Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

The present wave of protests by college students practically all over the country is a regrettable thing. Their irresponsibility is intolerable, deplorable and abhorable. These schools belong to the people and have stabilized their maintenance by state funds and monetary gifts from generous people and should be governed by selected regents. These institutions of higher education have been governed for generations by intelligent educators and administrators and this system must prevail or the colleges will meet their downfall. Irresponsible youth cannot and will not be permitted to go unbridled on the campus with no respect for rules and regulations which have gone unchallenged for generations. Granted, there may be some grounds for grievances, but to try and iron out these difficulties in this manner is resulting in utter chaos on the campuses of our colleges. We are experiencing lock-ins, sit-ins, and sleep-ins, not to mention considerable property damage. This is tantamount to certain groups of people taking our civil laws into their own hands for administration. . . . it just won't work. While not affected at our local colleges, this protest movement against the "establishment" popped up on the Gettysburg College campus last week when 100 students banded together in protest over certain administration policies, which in my mind, were not of a major nature. Discipline can and must be maintained if our institutions of higher learning are to endure.

While moving slowly, as all big projects are prone to do, our Maryland Congressmen and Senators are working in behalf of the Sixes Bridge Dam project. Many of them have made affirmative speeches before many committees in behalf of the project before it comes into the Congress for adoption or rejection. Chances appear to be good at this time as there appears practically no opposition to the program. Most counties and cities to be effected by the project are generally in a receptive mood and anytime now the project could reach the floor of the Congress. Of course, if adopted, it will be a number of years before the plan can be concluded.

Lawyer Will Be Graduation Speaker At Mount

Francis X. Gallagher, prominent Baltimore attorney of the firm of Tydings, Rosenberg and Gallagher, will deliver the address at the 160th Commencement at Mt. St. Mary's College on Sunday, June 2, at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Gallagher, a native of Baltimore, was educated at Loyola High School and College there. He holds a master's degree from the Johns Hopkins University and a law degree from the University of Maryland.

Active in Baltimore civic and political affairs, he has been the recipient of the Junior Association of Commerce's Distinguished Service Award, the first annual Metropolitan Civic Society Award, and the Maryland Regional National Conference of Christians and Jews Citation.

In 1965 he received the Holy Name Society Man of the Year award and the late Pope John named him a Knight of St. Gregory.

He will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from the Mount for his service to the Church and State. Others receiving degrees are: the Most Rev. Thomas J. Mardaga, D.D., Bishop of Wilmington, Del.; Mr. George E. Keck, president of United Airlines, and Charles R. Driscoll, director of Clavier Studios, Towanda, Pa.

Memorial Day Services Scheduled

Memorial Day Services for members of the VFW and American Legion, will be held Sunday, May 26 at the Elias Lutheran Church at 10:30 a. m.

All members are asked to meet at Legion Home at 10:15 a. m.

GOODRICH WILL BE CATOCTIN HIGH PRINCIPAL

Howard B. Goodrich, Supervisor of English and Foreign Languages for the Board of Education of Frederick County since 1965, has been appointed principal of the new Catoctin High School.

Mr. Goodrich, who graduated from McDonogh School in Baltimore in 1946, received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1950. He taught English and Journalism at Towson High School for one year and in 1951 enlisted in the United States Air Force. He was commissioned following aviation cadet training and flew 100 combat missions as a pilot during 9 months in Korea. For his service in the Korean War he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal.

In 1955 Mr. Goodrich returned to civilian life as an English teacher at Kenwood High School in Baltimore County. He remained in this position until 1960 serving, in addition, as wrestling coach and advisor to the school literary magazine.

Mr. Goodrich transferred to Dulane High School in Baltimore County in 1960 and served until 1962 as head of the English department there. He also acted as Senior Class Advisor and advisor to the school yearbook and literary magazine.

He was granted a sabbatical leave for the school year 1962-63 and served at the University of Maryland as supervisor of practice teachers and instructor in introductory education courses.

He returned to high school teaching in 1963 as head of the English department and literary magazine advisor at Catonsville Senior High School. It was from this post that Mr. Goodrich came to Frederick County as Supervisor of English and Foreign Languages in 1965.

For five years, during the period 1960-65, Mr. Goodrich also served as an instructor at Johns Hopkins University in a writing course designed for engineers.

The new principal is a member of a number of professional associations. He is a member of the National Education Association, the Maryland State Teachers Association and of the Frederick County Teachers Association, serving on the Representative Council of the latter organization during 1966-67. He is a member of the National Council of Teachers of English, serving as the Associate Chairman of that group's 1969 convention in Washington, D. C., and of the Maryland Council of Teachers of English, of which he served as president during 1966-67. He is also a member of the State English Instructional Television Advisory Committee.

Mr. Goodrich received his Masters degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1956 and is currently completing course work requirements toward his Doctorate which will involve the study of the effects of communications media on instruction.

Mr. Goodrich is married to the former Nancy Lee Rossman and is the father of three daughters, aged 8, 12, and 14. He and his family reside in Eastview, near Frederick.

Undergoes Surgery

Mrs. John M. Roddy is recuperating at her home in Fairfax, Va., after undergoing major surgery recently.

Mrs. William C. Smith, Timonium, Md., spent Tuesday visiting her mother, Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder.

The GI Bill now provides Post-Korean Conflict veterans with on-the-job training, farm cooperative training and college courses.

Chamber Commerce Seeks Aid On Pool Project

Fifteen members were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday evening in the Emmitt House, President Jane Bollinger, presiding.

A letter from Senator Joseph D. Tydings was read by Sid Sappington concerning the progress on the Sixes Bridge Dam program. Membership decals were reported by Arthur Elder to be ready for distribution at the next meeting.

The group authorized a donation of $25 to the Little League and a report on a recent meeting of the Catoctin Mt. Tourist Council was given by Valli Ryan and Sidney Sappington. This group was formed to promote the economic welfare of Emmitsburg and Thurmont by advertising and otherwise promoting points of interest in and adjacent the two towns in an attempt to induce more tourism here.

The Chamber voted to place a car for its officers in the Firemen's Parade here in June. Harold Birely was delegated to contact the Pennsylvania State Roads Commission relevant to a broken Mason-Dixon stone marker near the Pennsylvania Line just north of Emmitsburg. Sister Margaret Hickey, St. Joseph's Provincial House, was authorized to compile interesting data about the town and area for inclusion in a travel guide published by the Mobil Oil Co. and which is distributed to one million persons annually.

After considerable discussion concerning the safety of the children at Mother Seton School crossing East Main Street and Federal Ave. going and coming from school, it was decided by the group to ask the State Roads Commission to erect a traffic light at that intersection. J. Norman Flax and Sister Margaret, chairmen of the Recreational Area Committee, gave a progress report and invited all local organizations to place a representative on the committee which would take over the operation of the recreational area program and to see the program to its conclusion. The group unanimously voted to publish a letter in the Emmitsburg Chronicle in response to one published recently by a local citizen who opposed taking any ground from the Community Field area to be used for the new recreational area. Copies of the new rules and constitution of the Chamber were distributed to members following adjournment.

Folk Mass Scheduled Sunday

The Catholic Youth Organization of St. Joseph's Church will observe its annual corporate Communion on Sunday, May 26, at the 11:30 Mass. Music for the folk-hymns will be provided by a group composed of students of St. Joseph College, seminarians from Mt. St. Mary's, and members of the C.Y.O. After the Mass, the young people will hold a Communion Breakfast in St. Euphemia's Hall, at which the guest speaker will be Father John Hurley, C.M., chaplain at St. Joseph College. Father Hurley is well and favorably known to members of the group, having taken an active part in the Summer Youth Program of the church in 1967. All teenagers, including non-members of the C.Y.O., are invited to participate in the Mass and the Breakfast. Other C.Y.O. events include a feature movie at 8:30 on Friday night, May 24, in St. Euphemia's Hall, and a "Clean-up" day on Saturday, May 25, also at the hall, at 1:00 p. m.

