Either Emmitsburg will have a swimming pool next year at this time or it will never have one. Information has it that the drive for funds is about to start. The committee is ready, the spadework done and all that remains is to test the spirit and willingness of the people of Emmitsburg to share in this community project. Contrary to previous rumors, the pool and recreational area will not disturb the baseball field. This was pointed out to the Town Council at a recent meeting. It's a gigantic task folks, one that perhaps is the biggest undertaken by this community. It's really not a committee job . . . it's a job that we must all put our shoulders to the wheel and grind out those much-needed dollars. There can be no prejudice existing or the project will flop. Everyone and every organization will share in the work and pride of this titanic operation. The project will be operated by a committee on which selected representatives from every organization in town will serve. It is the hope of the committee to raise $80,000. At first this appears to be an astronomical figure far out of reach. However, there will be state and Federal grants forthcoming and the burden will be eased considerably, but here still remains a tremendous task ahead of us. Other communities have done this and are now enjoying the fruits of their efforts. What has been done by other communities can be done by Emmitsburg. You'll be hearing a lot about this project for months to come. Will you help?

With taxes what they are and the cost of living already well out of hand, it makes one's hair bristle when you read that it will cost the Government a cool quarter of a million dollars to restore the ground where Resurrection City once stood, to its former status. This wasn't necessary from the start and the way I personally feel about it is that the Department which issued the permit in the first place, should have its budget cut just that much, just to teach it a lesson. I can remember back following World War I when the veterans' march on Washington, for a few dollars bonus, was met with fire hoses and tear gas and the veterans who had fought just a few short years before to make the world safe for democracy, were run out of Washington. This sure is a far cry from what is being permitted today.

Well by now I presume all of you have gotten your county tax bill and have noticed a decided hike in the sum total. Yes, many are anywhere from $25 to $75 higher than last year. The fun really hasn't started yet this month you will be slapped with another 10% in the federal surtax and the way the state is going in the hole we may have to go to its assistance with a five per cent sales tax next year. No one wants to cut expenses and further more, I don't feel they intend to. I firmly believe that we don't need any more taxes, but what we do need is a tax reform. This would tax the wealthy foundations, oil companies and other large corporations that are not carrying their share of the tax burden. This is an election year and from now on the cry should be: We Need Tax Reform!!!

Vacation Bible School Concludes Summer Session

The Vacation Church School, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Council of Churches, concluded its two week evening classes on Friday, June 28, with a joint worship service in Elias Lutheran Church followed by dessert on the lawn of the Church.

The theme, "God Cares," was used throughout the Vacation Church School. The Nursery Department had Miss Margaret Franklin as leader. She was assisted by Mrs. Hershel Braswell, Mrs. Carl Berndt, Mrs. D. Richard Smith, Mrs. Robert Sayler, Mrs. Robert Hess, Mrs. Donald Leatherman. This group studied "God Loves and Plans for Me."

Two kindergarten classes were conducted with Mrs. William Strickhouser and Miss Carolyn Umbel serving as co-leaders of one group. Mrs. William R. Fearer and Mrs. Galen Goodwin were team teachers for the second kindergarten group which had the theme, "God Cares."

Grades One and Two were taught by Mrs. Ralph Lindsey who was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Staub and Miss Betty Tokar. Their course of study had the theme, "Gifts of God."

Mrs. John Chatlos served as Third Grade teacher and used the theme, "Exploring God's World". Miss Audrey Baumgardner instructed Grade Four who also studied "Exploring God's World". "God and the Universe" was the topic for Grades Five and Six. The instructors were Mrs. Wilson Franklin and Mrs. Margaret Wilhide who taught Grades Five and Six respectively.

The Junior High pupils were instructed by Mrs. Ralph Ohler who was assisted by Miss Sharon Ohler. This age group studied "God and Science".

The Reverend Galen Goodwin of Wesley Seminary instructed the Senior High group in a course on the prophets, entitled "Spokesman for God".

For the first time in local history of the Vacation Church School, conducted by the Protestant Churches, classes were offered for the Adults of the area. Pastors John Chatlos and Eugene Ackerman used a study of the "Parables of Jesus" for the Adult classes.

Mr. Donald Eyer and Pastor Eugene Ackerman, representatives of the Parish Education Committee for the Council of Churches, served as co-chairmen for the initial planning sessions in the late spring. Named as Publicity Chairman was Mrs. William Carr. Pastor William R. Fearer of Elias Church served as Director of the two-week school. Bus transportation was provided by the following drivers: Mr. J. William Strickhouser, Mr. Herbert Rohrbach, Mr. Bernard Wivell and Mr. Chas. Long. Serving as a general worker for the school was Mr. Luther Zimmerman.

An evaluation meeting of all staff members was held on Tuesday, July 2, in Elias Church to make tentative plans for the 1969 Vacation Church School.

