BY ABIGAIL

Vandalism I must say, was kept to a minimum here during the past week and even the "big night" Tuesday, little if any, trouble occurred. The firemen were called into action three times but then that is sort of expected on a night like this. Two of the fires were of a trivial nature, a brush fire and a playhouse in a tree were easily snuffed out. However, a fire which could have been of a serious nature, was quickly brought under control by the firemen, assisted by the Thurmont Fire Co. This was the old Sanders barn, the site of many fires in the past. The barn, unused for years and in a dilapidated condition, is the target of pranksters almost every year. As a matter of fact there are a number of such old buildings in the alleys which should really be condemned by the authorities and razed. Once blazing intensely they could possibly spread fire to nearby valuable property and homes. Other than the fires, the evening was relatively mild. So busy were the children tricking and treating that many forgot to enter the parade and as the result the affair was perhaps the smallest in a number of years. There were several interesting exhibits in the parade and on the whole, was a nice little affair, one that we should keep repeating every year. Perhaps a little more prize money would draw more participants?

The battle between the "doves" and the "hawks" continues at an accelerated pace. Most of you are aware that the doves represent anti-Vietnam sentiment while the hawks are those who think the Administration is doing what is right over there. Possibly the most brazen and insulting action on the part of the anti-Vietnam war group happened in Baltimore this week when a group entered the draft board and poured human blood on the records of servicemen, obliterating many of them. This to me is the ultimate in extremism and those who perpetrated this action should be punished in the same manner as a common vandal who would sneak into a courthouse and destroy valuable public records, regardless of their professional life, be they lay or clergy. Men of their stature and education really should know better. These dissidents of society are going far off the beam and it seems apparent that "anything" goes anymore. This week in San Francisco these dissidents managed to get the Vietnam issue on a referendum ballot. Now the enemy will no doubt nurture the idea that all Americans are sheep and want no part of the war and will fight harder to whale the tar out of our fighting men over there. I was glad to read this week that veterans' organizations in this county are taking action to let their fighting constituents in Vietnam know that the vast majority of American citizens is behind them 100%. This should offset some of the harm done by the draft dodgers, card burners, glue sniffers, marijuana smokers, long hairs and hippies and bearded college professors who have gone all out to drag down the morality and morale of this country and give aid and succor to the enemy.

Space Display At Mount

The scientific research section of the Mount Saint Mary's College Library will have on exhibit in the library foyer a special display of photographs and two published volumes of the National Aeronautics and Space Program (NASA) which were presented as a gift to the college by James E. Webb, NASA administrator. The exhibit will include the volume: "Earth Photographs from Gemini III, IV, and V," NASA SP-129, 1967; and volume "Ranger VIII Photographs of the Moon," NASA SP-111, 1966. Nearly 100 copies of photographs from Mariners 4 & 5, Ranger 9, and Surveyor 5 are also among the collection to be displayed. The display will be open to the public from Monday to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon; and Sunday from 6 to 10 p.m.

Mount President Says College Will Go Forward

Rt. Rev. Hugh J. Phillips, recently elected president of Mount Saint Mary's College, announced to the National Alumni Assn. of the college that the new administration will continue the forward thrust started by Rt. Rev. Robert R. Kline, his predecessor. He said that Mount Saint Mary's was "an old college, a new college, and an ever developing college in a modern world" but will remain a "Catholic college."

He said that the present plans call for the growth of the student body to approximately 1,000 students so that in the words of Cardinal Newman, we will not become "a foundry, or mint or a treadmill."

Following the mandates of Vatican II there will be studies for greater coordination of facilities with other institutions, primarily St. Joseph College of Emmitsburg. An that the present participation in the college's administration by laymen will be continued and expanded as the Church Fathers have asked.

A program of excellence in faculty and facilities will be sought. The expansion of the college's fine arts program is currently under study with a plan for the erection of an adequate facility for such a program.

Also following the directives of Vatican II, the college chapel will undergo the necessary changes to meet the changes in the Church's liturgy and a close cooperation with the Mount Seminary in these matters will be followed, he said. He concluded by stating that "Mount Saint Mary's is a Catholic College and we will strive to achieve the spirit suggested to us by the Fathers of the Second Vatican Council . . . as a loyal institution of Holy Mother, the Church."

GRAHAM-EYSTER

Miss Nancy Shriver Eyster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew R. Eyster, Emmitsburg, and Richard Joseph Graham, son of Lt. Commander and Mrs. O. G. Graham of Rockville, were united in marriage at St. Anthony's Shrine, Emmitsburg, at 7:00 o'clock on October 20.

The Rev. James J. Reddy of Rockville, performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Louis Rosensteel, was the organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length heavy silk gown with matching accessories.

Mrs. Sue Crist, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gold silk gown with matching accessories.

Robert Graham, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Al Years, Bethesda, and Chris Graham, Rockville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Chandy Hill Farm, home of the bride.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Graham are attending the University of Maryland. They will reside in Riverdale, Md.

Elected Sheriff

Needed For County

Law enforcement and police work in Frederick County should be controlled by "an elected man—the people's choice," Sheriff Crumwell P. Jacobs said this week.

Jacobs, discussing the proposed elimination of the office of sheriff in Maryland's new constitution, said he feels the county should be required in the constitution to elect a sheriff.

"I would not want to say a county police force wouldn't be nice, if we had one," he said, "but I believe a police force should be controlled by an elected man—the sheriff."

He also said the duties of the office should be expanded, and called for the addition of a man to do criminal investigation in cooperation with city and state police.