Firemen Complete First Aid Course

Thirteen members of the Vigilant Hose Co. of Emmitsburg Monday night completed an advanced First Aid Course taught here by Bernal F. Koehrsen, Jr., Gettysburg College student and a Red Cross First Aid instructor.

Those completing the two-month course were Michael Byard, Arthur Damuth, William Eiker, Jeff Fitzgerald, Harry Green, Paul E. Humerick, Eugene Lingg, Guy R. McLaughlin, Eugene Myers, Sterling Myers, Terrance Myers, Charles F. Stouter and Pat Zimmerman.

Members of the Fire Co. and VFW who recently completed the Ambulance Corps First Aid course and training held in Gettysburg included Michael Boyle, Donald Byard, Jr., Donald Byard, Sr., James Kittinger, Earl Rice III, and Thomas White.

Unselfishness is a rare virtue, not to be expected too often.

Three-Car Collision At Intersection

AND STILL ANOTHER—Maryland's most dangerous intersection Rts. 15 and 97 in Emmitsburg, was the scene of still another accident last Saturday afternoon when three cars were involved in an "accordion" collision. Police and spectators are shown pushing one of the three wrecked cars from the traffic lane.

Pictured above is Sperry's tow wagon about to remove the two remaining damaged vehicles. Two were hospitalized in the mishap. —Emmitsburg Chronicle Photos

Even while workmen were busy installing new traffic lights at the intersection the wreck occurred. State Trooper is shown directing traffic at the scene. The barrage of traffic lights at the top show what the motorist faces traveling either north or south.

Rev. Simpson Receives Doctorate

The Rev. William H. Simpson was awarded the Ph.D. degree by Boston University at its annual Commencement Ceremonies. Mr. Simpson is the son of Mrs. Leah Simpson and the late Walter A. Simpson, Emmitsburg.

Bill became a teacher of public school music in Carroll County in 1951. The following year he went to Scotland to study, having been awarded a Rotary Foundation Fellowship. In 1955, he was ordained a minister in the United Church of Christ. In 1960, after serving St. Andrew's in Lancaster, Pa., he went with his family to Lynn, Mass., where he became pastor of Bethany United Church of Christ. In 1961, he enrolled at Boston University and completed his studies this year. While in Lynn he has also served as a counselor for the Greater Lynn Pastoral Counseling Center, and is presently involved in establishing a counseling-in-depth program in the Eastern Junior High School of the city of Lynn. His interest in music and athletics from high school days continues for he occasionally directs a choir, sings a recital (or a sermon!), and helps coach Little League Baseball.

The VA is paying death indemnity compensation to more than 663,000 dependents of 363,000 deceased U. S. Veterans.

C. of C. Invites Letter-Writer To Next Meeting

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

At the May 21st meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce we read the letter which was published in the April 26, 1968 edition of the Chronicle and signed by Leo M. Boyle.

After a lengthy discussion, it was moved and seconded and unanimously passed that the Chamber of Commerce express regret that there is a feeling among certain citizens that as an organization we are failing to fulfill the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce, that is—The Welfare of The Town Of Emmitsburg And Its Citizens.

We respectfully request Mr. Boyle to attend our next Chamber meeting and to offer any suggestions he may have of suitable and available space for a recreational area—an area as well located for the safety and benefit of the 'little ones' of our Town, an area with the same utilities available, and an area that can be obtained with the same outlay of money as the proposed site.

It has been the desire of the Chamber of Commerce to act as an organization and not as individuals. We initiated this project with the hope that we could be the means of arousing the interest and the participation of ALL. Such a project could well be a means of stimulating civic responsibility and a growth in a togetherness that is so needed in the world today.

We, the Chamber of Commerce, cordially invite Mr. Leo M. Boyle and other questioning citizens to attend the meeting scheduled for Tuesday, June 18, 1968, at 7:30 p. m. at the Mt. Manor Motel to learn the true facts about the proposed recreational project.

Sincerely yours,
 The Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce

Father Mahoney Is Transferred

The Rev. Daniel J. Mahoney, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Fairfield, has been reassigned as pastor of the Holy Name of Jesus Church, Harrisburg. Rev. Fr. Mahoney has been pastor of the Fairfield church for four years, and pastor of St. Rita's Church, Blue Ridge Summit, and Catholic chaplain at Fort Ritchie and Camp David, Md. He was also a substitute teacher in the Fairfield High School.

Father Mahoney was ordained in May, 1952, and served for two years as assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, York. He was then assigned as assistant pastor of St. Edward's, Shamokin and also served as principal of the Catholic High School. He spent five years in Hershey as assistant pastor, and then was appointed administrator of St. Joseph's Church, Shamokin, where he served for three years.

His transfer becomes effective May 31.

4-H Club Holds May Meeting

The May meeting of the Emmitsburg 4-H Club was held in the American Legion basement Tuesday, May 14. The meeting opened with the 4-H Pledge and Pledge of Allegiance of the Flag. The president, Harold Englestatler, read the report from the last meeting. The minutes were read by secretary Eugene Brown, who also had roll call, with 28 members present. The treasurer, Perry Wivell, reported the 4-H Club has $80.00 in the treasury.

Kevin Gingell and Eugene Brown gave a demonstration on "How to Plant Seeds." The following project meetings were announced: Gardening and Sewing, May 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wivell; May 28, Handyman at Mr. Bruchey's at 7:30; May 31, Cooking at Mrs. Bruchey's at 9:30 in the morning. The next meeting will be held at Cecil Richardson's house at 222 West Main St., June 11. Games were suggested by Bruce Hollinger, recreation leader. The meeting ended with refreshments served by Mrs. Bruchey.

Final Constitution Vote Given

The official canvass of ballots cast in Frederick County last Tuesday was completed this week. There was very little variation from the unofficial reports.

Counting all ballots, the grand total for the county was 3,984 "for" and 10,148 "against."

Political races have a way of getting around to the dirt in life.

WILL RECEIVE HONORARY DEGREE AT MOUNT

Charles R. Driscoll, director of the Clavier Musical Arts Studio, Towanda, Pa., will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the 160th commencement exercises to be held on Sunday, June 2, at Mount Saint Mary's College, at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Driscoll, who attended the Mount, is a graduate of Mansfield State College and Wesleyan University. He has also studied at Cornell and Pennsylvania State Universities.

At the present time, in addition, to his musical instruction, he is chairman of the department of language arts and teacher of music in the Northeast Bradford School System, Pennsylvania.

He boasts of a wide range of activities in the musical world having served on the National Board of Judges, National Guild of Piano Teachers; regional festival judge, National Federation of Music Clubs; guest conductor, Potter County Band and Choral Festival; and various other activities in the fields of dramatics, journalism, and the language arts.

Others receiving degrees include: Most Rev. Thomas J. Mardaga, D.D., Bishop of Wilmington; George E. Keck, president of United Airlines; and Francis X. Gallagher, prominent Baltimore attorney.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage To Local House

A costly fire all but destroyed the home of Earl Andrew, Hampden Valley Road about two miles west of Emmitsburg Wednesday morning.

The blaze was discovered by Wayne McClell, rural mail carrier, who sounded the alarm at 10:50 a. m. after he observed smoke erupting from the Andrews' house while making his mail run.

Fire Chief Guy R. McLaughlin said the blaze started in one of the cold air ducts leading from the furnace in the basement. A large hole was burned in the floor of the livingroom and heavy damage was done by smoke and heat, both to the building and furniture, as well as clothing. Damage to the six-room house was estimated tentatively by Chief McLaughlin, at $10,000. The Guardian Hose Co. of Thurmont, aided local firemen by sending a tank truck to the scene.

