A real scare was thrown into many individuals this week when the Government announced that it was banning the use of cyclamates (artificial sweeteners) from the market. Many soft drinks, ice cream, etc., are using these sweeteners. Research has recently discovered that these cyclamates, when given in large doses, induced cancer in the bladders of rats. Now please don't become needlessly alarmed. There have been no cases recorded where the sweeteners have affected human being, but just to play extra safe, the Government is banning their use.

The season of Halloween is here and the dates set for UNICEF collection, Trick or Treat Night and the big Parade. UNICEF will collect money for United Nations' Children Wednesday night and the youngsters will be permitted to Trick or Treat to their heart's content Friday, the same evening as the Parade. These activities have done much in recent years to take the vandalism out of what we refer to as Old Halloween. The kiddies are content to go along with the fun, however, it's the older youths that seem to step out of line and eventually get themselves into trouble. We don't really anticipate any trouble over Halloween, but if it does occur, the Town will be amply staffed with police, so don't you older folks worry to omuch.

Just a gentle reminder folks, Daylight Time leaves us Saturday night. We have been operating on "fast time" since April and now the designated time has come to revert to Standard Time. That will come in Saturday evening when you retire, so don't forget to set your clock back an hour, or you'll wind up at church Sunday morning an hour early. Besides that, we all could use that extra hour's sleep!

Inflation with its high prices and high interest rates is really beginning to show into this area. House-builders say that business has slowed to a veritable trickle and all that is going on now is some minor remodeling. There are practically no new homes being constructed in this area and won't be until prices drop on materials, labor and also the interest rate. There is no way of telling how long this situation will prevail so we'll just have to sweat it out.

Well our beautiful mountains once again have drawn thousands of motorists to and thru our old Town on their way to the scenic mountains which are extremely beautiful this time of the year. It's a pity that we can't devise some means of getting these motorists to stop here and visit our places of interest . . . and spend a few dollars. Other towns have made a real business of this sort of thing but we have failed miserably in capturing any of the business that goes rolling right by our front doors. We should make some concentrated effort to show these people exactly what we have here, our two colleges, Provincial House, Seton Tomb, the Grotto, fields and streams and the grandiose mountains right in our backyard. Anyone got any ideas?

UNICEF Will Collect Wednesday

This Wednesday, Oct. 29, has been declared UNICEF Trick or Treat Day by Mayor Robert A. Seidel, of Emmitsburg. All children of the Emmitsburg District are invited to participate in this campaign for the United Nations Children's Fund. Children will meet at St. Joseph's Church Parish Hall at 6:45 p.m. Groups will be given instructions and areas of the Town will be assigned for solicitation. It is asked that all local citizens cooperate with the children in this worthy endeavor. Upon completion of the collection for UNICEF, refreshments will be served to the participating children in St. Joseph's Church Parish Hall.

Spook Parade Scheduled For Oct. 31

The annual spook and goblin parade will be held Friday evening Oct. 31, it has been announced by officials of the American Legion Post 121. Providing music for the event will be the Emmitsburg Municipal Band, Chairman William L. Topper reports.

All local kiddies, and adults too, who want to be participants in the big parade are asked to assemble at the Doughboy monument in West End at 6:30 p.m. to obtain numbers which will be used to identify the participants, should they be lucky enough to be classed with the winners.

The parade march-off time has been established at 7 p.m. sharp. Leading the promenade will be the American Legion Color Guard, police cars, the local band, participants and whatever floats that are on hand.

The affair is sponsored annually by the Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, and following the parade, refreshments will be served on the St. Joseph's rectory grounds.

The line of march will take the parade directly from the Doughboy, through the Square, down East Main St. to Federal Ave., up DePaul St., to the St. Joseph's Church rectory grounds. The judges will review the parade at the Square. All prize winners are asked to pick up their prizes at the rectory grounds.

Prizes to be awarded this year are: Funniest costume, $5, $2, 1; best looking costume, $5, $2, $1; best-decorated bicycle, wagon or tricycle, $5, $2, $1. Two mystery prizes of $5 will be given.

Band Sets Fast Pace

Next week, the Emmitsburg Municipal Band faces one of the busiest weeks in its history.

On Tuesday, October 28, the band will participate in the annual Gettysburg Halloween Parade at 7:30 p.m. Then on Thursday, October 30, the band will journey to Hanover for that community's Halloween Parade. The bus for these parades will leave St. Euphemia's Hall at 6:30 p.m. These two parades are competitive, so all members who have uniforms will wear them.

On Friday, October 31, the band will lead Emmitsburg's annual Halloween Parade. For this outing, the members may dress anything they wish. If they want to wear funny costumes, they may do so. All members are urged to be at the band room by 6:15 p.m.

On Saturday morning, November 1, the band will hold its monthly food sale in the Fire Hall, starting at 10 a.m. until 12 noon. These sales have been highly successful, so all members keep up the good work. Bring in those pies, cakes, cookies, candy and other goodies. Let's make this the best sale ever!

Once again, all former members of the Emmitsburg Band are invited to rejoin this growing organization. Your experience and talent would be most heartily welcomed.

If any of the citizenry has any instruments lying around the house or in their attics which they would like to donate to the band, these instruments would be greatly appreciated.

Once again, the members of the band would like to thank the good people of Emmitsburg and vicinity for their fine support and genuine interest. The band belongs to the town, and every where we go, we advertise the community of Emmitsburg. This is our goal; and we do it with pride!

VFW To Mail Service Gifts

Parents and friends of servicemen now serving in Vietnam who would like the local Veterans of Foreign Wars to send Christmas packages to them, are asked to furnish the names and addresses of these men to the VFW.

Names and addresses can be made directly to the VFW or to Michael Boyle, at Boyle's Store. It is extremely important that these names be received in the very near future.

You too have had your "off" days. Psychologist Rex B. Hershey of the University of Pennsylvania has conducted experiments which showed that horses and their animals have their emotional ups and downs with cases of the "blues" sometimes lasting for three or four days.

