

Elected President Of C&P Phone Co.

Thomas E. Bolger, president of Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Company, has been elected president and a director of the four Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies effective April 1st, it was announced this week following meetings of the companies' boards of directors.

Mr. Bolger succeeds William L. Lindholm, who has been elected executive vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York.

C&P's new president is a native of Nebraska where he was born 42 years ago in Norfolk. He graduated from the South Dakota School of Mines in 1949 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in electrical engineering.

Mr. Bolger began his telephone career in 1943 as a part-time employee with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. His first full-time job was as a lineman. In 1959 he was named chief engineer for Northwestern Bell in Iowa. He was elected vice president and general manager of Pacific Northwest Bell's Oregon operations in 1961, vice president-operations in Seattle in 1964, and president of the company in February, 1967.

Prominent in community and business affairs, Mr. Bolger was a trustee of the Seattle Area Industrial Council, Design for Washington, Inc., United Good Neighbors, Inc., and Providence Hospital. He was also a trustee and member of the Executive Committee of the Pacific Science Center Foundation; trustee and vice president of the Central Association of Seattle and the Seattle Chamber of Commerce and Camp Brotherhood, Inc. He was treasurer of Forward Thrust, Inc., and was a member of the Governor's Advisory Council on Urban Affairs; and an associate member of the Washington Council of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. Mr. Bolger was a member of the Young Presidents' Organization, Inc. and was on the advisory council of the Graduate School of Business Administration and the Visiting Committee of the Graduate School of Public Affairs, University of Washington, and the State Advisory Board of Radio Free Europe.

Mr. Lindholm has been president and a director of the four C&P companies, operating in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, since July 1, 1965. He came to C&P from Southwestern Bell where he was vice president in charge of that company's Texas area. A veteran of 33 years' service, he began his career in 1936 as a service representative with Southwestern Bell in Dallas.

While serving as head of the C&P companies, Mr. Lindholm took an active part in the civic and business life of the Nation's Capital. During his nearly five-year tenure, his many affiliations included directorships in the Maryland National Bank, Junior Achievement of Metropolitan Washington, National Symphony Orchestra Association, and the Accia Mutual Life Insurance Co. He was also a director and first vice president of the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade, a director of the United Givers Fund of the National Capital Area, and a member of the Executive Committee and vice chairman of the 1968, 1969, and 1970 campaigns.

He was vice president and a member of the Executive Committee, Federal City Council; trustee, Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area, and the Greater Washington Education Television Association; vice president, National Capital Area Boy Scouts of America; member, the George Washington University Council for Government and Business, chairman of the 1969 U. S. Savings Bond Campaign in the Washington Metropolitan Area, and chairman of the Bi-Centennial Commission of the District of Columbia.

Youth Danger And Challenge - Crash research programs into the short and long-range effects of Marijuana have now been under way nearly a year under the direction of Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, Director of the National Institute of Mental Health. None has progressed to the point of official determinations but Dr. Yolles, in early February, felt compelled, on the basis of findings so far, to warn

Don't Steal Cars; Computer Is Watching

A New York State Police trooper uses a hand microphone to radio in to troop headquarters the license number of an automobile being followed. With the force's real-time computer system, inquiry checks on license plates can be completed in a total elapsed time of 2 1/2 to 3 minutes.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — Buck Rogers isn't the only comic strip character whose futuristic equipment has become a reality in the Space Age.

Many police departments in the United States are now starting to rival Dick Tracy in the sophisticated devices they are using to cope with the ever-increasing crime rate.

Probably the most important of these tools is the electronic computer containing in its memory information on stolen cars, stolen license plates, stolen property, missing persons, wanted fugitives and a host of other types of data.

The New York State Police system is perhaps typical of the application of the computer in this type of operation.

A trooper on patrol radios a suspect license number of a car he is checking to the nearest police post. At the station the inquiry message is entered into a teletype terminal and sent directly to a UNIVAC 418-Real Time Computer at the State Police Communicathe nation that Marijuana is not a "harmless" drug as contended by Anthropologist Margaret Meade, Dr. Timothy Leary, the LSD "messiah," and others often quoted in the press.

