

States Urged To Study Future Water Plans

All having accepted the challenge of the "standards" provision of the National Water Quality Act of 1965, the States of the Potomac Basin and the District of Columbia now have made plans for a series of hearings to elicit the public's view as to what these standards shall be. The Water Quality Act charges all States to set acceptable standards for interstate streams within their boundaries before June 30, 1967. Where a State is dilatory, the Act empowers the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration to promulgate its own standards.

With the State hearings, comes an opportunity for Basin citizens to speak—and to speak with great effect—about the future disposition of their tremendous resource, the Potomac. What is the best, feasible use for each small waterway; for each stretch of every major waterway which forms a piece of the intricate Potomac system? As many people as wish to testify at the hearings will be permitted to do so.

Once uses are established, (e.g. "water recreation," "municipal water supply," "safe for the passage of fish") standards automatically follow, for standards are merely numerical statements of the physical, chemical, and bacteriological preconditions for certain uses. Of course, the hearings will not decide standards which will be valid for all time. Standards must, therefore, be revised with time. But public testimony will decidedly influence standards or stream usage over the near term. The first uses will set precedents and otherwise commit streams to certain uses.

As there must be considerable uniformity of standards for waters of the same watershed, representatives of the Potomac States will attend each other's hearings.

The accompanying map gives the dates and locations of the projected hearings. Testimony will be taken at each location only on streams within a fairly easy compass of the location. If one wishes to testify to desirable uses of several streams which flow in different parts of the Basin, one must in all probability attend several hearings. The hearings are to be held all practically in a row so as to permit one to testify several times, all in the course of a single trip. Of course, written testimony may be filed.

The agency conducting a particular hearing will be, in each case, the water resource agency of the State in which the hearing occurs—in Maryland, the Department of Water Resources, in Pennsylvania, the Department of Health or the Sanitary Water Board, in Virginia, the State Water Control Board, and in West Virginia, the Division of Water Resources.

Hearings on Metropolitan water quality (on the quality of the Metropolitan "Stretch" of the Potomac from Chain Bridge to Ft. Belvoir) will be held at College Park, Maryland under the auspices of the Maryland and Virginia agencies and the Health Department of the District of Columbia. Here is an important point: as Maryland's jurisdiction extends to the Virginia shore, testimony on the Main Stem Potomac must be presented at the Frederick, Maryland hearing and not at Leesburg, Virginia.

The only region exempt from the hearings is the black area at the middle-right of the map. Streams here are not "interstate." The Frederick hearing is set for December 19 at 2:30 p.m. in Winchester Hall in Frederick.

Airman Selected For Special Course

Airman Randall H. Knox, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall H. Knox, Taneytown, has been selected for technical training at Lackland AFB, Tex., as a U. S. Air Force communications-electronics specialist.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland. His new school is part of the Air Training Command which conducts hundreds of specialized courses to provide technically trained personnel for the nation's aerospace force.

Evening Of Games Monday

St. Joseph's Church will have an Evening of Games on Monday night at 8 o'clock in St. Euphemia's Hall. Valuable prizes will be awarded, similar to the ones given at the Conservation Club carnival.

The winners of the Knights of Columbus "100 a month for life" and the 10 automobiles will be announced, and a special local drawing, in addition, for those whose tickets are turned in at the Evening of Games. The affair is under the chairmanship of Mr. Eugene Myers and the Ladies Sodality. Refreshments will be served. The proceeds will be used for the repair of the wall around the cemetery.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Banquet Held

The Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club held its 7th annual Members and Parents Banquet at the Moravian Church Hall in Graceham, with 99 parents and 4-H's participating, Saturday evening, November 19.

Father Robert Grace, Dean of Men at Mount St. Mary's College, opened the events of the evening with the invocation, after which a delicious meal, served by the women of the church, was enjoyed.

Welcome to parents was given by Phyllis Wivell, then with everyone standing, the 4-H Pledge was given, and the Pledge to the Flag. Introductions were made by Becky Keilholtz, who also gave the club history for the year.

Miss Miller, 4-H and Youth Extension Agent, presented the Jr. Achievement Award, which was won by Phyllis Wivell, and the Sr. Achievement Award which was won by Becky Keilholtz. Various other awards in the many projects carried by members of the 4-H Club were awarded to the outstanding members of the year. This is always a high-light of the evening. Participating in presenting the awards was Mr. David Eigenbrode, Extension Agent for Frederick County 4-H and Youth, assisted by Miss Karen Ferner, Extension Agent for 4-H and Youth, Queen Anne's County.

The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Wallace Hutton (accompanied by his wife), newly elected Frederick County Commissioner. He paraphrased the 4-H motto which is the 4-leaf clover with the four H's which stand for Head, Heart, Health and Hands. Mr. Hutton spoke on the four H's of Happiness, Help, Hope and Honesty. A speech which set four goals for achievement by not only the young people present, but for the parents as well.

Mr. Ralph L. Keilholtz, Club Leader, was awarded a gift of appreciation. The door prize of the evening was won by the James Thomas family, and the meeting was brought to a close with a prayer by Paula Goetz.

