Halloween pranksters could wait no longer, so went into action this week and distributed corn fodder at various sections of the Town. Mixed with the heavy rain Thursday the sodden mess represented a traffic hazard as it lay on the Square and the dangerous intersection east of Town. It is expected that a certain amount of this distasteful activity will occur at this time of the year but we strongly advise against any act that might harm someone. Naturally those apprehended will face legal hearings so let's hope these depredations are kept to a bare minimum.

The Chamber of Commerce deserves a heap of credit for its effort in trying to obtain a recreational area for this community. A lot of hard work, expense and planning is required even before the proposition goes before the general public. More information will become available at later dates as the organization hurdles one obstacle after another. However, I am a firm believer that it can be done, especially after hearing details of the project and especially since the Town Council has manifested cooperation and will do whatever it can to expedite the plans before it is ready for a public hearing. When the preliminary work has been completed then the public will receive the details on the complete package and it is then, and only then, when we know if we will succeed. Don't be fooled by any malicious rumors or disgruntled individuals or apathy on the part of others. Other towns smaller than Emmitsburg have accomplished great deeds and there is positively no reason why this plan won't succeed. You will be advised by the proper authorities as the progress continues and it is highly possible that within a year or two, our goal of a community recreational area will become a reality.

The lack of respect for law and order seems to grow with each passing month anymore. The racial demonstrations which we have endured these past few years appear to be taking a back seat to the hippies, beatniks or what have you, who are defying the Federal Government by burning their draft cards and protesting our war in Vietnam. If these draft dodgers or so-called conscientious objectors are allowed to pull off their big demonstration at the Pentagon in Washington Saturday, then there is no telling what they will do next. It is doubtful if half of these conscientious objectors ever saw the inside of a church and are using this moral issue as a direct action to evade being drafted into the service of their country. I often wonder what our men over in Vietnam think when they read and see pictures of what is going on back home in their own country? This sort of action must be ruled with a firm hand and the sooner our elected authorities realize this the sooner this distasteful action will subside.

Local Newsboy In Honor Group

Robert (Bobby) Seidel, 12-year-old son of Prof. and Mrs. Robert A. Seidel, Sr., East Main Street, has been selected as one of the 10 Outstanding Newspaperboys of 1967 for the Hanover Evening Sun. These 10 boys were selected from 248 boys who deliver the Evening Sun.

The boys attended a luncheon on Saturday, Oct. 14, National Newspaperboys Day, at the Red Barn Restaurant in Hanover, where awards were presented to these 10 boys.

The Evening Sun salutes these boys who perform their route management duties so faithfully, all year, they go on to state that these boys are ambitious young businessmen and that they are managing a business that is an important part of the daily life of their community.

Mr. Frank W. Bouey, Altoona, Pa., is spending some time here visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Christmer spent last week visiting friends and relatives in Kentucky.

McGUCKEN APPARENTLY OUT OF RACE

An Emmitsburg attorney's application to file for a congressional office in California was turned down this week by the San Mateo County Clerk, according to an Associated Press dispatch issued at Redwood City, Calif.

The Emmitsburg attorney was named as Patrick F. X. McGucken who sought to file in the 11th Congressional District election in San Mateo County. McGucken's refusal to sign a loyalty oath, was the reason, according to the story.

Clerk John Bruning said Patrick F. X. McGucken, of Emmitsburg, Md., had informed him in a letter that his "loyalty was beyond question" and that the oath is illegal.

Gruning said he consulted California Secretary of State Frank Jordan and got a fast answer: No loyalty oath, no candidacy.

McGucken, a Democrat, had announced he would enter the race for the vacant seat of the late Rep. Arthur J. Younger, R-San Mateo, in order to defend President Johnson's Vietnam war policy. McGucken indicated he was leaping into the crowded race—with six Republicans and five other Democrats—to protect the President from the criticism of people like Mrs. Shirely Temple Black. The former child movie star is a Republican candidate who says President Johnson is not prosecuting the war vigorously enough. It was never spelled out publicly how McGucken, as a Maryland resident, expected to qualify as a California resident running for Congress.

Council Of Churches To Observe Reformation With Special Services

The most gigantic revolution in the history of the Christian Church occurred four hundred and fifty years ago on October 31, 1517 when Martin Luther posted his Ninety-five Theses on the door of the castle church in Wittenberg, Germany. It was the posting of this document that proved to be the spark which kindled the explosion of the Protestant Reformation.

To commemorate this historical event the Emmitsburg Council of Churches together with the ministers of the four Protestant Churches in town have scheduled the following three special events.

On Sunday afternoon, October 29th, there will be an "Open House Visitation" at all four churches with a display of materials illustrating the peculiar contribution of each denomination to the Reformation. A display related to Luther's contribution to Protestantism will be arranged in the parish house of Elias Lutheran Church. At the United Presbyterian Church there will be a display of materials related to John Calvin who was the "theologian" of the Reformation and was the author of the famous "Institutes" of the Christian Religion. Although the Methodist Church did not come into being in England for two centuries after the Reformation on the continent of Europe, the contributions of John and Charles Wesley to Protestantism will be displayed at Trinity Methodist Church. About the same time that Luther preached in Germany, Ulrich Zwingli preached in Switzerland. There will be a display of several books related to the life and works of Zwingli at the Incarnation United Church of Christ (formerly Incarnation Reformed Church). Light refreshments will be served at two of the display areas.

The second event commemorating the Reformation will be at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, October 29, at Incarnation United Church of Christ. The theme of the evening's program will be "Why We Have Church Music". The history of hymnody and sacred music will be traced from the Renaissance through the Protestant Reformation to the present day. Mr. R. Diehl Ackerman, Director of the Emmitsburg Community Choir, will be the narrator at this service which will include the congregational singing of hymns.

The third event to climax the celebration of the 450th Anniversary of Protestantism will be a Mass Reformation Service at Elias Lutheran Church on Monday, October 30, at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Robert V. Moss, Jr., President of the Lancaster Theological Seminary, will be the guest Preacher at this service. The theme of the service will be "The Continuing Reformation. The Community Choir, which will lead the congregational singing, will sing the "Hallelujah Chorus" from G. F. Handel's "The Messiah" as their anthem. The pastors of our local churches will preside at this service.

