National Wildlife Refuge, Route 2, Box 93, Rock Hall, Maryland 21661. The drawing will take place at the Courthouse in Chestertown, Md. at 10 a.m. on October 8, 1966. Only one application per person will be accepted. Each application should specify one preferred hunting date and may also list alternate dates. If two or more hunters wish to hunt together, they may submit a joint application which must list the name and address of each party member. No more than four hunters may apply as a group, and each group application will be considered a single unit in the drawing. If a group application is drawn, each member of the party will receive a permit. For applications and further information all inquiries should be directed to: Erwin W. McIntosh, Refuge Manager, Eastern Neck National Wildlife Refuge, Route 2, Box 193, Rock Hall, Md. 21661. Commission Sets

Special Sea Duck Season
Another first for the Department was brought into being when the Game and Inland Fish Commission met in Annapolis to adopt a Special Sea Duck Season. The season will be from September 26, 1966 to January 10, 1967, for elders, scoters and old squaws only. Daily bag limit will be 7 and the possession limit 14, singly or in the aggregate. Shooting hours are sunrise to sunset, E.S.T.

In order to conform with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service requirements and to make certain this special season would have little or no effect on the regular duck season for major species or on the hunters of same, the hunting of sea ducks has been confined to several well defined areas. For a more detailed descriptive map of the areas designated, contact the Regional Office in your area or write to the Annapolis office. No special license is required other than a current valid hunting license and duck stamp. Shooting will be permitted from boats only during the time they are resting at anchor.

This special season has been granted Maryland due to the continued good population of sea ducks which have sustained little hunting pressure. Monthly inventories taken by Department of Game and Inland Fish personnel during the Fall and Winter of 1965 indicated a peak of at least 157,000 scoters and old squaws in Maryland waters. Sea ducks are usually found in large numbers a mile or more from shore except in the Atlantic Ocean where most of them are found rafted along the beach.

These sea duck concentrations occur in the areas selected for the Special season, and this should certainly make for some very fine waterfowl shooting. An excellent article on sea ducks and sea duck hunting by Vernon Stotts, the Department's Waterfowl Biologist appears in the August issue of the "Maryland Conservationist" which is now being published by the Board of Natural Resources. There are some helpful hints on sea duck shooting contained in the article that would be most helpful to an aspiring sea duck hunter. Reminder

Hunters are reminded that Maryland law requires your hunting license tag must be displayed on the outer garment in the center of the back. The penalty for failure to display your hunting license tag on your back is the same as hunting without a license.

More than 6,500 people last year were victims of fires in their own homes, National Fire Protection Assn. figures indicate.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

All-Concentrate Rations For Cattle In Feed Lots

In a recent cattle feeding test at Iowa State University, a ration of heavy corn silage, a couple of pounds of hay, moderate amount of corn grain, and appropriate supplement, proved more profitable than one of heavy corn grain.

The former has for generations been the more or less normal or conventional cattle feeding system in the corn belt. But times have changed. We have fewer cattle being finished in farm feeding set-ups where surplus forage by way of hay, silage or pasture needs to be utilized. This very fact prompts many a farmer to lay in one or more carloads of feeder cattle.

The increase in large-scale feed lots in many parts of the country, including areas outside of the corn belt has been amazing.

In these large-scale feed lots all-concentrate rations have become popular. Why? Because with the increase in mechanized farming and the use of high-yielding hybrid grains, along with heavy use of fertilizer, grain is actually cheaper than hay or silage. It is cheaper on the digestible energy basis almost anywhere that feeds have to be purchased. Grains or concentrates can be purchased, stored, and mechanically fed more easily than forage.

To clinch the argument: Cattle have been successfully fed in many feeding experiments and in commercial feed lots on all-concentrate and therefore no-roughage rations.

But good ration formulation and management is essential. Forage after all supplies many necessary nutrients that then need to be supplied in the grain mixture such as, a minimum of fiber or "roughness", suitable minerals, vitamins and antibiotics. The latter are helpful in the control of liver abscesses.

"Roughness" is supplied by the seed coats of barley, for instance, or through the flaked condition of steam-rolled mlo or other grain, or even through limited amounts of "hen-size" oyster shell.

This is a subject now being discussed extensively in reports of experiment stations and in farm journals where readers will be able to obtain the latest findings.

Question: Must we be concerned over such minerals as potassium and magnesium in cattle feeding? We did not worry about them before.
Answer: The trend toward all-concentrate feeding of cattle and sheep largely deprives them of these minerals that are carried in forages more than in grains, and may cause concern over them. These rations need to be well fortified also with other minerals including trace minerals, and with vitamins.