The Constitutional Convention's committee studying the judicial branch of state government has voted to omit any reference to the office of sheriff in the new constitution. However, the committee agreed to place on the books a law which would permit each county to decide for itself whether the office is necessary, and whether the sheriff should be elected or appointed.

To Undergo Surgery

Mr. J. Alan Gelwicks plans to undergo surgery within the next two weeks at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg. Admitted to the hospital this week, Mr. Gelwicks was returned to his home to await surgery at the later date.

The explanation for big graft is the number of people willing to accept little graft.

Halloween Parade Draws Large Crowd

The vanguard of the Halloween Parade is shown above. Led by the American Legion Color Guard, the Municipal Band is visible next in line, disguised in costume. The parade was held Tuesday evening and drew a large crowd although the participation was somewhat smaller than in previous years.

Over 200 Church Dignitaries Plan Washington Meeting

Cardinal Lawrence J. Shehan of Baltimore will participate when two meetings of direct consequence in the daily lives of a quarter of the U. S. population will be held in Washington Nov. 13-17.

Over 200 Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops will attend the autumn meetings of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and of its secretariat, the United States Catholic Conference. Both will be held in the Hotel America in Washington where the executive boards of the bodies will meet starting Nov. 11 to complete the final agendas.

The Bishops will continue their task of coping with a multitude of practical problems in the lives of 47 million U. S. Catholics arising out of the religious and cultural changes launched by the Vatican Council. They also will come to grips with challenges presented to a largely urban-based church by tensions within metropolitan centers.

Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit, of the Bishops' organization, will be chairman.

Preliminary work for the meetings has been done in a series of studies and conferences. An audit of the state of the reports to be made was completed at a meeting of the administrative bodies of the two conferences in Washington last Sept. 11-12.

Many of the past actions of the Conferences, such as relaxation of the Friday abstinence from meat and use of English in the Mass, have had direct results in the everyday lives of American Catholics. Others, such as the Bishops' declarations on race relations and on peace, have involved all Americans interested in moral insights on the nation's current problems.

Bus Line Observes 35th Anniversary

The Wolf Bus Lines of York Springs and Emmitsburg, Friday night marked its 35th anniversary with a dinner at the York Springs Fire Hall for the company's 25 employees and their ladies and other guests.

Paul Wolf, president, said that the first "bus" trip of his organization was made in 1932 when the Wolf family secured a nine-passenger Pierce Arrow car and started transporting school children to the Blackberry and Harbold Schools and to the York Springs High School.

Last summer the company made its longest trip, an 11,125-mile tour across the United States, into Canada and Alaska. William Gregory, York Haven, driver, gave an illustrated talk on that trip.

Merle Miller introduced the "northern division" employees, representing those working out of the York Springs garage while Kenneth Gumm introduced the members of the "southern division," the employees of the former Rosensteel Bus Lines of Emmitsburg which Wolf purchased this year. Robert Smith and Harold Sanders were unable to attend the party because of unexpected trips at the last minute.

Rev. Amos Meyers, supervising principal of the Bermudian Springs School System, gave the invocation.

What the human race does not know about food and its relation to good health would fill several books.

Airman Deplores Public Apathy

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

A few months ago, a friend and myself were leisurely walking down a moderately active street in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, when as we turned a corner we saw approximately twenty people gathered around watching something. As we came closer we saw that what they were viewing was a fight, or more appropriately, a "mugging". One middle-aged man was being brutally beaten by three men in their late teens or early twenties. Their victim was crying for help, but none of the crowd budged an inch to help him or to get a policeman. My friend and I "went in swinging", and soon sent the three assailants scampering. We were thanked by the badly beaten man, a policeman, the driver of the ambulance who was summoned to the scene, and a few of the by-standers. The thing that really disgusted us was the statement made by a few of them: "Isn't it horrible what goes on today!"

All of this brings me to the point of this letter. Too often we hear people say that the United States is ripping at the seams, or that something should be done about the anti-war demonstrations, or etc., but these same people refuse to do anything about it. Why is it that a fraction of a per cent of our population can protest the war, and yet be heard far above the majority? Simply because too many people refuse to get involved.

So the next time you get the urge to say something like, "Why don't they do something about those Draftcard burners?" ask yourself this question, "What have I done to help?"

Sincerely,
 Sgt. Robert J. Ulrich
 Clinton-Sherman AFB, Okla.

Vets' Group Will Oppose Anti-Viets

A new veterans organization has been formed in Frederick County to give support to U. S. servicemen in Vietnam.

The group, known as the Frederick County Veterans Association, is the first organization of its kind in Maryland, according to Harvey Showe, president. "Our purpose is to uphold the Constitution and the laws of the United States," Showe said, "and to provide for our servicemen in Vietnam or wherever men from Frederick County are fighting in a war."

"We hope to have at least 2,000 members by next July, and we hope to be able to send packages regularly to every serviceman from Frederick County who is serving in Vietnam. There are almost 200 men from this county who are fighting in the war there, and many of them would like to receive something from the folks back home just to let them know they're not forgotten."

Showe said the officers of the organization in addition to himself, are: vice presidents, Mehr Murphy, Wesley Furr, and Chief Obie Stultz, Navy recruiter; secretary, Howard Murphy; treasurer, David Baker. In addition, he said, each veterans organization in the county has been asked to appoint one member to a constitution and by-laws committee, and all the military recruiters will serve as an advisory staff.

Sixes Dam Gets Federal Group's Strong Backing

The proposed Sixes Bridge Dam on the Monocacy River received more government backing this week from a federal task force studying water pollution.