Dr. Yolles promised to push all avenues of research and to report to the public from time to time. The urgency of the research program was dictated when the law enforcement and medical treatment agencies of the nation reported, almost in unison last year, that drug abuse among young people had become massively epidemic, creating an urgent, major problem for the nation and every one of her communities and families.

Marijuana became the central and most urgent research target because authorities had found that perhaps as many as 50% of all youth between 10 and 30 years of age had "experimented" with the cigarette-like "reefers." An estimated one out of every 10 "experimenters" go on to smoke "Pot" regularly. And, previous research shows, it is the Great Initiator which carries so many of its users into the "Drug Culture" where the more powerful, physically habit-forming Amphetamines, Barbiturates, and stronger Hallucinogens (LSD, Peyote, Psylocybin, etc.) begin to dominate and gradually disintegrate the lives of their captives.

Reporting to President Nixon's recent Governors' Conference on Dangerous Drugs, Dr. Yolles said that previous research had established that Marijuana:

- 1. Is a hallucinogen (A "Mind-Warping" drug). 2. Is a mild euphoria and leads to heightened suggestibility and faulty perception. 3. Adversely affects one's ability to drive an automobile or perform other skilled tasks. 4. Is known to cause reddening of the membranes of the eyes, rapid heartbeat, muscular inco ordination, unsteadiness, drowsiness, and distortion of time and space perception. 5. May produce visual hallucinations, pronounced anxiety, paranoid reactions, and transient psychoses (mental disorder) lasting four to six hours. 6. Is similar to LSD, but its effects are not as potent.

7. Can, in sufficient high dosage of THC—the pure resin of Marijuana — induce psychotic (insane) reactions in almost any individual.

Long-Range Effects Studied The current crash program of research has already established the fact that there are a variety of possible side effects. Facts on the long-range damage of regular Marijuana usage still have not been established, but will be exposed through the continuing research.

The President's Task Force did report: "The potential effects of a reality distorting agent (Marijuana) on the future psychological development and maturation of the adolescent user are of special concern. Normal adolescence is a time of considerable psychological turmoil. Patterns of coping with reality developed in the teen years help determine later adult behavior. Persistent use of an agent which serves to ward off reality during this critical period of development is likely to effect adversely the future ability of the individual to cope with the demands of a complex society."

A Legion Of Youth In co-operation with Governor Winthrop Rockefeller's task force on Drug Abuse, the National Education Program is holding a state-wide Seminar on Dangerous Drugs on April 23 in Little Rock. We have a plan through which the youth leadership will organize the boys and girls of the state in a Legion of Youth which will be dedicated to bringing about a better understanding of the dangers of Marijuana and all other drugs when misused. Young leaders from every school district will attend—some 3,000 in all. The Kiwanis Club Key Clubs (high school-age youth) are co-sponsoring and every law enforcement, medical and civic group in the state is assisting. We expect it to be a Pilot Plant seminar that can be held in every state; and the Legion of Youth growing out of it can become the nation's mightiest force for stamping out drug abuse through education.

Census Bureau Seeks Enumerators

Housewives—would you like to get out of house, meet new people, visit homes, have something different and interesting to do every day for a few weeks this spring, and get paid for it?

If your answer is "YES!", then you may be just what the U. S. Bureau of the Census is looking for to help take the 1970 Census of Population and Housing which begins April 1.

Nan M. Nichols, District Manager, says about 300 workers are needed in the district. Housewives especially are urged to apply because past experience has shown the Census Bureau that they are careful, conscientious workers, and unlike most men, who have regular employment, they can take on short-term jobs. The District Manager adds that most housewives welcome the chance to earn some extra money.

The jobs are for enumerators, the official name for census takers, who will call upon households. In general, enumerators will work in or near the area where they live. The jobs will last from three to five weeks beginning March 30.