It was a memorable and meaningful evening in the lives of both the parents and the 4-H's attending, as well as the invited guests of the evening.

4-H Club Holds Regular Meeting

The Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club met at the home of Katrinka Bollinger, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. Leader, Ralph Keilholtz and 59 members answered roll call with the name of a tree. Becky Keilholtz, president, presided.

Ten new members were taken into the club. They are: Stanley Gregg, Philip and Francesca Cunningham, James Smith, John Keilholtz, Debra Martinez, John Haws, Cliff Eiker, Patrick and Douglas Bollinger.

Guy Baker, Jr., was the speaker for the evening. He gave a very informative talk on the importance of a college education and the requirements for admittance. The nomination of officers was held, and the election will take place at the next meeting.

Debra Parks gave a very informative demonstration on the selection of feeder hogs.

Refreshments were served by the hostess family. The next meeting will be held Dec. 19 at the Rocky Ridge Fire Hall.

Senior Citizens Plan Open House

The new Center for the Senior Club of Emmitsburg is being launched by an Open House to be held Tuesday evening, December 5, from 6:30 until 10:00 p.m., in the newly refurbished club rooms on the Square. It is to be hoped that not only all those interested from the immediate vicinity will attend, but also those from surrounding towns, including Frederick City, and State officers from Baltimore.

The members of the Senior Club are so proud and happy with the new quarters that they hope all friends will attend this official opening to see for themselves what is being done for and by the Senior Citizens of Emmitsburg and the State Committee.

Every year an estimated 500 million people suffer from disabling diseases associated with unsafe water supplies, according to the World Health Organization.

OUR THANKS TO YOU ON THANKSGIVING

It's a story we all know, and love . . . the first Pilgrim Thanksgiving. The excitement of a new home in a new country . . . the tantalizing smells of roast turkey and pumpkin pie . . . the hustle and bustle of little children.

Like the Pilgrims, let's be thankful for our many blessings, forget our troubles, on this the most American holidays. Let us be thankful that we can learn, build, earn, give, beautify and make more productive the American way-of-life entrusted to our keeping.

To you, our valued customers, we give thanks. May you enjoy this day with those you hold near and dear.

Looking Ahead

By Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT-NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

Americans are beginning to be distressed to see the continued "sanctuary" accorded Communists and Fellow-travelers in America as they engage in treasonable acts helpful to the Communist enemy. For more than a year, the Reds in America have sought to halt the Viet Nam war on Communist terms which would spell the doom of all southeast Asia and hasten the Red's attainment of world domination. They have succeeded in bringing in on their side (or capitalizing on) many persons influential in the political, scientific and educational life of our nation.

Fearing that President Johnson, as Commander-in-Chief of our armed forces and Chief Executive of our Government, might possibly be persuaded by a rising vocal chorus advocating withdrawal from Viet Nam (on Communist terms) the following is directed to his attention as a means of reminding him of the nature and the source of some of the pro-Communist, anti-American propaganda saturating the nation, confusing millions of minds, generating class and race warfare, working toward the long-range Communist goal—a Soviet America.

MR. PRESIDENT: The National Guardian, which describes itself as "The Progressive News-weekly", 197 E. 4th St., New York, has published and is distributing throughout the nation (in a leaflet) a feature article by Bertrand Russell, the British "philosopher" who has taught in several American universities. The article is calculated to show America as a brutal war-making nation killing innocent people. American GI's in Viet Nam are shown in photographs standing over "murdered" women and children, guns in hand; and marching manacled prisoners, with back-breaking weights tied around their necks.

The article says that you, Mr. President, should be subjected to an international War Crimes Trial, and Mr. Russell says he is "approaching eminent jurists, literary figures and men of public affairs in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the U. S. itself" to help set up such a tribunal. "President Johnson, Dean Rusk, Robert McNamara, Henry Cabot Lodge, Gen. Westmoreland and their fellow criminals will be brought before a wider justice than they recognize and a more profound condemnation than they are equipped to understand," Mr. Russell declares.

Here is what the National Guardian is circulating, from the pen of Bertrand Russell: "The truth is that the Vietnamese popular resistance is just like the American revolutionary resistance to the British . . . Vietnamese resistance is like the resistance of the French Maquis, the Yugoslav partisans and the guerrillas of Norway and Denmark to the Nazi occupation. I appeal to you (the American public and people throughout the world to whom the Russell reprint is going) to consider what has been done to the people of Vietnam by the U. S. Government.

"Can you, in your hearts, justify the use of poison chemicals and gas, the saturation bombing of the entire country with jelly - gasoline and phosphorus? Although the American press lies about this, the documentary evidence concerning the nature of these gases and chemicals is over-whelming. They are poisonous and they are fatal. The U. S. has also used weapons like the Lazy Dog, which is a bomb containing 10,000 slivers of razor-sharp steel. The razor darts slice to ribbons the villagers upon whom these weapons of sheer evil are constantly used. In one province of North Vietnam, the most densely populated, 100 million slivers of razor sharp steel have fallen in a period of 13 months. "Torture And Brutal Murder"

"Do you know that 8-million Vietnamese were placed in interment camps under conditions of forced labor, with barbed wire and armed patrols? Do you know that this was done on the direction of the U. S. government, and that torture and brutal murder were a continuous feature of these camps? Are you aware that the gases and chemicals which have been used in Viet Nam blind, paralyze, asphixiate, cause convulsions and result in unbearable death?"