Previously, most reference to the dam concerned flood control and recreation, but now the government is proposing its construction also for pollution control.

The special task force recommended building the dam along with four other additional reservoir projects.

The other reservoirs would be located on rivers at Chambersburg, Pa.; Staunton, Va., and two on the North Branch of the Potomac River in Maryland.

The task force says the reservoirs would help meet demands for pure water through the year 2010.

President Johnson directed the study to help make the Potomac River a model of river conservation. The task force is to submit its final report later this year.

Legislation to authorize construction of the dam, which has been urged by virtually every official agency in the area and in the state government, was introduced in the Senate by Senators Daniel Brewster and Joseph Tydings.

The main reason for construction of the $15.5 million dam has been the need for an increase in the dependable flow of the Monocacy River to avert a possible water shortage in the next decade.

The dam, to be located on the Monocacy River, downstream from Sixes Bridge along the Frederick-Carroll County line near Emmitsburg, was originally recommended by the Army Corps of Engineers in 1963.

Fairfield School Plans Open House

Open House will be held at the Fairfield Joint School as part of a national observance of Education Week from Monday, Nov. 6, through Friday, Nov. 10. An invitation has been extended to parents of the student body by James Small, President of the Fairfield PTA, to visit their children in the classrooms during school hours throughout the week.

During an interview with Mr. Small, he pointed out that parental indifference is inevitably reflected in a student's academic performance. He said, "The open house offers parents an excellent opportunity to manifest their interest in their child's progress, to observe him in his scholastic environment, to become acquainted with his teachers and classmates, and to achieve a broader perspective of the school's function in the child's total educational development."

Fairfield's faculty will be on hand for personal interviews from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday evening.

Mr. Small also announced that there will be a brief business meeting of the PTA at 8 p.m., Monday, and extended an invitation to all parents to attend.

C.; Mrs. Knipple's mother, Mrs. Ella B. Hughes and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newcomer and son, David, Owings Mills, and Miss Colleen Kennel, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mort, Emmitsburg.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Babson's Point Of View On: Indebtedness—A Status Symbol?
 BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 2—A surprisingly large cross-section of citizens today are living—and even planning futures that will be — permanently in debt. Credit men who study this phenomenon claim that many of these families are only two to four weekly pay envelopes ahead of total insolvency. Consider the state of our consumer economy if a recession should suddenly plunge these people into a swamp of unemployment!
Old-Hat To Be Thrifty
 Like the federal government, numbers of men and women have adopted the concept of perpetual personal indebtedness with their creditors holding an endless lien on their future income. Millions of our people replace their cars every year or two, trading in the old for the new while still paying for the old. They count their auto bills as just as regular and basic a monthly responsibility as their rent or grocery bills. Owning a car and putting money away every payday toward another has become old-hat to more and more buyers.

 Another such development is the tendency of a great many families never actually to own their homes. When they have built up some equity, they re-mortgage and use the money for new cars, boats, luxury vacations, or even to pay off outstanding debts so they can take on more. In this latter regard, loan companies declare that by far the greatest number of applications coming to their desks today are from those who want to consolidate their debts. Some offices report that 75% of their loans are for renewal or enlargement of existing accounts.
Many Who Could Pay, Don't
 Time was when a luxury was what you couldn't afford unless you saved up for it by consistently putting something aside until you had enough to splurge. Today, however, the standard of living has climbed to such a high level that "luxuries" are now "necessities" which borrowers refuse to give up in order to settle their bills. There are lots of smart cookies who see to it that they pay their installments on larger items such as cars, TV sets, pianos, refrigerators, and anything else that might be repossessed if they fell behind.

 But they will hold out—forever if possible—on bills they owe the doctor, the grocer, the dentist, the department store, or the druggist. Such unsecured creditors suffer especially heavily if the matter comes to personal bankruptcy proceedings. Somewhat of a paradox is the ease with which most purveyors of goods and services grant credit. Many of them virtually beg potential customers to become their creditors . . . far too often requiring no security and conducting only nominal credit investigations.
Bankruptcy A Way Out For Delinquents
 Fifty years ago bankruptcy was "the last resort" for business concerns unable to make the grade financially. But today it is almost a way of life for a good many individual consumers. Out of a record-breaking 208,329 bankruptcies filed in fiscal 1967 (ended June 30), close to 175,000 were petitions from wage and salary workers seeking to get rid of their debts by way of the courts.
 Case analyses reveal that almost half of such employee bankrupts could—if they had the courage and integrity to try—pay off their debts in two or three years, and without plunging their families or themselves into undue hardship. Perhaps even more revealing are the statistics which show that four out of five of those delinquent debtors will be right back in the same financial scrape within three years.
 One thing is certain: With this tendency gaining strength among the country's consumers, credit security must be tightened and requirements must be increased rather than eased; and consumers must practice at least reasonable regulation of their urge to overextend. A lax company can lose its shirt if it takes on its debtor lists too many questionable risks; and a compulsive, irresponsible buyer will prove to be a liability—rather than an asset—to himself and the economy.

TOWN: The Lost Country (On Revisiting a County Gone Great and Big)
 The sky is mourning in white
 Over the silenced songs of birds,
 And the golden yellow of ripened wheat
 Lost ever on lips of long-dead bards.
 Wherever memory stores old lore
 Here time will keep sepulchred gems,
 And when the dim past fades, its lure
 New memory exhumes from buried rimes:
 Here grew forgotten greener beds
 Across the years richly toiled
 (Who did not see the summer buds
 After the autumn soil was tilled?)
 November-sown in fall amber
 Here once was Spring's leaping green;
 Forgotten in Winter's dying amber
 But in the heart remembrance-grown.