Pay will be on a piece rate basis, which is designed to average $2.00 per hour nationally. If a car is required, mileage will be paid. In addition, enumerators will be paid for training if they accept a work assignment.

Enumerators must be U. S. citizens, 18 or older, and must pass a written test to show ability to follow printed instructions, and do simple arithmetic. They should be able to walk a lot, climb stairs, and see and hear well. It is desirable that most have a car and a home telephone. They may have to make some calls at homes in the evenings and on Saturdays.

The Census Bureau is an equal opportunity employer.

If you are interested, apply immediately at Bureau of the Census, 55 E. Washington St., Hagerstown, Md. 21740. Phone 797-7130.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS

Copyright 1970

Emerging Industries For Investors

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., March 5, 1970—Once again the trend is back to basic research for American industry, private laboratories, and universities. What appeared earlier to be endlessly mounting federal funding is being reversed by over-saturation of many markets and the broad cutbacks in outlays for government-sponsored war research, plus the disenchantment with a number of projects which proved futile.

Annual increments for research over the period ahead are expected to be held at a modest rate. It is the opinion of the staff of Babson's Reports, however, that considerable emphasis will be placed on research in nondefense fields. With this in mind, it seems likely that important breakthroughs will be seen, and some of the commercial areas most likely to be affected are discussed here.

Pollution Control And Waste Disposal

Companies producing instruments and equipment for water treatment should do extremely well over the period ahead. The same applies to those firms involved in removing solids and gases from the environment (air pollution), as well as those in the field of solid waste disposal. We favor such companies as Culligan, Nalco Chemical, and Narco Scientific for investment at this time. Other firms such as Research-Cottrell, Betz Laboratories, American Air Filter, Ionics, and Marley should also participate fully, but this group seems amply priced investmentwise.

Facsimile Transmission

The sending of information in printed form, handwritten, or by photo over the ordinary telephone system for the cost of a regular telephone call (plus equipment rental charges) opens up a new and promising area. In time, we believe that the explosive growth potential should be comparable to the office copier boom. Such leaders as Magnavox, Xerox, Addressograph-Multigraph—along with Stewart-Warner—should share in this novel industry.

Modular Housing

With the cost of traditional on-site construction soaring and the demand for low-income housing more pressing, the search for streamlined building methods and cheaper materials will become more intense. One solution is the module form, basically a mass-produced box with plumbing, wiring, and utilities in place. Another is the mobile home, especially adaptable for newly-weds and retirees. In the later field we currently favor Champion Home Builders. Other leaders include Guerdon Industries, Redman, and Skyline.

Microelectronics

Spawning initially for military applications, integrated circuits are ready to cash in on an even greater market—consumer electronics. Exciting breakthroughs promise early incorporation of thousands of electronic circuits on one small chip. Another important technology known as MOS circuitry is already finding its place in small computers and electronic calculators. We currently recommend General Instrument and Sprague Electric for investor participation. Also tops are Texas Instruments, Fairchild Camera, Motorola, Westinghouse Electric, & RCA. Cable Television, CATV.

Large cities with towering skyscrapers and other relay obstacles are prime and untapped markets for this type of reception. Cable TV should, in fact, revolutionize present means of communications. Recent FCC authorizations and court rulings should encourage fresh growth. Our current buy advice is General Instrument. Other leaders include TelePrompter, Columbia Broadcasting, Cox Broadcasting, and Vikoa.

Community College Council Active

The Student Council of Frederick Community College, by its recent action, is now widely represented within the College's organizational structure. Sixteen students have been appointed to ten faculty and administrative committees.

Responding to the need for greater student involvement, the Frederick Community College Pro-

Tony Curtis and his wife, Leslie, appearing in TV spots throughout the country for the American Cancer Society, urge cigarette smokers to pick an IQ (I Quit) day...and kick the habit. Leslie asks married men to give their wives this priceless gift. It saves money. More important, it saves lives. "Every time I hear about someone with lung cancer, I'm grateful to Tony all over again for having quit," she says.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The Board of Trustees of Frederick Community College, 115 East Church Street, Frederick, Maryland, invites bids on supplying and delivering science equipment for Frederick Community College, Frederick, Maryland.

