I've often wondered why more rural people do not have their mailboxes identified with their names. While driving over some rural roads last week I was amazed at the number of boxes without identification and I thought what a task it must be for the mailman to know where he is leaving the mail. It doesn't take much time or money to stencil a name on a mailbox and I'm certain that many of the town people would be grateful to those who did. I don't travel the rural roads too frequently but when I do want to look up a friend it's quite a chore to ferret out his home. Then too, there's a safety factor involved. Suppose you should need a policeman quickly, or the Fire Company? It certainly would simplify locating your home if your mailbox had your name on it. How about it, folks?

It's almost Halloween time again folks, and as usual the fun will be limited to the youngsters. The word is that no vandalism will be tolerated. The destruction of property is prohibited and violators will be prosecuted. In previous years most property damage and blocking of highways was credited to the nefarious activities of the adults, who should know better. It would be much better if you parents had your children participate in the annual Halloween Parade sponsored here by the local American Legion. There's nothing but good clean fun connected or associated with this project and your concern for your child on the evening of the parade would be minimized if you knew exactly where he or she were during the evening. You as a spectator, could watch every movement every moment. There's fun in it for you adults also, if you care to join the party. So, let's see more of you all in the big parade Monday night, October 31!

Now that the Chamber of Commerce has gotten off on a solid footing once again and a slate of officers named and installed, those of you who are interested in the welfare and future of Emmitsburg, can mail your check for membership in right away. The dues are only $10 a year and you can really do a lot for your community by becoming a member today. Attend the meetings and you will be fully informed as to what is happening and what is going to happen in Emmitsburg. All of you are eligible to join the Chamber at this time. All you have to do is to mail your check for $10, along with your name, to the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce. You will then automatically become a member. Why put it off?

There will be your favorite game during the afternoon and evening. Light refreshments will be available throughout the day. From 4 to 6:30 p.m. there will be a delicious dinner served in the cafeteria followed by a dance in the evening.

Children will enjoy visiting the Pet Shop and the Candy Store, as well as the prize winning games. Mount's Greatest Basketball Team To Appear In Action Here October 29

ED PFEIFFER

Saturday, October 29, at 8 p.m., the rafters of Memorial Gymnasium at Mt. St. Mary's College will once more ring to the chant of "We're No. 1", as the first open scrimmage game of the 1966-67 basketball season gets under way. This is the opening of an entirely different type of scrimmage game. This game sees the return of the Champions. That's right! The Mount's opponents for this game are the 1962 NCAA Small College Champions. The greatest Mount team in history is returning, augmented by such notables as Jim Livelsberger, Ed "Tiny" Folk, Lou Martine, Ed Bals, Jerry Savage and Bernie Haag.

Do you remember 1962? We here at the Mount do. We remember such things as John O'Reilly's friend—Clancy the Cobbler—the little leprechan who helped the Mount through its toughest games of the season.

We remember the fear and hopelessness feeling we had when Dave Samuels was injured in the Wittenburg game.

We remember the cheers that shook the gymnasium in Evansville when Jack Campbell took over for Samuels; scored 13 points and grabbed seven rebounds.

We remember how "Peanuts" Pfeiffer won the Southern Illinois game with a last second fling and grabbed 17 points for himself.

And finally we remember how, after 22 regular season games, three M-D tourney contests, two tilts in the NCAA regionals and three in the NCAA finals, the Mount annexed the small college crown.

Here is your chance to recall some of that glory and incidentally, to get your first glimpse of the 66-67 varsity in action.

Sponsored yearly by the Young Democrats, we expect this game to be the greatest of them all.

The game prices will be $1.00 for adults and college students and 50c for high school students and others.

Fall Weekend Planned At Mount

Fall Weekend, one of the biggest events on the social calendar of Mount St. Mary's College, will take place Friday and Saturday, October 21 and 22.

The Weekend this year has as its co-chairmen seniors James Keating and Ralph Esposito, who both promise this to be one of the memorable occasions of the 1966-1967 year.

On Saturday night, Oct. 22, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Gymnasium, Jay and the Americans will perform in concert with Ruby and the Romantics. These performances are the highlights of the Weekend, although on Friday, Oct. 21, at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium the Mount will play host to the Orions backed up by Little Joey and the Flips.