Colorado Autumn Beckons Vacationers

The towering peaks of Colorado's Maroon Bells make this area, near the famous resort town of Aspen, one of the state's most popular camping sites.

Colorado — the year-round playground at the top of the nation—dons her most colorful finery during that delightful period in October known as "Indian Summer". Many seasoned Colorado vacationers say that fall is the best of all to enjoy this Rocky Mountain wonderland, named literally for its colorful terrain.
 Following the first high country visit of frost in early October, visitors will find brilliant reds, yellows, golds and oranges splashed on the high mountainsides and flowing into the emerald valleys of spruce and pine as the oak, aspen, cottonwood and willow exchange summer greens for warm autumn hues.
 To help autumn vacationers enjoy their respite to the fullest, many Colorado mountain communities have scheduled aspenades, color caravans and jeep tours to the most dramatically photoscenic high areas. Colorado's scenic beauty is just one of the reasons why travelers-in-the-know sling their cameras over their shoulders when making the Colorado scene.

 Colorado has long been known as a hunter's paradise. Nearly 100,000 deer, 15,000 elk and 550 black bear are hauled home as trophies during big game season, which usually opens in late October. Small game and Colorado's famed fighting trout are also plentiful during this colorful season. Activities also include hiking, camping, sightseeing and golfing. Rodeos, horse shows, museum tours, barbecues, harvest festivals, trail rides and picnics help complete the entertainment agenda for people who plan to take an autumn vacation in "Colorful Colorado."

Former Resident Recalls Texas Hurricane

HARLINGEN, Texas -- The events of the two weeks during which the Rio Grande Valley of Texas staggered under the combined blows of Hurricane Beulah and subsequent flooding will long be remembered by Cadet John M. Baker, Jr., formerly of Emmitsburg, who is now attending the Marine Military Academy in Harlingen.

daylight came, the winds were already over 80 miles an hour and we could look out and see trees that had split and fallen and there was all kinds of debris that had blown in. One of the air-cooling cupolas on a barracks blew off and that was quite a sight. It weighed several hundred pounds but it bounced like a rubber ball." Classes were cancelled for the day and the noon meal was brought from the Mess Hall in busses. "We had driven to the mess hall for breakfast," the cadet said. "But by noon, the wind was over 100 miles an hour, and it was dangerous." The Academy lost electrical power and telephone service. The eye of the hurricane passed directly over Harlingen soon after mid-day, and the eye calm lasted for more than an hour.

The winds and rain continued into the night, but the force of the storm gradually slackened, and classes were resumed the next day. "Some of our buildings had lost part of their roofs," the cadet said. "And there was a lot of water damage. After classes and whenever there was free time, we helped clear up the mess. We only lost one Royal Palm tree, but the other trees were hard hit and branches and palm fronds were all over the place." Then began the warnings of the impending floods following the torrential rains. "The reports of the floods didn't bother us much at first," Cadet Baker said. "We were still busy cleaning up. The Drum and Bugle Corps and Color Guard had been invited to the Navy - Rice football game in Houston the next weekend, to take part in half-time activities, and we were practicing every day for that. The Red Cross was shipping in supplies for the hurricane refugees and we were helping the chaplain unload and sort the food and clothing. The emergency headquarters of rescue operations were located within a few hundred feet of our mess hall, and we could watch Chinook and Sikorsky helicopters, including Coast Guard bright orange ones, and all sizes of airplanes, and Army LARC's and other military equipment and personnel. We felt we were right in the middle of things." "However," the cadet added, "the closer the flood came, and the more I heard of the dangers, I began to worry a little more than most of the cadets. Our new home was not very far from the Arroyo Colorado -- and sure enough, our house was one of the first to be flooded. By Monday night, my folks were refugees, too." Not only was Harlingen threatened with flooding from the south, but it was isolated from the rest of the state by floods to the north, cutting the highways leading out of the area. "It began to look like we wouldn't get to make our trip to Houston, after all," Cadet Baker said. "We had really been looking forward to it, not only because we would be part of the half-time show at a college game, but we would get to see Navy play. We had worked hard on getting ourselves ready, and the trip would be fun and something different."

rehearsal with the Rice Band at 5 p.m. "People couldn't believe that we had come from Harlingen that day," the cadet said. "News reports were still full of the flood damage to the Valley and the highways were still officially closed to traffic. But we made it and we put on a good show. Navy lost the game but enjoyed it, just the same." After the game that night, the cadets made the long trip back to the Academy, arriving in time for breakfast on Sunday morning. "We lost all interest in floods and emergencies," Cadet Baker said. "We slept most of the way back, but I don't think Chaplain Haffner and Sgt. Juarez got much sleep." Life is back to usual at the Marine-oriented military prep school, with grades and inspections, spit-polished shoes and gleaming brass the main topics of conversation, but it will be a long time before the events of Hurricane Beulah will be forgotten and its scars erased.