Local Housewife Conducts Drive For Korean Orphans

Clothing for the orphans of South Korea is badly needed, according to M/Sgt. William Mackinzie, pictured with a group of Korean orphans who are living under squalid conditions and hunger. Mrs. Mackinzie, Emmitsburg, has begun a campaign to aid the orphans and asks the generous help of Emmitsburgians. See story below.

An Emmitsburg, R2, housewife, "haunted" by the conditions of squalor and poverty in an orphanage in South Korea—described to her in a letter from her Air Force husband—has decided to do something about it.

Mrs. William Mackinzie has asked and received permission to place receptacles at various locations in Emmitsburg—the Public School, Mother Seton School, the town library and the laundromat—in which the public can deposit clothing and other items which she will mail to her husband's USAF unit to give the orphans for Christmas.

She is also asking others in the county for help.

This is the part of her husband's letter—M/Sgt. William Mackinzie—which led her into her effort:

"The captain asked me to ride along to town with him to go to the orphanage to take some money to them—the so-called place where the kids live is absolutely terrible; you just can't imagine the dirt and filth those poor kids live in.

"Those kids are all infants to seven years old. We had taken along a bag of candy for them—those little faces were beautiful when I started passing it out one little guy dressed in a sweater and nothing else, didn't get one, and the little girl tried to tell me, he went crying around the corner and of course, soft-hearted me, went after him, then I just gave all the candy to them, some had four or five pieces and then they were all smiles!

"After taking pictures all the way to town I just couldn't take any inside the yard, it was so bad. These kids and babies have nothing from day to day except what the guys at the base give them.

"We are in the process of building them a new house but it's done by the month after each payday. They can only buy so much cement and blocks with the money they get. It's so pathetic . . ."

Mrs. Mackinzie said, "This is a verbatim quote from a letter I received last week from my husband, who is stationed with the United States Air Force at Kunsan Air Base, South Korea—and it has haunted me ever since it came.

"In this troubled age of anti-Vietnam demonstrations and so-called moralizations, why can't we here at home make some small token of support for our men over there?"

"And what better way than a clothing drive for these children of the orphanage that these men of ours in Korea are interested in helping?"

"So, therefore, I have asked for and received permission to place boxes at various locations in Emmitsburg: the public school, Mother Seton School, the town library and the laundromat.

"I am requesting on behalf of my husband's outfit, the 354th Combat Support Group, any contributions of children's clothing, small clean stuffed animals, bars of soap, small combs, barrettes, etc., and candy for their Christmas treat.

"I already have one pledge of financial assistance from a firm in Taneytown, which will help pay the postage on these packages to Korea. However, more help is needed.

"Any church organization, business firm or any private party who wishes to help please get in touch with me by November 5 at 447-2507 or write me, care of Paul Glass, R2, Emmitsburg, Md.

"If you have clothing you wish to donate and can not get them to one of the collection boxes, please call me and I will have them picked up. Any and all help will be gratefully accepted.

Displays Numerous Farm Engines

On October 18, Earl Sheeley and his step-son, Ralph Ohler, Sr., decided to give their version of a home style "William's Grove" farm engine show.

At one time or the other they had about sixteen of the twenty farm engines they own, fired up, including the one Mr. Ohler now uses to saw wood.

Mayor Seidel Proclaims Next Friday As Trick Or Treat Night

Emmitsburg's Trick or Treat for the younger set will be held on Friday, Oct. 31, between the hours of seven and ten o'clock, Mayor Robert A. Seidel announced this week.

As stated, the treating will be permitted only one night next week. It has been customary in recent years to confine this annual treat to one night to avoid becoming a public nuisance by carrying on the affair several nights. Parents are asked to cooperate in this affair by making certain that their children Trick or Treat on next Friday evening only. This gives all local kiddies an opportunity to participate in the Halloween Parade and to canvass the homes for candy and apples until ten o'clock that night.

During the day approximately fifty people stopped by to see the engines working. Even the old-time steam boiler was fired up and full of steam.

One of the guests, Mrs. Victor Woerner, presented Mr. Sheeley with two large pumpkins, one weighing eighty-two pounds, to add to his Autumn scene in his front yard.

Gettysburg police Monday, reported thieves broke into the "Mr. Powell" men's shop on Lincoln Square and stole more than $14,000 in clothing Saturday night or early Sunday.

Noting it marked the second weekend in a row that thieves have hit clothing stores there, police said they believe the intruders are professional clothing thieves.

A week ago Saturday night, the intruders broke into the Mary Edith dress shop, also located in the Lincoln Square building, where they took nearly $2,000 in women's suits. The two stores are only a few hundred feet apart.

Borough Police Sgt. Russell H. Potter, Jr., said the thieves made off with approximately 100 British imported suits of silk and wool; five McGregor overcoats, three fur trimmed; a $75 jacket and many wool sweaters.

Entry was gained by jimmying a door at the side of the building. The store, located beside Faber's restaurant, was the former site of the Hoffman barber shop.

The burglary was discovered about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Lincoln Square building janitor, Paul Ryan, who noticed the lock broken off the side door. James Cropp, manager of the Powell store, said the loss was covered by insurance.

Local C of C Conducts Drive For Members

In an effort to bolster its membership, the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce voted Tuesday evening at its regular meeting, to send letters of invitation to local business men and women and interested individuals, to join the organization. The meeting was held at Mt. Manor Restaurant with the president, Mrs. Jane Bollinger presiding.

Father John King, chairman of the Recreation Committee, reported that picnic tables and trash cans had been installed in the Recreational Area on Community Field and that fireplace grills have been received but that the Town would wait until next spring to install them. The chairman called for the immediate installation of a street light in the area, and the group concurred, in an effort to minimize any possible vandalism. The Town Council will be consulted about the matter.