Dr. Moss has served as the president of the Theological Seminary for the past ten years, and is also Professor of New Testament there. He is presently serving as the President of the American Association of Theological Seminaries and also as a Co-Chairman of the Presbyterian-Catholic Dialogue Group in U. S. A. He is also a member of the Lancaster City Board of Education. Dr. Moss is well known for his interest and participation in the ecumenical movement of the church today. He was a delegate to the Tihrd Assembly of the World Council of Churches in New Delhi, India, in 1961, a delegate to the International Congregational Council at Rotterdam, The Netherlands, in 1962, and was an Observer at the Vatican Council II in November of 1962. He has written several books. One of his most recent publications is "The Life Everlasting" in "Great Phrases of the Christian Language" which was edited by Robert Spike in 1958. It is a rare privilege indeed to have a present-day theologian of Dr. Moss's calibre speak in Emmitsburg.

A new million dollar library was dedicated at the Lancaster Theological Seminary this past Saturday, October 14. The name of the new facility is the Philip Schaff Library.

The members and friends of all of the churches of the community are cordially invited to attend each one of these special events in celebration of the 450th Anniversary of the Reformation.

Cullen Escapees Cause Concern In Nearby Towns

The presidents of the Sabillasville and the Blue Ridge Summit Civic Associations have asked the directors of the Victor Cullen School to hire uniformed policemen to patrol their towns.

The policemen would patrol the towns in an effort to eliminate the problem of boys who are running away from the school stealing cars.

"The situation has grown grave enough that area residents are talking of shooting first and asking questions later," said Francis M. Manahan, president of the Sabillasville Civic Association.

Richard Batterton, director of the State Department of Juvenile Services, told representatives of the two associations that the state is expanding and improving training for the staff to cover any deficiencies which may presently exist.

"We figure that the cost of police protection would be $36,000 and is a cheap price to pay to bring a feeling of security to the communities," said James Annis, President of the Blue Ridge Summit Civic Association.

Batterton explained that the school was designed to be a hospital and the buildings do not lend themselves to strict supervision of the boys.

"Renovations are under way which will afford adequate supervision for the boys, however, we still intend to give them a situation where they must take some responsibilities," Batterton said.

David L. Curran, director of the school, told the combined meeting that the school usually knows within minutes when a boy has left and the State Police are notified.

"However, it takes the State Police anywhere from 30 minutes to two hours to respond from either Frederick or Washington counties," said Annis.

C. OF C. CONTINUES PLAN FOR LOCAL RECREATION AREA

Plans towards establishing a recreational area for Emmitsburg took another step forward Tuesday night when a progress report was given at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held in Mt. Manor Restaurant, Mrs. Jane Bollinger, president, presiding.

The recreational committee headed by J. Norman Flax and Sister Margaret Hickey, St. Joseph's Provincial House, gave a detailed account of the progress to date and showed drawings and gave statistics on costs, location and pertinent data relevant to the proposed recreational area. The committee reported several meetings since the last regular meeting and gave an account of its meeting with the Burgess and Commissioners. The proposed area is located on Town property adjacent to the baseball park, Community Field, and would include an Olympic size swimming pool, wading pool, tennis courts, picnic tables, etc. Estimated cost of the project would be in the neighborhood of $75,000, part of which would be borne by the County, State and Federal Governments. The committee read a letter from the Town Council which indicated its willingness to cooperate with the project and when the proper time came, would apply for Federal monies to help complete the area. Prior to application for this grant a public meeting will be called at which all citizens will be invited to express their views.

Ralph D. Lindsey, treasurer, announced two new members, Dr. W. R. Cadle and Norman J. Shriver. Guests at the meeting included Mrs. John Chaitos, Robert Muench, Dr. William Meredith, and John H. Walter.

Arthur Richardson, chairman of the economic advisory committee reported a meeting to be held in Washington, D. C. in November which will treat on the subject of how other communities obtain industries. A letter from Mrs. Valli Ryan was read and reported on the progress of the publicity brochure now under compilation. Mrs. Ryan heads this committee but was unable to be present at the meeting.

Eugene Rosensteel gave a report on the progress of activity on the roadside picnic area and said that photographs of several choice spots had been submitted by his committee to the proper authorities. Mrs. Frances Rosensteel, fund raising committee chairman, said that several events would be held shortly to bring in money for the Chamber to continue its community work.

The next regular meeting of the group will be held on November 21.

State Road Fatals Setting New Record

Twenty-one persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police. Seven of those killed were drivers, eight were passengers, and six were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in seven of the deaths, speed in ten, and "driver error" in eighteen.

"During the first months of 1967 there was some indication that the number of Maryland highway deaths would not approach 1966's record-high figure," commented Lt. Col. George Davidson, Chief of Operations of the State Police. "Recently, however, the fatality rate has been climbing steadily and so far this year seventeen more persons have been killed than for the same period last year.

"Also, there seems to be little hope that the next two months will show any improvement in the fatality picture."

Lt. Col. Davidson concluded: "The record speaks for itself. The situation is not good and it certainly won't correct itself. It is up to each driver to assume his individual responsibility to promote highway safety. Improvement won't be achieved any other way."

Mount Students Hurt In Mishap

o'clock Friday evening after their car flipped over on old Route 15 in front of the college campus.

Treated at the Warner Hospital were the driver of the car, Paul Joseph Small, 19, Philadelphia, for lacerations of the scalp and left hand, and two passengers, Joseph Hinder, 18, Terryman, Md., a fractured collar bone, and Regis Berk, 20, Baltimore, a sprain of the left side. The students were removed to the hospital in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance.

Maryland State Police said the accident occurred when Small, traveling north on Route 806 towards Emmitsburg lost control of his car on a curve in front of the college campus, striking an embankment and rolling his vehicle over. His 1961 Chevrolet Corvair is a total loss. State Police said Small will be charged with speeding.

On Beholding American Autumn This is one autumn of an age With ripened leaves of history Fallen and laid in foreign soil— Not perhaps to write one victory More to a people's incessant toil To sow the seeds of democracy

Perhaps in a leaf written in soil Of blood reddening its useful toil, A hopeful bud will sprout and grow Against the cold defiant snow Where graves on mounds and mounds Shall shape and spring a new glory Where the drums of freedom never sounds Yet to herald the Spring of victory.

