

Frederick County Backgrounds

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Odds And Ends
 It is a well-known fact that in the oldest section of Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard, the "dead are buried three and four high." This is not an isolated incident but is true of all old burial grounds. Usually the first interments are placed in the immediate vicinity of the meeting house itself—but time and the "grim reaper" caused the circle to widen. The first descendants are those buried within the shadow of the "sacred edifice" and had no choice but to obtain burial plots some distance from the original family graves or reuse the original places of interment. Many chose the latter course, hence the congestion.

At the east and west areas Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard trash grows over markers of comparatively recent date. The center section is, apparently, where the first and therefore the oldest burials were made.

With this in mind it is possible to pinpoint the old families who first used Tom's Creek as a burial place. They can be listed, in part, as the Emmits, Morrisons, Agnews, Annans, Culbertson, Paxton, Gamble, Williams, Rogers, Guthrie, Skiles, Robertson, McKeechen, Horner, Grier, Shields, Robinson, Stewart and Murdoch, to list only a few.

It must be remembered, however, that there were probably more unmarked graves at Tom's Creek than were designated by markers.

In regards to the Agnew family—there has always been some question as to the relationship between the Marsden Crich family of that name and the Maryland branch. According to the late Mary Virginia Agnew, family historian and geneologist, David Agnew, the ancestor of the Pennsylvania clan, who was buried with his second wife under an impressive coat-of-arms" stone in Lower Marsh Creek graveyard, was a brother of Samuel Agnew, who is buried in an unmarked grave at old Tom's Creek. Their tradition probably had some foundation, in fact—for the same given names were used in both branches. From Samuel (1) Agnew, is descended, by intermarriage, certain lines of the McCreary and Gardiner families.

Buried in the old section of the churchyard and in the midst of a number of unmarked graves, are the following:

1. In memory of David Agnew, died Sept. 1, 1888, aged 66 years, 5 months and 13 days.
 2. In memory of Mary Jane Agnew, wife of David Agnew, died Dec. 14, 1861, aged 65 years, 5 months and 21 days.

Interred next to this plot are the Morrisons and evidently there was some relationship for William and Helen E. Morrison had a son, David Agnew Morrison, who was born in 1779 and died in 1882. There are other Agnew graves at Tom's Creek, but how interesting it would be to definitely identify the occupants of the unmarked sepulchres.

In a plot, enclosed by an old iron fence, are interred members of the Stewart family. The inscriptions follow:

3. In memory of Rebecca Stewart, died Sept. 29, 1844, aged 17 years.
 4. In memory of Keith Stewart (remainder of inscription undecipherable.)
 5. Sacred to the memory of William Stewart, died May, 1817.
 6. In memory of Julia Ann

Stewart, died Aug. 29, 1815, aged 50 years.
 7. In memory of Jane Stewart, died April 2, 1813, aged 20(?) years.
 8. In memory of Jane Stewart, died May 10, 1813, aged 65 years.
 9. Alex Stewart, died May 14, 1821, aged about 86 years.
 10. In memory of Rosanna Stewart, wife of John Stewart, May 9, 1844, aged 63 years, A sinner saved by grace.
 11. In memory of John Stewart, born February 13, 1772, died April 5, 1866, aged 89 years.
 12. Sacred to the memory of James Stewart, son of Dr. Alex and Elizabeth Stewart of Shippensburg, Pa., born Sept. 12, 1841, died March 29, 1856.
 Note: The inscription proves a definite "tie-in" with the old and honored Stewart family of the Cumberland Valley. The little boy probably died at the home of relatives at or near Emmitsburg and was interred at that place.
 13. In memory of John Stewart, son of John and Rosanne Stewart, died April 19, 1852, aged 40 years 7 months and 13 days.
 Note: This stone is self-explanatory—probably a bachelor son buried with his parents.
 14. Sacred to the memory of Margaret Stewart, died May 29, 1827, aged 39 years.
 15. In memory of Mrs. Margaret B. Stewart, wife of Rev. Robert S. Grier, born June 26, 1818, died March 8, 1902.
 Note: Margaret Withrow Stewart Grier was the third wife of the Rev. Robert Smith Grier. She first married into the Stewart family and many years after the death of her first husband, became the wife of Rev. Grier. No children were born to this union and on death the "Widow Grier" was interred in the family plot of her first husband.

