Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

It seems to me that our Presidents should exercise better judgment than they have when they attempt to appoint a Supreme Court Justice. Take the present predicament that exists in the Senate over the confirmation or rejection of Judge Haynsworth as the Chief Justice. The Senate is about evenly divided over the appointment and there are grave doubts in almost everyone's mind as to the qualifications of such a figure. The average citizen knows little or nothing about the character or ability of appointees to the Supreme Court. However, the U. S. Senators are far more knowledgeable about the facts in the case. Anyway, if I were President and opposition developed over an appointment, to such a great extent as it has over this one, I think that I would withdraw the nomination. If half the Senate is dubious about the man, then I believe he should withdraw his name. After all, it is the highest law of the land and there should be not a shadow of doubt existing about the man's qualifications, let alone half of the Senate.

Well the big peace moratorium in Washington is over and it is hoped that those responsible realize that they have scored their point. This is not to say that they accomplished any real concrete plans for a peace in Vietnam. They just scored their point, in other words, showed that it could be done. As was predicted in this column prior to the moratorium, I maintained that no one could guarantee non-violence when a mob of several hundreds of thousands is let loose on the streets. No one will ever know what the "clean-up" bill totaled, but it is known that extra clean-up crews were paid, extra hours of police work to be paid for, troop deployment costs and to top it off a number of public buildings were smeared with paint and had to be sandblasted. Add many broken store windows and damage to property and you can begin to visualize just how much such a moratorium costs the taxpayers and private individuals. There positively should be no more permits issued for such demonstrations. It was positively disgraceful and downright treasonous to see the Viet Cong flags flying in the streets of the capital of the mightiest nation in the world. To think what our flag cost us in blood and human lives, heartaches, misery, etc., and the great pride that is inherent in most of us concerning this flag, it was downright maddening to see bearded monkeys hoisting the Viet Cong flag along side of the American Flag! Congress should pass a law against displaying an enemy flag in this country, except perhaps, at the enemy's embassy.

Receives Degree

Among the candidates receiving degrees on November 21 at Shippensburg State College, Shippensburg, Pa., was Myron John Smith, Jr., Emmitsburg, Md. Mr. Smith had the degree of Master of Arts conferred on him at the exercises.

VFW AMBULANCE

Mrs. Viola Welch, Thurmont, was transported from the Carlisle Hospital to her home in Thurmont this week via the VFW ambulance. The drivers were Donald Byard and Paul E. Humerick.

In the early 1940s the state of South Dakota had as many as 50 million pheasants.—Sports Afield.

Mount Professor Writes "Paper"

Dr. Emile A. Nakhleh, assistant professor of political science at Mount Saint Mary's College, presented a paper entitled "Wells of Bitterness: A Survey of Israeli-Arab Political Poetry" at the third annual convention of the Middle East Studies Association of North America on November 14 in Toronto, Canada.

Dr. Nakhleh was reporting on a study which he conducted to show the important role which the literature of a people plays in creating and sustaining a revolutionary mood in that people.

The same paper will also be presented at the second annual convention of the Association of Arab-American University Graduates on Dec. 6 in Detroit, Mich.

Dr. Nakhleh, a member of the Mount's faculty for the past few years, is a native of Palestine. He spent his childhood in Rama, a small village 20 miles from Nazareth. He taught for five years in Palestine elementary schools before coming to the United States. He is a contributor of material for a new Middle Eastern Dictionary being published by Professor Mehdi Heravi of the College of Arts and Sciences, Tennessee Technological University.

Knights Celebrate Memorial Mass

Commemorative services for Fred B. Timmerman were conducted Monday evening in the Council Home of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus. The Mass was celebrated by Rev. Carl J. Fives, chaplain.

Following the service, the regular meeting of the Council was held with the Grand Knight, Eugene R. Rosensteel, presiding.

A letter from the State Council was received urging that instead of donating to the Catholic Charity Fund this year that all councils should contribute to the United Givers Fund. Ray R. Lauer, six-point program chairman, called upon the various chairmen for reports. Eugene Rosensteel reported on the District Mass held in Hagerstown last week and which was celebrated by Rev. Carl J. Fives; Carl A. Wetzel reported on plans for an Oyster Feast on Nov. 30 and Paul A. Keepers reported on the Open House held Sunday evening. Plans for a New Year's Eve party were discussed and the Grand Knight appointed George Danner, Robert Myers and Thomas Leonard in charge of arrangements for a kiddies' Christmas Party on Dec. 14.

Social Action Chairman Leonard Gemeiner announced that his committee would make a visitation to the Victor Cullen School for Boys on this Sunday afternoon at 1:30, all members being invited. Ray Lauer, faithful navigator of the Fourth Degree Assembly, reported on a recent dinner-meeting of the assembly held at Mt. Manor. The next meeting of this group will be held in Frederick on Dec. 29.

The Council voted a donation of $250 to St. Joseph's High School for athletic uniforms. Grand Knight Rosensteel has called a special meeting for Dec. 1 to study and adopt a new set of by-laws for the Home Association.

Church School Closed Next Week

Mr. Ralph Kelly, Director of the Weekday Church School which is sponsored by the local Council of Churches, has announced there will be no classes held on Wednesday, November 26, due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Classes will resume on Wednesday, December 3 at 7:00 in the Parish House of Elias Lutheran Church.

The first recorded payoff under pari-mutuel betting in the United States came at Churchill Downs in 1879 when the new fangled "pari-mutuel", hand-operated machines were used for the first time, and the winner was a colt named Carson which paid a generous $233.20 for $2.

OBITUARIES

M. FRANCES KELLER
M. Frances Hollinger Keller, 68, 122 S. Seton Ave., Emmitsburg, a retired registered nurse, was dead on arrival at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Saturday evening about 6:40 o'clock.

C., and her stepmother, Mrs. Annie Lewis, Asheville.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg with the Rev. W. Ronald Fearer, Emmitsburg Lutheran pastor, officiating. Interment was in Mountview Cemetery, Emmitsburg. Pallbearers were Bynum Reese, George Rohnbaugh, Edgar Hobbs, E. M. Burnett, Raymond Williams and Robert Clark.

Concert Scheduled At College Sunday

Dr. and Mrs. Allen Bonde will perform with the St. Joseph College Chorale at a Fall Concert to be held on Sunday, November 23, 8 p.m., in DePaul Auditorium on campus. Dr. and Mrs. Bonde are piano instructors at Hood College.

Featured on the program will be Brahms' "Intermezzo," a piano solo by Dr. Bonde. Mrs. Bonde will join him for a four-hand accompaniment of Brahms' "Liebeslied" waltz. Dr. Bonde will also accompany the entire Chorale performance. The Chorale is under the direction of Sister Jane Marie Perrott.

The public is cordially invited to attend the concert. There is no charge for admission and parking is plentiful.

Attending Oklahoma College Robert Ulrich, Emmitsburg, is currently enrolled as a sophomore at Central State College, Edmond, Oklahoma.

Final enrollment at Central State shows another record high with a total of 10,610 students. This compares with 10,254 students last year.