This still is one autumn of an age When the October sky hangs low its stars Over the rugged hills plagued by rage As sickle gathers harvests of dead, hammers The coffin's nails in strange oriental lands Where furious busy ants have built their hopes On shifting mounds of Stalin's drifting sands. —A. Babson's Point Of View On: Brain Drain

"HOUSEWORK," SAYS DR. JANET TRAVELL—WHO WAS PERSONAL PHYSICIAN TO PRESIDENT KENNEDY—"CAN BE DONE LIKE A MODERN DANCE—MOVE SLOWLY, RHYTHMICALLY, AND TAKE FREQUENT REST BREAKS OF TWO TO FIVE MINUTES." the world, but especially from Europe, are lured to the United States by the prestige of our educational facilities.
Westward Flow
This talent drain is nothing new. Canadians have long deplored the fact that many of their most promising young people have come to the U. S. for greater educational or job opportunities, and then elected to remain here. The exodus from Canada has included some world-renowned artists, musicians, scientists, and businessmen.

In more recent years there has been an increasing flow to the U. S. of very talented people from many other countries. Britain, especially, has felt keenly the loss of outstanding men and women in a variety of fields who have sought permanent residence here or actually become U. S. citizens. Nowhere is this American attraction of talent more manifest than in medicine. In hospitals throughout the length and breadth of our land today, you will find a preponderance of residents and interns who have come here to complete their medical education or to engage in research.

Strong Urban Pull
But even within the United States and among our own people, the brain drain has become quite a problem. Urbanization has proceeded at a very rapid pace and is still going on. The number of residents in our standard metropolitan statistical areas—by definition, at least one central city of no less than 50,000 persons together with the surrounding area economically oriented to it—increased by 10.4% from April 1960 to July 1965.

Flight From The Core Cities
Almost simultaneous with the migration of people from farms to urban areas has been migration from the core cities of metropolitan areas. In the very vanguard of those who have forsaken the large cities for residence in the suburbs have been the more successful and talented, whose affluence permitted greater freedom of choice than was available to their less fortunate neighbors.

Thus have the large core cities lost what they need most—persons of vision and ability, with an interest in city problems and a will to make personal contributions and the sacrifices necessary to implement solutions.

Neglect Of The Gifted Child
In today's fast-changing, highly mobile world, we can't possibly insulate ourselves against drains of talent from particular communities or areas within our borders. But there is another and perhaps more serious brain drain that we can take steps to remedy. It is reliably estimated that, in the U. S. alone, five million talented and creative young people of school age just aren't receiving from their teachers the attention and challenge they need to develop their full potential.

No one knows how much talent has been lost to the nation because of our neglect of the gifted child. To give such children the educational break they deserve will involve a good deal of planning and an increase in expenditure. Smaller classes, more sympathetic and creative teachers following a more modern and realistic curriculum, will be needed. It is indeed time for all of us to ask ourselves: What is my community doing to help its gifted children educationally? What will it do? The answer depends on our interest and on the depth of our concern.

Request Hike In Auto Insurance

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters last week filed a new request for a 23.7% increase in auto liability insurance rates, according to Maryland Insurance Commissioner Newton I. Steers, Jr.

The filing, and a request for a hearing, came after Commissioner Steers had disapproved an earlier request on September 21, 1967, because the information furnished was, according to the Commissioner, "not sufficient to permit me to determine whether the rates are excessive."

The Bureau's earlier request was for an overall increase of 32.1%, with figures purporting to show that a 42.4% rate increase was justified. The 32.1% combined figure covered 30.6% for bodily injury liability and 35.6% for property damage liability. The new combined figure of 23.7% covers 23.4% for bodily injury liability and 24.3% for property damage liability.

Surrender To The Enemy?
North Vietnam's Red boss Ho Chi Minh and all the other leaders in international Communism's expanding drive to conquer the world are pleased and cheered by the rising shrillness of the voices in America advocating an unconditional halt in U. S. bombing of North Vietnam. The rising chorus, given widest possible amplification by some of the major news media, advocates a policy that would almost certainly give South Vietnam and ultimately the rest of Asia to the Reds and place our own security much further in jeopardy.

The full "Dove" plan for "Peace" is a plan for American capitulation. It is almost precisely what Ho Chi Minh and his Russian Comrade-in-arms Kossygin have called for all along. Here is what the latest convert to "Doveism," a U. S. Senator, urges (and our comment, in parentheses):

A Program Meaning Surrender
1. An unconditional halt in our bombing of the enemy in North Vietnam. (On the basis of the actions of the Reds in all the other such bombing halts, which were pressed upon the Administration by the "Doves", our military leaders on the battle fronts are certain that another such appeasement halt in bombing would be disastrous to American forces. In many present battle areas Red supplies and Red forces have been disseminated or destroyed. Hanoi would use the halt, as it has on every previous occasion, to bring in wholesale replacements of men and equipment. The military judgment would have to be: "If we halt our bombing at this point, we should call off the war; another halt would mean the utter sacrifice of thousands of American lives and the regrouping of the enemy whose forces and whose will to fight are beginning to be weakened.")

2. Stopping our planes and soldiers from "search and destroy" forays against the enemy. (Here is a U. S. Senator saying to the families of the half million GI's at the front that American soldiers should not be permitted to seek out and destroy the entrenched enemy who is slaughtering them with mortars, machine guns, heavy artillery. This too is contrary to all concepts of warfare.)

Coalition With Reds
3. Granting to the Communist "National Liberation Front" in South Vietnam a voice in the South Vietnam government. (This is precisely what the war is all about. After the Geneva Accord dividing Vietnam in 1954, the NLF, directed entirely from Red headquarters in Hanoi, had expected to capture South Vietnam in a political coup, by first gaining power in a coalition government. President Ngo Dinh Diem was aware of the Red plot and thwarted it. Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh then ordered the NLF to foment and carry out full-scale revolution. This never quite came off. Minh, backed by his Peking and Moscow comrades, then, in 1959, began the military campaign to seize the country, trying vainly to camouflage his northern based, invading guerrilla armies by calling them the "Viet Cong.")

The Viet Cong in its inception was the military cadres of the Communist political movement established by and directed from Hanoi. For the U. S. to withdraw and give the Viet Cong or "National Liberation Front" power in a South Vietnam Government would constitute utter defeat for the U. S. and the newly constituted Republic. The Reds, as they have done in their other "coalition" beachheads, would quickly dominate and take over the government and the country.)

Vacating Asia
4. A "locally-initiated, all-Asian peace conference without outside involvement." (This would mean—at least in effect if not in actuality—withdrawal of American forces, American interest, American influence. It would mean chalking up 15,000 American lives lost, 100,000 casualties, and $50 billion in resources to a lost cause. This would create an empty martyrdom for the grieving families and the maimed; and it would be another resounding victory for "wars of liberation" which have become the new Red strategy for world conquest.)