According to a family reliable tradition the Stewarts came to Tom's Creek Hundred, Maryland, from the Cumberland Valley, in Pennsylvania. The "when and why" of the move is not known—but there is a definite connection and relationship between the two families.

Another burial plot in the old section of Tom's Creek Churchyard is that of the Murdock family. There is only one grave marker, and the inscription reads as follows—

16. Mary Murdock of William, died May 22, 1810, aged 65 years.
 Also of William Murdock, died March 1, 1820, aged 76 years.
 Ann Murdock of William Murdock, died November 28, 1848, aged 92 years.
 Note: William Murdock was an early settler in Tom's Creek Hundred. Little is known pertaining to his family—but this stone marks the grave of the pioneer and his two wives.

The historical and genealogical study of Tom's Creek Presbyterian Churchyard will be continued in this series next week.

Tydings Would Speed Construction Of Sixes Dam

Senator Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.) has urged the Corps of Engineers to submit a separate proposal for construction of the Sixes Bridge and Verona reservoir in Maryland and Virginia so that ground breaking "can begin at the earliest possible date."

The Maryland Senator said he was recommending that the Corps treat Sixes Bridge and Verona as separate projects to remove them from controversy surrounding the construction of other proposed reservoirs in the Upper Basin of the Potomac.

At present, Sixes Bridge and Verona are part of a package of six reservoirs proposed to be built in the western part of the Free State, Virginia and West Virginia. The other four are Town Creek, North Mountain, Sideling Hill and Little Cacapon.

"Since the controversy over the others will result in unnecessary and unacceptable delay for Sixes Bridge and Verona, I urge the Corps to submit the two projects to Congress as a separate package so that construction of these priority reservoirs can begin at the earliest possible date," Tydings wrote Maj. Gen. Fred J. Clarke, Chief of Engineers. None of the six reservoirs have yet been authorized by Congress.

"The early construction of these two reservoirs should help avert an immediate water shortage for the National Capital Region in the 1980's."

Tydings noted that, "unless storage facilities are provided in the Upper Potomac Basin, in fifteen years the (National Capital) Region may find itself without a sufficient water supply."

The Senator stressed the importance to Maryland of the Sixes Bridge reservoir, which would

Summer Reading Reports Due

Boys and girls in the Summer Reading Program have a few more days to complete their reports. The deadline is Tuesday, August 26. All those who have read eight (8) books will receive certificates at the watermelon party on Wednesday, August 27.

Some children need only one or two more titles on their reading records. Books may be on any topic—fiction or non-fiction. After telling the librarian about the books, writing a report, or drawing a picture showing some aspect of the story, young readers list the books they have read.

Return of the State Police

The contents, valued at over $2,000, were also lost. The barn was on the Ray R. Kline farm, located on Md. 77, about a mile east of Rocky Ridge.

The fire occurred after the noon hour Tuesday. Lost was a baler, drill, and 1,500 bales of hay.

The fire was discovered by Sandra Kline, 20, who noticed flames coming from the barn near the top of the roof when she went to take some clothes off the line.

Rocky Ridge, Gaceham and New Midway Fire Companies were called, but when they arrived the barn was engulfed in flames and the roof of the structure had collapsed.

Top E. Barnes, fire marshal, was called to the scene, but he was unable to determine immediately what the cause of the blaze was. After checking the electrical wiring, he discounted possible electrical causes after finding no short circuits.

A young boy, who lives near the Kline residence, is being questioned by Barnes, but as of Tuesday night this possible lead had not developed. The investigation has been turned over to Tfc John

23 Die On State Roads In Week

Twenty-three persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police. Eight of those killed were drivers, nine were passengers, and six were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the cases, speed in fifteen, and "driver error" in eighteen.

"Excessive speed for conditions was the most prominent contributing factor in last week's fatal accidents," noted Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the State Police.

"For many years the safety experts have been warning motorists to Slow Down And Live because Speed Kills. Unfortunately, too many have failed to take the warning seriously, and their failure to do so has had very tragic results. The figures for last week, which regrettably are not unusual, certainly point out just what can happen when the warnings are ignored."