Specifications and proposal sheets may be obtained at the Board of Trustees Office, 115 East Church Street, Frederick, Maryland.

Sealed bids will be received at the Board of Education Office until 9:30 A.M. (EST), March 31, 1970.

The Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive informalities.

U.S. Senator

U.S. Farm Program Hurts Farmers and Consumers

One of my personal disappointments in the accomplishments of the Congress and of the Administration during the past year, has been our failure to recognize the disastrous effect of our existing agricultural legislation not only on the farmers of America but also on our national economy. We are now pouring over $4.5 billion into agricultural subsidies at a time when we can ill-afford to spend such sums on a program that has proved to be a failure. This money is desperately needed and should be spent for education, medical research, medical care and many other pressing needs of America.

The basic farm law now in effect, the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, which I opposed as a member of the House of Representatives, has not proven satisfactory either to farmers or to the general public. In the period since its enactment prices received by farmers for the major commodities covered by this legislation—wheat, corn, feed grains, and cotton—have not provided satisfactory incomes to farmers. The 60 percent of agriculture which is not covered by government farm programs such as the producers of cattle, hogs, eggs, fruit and vegetables have all actually been better than those who are covered by this stifling blanket of government program. At the same time, the taxpayers have been doing worse because the cost of the program enacted in 1965 has continued to increase. There is no reason for either farmers or consumers or taxpayers to be happy with this situation. There is clearly a need for a change in approach. Last July

I introduced a bill which I think was consistent with the campaign position taken by the President. At the time of his election, he said: "A new look must be given to a government policy which has brought us to a station where 21 percent of the farmers realized net income comes directly from the government. Those who control the purse, control the power. The new programs that are designed should insure a fair return while reducing this dangerous level of dependency on political power."

In this spirit, I proposed a new Agricultural Adjustment Act which would provide a new direction in farm policy. It would provide for a five-year transitional program to begin in January of next year and to run through December of 1975. During this period acreage allotments, marketing quotas, processing taxes and direct payments for wheat, feed grains and cotton would be phased out.

As we continue to phase out the agriculture programs, I think that we can dovetail this adjustment of farm legislation with President Nixon's message to Congress on the quality of the environment by making it possible for programs of recreational development to utilize idle farm-lands, as well as making long-term contracts with farmers for reforestation and other improvements to enhance conservation and recreational use of retired lands. These are goals that are entirely consistent with my agricultural bill and I believe that they should be adopted very quickly.

YOUR INCOME TAX

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is one of a series on ways you can save on your income tax returns this year. The articles are written by Henry Block, president of H & R Block, Inc., America's largest tax service.

Special Tax Consideration For Real Estate Sales And Senior Citizens

The average American sells his own home, business building, or other real estate only once or twice in his lifetime, so he naturally may be unaware of the potential pitfalls he faces in paying Federal income taxes on his profits from these sales.

Actually, the sale and exchange of real estate is one of the few ways in which a taxpayer can earn the most money and have the least tax to pay. In real estate sales, he converts ordinary income, which is taxed as high as 70%, into capital gains, which are never taxed at more than 25%.

When you sell or exchange your home at a profit, this gain need not be taxable immediately. The tax you owe on this profit is postponed for at least a year after you sell. The period is extended to 18 months if you are building a new home, or in some cases up to four years for persons in the armed forces.

If, within a year after you sold your old home, you bought a new residence whose cost is equal to or more than the adjusted sales price (explained later) of your old home, your tax on any profit is postponed again, and this profit reduces the tax basis of the new home.

Suppose that last year you sold your home at a profit of $6,000, and this year bought another home for $26,000, which is more than you got for the old home. You would not have to pay any taxes for 1969 on the $6,000 gain. This profit is subtracted from what you paid for the new home, giving it a tax basis of $20,000.