"The fact is (says Bertrand Russell through pages of the National Guardian) that everywhere in the world people have come to see the men who control the U. S. Government as brutal bullies, acting in their own economic interests and exterminating any people foolishly enough to struggle against this naked exploitation and aggression . . . The American protest movement, which has inspired people all over the world, is the only true spokesman for American concern for individual liberty and social justice . . . Johnson, Rusk, and McNamara has made the name of a great country stink in the nostrils of people the world over." I resent these remarks about our president who is sacrificing so much to defend a people unable to defend themselves. So do most Americans.

Next week: A step toward controlling Subversion (and subversive propaganda) and immobilizing the enemy working within our nation.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

A Dream Track

Back in the early 1930's a colorful Kentucky gentleman named John Oliver Keene was busy building a dream. He envisioned a haven for horsemen at his Keeneland Stud which had been in the family since Colonial days. He had built a full-sized training track, alongside of which he was building a huge stone edifice with stables on the ground floor. The project stalled from time to time while Jack Keene took a string of horses north to win a few purses and a bet or two. Meanwhile, the Kentucky Association track at Lexington had become a casualty of the depression. The nation's horse breeding capital was without horse racing and not very happy about it. A group of prominent Lexingtonians approached Keene with a plan for a non-profit track, and the Keeneland Association was born.

While perhaps not exactly in the way that Jack Keene had planned it, Keeneland has turned out to be a haven for horsemen. It is a year-around training center, a market for yearlings in the summer and older horses in the fall, with good racing at spring and autumn meetings. Officers and directors are unpaid; stockholders receive no dividends and, in the event of dissolution, proceeds of the sale of assets will go to tax exempt institutions. The late turf writer Joe Palmer once observed: "Keeneland tradition has been exaggerated, misunderstood, laughingly at, taken too seriously and distorted but the conduct of the race track at Keeneland is in the best of it."

Wisdom for Women Driving Alone

Driving alone isn't dangerous if you exercise intuition and common sense and follow these basic rules: 1. Plan carefully. Drive in a conservatively styled car and conservatively styled clothes so you don't attract unwelcome attention. Doors should be locked from the inside and windows rolled at least part-way up. On a trip use a direct-route travel plan, available from companies like American Oil, so that you stay on main highways. Study it thoroughly before you leave and drive by daylight. 2. Accept only official help. If you're stalled and doubt the dependability of the first offer of assistance, wait for another, keeping the doors locked and saying that help is on the way. Raise the hood to signal help, tying something white to the left-door handle to reinforce the message.

3. Be self-sufficient. Carry needed cash, checkbooks, credit and identification cards to meet expenses and emergencies.
4. On a trip have an arrangement to call home when you reach your destination; if you are delayed there is someone who can take immediate steps to find you and send help.

DISCUSSING SEARCH FOR PEACE

ROME, Italy—Edward M. Lindsey (right) President of Lions International, explains the world wide service organization's "Search for Peace" project to Pope Paul VI in a 25-minute private audience held in Vatican City. The Pope, who himself is very active in promoting World Peace, had words of high praise for the 800,000 Lions around the world for their efforts in getting Youth interested in thinking and writing about peace.

Youth between the ages of 14 to 22 in 135 countries of the Free World are urged by Lions International to write an essay on the theme: "Peace is Attainable" for a $25,000 first prize, offered by Lions International. Mrs. Lindsey is in center (left) and the Right Reverend Monsignor Paul Marcinius, who translated for the Holy Father during the meeting held in the papal private chambers, is center (right).

A Viewpoint

By Thomas C. Callahan

Thursday, Mount Saint Mary's will put aside those scrimmage jerseys and don their "blues" for serious basketball at Shippensburg. Senior Pete Johnston, lost to the team last year because of a severe knee ailment, is back, heavier and hungrier, hoping to approach the form that won him the M.V.P. listing in 64-65. Johnston is expected to give the stability and discipline that last year's squad sorely lacked. Not an exceptionally fluent ball-handler, Pete still figures to bring the ball down the floor often because he's a thinker, a methodical ball-player, and coach Phelan will surely prefer that the game be in Johnston's grasp.

Flashy Mike Lyons returns and the blonde senior, a jerky but effective defensive player, will be expected to chip in his steady 15 points, with a few picture layouts and twisting last-second counters along the way, of course.

Probably the most impressive hoopster in pre-season work has been 6'8" sophomore Bob Sutor. Bob has gotten over a pre-season depression, the fatigue that anyone of quality encounters accationally, and has perked-up himself and this writer's opinion of the team's chances of greatness. Don't laugh! There is a chance, and the difference between a good club this year and, well, I won't say it again, is that seemingly lackadaisical carcass at the end of the bench. Edward Sarmir came here three years ago and shot into a starting berth amidst greater competition than he has lost to the last three years. What happened? If you judge strictly by appearance, it would seem Sarmir doesn't care, yet I wonder if it's that simple.