The Orions are most often associated with "South Street" and "Don't Hang Up," which are two of their more popular recordings. The Orions will be backed up by Little Joey and the Flips, who have been touring the northeastern section of the country. Their big hit around 1960 was "Bongo Stomp."

There is no introduction necessary for Jay and the Americans, but their past success in the musical field cannot go unnoticed. For this group is as versatile as it is experienced.

They have had experience in acting (in the musical, "Bye, Bye Birdie"). Also, they have appeared in night clubs for about 15 weeks during the past two years all over the United States.

In the field of television they are no strangers with such shows to their credit as "Shindig" (four times), "Hullabaloo" (three times), "The Tonight Show" as special guests of Sammy Davis, Jr., Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas (three times), plus assorted variety shows.

Spook Dance

St. Joseph's High School is celebrating Halloween with a dance Friday, Oct. 27, starting at 8 and ending at 11.

Everybody must masquerade behind a coat and tie. The required passport is 50c and with a drag, 75c. Join in the fun and laughter that will take place on this night.

More than 20,000 physicians now practicing in the United States received training in VA hospitals during 1961-66, the Veterans Administration reports.

A Viewpoint

By Thomas C. Callahan

Football can be wierd. Polynesian natives play the game with a football made of bamboo fibers. Eskimos play it with a leather ball filled with moss. But that vehicle of good sportsmanship which has evolved into a coast-to-coast televised Sunday melee is no place wider than the brand displayed every fall on the Echo Field of Mount Saint Mary's campus.

Each hall of every dorm fields a squad, and several leagues are drawn up, providing for a post-season tourney involving the top two teams from each league. Several items conspicuously missing from this version of gridiron competition are: coaches, goal posts, uniforms, and the phenomenon of "fumbles". Come to think of it, there's no gridiron. Yet, with all these obstacles, or without all these obstacles (one of the two), the game commences with the ethically unsound policy of enlisting referees from the rosters of teams not participating in the immediate fray, yet participants in the same league. If you have ever sat among thousands in a streamer-strewn stadium and thrilled to the color and spectacle of Notre Dame or Princeton swarming into the field, then the ennu that will grip you upon witnessing the Mount counterpart, likely will have the effect of 34 straight hours of Mozart. No two shirts are alike as the ball-players arrive in clumps and start to warm up by tossing around the pigskin and lighting-up cigarettes.

Once the opening whistle has blown, the matter becomes serious. The game is played roughly, which can be testified to by veteran trainer for all the teams: Sister (Anonymous), who, because of her white garb has been dubbed: "The White..." well, it's not important. Sister spends each autumn fretting over the inevitable strains and sprains that come with the season.

The epitome of success in this curious league is to be named as an all-echo by a vote of the players. This derogatory-sounding term labels you as the best at your position in the whole of Emmitsburg, and though even with these credentials you aren't a cinch to be drafted by the pros, you do reap glory. Jerseys of these aces are rarely retired as they are so often one of a kind anyway.

Once each season, in keeping with the American spirit of brotherhood, all the Italians band together to form a team and all the Irishmen do likewise. These forces meet before-standing room only (there are no seats) and thrash out their differences. Oddly enough, the Italians nearly always win, bearing out a theory of mine; that is, that some kind of uniform appearance side in your team's organization and unity. You see, the Italians all paint a black hand on the front of their regular game jerseys.

This style of football is vulnerable to the smart-alecky writer concerned only with snickering innuendos and delicate metaphors, but this crazy game has a purpose. It fills a void that is burrowed into the spirit and morale of the new college student so used to those glorious, if unprofessional, displays by his high school eleven. Perhaps he was even a member of said team and has experienced the frustrating agony of reading how old teammates are still knocking heads at football schools.

It's a pity that the gridders passed-up by the god of glory in their high school days don't collect their full share here. "Letters" should be given to the members of the hall deservng them, so those erst-while athletes can have something tangible to present to that skirt down the block. The Bradley "bombers" could have a felt stick of dynamite; the third-Sheridan "eggplants" could easily conjure up a Humpety; the first-Brute "lushes" should hardly be stuck for a symbos; etc.

In any event, football season is here; even if your personal hero does play in his undershirt with a butt hanging out of his mouth.