By selling its scrap x-ray film, the VA recovered some $167,000 in Fiscal Year 1969.

Of the 12,200 persons who died in fires in 1968, about one-third were children.

Local Girl Joins Navy Nurses

Mildred Jean Harner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Harner, Emmitsburg, is shown being sworn into the U. S. Navy. Miss Harner enlisted in the U. S. Navy's Nurse Candidate Program which provides a subsidy program for one or two years. Miss Harner graduated from St. Joseph's High

Hunters Fined In Pennsylvania

A car bogged down in a Char-nita area orchard of Hamiltonban Twp. caused two Rocky Ridge area hunters to be jailed in default of fines totaling over $200 after they pleaded guilty to state game law violations before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder about 1 o'clock Monday morning.

Jailed were Jacques M. Stuart, 29, Rocky Ridge R1, who was assessed $93 in fines and costs for hunting without a non-resident hunting license and hunting on Sunday and his partner, Wayne E. Shriner, 27, Rocky Ridge, in default of $127 in fines on the same two counts as Stuart plus a charge of operating a vehicle on cultivated lands of Charnita. The charges were filed by John Troutman, District Game Protector before Justice Snyder.

Stuart was jailed by Snyder for a period of 93 days in default of his fines while Shriner was committed for 127 days for his three offenses. Shriner was later released after paying his fines and costs.

The pair were apprehended by Deputy Game Protector Kenneth Biesecker after he observed their auto stuck in the mud in a Char-nita orchard off the Jack's Mountain Road about a mile and a half west of Fairfield. Biesecker called in Warden Troutman and Hamiltonban Police Chief James Big-ham who assisted in taking the Marylanders to Snyder's office.

Chief Bigham reported that two loaded guns and a freshly killed rabbit were found in the Marylander's possession.

Public Hearing On Zoning Set

The Board of County Commissioners will hold a public hearing on Dec. 2 at the hour of 10:45 a.m. in the Hiram Winchester Room of Winchester Hall, Frederick, for the purpose of considering a map amendment to the Zoning Ordinance of the County so as to change from its present A-1 Agricultural District use to B-3 Commercial District use the following:

Two parcels of land containing 36.5 acres, more or less, being on the North and South sides of Md. Route 97 and being also contiguous to the Monocacy River. The subject parcels are part of P. 10, Page 10 and all of P. 10 A, Page 10, Tax Maps of Frederick County. The application is filed by Benjamin D. Palmer, Harry Dreiser and William S. Ledbetter.

All parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard at said time and place.

MRS. FRED E. AHRENS

Mrs. Mary C. Ahrens, 74, wife of Fred E. Ahrens, Middletown, died Friday at her home. She was born near Myersville, the daughter of the late Jacob L. and Mary Ellen Brandenburg Routhahn. She was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church at Church Hill.

Besides her husband, survivors include a son, Kent Ahrens, at home; two brothers, Samuel L. Routhahn, Inwood, W. Va., and Dr. William F. Routhahn, Emmitsburg; one sister, Miss Ruth J. Routhahn, Sykesville.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. Interment was in Mt. Zion United Methodist Cemetery, Myersville.

Emmitt House, Landmark, Sold

The famous old Emmitt House, for a century an Emmitsburg landmark, changed hands last week when the place was sold to Mr. and Mrs. George Ollinger, Gettysburg.

Operated as a hostelry for many years, in recent years it has been utilized as chiropractic offices and apartments. In June of 1935, the building was sold to Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Beagle. At that time the ownership belonged to Herbert Gingell and Robert H. Gillelan. That very same year Dr. Beagle began extensive remodeling of the house and included in his plans, his chiropractic offices. In addition there were seven apartments.

In 1941 Dr. Beagle began renovation of the front of the building and installed the large colonial style pillars which adorn the building in West End. From 1935 until 1967 Dr. Beagle operated his health clinic there. He was joined in the enterprise in June of 1961 by his son, John, who after two years of pre-med study at the University of Maryland, served two years in the military service and studied four years at the Palmer Chiropractic College in Daventport, Iowa. He entered at the National Chiropractic College in Chicago specializing in physiotherapy.

After the death of his father in 1967, Dr. John closed the local office and continued his practice in Gettysburg. At the present time, Dr. Stephen Daduk, an optometrist, maintains an office in the building.

Citizen Opposed To Moratorium Tactics

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

What is to become of us? — That these "Trojan Horse" episodes—These peaceful demonstrations of individuals who seemingly have nothing constructive to do either for their own support or for the support of our American community. Who puts clothes upon their backs, morsels in their mouths and feeds their rebellious attitudes? Carry no candle for me or mine—but carry the spirit to protect and provide.

If we the taxpayers and supporters of a way of life that allows such a demonstration to take place—and rightfully so—could but find time from our daily work to make a showing of OUR support, our demonstrating friends could not find room to breathe. They would suffocate in their own sauce before wreaking a havoc or decay of principle that allowed them to amass.

I have no quarrel with dissent or with demonstrations but kindly provide us with an alternate workable solution to replace a mode which some so abhor. How or why should we expect countries of alien concepts to totally agree amazing when one considers the permissiveness, the degree of dissent our elders condone. We cannot allow the conduct of a few to dictate the policies for the masses. I wonder what would happen were I to express my feelings as you demonstrators have done in the countries whose flag you fly?

I realize that I am the threshold of a delicate age—an age of physical weakness, early fatigue, and heart attacks. It is risky for me to allow my blood to boil and veins to protrude in anger.

In years gone by, it was my opportunity and duty to share in seeing that the American Flag was raised and stayed aloft. I must admit that my eyes become damp from emotion when remembering the echoes from the hills and across the water, of the shouts and yells of jubilation, and of a togetherness and comradeship.

It is these memories that lead me to warn—you'll tear down no American Flag near me and you'll fly no foreign adversary's flag across my path. I may not be your equal in youth or vitality but you shall find me a stubborn and cunning opponent. Yes! I have returned to the age of pushups and jogging—you'll tear down my flag over my dead body.

COMMISSIONERS REJECT SCHOOL CONTRACT

The Frederick County Commissioners late Tuesday voted 2-1 to deny the funds for letting of a million dollar contract for the proposed Green Valley Elementary School.

In an open session, President Charles E. Collins and Commissioner Russell Z. Horman voted against releasing the funds, and Commissioner Wallace E. Hutton was for funding the school.

Collins said, "we felt that cost of the school appears to be too much money for that size school," pointing out that Waverley School, which has four more classrooms, cost even less, about $51,000 less.

Collins said some changes in the design "that wouldn't affect the school—leave it the same size, same number of rooms, etc.—but would cut the overall costs" are needed, and that the school should be rebid.

He stressed that the cost of the Green Valley school "is unreasonable," and said the six bids submitted were all very close. The bid was for $1.05 million, the estimate for $986,000, a difference of 6 per cent.

Collins also explained that the bids may have been high because of several factors, not least of which is the impending "prevailing wage" factor which is scheduled to become effective July 1 and which would require contractors here to pay the metropolitan prevailing wage.

Collins suggested a wait until there is stabilization in the construction costs and until certain other factors are made known, such as, "Will school construction be under the prevailing wage?"