The "Doves" rationale is that (as Ho Chi Minh constantly has declared) the trouble in South Vietnam is a domestic affair, two fractions of the citizenry fighting over issues of no concern to outsiders. We had no business going into Vietnam in the first place (the "Doves" say); we should apologize to the world and get out. The facts of history do not bear out this analysis of the Vietnam struggle. In subsequent columns, we will further discuss those facts.

Taneytown Lions Hold Meeting

The Taneytown Lions Club held its regular meeting on October 10, at the Taney Inn. Lion President Joe Meyer presided, with the invocation by Lion Frank Dunham. Group singing was led by Lion Dunham with Lion Delmar Riffle as pianist.

Guests and officials recognized at the meeting were Lee Fisher of Thurmont; Lou Hahn of Westminster; and Stanley King of Taneytown, State Commander of the American Legion. Program Chairman of this Faculty Night meeting was Lion Homer Myers. Principal of the Taneytown High School, Mr. Philip Lawyer, introduced the teachers of his school. Dr. Frank Wargny, principal of the Taneytown Elementary School, then introduced the teachers present from his school. A note of regret of absence was read from the St. Joseph's School of a previous engagement.

A total of 35 teachers were present at the meeting. This gives the Lions the opportunity to know the teachers better and for the teachers to know the Lions better. This is our way of honoring and thanking the teachers for their valuable contribution to the community. The Lions salute you! Several musical selections were given by Linda Schaeffer, accompanied by Mrs. Bowers. Speaker for the evening was Ed Arrington of Sykesville. Mr. Arrington reminisced of his school days and his teachers. His warm humor and wit was enjoyed by all.

Lion Delmont Koons announced that the Charter Night would be held on October 21, at Frock's Sunnybrook Farm in Westminster.

Lion Carroll Wantz has ordered over 600 fruit cakes and they should be arriving in several weeks. Please place your order with any Lions Club member if you desire a delicious fruit cake. A Board meeting was held following the regular meeting.

"I'll put Flameless Electric Heat in your present home for just a few dollars down!"

It costs so little for heavenly electric warmth in every room.

complete safety

No other heating system can offer the safety features of flameless electricity. Since electric heat requires no combustion, there is no danger from leaking fuel systems, fumes, explosions or combustible fuel storage. When you're away from home you'll never need worry about the safety of your property.

luxurious comfort

Only flameless electric heating offers you controlled, even warmth in each room of your home. A proper balance between heat and relative humidity assures you of superb comfort no matter how severe the weather outside may be. Flameless electric heating... truly the most comfortable heating system ever developed.

long-term economy

While other costs increase, the price trend of electricity and electric heating has been consistently decreasing. With electricity, you'll also save on maintenance, cleaning and depreciation. An electric heating system will last the life of your home.

individual room thermostats

With flameless electric heating you can choose just the temperature you want for each room in your home. No more hard to heat areas or hot spots to make you uncomfortable. Just set the thermostats and enjoy controlled comfort in each and every room.

carefree convenience

With electricity heating your home you'll be free of maintenance problems. No fuel delivery worries, no furnace or flues to clean, no ashes to carry out. Setting your thermostats is about all the work you'll ever have with an electric heating system.

extra living space

Since electric heat requires no furnace or fuel storage area, and no pipes or ducts, this means that your home will have more usable living space. You can actually add a room to your home in the space normally occupied by a flame-type heating system.

LOW COST TO OPERATE!

If you've always thought electric heat was too expensive, then think again. Today an average five-room home can be heated electrically for less than $125 a year. An average six-room home can be heated electrically for less than $150 a year. But even that's not the full story because there's a special low electric heating rate that also lowers the cost of all electricity used in your home. And there's no yearly service contract cost and no cost for filters. Electric heat... truly the best friend your budget ever had.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

By Louise Chase
Women's Medical News Service

Pregnant Father Needs Help

SAN JUAN, P. R.—When a woman is pregnant the attention of family, physician, and friends is focused on her. After she gives birth the infant takes center stage. Odd man out most frequently during pregnancy and after the baby arrives is father.

What is the affect of all this?

Plenty, and lots of it, bad, Isadore Rubin, Ph.D., told family life experts attending a conference here. It is not uncommon, Dr. Rubin reported, for husbands to leave home during their wives' pregnancy, especially toward the latter part of it.

According to one study of normal pregnant women, one expectant father went on a trip with a local college band for three months and was scheduled to return the same week the baby was due. Another took a sudden interest in cars, and his wife reported she never seemed to see him any more. Sometimes the coming of a baby marked the beginning of the dissolution of a marriage.

Sexual Taboos

Part of the problem, Dr. Rubin notes, arises because of the sexual taboos placed on the husband during pregnancy. Many physicians forbid marital relations during the last three months of pregnancy; some extend the period arbitrarily to the first few months after the birth of the baby. In some cases, the husbands desist apparently because they fear injuring the baby or their wives.

After examining various studies, Dr. Rubin concluded that "many of the men considered the long period of abstinence to be a hardship they were unwilling to endure."

"Of 79 husbands queried in one study, 18 reported that they had gone outside of their marriage for sexual satisfaction during the period of enforced abstinence before and after childbirth. Some of the men reported that this was the first time they had ever engaged in extramarital activity."

Preventive Measures

What preventive measures can be taken to keep this period from weakening or destroying the marriage bonds? Dr. Rubin asked. He noted that the recent study of human sexual response made by Dr. William Masters and Mrs. Vera Johnson indicates that the prevailing practice of prohibiting coitus for arbitrary periods of time frequently does more harm than good.

Conceding that the prohibition probably makes sense around the time the baby is expected, since contraction can send a woman into labor, the researchers doubt that prohibitions following delivery are really necessary.

They maintain that decisions concerning marital relations should be made by the couple in consultation with their physician. Fears should be aired, personal reasons examined, and a clear understanding between husband and wife arrived at.

Most important, Dr. Rubin maintains, is "to involve the husband to the fullest extent possible and to break down the exclusion of the husband from any significant role in his wife's pregnancy."

An important step in getting the husband back into the picture, Dr. Rubin emphasized, is for the wife to encourage his interest in the entire cycle of pregnancy.

The expectant father should have access to his wife's doctor for discussions of sexual problems, emotional disturbances and factual questions about labor and delivery.

Women Urged To Get Pap Test

"Women, have you had a Pap test for uterine cancer this year?"