A call went out from mood control emergency headquarters in Harlingen for volunteers to help fill and place sandbags in the threatened areas. The cadets eagerly volunteered and the Academy sent contingents of them, after classes and under staff supervision, to the sandbagging headquarters. The crest of the flood finally passed and on Thursday, the residents in those parts of town under water watched the slowly receding muddy mess and dreaded to see the results. The Bakers joined many other families who were heart-sick at the damage that had been done to their homes. "On Friday," Cadet Baker continued, "The Drum and Bugle Corps and Color Guard was notified that our chartered bus might get through to Houston, if we took it slow and easy, so we began to get ready for the trip." Accompanied by the bandmaster of the Academy, Chaplain Edw. J. Haffner, and Gunnery Sergeant Naun Juarez, USMC (Ret.), staff member, the 30-man group set out early Saturday morning for the 350-mile trip. "It was quite a drive," Cadet Baker said. "Most of the highway was clear, but when it was under water, it was like driving through a sea. Chaplain Haffner and Sgt. Juarez would get out and walk ahead of the bus in water to sound out the way for us. We were never in actual danger, but it certainly was interesting!" They reached Houston just a few minutes before the scheduled

Walls of Granite, Limestone Hills Are Backdrop for President's Country

PRESIDENTIAL BIRTHPLACE—Nestled under the umbrella limbs of a giant oak tree is the modest white home where Lyndon B. Johnson was born. The house has been reconstructed and is open to the public. It is about a half mile from the LBJ ranch.

The Texas Hill Country, marked by the brand of LBJ, is a land that's as ruggedly independent as the man who traded the Pedernales for the Potomac, and a ranch house for a White House. This is the President's country, and it is eminently photographable. Time, sweat and the water of a thousand springs carved communities out of a fertile valley surrounded by the cedar-topped walls of granite and limestone hills. It's a land where German immigrants traveled and settled, searching for a new home in a foreign place and adding a touch of Bavaria to the heart of Texas. It's a proud land, leaving an daughter beneath the house while marauding Indians ransacked and looted her home. A diaper, tied around the child's mouth, kept her from crying out. Only four blocks away is the white Victorian frame house where Johnson spent his boyhood days. More than 50,000 visit the home every year, stepping past a garden of wild flowers and onto the east porch where the aspiring politician made his first speech in his first campaign for national office. Inside the home, open daily from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., walls are lined with the keepsakes of the man who left a ranching country to follow his father's footprints down a political trail. And like his father, he was a winner. There is the chair used by Johnson when he served as Senate Majority Leader—and his Silver Star, awarded after a World War II combat flight. On the wall hangs a strangely prophetic class motto from an invitation to the 15-year-old's 1924 graduation: "Give the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you." Down U.S. Highway 290, 16 miles west of Johnson City, lies the small community of Stonewall, gateway to the most famous ranch in the state. Ranch Road 1, branching off the highway beside the gingerbread post office at Hye, rambles along the Pedernales through the LBJ State Park. Ahead lies the LBJ ranch. Herds of white-tail deer, longhorn cattle and the stately buffalo graze near the roadway. Across the river is the ranch house—known more widely as the Texas White House. Travelers can stand on Johnson soil and photograph the home from behind a shaded fence. The road is closed for security measures only when the President is at home. A half-mile away, in a small wooden house, Johnson was born. The birthplace, opened this summer, drew 2,225 visitors during the first 16 hours it was unlocked. Of particular interest in the little white house is the rolling pin which, perhaps, helped name the President. For several days after the lad was born, his parents hadn't selected a name. One morning, the baby's mother told her husband, "I'm not getting out of bed to roll out your biscuits until you decide what to call your son." Sam Ealy Johnson liked his biscuits. And before the morning, Lyndon Baines Johnson had a name.

Russia's Puppet War—Vietnam

The Soviet war-makers, using North Vietnam as a puppet, are bleeding America of its best manhood and other unexpedient resources. They will not permit Ho Chi Minh to accept any "deal" with the United States short of withdrawal of our military forces and the acceptance of the Communist "National Liberation Front" as the "voice" of the people of South Vietnam. The present conflict, with its heavy drain upon America "without loss of a single Russian soldier," suits perfectly the Soviet's plan for world conquest. It is but an episode in the Soviet strategy of small "wars of liberation."

After Vietnam would come, on the Soviet blueprint for conquest, one or even several "wars of liberation" in selected Latin American nations. Pravda, the official Soviet newspaper published in Moscow, in explaining the policy of "co-existence" to satellite Communist parties throughout the world, said last December: The policy of co-existence increases the "opportunities for development of the class struggle through liberation wars." That's plain enough!

Part Of World Conflict
The Soviet boss of the Tri-continental conference in Havana, which brought together Communist strategy planners from 83 nations, said essentially the same thing. And in October, the United Press International (UPI) reported from London that the Wilson government, trying to arrange for negotiations between Ho Chi Minh and President Johnson, had found the Red bosses flatly refusing to make "any commitments" regardless of whether the U. S. halts its bombing.

Ho Chi Minh is a part of the Moscow Communist international. Originally named Nguyen Ai Quoc, Ho was brought into Moscow from the French Communist Party in 1925 and after thorough training became the Comintern's official agent for the Far East. He had been born in Vietnam and thus the Comintern used his organizational talents and Communist zeal to consolidate three squabbling Marxist groups into the nationwide revolutionary Indochina Communist Party. Ho Chi Minh's basic tie always has been with the Kremlin (not with China's Mao). He has been everlastingly responsive to Moscow directives. Without direction, war supplies, guns, mortars, planes, trucks, missiles, and thousands of Russian technicians and technicians in North Vietnam, Ho's ability to wage war upon South Vietnam and American forces there would be nil.

Appeasement Expected
James Cameron, the British journalist, who was permitted to travel freely about North Vietnam because of the "non-belligerency" of Socialist Britain, said in an interview that the war being waged against U. S. forces in South Vietnam was directed and controlled by Soviet Communists — not Chinese Communism. Cameron said that Russians "are running the war," that Russian military officers and personnel are in North Vietnam in sufficient force to dominate the military scene. He said the Chinese were not an observable force in the running of the war. Cameron said the top political and military command in Vietnam, as well as the top strategists in the Kremlin, were counting on being appeased, or making a "deal" which would lead to victory. He likened what is going on now between the so-called "free world" and World Communism to the events in the Hitler era, recalling how Hitler's appetite for expansion had been fed with appeasement until he felt he could bluff his way to ultimate victory over all. Cameron said he felt the Vietnam war had reached the point at which the U. S. either had to win, with a different military strategy from that being employed, or get out and give the victory to World Communism.