The Steel Industry
By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 21, 1969—Although most steel companies have reported both lower sales and earnings for the first half of this year, compared with the initial six months of 1968 (the year-ago period was inflated by buying in anticipation of a possible industry-wide strike), the industry still has performed somewhat better than originally expected. The high level of industrial activity so far this year has buoyed steel demand, especially in such important areas as automobile production, construction, and the capital goods field. At the same time, steel imports, reflecting the U.S. dock strike earlier this year and exceptionally strong demand in Europe and Japan, are well under the 1968 rate.

With steel demand continuing strong during the third quarter, second-half results, for most companies, should compare favorably with the depressed showing in the latter half of 1968 (when swollen inventories were being worked off). Consequently, full-year results for 1969 could approximate last year's level.

Change in Accounting Aided 1968 Results

On the surface, the combined figures of most of the steel companies for 1968 gave the impression that the industry had performed exceptionally well. On a 10.4% gain in net sales and revenues (as compared to 1967) the industry posted a 12.3% gain in net income. A close look at the latter figure, however, reveals that much of the increase came as a result of a change in accounting methods as most companies switched from the accelerated to the straight line methods of computing depreciation. Consequently, depreciation, depletion and amortization charges declined 19.7% from the year-earlier figure. Thus the gain in per share results, reported by many companies, was at least partially due to the new book-keeping.

Renewed Optimism

Despite the frustrations of the past, there is a growing sense of optimism about the future of many steel companies. To a great extent, this is based on the industry's willingness to look at other areas which could provide greater growth. Diversification seems the most promising method by which steel companies can move out of the doldrums, improving both their financial results and their Wall Street image.

Looking at the steel business itself, there is also room for optimism. As mentioned earlier, foreign imports of steel are under last year's rate. Imports have been one of the greatest problems facing the steel industry in recent years, and any relief in this area could prove significantly beneficial to domestic companies. Also, the massive outlays on new plant and equipment should result in increased efficiencies in the future.

A Change in Direction

Despite the massive capital outlays of recent years, the steel industry has not improved its return on investment to any significant degree. This has been a chronic problem for the industry. Recently, improvement in this area has become the prime objective of management in many steel companies. More significantly, there is now a discernible trend toward diversification through product development, acquisition, or merger. In time, we feel that many steel companies will be importantly involved in other areas besides steel—areas which offer greater growth opportunities.

At the present time, the Research Department of Babson's Reports recommends that new purchases of steel equities be deferred, pending a more stable market atmosphere, or further price weakness. At that time, National Steel may be purchased for participation in the steel industry. Another issue which bears watching, and could be considered as a potential buy candidate is Bethlehem Steel, National, the fourth largest steel company, has registered a profit for each year since 1929. Bethlehem is increasing its participation in the growing Mid-western market.

"Gaslight" Plots Described

LONDON, Eng.—The Gaslight Treatment really exists.

Two British doctors, writing in the medical publication "Lancet", have described two almost-successful plots to get rid of unwanted husbands by confining them to mental hospitals.

In one case, a wife's attempt to convince doctors that her husband was irrationally violent was foiled when her lover was overheard describing their plot in a local bar.

In the other case, the wife insisted that her husband, a pubkeeper, was a dangerous alcoholic and succeeded in having him confined to the alcoholic unit of a psychiatric hospital. Again, a lucky coincidence brought to the doctor's attention the wife's boast—to a relative—that she had fooled the doctors, got rid of her husband and planned to take over his tenancy of the pub.

The moral of these cases, commented the physicians, is that doctors should beware of accepting a relative's unsubstantiated accusations.

Whence Potbellies?

BOSTON—Why do middle-aged men who go to pot develop potbellies?

Dr. George Cahill, Jr., of Harvard Medical School says it's because of the peculiar nature of a man's abdominal fat cells which react more to the hormone, insulin, than ordinary fat cells.

When full-thickness skin grafts have been made from a young man's abdomen to his arm, Dr. Cahill points out, a "marked protuberance" will develop years later on the arm as well as at the waist.

However, since muscle-stretch-and overweight are the other vital ingredients for a potbelly, loss of a trim waist is by no means inevitable, Dr. Cahill notes.