This is the question the Frederick County Unit, American Cancer Society, will be asking women during its fall educational campaign to "Conquer Uterine Cancer." The objective of the Society, according to Wallace E. Hutton, public relations chairman for the Frederick County Unit, is to encourage every adult woman to have a yearly health checkup which includes the Pap test.

"Modern medical research has made it possible to virtually eliminate uterine cancer as a cause of death," Hutton said, "but too many women fail to recognize this and, tragically, fail to do anything about it."

In Maryland there will be an estimated 750 new cases and 230 deaths from uterine cancer in 1967. Nationally the estimates are for 44,000 new cases and 14,000 deaths.

Hutton explained that the American Cancer Society has recognized that loss of life from uterine cancer is one of the most unnecessary tragedies among women today.

"At the turn of the century," he said, "most people considered that uterine cancer meant certain death. And not many years ago it caused more deaths among women than any other type of cancer. Now the death rate from this disease has been cut by at least half and uterine cancer ranks third among cancer killers of American women."

"But this is not enough," Hutton emphasized, "when you consider that death from uterine cancer could be almost completely eliminated."

The Pap test can detect uterine cancer when the chances of cure are nearly 100 per cent. And often pre-cancerous conditions can be detected and corrected. Our hope, Hutton concluded, is that every woman over 21 will have a Pap test as a part of her annual health checkup.

For a free copy of the American Cancer Society's pamphlet, "Cancer of the Uterus," or to arrange a program on uterine cancer for your club or organization, contact Mrs. Louise D. Creager at the American Cancer Society office, 22 South Market St., Frederick, Md. 21701, or telephone 662-2357.

Falcon in 1968 retains its long hood, short rear deck styling theme, but design innovations, a larger engine option and new interiors help to set it apart from earlier models. A new squared-off rear end gives Falcon a more stable appearance as exemplified in the Futura four-door sedan above. The Futura station wagon below retains the dual-action tailgate that opens like a door and swings down like a tailgate—an exclusive in Falcon's class. Optional in 1968 is Ford's new 302-cubic-inch V-8 engine. Interiors feature new cloth and vinyl upholsteries and a new instrument panel.

What's Different About EASTERN RITE CATHOLIC CHURCHES?

In all the essential elements, Catholic churches in union with Rome are exactly alike all over the world.

They all subscribe to the same articles of faith. All have the same Sacraments. The principal public worship of all of them is the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. And all are members of the apostolic church under the spiritual authority of the Pope.

Yet a Latin Rite Catholic going to Mass in an Eastern Rite church might be quite confused. In the Syrian Rite, for example, the language of the Mass might be Syriac, Arabic or Malayalam... in the Coptic Rite, Coptic, Arabic or Ge'ez. And for other Eastern rites, the language variations might include Greek, Slavonic or classical Armenian.

Nor is language the only difference. Holy Communion is received in the Byzantine Rite, for example, in the form of leavened bread and wine. There are variations in the vestry of the clergy, in devotional music, in the use of religious art symbols in the churches. Where a Latin Rite Catholic may genuflect before the altar, an Eastern Catholic may bow; where one makes

There are five major rites in the Catholic Church: the Syrian, Coptic, Byzantine, Armenian and Latin. Each has its own language, customs and canon law. And each reflects in its devotions the culture of the lands where the Apostles planted the seeds of the Christian faith. In a decree dealing with the Eastern Rite churches, Vatican Council II said: "They all make up the Mystical Body of Christ organically united in the Holy Spirit by the same faith, the same sacraments and the same government..."

If you'd like to read an interesting account of the origin and development of the Eastern Rite churches, send coupon for our new pocket-size pamphlet. It explains the laws of the Church with respect to the Eastern Rite... the differences in the rites... the contributions of Eastern Rite Catholics to the world's culture. There is also an interesting chapter on Catholic relations with the Orthodox Christians.

Constitutional Convention Report

By Gene P. Ward
A series of committee actions at the Constitutional Convention last week gives Marylanders the first indications of what may be in their new State charter.

The committee actions and a brief explanation of each are:
Reduced Voting Age. The Committee on Suffrage and Elections voted 9 to 7 to reduce the minimum voting age to 19.

Capital Punishment. The Committee on Personal Rights and Preamble voted 13 to 4 not to mention capital punishment in the Constitution on the basis that it was a matter for the legislature to decide rather than a Constitutional issue.
Sheriffs. A proposal to have the Constitution require each county and Baltimore City to have a Sheriff was rejected by the Committee on Judicial Branch, 10 to 9. The office of Sheriff is in the present Constitution but not in the Eney Commission draft. Omitting the office from the Constitution would not necessarily mean that it was abolished but would leave the fate of the office to the legislature. This issue may be reconsidered by the committee at a later time.

Bicameral Legislature. A preliminary vote in the Committee on Legislative Branch showed a marked preference for a two-house legislature. Nine members voted for a bicameral setup, two for unicameral (one house), and four abstained.

State Aid For Non - Public Schools. The Committee on General Provisions voted 13 to 2 that the Constitution contain no prohibition or authorization of public financial assistance to non-public schools. Maryland's present Constitution also contains no mention of such aid.
Right to Keep Arms. The concept of the right to keep arms for the lawful defense of one's home, self, and State was adopted by a vote of 8 to 5 in the Committee on Personal Rights. The exact wording of this article in the Declaration of Rights will be decided later. This would be a new Article for Maryland's Constitution as there is no similar provision in the present document. Thirty-five other states include the right in their Constitutions, as do the recently drawn Constitutions of the States of New York and Rhode Island. These two State Constitutions have been approved by Constitutional Conventions but not yet ratified by the voters.

Initiative. A procedure whereby the electorate may adopt or reject laws initiated by petition will not be included in the new Constitution. The Committee on Suffrage and Elections voted 8 to 5 not to include Initiative in the new document.
Recall. The same Committee voted 11 to 2 to exclude Recall, a procedure whereby voters may petition that a special election be held to determine whether an elected official should continue in office. Neither Recall nor Initiative are in Maryland's present Constitution.
Single - Member Districts. The Committee on the Legislative Branch, in an informal vote, showed a preference for legislative districts drawn in such a manner that only one member of the legislature would be elected for each district. In the case of a county which has more than one delegate in the General Assembly, the county would be split into districts with one delegate being elected for each district. Another informal vote revealed a preference for a smaller legislature with 40 senators and 120 members of the House of Delegates.