The commissioners are, he stressed, in favor of the school at Green Valley but not with this price tag. "There is definitely a need for the Green Valley School," Collins stated, "we are not questioning that."

Meanwhile, the $1,051,000 for the school has been invested and is currently earning about 8 per cent interest, or more than 2 per cent over the 5.99 per cent the county is paying on the money obtained in the $5.5 million bond issue for school purposes.

In addition, he said the county is enjoying the advantage of having its money in investment securities which are taxable, but on which "we don't have to pay income tax."

He said, "we won't wind up in the hole on this (temporary) investment unless the increase in building costs continue to go up at the present rate of 3.5 per cent."

However, Collins said experience on two other schools which have been redesigned and rebid have resulted in savings in construction costs. If this holds true, he indicated there could be a further saving on Green Valley. He is hopeful, however, that at least the county can come out ahead on the total of the three schools.

The matter will now go back to the Board of Education, which at its last regular meeting Nov. 5, approved the letting of the $1.03 million contract—subject to approval of the commissioners, which was not forthcoming.

The vote by the Board of Education was also by majority, with only four voting for it and three against. For it were President Richard R. Kline, former president Mrs. Mary Condon Hodgson, Chris T. Matthews and Jaynard Hurd. Against were J. O'Neill, Jenkins, G. Hunte Bowen, Jr., and Dr. Harold Schaden.

Students Deny Dope Usage

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

In your Nov. 14th issue it was stated that drugs were in widespread use throughout all county schools with the lone exception of Middletown.

We, the students of St. Joseph's High School, wish to clear up this misconception. We hereby state that drugs and evidence of student addiction have not been found in our school. We students take pride in our institution of learning and would not endeavor to publicly degrade it's name. Sincerely,

Some concerned students of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, Md.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By Samuel Carrick
 Rev. Grier Married Them . . .
 The past is the key to the present.—Sir Winston Churchill.
 One of the greatest historians of the twentieth century, Sir Winston Churchill, summed up the importance of the past when he stressed its vital relationship to the present. The preservation of historic buildings and sites is one way of vitalizing and stressing a way of life that cannot be relived but which can point to the future. Old records are another key that unlocks the door to history—they are the "gold of ancestor dust."
 Genealogy, which today is second only to the study of history in importance, gives life and animation to the past. People are and will continue to be the actors on the stage of history. Genealogy is the study of individuals—those who made and are making history.
 An excellent example of an important record—both of historical and genealogical value—is the marriage record of the Rev. Robert Smith Grier, for some fifty-two years pastor of the joint churches of Tom's Creek and Piney Creek.
 A few of these entries were included in last week's column, the remainder are given at this time, as follows:
 13. May, 1816—Mr. Colestock to Polly Heagy.
 14. August, 1816—James Whar-ton to Sarah Mains.
 15. November, 1816—William Curren to Jane McGuigan.
 Note: The William and Jane Curren who are interred in the Hayes plot in Tom's Creek Pres-byterian Churchyard and the parents of Elizabeth Curren who became the wife of Joseph Hayes. Another daughter was Jane Curren who is interred just outside the Hayes family plot.
 16. November, 1816—Andrew Stewart to Nancy Bigham.
 17. November 1816—Jacob Wie-art to Sally Shriver.
 18. October, 1817—James Cun-ningham to Elizabeth Stewart.
 19. December, 1817—Mr. Alex Horner to Miss—(?) McKee.
 Note: Members of both the Horner and McKee families are buried in Tom's Creek graveyard. One, another Alexander Horner, could be the son of the couple married by the Rev. Grier in 1817.

 20. January, 1818—Mr. ----(?) Guinn to Jane Majors.
 21. January, 1818—John Har-pur to Eliza Horner.
 22. January, 1818—William Ross to Peggy Bigham.
 23. February, 1818—Charles Bigham to Margaret Agnew.
 24. March, 1818—Mr. R. Gil-son to Mary Smith.
 25. April, 1818—Francis Reid to Margaret McIlhenny.
 26. March, 1818—David Mor-rison to Harriet Landers.
 Note: David Morrison and his wife, Harriet (Landers) Morrison, as well as their daughter, Harriet Morrison, are interred in Tom's Creek churchyard. The graves are marked but the tombstone of David Morrison is broken and should be repaired.
 27. May, 1818—Jonathan Har-baugh to Mary Street.
 28. June, 1818—Mr. C. Correll to Betsy Gilleland.
 29. June, 1818—Dr. Daniel Moore to Louisa Snatzell.
 30. October, 1818—Mr. Thomas Hays to Betsy Armstrong.
 Note: There is a Thomas Hays (or Hayes) and his wife, Elizabeth Hays, interred in the Hayes plot in Tom's Creek churchyard. With them are buried two of their chil-dren. They could be the couple married by Rev. Grier.
 31. January, 1919—Mr. ----(?) Bergaw to Sally Wilson.
 Note: Undoubtedly the bride-groom in this case was a Berca-w, a family famous in the annals of the Lou Dutch Colony of the Con-ewago.
 32. February, 1819—Mr. Isaac Fisher to Miss ----(?) Row.
 Note: The bride, whose given name the minister apparently for-got, was a member of the Row or Rowe family. Members of this clan are interred in the old Tom's Creek Lutheran churchyard.
 33. March, 1819—William Mc-Creary to Nancy Caldwell.
 Note: There are McCreary's bur-ied at Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard. They, the McCrearys, were related to the Agnews.
 33. April, 1819—Mr. ----(?) Kelley to Betsy Wilson.
 34. July, 1819—Timothy Evans to Betsy McKean.
 35. November, 1819—Mr. Dan-iel Wetzel to Miss ----(?) Lane.
 36. January, 1820—N. Nut to Evalina Crabster.

 Note: The Crabsters were mem-bers of the Piney Creek congre-gation and many of them are buried in the Piney Creek church-yard.
 37. February, 1820—Mr. ----(?) Lomer to Miss ----(?) Stevenson.
 38. March, 1820—John Smith to Miss ----(?) McMinn.
 39. March, 1820—Mr. ----(?) Be-gore to Miss ----(?) Hunter.
 Note: The Hunter family were members of the Tom's Creek Pres-byterian church and there are Hunter graves in that churchyard.
 40. August, 1820—Mr. ----(?) Jones to Miss ----(?) McClellan.
 41. 1820—Joseph Randolph to Miss ----(?) Moore.
 42. 1820—Samuel Majors to Miss ----(?) Sweeney.
 43. 1820—Solomon Linn to Miss ----(?) Moor.
 44. 1820—Joseph Boner to Bet-sy Robinson.
 Note: There are two marked Robinson family graves in Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard.
 45. 1820—Mt. T. Cooper to Miss ----(?) Barr.
 46. 1820—Rob. McKinney to Miss ----(?) Breckenridge.
 The marriage records of the Rev. Robert Smith Grier will be continued in this series next week.