It was announced at the meeting that Mayor Robert Seidel will meet shortly with the County Parks and Recreation Commission to study the possibility of constructing a swimming pool in Emmitsburg.

A letter from Congressman J. Glenn Beall was read stating that the State Roads Commission had replaced the two stolen tables from the Picnic Area on Rt. 15, at Tom's Creek Bridge. The Chamber will write a letter of thanks to the Roads Commission for the prompt replacement of the tables. The president announced that she will attend a meeting of the Frederick County Chamber of Commerce in Frederick on Nov. 6 to which all presidents of the Chambers of Commerce in this area are invited. Mrs. Jane Bollinger was named as delegate to the Emmitsburg Community Fund and a $10 donation by the group, to the Fund, was voted.

The president invited all members to attend a talk to be delivered in the VFW by Corporal Carl Harbaugh of the State Police, on Nov. 10, at 8 p.m. A movie will be shown and dope addiction and confiscation will be discussed by the trooper. The talk is being sponsored by the New Frontier Women's Democratic Club. The next regular meeting of the group will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 18, at Mt. Manor.

Scouts To Conduct Light Bulb Sale

The Emmitsburg Boy Scouts have announced final plans for their light bulb sale. An 8-bulb package—consisting of two 100-watt, two 75-watt, and four 60-watt bulbs—will be offered for just $2.00. This is just as cheap, if not cheaper, than the regular store price per bulb.

Members of the three Scout Patrols will be making house-to-house calls very shortly, so if you need bulbs, they would appreciate your patronage.

These are brand-name bulbs, fresh from the factory warehouse, so you can be assured you are getting top quality merchandise. If you want to phone in an order, dial 447-2562, 447-6272, or 447-6253. No canvassing will be made outside the town limits, but phone orders will be delivered to nearby out-of-town residents.

Mr. Frank Bouey, Altoona, Pa., is visiting here this week with friends and relatives.

A routine fingerprint check of an applicant for an exercise boy's license by the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau revealed the subject had an arrest record of 108 offenses in 24 states ranging from bicycle theft to the sale and use of narcotics.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By Samuel Carrick
Whose Family Is This?

The Scotch pioneer had an "itching foot" and if he had a neighbor within three miles of his "dwelling house" felt crowded. Even before the War of the American Revolution the westward exodus had started—lead by the persevering and untamed Scot. After the successful conclusion of that struggle the trails to the far horizon were almost crowded—emigration to the uncrowded frontier had begun in earnest. Only the Pacific Ocean stopped them but their way can be traced through records and old burial grounds. Their dead had to be left behind.

Considering the age of Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard and the number of families that buried therein it is reasonable to assume that it contains more unmarked graves than marked. Also considering the migratory instincts of the early Scot many of the people interred at this site have no descendants in the vicinity of Emmitsburg at present time. Therefore the title of this column—Whose Family Is This?

Last week the Curran-Hays burial plot and relationships were discussed—today these notes are continued.

The last stone in the enclosed Hays-Curren plot to be mentioned was erected to the memory of a little girl who lived just a few days beyond seven months. This marker is broken and out of place but the inscription is still legible.

16. Sacred to the memory of, Ann Maris Manson, daughter of Johannan and Mary Ann Manson, Died April 16, 1830, Aged 7 months and 4 days.

Note: This is, apparently, the oldest grave in this particular plot. Just how this child and her parents fit on the Hays-Curren family tree is not known at this time.

Just outside the fence enclosing the plot—slightly to the west of the same, is the grave of Jane Curran. The inscription follows:

17. In memory of Jane J. Curran, Born August 4, 1826, Died April 15, 1900.

Note: Very obviously Jane J. Curran was related to Elizabeth (Curran) Hays, the wife of Joseph Hays. Quite possibly they were cousins for both had the same given name.

There are a number of unmarked graves in the Curran plot in which Jane J. Curran is interred. The outlines can be traced even at this late date. In line with these graves is the burial place of James Agnew, who closed "an amiable and useful life" on December 13, 1798, in the sixty-fifth year of his age. Could his burial in this particular place have any significance? Was he, by any chance, related to the Hays-Curren clan? There are other members of the Agnew family buried in another section of Tom's Creek churchyard. Why is the "Amiable" James interred here in lonely grandeur?

This concludes, for a time at least, the notes on the Hays' Curran families.

One of the early ministers to serve the Tom's Creek Presbyterian congregation was the Rev. Dr. William Paxton. He lived at Millerstown (now Fairfield), Adams County, Pennsylvania, and from that point ministered, for a time, to three churches—namely Lower Marsh Creek, Piney Creek, and Tom's Creek. After a lifetime devoted to the service of his fellowmen, the Rev. Dr. Paxton died and was interred in the Lower Marsh Creek churchyard. His grateful parishioners erected a large altar tomb to his memory and this remains in good condition to this day.

Rev. Dr. William Paxton was a native of Chestnut Level, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and was, in his youth and young manhood, a member of the Presbyterian Church bearing the same name. Many members of the Paxton family are buried in this old graveyard and some of his immediate descendants are interred near Dr. Paxton at Lower Marsh Creek. However—there are Paxtons buried at Tom's Creek. To what family did they belong—did their ancestors travel south from Chestnut Level? Here is a mystery of sorts. The inscriptions follow:

1. In memory of Emily J. Paxton, wife of Samuel C. Paxton, Died January 20, 1879, Aged 45 years, 2 months and 12 days.

2. In memory of Samuel C. Paxton, Died April 29, 1885, Aged 57 years, 7 months and 17 days.

A little to the east of this plot, next to the Fackler family, are three more Paxton graves—as follows:

3. In memory of William Paxton, Died September 21, 1853, Aged 62 years.

Note: This name bore the same given name as the venerable minister—a coincidence or designated family relationship? Who can tell?