Woman Sentenced For Manslaughter

A 25-year-old mother of four, Mrs. Margaret Ann West, Fairfield R2, was sentenced to from two to 23 months in the county jail Friday morning on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

She was also sentenced to 45 days in the county jail to run concurrently with the other sentence and ordered to pay a fine of $200 on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants. She was directed to pay a fine of $10 on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road. She also was directed to pay the costs.

Mrs. West was given a week to get her affairs in order and arrange for care of her two-month-old child and another of her four children who reside with her in a trailer home along old Route 15 north of Emmitsburg. She is to begin her sentence in Adams County jail today.

Mrs. West was found guilty of the various charges against her last week following a trial before a jury. The case was based on an auto accident near Zora in which an Ephrata couple was fatally injured and their two daughters hurt. Her counsel told the court she had had "two unfortunate marriages."

Senators Back Sixes Bridge Dam Project

(Statement of Senator Joseph D. Tydings before the Senate Committee on Public Works in support of S-2059, a Bill by Senators Tydings and Brewster to authorize the Sixes Bridge Dam and Reservoir in Maryland).

Mr. Chairman, I am here this morning to urge authorization of the Sixes Bridge Dam and Reservoir, a project of vital importance to the State of Maryland and the Federal government.

The Sixes Bridge project offers a positive approach to the growing problem of providing an adequate water supply to communities along the Monocacy River and, indeed, throughout the entire central region of the Western Shore of Maryland.

Severe drought conditions in recent years have made water supply in this area a cause of great concern. With the rapid growth of the central region of Maryland, water supply will be an unrelenting problem which can be solved to a great extent by the Sixes Bridge project.

This project not only has great value with respect to water supply; it also is vastly important to the growth of recreational resources of the ever-converging and expanding Baltimore-Washington megalopolis. If the Monocacy River is not preserved and regulated by a project such as Sixes Bridge Dam, an unmatched opportunity to assure present and future generations adequate and expanded recreational opportunity will be wasted.

The Sixes Bridge Dam near Emmitsburg, is a proposed part of the Potomac River Basin Project. The dam would control the flow of the Monocacy River at a site three miles due east of Emmitsburg, Md.

In terms of water supply, the diminishing flow of the Monocacy alone is an essential reason for the dam. On Sept. 12, 1966, for example, the Monocacy carried a flow of only nine million gallons of water per day at the City of Frederick. It is estimated that by 1976, the City of Frederick and the important Army research facility of Ft. Detrick alone will require over nine million gallons of water a day to support them.

The Sixes Bridge reservoir will provide a dependable year-round flow of water on the Monocacy River in Frederick County. This dependable flow on a principal Potomac River tributary will also significantly contribute to an adequate year-round supply of water in the Washington Metropolitan area and help avert the critical drought conditions of former years.

In terms of recreation benefits, the Sixes Bridge Dam will create a lake which will be 3,500 acres in size, providing vast new recreational opportunities in Frederick and Carroll Counties, attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors a year.

In short, the Sixes Bridge Dam will provide long-needed water storage and major new recreational industries in our state.

I hope that the Corps of Engineers is able to submit its report on this project prior to Senate consideration of the Omnibus Rivers and Harbor Bill this year. Certainly authorization of this popular, worthwhile and urgent project should not be delayed while controversial parts of the Corps' proposed Potomac River Basin project are ironed out. The Sixes Bridge project should be authorized now, so that when funds become available we can proceed immediately to its construction.

Modified Budget Saves County Money

The modified wage and benefits package the Frederick County teachers accepted should save the county taxpayers approximately $182,000 in taxes next year.

Fiscal figures relative to this package, released Tuesday by Donald C. Linton, official county auditor, showed that the following savings are reflected:

- (1) Delaying the implementation of the health insurance program to January 1, 1969, will save approximately $75,000.
- (2) Putting the starting base salary for teachers at $6,100 instead of $6,150 will save approximately $70,000.
- (3) Limiting the increase in a single teacher's salary to $1,500 in one year will save the county approximately $37,000.

The one remaining modification to the original demands of the Frederick County Teachers Association concerns the employment of a number of teaching positions on a 12 month basis.

The teachers originally requested that the extra two months beyond the regular 10 month employment program be funded at 20 per cent of the 10 month salary.

The Board of Education in the official budget sent to the county commissioners April 5 cut this 20 per cent funding figure to 15 per cent, a modification the teachers finally accepted Monday night.

This cut of 20 per cent to 15 per cent saved the county taxpayers approximately $98,000 in taxes for next year.

As it stands now, the modification in the teachers wage packet reduces the total school budget for 1968-69 from 13.4 millions to $13.2 million.

This is far short of the $1.2 million cut that Commissioner Charles E. Collins asked for in his letter to the superintendent of Schools on April 30.

Linton intimated that the total cuts in the 1968-69 school budget will approximate $819,400 before it is finally ratified by the commissioners.

This figure includes the $182,000 saved by the modified teachers wage packet and thus it is expected that the additional $600,000 will have to be taken from other parts of the school budget, such as administration, capital outlay, instructional services, etc.

The County Commissioners are still closeted with heads of the county agencies on the budget and the official document will probably not be ready until sometime next week.

Community Action Seeks Assistance

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

As you know, the Community Action Committee of the Frederick Office of Economic Opportunity, has opened an office in Emmitsburg to help our town meet the needs of the poor families.

Miss Ann Blumenberg is in the office each Tuesday from 10 to 3 and also someone from the Maryland Employment Service is there a part of each Tuesday. They are greatly handicapped because there is no phone available to them. There are no funds available in the budget of the CAC this year for a phone. However, there will be, hopefully, funds available in the next year's budgets.

We are soliciting from the Service organizations, who have been so generous in the past, enough funds to pay for the installation and monthly costs of a telephone in this office at least until next May. This cost will be approximately $14 a month, or about $168 for the year.

This request or solicitation is being made by the Committee on Social Concerns of the Emmitsburg Council of Churches. If you would be willing to pay even one month's telephone bill, it would be a great help to the cause. We would like to be assured of at least the amount needed for one year, before we go ahead and have a phone installed.

Please address all replies to Miss Ann Blumenberg, Community Action Committee, Office of Economic Opportunity, Frederick, Maryland. Telephone 663-6554.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Yours very truly,

Mrs. Lucille K. Beale
Secretary, Committee of Social Concerns, Emmitsburg Council of Churches.

HOWARD T. FLOHR

Howard Thurman Flohr, 52, of Blue Ridge Summit, died at 10 a.m. last Thursday at the Waynesboro Hospital. He was hospitalized April 7 and had been critically ill for the past four weeks.

He was born at Fairfield R1, July 29, 1915, a son of Emory and Mary Shriner Flohr. He had attended the Fairfield schools and was graduated from Emmitsburg High School in 1935. Mr. Flohr had lived in the Blue Ridge Summit area for the last 20 years. For 25 years he was employed by the Accelerated Pony Transport as a truck driver. For the last two years he was a dispatcher and dock foreman.

Mr. Flohr is survived by his widow, Mrs. Geneva Harbaugh Flohr; his parents of Fairfield R1; a son, Richard Flohr, Highfield; a daughter, Mrs. Nina Staley, Hagerstown R5; seven grandchildren, and a stepsister, Mrs. Marie Bordner, Lewisburg.

Private funeral services were held Saturday at 10:30 a.m. from the Grove Funeral Home, Waynesboro, in charge of Rev. Claude H. Corl. Interment was in Hillcrest Memorial Gardens.

Of the 25.8 million living veterans, 1.8 million receive disability compensation and 1.18 million receive pension for nonservice disabilities.

Two experimental vehicles from Lockheed Aircraft Corporation demonstrate their ability to perform in a swampy setting. The Twister, above, has been tested in rice paddies, the desert, deep snow, and on rocky slopes. The TerraStar, below, is also versatile, and can travel on pavement, soft mud, or through water. Both are being developed by Lockheed under U. S. Army contracts.