Church Schedules Summer Program

On Monday, July 8, St. Joseph's Parish will inaugurate its annual Summer Religious - Recreational Program for the children and young people of the parish. Registration was held on Tuesday, July 2, at which time a large and enthusiastic group was enrolled. The program will be much the same as heretofore; a Junior Session, consisting of Grades five to Monday through Thursday, at 9:45 with the exception of the first session on Monday, July 8, which will be at 9:00; and a Senior Session, consisting of Grades Nine through 12, which will meet on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30.

In charge of the program, which will continue for five weeks, will be a Vincentian priest and two Vincentian seminarians, Father Victor Santoro, and Messrs. David Melsaac and Eugene Finn, together with three Daughters of Charity, Sister John Marie, Sister Mary Stella and Sister Cecilia Marie. A most interesting and varied schedule has been planned, and all indications are that this will be one of the finest yet.

The program is open to all the children of the parish. Those who failed to register on Tuesday, and who wish to participate, may enroll on Monday at the appropriate session.

Senior Citizens To Hear Talk

A reminder to Senior Citizens that the next regular meeting of the club will be a talk on "Medicare" by Mr. Tidwell, at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 16, 1968.

A new sewing machine has been acquired to assist with the sewing class scheduled each Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Clements is in charge. Knitting, too, continues with Mrs. Frances Keller supervising.

The air conditioner is working well, so no one need avoid coming to the center for any of the stated projects.

Every Wednesday afternoon is devoted to cards, both Bridge and Five Hundred. Members, come join the groups.

The Spanish class meets every Monday afternoon. Mr. Ambrose Valuria continues cooking demonstrations on Spanish Cuisine, followed by the class period in Spanish.

The Senior Citizens Club members were shocked and grieved by the sudden demise of Mrs. Grace Smith, who was quite a regular member and visitor at the center. She will be missed by all.

Town Will Enforce Trash Burning Law

Officer James Trout has been ordered to warn trash burners in the community and any other infraction of the local burning ordinance will result in prosecution. This order came from the Mayor and Commissioners at their regular meeting held Monday evening in the Town Office, Chairman of the Board Clarence P. Wachter, presiding.

Mayor Robert A. Seidel mentioned that all press releases pertinent to the Town Council's business not be released unless authorized. Commissioner Wachter seconded the motion but Commissioners Ralph McDonnell, Thomas Bollinger and Norman Flax voted against the motion.

Eugene Rosensteel, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's Recreational Committee, explained the plan to the Board and said fund raising would start July 17. The Commission's goal is $80,000 and if this goal is not met by December 31, 1969, all monies received will be returned to the donors. Robert Orner complained of weeds not being cut on property near his home. Mayor Seidel said he would write a letter to the property-owner who lives in Baltimore.

Mrs. John Chatlos and Mrs. John Warthen were present at the meeting. After some discussion on delinquent water bills, Council decided to issue 30-day notices to those behind in their payments. If after the 30 days have expired and half of the bill hasn't been paid, the Town will discontinue water service to the customer. Rev. John Chatlos extended an invitation to Mayor Seidel to speak to his congregation on the occasion of its 100th anniversary. Due to other commitments the Mayor declined but Chairman Wachter will substitute. A request by residents of Emmitt Gardens to have the road there resurfaced was discussed but no action was taken at this time, due principally to the new housing construction going on there at this time. Mayor Seidel appointed Mrs. Regina Rybikowsky as Town Clerk and Town Tax Collector. The appointment was ratified by the entire Board.

At a special meeting held on June 11, Chairman Wachter presiding, the Board approved the repealing of Article XIV of the Town Code. Thomas Gibbons, C.P.A., was named as official Town Accountant. Payment was approved for the new police cruiser and the salary of $5,500 per annum was set for the new Town Officer, James J. Trout.

On June 19, Mayor Seidel called a special meeting of the Board at the request of Mr. Samuel C. Hays. Mr. Hays acted as spokesman for a group which presented a petition to the Council opposing the repealing of Article XIV. Represented in the group were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Hays, Clarence VanBrakle, Ray Gigeous, Joseph M. Haley, Mr. and Mrs. John Warthen, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baker, Mrs. Charles Dillon and Mr. and Mrs. Arvin P. Jones. Council heard the group, read the petition, but plans no action.

Bernard H. Boyle was present at the meeting and discussed certain expenditures by the Town. Council voted a refund to Charles E. Smith concerning the installation of new water line out the Mountain Road to the Smith property.

At another special meeting held on June 24, water and tax rates were discussed and Council agreed to hold the rates at their present level for another year and the tax bills were ordered mailed. James Welty, property-owner, introduced Mr. Glen Smith who is interested in opening a small leather goods factory in Mr. Welty's property in West End. J. Michael Trout, brother of Officer James Trout, was appointed by the Council to act as off-duty policeman. He will fill in when Officer Trout goes on military duty this summer.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

By Elizabeth Stewart
Women's Medical News Service
Mystery Surrounds Itching Elbows

SAN JUAN, P. R.—No one yet knows the answer to why some people experience agonizingly itchy elbows during the summer months—but the itch is for real.