Referendum. By a unanimous vote, the Committee on Suffrage and Elections agreed to retain the right of Referendum in the new document. The Committee is in the process of deciding what the provisions for Referendum will be.
Baltimore City Districts. A proposal that district boundaries be the same for electing members of the State Legislature and members of the Baltimore City Council was rejected by a unanimous vote of the Committee on Local Government.
Declaration Of Rights. The retention of two Articles prohibiting bills of attainder, ex post facto laws, and "corruption of blood and forfeiture of estate" for conviction of crime, with small changes in wording, was agreed upon by the Committee on Personal Rights.

The Committee actions at this stage in the proceedings are only indications as to what will be in the Constitution drafted by the convention. Until the Committees send their reports to the floor of the convention, the subjects may be reconsidered within the committee. For items to be included in the Constitution they must be approved by a majority of delegates to the convention. In the case where Committees voted not to include something in the Constitution, that subject may be resurrected by a minority report to the floor of the convention or an amendment offered by individual delegates when the matter is debated on the floor.
Committee votes of the type enumerated above will be numerous in the next few weeks as the Committees go through the process of deciding what will be in their Committee reports.
Hearings will continue but are expected to be less numerous as the Committees get close to their deadline of November 17.
The spotlight is now on Committee deliberations and voting on the multiple issues within their subject areas.
As the Committee reports reach the floor of the convention, the action will shift from the Committee rooms to the session of the entire convention.
H. Vernon Eney, the president of the conclave, says that he feels the convention is right on schedule as of this point.

Ft. Detrick Employees Presented Awards

Cash awards, totaling $2,260, have been presented to 69 Fort Detrick employees for suggestions submitted during Fort Detrick Silver Anniversary Suggestion Week. The awards varied from $15 to $350.
Colonel Peter G. Olenchuk, Commanding Officer of Fort Detrick, personally read each suggestion within 24 hours after it was submitted. A task force, consisting of the Deputy Directors or another representative of the operating elements of Fort Detrick, then studied the suggestions. If a suggestion was adopted it was forwarded to the Incentive Awards Committee to be considered for a monetary award. Col. Olenchuk sent a letter to each suggester telling what action was taken on the suggestion.

The most suggestions were submitted by personnel of the Medical Bacteriology Division, Biological Sciences Laboratory. The Maintenance Division of the Installation and Services Office had the most suggestions accepted.

CONVOY LEADER—U. S. Army military police are testing this "Commando" armored car, a new addition to their arsenal of convoy escort vehicles. The car's hull, designed with no vertical surfaces, protects against small arms fire and helps deflect larger projectiles and shell fragments. Six "Commando" cars, manufactured by Cadillac-Gage Corp., are being operated under combat conditions to determine their acceptability for permanent use.

Eliminate "Spearing," Authorities Caution
CHICAGO—Football "spearing" should be eliminated, warn sports and medical authorities.
Spearing is the tactic in which a blocker or tackler uses his head as a battering ram. It's dangerous, both for himself and for the person he hits.
A group of coaches, physicians, and sports officials have joined the American Medical Association in calling for coaches to emphasize correct, head-up blocking and tackling, and for strict enforcement by officials of the rules against spearing.
Said Notre Dame football coach Ara Parseghian: "I can't begin to tell of the number of clinics where I have lectured on the (spearing) problem. We don't teach this at Notre Dame; and over the years, I have done everything within my power to influence others to coach against it."
The AMA's Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports asked for sports authorities' comments when recent studies showed that head and neck injuries continue to constitute a very high percentage of serious injuries in football.
In the correct, head-up tackle, the player uses his shoulders, arms, and chest to stop the ball carrier. In a "spear" or "butt" tackle, he drives into his opponent with his head. By spearing, the tackler may prevent the ball carrier from advancing a few extra inches—if he tackles him. With his head down, however, he risks serious injury to his head and spinal cord, and he is more likely to miss the tackle because he has a harder time seeing where he's going.
Studies of fatalities indicate that football has a good safety record, considering that virtually a million players are involved each fall. It could be even better, however, if head and neck injuries could be reduced. In 1966, head and neck injuries were responsible for 23 of the 24 fatalities directly attributed to injuries in college and high school football.
Said Murray Warmath, football coach at the University of Minnesota: "Spearing will never disappear from the game until we quit coaching it and until we absolutely disallow its use on the part of our players."
"It isn't the first man who makes the tackle," Warmath said. "It's that second tackler. He puts his head down, closes his eyes, and piles into the man who's down with one intent, and that's to maim and cripple."
Joining the coaches in condemning spearing and in calling for correct, head-up blocking and tackling were Richard C. Schneider, M.D., an Ann Arbor, Mich., neurosurgeon and member of the AMA Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports; Donald B. Slocum, M.D., chairman of the AMA committee and orthopedic consultant to the University of Oregon football team; William E. Newell, executive secretary of the National Athletic Trainers Association and head athletic trainer at Purdue University; O. B. Murphy, M.D., University of Kentucky team physician and AMA representative to the NCAA Rules Committee; Carl Blythe, Ph.D., Chapel Hill, N.C., chairman of the NCAA committee on football safety and president of the American College of Sports Medicine; L. W. Combs, M.D., director of the Purdue University student health center and a leader in the Athletic Medicine Section of the American College Health Association, and Clifford B. Fagan, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

Educational TV For County Schools The Frederick County School system has joined the educational television network, WETA, channel 26, the assistant superintendent of schools said this week. Dr. C. Edward Hamilton said that Frederick County will be in a pilot program involving three elementary schools and one secondary school. He said he did not know which schools would be involved. There will be about 900 elementary students involved with a cost of one dollar per student, Hamilton said and added that new counties are usually given a reduced rate and are not charged the full dollar. "The schools already have the television and are now waiting for the delivery of antennae," Hamilton said. "We should be ready to start in the next few weeks." Frederick is the northern most county using the system which comes out of Washington, he said.

Writer Plans Series Of Articles Of Local Interest

By Wayne Chrismer

During some eight years of intensive research for a definitive history of Maryland's role in the Civil War, I have come upon much intriguing information about Emmitsburg and Emmitsburgians which I hope to put into a series of articles for the Chronicle.

My latest discovery is one which is so simple to prepare for publication that a delay till the others are ready seems unnecessary. It concerns the late Major Oliver Alexander Horner, whom some of the oldest present-day Emmitsburg old-timers should well remember. His Emmitsburg "monument", described below as "one of the finest bank buildings in Western Maryland" is known to all us now as the VFW building on the Square.