Chapter V

And Chapter Five
Shall break alive
With poetry and song
To still the cries
And silly sighs
Of those who say I'm wrong

In Chapter Four I intimated that someday, through bits and pieces of evidence, and reasonable conjecture, it might be established that Clairvaux—House of the Seven Gables—The Brookes Plantation—is even more than a long-ago sanctuary for wandering Trappists, and the first sheltering place for students at the Mountain. I think it may be Carrollton. So there—I've said it; now heap upon my head your coils of scorn!

But let him who will first fire me up give pause, and tell us wherein I am in error. Easy enough? Where shall he point first? To Buckeystown? I challenge proof! Debate it! It is not so! Last year I visited Buckeystown's Carrollton, an old stone house. At the entrance from the highway I found a huge stone arch—with mortar hardly dry—and the gratuitous self-serving inscription "Carrollton". I inquired of the owner where he had ever come onto such a false thought; and his reply was that he had read that it was so in a Sunday Supplement to the Baltimore Sun some twenty years before. Nonsense! This house was built of stone. All Carroll houses, without exception, are built of brick . . . like Clairvaux.

Before leaving this bogus "Carrollton" I looked about for an official highway marker near the house that would attest the owner's claim. It was rightly missing. The State of Maryland does not vouch for the house. It is beautiful but it is not Carrollton. On the way home I stopped at the intersection in Buckeys Town and read a sign to the general effect that in the early seventeen hundreds a tract of land had been granted to the Signer's father (or grandfather) under the title "Carrollton". This sign says nothing as to the location of the manor or house. This omission save a second error, for that which the sign does say is wrong. One of the Charles Carrolls Sr. (likely Charles Carroll of Annapolis) did in fact apply for a patent to a tract to be called "Carrollton" but when finally granted it came out, not Carrollton, but Carroll's Delight. Any place south of Frederick that claims the name "Carrollton", or Carroll Towne, simply usurps it — without just claim or right!

Two years ago I found myself in California—but with my mind still taken up with thoughts of Clairvaux . . . and Carrollton. I wondered if the Maryland Historical Society had any information on the subject that I did not have. I played a trick on them. I wrote a letter saying that I would soon visit in the East and was interested in seeing old manor houses such as Gunston Hall, Mt. Vernon, Montecello, and particularly Carrollton. This august body (truly so) did not know the location of Carrollton! It does not know today! Not wishing to be caught short and embarrassed, the historical society simply answered, discretely, that I should drive to Frederick, Maryland and make local inquiry . . . just down the road away . . . ask anyone . . . you can't miss it . . . famous parting words, received just before a stranger would have become hopelessly lost! The Maryland Historical Society convinced me of one thing . . . it too believes Carrollton is somewhere in Frederick County. Most authorities point to Frederick County.
I am tired and weary of false leads and misinformation. I want to know the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Two years ago, at the Mount Liberty, I picked up a reputable Encyclopedia and turned to a section marked "Carrollton" and found myself staring in disbelief at a picture of Doughoregan Manor in Howard County! This beautiful old Maryland landmark, built in 1704 by the Signer's grandfather (Charles Carroll of St. Mary's), as ancient and as well known as any in Maryland, has never been known other than as "Doughoregan" . . . House of Kings.
In other accounts I have seen it claimed that the Carroll House in Baltimore at Front and Lombard Streets, is "Carrollton" even though it can easily be demonstrated that this house—recently restored — was constructed by Charles Carroll (The Signer) in 1815 . . . more than half a century after he had taken to himself the name "Charles Carroll of Carrollton". Somewhat shy of the truth, it is held out to the public, as the Home of Charles Carroll, Signer of the Declaration of Independence. In fact it was the home of Mrs. Caton, his daughter. Give Baltimore a few more years and it too will claim to have been Carroll Towne.
Other writers have assumed that since Charles Carroll was the most distinguish-resident of Annapolis when he signed the Declaration of Independence, the addition of "Carrollton" to his name, must have been a reference to the very house in which he lived in that city. Not so. He lived at his father's house (still standing and unadorned); and his father lived at Doughoregan, in Howard County, (then Anne Arundel County). Any serious assertion that the Carroll house in Annapolis is Carrollton must also fall for lack of proof that Charles Carroll III considered Annapolis to have been his home during the first ten years that he wore this title. To the contrary, there is ample evidence that during those years he was a resident of Tom's Creek, Frederick County (named for Tom's Creek that flows through St. Mary's Manor in Old St. Mary's). Of all the places that may be "Carrollton" (Carroll Towne) it seems to me that the Signer denied only Annapolis, for in his later years, he commonly conducted business under the name of "Charles Carroll of Carrollton (now) of Annapolis." Was this all a little game with Carroll? Likely so. But what a riddle he has left us!

One writer claims that there never was a Carrollton, or Carroll Towne; that the Signer only adopted this name in 1776 as he signed the Declaration of Independence, to create a smoke screen to conceal his true identity from the British. This claim is not only groundless but is ridiculous. We have only to examine the Carroll Papers, and letters, to know that he was commonly addressed in this fashion—and demanded to be so addressed—from the very time he finished his legal training in England and returned to America . . . in 1763. And yet this notion prevails in many quarters, and may, over the years, gain credence unless Carrollton shall some day be located, identified by reputable authority, and held open to public view. Only then will we know Carroll to have been the most courageous signer—the only one to give his place of residence at the time he signed . . . as a very part of his signature.
The myth that Carroll first adopted "Carrollton" as a part of his name when signing the Declaration of our independence is not an entirely uncharitable speculation however. A second writer has it that there were many persons named Charles Carroll in Maryland and that the Signer added his title, and residence, solely out of regard for the safety of the other Charles Carrolls . . . and indeed it was a most dangerous act on the part of all who signed and declared our country's independence.
Of the many Charles Carrolls in the colonies, and especially in Maryland, it is necessary, in getting back to Clairvaux, to take note of only four. These consisted of two father-and-son combinations, Charles Carroll the Signer, and his father, Charles Carroll of Annapolis; and Charles Carroll the Barrister, and Dr. Charles Carroll of Annapolis, his father. The two senior Carrolls were of the same generation and their sons were of the same age. Without doubt all were related, but how close is uncertain. One family was Catholic, the other formerly Catholic. It is a matter of curious interest to me that in 1757 Dr. Charles Carroll, anticipating his son's marriage, built for him a lovely home near Baltimore Towne. This ancient and beautiful mansion house, Mount Clare, is pictured on the official Maryland Highway Map. It is exquisite. It is the oldest house in Baltimore. It is not Carrollton.
Let's see now . . . 1757 . . . oh yes, that's the year our Clairvaux may have been built! . . . if Mr. Cunningham's plat is authentic and is any evidence. How strange! Could it be, could it just be, that Charles Carroll of Annapolis . . . that same year . . . in the spirit of keeping up with the Jones' . . . determined to do the same for his son; then twenty, and impatiently waiting in France until the war should end and he might return to the land of his boyhood? Was young Carroll interested in marriage? Many father-son letters so indicate! Would the father have selected a site in Frederick County for such a mansion? At this time of history Frederick included what is now the District of Columbia, Montgomery County, Carroll County (named for the Signer only because he happened to die in 1832—as the county was being formed) and all counties west of our present Frederick County . . . and Charles Carroll of Annapolis, likely the wealthiest man in America, was Frederick County's largest landowner! He counted on his son's help in managing this vast empire. With the Indians pushed back into the Alleghanys just two years before—the last time and for good — the Monocacy Valley was no longer a rough frontier, but a thoroughly conquered and safe place of residence. For the next twenty years, with land values constantly on the rise, Frederick County would be boom country U. S. A. (sic). Also, there were other considerations: Young Carroll was of frail health. Mountain air, like mountain water, can make a difference! Then too, Mrs. Carroll, the young man's mother, was of the distinguished Brooke family, and several of her brothers and other relatives owned plantations in the Valley of the Monocacy; one relative in particular, a large plantation on Stoney Run, hugging the foot of Catocin's largest peak, St. Mary's Mountain. Young Carroll would be no stranger here! Here he would find his wife to be!