What's your HOBBY?
Last year more than 39 million Americans of all ages made beautiful music as amateur musicians, according to the American Musical Conference. Not surprisingly, they purchased about six times as many guitars as pianos. But there still are 22.7 million piano players to nine million guitarists.

Model car racers get a bonanza in six new home race sets by Monogram Models, Inc. Four are 1/32 scale and two in 1/24, and there's a big variety in size, layout and price. All the sets are complete with track, racing cars, hand controls and power packs. The choice ranges from the two-lane Watkins Glen set for $35 to the tricky four-lane (and four-car) Sebring for $100. The big one has a lap length of nearly 26 feet.

Parachute jumping is coming on strong as a hobby with a built-in thrill. More than 50,000 persons belong to some 500 parachute clubs that conduct strict training courses and supervised jump events. Not recommended for youngsters and/or the faint of heart.

That out-of-this-world car you see running on model car racing tracks is the Vampire, by Monogram. It's an original futuristic car in 1/24 scale and is ready to run straight out of the box. The front of the body slopes down to keep the front wheels in contact with the track at high speeds. The Vampire's fully-detailed cockpit, with driver, is topped off with a clear plastic cover. Power comes from a Tiger Super X-220S sidewinder motor. 766

Styling changes for the 1967 Fairlane, which was completely redesigned for 1966, include taillights divided by back-up lights as shown on the Fairlane X/L Hardtop above and a dramatic new grille treatment as illustrated on the Fairlane 500 4-door Sedan below. Interior styling is new as well with color-coordinated, cloth-and-vinyl combinations. Fairlane models go on display at Ford dealer showrooms Friday, Sept. 30.

How America's red-white-and-blue collar workers help keep America strong.
In May 1941, top representatives of America's labor unions met with Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and pledged their support of the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds.
Today, organized labor still endorses and actively supports the program. And the Payroll Savings Plan, just an experiment in 1941, now proudly boasts 8 million members, mostly union people, sharing a personal interest in their future and their country's.
With the Payroll Savings Plan, saving for the future is downright easy—and painless. How can you spend money you don't even see?
When you sign up, a small part of your money is tucked away every payday. Automatically. And starts earning you the new, higher interest of 4.15% on every Bond you buy and hold to maturity.
Bonds grow quickly. So when you need the money for important, personal things, the money is right there—ready to help pay for them.
Important things like a new home, education, that dream vacation—or your retirement.
Most important, Bonds are helping support our men in Vietnam.
Buy Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work and you'll find yourself in pretty good company. And dollars ahead.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson's Point Of View On:
Cooling The Boom

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 22—It is now official. President Johnson would like to see Congress take action to cool off our over-heated economy. He is worried about rising prices and believes that first steps should be taken before the elections to prevent runaway inflation. He also called on the money managers to ease the "inequitable burden" of high interest costs.

Steps Recommended
In his message to Congress, Mr. Johnson asked for only a limited amount of legislation now. However, there was an implication that if his first attack in inflation should not be effective, more recommendations for new laws would be made. This would presumably be done after the turn of the year.

But for now—before the current session heads for the hustings—he is asking for congressional action to suspend the 7% tax credit on business investment in new machinery and equipment from September 1, 1966 to January 1, 1968. Also, deferment for the same period is asked for the fast write-off on new buildings. All other anti-inflation action sought is in the form of requests: (1) To Congress to go slow on appropriations for non-defense; (2) to the Federal Reserve to ease interest rates; (3) to the government agencies not to add to the demand for money; (4) to business and labor to hold prices and costs down.

Boy On A Man's Job?
To us it looks very much as though suspension of the investment and construction tax relief—even if promptly made effective—would be too small an effort in the face of such a mighty inflation wave. It would be like fighting a big forest fire with a bucket of water. The outpouring of credit which has been going on for years cannot be halted by an attack on one small front.

Furthermore, timing is most important. If the economy is overheated—and most economists agree that it is—any action taken to cut back the demand pressure on our productive machine should bring results fairly rapidly. The President himself pointed out that order backlogs for machines and equipment are months behind production right now. It is not likely that plans already in operation will be cut back very much by the suspension of tax relief. Perhaps the beat that can be expected is that projections now on the drawing board will be postponed. Thus, the desired impact on the economy may be a long way off . . . when it is needed here and now.

Asking And Receiving
And, as for the requests made of Congress, the money managers, businessmen, and labor leaders, it is highly doubtful that early decisive action can be expected. It is the same old story. Management may hold back on price hikes . . . but not if unions keep punching wage costs ever higher. Labor in turn points to historically high profits and says they want their tools! Congressmen who are about to go before their voters are under pressure to "bring home the bacon." No, human nature is not going to change just because the Chief Executive says we must slay the inflation dragon!