OUR LIBRARY

Book week is being celebrated by the local Library this week. This is the 50th Anniversary of Children's Book Week. Children from the local elementary schools have been visiting the library during Education Week. Mrs. Fieldhouse came with her second grade class from the Emmitsburg School. Sister Patricia and Sister Joan brought their Eighth grade classes. This week Sister Mary John brought her First graders on Thursday. Mrs. John Warthen offered a short story hour since this was their first visit. The library offers an explanation of the services of the library, issues new membership cards and shows a child how to use the card catalog and explains how he or she may find a book. More and more children are able to help themselves in a library. If we are to keep up with the educational explosion we must train the children to help themselves and through their own initiative develop themselves to "be all they can be", this will be accomplished by making available every resource of the local library as well as the library at the schools.

Some new books were received and will be available this week. They are: "Tom and Sam," by Pat Hutchins. Tom and Sam are the best of friends until the day Tom digs a lake in his garden. Not to be outdone by his neighbor, Sam builds a tower. Then Tom plants flowering trees. Sam plants a hedge. Envy grows as rapidly as the two men's creations. Children will recognize their own very human feelings, and be glad they met Tom and Sam.

Ex Parte in the Matter of the Petition of Alfred C. Standen and Rachel P. Standen, his wife, for the Adoption of a Minor
NO. 1024 ADOPTIONS
 In the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
 The object of this Petition is the adoption of an infant child by Petitioners.

The Petition states that a male child, Gary Butler Steele, born on December 30, 1958; the father of said infant being Thomas J. Steele, whose last known address was 8005 Roanoke Avenue, Newport News, Virginia; that said infant has been in the constant care and custody of his mother since birth and in the joint care and custody of the Petitioners since their marriage. That the natural father of the child to be adopted is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and his last known address being 8005 Roanoke Avenue, Newport News, Virginia.

The Petition prays that the infant be declared the adopted child of the Petitioners; that the infant's last name be changed to that of the Petitioners and for such other and further relief as the nature of their case may require.

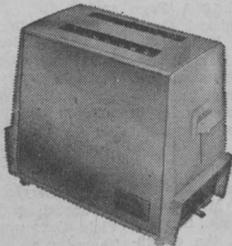

It is thereupon this 17th day of November, 1969, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, and by the authority thereof, ORDERED that the Petitioners give notice to the said non-resident father, Thomas J. Steele, of the object and substance of this Petition by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 20th day of December, 1969, commanding him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 20th day of January, 1970 to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

Need-To-Know About Drug Abuse:

New Hope For Narcotic Addicts
—The "NARA" Program
Treating and rehabilitating narcotic addicts successfully has been hampered by the fact that the addict was often treated in a hospital far from his home community.

Usually also, he was not adequately followed up and helped with his problem after release from the hospital.

Means for overcoming these and other deficiencies are provided in the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act of 1966—known as NARA.

Congress established a new national policy through NARA. It calls for the treatment of narcotic addicts rather than solely prosecuting them under criminal statutes.

For the first time, Federal law provides that narcotic addicts may apply for treatment in lieu of prosecution for certain crimes and that addicts not charged with a criminal offense may also be committed to the Public Health Service for treatment and rehabilitation.

NARA thus set in motion a new nationwide program for the supervised treatment and rehabilitation—an aftercare program of three years' duration—of addicts in the community.

The National Institute of Mental Health, Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse is responsible for the examination and treatment of patients committed under provisions of NARA.

How is it working? A look at five "case histories" suggests that the program is off to a good start.

Robert J. started using barbiturates in reform school when he was 15. At nineteen, he was a high school dropout—and heroin addict.

Jose H. is 32. He started using heroin at 15 and has been using it intermittently ever since.

John P. has been an addict since he was 19. Now 26, he found his "habit" costing him $35 a day at the peak of his addiction; and he stole checks to support his addiction.

Bill M. is 30 years old and has a 10-year history of drug abuse. Once he was sent to jail to "kick the habit." Merely jailing him didn't work.

Another heroin addict, R. R., had been stealing $25-$30 daily to pay for the drug. His family, consisting of his wife and three children, had broken up.

Before NARA, there would have been little hope for the rehabilitation of any of these five individuals. Typically, they would have remained hooked on hard narcotics, stolen more and more to pay for their drugs, been jailed repeatedly.

Likely, they would have been dead within a few years from an overdose of drugs, which happens frequently among narcotic victims.

Moreover, the five, it is estimated, would have stolen $82,800 in cash or merchandise to support their habits since the time they entered the NARA program.

Now, each of them has been free of drugs since at least May 1968. Two of them have been rid of their habits since the fall of 1967. All are either gainfully employed or receiving training; and one is attending college part-time.

Among the first to receive treatment under NARA, they were given six months of intensive inpatient treatment at an NIMH clinical research center. On discharge, they went into intensive rehabilitation programs established in their home communities. Local agencies were contracted with by NIMH to provide the services.

Currently, 58 such programs have been set up in 55 U. S. cities in 37 states. More are being added almost daily.

Now enrolled in the total program are 168 patients.

The number is growing and by summer of 1970 is expected to reach 2,000 patients, according to

Dr. Sidney Cohen, Director of the Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse of the National Institute of Mental Health.

Admission to NARA is always through the Federal courts. In some cases, addicts themselves request commitment proceedings be started. In others, they elect commitment to treatment rather than face prosecution on Federal criminal charges.

So far, the program has had a low dropout rate. Dr. Cohen attributes this to two factors mainly: the personal attention and intensive service received by the patients and screening out of addicts who show little hope or desire for successful rehabilitation.

The program already is paying dividends in economic savings as well as social ways, according to Dr. Cohen. He estimates, for example, that "for less than $1 million (the cost of the aftercare program to date), thefts required to support the habits of the addicts receiving rehabilitation have been reduced by $1.6 million—a savings of $600,000."

The savings are calculated on the basis of findings by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Justice which indicate how much the average addict must steal daily to support his drug habit.

Far from all addicts will ever be as outstanding beneficiaries of the program as R. R., mentioned earlier, but his case is encouraging and hope-bringing to others.

He was a heroin addict for nine years before entering NARA's program. After intensive treatment at NIMH's Lexington center, he went into his community aftercare program, in Detroit, following four weeks of psychological testing and vocational evaluation there. He took part in self-help group therapy and was placed for employment in an automobile production plant.

Since he began his therapy, he has paid for renovations on his home, purchased an automobile, and assumed full family responsibilities for his wife and three children. He also became an active member of his community's social organizations, helping groups on youth and drug problems.

As do all NARA patients, R. R. will remain in his aftercare program for 36 months. The chances of his completing the program and maintaining his progress are good, say the program authorities.

Shenandoah Downs Extends Race Meeting

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va.—Shenandoah Downs will race through December 6 in a six-night extension of its fall meeting, general manager Robert G. Leavitt, announced this week. The session had been scheduled to close November 29.

The extension was arranged, Leavitt said, "to provide additional employment for track workers and horsemen and added revenue for the State of West Virginia."