Yes, I BELIEVE! One chance

Bits and Pieces: Recently I tried to bring Father Guillet (Fr. Urban Guillet) to Emmitsburg, at least for the year 1813. Strong evidence that this distinguished Trappist Superior was indeed here at that time appears from the will of William Bradley, from which I quoted. Since last week I have discovered that, wherever in Maryland Father Urbain spent the year 1813, he spent it in the company of Father Vincent dePaul, likewise a Trappist, who had come to Maryland a few months earlier. I suspect, if these two priests were indeed in the vicinity during 1813, that their footprints may yet be found among the Baptismal records at St. Joseph's, St. Anthony's, or at the Mount. Won't someone help us? Also I have this, which is directly in point, and which bears on Father Urbain, Clairvaux, and IN PARTICULAR ON CARROLL TOWNE: "Mr. Bernard Byrnes, one of the old gentlemen, said that the Trappists came to Cambria (Cambria County, near Pittsburgh) in 1811 and left in March Eighteen thirteen (1813) and that they came from Loretta to their location, NEAR THE PRESENT SITE OF CARROLL TOWNE; that they were four or five in number, one of whom was a priest . . ." D.M.V. REPORT

By D. Murray Franklin Public Information Officer Md. Dept. of Motor Vehicles Maryland Pioneers New Auto Wrecker, Scrap Processor Control Legislation The 1968 session of the General Assembly enacted a significant piece of legislation designed to alleviate the problems of wrecked and abandoned motor vehicles. The first portion of Senate Bill 16 was adapted from the model law providing for the uniform junk disposition of abandoned and junked motor vehicles left on public and private properties throughout the State of Maryland. The second portion established a pioneering law by providing for the licensing and regulation of auto wreckers and scrap processors, drafted at the request of the Legislative Council's Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters by the Department of Motor Vehicles. "This simply means that effective January 1, 1969, every automobile wrecker and every scrap processor who wishes to continue operation in this State, must become licensed and regulated by the State of Maryland," Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell said, "and the enforcement of this law will come within the jurisdiction of the Department of Motor Vehicles." Key provisions of this legislation require (1) that a licensed auto wrecker will be required to accept all wrecks presented to him. Despite some opposition within the trade, the new law would have been virtually unenforceable without this provision. And (2) the wrecker can maintain the wreck on his property for one year to dispose of its salvageable parts; after that, he must pay a $5.00 penalty for every six months the hulk remains in his custody. The entire thrust of this pioneering approach is to rid the State of varying ordinances prevailing in the Counties regarding the disposition of lost and abandoned vehicles. It establishes a uniform procedure for rapid disposition of junked and abandoned vehicles, getting them into the wrecker's junk yards as quickly as possible and then into the hands of the scrap processors for final metal salvage, thus completing the economic cycle for re-using the scrap metal. Maryland's unique approach will develop a background of new experiences which will be closely watched by other States, especially since this legislation calls for the regulation of an industry by DMV. However, the Department's experience in administering regulatory controls over automobile dealers and commercial driving schools has prepared its staff for establishing a responsive rapport with the auto wrecker industry. The new law doesn't eliminate, and was not supposed to, attack the problem of open burning. There are technological developments now taking place within the scrap industry that will provide for the processing of abandoned hulks by the scrap processor without the need for burning. When this is accomplished, the result will solve the problems of open burning as well as the disposal of solid wastes, thereby resolving the hazards of air pollution while providing the public with greater protection against waste accumulations. It is felt that the wrecking industry will reason that a pattern of reasonable profits will result from the overall reclamation of all wrecks, and that the normal mix of late model wrecks and old model junkers will provide adequate compensation for all participating wreckers. Further, the $5.00 penalty for retaining wrecks in a dealer's junk yard is not in fact a real imposition because part of the criteria for licensing a junk yard is the limitation of 250 vehicles per acre. The dealer has to stay within this density now and must maintain a rate of disposal equal to his rate of acquisition. The penalty merely speers-up

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION AFFILIATE MEMBER Member Maryland-Delaware Press Assoc., Inc. the dealers disposition of salvageable parts, either by means of selling them outright from the wreck itself, or removing them from the hulk and taking them into a parts inventory. It isn't unreasonable to expect any merchant trading in high margin mark-ups to maintain an inventory investment as a necessary business overhead. The law provides for wreckers to take title to abandoned or wrecked vehicles through procedure administered by the Department of Motor Vehicles. It does not abrogate the legal requirements for selling these vehicles at public auction with all of the attendant notification, etc., and the provisions for repayment of towing and storage charges. It does however, for the first time, outline the stages through which the wreck is finally processed to scrap metal, and schedules the legal timing limits for each procedure.

A DAY TO REMEMBER EVERY DAY

What Do You Mean: "TO SIN IS TO DIE"?

A lot of people just don't believe St. Paul's warning that "the wages of sin is death." Not when they see so many sinful scoundrels live to a ripe old age. They conclude that the "death" referred to in the epistle to the Romans was a figure of speech, and that there really is no such monstrous punishment for those who sin. Taking St. Paul's words literally, they contend, is responsible for the old-fashioned "hell-and-brimstone" concept of punishment for sin. And this concept, they add, doesn't make sense in these enlightened and sophisticated times. St. Paul was not speaking, of course, of death in the physical sense. But neither was he speaking just figuratively. For the "death" to which he referred is more tragic and more to be feared than the inevitable ending of our mortal lives... and no less real. "The wages of sin is death" to our friendship with God. It is our rejection of His love. It is our voluntary surrender of the right to eternal salvation which He offers us through the life and death of His own divine Son. The "sting" of death is a frightening thing only if it finds us alienated from God, when truly "the wages of sin is death." Sin is never a popular topic. And even when a sense of guilt troubles our conscience, we are apt to excuse and rationalize our weakness. To err is human, we say to ourselves. And the old-fashioned notion of sin doesn't fit today's standards of right and wrong. And it's so comforting to blame our lack of holiness on a disturbed emotional experience, environment and family background. But whether we like it or not, the most important thing in life is to face up to the problems and consequences of sin. If you want to do that... if you are seeking the personal holiness that will keep God in your heart and your life... take a few minutes to read a new pamphlet we have just published and which we will send free upon your request. This interesting, easy-to-read pamphlet covers such topics as "Our Sense of Sin"... "The Bible and Sin"... "Kinds of Sin"... "Causes and Consequences"... and "Overcoming Sin." PRIDE OF STANLEY DANCER STABLE TO MAKE DEBUT AT BRANDYWINE—Nevele Pride, the pride of Stanley Dancer's powerful stable, will make his first start this season at Brandywine Raceway in the $12,500 added Gen. George Washington Trot for 3-year-old colts and geldings on Saturday, June 8th.

Nevele Pride, who had a brilliant freshman campaign, is the first of 27 "Gen. George" nominees to be declared a definite starter. Last year, enroute to earnings of a record $222,923, the son of Star's Pride-Thankful, was first to the wire in 26 of 29 starts. Nevele Pride, classed by Dancer as one of the true greats in harnessdom, was named "1967 Harness Horse of the Year", the first 2-year-old trotter to be so honored on the strength of his brilliant performance. The Gen. George Washington Trot is the first feature in Brandywine Raceway's first-ever staging of the famous Grand Circuit week of harness racing, June 8-14.

The VA trained more than 40,000 medical specialists at its 166 hospitals last year.