I won't pretend to know any more about this mystery than anyone who has seen half a dozen Mount games. Sarmir won't let you know. But there has been one booster of the ultra-blase senior who hasn't changed camps even in the worst moments. James Martin is an off-campus fourth year man from Allentown, Pa. Jim was a sub on the high school outfit that Sarmir starred on his last year. Martin insists that Ed only appears to be "dogging" and cites times in practice in Allentown when the coach would chide Sarmir for relaxing during drills, while in fact he was moving quicker than anyone.

If you can buy the possibility that a man can be putting forward his best while appearing to be so listless and disinterested, then maybe steps should be taken to bolster this kid's confidence. As was mentioned before, Ed invariably camps on the last seat of the bench, the farthest point geographically from coach Jim Phelan. When Sutor gets into foul worries, Sarmir pops into the post and proceeds to play basketball with one eye on Phelan. It's especially obvious how insecure Sarmir is on the floor when the substitution horn blows while the teams are at the foul stripe. Each toot is accompanied with a casual glance backward by the tall postman who always expects momentarily to be yanked. This writer can remember a soft jumper as pretty as they come, and a scrappy, if reserved, defensive hound who was sure of himself. Now the shot isn't even taken, and have you ever tried playing defense when you had to watch your man and the coach too? Let's hope something breaks. It'll have to, if Mount Saint Mary's doesn't want to give too much away those inevitable minutes that Bobby Sutor will be out because of fouls. Maybe if Phelan would give Ed Sarmir a single half, knowing he was in to stay regardless of how many passes he dropped or jumpers he blew. He would have twenty minutes to do what he came to this town for—to play basketball. This writer believes the twenty minutes a sound investment with a possibility of an incredible profit, an M-D championship not an usurious interest.

Fred Carter and Dick Dohler round out the "proven" players on this year's roster, and neither need introduction. Freddy is healthy and ready to again resume as the most exciting player in the conference. Against Milersville, in a recent scrimmage, Freddy shocked many by showing that he's interested in defense. He should score less, but play better this year from all indications. Dohler still refuses to take his shot, but with his added weight, looms tough on the boards.

Give Savings Bonds For Christmas

"When you make up your Christmas gift list, don't overlook U. S. Savings Bonds. They're better than ever this year." That's the opinion of James McSherry, Esq., volunteer Chairman of Savings Bonds for Frederick County.

"Savings Bonds now pay interest at the rate of 4.15 per cent when they are held to maturity—and they mature in just seven years," Mr. McSherry pointed out.

"I can't think of a better gift for our loved ones," he said. "Not only do Bonds 'keep on giving' over the years, but they help support our men fighting in Vietnam." "When you buy Bonds," Mr. McSherry added, "you also solve your gift - wrap problem. Attractive gift envelopes are again available at your bank. They are easy to mail, and can be slipped into a Christmas card envelope or tucked into a Christmas stocking."

New Sewer System For Brunswick

Officials of Brunswick have heard recommendations for a new sewer system which could eventually serve 10,000 people and could cost more than $500,000.

Jerome B. Wolff, Brunswick's consulting engineer, discussed his firm's recommendations for a new sewer system to replace the town's present "overloaded" sewer facility.

Wolff, of Baltimore, told the council that he recommended immediate steps could be taken to correct the present situation by approving construction of the treatment plant at a cost of $463,000.

Half of this amount, the engineer said, will be paid by the Federal Government and the remainder by the town floating a bond issue.

By adding an additional $105,000 to the cost, extension of sewer lines to three areas could be accomplished.

Wolff said at this time Brunswick has a $500,000 debt equaling nine per cent of its five million-dollar assessable base.

The town's present system costs between $10,000 and $11,000 per year to operate and the new system would cost about $36,000 per year.

The Wonderful World of PETS
A Dozen Do's and Don'ts of Dogdom

NEW YORK (CFN)—The first article in our series gave you some advice on selecting the right dog for you. Now it's time to discuss the twelve most important do's and don'ts for the successful dog owner—who also wants to continue to be a good neighbor!

- 1) Do teach your dog to be obedient and well-behaved. (In our next article we'll show you how to teach your dog the four most important commands.)
- 2) Do walk your dog on a leash and curb him when necessary.
- 3) Don't let your dog chase cars or bicycles.
- 4) Don't let your dog frighten or bite the postman, milkman, or other service people.
- 5) Do teach your dog to stay in his own yard.
- 6) Don't let your leashed dog lunge at or jump on passers-by.
- 7) Don't let your dog howl for hours while you are gone. (Good behavior such as this can also be taught your dog. And we'll cover it in one of the up-coming articles.)
- 8) Train your dog to stay quietly within his kennel or crate while you're away.
- 9) Don't let your dog soil your neighbor's shrubbery or lawn, or trample his flower gardens.
- 10) Don't let your dog roam the neighborhood.
- 11) Don't let your dog bark excessively.
- 12) Don't let your dog soil your neighbor's shrubbery or lawn, or trample his flower gardens.