How Suburban Teenagers Date

CHICAGO — By high school graduation, one out of 10 suburban middle-class boys has lost his virginity. By the end of the freshman year in college, three out of 10 boys are sexually experienced.

This emerges from an intensive study of typical adolescent boys by Dr. Daniel Offer, a psychiatrist, who believes that his findings accurately mirror the experiences of about one-third of the middle-class teenage population.

"The normal adolescent does not experiment much with sexuality," Dr. Offer found. Most boys waited until their junior year of high school to begin dating and, even then, their dates were infrequent.

Since many students are apparently dimly ignorant about birth control methods, the sexually inexperienced equate intercourse and pregnancy. They also worry about being mature enough to handle sexual intimacy.

You can lose it. You can burn it. You can tear it up.

We replace it.

Now, we don't suggest that you start taking U. S. Savings Bonds to parties to light your cigarettes. But if your Savings Bond is ever lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed, all you have to do to have it replaced are these two things:

1. Notify the Bureau of Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois 60605. Send in the serial number, if you have it, along with information about where and when you bought it. And send whatever is left of your damaged Bond.

2. Then complete and return Form PD 1048 which the Treasury will be sending you.

We'll replace your Bond with a duplicate. Or with full payment, if you like. Because Savings Bonds are an investment in your country. And there's no safer investment than that.

Another thing. Savings Bonds are easy to buy, too. Just go to your bank. Or join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

It's Springtime on the Costa Smeralda

Spring comes early to the Costa Smeralda, the incomparable "emerald coast" of northeast Sardinia, and with it an increasing number of Americans are drawn to the unique attractions of this Mediterranean Eden.

Most of the action is along the 35-mile coastline—a landscape of rugged headlands and promontories studded with picturesque harbors and 80 white sand beaches. Offshore, the bright emerald waters furnish the finest sailing in the world—in recent years the Costa Smeralda has become one of the yacht and small-boat capitals of the Mediterranean. Inland, the beautiful hinterland is a joy at any season, a vista to savor slowly in the soft days of the Sardinian spring.

Americans are drawn to the Costa Smeralda by the same Mediterranean magic which attracted His Highness the Aga Khan in 1962 when he and a small group of landowners began to plan a new and totally different resort and residential community. They and people of taste and distinction, who soon followed from all over the world, came to the Costa Smeralda because there is no other place on earth so simply enchanting.

It will remain so because the Aga Khan and the Consortium he heads have commissioned a distinguished group of the world's finest architects and planners (organized as the Costa Smeralda's Association of Consultants) to guide and strictly control all future growth. Areas for every kind of residential and commercial building have been strictly defined. Architecture must meet severe esthetic standards. Population density is, and always will be, low.

Five charming hotels have already been built in conformity with a master plan. Rates are well in line with those of first-class hotels at popular resorts. Low also are the cost of villas and apartments—as little as $12,000 to purchase a flat, or $24,500 for a four-room villa, land included.

The Costa Smeralda is being developed not so much for the affluent as for the appreciative. For such people, the Costa Smeralda's Real Estate Agency will oblige by arranging as many or as few details as needed: land, financing, architect or approved architect's plans, interior decoration, servants, even sub-leasing and servicing of the villa in the owner's absence.

The Costa Smeralda is served daily from Rome, Nice, Genoa, and Milan by air (Alitalia and Alisarda) and sea (passenger and car ferries from Civitavecchia, Genoa and Toulon).

J. Glenn Beall, Jr. Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Last week I made some general comments on the tax reform act of 1969 and this week I would like to continue by giving you some idea of the tax benefits for the average taxpayer that are contained in this legislation.

First of all, and perhaps most importantly, the tax rate for all those people who have incomes that range between $7,000 and $13,000 will be reduced by 6.3%. This means of course that there will be a sizable savings for people in this income tax bracket. Secondly, for those people not in that bracket the present standard deduction amounting to 10% of one's adjusted gross income will be changed in a graduated scale until in 1972 it comes to 15% of adjusted gross income. The need for this has arisen from the impact of higher medical costs, higher interest rates, high State and local taxes, and increased home ownership which has encouraged more and more taxpayers to itemize their deductions. Under this provision more than half of all taxable returns will benefit from the increase in the standard deduction and it amounts generally to a reduction in rate of about 5%.