If adults set youth the proper example, it might be possible for young people to follow their lead.

tion at the time:
"The American college student today is being subjected to a bewildering and dangerous conspiracy perhaps unlike any social challenge ever before encountered by our youth. On many campuses he faces a turbulence built on unrestrained individualism, repulsive dress and speech, outright obscenity, disdain for moral and spiritual values, and disrespect for law and order. This movement, commonly referred to as the 'New Left', is complex in its deceitful absurdity and characterized by its lack of common sense.
Radicals Are Busy
"Fortunately, a high percentage of the more than 3 million full-time college students are dedicated, hardworking, and serious-minded young people; however, their good deeds and achievements are greatly overshadowed by those who are doing a tremendous amount of talking but very little thinking.
"Much of this turmoil has been connected with a feigned concern for the vital rights of free speech, dissent, and petition. Hard-core fanatics have used these basic rights of our democratic society to distort the issues and betray the public. However, millions of Americans, who know from experience that freedom and rights also mean duties and responsibilities are becoming alarmed over the anarchistic and seditious ring of these campus disturbances. They know liberty and justice are not possible without law and order.
Reds Pleased
"The Communist Party, U.S.A., as well as other subversive groups, is jubilant over these new rebellious activities. The unvarnished truth is that the communist conspiracy is seizing this insurrectionary climate to captivate the thinking of rebellious-minded youth and coax them into the Communist movement itself or at least agitate them into serving the Communist cause. This is being accomplished primarily by a two-pronged offensive—a much-publicized college speaking program and the campus-oriented communist W. E. DuBois Clubs of America. Therefore, the communist influence is cleverly injected into civil disobedience and reprisals against our economic, political, and social system.
"There are those who scoff at the significance of these student flareups, but let us make no mistake: the Communist Party does not consider them insignificant. The participants of the New Left are part of the 100,000 'state of mind' members. Gus Hall, the Party's General Secretary, refers to when he talks of party strength. He recently stated the Party is experiencing the greatest upsurge in its history with a 'one to two thousand' increase in membership in the last year.

Need Spotlight On Reds
"For the first time since 1959, the Party plans a national convention this spring. We can be sure that high on the agenda will be strategy and plans to win the New Left and other new members. A Communist student, writing in an official Party organ, recently stated, 'There is no question but that the New Left will be won.'
"Thus, the communists' intentions are abundantly clear. We have already seen the effects of some of their stepped-up activities, and I firmly believe a vast majority of the American public is disgusted and sickened by such social orgies. One recourse is to support and encourage the millions of youth who refuse to swallow the communist bait. Another is to let it be known far and wide that we do not intend to stand idly by and let demagogues make a mockery of our laws and demolish the foundation of our Republic."
—J. Edgar Hoover, Director

CAP Offering Airplane Rides

The Frederick and Montgomery Civil Air Patrol squadrons will combine their efforts this Sunday, May 26, to offer airplane rides to the public. This airplane ride day is part of a continuing program to promote general aviation and to raise funds for the CAP search and rescue work.
Flying will begin at 11:00 a.m. at the Frederick Airport and will continue until dusk. There is no age restriction and people of all ages, from baby to grandmother, are invited to fly with Civil Air Patrol. Spectators are also welcome. Pilots will be on hand to answer questions.

Cessna aircraft will be used for this event and the pilots have been carefully selected for their flying ability and safe flying records. Local residents will have the opportunity to see their homes from the air. Passengers will be allowed to take pictures.
This day of flying has been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration. The event will be postponed in case of rain.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Foreign Aid BABSON PARK, Mass., May 23—As economists and financial experts wrangle over the pros and cons of a national financial crisis which certainly demands prompt and decisive remedial action, Uncle Sam's spending for foreign aid is being called more and more into question. How And Why It Started Foreign aid as we know it today had its beginnings nearly 23 years ago, shortly after World War II ended. But both the idea and the practice are much older than that, dating back a full half-century to World War I... with some $25 billion still owed us from loans made then to European countries to keep them solvent and insure for ourselves a healthy postwar economy. Our grants to foreign nations during World War II amounted to $49 billion, and since then we have made additional loans and grants totaling $122 billion. Add to that some $90 billion in U. S. private investment abroad, and you have the staggering sum of 286 billion in American dollars that have been used to bolster foreign economies since 1917-18.

During the past decade and a half the lion's share has been going to underdeveloped nations, principally in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Consistently the idea has been to help make foreign economies more viable, more self-sustaining, so that world trade and our own prosperity and security might be enhanced.

Have We Attained Our Goals?

The dollar cost of this massive aid has been staggering. Many Americans, noting Uncle Sam's lack of true allies among the world's nations (nearly all of whom have received our bounty), feel that most of these funds have gone down the drain. They contend we've been duped and left holding the bag.

To some extent these critics are right. Millions of dollars in foreign aid have been mispent. In too many instances, funds which could have been spent more advantageously have gone into armaments. Indeed, more than once we have armed rival neighbor nations when we might better have worked to remove the causes of their rivalries, helping them make fuller, economic use of their resources. Advancing Our Security And Prosperity

Costly as these mistakes have been, the broad goals of helping other nations to become more self-reliant, of providing for our own security, and of advancing our own prosperity have been attained through the multiple and complex foreign-aid programs we have pursued. To be sure, we have not succeeded in outlawing war, and we have not managed to open Asia, Africa, and Latin America to full participation in a prosperous world economy.

But we have brought some nations, in Europe particularly, to the point where they no longer need our assistance. In Asia, we helped Free China to build a dynamic economy on the island of Formosa with a standard of living for that region second only to industrially powerful Japan. From 1962 through 1966, the annual growth rates of the 12 countries receiving the major share of development assistance have averaged close to 5%. Such progress has been a mighty factor in boosting our own Gross National Product and in increasing the personal in-

Protectionism Will Not Protect

Today—as we view with concern the weakness of our dollar, the imbalance of our international payments, and the multitude of tensions in a world that is still badly fragmented—the temptation to withdraw into our shell, to revert to isolationism, is great. But we learned to our sorrow in the 1930's that protectionism does not protect and that isolationism begets stagnation.

Cut federal government expenditures, we surely must. But across-the-board cuts in foreign aid we would make at our peril. Far better to set up priorities, after reviewing needs and goals. Then we could excise the fat from foreign aid without endangering the free world economies and upsetting the precarious balance of international affairs.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

By Elizabeth Stewart Women's Medical News Service Knitting Machine Makes Tiniest Arteries

NEW YORK — What happens when two surgeons and a knitting machine manufacturer put their heads and skills together? They devise a new knitting machine which, using 50 tiny needles per inch, fashions the smallest man-made arteries yet devised—only six millimeters, or a quarter of an inch, in diameter.

Reporting on their collaboration at a recent medical meeting here, Dr. Sigmund A. Wesolowski of the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center, and Mercy Hospital in Long Island, noted that he and a colleague from Seattle, as well as the manufacturer, had tested some 130 different kinds of fiber before hitting on the extremely fine Dacron that proved to have the necessary flexibility, elasticity, and durability.

Dr. Wesolowski noted that arteries made by the new machine have already replaced natural arteries in the lower limbs of 42 patients whose blood vessels had been blocked by severe hardening of the arteries.

It is hoped, the researcher said, that heart attacks brought on by faulty circulation within the heart itself may someday be reduced through arterial replacement.

British Birth Drop Hopeful Sign LONDON, Eng. — Britain, one of the world's most crowded little isles, may have begun to stem its population explosion.

According to the country's Registrar-General, Britain's birth rate for 1967 fell to 17.2 per thousand. This is the lowest in 131 years. Last year's births totalled 832,000—or 18,000 below 1966.

The science editor of the London Sun quoted physicians as having "little doubt that the birth slump is due to more effective contraceptive techniques."

It is estimated that more than 800,000 women in Great Britain are currently using oral contraceptives to plan their families.

POOKA, 4-LB. MALTESE, IS THE MASCOT OF A CLEVELAND, OHIO, TRACK TEAM AND HAS HIS OWN JACKET IN THE SCHOOL COLORS

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

A Memorable Feat

Sir Barton failed to get credit in his day for a feat which only seven other Thoroughbreds have since been able to accomplish—the winning of the American Triple Crown: the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and Belmont Stakes. Four more horses had turned the trick before Daily Racing Form turf writer Charles Hatton hailed Calumet Farm's famed Whirlaway as a "Triple Crown" winner, and it wasn't until 1950 that the Thoroughbred Racing Associations made it official by creating a Triple Crown Trophy which has since been awarded retroactively to the owners of the eight immortals.