Laurel Race Course Opens October 29

Laurel Race Course, gearing up for a 52-day meeting which starts Saturday, Oct. 29, has announced a stakes "giveaway" schedule for the first two weeks, which will amount to nearly a half-million dollars in purse money.

Racing fans will be "under glass" in Laurel's newly glass-enclosed grandstand and clubhouse, competed heated and air-cooled, but the horses will be out in the open and in full view as they vie for some of the nation's richest racing prizes in the Oct. 29-Nov. 11 period.

Inaugural day of the meeting, the Pimlico Futurity-at-Laurel will draw the top names among thoroughbred 2-year-old colts as they run a mile and one-sixteenth for prize money expected to total $200,000. One week later, on Saturday, Nov. 5, Laurel's traditional Selma Stakes will be presented for the 2-year-old fillies with an estimated gross value of $120,000.

A high spot of every racing year is Laurel's $150,000 Washington D. C. International, the mile and one-half invitational grass classic which draws the best equine talent from countries around the globe. As usual, the International is presented on Veterans Day, Friday, Nov. 11. And on Tuesday, Nov. 8, the Election Day feature will be the $23,000-added Maryland Futurity for Maryland-bred 2-year-olds.

This glittering array of stakes in the first two weeks of the meeting will be followed by ten additional added-money events for which Laurel will put up another quarter of a million dollars as purses. They include several turf course events on the track's famed infield grass track.

The Futurity has attracted nominations of such outstanding colts as Bold Hour, Successor, and Disciplinarian, while Selma nominees include Swiss Cheese, Silver True, and Regal Gleam, all stakes winners. The Washington D. C. International field is beginning to take shape, with invitations accepted for England's David Jack, Ireland's Prominer, and Brazil's

Two Injured In Crash Here

State Policeman Joseph Francis Bushey, 30, Orrtanna R1, and Anthony Rossi, Mount St. College, were listed as in "serious" condition at the Annapolis General Hospital, Gettysburg, this week after having been struck by autos in two separate, but related accidents in the Emmitsburg area early this morning.

Bushey, son of former state police Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph F. Bushey, Orrtanna R1, is a Pennsylvania State Policeman stationed at Lancaster.

According to Maryland State Police Trooper Bushey about 11:40 p.m. Friday had stopped to talk to Emmitsburg Police Chief Wilmer "John" Law on the Tract Rd. about a mile north of Emmitsburg, near the state line.

Trooper Bushey was standing beside Law's car when an auto driven by Donald Rohrbach, Emmitsburg R3, according to Maryland police, struck Bushey and sideswiped Law's car.

Chief Law radioed for Maryland State Police to investigate the accident in which his vehicle had been involved and Maryland State Police Trooper First Class Richard Conklin answered the call.

As Trooper Conklin was driving through Emmitsburg using his siren and lights to warn of his approach, he had to swerve to pass a car. As he did so, Rossi, who had been talking to another person backed into the street and was struck by the police car.

Both Bushey and Rossi were rushed to the Warner Hospital in the VFW ambulance.

Bushey had suffered head injuries and Rossi a broken leg among other injuries.

Folio, to date.

Laurel, running its first continuous meeting of 52 days at this time of year, has assured the comfort of patrons with the million and one-half dollar project of complete glass enclosure, heating and air circulation. A unique method of hanging the glass from the top of the stands provides an all but unobstructed view of the race course.

Post time for the first race daily will be 1 p.m., and Thursdays again will be Ladies' Days. The meeting runs through December 31.

State Scholarships To Be Held

The Maryland State Scholarship Board announces plans for conducting the state-wide competitive examination for the three State Scholarship Programs. The examination will be held Saturday, Nov. 19 in test centers located throughout the state.

A student who takes this competitive examination may qualify himself as an eligible candidate for a General State Tuition, a Teacher Education or a Senatorial scholarship. A student who has not previously attended a school or college rank may compete for any one or all three of these State scholarships. Students already attending college may compete only for a Teacher Education or a Senatorial scholarship.

Registration for the examination will take place during the month of October at all public and non-public high schools in the State and at all institutions eligible to participate in one of the scholarship programs.

Further information may be obtained from the counselor or principal in each high school. A pamphlet describing in detail the three State Scholarship Programs may be obtained from the State Scholarship Board, 2100 Guilford Ave., Baltimore, Md. 21218.