NO. 21,437 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND
 IDA V. VAN WINKLE
 VS.
 LEE A. VAN WINKLE

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
 The Bill of Complaint is a suit of procedure to a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Lee A. Van Winkle.

The Bill recites that the Complainant, Ida V. Van Winkle, is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where she has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant, Lee A. Van Winkle, is presently residing McCoolle, Allegany County, Maryland; that the parties to this case were married on the 17th day of March, 1937, in Weems, Virginia, by Rev. Good, a regularly ordained Minister of the Gospel; that as a result of the said marriage, eight children were born, six of whom are of legal age, and William W. Van Winkle, aged 16 years, David L. Van Winkle, aged 14 years, both of whom are in the care and custody of the Complainant and whose care and custody the Complainant seeks; that the parties to this have voluntarily lived separate and apart without cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and that the separation between the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Ida V. Van Winkle, be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Lee A. Van Winkle, that said Complainant may be awarded the care and custody of the said infant children, and for such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

ORDER OF COURT
 It is thereupon this 3rd day of November, 1966, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks prior to the 10th day of December, 1966, commanding him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 10th day of January, 1967, and show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

 ALMA VIRGINIA HALL
 406 Pearl Street
 Frederick, Maryland
 VS.
 STEWART HALL
 Post Office Box 792
 Wilmington, North Carolina

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
 The Bill of Complaint is a suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Stewart Hall.

The Bill recites that the Complainant, Alma Virginia Hall, is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where she has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant, Stewart Hall, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address is Post Office Box 792, Wilmington, North Carolina; that the parties to this cause were married on the 10th day of November, 1964, at Trenton, Georgia, by J. V. Jenkins, Ordinary, Dade County, Georgia, a person duly authorized to solemnize marriages; that as a result of the said marriage no child or children were born; and that the parties to this cause have voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and that the separation between the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Alma Virginia Hall, may be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Stewart Hall; that she may be granted the right to resume her former name of Alma Virginia Crebs; and that she may have such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

ORDER OF COURT
 It is thereupon this 25th day of October, 1966, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks prior to the 3rd day of December, 1966, commanding him to be and appear in this Court, in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 3rd day of January, 1967, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kestner

Although it is true that the vast majority of English setters in this country today carry a preponderance of Llewellyn blood in their veins, the fact remains that there are comparatively few 100-percent Llewellyn setters left in North America, according to Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dogs Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Most American sportsmen who prefer the "long-hair" to the pointer and other pointing breeds are content to settle for the so-called "grades" and feel that they are doing "Quite well, thank you."

The majority of field-trial winners today, with the exception of those on the grouse circuit, are pointers. The setter (which once dominated field competitions) has, indeed, declined in popularity if not in ability insofar as this sport is concerned.

There are some stalwart sportsmen who have never lost faith in —or hope for—the Llewellyn strain and firmly believe that the resurgence of the English setter depends on Llewellyn blood. Among them is Mike C. Jennings, well-known businessman - sportsman - author, of Columbus, Georgia, who is willing to put his money where his mouth is and has imported a number of Llewellyn setters from the kennels of William Humphrey of England, who became known in some quarters as heir to Llewellyn's breeding program. Mr. Jennings has done considerable breeding with his dogs and is now, wisely, waiting to see just how well their progeny develop in the field before making any claims of outstanding success. He realizes that spectacular progress (although unlikely) might be made as a result of a relatively few matings. So far, he feels quite encouraged.

Just what is a Llewellyn setter? In order to answer that question, it might be a bit interesting to review the history of the English setter in relation to the American sporting scene.

England had long had a number of varieties or strains of setters. Among them were the Featherstone, Southesk, Lovat, Naworth Castle, Seafield and Ossulton. Later came the Laverack, established by Edward Laverack. Wales also had setters, the strain from that section being known as Llandidloes, chalk-white in color. Ireland had the Irish setters of solid red or red-and-white color. Scotland had the black-and-tans, later known as the Gordons.

Specimens of most of these breeds or strains came to America in the early days. Occasionally a Russian setter came over. These strains were frequently intermingled, and the offspring became known as "natives." This designation, of course, was erroneous, but the name "native" served as well as any.

Here's an idea for a gift ashtray. Take a block of wood about an inch thick and cut a depression to house a small ashtray. Finish the wood nicely. Now glue-mount a model car or plane alongside the ashtray, which is left removable for easy emptying. The base can be any shape you like.

A new model car for your project is the Chaparral 2D Coupe, by Monogram Models, Inc. It's a modification of the original Chaparrals made famous by Jim Hill. The most obvious differences are the "pinched in" sides and the adjustable spoiler. The model has a highly-detailed one-piece body and a detailed instrument panel. The body can be mounted on a model car racing chassis. Scale is 1/24.

Another gift idea: mosaic ashtrays, hot dish tiles, spoon holders and similar items. They're easy to make and your hobby shop has kits with everything you'll need.