It's not all in the head.

According to a story in "Dermatology in Practice," a paper for skin specialists, some people develop itchy elbows every summer—and sometimes the itch is accompanied by a burning sensation as well. The symptom becomes worse toward evening, subsides by morning, and then returns on exposure to sunlight.

What to do to relieve the itching? Wearing a sleeve over the affected elbows is about all that helps, Dr. Morris Waisman of the University of Miami School of Medicine told colleagues attending a medical meeting here. He noted that neither salves nor antihistamines nor tranquilizers provide relief. Chemical sunscreens are also ineffective.

But Dr. Waisman did have these words of comfort: "The condition seems to be self limiting, with symptoms ultimately decreasing and disappearing after two, three, or four summers."

Repeated Pregnancies Danger To Health

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Why do health experts consider family planning an important ingredient in maternal and child health care? Here's the answer Dr. Arthur Lesser, deputy chief of the Children's Bureau gave to Women's Medical News Service at a recent medical meeting here:

"Studies have shown that repeated child bearing impairs the health of women and does not lead to healthy children," the physician explained.

"We know that the highest birth rate is among the poor—and so is the highest infant mortality rate. We know that two-thirds of all babies who die in their first year die of complications associated with prematurity."

"Repeated studies have shown," Dr. Lesser noted, "that women with a history of giving birth prematurely, or who have complicated pregnancies will repeat this history," he continued. "We know that the interval between births bears a significant relationship to prematurity."

Dr. Lesser emphasized that the federal government has made an increasing amount of money available for family planning in the past few years because, he said, "We want to make it possible for poor women to space their children in accordance with their wishes and with due consideration given to their health needs."

Noting that there has been a significant decline in the rate of infant mortality among the poor in some large cities where family planning services have been made available, Dr. Lesser concluded, "I believe this proves that poor women want a chance to space their children . . . We hope that by making family planning services increasingly available to them, they will be able to make their own free choice on the number of children they have."

Ladder Climbing No Heart Ache

BOSTON, Mass.—Ladies, encourage your husbands to be ambitious. A five-year study of 270,000 Bell employees, reported at a meeting here, indicates that top management men seem to run a lower risk of getting a coronary than men in the lower echelons.

Heart disease, the study suggests, is not linked to tension as much as it is to smoking, eating habits, and even education. Men who had college degrees when hired, had 30 per cent fewer coronaries!

Maryland's Firearms and Hunter Safety Training Program is blossoming out with an array of new materials.

An all new, attractive "Maryland Safe Hunter" shoulder patch will be one of the new items awarded students successfully completing the Hunter Safety training course. Another new item that will be given the student at graduation will be the recently designed Safe Hunter Certificate of Competence.

Hunter safety instructors that have been active in the program will also be awarded new Maryland Hunter Safety Instructor brassards. These are awarded to any instructor training 10 or more students. Small rocker patches, denoting 50, 100, 500, and 1000 students trained by the instructor

AIN'T NECESSARILY SO

A dab of paint or the addition of a little padding may be all that's needed to salvage a lure that is not producing fish.

Color and size are extremely important in influencing the decision of a fish to smash a certain plug, say the fishing authorities at Mercury outboards. But, the lure in your hand may appear entirely different when scanned by the critical eye of a roving largemouth. He may not be impressed by either its size or color.

Instead of disposing of an ineffective plug, try changing its apparent size by painting it a different shade.

Skin divers have noted that lures painted yellow appear much larger when viewed from beneath the surface. This aberration is apparently caused by reflection, plus the magnifying effect of water. The same model in a different light-absorbing color might appear nearly normal.

Yellow and white-and-red combinations have long been favorite topwater choices; their effectiveness probably derives from the reflective qualities of these colors, not the colors themselves.

But color is not the only way to achieve a false dimension. There are other ways to pad out the girth of a lure without actually adding bulk.

Ordinary flyrod bugs with stiff hackles attached so that they stick out at right angles can create the effect of a larger apparition. The same feathers placed on the tail give the appearance of a longer lure. Neither aberration affects the casting or fishing abilities to any degree, but both create an entirely different impression on fish.

So heed the hues and pad the plugs — a phoney line has been the downfall of many a lunger.

Brilliant Future For Mobile Homes
 WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., July 4—Mobile homes have reached an impressive position in the nation's economy during recent years. And there is every reason to expect great new gains ahead. Almost every possible combination of factors will serve to make mobile homes, of all types, more popular than ever in the immediate as well as the longer-term future.

Low-Income Housing The Key
 Housing costs all up and down the scale have been skyrocketing, so that renting, building, or buying a home is more expensive than ever. Mortgage rates—while they have had their transitional ups and downs—have long been on the rise, and no early reversal of this tendency is in sight. Prices of materials and labor have levered construction outlays to all-time heights. So, many families—especially the young just starting out—are reluctant to strap themselves with a long-term mortgage at these greatly inflated levels.