Babson's Point Of View On: Proposed Grand Canyon Dams
BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 20—Perhaps no federal program has stirred so much national controversy as the Bureau of Reclamation's proposal to build two huge dams on the Colorado River in the Grand Canyon area, though not within the present limits of the National Park.

What Is Being Proposed
 This plan is of vital economic interest to every man, woman, and child in America because it is part of an over-all project designed to assure water sufficiency in the Southwest, because it involves the expenditure of many millions of dollars of taxpayers' money, and because it will change the face of a considerable portion of the Grand Canyon. The building of the dams would be only one phase of a program which will cost us nearly $2 billion to carry through.

Curiously enough, the proposed dams themselves will not bring any new water to Arizona or to any other section of the nation. Their sole purpose will be to generate auxiliary electric power. It is planned that the proceeds from the sale of such power would be used to help defray the cost of the whole Central Arizona Project, including the expense of diverting water from the Columbia River all the way to the Southwest!

Effect On Grand Canyon
 Conservationists, naturalists, and sportsmen have rallied in sizable numbers in an effort to save the Grand Canyon from being altered by the erection of these two giant dams. Their concern for the preservation of the awe-inspiring natural beauty of the canyon is shared by millions of Americans who have been thrilled by its wonders. Of course, there are also many other people who take the view that the Grand Canyon—for all its natural splendor—is essentially a vast wilderness. These people feel no alarm at the idea of flooding miles and miles of this area.

In fairness to both groups, we must give serious consideration to what we will gain by this proposal and to what we will lose by it before Congress makes a final decision. In time, of course, we shall acquire a new source of public electric power. But in gaining it we shall reduce the Colorado River—which has been described as having "no counterpart for unspoiled scenic grandeur in this world"—to two great reservoirs. And we shall have changed forever the contour and character of the Grand Canyon, destroying in the process many unique records of nature's changes through the ages.

Economic Feasibility
 Monthly, almost daily, the need for water in the Southwest becomes more acute. California is vying with neighboring states for a bigger share of this vital element, and there just isn't enough to go around. The Central Arizona Project, which includes bringing water all the way from the Columbia River, may or may not be the best solution to this grave problem.

If the Colorado River itself can provide some of the additional water needed, why must that diversion include these costly dams with their despoiling of the Grand Canyon and even of the integrity of the river itself? It should be noted also that federally built and operated dams have a poor record when it comes to paying their way. Even the great Hoover Dam has paid back only 20% of its cost so far. Also there should be some question as to the economic feasibility of adding to public electric power to compete with private power companies.

Explore Alternatives
 Surely, there must be some other, and perhaps more practical, ways to finance the Central Arizona Project. At any rate, before our Senators and Congressmen vote to despoil the Grand Canyon, they might well ponder these words of President Theodore Roosevelt: "I want to ask you to do one thing in your own interest and in the interest of the country—to keep this great wonder oof nature (the Grand Canyon) as it now is. Leave it as it is. You cannot improve on it. The ages have been at work on it, and man can only mar it."

State Free Of Polio

No one case of poliomyelitis has been reported in the State of Maryland in the past 14 months. That is the astounding good news reported this week by Dr. John H. Janney, Chief of the Division of Communicable Diseases of the Maryland State Department of Health.

What is more, not one case of diphtheria is known to have occurred; in fact, only one case of this dreaded and once-prevalent disease has been reported in the past five year in Maryland. Whooping cough, also a serious and once-common illness, has become a rarity.

As recently as 1960, polio was one of the chief communicable disease problems in the State, with 147 cases reported that year. Reports of 25 years ago show 562 cases of diphtheria, while whooping cough struck thousands of victims.

These spectacular advances in the control of childhood diseases have been brought about by the widespread use of vaccines, Dr. Janney states, with immunization against six communicable diseases now routine for children in the first year of life. Physicians and health departments have collaborated in making this service available to every child, he added.

In addition to the three mentioned, the six diseases include tetanus, smallpox, and measles. The new and highly effective measles vaccine is the latest tool to come into use in the mass effort to wipe out childhood disease, but it is estimated that 186,000 Maryland children have not yet been inoculated against this potential "killer."

Communicable disease in general was at its lowest point for the year at the end of the first week in October, Dr. Janney states, relating this in part to the change of seasons. Summer intestinal infections are dying out, and the winter upswings of hepatitis, measles, and streptococcal infections have not yet begun.