If you choose a plane for your ashtray base, Monogram has the F-105D Thunderchief, the mainstay of U.S. fighter-bomber operations against North Vietnam. Known as the "Chief," it combines long range, great speed and tremendous firepower. The model has a hinged canopy and rotating wheels. In the kit are the pilot, mechanic, ladder, two wing bombs and two external wing fuel tanks. The model is available either camouflage spray-painted or in solid color ready for your own camouflage painting. Scale is 1/72. 1066 published a 36-page, four-color booklet titled "Allegheny Attractions" and will soon be sending 150,000 copies of it throughout the United States.

Included in the booklet are several photos from this area plus short descriptive write-ups of the local sites shown.

According to PE's manager here, J. W. Morgan, "Allegheny Attractions" was designed to attract tourists to the four-state area served by the utility and its "parent" company, the Allegheny Power System.

Surveys show," he said, "that the average tourist family of four spends approximately $48.00 each day in the area they visit. Every one benefits as a result—much as they do when a new industry locates here."

Local scenes pictured in "Allegheny Attractions" include Francis Scott Key's burial place.

In addition, short descriptive write-ups are given on the Barbara Fritchie and Roger Brooke Taney homes, Frederick Court House, Mount Saint Mary's and Saint Joseph's Colleges.

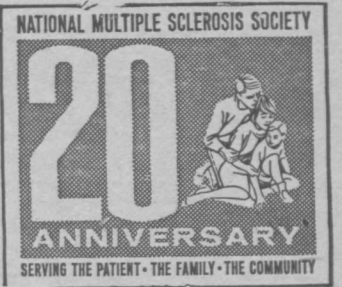

A fold-out map in the back of the book shows travelers how to easily reach these tourist attractions. Also listed are local state parks, hunting and fishing centers, hiking trails, tracks, festivals and cultural and educational facilities.

PE's manager said that the booklets will be distributed by the three companies in the Allegheny Power System—Potomac Edison, Monongahela Power, and West Penn Power—with the bulk of the distribution being made by mail to opinion leaders, community officials, industries, and specialized groups from coast-to-coast.

Locally, they will be available to the public in special literature racks located in major PE offices. Copies may also be secured—without cost—by writing to the local Potomac Edison store or office.

This is where Mr. Williams hangs his hat when he's on the go. With a public telephone always conveniently at hand, he is never far from his office or from his prospects.

For example, he uses a public phone to call ahead for appointments, check on things back at the office, place orders, obtain prices and information, complete a sale, and keep his boss informed as to his whereabouts. And of course, if he's going to be late for dinner at home, a call will ease the sting.

When you're trying to crowd two days' work into a single day, take a tip from Mr. Williams. Step into your office away from the office and—

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On: Air Pollution

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 24—Where will you be living in 1991? Will you be in a brick and steel complex connected by miles of asphalt and concrete streets gapping for breath under a blanket of filthy and polluted air. It may well be . . . unless we act now.

A Most Serious Problem
Over many of our larger cities today, there is a "sea of air" as much as three miles deep. Caught up in this sea is a mixture of mud, grit, smoke, smog, and various gaseous substances. Together, they compose the murky air which we describe as haze and smog.

Dr. Walter Orr Roberts of the U. S. National Centre of Atmospheric Research, Boulder, Colorado points up the seriousness of our air pollution problem in this dire prediction: "In coming years thousands of people will die in our cities simply because they breathe." Dr. Roberts warns that this will happen even if we start now on an all-out national program to clean up the dirty air that overhangs our cities and towns and also affects outlying areas. The doctor's warning is confirmed by the U. S. Public Health Service which has declared that air pollution is already a major health hazard in 308 American cities having a total population of 43 million people.

Rising Energy Needs + Indifference - Pollution
Once upon a time, you could look up at a great cloud of smoke hanging in the sky above a city and be pretty sure that it really was smoke. Today, so many different substances comprise this air mass that you can no longer be sure exactly what is lying between the sun and the earth. As our population has increased and as we have become so highly industrialized, our demands for energy and for auto transport have multiplied; our air is poisoned by auto exhausts and by the smoke from power plants. Certainly, they are among the worst offenders. But there are other offenders as well.

Sand, cement, coal, and other substances in the air help to compound the problem. In far too many communities, laws regulating the disposal of industrial wastes are either ignored or poorly enforced. Probably in most cases, the laws themselves are inadequate and need to be revamped and up-dated.

Poisoned Air Pollutes Water Too
The poisons in our air are now also a major contributor to the growing problem of water pollution. We just do not know how many people fall victim to respiratory and virus ailments because of poisonous substances in the air, in our streams, and even on occasion in our drinking water.

Steps are being taken to cut down on the harm rendered by fumes from auto exhausts. If that does not work, we may have to ban cars from downtown areas of the largest cities and — as a health measure — force people to use public transportation in going to and from these areas. If local and state governments prove unequal to the task of cleaning up our air, the federal government will have to act. Perhaps that is the only way we can place a really effective ban on another major contributor to air pollution—the open burning of garbage, leaves, trash, and refuse.

