How To Create Riots
Leaders of the world-wide Communist conspiracy are confident, on the basis of their great successes within our nation, that they can instigate a war between Negroes and Whites in America which will lead to a state of anarchy. They expect to exploit the anarchy and bring the USA to a point where it would be "ripe" for Communist take-over. Fantastic? Yes — fantastic. Possible? Yes indeed. When we realize how far along they are with their "upheaval" apparatus within the Negro community, and realize the nation's failure so far to control "rebellions" which they have fired up, we must face the possibility that they could succeed.

But will we face this fact? In the past 25 years there have been a number of American Communists who have broken with the international conspiracy and performed such great service to their nation that they must be forgiven for having once worked with the enemy. They have taken us inside the Red conspiracy, inside its leadership apparatus and its underground, to help us understand the magnitude of the danger.

Setting The Riot Pattern
Three outstanding such former Communists are: Louis Budenz, onetime editor of the Communist Daily Worker; Whitaker Chambers, who exposed Alger Hiss and other Red spies working in vital agencies of our government; and Phillip Abbott Luce, who helped the Reds fire up the 1964 Harlem riots.

Phillip Luce, from a middle-class Ohio family, attended Mississippi State University, and being an "idealist" and "reform-minded" became active in a radical "leftist" group on campus. In 1957, after leaving college, he became a Communist and soon was the editor of the magazine published by the Progressive Labor Movement to which he belonged. PLM was "oriented" ideologically toward Red China; but, as Luce significantly confirms, all Communist groups are bent on destroying the common Communist enemy — the USA. He tells of the Red plot to foment and exploit the savage Harlem riots, and to establish the pattern to use in spreading the havoc from city to city throughout America: The Red Handiwork

"How did we do it in Harlem? There had been a considerable amount of talk about a long, hot summer in Harlem. Everybody talked about it—politicians, newspapers, civil rights organizations, and so forth. Everybody was expecting it to happen. We didn't let them down. First of all, you move into the ghetto area and begin to publish an extreme amount of propaganda aimed at this: black people cannot trust white people. The blacks are really slaves. The white man is out to destroy them. Police, white or black, no matter under what conditions arrests are made, are always wrong. We told the people they had a right to rebel, a right to fight the police.

"We began to hold classes. We took guys with guns out on Long Island and showed them how to use them. We brought up guns from Georgia and hid them in New York City. We held classes on how to suck the police down a street and cut off both ends so they can't get out; how then to bombard them from the roofs. We made Molotov cocktails. Then we waited for an incident."

Total Breakdown Sought

"In New York the incident took place when a 14-year-old black boy was shot to death by an off-duty white policeman. Harlem people began to march on the police station, but no riot occurred. Next day a big rally was held in New York and (a Communist official of a Communist organization) told the crowds: 'You've got to go into the streets! We are going to destroy the state structure, the power structure in this country; and as we are doing it, we're going to have to kill a lot of cops and we're going to have to kill a lot of judges.'

"We distributed in Harlem 50,000 circulars entitled: 'Wanted for Murder' and carrying a picture of a white policeman. The riots exploded. We had teams in the street with walkie-talkies coordinating riot activities; in classes we taught how to use Molotov cocktails against police and stores (to burn them).

"The Communists in America," says this onetime Comrade, "hope to create so much destruction with ghetto uprisings and guerrilla warfare—in Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Washington, Memphis, Nashville, San Francisco, Los Angeles, all at the same moment,—that there would be a total breakdown of authority and law and order."

When you go hunting alone, an important safety precaution is to place a note on your car saying where you've gone and what time you expect to be back.—Sports Afield.

'Ike' Presents Vase To College Library

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower presented an engraved vase of Steuben crystal to Gettysburg College recently.

The vase was given to Gen. Eisenhower by the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon his return to Pennsylvania, following the completion of his service as 34th President of the United States.

The vase symbolizes three historic American Presidents closely identified with Pennsylvania: George Washington, who led the Continental Army at Valley Forge; Abraham Lincoln, who delivered his memorable address at Gettysburg; and Gen. Eisenhower, whose ancestors were Pennsylvanians and who now makes his home in Gettysburg.

The crystal vase, 12 1/4" high, is six-sided, and polished into flat, tapered panels. On alternate panels are engraved the figures of the three presidents.

The vase will be temporarily displayed in Schmucker Memorial Library at the College. Later, it will become part of a permanent display in Old Dorm which will be renovated to be an administrative center for the College.

President Washington is shown kneeling. Beneath, headed by the date "1865", is a quotation from his farewell address.

President Lincoln is shown standing. Beneath headed by the date "1865", is an excerpt from his second inaugural address.

President Eisenhower is shown seated beside a globe. Beneath, headed by the date "1960", is a quotation from his address at the United Nations on September 23 of that year.

A band of symbolic stars is engraved below the inscription, encircling the base of the vase. The glass design is by Donald Pollard and the engraving design by Bruce Moose. The vase of the Three Presidents signifies the qualities of humanity and justice common to these three great presidents and manifest in their quoted statements.

DELIVERY AND DRIVE-IN SERVICE

The ZIP Column

Our office will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, and there will be no rural delivery service. However, there will be an incoming mail in the morning only, and the Post Office Boxholders will be able to get their mail, as usual, until 6 p.m.