"Good as the situation is," cautions Dr. Janney, "there is danger in over-confidence." He stresses the importance of continuing immunization, citing recent outbreaks of polio in Texas and diphtheria in South Carolina as examples of what can happen when protection against disease falls below the 85% level regarded by health authorities as necessary to prevent epidemics.

Many children still do not receive immunizations until they are preparing to enter school, according to Dr. Janney, who urges parents not to delay giving their children this possibly life-saving protection.

Mrs. Miller gets a kick out of talking on and about her new Trimline® phone. What strikes her fancy is that while the Trimline won't do any more than her old phone, it will do it more beautifully, comfortably and easily.

For example, when she picks up the Trimline, the dial comes right to her for easy-chair dialing, more convenient calling. And the modern handset fits right into the palm of her hand . . . she doesn't even have to grip it.

If you'd like to have the new Trimline phone, we have it for you. Comes as a desk set or a wall phone. It does cost more. $1.25 a month, after a one-time installation charge. To order—

Just pick up the phone.

Call the Telephone Business Office and ask for your Service Representative. She'll take it from there. Or ask your Telephone man.

Providing our customers with the kind of telephone service they want is a serious concern with us. And quite a pleasure, too.

Local Athlete Stars For Waynesboro Gridders

"If you give 100 per cent of what you have. If you're up to only 75 per cent of your capacity, then you give 100 per cent of that."

The man who said these words, Tom (Woody) Stoner, has shown he believes what he preaches in game after game this season with the Waynesboro Tigers.

Plagued by a shoulder injury he received playing for the Bengals last year, he continues to play "from quarter to quarter" as he puts it.

His shoulder was originally knocked out of joint in a game against the Cumberland Colts last year. Since then, it has popped out of joint three times, once playing football, twice swimming, and threatens to pop every time he raises his hands above his chest.

One time, when it popped during a game, Woody just had another team member give it a shove and a twist and went back into the action. Now he heavily tapes it before every game.

Recently, when the Tigers played the Colts, Stoner had the satisfaction of seeing the fear he put into the team that originally injured him—they kept three men on Stoner, even though he didn't receive a pass in the second half. The fact that he helped engineer the Tiger TD was enough to keep the Colts on their toes.

Admired by his teammates and his coaches, Bengal head coach, Don Stoner (no relation), regards Woody as the outstanding split end in the Interstate Professional

"Woody is only playing because of the Mount, the school lead the nation in giving up goals, allowing only 13 for 21 games played. Woody's personal high for saves in one game was 48.

An outstanding defensive back in the league last year, Coach Stoner moved Woody over to split end after he opened the season playing end and safety.

A native of Emmitsburg, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stoner, Emmet Gardens, Woody's prowess in athletics started to show while he was still in St. Joseph's High School, lettering in baseball and under the mentorship of Coach Pete 'OHagen, basketball.

Upon graduation in 1956, Woody entered the Marine Corps and continued his sport enthusiasm with service leagues.

For all his athletic activities, Woody didn't come any closer to football than soccer—but that was a bang-up.

In his senior year at the Mount, Woody was assigned goal tender, in his own words, "because I didn't have to know too much about the game to play in that spot."

Woody had never played soccer before but the coach, who liked his speed and the movement of his hands, decided to take a gamble.

It paid off in spades: Woody was named All-Conference in the tough Mason-Dixon League, All South (for all colleges below the M-D line) and was an All American nominee.

The year Woody played goalie for the Mount, the school lead the nation in giving up goals, allowing only 13 for 21 games played. Woody's personal high for saves in one game was 48.

It wasn't until he joined the Tigers last year that Woody played football on an organized basis. Since then, he has become one of the patent terrors in the IPFL. He is the leading scorer in the league this year with 36 points.

Presently teaching English at North High in Hagerstown, Woody is taking graduate work at George Washington in special education.

But You Should See Our New School Buildings!

The following is an editorial from The Martinsburg Journal, Martinsburg, W. Va., on Friday, Sept. 30, 1966. After reading it, you will understand the headline above.

What Happened To Maryland?
The public school system of nearby Maryland counties, particularly Washington County (Hagerstown), is always being held up before us as the model for all sorts of efficiency which we in poor little ole West Virginia do not have and cannot afford but a funny thing happened the other day.