For those who have very low incomes the minimum amount of income that a family unit might earn without incurring tax liability is raised to $1,100 plus the sum of $600 for each personal exemption. Under this provision almost 6 million poor people will be taken off the tax rolls.

Finally widows, and single persons age 35 or over will be allowed one half of the splitting benefits available to married persons filing joint returns. These of course are known as "head of household rates" and now for the first time this very deserving group of people will be able to take advantage of this lower rate structure. In addition a surviving spouse will continue to receive the full income splitting benefit to married couples filing joint returns so long as she continues to support a dependent child in her household.

To offset the loss of revenue from these reductions many loopholes have been closed so that it is no longer possible for people in high income brackets to avoid the payment of all taxes through using various tax preferences.

The tax reform bill of 1969 is a broad and comprehensive review of our tax laws. It changes more than one-third of the internal revenue code and provides for the biggest overhaul since 1913 when the income tax was first enacted.

Although there are benefits in here for almost all of us, the important change is the fact that our tax laws will now be more equitable than they have been before.

The bill is now through the House and before the Senate for consideration, where all indications are that it will be acted on, in substantially the same form, before the end of the year.

This 6-Point Program protects consumers.

Every responsible person agrees that "consumers should be protected."

Probably the best protection lies in the unique system that relies primarily on the private sector and individual responsibility—the system where people protect people: businessmen protect customers by self-regulation, consumers protect themselves by becoming more alert and better informed, and people protect each other through the Better Business Bureaus.

More specifically, this is how people protect people through the business-supported Better Business Bureau:

With help of modern filing systems, BBB personnel respond quickly to millions of consumer inquiries a year.

1. Consumer inquiries are answered. Well over four million calls come to Bureau offices each year. Nine out of ten are inquiries—about a company's reputation or some business practice. Within seconds most Bureaus can provide facts about firms which are subject of frequent inquiry. Responding to requests for consumer literature, the Bureau's annual distribution of pamphlets runs in the millions.

2. Consumer complaints are acted on. If a person ever feels he has been misled by advertising or a sales talk, he is encouraged to contact his BBB at once. Bureau shoppers investigate ads and commercials to determine accuracy of claims, and when warranted, seek correction or adjustment.

3. Customer relations are handled. Many who call the Bureaus don't have a true complaint (the company is technically innocent) but the customer is still troubled. Bureaus explain why the company acted as it did (or why the product performed as it did) or refer the person to specialized agencies, such as a state banking department, home builders association or credit counseling service.

4. Advertising standards are set. Together with companies and trade associations, Bureaus help set advertising codes and standards.

5. Consumer education is offered. Through the Bureaus, business offers the nation's consumers informative films, booklets, talks and public service advertising—to help them get more for their money.

6. Facts are brought to government. To help guide officials in determining whether legislation is needed, and in shaping meaningful laws, the business-financed Bureaus make available the goldmine of information gathered by BBBs.

Facts about business-customer relations, obtained from Bureaus in all parts of the country, are available to Washington officials.

What's the best way to get value and satisfaction when you buy? The Better Business Bureau says, follow these 7 rules: 1) Buy only from reliable businessmen. If you don't know the firm, ask friends or neighbors. 2) Don't shop for price alone. Quality can be just as important. 3) Read ads carefully. Be cautious when you see claims of "unbelievable savings!" 4) Learn to recognize a really honest salesman. 5) Take contracts seriously. Read before you sign. 6) Get guarantees in writing. 7) If in doubt, find out—from your Better Business Bureau.

Football Group Awaits School Board Action

The Catoctin High School football program is currently up in the air awaiting a report for a school football committee.

According to principal Howard Goodrich, who is leaving the school August 31, he will not send a letter to the Board of Education requesting football at the school until a committee he formed comes up with a "procedure of implementation" that he has requested.

"If the plan comes in before I leave, I would consider sending a letter to the Board because I feel the quicker the school gets a program started the better it will be," Goodrich said.

"I want to be able to show the Board that we are not taking things lightly."

According to rules set down by the Board of Education the principal of the school must officially request a football program in a letter to the Board once the money is acquired. The Catoctin Boosters raised the $10,000 needed for football last June.