Post time will remain at 7:15 throughout the session. Shenandoah's final night on December 6 will end a season here that began Feb. 7 at Charles Town and has seen records broken at three straight sessions. It will be the biggest year in betting and attendance in the 36-year racing history of this town.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Oil Companies And The Nuclear Age
By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., November 20, 1969 — While World War II caused great disruption throughout the world, it did accelerate advances in weapons and technology. An obvious example was the development of the atomic bomb, which hastened for the peaceful use of atomic energy, primarily as a new source of electric power. However, in the years since 1945, relatively little progress has been made in this field as compared with the pace of developments in the 25-year spans following the discovery of oil and of electricity. While nuclear generating stations abound, their power production ranks small as a percentage of total output.
The Atomic Age
Nevertheless, there is no doubt that we are now in an age that will see growing demand for electric power and the proliferation of nuclear reactors to supply this demand. It has been estimated that by the end of the century much of the electric power produced in the United States will derive from the atom. But before then this infant industry must undergo a certain amount of revamping. Currently some electric utilities are bypassing nuclear reactors in favor of the easier-to-build coal- or oil-fired plants rather than nuclear plants with long construction lead times and escalating costs. These are serious roadblocks to their widespread use as sources of electric energy.
A New Union
Another industry is coming into the picture as a builder of nuclear reactors, however. The chemical industry uses large volumes of steam in some chemical processes and nuclear power is ideal for this purpose, sometimes with electric power a secondary product. Other applications of the atom are exciting, ranging from desalination of water to direct extraction of minerals and chemical elements.

Uranium And Nuclear Fuels
If we believe in bright prospects for nuclear energy, it is obvious that somewhere in the future there will be a great demand for fuel to feed the reactors. By 1980 domestic demand for uranium oxide is expected to exceed 30,000 tons annually. World-wide requirements added to this indicate a large market for the scarce "yellow cake." Further evidence of faith in nuclear energy is given by the attraction that nuclear engineering has for the oil companies.

Already, petroleum concerns have become renowned geologists and have accumulated a wealth of data in the course of oil drilling. Most major oil companies have positions in oil, coal, and natural gas; so uranium and nuclear research round out their total energy posture.
Exploration
Uranium seekers concentrate largely in the American Southwest and the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Saskatchewan. These regions are known to petroleum operators and possess proven uranium deposits. Prospecting for uranium should continue for many years, even after the next generation of breeder reactors are built. These produce more fuel than they consume, hence providing the real cost breakthrough.
Who's Who
Following are examples of the types of nuclear activity in which oil companies are involved. Many are not yet in commercial production in these fields, but in time nuclear revenues could be important.
Standard Oil of N. J.—Exploration in the far West plus proven uranium reserves in Texas estimated at 5 million pounds. Babson's Reports currently fa-

Every 43 minutes fire claims a life, says the Insurance Information Institute.

Through faith... won strength out of weakness.— (Heb. 11:33, 34).
Some persons may equate strength with the power to move heavy objects; or the power to move other persons through the force of their will. But the strength of God is the strength that is equated with ever-renewing vitality, with an eagerness for life. It enables us to help other persons without attempting to dominate them. It is a strength that is equated with the God-power within us.

NO. 22,591 EQUITY
In the Circuit Court For Frederick County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The Bill of Complaint is a suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Barbara R. Beachy. The Bill recites that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address is Barbara R. Beachy, c/o Robert Cutsail, Circle Cedar Park, Portland, Oregon; that the parties to this cause were married on the 18th day of August, 1958, at Frederick, Maryland, by Rev. Trunk, a regularly ordained minister of the Gospel; that as a result of the said marriage one child was born, namely, David Ray Beachy, who is nine years of age at the present time, and is in the care and custody of your Complainant and whose care and custody your Complainant seeks; that the parties to this cause have voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and that the separation between the parties to this cause is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.
The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Wilmer Ray Beachy, be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Barbara R. Beachy; that your Complainant be granted the care and custody of the infant child issuing from the marriage of the parties; and for such other and further relief as the nature of his case may require.

COURT ORDER
It is thereupon this 28th day of October, 1969, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks before the 28th day of November, 1969, commanding her to be and appear in this Court, in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 30th day of December, 1969, and show cause, if any she has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The scenting process by which hunting dogs locate game birds hidden in deep recesses of cover or follow the trail of game hours after the animals have passed has always been especially intriguing to sportsmen the world over. Surprisingly enough, comparatively little research has been conducted on the matter. One reason is found in the elusive quality of scent itself.

What is scent? Scientists tell us it is the odor, or effluvium, which is constantly generated by every animal, especially when that animal is exercising more than usual. In a state of heat or excitement the pores of the skin appear relaxed and a fluid or aqueous vapor is secreted in large quantities, adhering to the person or substance upon which it falls. In the case of pursued animals, scent hangs in the air behind them for a brief period, then it settles on the ground or is dissipated by the wind.

Nature has a way of balancing values. The nerve size is related to the animal's need for an acute sense of smell. For example, the nerve is large in the horse; larger in the swine whose food is often buried in the ground or deeply immersed in refuse; and even greater in the dog who originally had to depend upon his sense of smell for its very existence.

Man has an acute sense of smell but it is insignificant when compared with that of the hunting dog. Those who have been consistently successful in the hunting fields have learned, through careful observation that some scenting conditions such as moist atmosphere are better than others. Moisture not only imbibes and holds the peculiar matters yielding the odor, but presents it in a more effective manner to the nerves of smell.

Too much moisture can become detrimental to scent. On a particularly wet day the odorous effluvium is "drowned" by excess moisture. It is thus absorbed and neutralized by water instead of being suspended in vapor. Conversely, when the ground is hard and the air is dry there is little scent. This is because the vapor which serves as the menstruum—solvent in which the scent substance is dissolved—is absent.

The direction and condition of the winds play an important part in creating or eliminating good scenting conditions and thus are important factors in the success of a hunt. Cold and dry winds are unfavorable to the retention of scent, which becomes weakened and diffused instead of being retained in the solution of moisture.

According to Henry P. Davis, Dogs Editor of Sports Afeld Magazine, scenting conditions are usually good when the wind is southerly—because the south wind is generally warm and humid. For a similar reason, the westerly wind, next to the south wind, is a favorable wind for scenting conditions.

However, sudden storms destroy scent by rapidly changing the conditions upon which scent depends. Rainstorms drown the scent; windstorms dry the air and disperse the scent; storms of hail and snow, if succeeded by an immediate thaw, result in a wet surface, with sluggish evaporation. If no thaw occurs a cold, dry air rests over the earth.

Contrary to many opinions, sunny days are not good for scent.

Now Available

Several thousand copies of a 60 page brochure—entitled "Frederick County, Maryland," have just been received by the Chamber of Commerce of Frederick County. This pictorial brochure, much of it in color, summarizes the agricultural, commercial, industrial, educational, cultural, historic, recreational, religious, residential and scenic aspects of Frederick County.

It was prepared and published by Windsor Publications, and paid for by advertising from members of the Chamber. Most directly concerned with sponsorship were the Board of Directors, the New Industry Committee, and the Business Climate Committees of the Chamber. Charles M. Trubac is Chairman of the Board, E. Robert Bowls, Chairman of the New Industry Committee and Dr. Lewis Stephens, Chairman of the Business Climate Committee.