More Russian Guns

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, on September 25, announced in Moscow a redoubling of shipments of war armaments to North Vietnam, vowing to keep expanding the flow until "the bloody, brutal war" is stopped by the Americans. North Vietnam's Prime Minister Pham Van Dong, standing by Kosygin's side, said: "We will defeat the Americans with Soviet weapons." The U. S. News & World Report said in October that the Soviet "advisors" in North Vietnam included "3,000 to 4,000" especially sent to handle the Soviet surface-to-air SAM missiles which have been so deadly to U. S. fighters.

An examination if these and other painfully visible facts ought to jolt our leaders in Washington into a recognition that "building bridges" to Soviet Red leaders is a futile and dangerous ploy and that the big enemy of America, pulling the strings wherever trouble exists, is international Communism headquartered in Moscow. Since it is on the march to conquer the world, it must be defeated—in Moscow, in Vietnam.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Name Calling

Disgruntled racing fans have frequently mixed their zoological metaphors when referring to the horse of their choice as a "pig" a "goat" or a "dog." It took a scholarly fan with a flare for etymology to hail his also-ran as an "Equinox" which did not infer a relationship to Equipoise (a champion of the early 1930's) but meant a horse that ran like an ox. By the same token Equipoise might mean what Braulio Baeza has when in the saddle.

Whatever he may be called when he "dwells" at the post, runs out, sulks, or otherwise fails to win, a Thoroughbred is not officially a horse nor a mare until the age of 5. At birth they are called foals or, to be specific, colt foals or filly foals. On January 1 following their foaling they become yearlings. On the following January 1 they are 2-year-olds and eligible to race. Both colts and fillies are maidens until they win their first race.

The breeding farm too has certain strict terminology. The paternal side of a horse's pedigree is the sire line; the maternal side is the family. The collective offspring of a stallion is referred to as his get; a broodmare's sons and daughters are her produce. A horse's paternal parent is his sire; his mother is his dam.

Familiarity with the above terms will of course be of no aid to the amateur handicapper, but could come in handy during the course of a cross-word puzzle.

Constitutional Convention Report

By Gene P. Ward
Many of the major, controversial issues before the Constitutional Convention were voted upon in committees last week. The votes indicated that the final decision on these issues will be made later by the entire convention, because the losing viewpoint in committee indicated strong support which will result in minority reports placed before the convention.

At a morning session the votes were tied 10 to 10 on the question of whether or not to continue these offices in the Constitution. At the afternoon session of the committee a Baltimore City delegate, Charney Harris, switched his vote to the side which held the view that the offices should not be included in the Constitution as elective offices. This resulted in a series of three votes, 11 to 9, that the Attorney General and Comptroller not be included in the Constitution as elective officials and the Board of Public Works be omitted from the Constitution.

The committee voted to authorize the legislature to provide for persons to vote in Presidential elections who have recently moved from or to the State.

The committee voted to authorize the legislature to provide for persons to vote in Presidential elections who have recently moved from or to the State.

Organized propaganda groups were referred, by an 86 to 42 vote, are not interested in the truth and the quicker the average American realizes this the better for the nation.

LIGHT OF ALL NATIONS "A Constant Work of A LIVING GOD"

Outwardly, Christ's Church has all the appearance of a purely human organization.

Flesh-and-blood people administer its affairs, promulgate its teachings, dispense its Sacraments. Its places of worship are built of brick and stone and steel. Even in the holiest of its Sacraments, the Eucharist, use is made of such visible objects as bread and wine; and in baptism, the most abundant and commonly used substance, water.

But along with its visible nature is the profound and awesome truth that the Church is the Mystical Body of Christ... the invisible but nonetheless certain presence of the Holy Spirit in the world of men... the divinely-instituted means through which we may find unity with God.

In its Dogmatic Constitution on the Church, the Second Vatican Council explains both the human aspects and the divine mystery of the Church. "This," the document says, "is the measure of the love of God, the Holy Spirit—that He continues to extend the work of Christ in mankind among men taken from mankind; that He continually renews the Church as Christ's extension; that He will bring her perfected into final union with the Blessed Trinity."

Councils held in earlier centuries addressed themselves primarily to members of the Church. The Second Vatican Council... emphasized the Church as "The Light of All Nations" and described its teaching and application of the Gospel as "worthy of the thought of any man of goodwill."

It is in this spirit of Ecumenical good-will that we offer you a free pocket-size pamphlet entitled "Light of All Nations." It will give you a clear and comforting picture of the Church as God's own instrument for the enlightenment of your spiritual life and the very salvation of your immortal soul.

It includes such topics as the Mystery of the Church, the People of God, the Hierarchical Structure of the Church, the Laity, the Call to Holiness, Pilgrim Church and Heavenly Church, and the Role of the Blessed Virgin.

Write today... ask for Pamphlet No. KC-1. It will be sent promptly and without obligation. And nobody will call on you.

Attorney General And Comptroller
The closest votes were in the Committee on Executive Branch as it considered the subject of the Attorney General, Comptroller, and the Board of Public Works.