4. In memory of Clara E. Paxton, daughter of S. C. and E. J. Paxton, Died June 21, 1859, Aged 1 month and 10 days.

5. In memory of John William Paxton, Died May 24, 1860. (No age or other particulars given.)

Among the early settlers in what is now the Two Taverns area, in Adams County, Pennsylvania, but what was known before and for some time after the Revolution as Larimer's Taverns, was the Hunter family. Few of their graves are now to be found in the County in which they pioneered but there is a Hunter family burial plot at Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard. It is located beside the graves of the Shields clan and it is interesting to note that the two families intermarried. The inscriptions follow:

6. In memory of William Hunter, Died August 26, 1822, Aged 75 years.

7. In memory of Elizabeth Hunter, Died August 13, 1854, Aged 88 years.

8. In memory of Suzanna Mary Hunter, Died March 11, 1898, Aged 70 years, 5 months and 16 days.

9. In memory of Jane Shields Hunter, wife of Joseph Hunter, Born May 4, 1804, Died March 22, 1883, Aged 78 years, 10 months and 18 days.

10. A. Ross Hunter, Died September 19, 1879, Aged 42 years and 9 months.

The genealogical and historical study of Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard will be continued in this series next week.

If the Shoe Fits—
What causes a 'Pump Bump'?

'Pump Bumps' are those swollen knobby bumps at the back of women's heels. Then tend to build up near the point at which the top line of the shoe fits against her heel. Pump bumps range from soft puffs of flesh to very hard callouses.

For some women, the bump remains approximately the same size and shape. For other women, the bump swells and becomes painful each time she breaks in another new pair of pumps.

Pumps fitted too short cause pump bumps because the top line is too tight. Heavy set women often develop the bumps when they insist on compressing their feet into shoes with unsuitable lasts; the flesh tends to spill over the shoe topline, settle above the heel and form a decided bump.

Proper fit is vital to healthy feet. Women in recent years are becoming more knowledgeable and insistent on proper fit. The notion that small feet and tight shoes are a symbol of gentility has been discarded.

Don't let your child miss this opportunity to be made feel at home in the local library.

In the Library window you will note a collection on Grace Livingstone Hill. This collection was loaned to the library by Byrle Fraley McPherson, Ph.D. Miss McPherson was a personal friend of Mrs. Hill. Included in the collection are numerous letters written to Miss McPherson. Mrs. Hill wrote 100 novels. She is one of America's best known writers. Ever since Mrs. Hill was a little girl she has loved to make up stories. When she was very young her mother always told her a story at night. As she grew older she acquired the habit of thinking one out each night before going to sleep. Sometimes the same story will hold her attention over and over for weeks, and thus she becomes so well acquainted with the people who visit her in this way their every work and action is unquestionably their own. Throughout Mrs. Hill's life the influence which surrounded her have been such as should bring forth a good writer. Her father was a Presbyterian minister. He was a lasting inspiration. Mrs. Hill was essentially domestic in all her feelings, and above everything else she was a mother.

Some of her more popular novels include: "The City of Fire," "The Tryst," "Cloudy Jewel," "Exit Betty," "The Search," "The Red Signal," "The Girl from Montane," and "Dawn of the Morning."

A box has been placed in the library by Mrs. Mackinzie for any clothing donated to the Korean orphans. The library is open daily from 2:30-5:00 and 6:30-9:00 every evening except Friday.

Water Pollution Control

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 23, 1969—The market for water pollution control has been estimated at $26 billion to $29 billion over a five-year period. However, present appropriations for the war on pollution are but a trickle because of the enormous spending on Vietnam, and there is no assurance that the cessation of hostilities would mean that water pollution control would be the first order of business for the government. Also, technology in this area is by no means perfected, and further developments seem to be awaited despite the pollution "crisis."

The Culprits

The three major sources of water pollution are agriculture, industry, and municipalities. Anywhere from 30% to 90% of the water for irrigation is consumed. The remainder is polluted by irrigation return and by fertilizers, herbicides, pesticides, and soil erosion. Over 40% of the country's total water use is accounted for by farming. Industry accounts for 50% of the total water usage, but by 1980 this may rise to 65%. Of the water used by industry, 47% to 48% is returned to the water supply and used again. Two-thirds or more is used for cooling. Industry, it is estimated, discharges twice as much organic waste into water courses as municipalities.

Municipalities are discharging raw, untreated sewage into water courses at an incredible rate per year. Usage of water by the nation's communities accounts for a mere 7% to 8% of total water use, but contributes heavily to the overall water pollution problem.

Cleaning Up The Mess

In order to control or reverse water pollution, three processes can be utilized: (1) Settling, screening, and straining pollutants; (2) coagulation, precipitation, and other chemical processes to remove 90% of the organic compounds; (3) distillation, reverse osmosis, electro-dialysis, and coagulation to ferret out the inorganic materials. Boiling these technicalities down to size, companies involved in water treatment through specialty chemicals, water servicing, and processes of desalination (desalting) should be the most immediate beneficiaries of the water pollution programs when spending is accelerated, particularly those in the industrial waste field.

At least 200 companies are in the water pollution control business. Of these, only a small number are publicly owned. Moreover, an even smaller number are immersed in water pollution control to any significant extent. The majority of the 200 companies are well diversified in other activities, and many of these are subject to the cyclical influences of their respective business sectors.

Prime Participants

The Research Staff of Babson's Reports has concluded that the industrial waste water treatment and household conditioning segments of this fragmented field offer the largest market and growth potential. Thus, we would focus upon specialty chemical companies with large research and development emphasis and a high degree of consultation and technical service. Chemical use in water is expected to double in five years and double again in the following five years, providing a 15% annual growth rate.

Attractive Investments

The leaders in the field, favored by the Research Staff of Babson's Reports are Nalco, Culligan, and Betz Laboratories. In the fast-breaking technological field of desalting, Aqua-Chem—the largest factor in water purification—is an interesting investment. Although these companies concentrate mainly in the high-potential water treatment business, they are risk situations, selling at relatively high price/earnings ratios, reflecting their leadership in the field, popularity, and growth potential. We, therefore, advise purchasing a package of two or more companies.