Sir Barton's Kentucky Derby was a memorable one in various ways. A non-winner for John E. Madden at two, he was bought by Commander J. K. L. Ross, the Canadian sportsman, for $10,000, and was still a maiden when he went to the post in the Kentucky Derby. He was ridden in his Triple Crown races by John Loftus, who should bask in the reflected glory of riding the first Triple Crown winner, but is more often recalled as the jockey on Man o' War in the Sanford, the only race "Big Red" lost. Second to Sir Barton in the Kentucky Derby was his stablemate, Billy Kelly, star of the Ross barn. It was the first time a stable had run 1-2 in the Derby. Oddly enough, it was Billy Kelly that defeated Sir Barton in his final start the following year, a stakes race wordily labeled the "Pimlico Fall Serial Weight For Age No. 3".

Airline President To Receive Mount Degree

George E. Keck, president of United Airlines, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from Mount Saint Mary's College, on the occasion of the college's 160th commencement on Sunday, June 2.

Mr. Keck, a 22-year veteran of the company, has served as president of the world's largest airlines since September, 1963. Prior to his election, he served as executive vice president and general manager.

A native of Chicago, he was educated in that city and graduated from the University of Illinois. Following graduation he was employed in the meat packing business and with a metal container manufacturer. In World War II, he served as a captain in the Army's Corps of Engineers.

Joining United's industrial engineering department in 1946, he became director of that department in 1951. In 1959, he assumed the position of vice president and in 1961 was named executive vice president—operations and a member of the Board of Directors.

He is also a director of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago; and International Harvester Co. He is also a trustee and member of the Finance Committee of the Committee for Economic Development, Chicago; a trustee of the Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, Ill.; director, Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry; director, Mid-America Chapter, American National Red Cross, Chicago; and a member of the Executive Board, Chicago Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

MRS. JESSE D. WILSON
Mrs. Velma Gladys Wilson, 62, wife of Jesse D. Wilson, Jacksonville, Fla., died in Jacksonville, Sunday. She was a daughter of the late Emmett W. and Saretta Osborn Glass.

Surviving are her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Shirley Lanata, Alabama; Mrs. Margaret Robinson, Louisiana, and Deborah Wilson, at home; five grandchildren; four brothers and a sister, E. R. Glass, Kermit and Gilmer Glass, all of Emmitsburg; Wilson Glass, Taneytown, and Mrs. Ora Gilley, Bainbridge, Ind. She was a member of the Methodist Church in Jacksonville.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. C. King Duncan officiating. Interment was in the Keysville Cemetery. Pallbearers were Jimmy, Billy, Gary, Larry, Robert and David Glass.

Frontier Club Suspends Summer Meetings

The New Frontier Democratic Women's Club held its monthly meeting on May 13 at the Emmitsburg VFW Auxiliary Room. The meeting was called to order by the president, Jane Bollinger, followed by the Lord's Prayer and Flag salute. The minutes and treasurer's report were given and approved.

The club decided that on June 13, 1968, they would journey to the Village Kitchen in Fairfield, for a banquet. They are to meet at the Village Kitchen at 6:30. If any members plan to attend, they are to contact Jane Nolan by June 5. Her phone number is 447-2438. The cost will be $2.50

County Code Hearing Set

The County Commissioners will hold a second public hearing on code home rule the second week in June.

The meeting has been set for 8 p.m., June 10, in the Winchester Room, Winchester Hall, Frederick. The first meeting was held May 13, but a sparse crowd attended the hearing.

Charles E. Collins, president of the commissioners, hopes to have the question of code rule in the next general election Nov. 6. He adds that he is not against charter rule, but Frederick County needs home rule now and since charter would take at least two years to obtain, code is the answer in the interim.

The Commissioners must pass a resolution favoring the adoption of code home rule after the two required public hearings. The question could then go before the voters here in the general election.

and the menu includes: fruit cup, baked chicken, scalloped potatoes, green beans with mushrooms, dutch lettuce with bacon dressing, dessert and coffee.

There will be no meetings until Sept. 9, at 7:00 p.m. At this time, Mrs. Virginia Sanders and Mrs. Simon Klosky have planned a covered dish social. They will contact the members before the meeting as what to bring. Jane Nolan will have a speaker for this meeting.

Mrs. Cunningham will have a speaker for the October meeting and Mrs. Shirley Dillon refreshments.

The November meeting speaker will be obtained by Mrs. Kathryn Kugler and refreshments served by Mrs. Ruth Houck.

The members decided to sell chances on a country ham, with Mrs. Frances Rosensteel in charge.

The meeting was adjourned with Mrs. Caroline McGill introducing the speaker, County Commissioner Wallace Hutton. (He gave a very informative talk on the new constitution. Mr. Hutton's talk was most valuable and helpful.)

Senior Citizens Festival Successful

The Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club is pleased to announce that the Spring Festival, held at the Center last Saturday, was a complete success, both socially and financially. Mr. Ward Kerrigan won the 50-50 raffle.

Much credit is due to club members, the community and those in charge of various booths. Mrs. Nora Wetzel and her group, Mrs. Genevieve Clements and her helpers, Louis Stoner, and all who gave both time and effort in making the affair successful.

The new coordinator, Mrs. Helen McNair, has assumed her duties since the first of May and is becoming well adjusted to the routine of the Center. The Senior Citizens are indeed fortunate in obtaining her services and are happy to welcome her and expect to cooperate with her as usual. We also regret that Mrs. William Stemmer was unable to continue as coordinator, due to ill-health. She made many friends while in charge of the Center.

The Spanish class of the Senior Citizens Club enjoyed a Spanish luncheon Monday noon, May 20, presided over by Mr. Ambrose Viloria, who cooked the piece de resistance called "Adobo".

Tuesday evening, the regular monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens Club was held at 7:30 with 53 present. A short business meeting was held at which time several items of business were discussed. Among them an invitation from the East Berlin Club to attend their quilt exhibit where quilts will be on exhibition and for sale. The forthcoming picnic on June 17 was talked over and a welcoming committee was appointed to welcome and get acquainted with the Gettysburg group who have been invited to participate in the event, the members of which are: Mrs. Elizabeth Nester, Mrs. Helen McNair, and Mr. Clarence Frailey. A able committee was also appointed consisting of the following: Mrs. Clements, Mrs. Fuss, Mrs. Wivell, and Mrs. Stinson. It is hoped that every member of the Emmitsburg Club will attend with picnic fare in hand at 6:30 p.m. at Kump's Dam.

Later Dr. Shaum and five of the young men, members of the Glee Club at Mount St. Mary's, sang several solos and entertained the club delightfully with their beautiful singing. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the music and offered them many thanks for a most pleasurable evening.

The ZIP Column

Next Thursday, May 30th, Memorial Day, our business lobby will be closed. There will be an incoming mail and also a dispatch in the morning.

The outer lobby will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., for the Post Office Boxholders. There will not be rural delivery service!

Rural Route 1 was inspected this week, as previously stated. The patrons whose boxes need attention, will receive notice in detail in several days.

In general, the boxes on this route are very well kept. However, a great number of patrons still do not have their name and box number inscribed on the box. These assigned numbers, if not known by the patron, may be obtained from their carrier.

As I have stated in the past, these same route and box numbers combined, are to be used by the patron, as their proper return address, and should be placed on every piece of outgoing mail.

Thanks to our carrier, Wayne McCleaf, one of our patron's houses escaped total destruction by fire this week, as he noticed smoke and turned in the alarm. George E. Rosensteel, PM

Ex-Mount Track Star Performs

A former Mt. St. Mary's track and field star returned to his alma mater Saturday and Sunday and walked off with the decathlon title, the first such event held on the Mount campus. Nine athletes took part in the competition.