The book in which the piece was discovered is a limited edition of "Officers of the Army and Navy (Volunteer) Who Served in the Civil War". It was edited by Lt. Col. Wm. H. Powell, U.S.A., and published in Philadelphia in 1893. The book may be available at the college libraries but not likely in town, so that the following excerpt (as the Chronicle prints it) may be welcomed by students of local history.

Oddly, on the same day that the above book arrived in my library, I obtained another in which is recorded a history of the late Dr. John B. Brawner, which I hope also to prepare for the Chronicle, he being another interesting former citizen.

But also, as a consequence of hunting up Major Horner's military record, I came upon what appears to be an almost complete roster of other Emmitsburgians who served with him during the war. A "piece" on that shall follow later with the others contemplated. Here is the article on Major Horner:

"Major Oliver Alexander Horner has a Scotch-Irish ancestry. He was born near Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, June 10, 1841, being the eldest son of David W. and Susan Horner. Was educated in the public schools, and taught school in the winters of 1859-60. Taking a course in Eastman's Commercial College, Poughkeepsie, New York, he graduated August 9, 1861, master of accounts. "Major Horner enlisted in the war of the Rebellion as a private in Company C, Cole's Maryland Cavalry, at Emmitsburg, Md.,

Aug. 27, 1861; was made a corporal at organization of the company; promoted first sergeant June 10, 1862; second lieutenant Jan. 15, 1864; first lieutenant and adjutant April 20, 1864; major Feb. 1, 1865—the last promotion being for efficiency, bravery, and meritorious conduct, having the written approval of the field and line officers of the regiment.

"He served continuously with his regiment until the close of the war (except for brief periods being detailed for post, brigade, staff, and court-martial duties) along the Potomac and in the Shenandoah Valley, Department of West Virginia. Spent winter of 1861 along the Potomac, picketing fords and guarding telegraph lines from Frederick to Hancock, Md. Entered the Shenandoah Valley in Bank's campaign, March, 1862.

"In fight with Stuart's cavalry at Leesburg, Va., Sept. 2, 1862; siege and bombardment of Harper's Ferry, Sept. 3-14, being in the advance-guard with the cavalry that cut their way through the rebel lines night before the surrender, and assisting in the capture of Longstreet's ammunition train of ninety wagons, with the guard, near Williamsport, Md., Sept. 16, 1862; assisted in the capture of a portion of Stuart's cavalry at Hyattstown, Md., Oct. 11, 1862, when he was returning from his raid into the Cumberland Valley, Pa., and around McClellan's army; with Geary on reconnaissance to Winchester, Va., Dec. 2-6, 1862, fighting at Charlestown, Berryville, and Smithfield; spent winter of 1862 at Harper's Ferry, making frequent raids through Loudon, Jefferson, and Clarke counties, Va., after White and Mosby's guerillas; fight at Halltown, Va., Dec. 20, 1862, assisting in the capture of Captain Baylor, who fired upon a flag of truce at Harper's Ferry, 1861; fight at Fountaindale, Pa., June 28, 1863; at Harper's Ferry, July 4, 1863, assisting in destruction of the bridge across the Potomac; fight with Imboden at Charlestown and Rippon, Va., Oct. 18, 1863, having his horse shot; on fifteen-day raid up Shenandoah Valley, December, 1863; in the midnight attack from Mosby's guerillas at Loudon Heights, Va., Jan. 10, 1864; raid from Harper's Ferry via Winchester and Romney to Moorfield, Va., February, 1864; fight at Mechanicsville Gap; fight near Middletown, Md., July 6, 1864, where he was captured, but made his escape same day; fight at Hagers-town, July 29, 1864; Keedysville, Md., Aug. 5, 1864; with Sheridan's cavalry in Shenandoah Valley from Aug. 9 to 13, 1864; fighting at Berryville, Charlestown, and Summit Point; assisting in the retrograde movement from Strasburg to Potomac, destroying forage and driving live-stock from that region; spent winter of 1864 on the Upper Potomac, headquarters at Hedgesville, Va., guarding Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and telegraph lines from Harper's Ferry to Cumberland.

"He was mustered out of service at Harper's Ferry, Va., June 28, 1865.

"After the close of the war Major Horner engaged in mercantile business at Emmitsburg, Maryland, where he married Ann Margaret Grier, June 28, 1866, daughter of the late Rev. Robert S. Grier, by whom he had three children, his wife dying August 14, 1872, and his children at an early age. He was appointed postmaster at Emmitsburg, Maryland, March 11, 1869, and resigned April 15, 1877. Was then appointed United States storekeeper of customs at Baltimore August 24, 1877, serving in that capacity and as an inspector of customs until July, 1882.

"October 22, 1878, he married Anna E. Annan, daughter of Dr. Andrew Annan, of Emmitsburg, Maryland, by whom he has four children—Andrew Annan, Robert Lewis, Elizabeth Motter, and Oliver Alexander. In October, 1882, he organized the banking-house of Annan, Horner & Co., in Emmitsburg, Maryland, of which he is cashier and general manager, erecting in 1888 one of the finest bank buildings in Western Maryland, this institution being known as one of the most prosperous and reliable in that section of the State; was elected town commissioner of the corporation of Emmitsburg, 1872 and 1883.

"He is a director and treasurer of Emmitsburg Water Company. He has been commander of Arthur Post, No. 41, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Maryland, since its organization in December, 1887. He is known as one of the most earnest and active Republicans in Frederick County."

Major Horner's record of the activities of Cole's Cavalry is substantiated by other Civil War records—including his mention of the obscure and often forgotten 'fight' (generally referred to as a 'skirmish') at Fountaindale.

"The address was given by Rev. Francis Reinberger, Th.D., on 'The Role of the Church in the World Today.' He brought out in his sermon that the only power the church possesses is the power of the Holy Spirit and without that Holy Spirit the church is just another institution. It is the task of the church to preach the Word of God, perform the sacraments. The church of today has to learn to listen, learn to care and learn to share in order to carry out its role in the world today. A period of questions and answers followed the address.

Mrs. Edgar Hawker then welcomed the group to the assembly. Mr. Brohawn, director of the camp, gave some information on the program that the camp was carrying out. He told the group that the camp was in use most of the year. He said the only time it would not be in use until next August was between Christmas and New Years.

The representative from the Maryland Church Women was Mrs. Clifford Miller from Manchester. Mrs. Clarence Price from Baltimore, and a member of the executive board was also present.

After lunch there were several Creative Demonstrations given. Mrs. Damuth from Thurmont explained how to make chrismons and showed several samples that their Lutheran Church Women had made.

Mrs. Eugene Huffer explained the art of making Christmas cards from odds and ends or using new materials.