The National Merit Scholarship program, which has become recognized as a real status symbol in American secondary education, announced the names of what it terms "semi-finalists" throughout the nation. These are the high school students, who, through competitive examination on a nationwide scale, are adjudged the brightest and best.

Now, what do you think happened?

Washington County in Maryland, with all of its high paid faculty, glamor television and fancy buildings turned up with just two National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists and neighboring Frederick County, also in Maryland, was able to qualify just one.

The "poor relations" in West Virginia showed up with five semi-finalists from Berkeley County and four from Jefferson County.

It should also be remembered that both Berkeley and Jefferson Counties combined represent only about half the population of Washington County alone.

We know full well that this is not necessarily the full measure by which educational systems should be compared but we cannot resist this temptation to gloat a little after being forced to continually listen to all the glowing reports of how much better everything is north of the Potomac.

Public education in the Eastern Panhandle counties certainly has its deficiencies and we should always be striving to improve things out, just maybe, we aren't as backward as some of the Maryland-lovers would have us believe or else things aren't just as rosy as painted over there. The only other alternative suggestion would be that Marylanders aren't as bright as West Virginians and we would never dare even consider this possibility.

Again, and we repeat for emphasis, we mention all of this to indicate we do not have educational shortcomings because we do and we should continue to work to alleviate them. The fact that our students are doing so well in such a national competition should spur us to even greater efforts to provide them a better school system.

According to W. S. King, District Manager of Social Security in Hagerstown, disability payments under the social security law are no longer limited to persons with permanent disabilities.

He said he feared many people were not yet aware of a change in the social security law under which you may be eligible for benefits if you have a disability that is expected to last 12 months. Previously you could get benefits only if you had a disability that was expected to continue for a long and indefinite time, or result in death.

Formerly many disability claims were disallowed because the impairment, although severe, was not expected to be of long and continued duration. Any mental or physical impairment that is totally disabling and is expected to continue for as long as 12 months meets the requirements of the definition of disability under the new law.

The new record requirement has not been changed. A worker must still have worked under social security at least 5 years out of the 10-year period just before the date the worker became disabled in order to qualify for disability payments. It is not necessary that the five years be continuous. Twenty calendar quarters of work performed at any time during the 10-year period, even though they are scattered or intermittent, will meet this requirement. Any person who has an impairment that meets these requirements should

Protestant Churches Plan To Organize Local Council

At a specially called assembly of the Protestant Church Councils of the Emmitsburg Parish on Tuesday, October 18, at the Elias Lutheran Church Parish House, it was proposed to organize a Council of Churches in order to facilitate a more effective Protestant Witness in the community. There were 27 laymen, laywomen, and pastors representing their respective church councils present at the first ecumenical session of this kind in more than 200 years of church history. These men and women represented each of the four Protestant Denominations of Emmitsburg, namely: The Evangelical Lutheran Church, The Methodist Church, The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., and the United Church of Christ.

A ladies' meal was served by the ladies of Elias Lutheran Church with the following menu: Fruit cup, sunset salad, baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, green beans, rolls, coffee, and pumpkin pie.

Following the meal, a Panel Presentation was made of the following subjects: "What will our Community be like ten years from now?" by Mr. Robert Saylor of Elias Church, and Mr. Samuel C. Hays of the Presbyterian Church; "What will our churches be like ten years from now?" by the Rev. William M. Hendricks, the former pastor of the Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church and presently pastor of the Deer Run Presbyterian Church near Coatsville, Pa.; and "What should we now do to insure an Effective Protestant Presentation of the Gospel in the Emmitsburg Parish?" by the Rev. John C. Chatlos, Pastor of Incarnation United Church of Christ.

After the panel presentation there was a question and discussion period which culminated with a consideration of the following six proposals: 1. That our four Protestant Denominations (Elias Ev. Lutheran, Incarnation United Church of Christ, the Presbyterian Church, and the Emmitsburg-Tom's Creek Methodist Charge) cooperate as fully as possible thru a Council of Churches in the common Christian concerns of Evangelism, Parish Education, Social Ministry and Action, and Worship and Music.