In short, there are growing (and rapidly) numbers of people who are loath to pour their money down the drain by either renting an adequate apartment at an exaggerated cost or tying themselves down with a mortgage for 20, 25, or even 30 years. It is this set of circumstances that has helped to boom the market for mobile homes, as well as for parks where such residences may be hitched up for whatever length of time business change or personal whim may dictate.

Mobile-Unit Output Capping Predictions
 In recent months, production of mobile homes has been surpassing earlier predictions made by insiders in the field—and by a rather surprising margin. In fact, for the first four 1968 months 90,940 mobile homes were shipped out by manufacturers, compared with only 64,420 for the same span in 1967. This was an advance of 41%, whereas the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association had been expecting what they considered an optimistic increase of 20% for the year.

The fact that some half of the mobile home sales go to the younger generation is a reflection of the flexibility and general mobility of today's youth. Great numbers of young couples are not inclined to attach themselves socially and culturally to one home spot, as did so many of their parents. Now is a time of industrial expansion into outlying areas, into new parts of the country, and the young workers—and even many of those within the middle-age brackets—are often willing and eager to let their ambitions lead them into fresh localities. Then, too, the immense upswing in totals of retirees means still another addition to those interested in the freedom of motion so prevalent today.

Mobile-Home Parks Spreading Fast
 Recent surveys show that the number of parks for mobile homes is rising rapidly. It is interesting to note, too, that in general they are becoming steadily larger and more luxurious. Even so, a house on wheels still offers one of the most dependable forms of low-cost living now available, and more and more people are becoming aware of this. At present, the median cost of rental for a mobile homesite appears to range between $30 and $40 monthly. In many instances this includes electricity, water, and other essential sanitary facilities.

There are steadily more sites ranging above the $60-a-month mark, and a number (mostly in California) are charging upwards of $100. Park owners setting up new locations are averaging 77 sites, indicating a continuing growth in the size of such establishments. Many of the prime locations (again mostly in California, but with quickening expansion in Florida too) are meeting the competition in the upper-brackets field by providing more sumptuous facilities such as swimming pools, club houses, restaurants, sports areas, and health spas. Vacancies are, on the whole, relatively sparse, and the following states, in the order named, are the most rapid current builders of new mobile-home areas to meet rising demand: California, Florida, Texas, Michigan, Arizona, Indiana, New York, Ohio and Oregon.

Further details are available at ASCS county offices.

On-Farm Storage Shows Large Increase

On-farm crop storage capacity has been increased by at least 111.4 million bushels in the Nation since July 1, 1967, through farmer use of the farm storage facility and drying equipment loan program of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, according to James M. Voss, Chairman of the Maryland ASC State Committee.

This amount, given in a progress report on the first 10 months of fiscal year 1968, is more than 27 percent of the 40.4 million bushels storage capacity added through the program during all of the 1967 fiscal year.

The greatly increased use of the ASCS farm storage facility loan program is attributed to the need for farm storage as a tool in stabilizing farm prices through orderly marketing. "Farm storage helps make it possible for a farmer to wait for the right market to sell his crop. It means he doesn't have to sell at the height of harvest, when farm prices are often at their lowest. With a price support loan on his crop and good storage facilities, he is in a real bargaining position," Chairman Voss said.

Loans are made for farm storage of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, oats, barley, rye, and soybeans. Both farm storage facility and drying equipment loans can cover up to 5 per cent of out-of-pocket costs for purchase and installation. These are approximately 4.1 per cent loans running for 5 years, repayable in 4 annual installments, the first due on the loan's first anniversary date.

Though a farm storage facility loan can be for as much as $25,000, depending on need, by

D.M.V. REPORT

Who's Using Seat Belts?

Several recent national safety reports indicate that seat belts are saving increasing thousands of American lives every year because millions more of us are wearing them—but they also indicate a steadily declining percentage of those who have them, use them.

This is not really paradoxical, but it is discouraging to dedicated traffic safety workers.

In 1963, a nationwide survey by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee (part of its annual safety check of more than a million cars in states that don't require regular inspection) showed that 9 per cent of the cars in the check lanes had seat belts. Nearly three-fourths of the drivers who had them said they always used the belts on long trips, and most said they wore them on local trips as well.

The situation changed rapidly after January 1, 1964, when manufacturers made two front seat belts standard equipment, and again on January 1, 1966, when they added two rear seat belts to the list. (Since January 1, 1968, belts have been required in all seating positions.)

Predictably, AIHSC inspectors found belts in 65 per cent of the cars in the check lanes in 1967—but barely half the drivers said they always used them on long trips (down 5 per cent from 1966) and hardly more than a third—38 per cent—said they always wore them on local drives.