Mrs. Ruth Beall from Damascus had several Christmas arrangements that could be used in the church at Christmas. Mrs. Claude Barrick explained how to make an advent wreath. She showed the group how to make a small Christmas tree to use in the home or in the church. Mrs. Howard Fry showed several arrangements you could use for Christmas decorations.

Mrs. Howard Fry closed the assembly with a poem and the missionary benediction.

Before leaving Guyana she operated a charm school, and was a radio-television director.

Lutheran Women Hold Assembly

The fall assembly of the Lutheran Church Women of Frederick District was held Oct. 12 at the Lutheran camp, Mar-Lu Ridge, Jefferson, Md.

The ladies of the Manor parish were the hostesses. There were about 116 persons registered. Mrs. Howard Fry, chairman of Frederick District presided over the meeting.

The theme for the assembly was "Quo Vadis—Whither Goest Thou." Rev. Henry Schaefer, pastor of the Manor parish, led the devotions using his text James 1:22.

The address was given by Rev. Francis Reinberger, Th.D., on "The Role of the Church in the World Today." Green Thumb Tips

The common marigold may be useful in ridding soil and crops of nematodes, those tiny parasitic worms that often are the bane of the farmer's or gardener's existence. The United States Department of Agriculture found marigolds the best potential resistor of seven plants tested.

The idea, of course, is to starve out the nematodes. If marigolds are grown and resist the pests, then the next year the nematode population will have decreased and better crops can be grown.

The use of marigolds in this manner benefits the home gardener as much as or more than it does the farmer.

Do not handle vegetables any more than is necessary after harvesting them. Dropping may cause bruising which does not improve their quality. If it is necessary to put your produce into the refrigerator (and, of course, all vegetables will taste better if cooked or used raw immediately after picking), store them at temperatures slightly under 40 degrees F. and at a high humidity.

Such storage reduces shrinking by reducing the amount of moisture given off by the vegetables.

Planting a new lawn? Mid-August to mid-September is the best time in the entire year to do so. But be sure you don't plant seeds too thickly. There are over 2 million seeds to a pound of bluegrass and, if this much seed is distributed evenly over one thousand square feet of well-prepared ground, it will produce an excellent stand of grass.

Should you be exhibiting vegetables at a fair or flower show, remember that condition, uniformity, freedom from signs of pests and strict adherence to the show schedule all count.

Select the precise number of pieces called for in the schedule, as nearly the same size, shape and color as possible, with no signs of pest injury and in as perfect condition as your garden allows. Then arrange them on the plate provided so that each piece looks its best.

Cut strawflowers for drying when fully opened and fully colored. For more interesting arrangements cut also a few half-opened blooms and buds.

Senior Citizens Hear Sheriff

Tuesday evening, the Senior Citizens met for their monthly meeting at the Center with thirty-three members present. Clarence Frailey introduced the speaker for the evening, Sheriff Crummell Jacobs, who gave an enlightening talk on the work, joys and problems of the office of Sheriff in Frederick County. He outlined the most pressing problems as being, care for the drunks, the sell-outs, and the dogs.

From fifty to seventy habitual alcoholics at a time in the course of the days or week handled. He hopes, with help, to be able to rehabilitate some of them.

The sell-outs are another phase of the work which is sad. People who have had to have their property sold, gathered in a lifetime of hard work, compelled through the law to pay debts or fines, leaves them impoverished and broken.

Dogs, licensed or otherwise, cause much work and grief, due to the fact that they are either allowed to run free, fight or otherwise harass the public. The office has handled eight hundred dogs since June of this year.

The cost of merely feeding these offenders of the law is $12,000 per year. The office spends $78,000 per year in performing the duties incumbent upon it.

Help is needed and asked from everyone in the County, either as individuals or organizations.

The talk was highly edifying and interesting and revealed a really dedicated person in charge of the office of Sheriff of Frederick County. After a question and answer period, the committee, consisting of Mrs. A. L. Leary and Mrs. Carrie Fuss Long, served refreshments.

Plans for a bazaar to be held at the Center early in December are under way. Mrs. Elizabeth Nester is chairman of the committee, with Mrs. Mary Famous co-chairman. Watch for more information on the subject.

PTA Schedules A Count-In

Every child counts, with the PTA. That's the reason the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is planning a special "count-in" of their parents and teachers as schools reopen this fall.

"The PTA believes that every child must be provided with what he needs to grow up healthy, secure, well-educated and useful to his community," says Mrs. Irvin E. Hendryson, of Albuquerque, N. Mex., president of the National PTA.

"To help secure these rights

Every single child counts, with the PTA—a nationwide organization of volunteers concerned for children and for the parents and teachers who nurture and educate them.

for all children," she declares, "the PTA counts on every citizen to work at expanding the opportunities of all America's children.

Parent-teacher associations (PTA's), organized in the 50 states, the District of Columbia and schools for American dependents overseas, begin enrolling new members with the first PTA meeting of the school term and usually concentrate on membership enrollment during October.

This year, they will give particular attention to reaching parents in low-income areas.

One of the many valuable services any PTA provides, Mrs. Hendryson believes, is "the opportunity for parents and teachers to know each other in a social situation. They are the people most important in a child's world, and the child can't help benefiting from their friendly collaboration.

"In poor areas, especially," she notes, "this friendly relation between home and school is of particular value because it's where children most need help."

PTA's can work to improve educational opportunity, to protect dependent or delinquent children, to improve health care and to provide the leadership for vibrant community programs that will serve all children, Mrs. Hendryson points out.

Because every child counts with the PTA, its activities cover all the varied needs of children—for kindergartens, adequately financed schools, well-trained teachers, along with the proper nourishment, good health and favorable emotional climate in which to learn from them. "We need many members to cover such wide-ranging programs," says Mrs. Hendryson. "So our task this fall is to persuade every parent and every teacher that he too counts, with the PTA."

As PTA's start their "count-ins" this fall, Mrs. Hendryson is urging them to demonstrate that "PTA is where the action is."

She has suggested, for example, that local units take the lead in sponsoring "cultural happenings" for youngsters. Some branches of the National PTA, she notes, have developed art mobiles, comparable to the popular bookmobiles, which bring traveling exhibits of painting and sculpture to school children in remote areas. Other PTA's regularly sponsor musical concerts or provide tickets for theatrical productions to children who would not otherwise attend them.

"With something as simple as a folk festival," says the PTA's national president, "we can do much to enrich the lives of children."