Should you later sell the new home for $27,000 and not replace it with another home of equal or more value within the required time, you would have to pay taxes on the $7,000 gain—the difference between the $20,000 tax basis of this home and the amount for which you sold it. However, you can continue to postpone these taxes as long as you buy a home which is worth at least as much as you sold the former home for, and the new home is purchased within the proper period—usually a year.

Improvement Deductions

A few paragraphs ago we referred to the adjusted sales price of the home you are selling. This generally is the amount you originally paid for the home plus the value of improvements you made on it, less such selling expenses as advertising, real estate commissions, abstract and documentary costs.

When you improve your home to make it more attractive to prospective purchasers, you can deduct these expenses from what you receive for the home to arrive at the adjusted sales price. However, these expenses must be for work done not more than 90 days prior to the sales contract signing, must be paid for within 30 days after the sale, must be otherwise non-deductible on your tax return, and must not be for capital improvements, such as adding a room.

The amount of your final adjusted sales price can determine whether or not you pay any tax on the sale of your old home when you buy a new one within the required time.

If you trade in your old residence on another, it is considered the same as a sale and a purchase, and all the points outlined above would apply.

Installment Sale Method

Should you make a gain on a real estate sale which you cannot offset by the purchase of another residence, you might use the installment sale method of reporting your tax and spread the income from your sale over several years. This method is advisable if your profit from the sale would put you in an income bracket higher than your normal bracket.

For instance, you and your wife have a regular income of $10,000 a year and you sold real estate at a $5,000 profit. Together, these two sources of income would put you in the next higher tax rate bracket. If you can afford to not take all the proceeds of the sale immediately, it would be to your tax advantage to use the installment sales method, since it would keep you in your normal tax bracket.

Under this method, you must not receive more than 30% of the total sale price in the first year, and your taxable income each year is based on the percentage of profit you make on the deal. You must, however, determine whether or not to use this method at the time of the sale.

The installment sales method involves many variables, such as unstated interest and length of ownership, so it is advisable to have a thorough knowledge of all rules covering this method of taxation on real estate profits before using it.

Special Benefits To Those Over 65

For many years the Federal income tax laws have contained special benefits for Americans who are 65 years of age or older, but many elderly people overlook these concessions in filing their returns.

Standard Deduction Used For Some

The average annual income of retired persons is around $2,000. Many taxpayers over 65 who are not affected by the above three major benefits and whose incomes are near the average will perhaps save themselves considerable time and trouble by taking the minimum standard deduction provided in the law. For example, a married couple, both 65 or older, who file jointly, would have to have an income of $3,000 or more before they would owe any Fed-

Home Sales

A taxpayer over 65 does not have to pay any taxes on any profit he makes from the sale of his personal residence for $20,000 or less. To qualify, he must have lived in the home at least five of the eight years prior to the sale. Any profit he may realize on the sale of his home for more than $20,000 is not entirely taxable. He can exclude from taxes the portion of his profit which is in the same ratio as $20,000 is to the total sales price.

The following example will help clarify this point. A man who is 66 sells his $24,000 home for $30,000—a gain of $6,000. To determine his taxable gain, he multiplies the $6,000 gain by the fraction $20,000 over $30,000, which equals $4,000, the amount of profit he does not have to pay taxes on. This will leave him owing taxes on just $2,000 of the total $6,000 profit.

Retirement Income Credit Important

Retirement income credit for persons over 65 is highly significant. If a taxpayer earned at least $600 in each of any 10 calendar years before the year on which he is paying taxes, he can reduce his tax bill by as much as $225.60 on a separate return, or by as much as $342.90 if he files a joint return with his wife who is also 65 or older.

The credit applies to retirement income which is taxable, such as pensions, annuities, dividends, interest and rents up to a maximum of $1,524 on a separate return, or a maximum of $2,286 on a joint return of a man and wife both over 65.

If both qualify, both obtain the credit. If only one qualifies, by filing a joint return the other automatically qualifies and the credit is therefore greater.