At a morning session the votes were tied 10 to 10 on the question of whether or not to continue these offices in the Constitution. At the afternoon session of the committee a Baltimore City delegate, Charney Harris, switched his vote to the side which held the view that the offices should not be included in the Constitution as elective offices. This resulted in a series of three votes, 11 to 9, that the Attorney General and Comptroller not be included in the Constitution as elective officials and the Board of Public Works be omitted from the Constitution.

Legislature
The Committee on the Legislative Branch is in the process of voting its recommendations on the details of the Maryland legislature.

The vote to have a unicameral legislature was defeated 14 to 4. A subsequent vote to continue a two-house legislature carried 13 to 5. In a surprise move the committee voted 10 to 8 to change the name of the House of Delegates to the House of Representatives. Two delegates were absent during the series of voting. A reconsideration of the name change the next morning resulted in a 10 to 10 tie.

The committee was sharply divided on the question of the size of the legislature. A motion to reduce the number of legislators in the Senate to 40 and in the House to 80 failed by only one vote. After five proposals were voted down, a revote on a Senate with a maximum of 35 members and a House with a maximum of 105 members resulted in an 11 to 7 majority. A later vote with all members present showed a 15 to 5 vote. The exact number of the members would be set by law, and the committee voted 13 to 4 that the ratio of the number in the House to the number in the Senate shall be 3 to 1. Under this setup the Maryland legislature would be reduced by at least 45 members as the House now has 142 and the Senate 43 members.

Then in a series of votes a majority of committee members voted that each member of the General Assembly shall have his own district with three House districts comprising one Senatorial district.

The subject of districts will probably become one of the most controversial aspects of the convention. Proponents of the districting idea adopted by the committee say that it will lessen "gerrymandering" when lines are redrawn for reapportionment. Opponents of the proposal are wondering how it can be made to work in practice when county lines are considered. They foresee numerous crossing of county lines in the drawing of districts in order to comply with the rule.

The committee voted that a candidate for the House or Senate must have resided in his Senatorial district for at least six months prior to election.

A proviso permitting some leniency in the residency requirement in an election within one year of redrawing district lines was also included.

A committee voted to require signatures equal to five per cent of the number who voted for Governor in the preceding election in order to place a bill on referendum. The present Constitution requires three per cent, and the change represents an increase from 28,000 to 45,000 signatures, using the most recent election figures. The committee also voted that alcoholic beverages laws would be subject to referendum. (The present Constitution prohibits referendum on liquor laws.) Redistricting and reapportionment bills were exempted from referendum by the committee, also a change from the present Constitution.

Voting
The same committee (Suffrage and Elections) voted to make it possible for persons to vote in Presidential elections who heretofore lacked State residency re-

College Students Eligible For Exams
Edna M. Conlin, Director of Counseling and Placement, recently announced that St. Joseph College seniors will have an opportunity to compete in the Federal Service Examination when it is administered on campus. November 18.
During the past twelve years, more than 93,000 young men and women have used the Examination as a pathway to careers in Government. Over 6,500 recent college graduates were hired through the Entrance Examination during the six month period from January through June 1967 alone.

The test was designed with the college student in mind. It covers only verbal abilities and quantitative reasoning; no specific subject matter knowledge is required to qualify.
One test, taken one time in one place, opens the door to approximately 60 different career fields in as many Federal agencies at locations all over the country.
Federal Government salaries for this year's graduates will begin at either $5,331 or $6,451 a year. The higher starting salary is paid to students having good academic records.

St. Joseph College Plans Visiting Day For Students
High school students and their parents are invited to learn more about St. Joseph College's curriculum, faculty, and student body by visiting the campus on November 18. The Visiting Day program includes an interview with the Director of Admissions, a student guided tour of the campus, and luncheon in the College cafeteria.
Admission interviews are held between 10 and 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Visiting Days. Sister Marie Therese, Director of Admissions, requests that interested persons write for an appointment no later than one week prior to the visit, indicating time of arrival and number of visitors in the party. Tours of the campus begin at 11 a.m.; luncheon is from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.
If the November 18th date is inconvenient, other Visiting Days are scheduled early in 1968 on January 6, February 10, March 9, April 6, and May 4. Further information is available through correspondence with Sister Marie Therese, Director of Admissions, St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg, Maryland 21727.

Two Local Colleges Plan Open House
St. Joseph College for Women and Mount Saint Mary's College for Men will hold a joint open house in the spring for high school guidance counselors throughout the State of Maryland. Counselors from Northern Virginia and nearby Pennsylvania communities have also been invited.

The program, announced by Sister Marie Therese of St. Joseph and Michael H. Scheerer of Mt. St. Mary's, marks the first co-sponsored Admissions open house for the two colleges. Representatives from over 350 high schools and junior colleges have been invited to attend the session, which will offer participants the opportunity to become better acquainted with the faculties, students and facilities of the Emmitsburg colleges.
Neighbors in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Maryland, the colleges have a combined enrollment of over 1500 students.

Represents Mount
Prof. Gerald C. Orosz, chairman of the education department at Mount Saint Mary's College, represented the Mount at the Maryland State Department of Education meeting held in Baltimore recently.
The purpose of the meeting was to discuss teacher education needs; development of state guidelines for approved teacher education programs; and the creation of a state council or committee on teacher education.
The meeting was conducted under the direction of Kenneth A. Browne, supervisor in teacher education for the state of Maryland.