Equally significant, the percentage of those who testified they never wore belts climbed from 10 to 17 between 1966 and 1967.

As AIHSC pointed out, "there are no laws requiring seat belts to be worn."

Obviously, those who picked and paid for seat belts in 1963 were a great deal more inclined to use them than were those who paid for them without necessarily having chosen them four years later.

Well, why bother? The answer lies in the other survey, this one by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, whose 15-year-old Automotive Crash Injury program (ACIR) has led Cornell to state bluntly:

"Your chances of suffering serious injury or death in injury-producing auto accidents are nearly 50 per cent greater if you refuse to use a seat belt."

If Cornell believed in slogans—which it doesn't—it might have said: Be a user, not a loser.

Instead, the Laboratory subjected 651 matched pairs of accidents to painstaking study. From an information bank now containing the records of some 70,000 cars involved in injury-producing accidents, the CAL computers picked 651 seat-belted occupants and matched their accidents 11 different ways with those of 651 unbelted motorists—the cars, their occupants and accident conditions.

The result was a scientific analysis of the effects of seat belt use under virtually identical crash conditions.

One conclusion: universal use of seat belts all the time, around the block as well as coast to coast, could save 8,000 lives a year. The data also shows that belted occupants are injured far less frequently and far less severely.

Other benefits of seat belt use are specific and predictable. Belts all but eliminate ejection from the car—the single surest route to death. Most ejections come during rollovers, when passengers not thrown out are usually subjected to considerable buffeting about. Belts also prevent this.

Injuries to the thorax—the body above the hip—are cut 30 per cent by seat belts because they prevent the body from being launched as a projectile after the initial collision. This in turn markedly affects the mechanisms and categories of injury.

For instance, belts prevent most occupants from contacting the windshield—thereby eliminating many of the lacerating head injuries which follow from hitting and breaking the windshield with the head. More head injuries are therefore attributed to hitting the steering wheel or the instrument panel—but these are more likely to be of the "bump" kind, and the chance of disfigurement is sharply reduced.

But can't the belts themselves hurt you? Yes, says Cornell, it happens—but only in accidents that are so severe that the chance of escaping unhurt "would be unlikely in any case."

Both the Cornell and AIHSC studies have been supported for a number of years by the Automobile Manufacturers Association as part of a continuing program of industry-sponsored safety research.

Clairvaux History

Continues

Clairvaux — Chapter X

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: Last week I promised to make this chapter one to be entitled, Nisk Nicking, a part of Carrollsburgh, now Mount St. Mary's but it must wait for I have caught another item that commands my attention.

Two years ago, I read a French manuscript, of Fr. Dilhet, allegedly the founder of a school at Cross Keys, Pennsylvania, that finally became Mt. St. Mary's College. This French Manuscript, prepared in 1806-07 speculated that Father DuBois was about to be transferred from Frederick to "Hannenburg."

In my imaginative mind, I thought that Dilhet was simply identifying the town to which DuBois was in fact sent, and that Emmitsburg, or Elders Station, to which he actually came, was known in those days as "Hannenburg". Not so.

As I stated in the last chapter, there was in colonial Maryland, at least 200 towns known only by the names of the owners of the grand tracts on which particular towns seemed to spring... as mushrooms from the ground.

I should have perceived from what Dilhet said, that somewhere, in the Monocacy Valley there was a tract, owned by Hannen, on which a town had sprung up. Even so the name Hannen was strange to me. There was indeed, in the Emmitsburg area a family named Amman, and an ancient settlement called Annandale, but "Hannan", or "Hannen"? Where could Dilhet have been referring to? Some latin linguists tend to drop an "H" here and there, and yet Dilhet used the "H". He did not say "Annandale" or "Annanburg", but Hannenburg. I supposed, that knowing his weakness, he had added an "H" where an "H" did not belong. For two years I sweated. Just where had Dilhet referred to? Now I know. Dilhet was not referring to some ancient name by which Emmitsburg or Elders Station was formerly known but to "Hannenburg." If he were setting beside me now, and if I were to inquire: "Did you mean Annandale, Annanburg, Carrollton, Emmitsburg?" he would have lost all patience with me. Except for his restrained character he would no doubt say "No, damn-it, Hannenburg! H-A-N-N-E-N-B-U-R-G... damn-it!"

So, where does one find "Hannenburg", except somewhere on a tract of land once owned by some Joe Hannen? For two years I sweated and was unahppy; wouldn't it be easier, John, to just put out a sign "Carrollton" and charge $2.00 admission? Why should the burden of all this fall on me when genuine scholars sit back holding their bellies in laughter?

Anyway, last week, after two years of fretting, I found an old map—probably the 1794 map previously referred to—on which, at a particular site, east of the Monocacy River, was the family name "Hannen". Was there a Hannenburg at that location in 1806?

I now interrupt this narrative to find out... but I still think I'm being imposed on.