In our judgment, near-term opportunities for investment purposes are limited. We believe that investors should seek only long-term capital gains—two or more years—in select companies, with in-depth capabilities in the water-treatment sector of this emerging field.

Jogging Is Great, But . . .

To jog, not to jog, or how to jog—that is the question being raised by some doctors, the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, a major life insurance company, an Olympic track star and the National Jogging Association itself.

Jogging has attracted hundreds of thousands of Americans, of both sexes and all ages, as a form of exercise, a means of weight control, and fun and fad. Books and articles have been written about it.

Jogging is universally approved, but with important reservations. Precautions that should be observed are contained in a 60-second public service film being distributed to 200 television stations throughout the nation by The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U. S.

In the film, Billy Mills, the only American to win the Olympic 10,000 meter run, gives this advice:

• "First, get a medical check-up and your doctor's OK before beginning.

BILLY MILLS
Jogging Enthusiast

Build up only gradually to continuous running.

The film bears the official endorsement of the President's Council and the Jogging Association.

Vietnam Moratorium

For Americans, war has always been a necessity to be occasionally endured rather than a virtue to be sought or romanticized. Benjamin Franklin set the national tone when he said, "There never was a good war or a bad peace."

But, as our wealth and power have grown, our ability to make war has also grown. For nations unfamiliar with our character and our tradition, it is difficult to reconcile our peaceful intentions with our martial potential.

In this respect, the prayers for peace that were offered throughout the land on October 15th are of historic significance. For the first time in our generation, there was a genuine and spontaneous expression of our dedication to peace, springing from the heart and spirit of our people. No one can doubt its truth or its strength. Once more, America has been understood by the world and can hope for the world's help in restoring peace.

We should all understand, however, that a moratorium devoted to prayer and reflection, ven if followed—as I devoutly hope it will be followed—by a durable peace, will not end our part and our responsibility in Southeast Asia. The truth is not that the United States has no appropriate diplomatic role in that region, but that the war has nullified diplomacy there. "The rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air" have in this strange conflict in Southeast Asia, obscured the meaning of our flag. For the last several years the United States has not had policies in Southeast Asia, it has had targets. So the end of the war will permit the beginning of diplomacy.

Our immediate postwar objectives will be to protect, as best we can, the lives of those who have supported our engagement, to foster economic growth and democratic government, and to deter direct aggression. These goals will not be easy to achieve. They will require more flexibility and resourcefulness than the computing of body counts and logistical requirements, but they are the imperatives of foreign policy which have been too long obscured by the clamor of war.

And so our prayer for peace on October 15th was the proud and courageous voice of a nation expressing its high aspirations. In this sense it was, as Maryland Congressman Rogers Morton said, a good thing. The fact that some of the things that were said were contrary to official government policy is no cause for alarm or retaliation. It is, in fact, the highest vindication of the Bill of Rights—and the highest tribute to our men who have fought so valiantly for our country and its traditions—that even on the crucial question of peace or war, every American citizen retains the right to speak and to be heard.

But if the great voice of the nation was heard on October 15th, it is still the sum of many small and quiet voices of individual men and women who, gathered together or in the solitude of their own choosing, sought to lift a burden from their souls. For those who acted with nobility, October 15th was an ennobling experience.

"Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace."

Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

The House of Representatives this past week approved legislation calling for the minting of a new $1 coin to replace the silver dollar. This coin will be the same size as the silver dollar that was formerly used, but will contain no silver. It is to be made of cupronickel and will have a picture of President Eisenhower on one side and a symbol of the American eagle landing on the moon on the other. This legislation created quite a bit of discussion on the Floor of the House for several reasons. A number of the members of the House questioned the need for a new dollar coin. Curiously enough, the evidence produced by the proponents of the new coin clearly showed that such a coin was in great demand in the western part of our nation, and are needed for use in many vending machines in these western areas. This came as somewhat of a surprise to those of us from the East since there seems to be little demand for the coin in this section of the country. A second point debated extensively concerned the use of silver in the coin, and it was finally decided that it would not contain this valuable metal for some very good reasons. In the first place there is a silver shortage in the United States which requires the Treasury to import a supply to make half dollars which are 40% silver. There is also a heavy domestic demand for silver created by the photographic industry, the medical profession and our space program among many others.

Furthermore, it has been demonstrated conclusively that the use of silver in a coin makes it extremely difficult to keep it in circulation. People are inclined to stockpile them thereby frustrating the principle of using a coin for maximum circulation as a value of exchange. Our Treasury, for instance, cannot produce half dollars fast enough to keep them in circulation, since many persons hoard them decreasing the short supply of silver.

One other argument in favor of the silverless coin is worth noting. A coin which is minted and contains 40% silver produces only a 52% profit to the Treasury. A silver-free dollar can be minted at 5 cents apiece thereby producing a profit of 95 million dollars on each 100 million coins. The non-silver coin becomes a quite profitable item to the Government, therefore.

As finally passed, the bill not only calls for the silverless dollar, but also for the minting of silverless Kennedy half dollars in the future. But the single point of this legislation which most of us find most attractive is the fact that it honors one of the greatest Americans of our history, Dwight D. Eisenhower. As such, I'm sure it will be welcomed by Americans of all political philosophy.

Garden Club Holds Meeting

The October meeting of the Silver Fancy Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Edward Richardson in Littlestown, Pa., with 14 members and one guest present. Mrs. Robert Clingan, president, conducted the business meeting during which committee reports were given.

Mrs. James Lord, a former member of the club, showed slides of her round-the-world tour in early Spring. Co-hostesses were Mrs. James Baumgardner and Mrs. Theodore Fair.

The November 20th meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner. Mr. Myron Smith will give a demonstration on Christmas decorations.

Co-hostesses for this meeting will be Mrs. Robert Clingan and Mrs. Thomas Frailey.