Goodrich added that he does not see how the committee could come up with a plan by the time he leaves. If he does not get one, he will leave it up to the new principal to request a football program. A new principal has not been named.

However, Carlos Englar, who is the head of the committee and a coach at the high school, said there is a chance his group may come up with a plan of implementation by the end of the week.

The committee consists of football coach George Kuhn, women's physical education teacher Lois Wastler, and guidance counselor Gail Quick.

According to Englar a plan could be formed if all the information he requested from supervisor of physical education Roy Comer has been sent to the school.

The information concerns equipment and insurance needed, field seeding and the like. Comer said he sent the list to the school a few weeks ago, but Englar has been on vacation and has not had a chance to pick it up.

In another development Tommy Fogle, head of the Catoctin Boosters which raised the money, said he does not anticipate any trouble with a new principal concerning a football program.

"I don't see how we could have any trouble," he said. We've raised all the money and obeyed all the rules. But I was hoping it could be completed with Mr. Goodrich."

Miss Lynn Paidakovich, Silver Spring, has returned home after spending a week with her grandmother, Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder.

Scouts Active

At Encampment

We certainly can be proud of the showing our Boy Scout Troop made during their week at Camp Bowman (one of six camps on Lake Merriwether near Goshen, Va.) While they were required to cook their own meals, maintain their own campsites, and participate in completing daily Patrol and Troop projects, most of the boys also were able to complete important merit badge work and attend various instructional classes in first aid, cooking, canoeing, boating, swimming, star-gazing, etc. The Troop also completed two 5-mile hikes, both over moderately rough and hilly terrain.

One of the three Patrols from the Emmitsburg Troop, the Hawk Patrol, was awarded the coveted Clean Campers Award. This award was based on points given during daily inspections of 18 Patrol campsites by the Camp Bowman staff. The Troop also narrowly missed getting the "Gold Rush Award," which went to the Patrol exhibiting the best overall knowledge of Scouting.

Individual achievements were as follows: Life rank, Carroll 'Skip' Newcomer; 2nd Class rank, Bruce Hollinger; Merit Badge in Forestry, Skip Newcomer and Dale Shields; Merit Badge in Canoeing, Skip Newcomer, Dale Shields and Robert Sanders; Partial Work; Paul Antolin, Tom Antolin, and Robert Henke; Merit Badge in Marksmanship, Mark Zurgable; Completed Mile Swim, Paul Antolin, Tom Antolin, Robert Henke, Joe Lupinski; Half-Mile Swim, Robert Sanders; 1st Class Swim, Bruce Hollinger, Michael Rosensteel, Kevin Ray, Donald Stoner, Robert Sanders and Brian Williar;

Attendance Certificate, N.R.A. Small Arms Training Course and Pro - Marksman, Mark Zurgable; Safe Swim Defense Certificate, Robert Rosensteel, Ass't. S.M.

Adult supervision for the 20 Scouts was assumed by volunteers Robert Rosensteel and Raymond Baker, who are to be commended for the encouragement and leadership they provided, over and above an entire week of their time. (They subsisted on what the boys cooked, too!) Much valuable assistance was provided by Troop Advisor Paul DiLorenzo, Eagle Scout from Rockville and student at Mount St. Mary's College.

Credit is also due to several local organizations for their generous financial assistance: VFW Post 6658, VFW Ladies Auxiliary, Knights of Columbus, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, and the Town of Emmitsburg. Boy Scout Troop 284 is sponsored by the Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion.

Local Sergeant Promoted

CMSgt. James L. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Miller, R1, Emmitsburg, and former NCOIC of the 1100th Material Squadron, Bolling AFB, D. C., was recently appointed Wing Sergeant Major for the 1100th Air Base Wing.

Prior to entering the Air Force in 1947, Sergeant Miller had been in the Army 29th Division since 1942.

Various places where Sergeant Miller has served have been Guam, Japan, Korea, Hawaii, France, Vietnam, Germany, England, Iceland and Alaska.

Sergeant Miller has been decorated with the Bronze Star, Air Force Commendation Medal, Army Commendation Medal and the European Medal with five battle stars. The also received an outstanding unit award.