Editorial copy was reviewed by a committee consisting of Charles F. Bowers, Eugene Kefauver, E. Robert Bowls, G. B. Callan, Jr., and Richard D. Hammond. The

Medical Research Threatened

Danny Rose and Dr. Mary Coleman are the best of friends. Dr. Coleman is a pediatric neurologist at Children's Hospital in Washington. Danny is her patient. He came to Children's two months ago with his undersized body twisting into grotesque positions. He could not control his movements and was unable to speak. Recently he sat up unaided and, for the first time in three years, he spoke. Danny, who is 11, suffers from dystonia, a brain disease. He is being treated by Dr. Coleman with L-dopa, a new drug that provided exciting results in the treatment of Parkinson's disease. Dr. Coleman expects and hopes to have Danny walk out of Children's Hospital one day soon. But he may not. Dr. Coleman's work may be curtailed by cutbacks in federal research funds. This relationship between a little boy who is fighting to walk and talk and a doctor who is trying to help him represents the human side of a technical, impersonal dollars and cents argument facing the Congress. It is the human side I would like to discuss today.

The budget cuts, combined with the effects of inflation, are causing alarm among scientists and medical educators. First, there is concern for the survival of important research and training programs currently being conducted in the nation's medical schools. Second, there is concern that federal economy measures enforced today may destroy the base for long-range research and, in turn ultimately affect adversely the health of all American citizens. The effects appear to be widespread. Not even the most famous institutions are being spared. At Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, for example, the medical school has been forced to discharge some technicians and research personnel because of the squeeze on funds. Maryland doctors have written me to express their concern. One writes that the cuts "will have dire effects on the ongoing research (like Dr. Coleman's) into neurological diseases and on the training of physicians to care for these patients." He contends that the budget reduction would not represent a "tightening of the belt... but would necessitate totally abandoning many worthwhile research and training programs that required years to build."

A cancer researcher complains that the planned allocation to the National Cancer Institute ($189.7 million compared to a requested $300 million and a 1959 appropriation of $184 million) is "grossly inadequate" and "cannot fail to jeopardize our fight against cancer." He points out that cancer will cost this country about 325,000 deaths this year. A general practitioner informs me that as a result of the cuts many long-standing clinics of tuberculosis prevention are being terminated. He writes: "Special tuberculosis project funds have been largely responsible for revitalizing the anti-tuberculosis work in Maryland's two worst tuberculosis areas—Baltimore City and the southern counties of the Eastern Shore. If these funds are cut, the progress against TB, which is just now beginning to bear fruit, will probably stop."

The problem is complex, but we must tackle it immediately. We can start by restoring the NIH budget to at least its present level of operation. I do not argue with the President's decision to fight inflation by cutting federal spending. However, I believe that it is the duty of this Congress to set the order of priorities and I believe we must look long and hard for other places to begin this economy drive. Next, I believe that we must look to the future and plan how the government can adequately fund medical research which is so vital to our national welfare. Danny Rose and millions of other citizens are depending on us.

brochure will be used to inform prospective residents, business and industry about the county. Copies will be distributed or available at the Chamber of Commerce office, C. Burr Artz, Community College, Hood, Mt. St. Mary's, St. Joseph's and various school libraries, and several professional offices.

Message From Galilee

"Wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction..."
Jesus (Matt. 7:13)
Sermon on the Mount

In the year 1969, more of mankind than ever before have swarmed through the wide gate, along the broad way (more or less blindly) toward destruction. The forces of Godless atheism and international gangsterism have multiplied and advanced. America (all of us are a part of it) has aided those forces to grow. We may have a few years yet—to turn back and walk the harder road. But it is a straight and narrow way demanding sacrifices we have so far, as a people, been unwilling to make. The choice should by now be clear: two hundred million Americans must make sacrifices for the security and welfare of our nation (as they haven't made them before) or participate in the gradual death agonies of a God-fearing civilization.

This is not a nice (or perhaps popular) way to close out a year of observing, and thinking upon national and international events, and of speaking to and writing for an audience that (thankfully) has grown to many millions. The season we're in is traditionally a time for joy. But I feel the risen Christ is speaking to us again from a loftier Mount and in the same manner in which He spoke before—admonishing mankind to uphold the laws of God, image, to do constant battle with evil, to turn away from the easy pathways that "leadeth to destruction." We had better listen!

Destructive Changes

Behind the pleasing aurora of twinkling Christmas lights and glittering tinsel, if we but look, is a nation in the throes of terrible changes. Measured alongside the principles on which our civilization has been raised there are changes under way that are destroying the foundations of our nation's life. Change is good if it carries mankind upward; bad if it enfeebles the human race as God created it.

The Identifying "Murderers"
Art Linkletter, the TV-Radio entertainer, stood in the White House a few weeks ago, addressing our nation's governmental leaders. Dramatically, he told them how LSD had "killed our daughter Diane." His jaws squared, Mr. Linkletter said. "I made the decision that this would not be hushed over, that I would speak out about how this could happen to a well-educated family, traditionally Christian." His 20-year-old daughter was an aspiring actress with talent and beauty. She had been persuaded to take an LSD "trip," he said, by a national atmosphere making drug experimentation fashionable. She leaped to her death from the sixth floor of a building. Under the influence of LSD, her father said, she "thought she was losing her mind."

At the White House, and later at a Congressional hearing on the drug traffic, Mr. Linkletter said we are living in a 'drug society.' He indicted his own industry—Television—and the music industry (mesmerized, he said, by the Beatles) for helping to create a "murdering" wave of drug usage among young people. He said that "rock" music, as it is flooding the air waves today, carries a powerful invitation to American youth to take mind-warping "trips" with drugs and revolt against traditional institutions and values. He said "rock" art on posters and phonograph jackets carry "coded" messages to the "hep" young people urging that they take drugs and break with all tradition. He mentioned the "permissive society." This is one of the changes in our society heralding national collapse. We have permitted it to happen. Mr. Linkletter has begun to make sacrifices, to battle evil. "I will attack commercial enterprises, my own media, anybody who stands in the way of our progress against this scourge," he said. Will he get help or fight a losing battle alone?

The Reds At Work

The growing strength of the Communist conspiracy and the gradual decay of our American society have set the stage for "the drug society." The music industry and the drug "pushing" apparatus have been witting or unwitting allies of the conspiracy. It is one phase of the Communist offensive. Another phase is the nation-wide Vietnam "protest" demonstrations—marking the first time in history that Americans, in great numbers, have played into the hands of the enemy during a bloody war. The magnitude of these "demonstrations" dramatically exposes the state of our nation's vulnerability to World Communism. The demonstrations are vehicles of Communist warfare (no matter how innocent and sincere may be the non-Communists who are drawn into them) even more significant and important to world Communist aims than the takeover

TAKE A JUG FISHING

Many fishermen beat the slow summer days by going to a river, loading everything into a boat, and then throwing their fishing gear overboard as they pull away from the bank.

No, they haven't gone berserk. What they are doing, say the fishing authorities at Mercury outboards, is practicing a time-honored method of fishing called jug fishing. And what they're throwing out of the boat are sealed bottles or cans that float with the current, drifting bait into all parts of the river.