2. That this Council of Churches be composed of the combined Church Councils of our four churches (or charges).

3. That our Council of Churches assemble in the fall of each year: (a) to receive written reports from the Committees on Evangelism, Parish Education, Social Ministry and Action, and Worship and Church Music on their past year's work in the Council's behalf; and (b) to plan an agenda of work for the coming year.

4. To facilitate effective representative work in these concerns of Evangelism, Parish Education, Social Ministry and Action, and Worship and Church Music, it is further proposed that each Church Council appoint two persons to each of the four committees, after each fall assembly.

5. That the financing of the Council of Churches and its work be done through the ministerial treasury which is derived from our cooperative Community Worship Services. (The Vacation and Weekday Church Schools are al-

6. That the four committees address themselves to various parish needs in their respective areas of concern during the coming year, meeting at their own convenience and operating at their own discretion.

It was unanimously agreed by the group present to take the above Six Proposals back to the council or official board of each of the congregations for consideration and approval. Pending approval of the various local church bodies, each church shall appoint or elect two representatives to each of the four named committees of the Council of Churches. The meeting was concluded with prayer by the host pastor, the Rev. W. Ronald Fearney, who served as Master of Ceremonies and also as panel Moderator for the evening.

Citizen Suggests Support Of Scouts

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

On Monday evening, Oct. 17, I was honored to have met with a dedicated group of men whose aim it is to re-organize the present Scout Troop in the Town of Emmitsburg. I was somewhat dismayed at the number of problems these men are encountering in their attempt to give each of your boys the kind of scouting program which they need. I therefore feel that it is imperative that some of these problems be brought to your attention.

First of all, let me remind you that the Boy Scouts of America have been in existence for almost 57 years and have served the needs of literally millions of young boys. This organization has not only taught ideas of loyalty, honor, and patriotism but rather it has instilled the ideals of God and country into the hearts of the many boys it has served. Love of God and country and fellow man and obedience to the twelve points of the Scout Law are the foundation on which every human individual should stand. Emmitsburg should be proud to have a scout troop in its town.

But, where is your town pride when week after week the same dedicated men do a task which should be shared by many? These men need your help; they need your talent. Scouting has many fields of interest and a small group of men cannot complete a well rounded program. Do you want your troop to simply exist or to be a living, active organ? There are innumerable areas where your talent can be put to good use; on the troop committee, on the advancement committee, in the merit badge program. You can be used wherever you want to be.

I also heard of an incident where a boy was told by a parent, that he could not join the troop. Indeed it would be interesting to hear that parent's views on the current crime rate of young adults and the reasons for it. In my humble estimation, that parent leaves much to be desired; What a better place for a young boy's enthusiasm than a local Boy Scout troop.

With all of these ideas in mind, I wish to place a challenge at the front door of each home in this town. I challenge you to make your troop the finest in the National Capital Area Council; I challenge the men of this town to volunteer their own time to aid in this effort; I challenge the women to become interested and active in the Cub Scout pack; I challenge the town government and civic groups to support in every possible way the organizations of youth which are found in Emmitsburg.

Now, the talk is over; how about some action? Scouting says 'Build America, Character Counts'; why not start right here and now?

Sincerely,
David J. Arseneault, Jr

Your Personal Health

Varicose Veins
Varicose veins are a common health problem for millions of Americans. Sometimes they are merely unsightly. But often they can cause health problems. Varicose veins are dilated, tortuous, venous blood vessels lying just under the skin. They occur most frequently on the inner side and back of the calf and on the inner side of the thigh. The veins have lost their elasticity and their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired. This leads to impaired circulation and consequent decreased nutrition of tissues. Varicose veins often are a hereditary characteristic, says Todays Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. Pregnancy and prolonged standing contribute to the condition in predisposed individuals.

If varicose veins "run in the family," you probably will develop them despite any preventive measures. However, there are simple measures which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome.

If possible, choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knee and interfere with blood flow.

When sitting, minimize venous pressure in the legs by elevating them on a stool or chair. When you must stand for long periods, elastic stockings or elastic bandages may be worn, but only on the recommendation of a physician, since complications can develop in persons with additional circulatory conditions.

Varicose veins not only are a hindrance to health, they also are undesirable for cosmetic reasons. Early treatment may prevent complications such as dermatitis or ulcers of the leg. A physician will determine the most appropriate treatment, after considering the size and locations of the veins and the age and general health of the patient.