As far as the Federal Reserve authorities are concerned, we must not forget that they are charged by law with keeping prices from running away. In addition, for months now, the whole brunt of the inflationary onslaught has been borne by the Reserve Board. They can hardly make money easier and less costly until they see higher-price pressures subsiding . . . especially since this is the first time the Administration has offered to help fight the battle. Hasty moves now toward money ease could really put the fat in the fire.

It's A Big Job
We are very much afraid that the enormous size of the job ahead of us—dampening the inflationary fires—is not fully understood. More than a "balance" of the national budget, more than a slowdown in business expansion, more than a tiny and selective tax rise, more than a mild restraint on soaring money and credit supplies . . . will be necessary before inflation can be licked. All of us will have to give up something to win the fight. Otherwise we will all be burned by the inflationary fires as they lick ever closer to our own particular homes and interests.

Home Decorating Course Planned

Are you planning to do some decorating this fall with your housecleaning? Would you like to go about it in an efficient and intelligent manner? If so, there is a golden opportunity coming your way!

The Junior Woman's Club of Frederick is sponsoring a "How To" course in home decorating to be instructed by Mr. Jack N. Lindsey, A.I.D., currently pursuing his profession with Maidstone, Inc., in Hagerstown. Mr. Lindsey has conducted essentially this same course for three years at Shepherd College as part of their adult education program with outstanding success and with overflowing classes. He stresses "How to Better Understand Your Home" as the basic idea for the six lessons which will be held.

The purpose of sponsoring the Home Decorating Course by the Junior Woman's Club is first and foremost to raise money for equipment for the new pediatric wing of the Frederick Memorial Hospital which is of vital interest to women in Frederick with young children. Mrs. Paul C. Sunday is serving as chairman of this special project.

The classes will be held in Frederick High School auditorium beginning October 4, at 7:00 p.m. and will continue for the next five Tuesday evenings.

Practical Approach
Mr. Lindsey feels very strongly that the course will be a practical one, and that it will be helpful to those taking it. Most women have only magazine versions of ideas of how they would like their homes to look. "This will be a 'How To' course," he says. Included in the course will be, how to plan and arrange a room; how to develop a budget for furnishings; how to devise a color scheme from scratch; how to properly light a home; how to effectively select floor coverings such as rugs and wall-to-wall carpeting; how to properly treat windows; how to treat walls both decoratively and as a background.

Mr. Lindsey will also tell those attending, how to determine hidden value in upholstered and wooden furniture; and how to properly accessorize and furnish a room.

"The average woman doesn't know what she wants in her home when she comes to me," states Mr. Lindsey, "unless she carries with her a picture she has torn from a magazine. We need more knowledgeable people who have ideas as to what they want when decorating."

Mr. Lindsey notes that all the mechanics for decorating will be used on the stage, and that fabric samples and rug samples will be shown. Films on lighting, how to lay lamps and fixtures, and good and bad features of rooms will be shown using an opaque projector.

Everyone taking the course is urged to bring a notebook, for there will be things they can copy. "This is not a lecture course," he stresses, "questions will be answered and persons attending will have an opportunity to ask them." This is the first time such an opportunity has been offered in this city, and it is a constructive, helpful approach to homemaking which is open to the public. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Junior Woman's Club. Anyone having further questions may contact Mrs. Paul C. Sunday, Mrs. Warren C. Smith, Mrs. Charles C. Ford, or Mrs. Henry Groff, Jr., Frederick. Instructor Qualified

Mr. Lindsey is thoroughly versed in this subject, having had extensive decorating experience in Washington and Baltimore. He is a graduate of the National Academy of Art in Washington, D. C.; and the Academy of Lighting Arts; and served for four years as chairman of education for the Maryland Chapter of the American Institute Designers.

Church School Starts Next Week

Weekday Church School at Elias Lutheran Church will begin Wednesday, Sept. 28 at 3:45 with classes being held in the parish house.

Children in grades 1-6 are invited to attend the classes which will meet weekly for one hour. A crossing guard will be on duty to assist children in crossing the streets and bus transportation will be provided for children who do not live within walking distance.