More Understanding Needed
We talk about the need for land conservation and water conservation. There is an equally great necessity for air conservation. Neither more stringent laws nor more comprehensive control programs can do the job as quickly and as thoroughly as it must be done. It demands 100% co-operation from people.

The University of Massachusetts has already begun to make people more knowledgeable by offering an extension course on air conservation. Through such study of the basics of meteorology and their role in air pollution, we can acquire more information about air quality criteria and types of air pollutants. "Knowledge is power." Armed with it, we can lick this problem and produce a healthier, happier, more prosperous nation in the bargain. But this will be possible only if we act on this knowledge now.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Home Falls
"Safe at home" means scoring a run and possibly winning the game to a baseball player.

The same phrase means something entirely different to the American family.

Every year we are greeted with a new set of statistics that tell us that we are by no means "safe at home" in the average household. In fact, the statistics show that home can be downright dangerous.

Accidents in the home caused 28,500 deaths in 1965, according to the Archives of Environmental Health, a professional journal published by the American Medical Association.

Each year about 25 million home accidents cause injuries serious enough to require medical attention or to restrict the activity of the victim a day or longer.

A host of physical factors are involved in home accidents, such as electrical and power equipment, inadequate lighting, glass doors, abandoned ice boxes, medicines, and many others. But by far the major causes of home accidents are two things—falls and fires.

Falls are the second most common cause of accidental death, next to highway accidents. Falls in and around the home each year cause injuries to nearly 7 million people and 12,000 deaths.

Falls on stairs cause nearly 2,000 fatal injuries a year. Proper lighting and sturdy handrails on stairs are highly important to home safety. A good ladder to aid in reaching high places is much safer than standing on boxes or chairs. And the ladder should be firmly placed and braced at the foot. Spilled water or grease or improper waxing of floors cause falls. Loose rugs, scattered toys and trailing extension cords also are hazards. A light switch near the door of each room is a safety measure.

Most of these hazards can be eliminated or minimized by the head of the household.

Get your family together this evening and organize a tour of the house to check for possible "fall hazards." Then set about to correct these hazards as quickly as possible. Make your home as nearly accident-proof as possible.

The more we read the less we know; the less we think we know, the more educated we become.

HEALTH & SAFETY

Mainly for Mothers

by Carol Hart

Pharmacist Important to Family Health

More than one billion prescriptions will be filled by pharmacists in the United States this year, according to the Council on Family Health. Chances are that one or more of those prescriptions will be for you or a member of your family.

The pharmacist is one of the members of the medical team that helps guard your family's health.

An estimated 125,000 men and women are licensed as pharmacists by the 50 states. Behind each pharmacist entering the profession today are five years of education at a college of pharmacy. After graduation he must pass State Board examinations. Either before or after the Boards, he is required to serve an apprenticeship, working for an experienced registered pharmacist.

When you give your pharmacist a prescription from your physician, he analyzes its requirements. It may be for a medicine produced by a pharmaceutical manufacturer. It may be for a medicine that requires compounding of several ingredients. He must know which ingredients can be used together.

Accuracy is important. Just a few letters in the name of a drug can make a life-or-death difference.

This is why the pharmacist checks and double-checks every prescription before he fills it. If he has any doubts, he calls the prescribing physician.

The pharmacist also has to know about proper containers. Some must be colored to filter light, and others must be airtight.

Once the prescription is filled, the pharmacist must give it a number and enter that number in his records. If a question arises at a later date with reference to a particular prescription, the answer is readily found in the pharmacist's records.

Like your doctor, the pharmacist must never stop studying and keeping up with the advances of medicine and scientific drug research, for, according to the Council on Family Health, the great majority of all medicines prescribed today were not even known 10 years ago.

The Pleasure Is Mutual

Paul Carter Hawkins and his new puppy, Snowflake, are delighted to make each other's acquaintance. Four-year-old Paul, national poster child for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, was given the Samoyed pup after he had wished for a dog on a television show. This month the youngster spearheads the March Against Muscular Dystrophy, which annually raises funds for MDAA-sponsored scientific research into neuromuscular disorders and for vital services to patients and their families.

The Wonderful World of PETS
How To Train Your Dog

NEW YORK (CFN)—We've said it before, but it's worth repeating—the truly happy dog is well-trained and obedient. Pampered dogs, neglected dogs are not only often heartbreaking to see, but their misbehavior can set the nicest neighbors to snarling and complaining.

Obedience training begins with these four basic commands, Sit; Stay; Come; and Down. Don't expect your dog to perform like Rin Tin Tin after a day's schooling. But with patience, love, and the knowledge that you're fulfilling your role as a good dog neighbor, you'll want to succeed. For good results, follow these suggestions from one of the nation's outstanding authorities on dog care and training, Clarence C. Fawcett of the Purina Dog Care Center, St. Louis.

SIT: Before your pet can learn anything else, he should learn to sit still and pay attention to you. With your puppy on leash command "Sit" and push him into a sitting position. Praise him, "Good dog to SIT." If he tries to move, say "No! You SIT!" and push him back into the sit position. Repeat the action until he learns the command and will sit.