Fresh-water shrimp is one of the deadliest but most over-looked baits for big bluegills. — Sports Afield.

Let's Go Fishin'

BUILD A BETTER LURE Every few years a new "sure thing" lure comes along for fishermen. For awhile it's the hottest thing in the country, takes fish on almost every cast (to hear the tales), and is the only bait to use if you want to catch fish.

Then, for some unknown reason, this same lure no longer catches fish and rapidly disappears from tackle boxes.

The logical question, say the angling authorities at Mercury outdoors, is why won't the lure catch fish any longer? The usual answer ranges from "The fish got smart" to "They're not making lures as they used to."

The truth is that fishermen are fickle and just like to change lures. They stop fishing with the old baits, and, when a lure isn't fished, it can't catch fish.

A good example of this is the switch by bass anglers from spoons with pork rind tails to plastic worms. Now it's the plastic worm that is considered the real fish catcher. Beats the old spoon and pork rind combo. But who's fishing spoons anymore? No one, for all practical purposes; everyone is using the new bait, and they're catching fish.

In reality, the old, proven lures are just as good as ever. It's the fishermen who have changed. They want to try something different . . . and this is good. For it means they'll chuck their old habits and start looking for fish in new places with new techniques.

The whole thing is kind of a circle affair, say the lads at Mercury. For one of these days someone will "discover" the spoon and pork rind method again, and we'll be off on another round of catching bass with these. The product may look a little different than previously, but basically it will be the same spoon and pork tail combination which worked years ago.

of pie plate with soybean or vegetable oil. Place greased fish fillets in pie plate. If fresh ginger is available, chop into small size pieces, sprinkle evenly over greased fillets. If ginger is not available, use black pepper.

Be sure to have fish spread out evenly in pan, so that the fillets do not touch. Bring water in a saucepan to a boil. Be sure it is large enough to hold a perforated steaming rack, on top of which the fish fillets are placed. Cover the pie plate and allow the fillet to steam.

After fish has been steaming for about four minutes, spread chopped scallions evenly over the fillets. Cover again and allow to steam for another minute. (total steaming time about 5 minutes). Serve while hot.

We are thinking thin today, so I would like to suggest a taste-tempting scallop kabob:

1 lb. scallops, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 cups fresh pineapple chunks, 1 green pepper, 1 cup cherry tomatoes, dash of salt, pepper and paprika Put scallops in bowl, add lemon juice and stir to coat. The Selima Room

A growing collection of American horse racing lore is to be found, appropriately enough, a four-minute gallop from Bowie race track on property that used to be part of the Belair Stud. This is no private collection but the Bowie branch of the Prince George's County Public Library, probably the first ever to devote a special room to a collection of books on Thoroughbred racing and breeding. The room is aptly named the Selima Room in honor of the daughter of the Godolphin Arabian, imported to this country by Benjamin Tasker Ogle in the early 1700's.

Earlier this year the Selima Room custodian, Mayzee Darby, was busy cataloguing a gift of several hundred volumes presented by John D. Schapiro, President of Laurel Race Course which also honors the foundation mare of Maryland's first breeding farm with a race named in her honor. The Laurel donation includes books and bound periodicals, some dating back 250 years. All acquisitions are not historical, however; copies of The Morning Telegraph are filed daily and a volume much in demand is Joe Hirsch's collection, "A Treasury of Questions and Answers," a selection from his weekly Q & A column in The Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

The last owner of Belair Stud, the late William Woodward, breeder of two Triple Crown winners and a chairman of The Jockey Club, would be pleased to know a portion of Belair is still devoted to Thoroughbreds.

tenant Halveland said, Yes. Senator Griffin registered great astonishment. Such information, he said, was shocking. He knew that the Dubois Club was under investigation by the Subversive Activities Control Board as a Communist apparatus, and he could hardly believe that its St. Louis Chairman could be elected President of the Washington University student body. He voiced his amazement and shock. And yet he still didn't know as Senator McClellan had known for a long time, that estimates have been made that nearly half of the college and university student bodies throughout America have elected Presidents who support the revolution (many of them clandestinely) through which World Communism expects one day to take over the United States.

Reaching For Influence

One of the tasks assigned to young college student Communists is to push themselves in campus politics and, if possible, become the leader of the student body. Many of the successful ones who have direct ties with the Communist apparatus have been able to hide such attachment. Devereaux Kennedy while at Washington University did not proclaim himself to be a Communist, but his aim was the Communist aim: "I'm going to say loudly and explicitly what I mean by revolution," he said at a conference of radical youth leaders at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Santa Barbara, Calif. "What I mean by revolution is overthrowing the American government . . . I'll tell you the steps that I think will be needed. First of all, starting 50 Vietnams . . . This is going to come about by black rebellions in our cities, joined by some white people."

Revolutionaries such as Kennedy get elected to influential positions by hard work, by organizing, by zeal and purpose. There is an old saying: "One man can change the world." It is very true. And the Communists have acted upon that truth. Their adherents are taught that

The object of this Bill of Complaint is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Complainant, Hope Henry Miller, Jr., from the Defendant, Billie Rae Miller.

The Bill states in substance that the Complainant, Hope Henry Miller, Jr., is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant, Billie Rae Miller, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and when last heard from was residing at the Village Apartments, Apt. 134B, Indian Harbour Beach, Florida.

The Bill prays that the Complainant, Hope Henry Miller, Jr., may be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Billie Rae Miller, and that the Complainant may be granted such other and further relief as the nature of his case may require.

one man or a mere handful can create havoc, can move mountains, can gain unassailable power. Another conferee with young Kennedy at the Santa Barbara conference was Robert Padrun, an SDS revolutionary at Texas University. "The important thing," he said, "is not numbers but analysis, tactics, strategy, and organization. It is possible for small numbers to move the university . . . We have been moving things (at the University of Texas) . . . How did the two or three people who began to move on a campus of 22,000 manage to break people loose . . . manage to get people into the street (rioting)? It comes down to . . . Regis Debray's . . . theory of how guerrillas organized in Latin America and why that's valid."