If a taxpayer is 62 or over but under 72, he must also reduce his retirement income as follows:

1. If total income is $1,200 or less: No reduction.
2. If total income is over $1,200, but not over $1,700: Reduce by one-half the excess over $1,200.
3. If total income is over $1,700: Reduce by all excess over $1,450. Thus the senior citizens who earned $2,974 from occasional jobs last year would not be eligible to take the retirement income credit because of this limitation.

Here are the mechanics of taking the credit: First, add all "retirement income" of up to $1,524 ($2,286 on joint returns of couples over 65), then subtract any Social Security and similar benefits, as well as any earned income over $1,200 if the taxpayer is under 72. Now multiply the figure you get by 15 per cent to obtain the amount of credit which can be subtracted from the tax owed.

Medical Deductions

Since January 1, 1967, there is no longer a limitation to the amount of medical expenses which are deductible. Should you elect to take medical deductions, the first 1% of drug costs and 3% of medical costs must be excluded from the total deductible amount.

You are allowed a special deduction for half of any hospital premiums you pay, up to a maximum of $150, which is not subject to the 3% exclusion. The other half and any excess over $140 will be included with the other medical expenses and subject to the 3% exclusion.

One final tip: For income tax purposes, your birthday is considered to be the day before your actual birthday. So, if you happened to reach 65 on January 1, 1970, you can claim all of these benefits on your 1969 tax return!

Route 15 Hearing Set For April 1

The State Roads Commission has announced that a public hearing will be held on the proposed design for the dualization of a section of U. S. Route 15 in Frederick County.

Scheduled for April 1 at 7:30 in the Lewistown Elementary School, the hearing is concerned with the nearly 10 miles of dualization between Hayward Road (Harmony Grove) and Kelly's Store Road (Catoctin Furnace).

Individuals and representatives of organizations wishing to be heard are requested to furnish their name, address, telephone number, and the organization they represent, if any, to Mr. Thomas Hicks, Acting Deputy Chief Engineer for Planning and Safety, Room 209, 300 West Preston St., Baltimore, Maryland 21201, no later than March 27, so their names may be placed on the list of witnesses. Others present at the hearing and wishing to be heard may do so after those on the established list.

Written statements and other exhibits in lieu of or in addition to oral presentations at the hearing will be accepted for a period of ten (10) days after the hearing.

Maps, drawings, and other pertinent information including written views received prior to the hearing will be available for public inspection and copying during normal working hours at the State Roads Commission of Maryland District #7 Office, located at 4 Locust Street, Frederick.

Tentative schedules for right of way acquisitions and construction will be discussed, and information with respect to relocation assistance programs will be explained.

OUR HEALTH

By J. M. Amberson, M.D.

Question: What can be done about unsightly varicose veins?

Answer: Enlarged veins on the legs and thighs are a health problem for many men and women since there's a heavy dragging sensation in the legs, often accompanied by general tiredness and lack of energy. It is estimated that over half of all women over fifty and one out of every four men suffer from this condition. What to do about this often unsightly condition depends largely on how serious it is. Light cases respond to self-measures. Resting, Dr. Amberson with feet propped up higher than the head, gives relief. If you must stand because of an occupation or profession (teachers, dentists, barbers, and sales persons are frequent sufferers) then you should invest in support hose or light elastic bandages to relieve the abnormally swollen or dilated veins.

Seriously distended veins can be removed successfully by surgery. But the most common treatment for a serious condition is called "stripping." Here the superficially distended veins are tied off and the circulation of the blood reroutes itself to other veins.

Question: Do bath oils have any therapeutic value?