STAY: After he has learned to sit on command, start teaching him to STAY—in place. At first, just step in front of him then gradually move further away. Always go back and praise him—if he has stayed. If he moves away he must be put back on the exact spot where you left him with the command "No—you stay!"

COME: Attach a long length of light strong cord, to your dog's collar and let him drag it until he's used to it. Then (wearing gloves if a large dog) hold the end of the cord, speak the dog's name and command, "Come." Jerk the cord and start pulling him gently towards you. Even though you may have to force him to come, give him plenty of petting and praise when he reaches you. Repeat this lesson until the dog will come to you regardless of distractions.

DOWN: When he's sitting, use the command "Down" in a drawn-out tone, at the same time gently pull his front paws towards you until he's lying down. Praise him. If he jumps up—say "No!" give your command "Down" and put him down again. Repeat until the command is learned.

Sears Grants To Aid Colleges

Unrestricted grants totaling $1 million will be distributed this week by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation under a continuing program of aid to privately supported colleges and universities, C. H. LeFoe, local representative of the Foundation, has revealed.

In announcing the distribution of the 1966 grants, LeFoe said nine participating colleges and universities in Maryland will share in grants totaling $10,200.

In the Emmitsburg area, St. Joseph College will receive grants totaling $700. Purpose of the program is systematically to help institutions of higher learning meet their financial needs.

Altogether more than 600 colleges and universities from coast to coast will receive Sears Foundation grants. They are unrestricted to allow schools to allocate their funds according to their greatest needs.

In addition to its grant program the Foundation, during the current year, will invest more than $800,000 in a variety of scholarship and other type educational programs, bringing its total expenditures for higher education purposes this year, to more than $1,800,000.

The Concert which will include Berlioz, Gliere, Beethoven Symphony No. 8 and Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, to be performed by Regis Iandioria, who is studying at the Julliard School of Music, and is a pupil of Louie Persinger, will take place at 8:30 p.m. in the Concert Hall of the Peabody Conservatory. Tickets which will cost $1 each, can be obtained at the Peabody Ticket Office or the Music Departments of the Baltimore Catholic Schools, and the night of the performance at the Peabody Concert Hall. The Youth Symphony, which gave its first performance in June 1964, and has since performed a series of ambitious programs, meets weekly at the West Hall of St. Ignatius, corner of Monument and Calvert Streets, Baltimore, to rehearse with Mr. Gatto.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR ROAD

Approval of an access road to the Upper Potomac Industrial Park near Cumberland, has been announced by the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Dept. of Commerce.

The project was recommended by the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The proposed access road estimated to cost $39,163, will run from Rt. 220 to the industrial park in Allegany County, located one-half mile south of Cumberland. Federal share of the cost of the new road will be about $27,417.

The road will be owned and maintained by the county.

Federal Grants For Tennis Courts

A Federal grant of $6565 for the construction of two tennis courts at the North Harford High School Recreation Center, Bushs Corner, Harford County, Maryland, was announced today by Roland B. Handley, Northeast Regional Director of the Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in Philadelphia.

The grant from the Land and Water Conservation Fund will be matched by local money.

My Thanksgiving

A fellow in my position has so much to be thankful for and so many to thank that it is impossible to adequately express my appreciation. In this season of Thanksgiving I give my deepest thanks to: The people of Frederick County for accepting me and my family with kindness and warmth. The voters of Frederick County for supporting my candidacy in the recent election. The active workers who without prospect of any personal reward, devoted so much time and support to my successful election.

My friends, neighbors and fellow Frederick Countians, I will bend every effort to merit your confidence.

Wally Hutton

Pat. T. Ravo, Director of the Harford County Department of Parks and Recreation, will be responsible for the direction of the project. Spencer P. Ellis, Director of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, reviewed the project and submitted it to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. Ellis is Alternate Liaison Officer to BOR and responsible for the administration of grants from the Land and Water Conservation Fund to the State of Maryland. The Fund was established by Congress to assist States and their political subdivisions in the planning, acquisition and development of outdoor recreation areas and facilities. It is supported by revenues derived from the sale of the $7 Golden Passport, other Federal outdoor recreation entrance and user fees, the Federal motorboat fuel tax and the sale of Federal surplus property.

College Fair To Benefit Missions St. Joseph College students will sponsor their 1966 Charity Fair two days this year, Friday and Saturday, December 2 and 3. The fair will have as its theme, "Happiness Is Sharing" — the sharing of love and the giving of sacrifice to the less fortunate in the world. Proceeds from the fair will make it possible to aid the Bolivian missions so that faith and gratitude may prosper among the poor this Christmas season. Activities will get under way in the Verdier Building on the campus Friday from 7 to 10 p.m., and on Saturday from 12:30 until 5:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Now! Seven league stereo.

This is portable stereo that can really cover the ground—from home to party to school to summer place to camp . . . to everywhere and back again. The amplifier is Solid State, the most rugged kind. It drives a pair of speakers. The V-M "Stere-O-Matic" record changer handles any size record, stereo or mono. Won't jam. And the tone arm is so carefully designed, balanced and mounted that record wear is almost imperceptible. Come see. This is a giant step forward in portable stereo phones.