Such revolutionaries offer to student-types who "follow the leader" a means of hitting out against a system into which they have been unable to adjust. Thus the revolutionary gets his army on campus, and as the action explodes, many students go "where the action is" and once they are enmeshed into the mob they naturally must justify their own actions—and those of the mob. Communists operate on this basic principle in every nation on earth.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

By Elizabeth Stewart
Women's Medical News Service
Barefoot And Rashless

SAN MATEO, Calif.—Barefoot students and children may have a point.
A dermatologist at the San Mateo Medical Clinic reports that shoe allergies have become increasingly common since 1940, affecting men, women and children, soles, toes and insteps. Big toes are particularly susceptible. Occasionally and mysteriously, only one foot is affected.

Since such rashes may readily be confused with fungal infections and other skin disorders, Dr. Ernst Epstein advises patch tests with scrapings from various parts of the patient's entire shoe wardrobe. The linings and rubber adhesives are usually at fault.

Treatment may be laborious and will almost certainly be expensive. Although the rash can be easily cleared up, it may be necessary to discard every pair of old shoes in favor of all-leather sandals or a similar unlined shoe. Then, says Dr. Epstein, one pair of shoes may be bought for testing—to be discarded if the rash reappears. And so on.

For men, Dr. Epstein recommends a "hypoallergenic" shoe made of vegetable-tanned leather and nonrubber adhesives. But no such shoe is manufactured for women or children. They can wear sandals in the summer but, when the winter winds blow, the alternatives are very cold, even frost bitten, feet or the "extremely frustrating task" of locating conventional shoes that are not rash-provoking. The lucky patient, however, will find herself allergic to only one pair of shoes in her closet.

Ringling In A Baby
NEW YORK—Can a ringling in her ears make a woman pregnant? Well, not all by itself, but it may help.

Dr. Claude Meyer, assistant professor at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, has successfully used blasts of piercing sound to induce ovulation in women with sex gland deficiencies. Their gonads goaded into action, six out of 10 infertile women ovulated, and one became pregnant.

The treatment, effective for only one monthly cycle, consists of stop-and-start sound — two-hour sessions during which, repeatedly, one minute of high decibel pure sound is succeeded by nine minutes of silence. Sessions take place on three consecutive days followed by a similar course a week later.

Patients usually emerge with ringing ears, headaches and nausea but without any permanent damage.

NEW YORK—A woman who fled a trial for what she considered an unjust law is the heroine of two new biographies for adolescents—"Margaret Sanger: Rebel with a Cause" by Virginia Coigney and "Margaret Sanger: Pioneer of Birth Control" by Lawrence Lader and Milton Meltzer.

Mrs. Sanger ran away to Europe in 1914 after her arrest for sending birth control propaganda through the mails, which remained a dedicated fighter for woman's "absolute right to dispose or withhold herself, to procreate or to suppress the germ of life" was arrested eight other times. For opening the country's first birth control clinic, she served 30 days in jail.

In the last years of her long life (she died in 1966), the impetuous rebel with melting charm helped finance scientific investigations that eventually led to history's most reliable contraceptive—the birth control pill.

Up Pop "Toast And Serve" Foods

Chicago — The toaster has entered a new era. Thanks to a whole new world of convenience foods, the toaster can pop-up a hot, nourishing breakfast or snack in minutes.

Keeping a supply of the new "toast and serve" foods on hand makes sense for today's busy family happy all week long with a wide variety of foods made simply by dropping them in the toaster.

Breakfast might be tarted with hot berry filling, waffles with maple syrup, corn muffins dripping with butter, sugary cinnamon toast, or toasted English muffins served with your favorite jam. Toasted sandwiches make a refreshing lunch. Hot muffins are a welcome addition to any meal.

The teenager who has an appetite from studying will love being surprised with one of the new "toast and serve" pizzas. Or how about a late night snack for the whole family, of hot waffles with strawberries and ice cream.

With so many uses, a housewife will want her toaster within easy reach. This is difficult in most kitchens with counter space at a premium. Look for one of the models built to save space.
Sunbeam's answer to the space problem is the "Thinline" toaster, a scant 3 1/2 inches slim with front controls for easy accessibility. Radiant control for uniform toasting makes the Thinline ideal for the new "toast and serve" foods. Cushioned lift raises the most delicate muffin without crumbling.
Sleep late this Sunday. Leave breakfast to the early risers and your "space saver" automatic toaster.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It was "...an historic night" in the 61 years of the National Press Club October 9 when National 4-H Week was observed with a large representation of national 4-H leadership from business and government.
Jack Linkletter, famed young TV star and son of Art Linkletter—they are National 4-H Foundation Co-Chairmen for the West Coast—received rapt attention and a standing ovation, a rare occurrence with Press Club audiences, as President John D. Heffernan observed at the conclusion.
"It is Not the Generation Gap"—it's the Communication Gap" was Linkletter's topic, previously selected by his father, who was unable to attend because of a death in the family. Young Mr. Linkletter generally praised today's younger generation, and declared that much of their demonstrated resentment reflected their feelings toward hypocrites in an adult society that dictated strict codes of behavior for youngsters, not necessarily practiced by their elders.
Linkletter cited the need for 4-H principles among today's youth, and said that he and his father were committed to the current $8 million capital fund campaign to expand the National 4-H Center, located in suburban Washington.