These knowledgeable fishermen are also taking advantage of the fact that river water is usually cooler in late summer than lake water. And cool water makes for better fishing.

To join in on this fun, you must first collect a supply of jugs. The white plastic bottles used for selling laundry bleach are excellent. Tie on a drop line of stout nylon cord. Vary the length from a couple of feet to six or seven feet long. Slip on a 1/4-ounce sinker and tie to a 2/0 or 3/0 ringed-eye hook. Be sure the jug cap is screwed down tight to prevent water leakage.

Bait choice is important. Since you're after catfish, drum, red horse and other bottom feeding species, use baits they'll most likely take. These include minnows, stink baits, chicken entrails, worms and cut bait fish.

Load everything in the boat. Bait up all the jugs and place them in the water several feet apart as you pull away from the bank. Jugs with short drop lines go near the bank; long drop line jugs go into the deepest water.

Now it's a matter of floating along watching the jugs, and snagging them when they catch on underwater obstructions. When a jug bobs up and down, or moves against the current, it's likely a fish is seriously working on the bait. The lads at Mercury suggest that when you reach the jug give it a hard upward jerk to set the hook before pulling in your catch.

Cars As Coffins And Weapons

NEW YORK — Crime in the streets turns out to be a joyride compared to slaughter on the highways.

Your chances of being injured in an automobile accident are almost ten times greater than your chances of being hurt by a mugger, burglar, would-be murderer or rapist. Traffic deaths last year reached 52,200.

In a shocking number of these deaths and injuries, the car has actually been used as a weapon. "There is a little murder and a little suicide in every man's heart," Dr. Karl Menninger, famous Kansas psychiatrist, observes ruefully. "Give him a weapon such as a car, inflame his irritations or frustrations or inhibitions, add alcohol or fatigue, and a murder or suicide may be committed."

Although poor automobile design is frequently at fault in traffic deaths, experts estimate that from five to ten per cent are caused by suicide. Drivers steer their cars off bridges and cliffs, turn into oncoming freeway traffic, crash into trees or lampposts, and their deaths are almost invariably written off as ordinary accidents, says Dr. John Edlund, a Kansas City pathologist.

Other drivers go for reckless drives in order to let off steam. Dr. Melvin Selzer, a psychiatrist at the University of Michigan, concludes that nearly one out of five drivers responsible for fatal accidents is suffering from paranoia (irrational suspiciousness with delusions of grandeur).

But the most important medical problem related to automobile accidents involves alcoholism, held responsible by the National Highway Safety Bureau for fully half of last year's traffic deaths.

Natural death at the wheel also takes an unexpectedly high toll. Dr. Irma West of California's Department of Public Health estimates that natural causes, particularly heart attacks, account for nearly two per cent of all the state's single-vehicle traffic deaths.

Stressful Recreation
Even for healthy drivers, keeping a car on the road is a strain. A London study reveals that driving in heavy traffic raises the heart rate from the resting range of 70-85 beats to 100-140 beats per minute. Drivers' pulse rates rise at least ten per cent above normal even on deserted country roads, according to a West German study. In harrowing city traffic, some pulse rates go up by as much as 40 per cent.

As for drivers with heart disease, more than half develop electrocardiogram irregularities when driving in heavy traffic.

What is the government doing to help cut the highway death toll? Dr. William Haddon Jr., former director of the National Highway Safety Bureau in the Department of Transportation, believes that the Bureau should probe deeply into what is clearly a public health menace of massive proportions. However, as Medical World News points out, the Bureau suffered a 90 per cent budget cut last year, leaving it with $20-million—rather less than the $35-million allotted for Federal conservation of migratory birds.

Garden Clubs To Plant Trees

The Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland and the Maryland Petroleum Association have joined forces to give the State a roadside planting of 221 trees.

Formal presentation of the project to State Roads Commission officials by Mrs. Edward W. Cooley, of Hagerstown, president of the garden federation, and Paul V. Troup, of Timonium, chairman of the oil trade group's executive committee, will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 25 at 11 a.m., at the planting site, the Baltimore Beltway—Fort Meade Road (Md. Rte. 170) interchange (Beltway Exit No. 6).

The Federation, with funds available from its Alice Rush-McKeon Fund, which is dedicated to roadside planting of hardwoods, will supply 24 sawtooth oaks, 59 pin oaks, 12 northern red oaks and 16 yellow woods, a total of 111 hardwood trees.

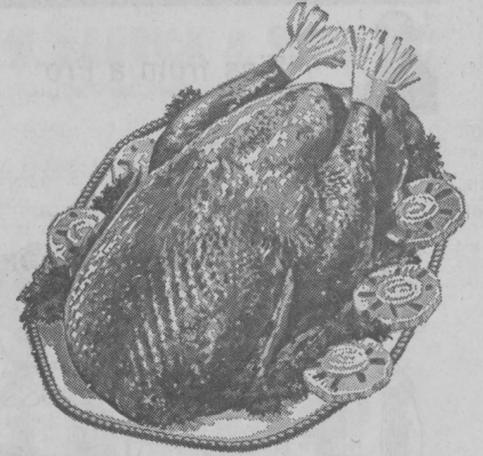

The petroleum association, which annually donates roadside trees in a number equal to the age of the oil industry, will contribute 42 floribunda (red-pink) crabapples, 40 hoppi (rose-pink) crabapples and 28 black pine, for a total of 110 trees.

Charles R. Anderson, chief of the Bureau of Landscape Design, State Roads Commission, and his staff, designed the planting.

Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-6th) announced this week that he now has available in his Washington office a 27 minute official NASA color film of the Apollo 11 moon landing, entitled "The Eagle Has Landed." The 16 mm film is ideal for showing to schools, civic organizations and Service clubs.
Those interested in arranging for a viewing of this movie should contact Congressman Beall's Washington office at 1527 Longworth Building, or call (202) 225-2721.

When Pimlico officials went over the nominations for the Flirtation Stakes' first running in 1967 they were amused to find a filly named Flirtation among them; delighted at the subsequent publicity when it appeared she might actually be a starter and somewhat dumbstruck when she went off as second choice and won by 3 lengths.

The ZIP Column

Our business lobby will be closed on Thursday, November 27, in order that our employees may enjoy their Thanksgiving dinner and rest thereafter, in preparation for the 1969 Christmas Season.

As usual, there will be an incoming and outgoing mail, in the morning only. Post Office Box-holders may obtain their mail until 6 p.m., at which time the front lobby will be closed.

No rural delivery on this day!

The annual fall livestock Survey Cards, on behalf of the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service at College Park, will be distributed today.

Each farmer-patron receiving a card is urged to fill it out, and place it in his mail box.

Many patrons have requested to rent a Post Office Box, especially since the change in transportation, effective last July, eliminating the evening mail for those in the General Delivery section.

At present all of our boxes are rented, and there is a waiting list in use, by which patrons will be notified as one becomes available.

Also, an additional section of boxes has been ordered, and it is hoped that they will be arriving soon.

Those patrons desiring a box, should leave their name with the window clerk.

George E. Rosensteel, PM.