About 105,000 new cases of skin cancer are reported annually. Yet this form of cancer is largely preventable through avoidance of overexposure to the sun, says the American Cancer Society.

New GI Bill benefits apply equally to all Armed Forces veterans with service after January 31, 1955.

Some 65,000 new cases of breast cancer will be discovered this year says the American Cancer Society.

Husky Tower Joins Western Sights

Calgary, Alta.—The highest structure of its kind in North America—the 62-story Husky Tower—has been added to famous western attractions for visitors.

The view of the Canadian Rockies is spectacular from the revolving restaurant and observation terrace at the top of the Tower. The restaurant, seating 210, revolves completely once each hour.

The 626-foot concrete and steel reinforced structure looms over Calgary, western Canada metropolis nestled on the prairies just east of the Rockies.

Husky Tower joins such other popular attractions as nearby Banff National Park, Lake Louise and Jasper National Park.

The $3 1/2-million Tower is named for the Husky Oil Company which produces, refines and markets gasoline and other products in the western prairie and mountain sections of the United States and Canada.

Some 3,000 cubic feet of concrete were used for the new six-million-pound, Calgary landmark. It is 94 1/2 feet across the eight-foot thick base upon which the Tower rests 20 feet below ground level. The diameter is 66 feet at ground level and the walls are a foot and a half thick.

The shaft decreases to 31 feet across at 450 feet; the walls narrow to 10 1/2 inches thick. The top of the Tower "pod" varies from 78 1/2 feet to 89 feet across just under the "bubble" skydome in the roof.

Two elevators whisk 25 persons at a time from ground to top in a minute and three seconds. There are 762 steps from top to bottom.

THE HIGH ROAD, PLEASE!

Looking Ahead by Dr. George S. Benson President NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM Searcy, Arkansas

How Foreign Policy Is Made Our nation's foreign policy is not entirely made by the President. The most powerful force in the shaping of policy resides in a "group of advisers" in the Department of State (not including the Secretary of State).

A clear illustration of how U. S. foreign policy and military decisions are made is related by journalist Lloyd Mallan in reporting on an interview with Gen. Nathan F. Twining, recently retired Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Twining, on the basis of his "inside" knowledge of military and diplomatic affairs at the highest levels, believes the President is being influenced disastrously by State Department advisers in the present "No Win" military policy in Vietnam.

"General Twining told me an exceptionally interesting story to illustrate how Russia and Red China have our Government's civilian advisers hoodwinked—and how these same advisers can impress their views up the highest office in the land, unless at least one person with ranking authority bothers to investigate all sides of the issue.

"The issue in this case was the crisis in Lebanon, when the Russians were preparing to send in their tanks and armies to take over that small Middle Eastern nation. If the Kremlin could take over Lebanon, they would feel confident to attempt other coups among the Centro (Central Treaty Organization) and even the NATO nations.

"At two o'clock in the morning on the day of decision, General Twining received a phone call from the Secretary of State. The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs was asked to come over and discuss the situation from a military point of view. The Lebanese Government had requested American troops to thwart the Kremlin, but Dulles' civilian advisers had warned him that my making a show of force in Lebanon, World War III would be started.

"Twining found Dulles pacing the floor when he arrived. The Secretary's first words were: 'Nate, I want you to advise me about this. Is there any real danger that the presence of our troops in Lebanon would cause the Russians and their allies to go to war against us?' Twining shook his head: 'Negative. Not a chance. They know our response would be massive—and our power is superior to theirs.' Dulles then said: 'If that's the real truth, then why are my advisers so worried?'

"I don't know," said General Twining. 'But maybe they misread the situation and underestimate our military strength—something the Russians never do.'"

Dulles, from experience, knew he could trust Twining's knowledge and judgement. General Eisenhower subsequently sent a U. S. military force into Lebanon, and the Russians backed off. This is a significant incident in view of the fact that Mallan interviewed 12 of America's top military leaders and all agreed that the U. S. could launch a victory offensive in Vietnam, and win the war in six weeks, without bringing on war with Russia or Red China.

Some of the people who advised Dulles, faultily, are among the ones now advising a "No Win" policy in Vietnam.

Firemen Collecting Ice Cream Sticks

The annual ice cream stick campaign is being conducted by the Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association now thru August 21. Fire companies and public swimming pools throughout the county are cooperating as collection stations.

While this is the third year that the local TB Association has collected icecream sticks it is the first time the project has been conducted on a state-wide basis due to the tremendous need for the tiny items.

According to Dr. William Newcomer, Superintendent of Mt. Wilson Hospital, no substitute for these small sticks has ever been found in the Hospital's occupational therapy program.

What Do You Mean: "TO SIN IS TO DIE"?

A lot of people just don't believe St. Paul's warning that "the wages of sin is death."

Not when they see so many sinful scoundrels live to a ripe old age.

They conclude that the "death" referred to in the epistle to the Romans was a figure of speech, and that there really is no such monstrous punishment for those who sin.