Bill Walsh, who now resides in Newark, Del., and who is competing unattached, won the title with 6,803 points, 700 points better than second place Vin Lupo's 6,109. Lupo is a Freshman at the Mount.

Walsh won the discus with a 122'2"; pole vault, leaping 14', and javelin with a throw of 175'-9". He took second in the 110-meter high hurdles and was sixth in the 1,500 meter run.

This marked the first decathlon competition for all but two, Walsh and Larry Sardhurst, University of Richmond. Walsh was 11th in last year's nationals and plans to enter this year's competition again on July 6-7 in Santa Barbara, California.

MRS. OSCAR D. SELL

Mrs. Adah Elizabeth Sell, 79, formerly of Taneytown, died at the Maryland Odd Fellows Home, Frederick, early Monday morning. She had been a resident of the home for the past eight years.

She was the widow of Oscar D. Sell, who died in 1948, and daughter of the late Augustus and Anna (Brown) Bankert.

A member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, she was a Gold Star mother, a member of Taney Rebeckah Lodge 83, IOOF, and the Eastern Star chapter in Westminster.

Surviving are a son, Robert E. Sell, Westminster; two daughters, Mrs. Donald Staub, Westminster, and Mrs. Clifford Keilholtz, Emmitsburg; nine grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren and several great-great-grandchildren; a brother, Robert Bankert, Hanover, and a sister, Mrs. Walter Senft, Westminster R.D.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the C. O. Fuss Funeral Home, Taneytown, with the Rev. Elwood Falkenstein officiating. Burial was in Kriders Cemetery, Westminster.

Lutheran Men Honor Mothers-Daughters

Approximately 135 Mothers and Daughters from Elias Lutheran Church were honored guests recently at the Mother - Daughter dinner held in the Parish House. Potted petunias of red, pink and white, plus white tapers were used in the table arrangements which were provided by the Church Council who also served as host for the delightful evening meal.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Weldon Shank with Mr. Donald Eyer, President of the Congregation, serving as General Chairman. During the evening, various mothers and daughters were honored. These included: Youngest mother, Mrs. Denis Hess; youngest grandmother, Mrs. Bernard Fink; mothers with largest families, Mrs. Daniel Andrew, Mrs. Harry McNair and Mrs. Weldon Shank; mother who came the longest distance, Mrs. Harold Fearer of Cumberland, Md.; mother who had a birthday nearest Mother's Day, Mrs. John Reaves; youngest daughter, Rhonda Keilholtz, five-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keilholtz; oldest great-grandmother, Mrs.

Jacob Adams.

Words of welcome were extended by Pastor W. Ronald Fearer and an expression of appreciation was given by Mrs. James Small, President of the Lutheran Church Women. Concluding the evening was the presentation of a petunia to each mother present.

Recounts Action In Vietnam

We arrived safely at the Pleiku air strip after an unforgettable ride from Cam Ranh Bay. The land was arid and red dust filled our nostrils and irritated our eyes. After a bus ride which took us through Pleiku and past a Prisoner of War camp, we arrived at our destination—4th Admin. Co. Much to my dismay, disappointment and disgust, I hadn't arrived at my permanent assignment, but rather, another replacement center! I knew this only meant one thing: more sandbag filling (only here it was "red dust filling") and harassment. My suspicions were quickly confirmed.

We finished "processing in" at about 1:00 p.m. (1300 military time) and set to work filling sandbags until 7:00 p.m. We went to bed exhausted but found it difficult to sleep due to the slight discomfort of not having a mattress or blankets. I woke up in the middle of the night too cold to go back to sleep, despite the fact I was fully clothed. I managed to find my rubber poncho in the dark and covered myself. It seemed like only minutes had passed when the sergeant came into the barracks sadiistically blowing his whistle as hard as he could. "Get the H--- out of bed young troopers," he blared. We were to spend all day Saturday filling sandbags and tearing down an old bunker.

Sunday we worked until time for church. We were marched to church, waited in line to get in and sat on the floor. The most enjoyable part of the service for me was the singing of several selections by a Vietnamese choir from Pleiku. After church, we filled sandbags until 7:00 p.m., breaking only for chow. We never had any milk with our meals and, having ulcers, I really missed it. That night, the 155mm guns fired all night, a sound I'd become accustomed to by now.

Monday was no different—filling sandbags all morning. That afternoon I helped build a barracks. By the time we got off that night there was no water left in the shower so we went to bed laden with red dust. Even though the showers were cold, I appreciated them when there was water.

Over here, since there is no plumbing, the human waste must be disposed of somehow. Tuesday morning my job was to load the "cans" on the trucks where they were hauled to the dump. We dumped them there, threw gas on the pile and burned it. The pungent odor emitted was nauseous. That detail rather destroyed my appetite for the day. The remainder of the day I went to classes on the M-16 automatic rifle.

Wednesday consisted of more classes—on booby traps this time. We filled sandbags in the evening.

Thursday we went out to the firing range to "zero" our weapons. We passed a village and some of the people came down to sell us anything from bracelets to a bag of marijuana for a dollar. These are mountain people and are distinctly different from the Vietnamese. They speak a different language and are clothed only in loin cloths. The average height is about 5'1". They are dark complected and have facial features similar to the Navajo Indians. I was shocked to see four and five year old children smoking. They smoke some sort of leaves which look like banana leaves or else they smoke a crudely made brass pipe. They looked hungry and undernourished.

Friday night, after classes all day, we left for our permanent assignments. I said farewell to a friend who I met my last day at Cam Ranh Bay and shared a barracks with here. My new station was across camp. We arrived around 8:30 p.m. and received a warm and friendly reception. Thirteen days later, after more daily details, I began my job in the comm-center. The delay was because I had to wait for a verification of my secret clearance before I could enter the Comm-center. I'm well adjusted now to my new residence and have become accustomed to the routine hardships. I'm scheduled to go on a two-day patrol out into the wilds, something I don't look forward to doing, but it must be done. I know I'll return safely because everyone at home is praying for me. I ask all of you readers to pray for those of us serving over here that God will bring us safely home to our loved ones and the freedom we are fighting to defend—a freedom I value now more than ever before.

Professors Elect

The Mount Saint Mary's College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors elected Dr. Emile A. Nakhleh, assistant professor of history, as president for the coming academic year, 1968-69.

Other officers elected were: Dr. William G. Meredith, assistant professor of biology, vice president; Mr. David P. Chowane, instructor in modern language, secretary; and Mr. William E. O'Toole, III, instructor in mathematics, treasurer. Dr. J. D. Broussard, associate professor of philosophy, will continue as editor of the chapter's publication, "Colloquia."

Education Board Receives Grants

The Board of Education has received two Federal grants totaling $23,815 for a city high school and a program for partially blind children.

The board received $20,000 for providing funds for instructional materials at Governor Thomas Johnson High School. A similar project, for the same amount, was approved last year.

Materials from the funds will purchase books, pamphlets and other printed materials, audio and video tapes, both blank and prepared; records, films, film strips, film loops, and transparencies, a Board of Education spokesman said.

Specific areas which will benefit from the funds are those programs aimed at "slow learners", new social studies programs, additional materials for the English resource centers, materials for the Vocational Technical resource centers, and materials for a pilot program in Personal Development which has been initiated for the seventh and eighth grades.

An additional $3,185 was authorized to operate the second year of a summer program for partially blind children.

The children will be from elementary schools who are currently enrolled in the Frederick County program for the partially blind as well as a small number of additional students, the Board announced.

Nine partially seeing children participated in the program in the summer of 1967. The teacher this year will be Mrs. Martha Sullivan, who serves as a teacher for the partially seeing during the regular school year. A college student will assist as a teacher's aide.

The program is tentatively set for June 24 to Aug. 2 and will operate Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The children will further their growth and development by participating in academic skills, instruction in social arts and an opportunity to gain self assurance.