Answer: Some do. Anyone who has used a good bath oil knows that when she is done, her skin feels smooth and velvety and the unattractive roughness of such spots as knees, elbows, and heels is less obvious. Dry skin becomes dehydrated temporarily and the oils and moisture that have been lost are replaced. For centuries, women used oils in their baths to retain and restore the suppleness of their skin. Today many women are using cosmetic bath oils which are perfumed. For the majority of women these oils have no ill effects and do give the skin a very pleasant afterglow. However, there are many persons for whom dry skin is more than a minor annoyance. Elderly people who suffer from Xeroderma, a painful dry skin condition, housewives with so-called "dish pan" hands, persons with dermatitis or psoriasis—all need the therapeutic aid of a bath oil to relieve the itching discomfort of dry skin, and for them the perfumed cosmetic ones are not the best choice. Many dermatologists suggest a bath oil like Alpha-Keri for the relief of the flaking, itching and discomfort of dry skin.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible
He who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully.—(II Cor. 9:6).

We have been given an inner power of thought that can literally transform our life. But thought must be concentrated to be effective. By concentrating wholly on good, we find good wherever we look. Thoughts and attitudes of success and prosperity persistently held produce abundance. Concentrating on happier, more harmonious ways of doing things will help us find more joy in living.

CDF Initiates Self-Help Projects

Beit-Lehia villages in the Gaza area worked hard on a new water well dug as one of three major self-help projects initiated through the assistance of Community Development Foundation (CDF), an international nonprofit agency which assists people in underprivileged communities within the United States and developing countries overseas to initiate and carry out such projects that meet local community needs.

Beit-Lehia has become a beehive of activity and many changes have been made since the initiation of its self-help project. Community volunteers have not only dug a new water well but have constructed a road-to-market and built three new class rooms onto an existing school.

The village is approximately 15 kilometers east of the city of Gaza. It is situated along the coast line upon sand dunes and although the villagers have some land under cultivation as well as orange groves, the overall conditions are basically crude. The refugees who inhabit the Gaza area farm when possible and also work as farmhands during the peak seasons.

Self-help volunteers receive technical assistance from their local Department of Public Works and many of the villagers use their own tools and animals such as picks, shovels, donkeys, even camels for community development projects.
Because Beit-Lehia is on the sea coast, villagers there hope to eventually have fishing and cannery industries. They also hope to establish a fishing co-op and refrigeration facilities. This will permit export of products to the east bank in Jordan for shipment to other Arab countries.
Community Development Foundation assists communities in this country and overseas to initiate and carry out projects which meet local needs and utilize local resources and local volunteer labor. Incorporated in 1959, the Foundation was granted consultative status to the United Nations in 1966, by the U.N. Economic and Social Council. The Foundation is a member of the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service and is registered with the U.S. State Department Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid.
Contributions to CDF Self-Help projects may be sent to Community Development Foundation SELF-HELP, Norwalk, Connecticut 06852.

The ZIP Column

April 1, 1970, has been designated Census Day for the 1970 Decennial Census. This census is to be handled by mail, alone.

On Saturday, March 28, 1970, each family receiving mail through this post office, is to receive a census questionnaire.

If a family on one of our rural routes fails to receive a census questionnaire, it will be their obligation to request it from the carrier on his next trip.

If your mail is received through a Post Office Box or in General Delivery, each family should receive one questionnaire on this day. If for some reason a family does not receive this form, again it is their obligation to request one from the clerk on duty.

It is my understanding that there is to be a fine imposed by the Census Bureau for failure to return these forms by April 1, P.M.

Why blow it?" The popular screen actor is National IQ (I Quit) Chairman of the American Cancer Society's life-saving program to discourage cigarette smoking.

11 Die On State Roads In Week

Eleven persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police. Eight of those killed were drivers and three were passengers. Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths, speed in nine, and "driver error" in all but one.

"In the serious accidents on Maryland highways last week which were investigated by the State Police, twenty-five persons were killed or seriously injured," noted Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the State Police. "Of this number, eighteen had seat belts available, but in only five instances did the operator or passenger take advantage of the safety device. State Police investigators are of the opinion that seat belts were instrumental in preventing more serious or fatal injury to all five. "The safety warning is quite easy to extract from these figures: Always use your seat belt. It can save your life."

Combed cottons have been "combed" of short fibers, leaving the longer lengths.