Pastor Ronald Fearer, who will serve as the dean of the school, has announced the following staff members who have been obtained to teach in this year's school: Mrs. Ronald Fearer will teach Grades 1-2. Their course of study is entitled "Boys and Girls of the Bible." Grades 3-4 will be taught by Seminarian Charles Miller, Jr. whose course of study is "Chosen to Serve." Instructing Grade 5 will be Seminarian Thomas Myers. The topic for study is "God's Way in the Old Testament. Both Seminarians are second-year students at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Gettysburg and serve as field work students at Elias Church in the spring quarter for 1966. Mr. Ronald Reaves will teach the sixth grade which will study the mighty acts of God in the Old Testament.

Pastors in the local congregations will distribute invitations and further information regarding the Weekday Church School on Sunday morning during the Sunday Church School classes.

School Pool Still Debatable

Further studies will be made to determine whether or not a swimming pool will be included in the proposed $2,500,000 Catoctin High School, the Board of County Commissioners said this week. Also to be studied is the type Frederick Soil Conservation District has joined the list of backers of the proposed Six's Bridge dam on the Monocacy River.

Jesse M. Bural, chairman of the supervisors, says in a letter to the State Planning Department and the Department of Water Resources:

"We, the Frederick Soil Conservation District Supervisors, unanimously endorse the consideration of the Six Bridge Dam in the northern part of the Frederick Soil Conservation District. It is the feeling of the board that all potential impoundment sites should be closely studied for future development. However, it is our stern feeling that the Six Bridge Dam should be considered compatible and in conjunction with the watershed projects (P. L. 566) and watershed protection and treatment.

"It is our sincere feeling that all conservation and development efforts must be utilized to meet the demands of adequate planning for the future.

The Frederick Soil Conservation District is at present jointly engaged, with the Carroll County district, in a watershed development project for the Pipe Creek watersheds.

The local board feels the Six Bridge dam could be incorporated into the watershed plan to the advantage of all concerned.

Lutheran Women Hold Meeting

The Lutheran Church Women of Elias Lutheran Church held their meeting last Tuesday evening in the Parish House. A devotional service using the Evening Suffrages, was conducted by Pastor Ronald Fearer. The business meeting was held with Mrs. Hazel Caldwell, president, presiding for the session. The LCW members were reminded of the Fall Assembly of the Lutheran Church Women of Frederick and Westminster which will be held Wednesday, Oct. 19 at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Frederick. Mrs. A. W. McCleary was appointed to care for the monthly mailings to the servicemen from Elias Church. Mrs. Charles Bushman was named to a similar position to care for the shut-ins and the ill by sending a weekly devotional letter. The LCW members were also told of the forth-coming meetings and programs that have been planned. Named to this committee to aid in the programming for the 1966-67 year were: Mrs. James Small, Mrs. Ronald Fearer and Miss Mary Zimmerman. Mrs. Helen McNair and Mrs. Charles Harner will serve as coordinators for a Councilmen's dinner to be held at Elias Church on October 18 with the governing board members from each church present.

Concluding the business meeting, Mrs. Caldwell showed slides of her recent trip in June and July to Denmark. She also provided an interesting commentary on the selected slides.

Refreshments were served to the members and their guests by Mrs. Charles Linn and Mrs. Ronald Fearer.

Rain Drowns 400 Pheasants

While area residents were counting their blessings from last week's heavy rain, Victor A. Lesner was counting 400 losses. Lesner, a Thurmont developer said more than 400 pheasants on his farm, Twin Hemlocks, near Fairfield, were drowned in the downpour.

He estimates the loss at $2,000, based on the birds' value during the hunting season when hunters pay to shoot them.

The birds hadn't seen much rain since birth, he explained. Many were drowned as rain rushed off the nearby mountain slopes into their fly-pens. Others simply couldn't breathe in the downpour, he explained.

Lesner, who raises about 12,000 birds on the farm yearly, had about 900 on hand during the rainfall.

CAR FIRE

Gettysburg firemen extinguished a $75 blaze Friday afternoon in the headliner of a car owned by Mrs. Alberna Hilbert, Emmitsburg R1, parked on E. Middle Street, Gettysburg, across from the Mrs. Fred Wright residence who reported the fire to the quick call center. Robert Heflin, assistant fire chief, reported that the fire was apparently caused by a spark from a cigarette.

Time is not so scarce. What is rare is the proper and intelligent use of time.

Pictured here are the X/L Convertible (above) and the X/L 2-door Hardtop, both of which offer Ford's Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission as standard equipment. Featured only on the Fairlane GTA in 1966, Select Shift permits the driver to shift manually or automatically. Ford's new styling features sculptured side panels and a gull-wing design grille that is die-cast in the X/L, LTD and Country Squire series. Engineering improvements give the 1967 Ford an even quieter and smoother ride. All Ford models will be on display at Ford dealer showrooms Friday, Sept. 30.