While playing baseball for the Hickam AFB Flyers, Sergeant Miller was picked for the Olympics in Australia in 1957. He played both football and baseball in Japan. Sergeant Miller is the 1969 Bolling Youth Baseball Commissioner.

Community Action Headed By County Commissioners

After months of debate, the county commissioners have made themselves the controlling agent of the Community Action Committee.

They passed a new ordinance Friday creating the board of county commissioners for Frederick County as the Community Action Committee.

Commissioner Charles E. Collins said Monday, "it was a unanimous vote" and added that he believes this ordinance gives "us control of the agency as of the date we passed it."

He pointed out, however, that "this is a disputed point and we may not actually be able to take control until Aug. 1, 1970."

Mrs. Nancy Blanks, director of the CAC, said about the new ordinance, "I will do everything in my power to insure that the CAC remains an independent agency as it should be."

Under the new ordinance the board of county commissioners supplants the CAC board of directors as the power which makes it operate.

They have assumed all powers of policy making, program approval, staff appointments, and control of all funds for the operation of the CAC.

Instead of a board of directors the commissioners have constituted an "administering board" to give the agency its local participation of citizens requirement.

The administering board is made of the same way the old board of directors was except its powers are vastly deleted. Under the powers granted to them they will act as a recommending body to the commissioners on policy matters while the commissioners have the actual control.

H & R Block To Sponsor Tax Course

H & R Block, America's largest tax service, announces the formation of its Basic Income Tax Course starting September 16 and a second course starting October 15, according to Mr. Joseph Dunn, head of the Frederick area.

According to Mr. Dunn, "The purpose of this school is to train anyone interested in learning to do income tax work with the possibility of employment in any of the more than 4,000 H & R Block offices. There are three offices in Frederick, and others in nearby towns and cities."

Mr. Dunn pointed out that the ever-increasing detail work involved in preparing tax returns makes it imperative that a tax man know his job. "A graduate of our school will be qualified for immediate employment, whether he works for us or not," he stated.

Classes will be conducted in Frederick at 223 North Market St., in the main H & R Block office. All text books, supplies and necessary tax forms will be furnished by H & R Block without cost to each student who pays the small tuition fee charged for the course. The course will consist of 24 three-hour sessions, beginning September 15 with the choice of morning, afternoon or evening classes.

Registration for the H & R Block Basic Income Tax Course is at the Block office at 223 N. Market St., Frederick, now and up to starting date of the classes. This office now is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays and 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays. The telephone number of tax school information is 662-3443.

Graduates of the tax school will receive diplomas attesting to their qualifications. Mr. Dunn said, "It should be understood that enrollment in this school is not guarantee of employment by H & R Block. However, the basic function of the school is to provide qualified personnel for the greatly expanding number of H & R Block offices and ever growing volume of tax returns prepared by them."

He explained that job opportunities, either full or part time during the tax filing period, interested many housewives, retired persons and others with spare time. "Any individual having the ability to work with figures and to meet people is competent to complete the course," Mr. Dunn said, "Part time workers find this work interesting and remunerative."

Shoe Company Holds Picnic

Fifteen year service awards were presented at the family picnic of Freeman Shoe Co. held at Big Pipe Creek Park, Taneytown, Md., on Saturday, August 9. In attendance were over 500 employees, their spouses and children of the Emmitsburg factory.

Receiving the 15 year service awards were: E. M. Tyler, R2, Emmitsburg; R. M. Jordan, DePaul St., Emmitsburg; J. R. Brown, R1, Taneytown; W. L. Glass, R2, Emmitsburg, and A. W. Lawrence, R2, Emmitsburg.

Michael Wolo, general superintendent, and Rufus Rhodes, plant manager, on behalf of the company, expressed their appreciation to the recipients for their excellent employment records. Other employees have received service awards and it was stated the company wishes all employees would achieve this longevity and continue further to receive retirement benefits.

The picnic was a huge success and enjoyed by all who attended. The day started with a softball game and continued with contests and games for the children. There were also pony rides for the children. The adults enjoyed horseshoe pitching, bingo, and a treat to a full stomach of food.

As the picnic came to a close, the only participant that didn't want to go home was a pony named "Star." He refused to board the truck, however, after a careful reprimand by Rufus Rhodes, plant manager, the pony decided he had better obey.