Taking St. Paul's words literally, they contend, is responsible for the old-fashioned "hell-and-brimstone" concept of punishment for sin. And this concept, they add, doesn't make sense in these enlightened and sophisticated times.

St. Paul was not speaking, of course, of death in the physical sense. But neither was he speaking just figuratively. For the "death" to which he referred is more tragic and more to be feared than the inevitable ending of our mortal lives... and no less real.

"The wages of sin is death" to our friendship with God. It is our rejection of His love. It is our voluntary surrender of the right to eternal salvation which He offers us through the life and death of His own divine Son. The "sting" of death is a frightening thing only if it finds us alienated from God, when truly "the wages of sin is death."

Sin is never a popular topic. And even when a sense of guilt troubles our conscience, we are apt to excuse and rationalize our weakness. To err is human, we say to ourselves. And the old-fashioned notion of sin doesn't fit today's standards of right and wrong. And it's so comforting to blame our lack of holiness on a disturbed emotional experience, environment and family background.

But whether we like it or not, the most important thing in life is to face up to the problems and consequences of sin.

If you want to do that... if you are seeking the personal holiness that will keep God in your heart and your life... take a few minutes to read a new pamphlet we have just published and which we will send free upon your request.

This interesting, easy-to-read pamphlet covers such topics as "Our Sense of Sin"... "The Bible and Sin"... "Kinds of Sin"... "Causes and Consequences"... and "Overcoming Sin."

Taney Lions
Start New Year

The first meeting of the 1968-69 club year, of the Taneytown Lions Club under the gavel of recently installed President Herbert Bowers, was held Tuesday evening at the Taney Inn.

The Lions had as their invited guests, the official family of the City of Taneytown. Those present were George Naylor, Henry Reindollar, William Hopkins and Thomas Smith. Other members were unable to attend due to previous commitments.

Lion Thomas Smith, program chairman, introduced Sen. Charles Smelser who spoke on "Town-County Relationship," the need for working jointly on such problems as land fills, water and sewer systems, annexation—in fact on all problems that are of joint concern.

The Senator stressed the need for cooperation—the value in the fact that groups can and do meet jointly to solve common problems. Results are gratifying.

City Council President Naylor in his remarks stressed the need of and invited greater participation in council meetings by the citizens of the community.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Club Meeting Held

The regular monthly meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club was held at the home of Jim and Dick Keilholtz on June 24 at 8 p.m. The 42 members present answered the roll call by naming a bone of the body.

Preceding the meeting, Dick Keilholtz gave a demonstration on "A Well-Equipped Tack Box," and Jim Keilholtz gave a demonstration on "Changing Oil in a Tractor."

Then Mr. Raymond Keilholtz showed the club his new milking parlor and explained how it operated.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Tim Keilholtz, and the secretary's report was read and approved. Due to the absence of the treasurer, who was attending 4-H Camp along with eleven other girls of the club, the treasurer's report was not given.

Project reports were given by Jane Basler on Dairy; Mary Ann Keilholtz, Viki Wivell, and Marguerite Bollinger, on Sewing; Mrs. Vernon Keilholtz on Flower Arranging; and Ralph Keilholtz on Horse and Pony. Those 4-H'ers attending Demonstration Day were Gene Bollinger, who placed 2nd, and Jeff Keilholtz, who placed 1st.

It was announced that eight boys will be attending 4-H Camp the first week of July.

Ralph Keilholtz told the club of the Community Show being held this fall, and literature concerning this event was distributed.

Tim Keilholtz and Gene Bollinger reported that they were participating in the State-to-State Exchange with Michigan.

The club voted to hold a Tour Day in August.

The meeting was then adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Keilholtz.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day
Canine Horse Owner