The expansion of 4-H membership, and emphasis into urban and suburban areas by the traditionally rural organization, was outlined by Chris Peterson and his colleagues on the 4-H Report to the Nation Team, representing the Nation's 3 1/2 million 4-H members. The poise with which these youngsters communicated 4-H goals and the great strides in reaching city youngsters earned repeated applause from the audience.
A special tribute was paid J. C. Penney in the audience, the 94-year-old founder of a department store empire who, with Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, is Honorary Co-Chairman of the Advisory Council. His 80-odd years of philanthropy and work with young people, notably with 4-H, was cited, and he received a respectfully affectionate response from the large attendance.
The Club President introduced several special guests, including Henry M. Hansen, National 4-H Foundation Board Chairman and Associate Director of Extension at the University of Connecticut; Edwin L. Kirby, Deputy Administrator, Federal Extension Service, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture;

Norman C. Mindrum of Chicago, Director, National 4-H Service Committee, and these Advisory Council leaders from American business and industry:
James M. McKee, Jr., President, CPC International, Inc., who was also representing Howard C. Harder, CPC Advisory Council Chairman; Herbert M. Cleaves, Senior Vice President, General Foods Corporation; Charles W. Parker, Jr., Vice President, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. and Milwaukee Area Chairman for the capital fund campaign; and Merritt D. Hill, Chairman, Hill Associates, and Detroit Area Chairman for the capital campaign; William T. Brady of Los Angeles, Calif., Honorary Chairman, Executive Committee, CPC International, and Russell B. Robins of Detroit, Executive Vice President, The Jam Handy Organization, and Chairman of the Foundation's Public Relations Advisory Committee.
Young Chris Peterson presented a beautiful plaque of appreciation to the Press Club on behalf of the nation's 4-H members; President Heffernan said it would hang in a place of honor so long as there was a National Press Club.

Reader Critical Of Tonkin Policies

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Four years ago, following certain provocations in the Gulf of Tonkin, the President of the United States decided to wage war against North Vietnam. As head of the greatest nation on earth (200 million people), and wishing not to be recorded in history as the first idiot President, he determined not to ask Congress for a Declaration of War against the North Vietnam, the earth's most insignificant nation. This is when insanity began.

Today, an equally selfish successor President—not wishing to be recorded as the first President to lose a war—continues the insane conflict. It is perhaps fortunate that President Johnson did not consult the commonality concerning "his" war, for it is only because the people were not directly consulted—or indirectly, through their representatives in Congress—that they feel entirely free to dissent.

My friends will recall that two years ago, along with eight other candidates, I ran against Shirley Temple Black for the Congress in California. My intimates tried to shoo me off. Miss Black, who ran on a platform to drop the H-bomb, was "sure to win." Well it didn't happen. Congressman Pete McCloskey, a dove, was the runaway winner. Upon returning to Emmitsburg (a newly made dove) I wrote to Pete and suggested that the best way to end the war would be for him to introduce a Declaration of War in the Congress and have it defeated. Mr. McCloskey replied, "Hell I can't do that, it might pass." How things have changed! Today, certainly, it would not pass.

It can only be hoped that Mortatorium Day demonstrators will break the hermetic seal that seems to surround the office of President and that the fetal waters of freedom will splash upon us all in a new baptism of government of the people, by the people, and for the people. If not, we shall have a bigger go for it on 15 November next.

Insurance Hiked On "Power" Cars

A request from Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company for a rate increase on high performance automobiles has been approved by Maryland Insurance Commissioner Newton I. Steers, Jr.

The increase, amounting to 50%, will apply only to 1970 and subsequent models of vehicles categorized as super-powered. Nationwide's statistics, based on a three year study involving claims for 400,000 cars, indicated that these vehicles were responsible for 56 per cent more accident losses than standard cars. The increase will apply to all forms of automobile coverage offered by the company.

In a related move, Commissioner Steers also approved a rate filing by the Insurance Rating Board to increase premiums on the same types of high powered vehicles. The request was based upon the same study but the I.R.B. approach to the increase differed. The I.R.B., which represents over 200 companies, will increase premiums for comprehensive and collision coverages only, but the per cent of increase will vary according to the specific vehicle insured.

The Commissioner, in approving the increases, said "It would be inequitable to increase rates for the general public when it is possible to pinpoint a substantial group of vehicles responsible for such a high percentage of losses. In looking at rates for automobile insurance, I believe it is appropriate to take into consideration not only the drivers but the vehicles as well."

Veterans' Benefits Are Explained

Up to $250 for the burial expenses of an eligible deceased veteran will be paid by the Veterans Administration without regard to whether the interment is in a national cemetery or a private burial place.

George A. Davis, Manager of the Baltimore VA Regional Office, said this week the allowance is payable in the case of wartime veterans, including those who have served after August 4, 1964.

He added that peacetime as well as wartime veterans are eligible for burial in any national cemetery that has available space. The only requirement is that their last period of active duty must have ended with an honorable discharge.

Administered by the Department of the Army, the benefits include grave site and actual interment in the national cemetery including opening, closing and marking the grave.

The Army also furnishes a headstone or grave marker for deceased veterans buried in unmarked private plots.

Information and assistance on filing for these Army administered benefits will be furnished by any VA office.

Claims for the burial allowance may be filed with the VA within two years after the veteran's burial or cremation.

The claim may be filed by the undertaker, if he has not been paid, or by the party who paid the undertaker, Davis explained.

The ZIP Column

In our continuation of last week, concerning mail to service-men overseas, I wish to remind our patrons that SAM packages (space available mail) may be sent thru November 22, to assure delivery before Christmas.

In regards to overseas packages, or as a matter of fact, all parcels traveling long distances, which necessitate extra handling, should be properly prepared.

First of all, strong cartons should be used. Under regulation we are allowed 80 pounds within a sack of parcel post. This is a factor that should be considered, when preparing your mail. During transit, will your package withstand 80 pounds, should it happen to be on the bottom?

Cotton linters provide cellulose for making rayon.

... In spite of the fact that Randy Randel, 13, left, is 73 years younger than 86-year-old Al Ackerman, they are great friends and are doing the thing they love most—performing with the circus. They will be seen at the twenty-sixth annual Shrine Circus coming to the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore, November 4 thru 8.