Tomorrow, another Commemorative Stamp will be placed on sale. This stamp, however, may appear to be of the ordinary series. It is the redesigned 5c George Washington Stamp, thereby removing the harsh highlights about the face. In other words, it appears as though the 5 o'clock shadow has been removed.

Your Christmas packages should be prepared in such a manner so as to be able to withstand a certain amount of weight, which inevitably must be placed on top of it. Packages are placed in sacks, which may weigh up to 80 lbs.

Along with this, during the heavy mailing periods, at the larger offices, it becomes necessary to place sack upon sack, while awaiting distribution. Therefore, please wrap your packages securely.

First of all, use a substantial container. Use sufficient cushioning material around loose or fragile items, to prevent shifting, then wrap with heavy brown paper, and strong twine or cord. As an added precaution, in case of damage or separation of the address portion, place the complete address within the package, and list the articles sent.

To insure delivery of your Christmas packages and eliminate them from being back-logged during the rush season, please mail early.

Veteran Wants Old Valentines

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: I am a handicapped veteran, living on a small pension. My vision and hearing are leaving me. The doctors tell me there is nothing they can do. Not wanting to worry about it, I have made projects to keep busy with, in an effort to forget my defects.

One of my projects is the history of the calendar. I am collecting real old calendars to use as illustrations and have four that are 1882, 1883, 1887, 1896 and looking for others.

While I am collecting old post cards, bookmarks and Reward of Merit cards, most of my projects concern histories of holidays like Easter, Halloween and St. Valentine's Day. To make it interesting, I am collecting real old valentines to use as illustrations and plan to give them to a museum when I finish.

I have two valentines that are over 125 years old and four that are over 95 years old and a few dating back to 1880, but on my limited funds, I am having a hard time getting a better represented collection of real old valentines.

I was in hopes that perhaps a few of your readers may have a few real old valentines they do not want, because I would be happy to have any they may care to send me, and be glad to get them.

Eventually, I hope to try writing a book about my projects, in an effort to earn enough from it to get off this small VA pension and have some medical care, which the VA is unable to afford me, so my projects have a dual purpose.

Thank you for your time and kind consideration in reading my letter. I hope I may be hearing from a few of your readers.

Respectfully yours, Leon Thompson 623 Federal East Seattle, Washington 98102

Road Fatals

33 Higher; New Record Likely

"The number of persons killed on Maryland highways this year has now climbed to thirty-three more than for the same period in 1966," said Lt. Col. George Davidson, Chief of Operations of the State Police. "The only good thing that can possibly come from this terrible situation is that it might shake many persons loose from their apathetic attitude about the seriousness of the highway safety problem. Unless we want the situation to continue getting progressively worse, each of us must make a constructive effort toward correcting it.

"Very rarely do we come across the spectacular accident with an out-of-ordinary cause. Thoughtlessness, inattention, over-confidence, impatience—these simple every-day attitudes cause accidents day in and day out. Ignoring the most elementary rules of the road, like failing to yield right-of-way or passing when unsafe to do so, takes a tremendous toll in human life. Drinking and driving is too frequently a menace on our highways. Excessive speed for conditions is present in far too many accidents."

Lt. Col. Davidson concluded: "It seems rather improbable that we will ever completely eliminate tragedy on our highways. However, it is certainly within our power to control the situation so that a minimum number of lives are lost. To begin with, each person's assuming his individual responsibility is certainly a step in the right direction."

Twenty-eight persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police. Fifteen of those killed were drivers, ten were passengers, and three were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths, speed in seventeen, and driver error in twenty-five.

Taneytown By-Pass Changes Discussed

The Taneytown Council decided this week at a public hearing to meet with the State Road Commission Chief Engineer to attempt to relocate the proposed by-pass around Taneytown.

The Carroll County Planning Director, George A. Grier, was asked to participate in the meeting with chief engineer John Fisher.

The by-pass which was prepared by the Carroll County Planning Commission is scheduled to cross the industrial park to the west of Taneytown and the 26-acre tract of land owned by the city of Taneytown adjacent to Memorial Park.

The council and interested persons at the hearing questioned Grier concerning this relocation of Route 97 and the proposed connection between Crouse Mill Road and Diehl Road.

This connecting road will cross the Rod and Gun Club property and was opposed by a group of citizens.

At the end of the hearing, the council and Grier agreed to contact the State Road Commission in order to discuss possible alternate routes for the roads in question.

Nursing Dept. To Participate In Cancer Project

St. Joseph College Dept. of Nursing has been selected to participate in a Cancer Nursing project at the University of Texas' M. D. Anderson Hospital in March and May of 1968.

Mary D. Kable, coordinator of Medical-Surgical Nursing for the college, and Patricia Carver, Assistant Director of Nursing at Providence Hospital, will represent St. Joseph College in the program.

The project is planned to provide a series of concentrated sessions to be held at the Texas University Hospital, third largest cancer institute in the nation. Selected from strategic areas in the 15 states of the Southern Educational Region, the participants will increase their knowledge of the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of cancer. They will have the opportunity to give nursing care to patients and to work with families of patients with cancer.

Upon completion of the sessions, it is expected that the participants will form a nucleus of persons who will stimulate local, regional and in-service programs to improve the quality of teaching and nursing care of the cancer patient.

St. Joseph College is one of 10 institutions to be represented. Members for the project were selected by the Advisory Committee of the Southern Regional Education Board. Emphasis in selection was placed on broad representation from both Nursing Education and Nursing service in present positions, past experiences and educational preparation.