State Road Fatals Soaring Higher
Twenty persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.
Nine of those killed were drivers, five were passengers, and six were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths, speed in eight, and "driver error" in fifteen.
"Sometime or other almost every motorist is faced with the problem of a flat tire, an overheated motor or a mechanical defect which necessitates his pulling the car over to the side of the road," said Lt. Col. George Davidson, Chief of Operations of the State Police. "When this occurs, it is essential that the operator take necessary safety precautions.
"Above all, he should be sure that he is as far as possible off the traveled portion of the road, especially if he plans to do the repair work himself, and a flare or other device should be set up to warn approaching motorists. Other specific precautions may also have to be taken, depending on the nature and location of the disability. If this is done, many lives will be saved each year."

The business man who depends on luck usually finds that when he needs it most, he hasn't got much of it.

Today, our office will place on sale the commemorative stamp, "The Biglin Brothers Racing," from the famous painting of the Thomas Eakins, which is at the National Art Gallery, in Washington, D. C. This is one of the most colorful of the commemorative series to be printed.

Also to be placed on sale, November 7, is the Christmas Stamp pictured below, which will be of commemorative size this year.

As usual, we will only have a limited supply of these stamps, so collectors should obtain theirs as soon as possible.

As a reminder, there are only six mailing days remaining, to get those Christmas packages to our fighting men in Vietnam, and other overseas areas, unless you wish to send them airmail, which gives you approximately one month longer.

Our office will be closed on Saturday, November 11, in observance of Veterans Day. However, Post Office boxholders will be able to obtain their mail, as usual, until

WASTLER-SEISS

Miss Carolyn Louise Seiss and Wayne Morris Wastler were united in marriage recently at Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg.

The Rev. W. Ronald Fearer performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo R. Seiss, Taneytown R2, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Wastler, Thurmont.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk blend gown fashioned with a bateau neckline, empire bodice and elbow length sleeves and A-line skirt, accented with venise lace. She wore a matching pillbox headpiece with circular tulle veil, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses with center corsage of white carnations.

Maid of honor was Miss Connie M. Seiss, sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Miss Lois R. Wastler, sister of the bridegroom. The attendants both wore copen blue chiffon dresses fashioned with square necklines, long sleeves, slim skirts and empire bodices accented with a band of satin which formed streamers in back. They wore matching pillbox headpieces with circular tulle veils, and they carried bouquets of yellow and white mums with yellow streamers.

Best man was Richard R. Wastler, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were James L. Seiss, brother of the bride and Glenn L. Nirkirk, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Acolyte was Gary L. Seiss, brother of the bride. Organist was Mrs. Carolyn Eyer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parish hall. Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Bruce Sprague, cousin of the bride, Mrs.

Donald Shorb, Mrs. Harry McNair, Mrs. Roland Frock and Mrs. Richard Saylor.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Seiss wore a two piece green flowered suit with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy dress with navy accessories. They both wore white carnation corsages.

For the wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the bride wore a turquoise dress with biege accessories and the white carnation corsage from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Emmitsburg High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Thurmont High School and served two years with the U. S. Army. They are both employed at Moore Business Forms, Inc., Thurmont.

Out-of-town guests attended from Littlestown, Honesdale, and Lewisburg, Pa.; Fremont, Ohio; Arlington, Va.; and Silver Spring, Westminster, and Hagerstown.

Over 135 members, officials, and guests were present to celebrate the founding of the Club, which was organized on July 2, 1947. The charter was presented to the club on September 9, 1947, with a membership of 28. Nine of the original members who still belong to the club are: Murray Gaumgardner, Harry B. Dougherty, Charles W. Eckard, Theodore F. Fair, Robert W. Feesser, Merwyn C. Fuss, Wilbert N. Hess, Delmar E. Riffle, and Thomas H. Tracey.

The introduction of charter members, guests, and the introduction of the speaker, Sidney T. Shores of Annapolis, Md., was given by toastmaster, Happy Johnny.

MY FAMILY

My family I left at home one day To go so very far away Far away to a distant shore To fight a cruel and vicious war It was hard to leave them standing there

I know the pain of parting they too did share As I turned my back and walked away It was like closing the door to another day

A wonderful loving, familiar door To protect them from this vicious war Some day I shall gladly return again

And find them all still there Waiting to start our life anew For the peace will be everywhere By Eddie Brewer, Vietnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brewer, Emmitsburg RI.

Speaker Here Calls For New Reformation Among Churches

Dr. Robert V. Moss, Jr., president of Lancaster Theological Seminary of the United Church of Christ, called the church of today to a new reformation.

In his sermon at the Community Reformation Service in Emmitsburg Monday evening at Elias Lutheran Church, Dr. Moss suggested three "Theses" which might well be nailed to the doors of our churches today. He compared these theses to the famous 95 theses which Martin Luther nailed to the door of the castle church in Wittenberg, Germany, on Oct. 31, 1517. The Reformation Service in are living in the dawn of a New Reformation.

The Emmitsburg Community Choir, directed by R. Diehl Ackerman, provided the special music when it sang "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" at the beginning of the inspirational service. The Rev. W. Ronald Fearer, pastor of the host church, presided at the Community Service on Oct. 30, the eve of the Protestant Reformation.

BULLETS ON TV

A minimum of twelve Baltimore Bullets basketball away games will be televised this season, it was announced this week by General Manager, Buddy Jeannette.

The television coverage will be in addition to the regularly scheduled Bullets radio broadcasts and for the second consecutive season will be aired by WTTG-TV, Channel 5 in Washington, D. C.

During the season, the Bullets will be seen live in six NBA cities against seven different teams. The Philadelphia 76ers will be featured four times, New York and Cincinnati twice, and Boston, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis once each.

No matter what station a man occupies in life, he has several plausible excuses to explain his failure to rise higher.