Brute Ladies Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies of Brute Auxiliary, was held Monday, Nov. 10, at the Council home. Twenty-five members were present with the president, Lois Hartdagen presiding.

The president opened the meeting with a prayer in the absence of the chaplain. Prayer was followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer gave her report.

Nancy Danner reported that the responses for the coming Sample Fair are very good. It was unanimously approved to change the Fancy Table to a White Elephant Table for the fair. Further plans will be made at the next meeting.

A report was given by Nancy Danner that music has been engaged for the coming Anniversary affair for Brute Council which will be held on November 29 from 9 to 12, with a buffet covered dish social for members and honorary guests. The auxiliary will furnish the meat and rolls. Chairman of the affair will be Carmen Topper with Nancy Danner, Lois Hartdagen, Joan Keepers, Charlotte Sanders and Joyce Rosensteel assisting.

Lois Hardagen reported another successful trip to Victor Cullen last month and again encouraged more members to participate in this worthwhile social activity. This month's trip will be on November 23. Donations of cakes and cookies would be welcome.

It was voted that each member bring to the next meeting an inexpensive gift for a boy, aged 14-16, towards a Christmas box for the unit of boys at Victor Cullen. It should be gift-wrapped and a note on the outside telling what the box contains. Suggestions were: combs, puzzles, model cars, cigarettes, candy, etc.

Installation Ceremonies were held with the following new members installed: Carrie Austin, Alice Paxson, Charlotte Sanders and Mary Florence.

A Christmas Party will be held at next month's meeting. Each member is asked to bring a $1.00 gift. Punch and snacks will be served. Loretta Sprankle and Alice Boyle will be the co-chairmen of the affair.

Susan Haley's name was called for the door prize but was not present.

The meeting adjourned, and the next meeting will be held on December 8 at 8:15 p.m.

PTA TO MEET

The Emmitsburg Public School PTA will meet on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25, beginning at 8 p.m.

CYO To Provide Mass Music

This Saturday, Nov. 22, the CYO will have music practice for the Thanksgiving Mass. Sr. Mary Leonard will lead the singing. Following this there will be basketball practice in St. Joseph's High School gym.

On Thanksgiving Day, the CYO will attend the 9:00 Mass in a body and will receive communion together. Folk music will be sung at this Mass.

On Nov. 23, the CYO will show the movie, 'Bell, Book and Candle.' Admission is 30c for members and 50c for non-members. The music will begin at 8:00 p.m.

Senior Citizens Hear Bazaar Report

Monday morning, November 17, the Senior Citizens Board members met to hear the official report of the Bazaar from Mr. Louis Stoner, which proved very satisfactory as was reported in this column last week.

Among other items under discussion was the death of the vice president of the Board, Mrs. Frances Keller on Nov. 15. All expressed regret at the passing of a very active member, who had done much to make the Senior Citizens Club a success. She will be sorely missed by all of the members.

December 30, 1969, at 6 o'clock in the evening, will be the annual covered dish supper at St. Joseph College. It was agreed that this date would be long enough after Christmas to assure a full membership attendance at this affair.

The program for the 1970 Club activities was discussed. There will be the annual Spring Festival for which work and plans will be started immediately. The February meeting will be another covered dish supper. A sewing circle afternoon each Thursday will meet for members to assemble for work toward the festival. All members are expected to attend. A visit to the new Day Care Center is in the future as well. Speakers on various topics of interest from time to time. The Community Chorus report a rendition of the Messiah on December 21, 1969, at 3:00 p.m. All are invited to attend. There are only a few ideas for the new year of 1970. If anyone has any type of activity which they desire, let Mrs. McNair know and the suggestions will be carefully considered.

Tuesday evening, November 19, the members of the Senior Citizens Club met at 7:30 at the Center to be instructed and entertained by Mrs. Ruby Lord, who showed her pictures of the trip around the world taken by her husband and herself. The pictures were beautiful and gave everyone a chance to glimpse far-away places most people never see. The Senior Citizens Club extends heartfelt thanks to Mrs. Lord.

Miss Paula Goetz Medical Secretary School Graduate

Miss Paula Goetz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Goetz, R2, Fairfield, Pa., completed her studies at Maryland Medical Secretarial School, Hagerstown, Md., on November 14, 1969.

Miss Goetz received her diploma in the 14-month Medical Secretarial Course. She completed courses in the secretarial sciences as well as training in the terminology of the medical profession and basic medical courses such as anatomy, disease, medical office practice, and laboratory technique. She also received 13 weeks internship training at University of Maryland Hospital, which is one of the nine such institutions engaged in a cooperative training program with the school.

Graduates of the school are prepared to work as secretaries and medical assistants to physicians in private practices, hospitals, government medical installations, and industrial medical positions.

Miss Goetz graduated from St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, in 1968.

Free Diabetes Tests Available

Free diabetes detection tests, known as DREYPAKS, are being distributed through the neighborhood pharmacies of Maryland at no charge to the public. 75,000 DREYPAKS have been purchased by pharmacists for free distribution beginning this week in observance of Diabetes Detection Week, according to I. Earl Kerpelman of Salisbury, president of the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association.

In addition, pharmacists are participating in diabetes testing at the following Diabetes Detection Centers: Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore; Glenn Burnie Armory and Dundalk Armory.

Any person unable to visit these centers is urged to go to his neighborhood pharmacy and pick up a DREYPAK Test Kit which is prepared for mailing to the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association. All will be notified of the results at no charge to them. Information pamphlets on symptoms and control of diabetes are also available at pharmacies.

The Maryland Pharmaceutical Association program is under Diabetes Detection Chairman Irvin Kamenetz, Overlea pharmacist. MPhA has engaged in the Diabetes Detection Program in cooperation with the Maryland Diabetes Association for over 15 years.

Elected President Of Travel Council

James M. Behm, president of the Gettysburg Travel Council and general manager of the National Civil War Wax Museum, Elby's Big Boy Family Restaurant and the Pennsylvania Dutch Beef Haus, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Attractions and Travel Assn. at its annual meeting held at Allenberry last week.

Linda Pipher, Stroudsburg, was elected vice president; A. Kenneth Dick, Gettysburg, second vice president; Mary B. Leister of Stroudsburg, secretary; and Lawrence C. Burris, Hershey, treasurer.

Leroy Smith of Gettysburg was re-elected and Pauline Adamik was newly-elected to serve on the board of directors.

The Pennsylvania Attractions and Travel Assn. consists of 61 prominent attractions in Pennsylvania. Twelve of these attractions are found in the Gettysburg area.

The distance in miles between Philadelphia's oldest and newest race track is short, but the time span between them measures almost 300 years. Race Street in Philadelphia was one of the town's first race tracks and had originally borne the name Sassafraz Street. This year ground was broken for a Thoroughbred racing plant to house Continental and Eagle Downs, which operated this year at Liberty Bell Park.

With the proliferation of Thoroughbred racing in recent years, it is fortunate for the remaining whales that fiberglass was invented. For years the backbone of a jockey's whip was whalebone. Steel was tried but had a tendency to bend and set. Today they are made of fiberglass.