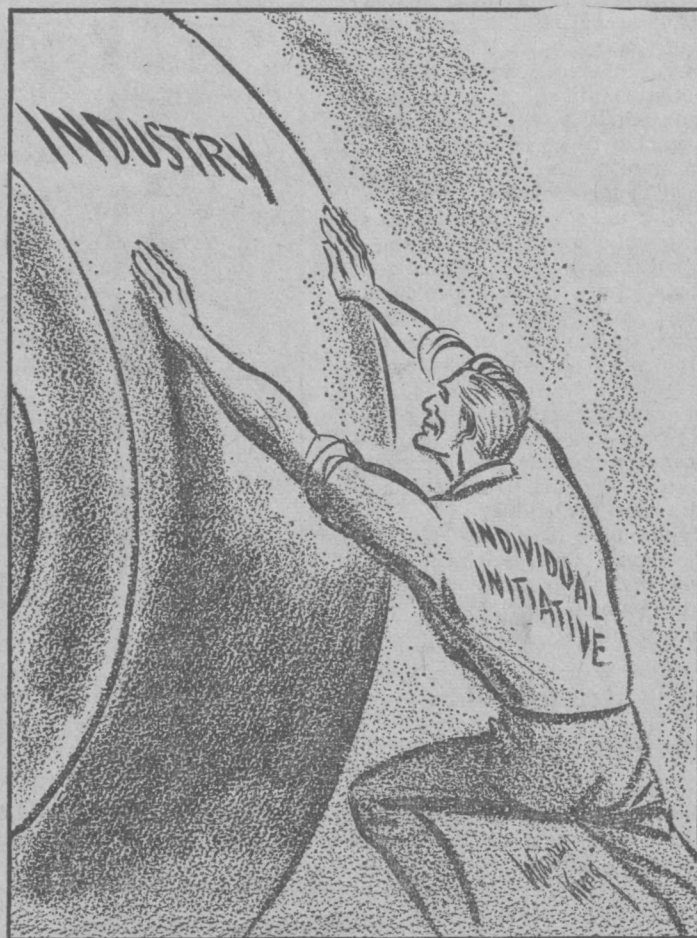

Not all of the world record prices paid for Thoroughbreds during 1967 were rung up at the Keeneland or Saratoga sales. One record was established in England's Newmarket sales last December, but it took a Californian bidding against a Texan to make the colt Vaguely Noble the highest priced race-horse-in-training ever sold at auction. Bidding for the colorful Hollywood beauty surgeon, Dr. Robert A. Franklyn, Albert Yank, an equally colorful California horseman, went to 136,000 guineas (then worth $342,720) to outbid Nelson Bunker Hunt, of Dallas, son of H. L. Hunt who is described as "superrich even by Texan standards." Bunker Hunt has since become half owner of Vaguely Noble, and another member of the syndicate formed by Dr. Franklyn is reported to be J. Brandie Berry-Bush, Esq., a golden retriever. Other dogs have been credited with owning a master, but J. Brandie Berry-Bush is probably the first and only canine horseowner. He also has his own bank account and is the legally registered owner of the family station wagon. A year ago, Dr. Franklyn owned J. Brandie Berry-Bush, assorted other prize-winning golden retrievers, 15 rare Scottish deerhounds, but no horses. Starting at the Del Mar Sales last August he paid $73,200 for five yearlings and now owns or has an interest in race horses valued at $1,500,000. None has raced as this was written, but Vaguely Noble has been nominated for the Triple Crown—the Kentucky Derby, May 4; Preakness, May 18 and Belmont Stakes, June 1.

funds under Title VI will aid six other departments in the purchasing of new equipment and materials. The home economics department plans to acquire two items of basic equipment, a crockmeter and a drapeflex machine, to introduce experimentation with textiles in the laboratory experiences of home economics majors. A statistics laboratory is presently being established in the mathematics department. The calculators, besides providing students with experience in using statistical devices, will also reduce the time spent on long arithmetic calculations, thus providing additional time for conceptual work. The art department will acquire an etching press and associated material which will provide students with practical experiences to support the theory of creating works of art through etching. In the history department, plans are being made to purchase a protomic camera, capable of taking finely-detailed photographs of maps, charts, and tables. These films will provide a permanent library resource for use in audiovisual presentations in various history courses. The music department will use its share of the grant to purchase a tape-recorder for student and faculty use in evaluating professional and student recitals. Materials and equipment will also be purchased by the education department to enrich the holdings of the curriculum library, which houses audiovisual and other teaching devices in support of the professional education courses offered. An over-head projector for campus-wide use will also be purchased under the matching fund program. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Quinn of Silver Mine Falls, Conn., spent the past week here visiting their many friends.

Little League Action

The third-place Yanks scored heavily in all but one inning as they walloped the league-leading Red Sox 12-2 Monday evening. The Yankees blasted out 12 hits in the attack. Six players each had a pair of safeties to account for all the hitting. They were Harold Engelstatter, Denny Adams, Steve Sprankle, Mike Rosensteel, Tony Buch and Rick Click. Engelstatter went the distance on the hill to post the win. He fanned eight, walked six and allowed but two hits, a single in the first by Mike Olinger and Bill Carr's second inning double.

Alumnae Head Is Selected

At a recent general meeting on the Emmitsburg campus, the St. Joseph College Alumnae Assn. elected Miss Barbara Anne Duffy of Philadelphia to a three-year term as national president, succeeding Mrs. Henry Ratke of Williamsport, Pa.

Moran, Hagerstown, and directors, Mrs. Ronald Niklaus, Shiremanstown, Pa.; Mrs. Donald Parmlee, Wayne, Pa., and Mrs. Thomas E. Roche, Jr., Watertown, Mass.

She is a member of the Philadelphia and American Bar Associations and has served as legal advisor to the alumnae.

St. Joseph's Grants Total $10,000

Under the College Library resource program, St. Joseph's received $6,500 for the acquisition of books and other library materials. Besides its application to book purchases, the library grant will be used to develop the microfilm section, begun last year thru a supplementary grant under the same Act.
