Feed And Grain Payments Planned

The U. S. Department of Agriculture plans to begin payments on 1970 voluntary feed grain and wheat programs early in July and complete them by mid-August, according to Raymond F. Jaeger, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

"As soon as the farm operator certifies compliance with program provisions, the County ASCS Office will begin processing papers for the payments," said Mr. Jaeger.

Of course, a farmer must be in the feed grain or wheat program first of all, the ASC Committee Chairman said. Enrollment in the 1970 farm programs is not automatic; a farmer must be signed up at his County ASCS Office in order to participate and become eligible for farm program payments and price support loans.

Compliance means limiting crop acreages to that indicated in sign-up intentions, Mr. Jaeger said, as well as complying with other provisions of the programs. "The measurement service, offered at cost by County ASCS Offices, will help most farmers in this regard," he said. He urged farmers in one or more of the 1970 farm programs to request measurement as soon as possible if they have not already done so.

The ASC Committee Chairman cautioned that farmers should not sign their certification of compliance until they know their farm is in shape to be checked for compliance. A spotcheck can be made at any time after certification—and if a farm is out of compliance, the producer can lose some or all of his farm payments.

"The best thing a farmer can do to get his payments early in July is get his crop up and his diverted acreage in shape early so he can come in earlier than usual to certify he's doing the job," Mr. Jaeger said.

Personals

Dr. and Mrs. George W. Green, Jr., have returned from Scranton, Pa., after having attended the funeral of Mrs. Green's father, Mr. George N. England.

Mr. and Mrs. Haburn Glass, of Jonesville, Va., visited Milburn M. Glass and Ruby N. Sheeley of De Paul St.

Ronald E. Sheeley has returned to duty on the USS Furse at Norfolk, Va. They have received orders for a cruise to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. They will leave this weekend.

Phil Valentine and Jimmy Seiss visited their families over the weekend. They are stationed at Norfolk, Virginia.

VFW AMBULANCE

Mrs. Louise Gillelan, Emmitsburg, David and Emory Barnhouse and Mrs. Virginia Barnhouse, Taneytown, were transported this week to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, via the VFW ambulance. Mrs. Paul E. Humerick, Emmitsburg, was transferred from the hospital to her home in the vehicle. Drivers were James Kittinger and Paul E. Humerick.

College Responds To Bloodmobile

The Red Cross Bloodmobile made a blood collection on Friday, Mar. 13, at St. Joseph College in Emmitsburg. Donor registration was held in the Student Center Building from 10 a.m. until 2:45 p.m., and during this time, 95 donors appeared, 5 were deferred for medical reasons and one person was unsuccessful in donating, making a total of 89 units collected for credit to the Frederick Chapter.

A breakdown of statistics show that of the 95 donors appearing, 81 of them were students of St. Joseph College (76 first time donors); 10 were Sisters of St. Joseph's, all first time donors in Frederick County; 3 seminarians from Mt. St. Mary's Seminary; and one student from Mt. St. Mary's College.

This was the first time since 1967 that the Red Cross Bloodmobile made a blood collection at St. Joseph College, and it is hoped that the students there will be interested in participating in the Frederick County Red Cross Blood Program again next year.

Very often a women's head on a man's shoulders accomplishes more than his does.

Two Budget Balancers

Young marrieds with limited incomes often look to hamburger to balance the food budget. But when it comes time to entertain, the lowly hamburger needs dressing up. So take your favorite meat loaf recipe and turn it into company fare by adding crunchy chopped water chestnuts and a topping of crushed pineapple for interesting texture and flavor.

To serve with this meal we suggest tall glasses of iced tea. Yes, iced tea even at this time of year. Many young people are taking to drinking this refreshing beverage all year round because it goes so well with all kinds of food, because it's non-fattening, and because it's inexpensive, too. Directions for making a big 2-quart pitcherful—enough for 10 servings—follow:

Iced Tea by the Pitcherful

1. Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
2. Remove from the heat and immediately add 15 teabags or 1/2 measuring cup of loose tea.
3. Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes.
4. Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of freshly drawn cold water.
5. When ready to serve, pour into ice-filled glasses and serve with lemon and sugar to taste.

Note: If using instant tea, allow 4 rounded tablespoons to two quarts of cold water.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

A Good Deal

The candid revelation by Majestic Prince's owner, Frank McMahon, that he owned a half interest in the Prince's dam, was therefore a co-consignor and paid only $125,000, although the total bid for the colt at the Keeneland Yearling Sales of 1967 had been $250,000, brings to mind a story told earlier in the year by Peter Fuller, owner of Decker's Image.

It seems a man passing a house in Boston noticed a sign in the window stating "Puppy For Sale — $50,000." His curiosity aroused, he went in and it turned out the owner of the puppy was an 8-year-old youngster who firmly turned down an offer of $15. The following day the man noticed that the sign was gone and again curiosity prompted him to stop and inquire. He met the smiling youngster and asked if he had actually sold his dog for $50,000. "Did better than that," said the potential syndicator of Thoroughbred stallions. "I got 25¢ in cash and two $25,000 kittens!"

The record price paid for a Thoroughbred yearling is $405,000, which Wendell P. Rosso, Virginia market chain operator paid for a daughter of Sea Bird named Reine Enchanteur at the 1968 yearling sales. It will be interesting to see what the full-brother to Majestic Prince brings at the yearling sales of 1970.

Now THAT'S Pumping Gas!

Novi, Michigan—(HK)—The latest wrinkle in gasoline service stations is being tested here; and according to station manager, Rob Muncey, customers—especially the males—like it very much.

Muncey's innovation is a team of six mini-skirted young ladies who do everything from pumping gas to changing oil.

The girls work in two daytime shifts at Muncey's Marathon Oil Company station and according to them, "It's a great experience. We keep busy, meet lots of people and get plenty of exercise."

According to Muncey, "The girls are the greatest thing that ever happened to this station. They relate to males and females alike."

Cambridge Bombing Strikes At the Heart of Society

One of the unhappy conclusions about our own time is that we are living in an age of violence. We're living in an age when neither individuals nor communities nor nations are safe from acts of violence.

During the past week we in Maryland had the unhappy experience of having a blow struck at the very heart of organized society. A courthouse, in a county seat, was struck by a bomb. A courthouse is the symbol of the administration of justice and of the collective will of the people to live together. This is a senseless act of violence aimed at society against which society finds it very difficult to protect itself. It's an act which recalls, in terms of political violence, the blows struck at President John Kennedy, Martin Luther King, and Senator Robert Kennedy.

It's an act of violence of the same character although not of the same magnitude as that represented by the threat of nuclear attack by one nation against another and of the total elimination of cities and communities from the face of the earth. Our problem today is how can we live with, adjust ourselves and accommodate the goals of civilization in a world in which this kind of violence is an ever-present threat.

I think that the bombing of the courthouse in Cambridge, Maryland, illustrates the kind of challenge that faces us. I think our goal has to be a far better and a far more effective organization of our life together. I think that we can no longer have government at federal, state, county, and municipal levels which isn't totally coordinated in serving people and in providing protection to our citizens. I think those of us who are actively engaged in political and governmental roles have to find better ways to coordinate every effort of government, not only the effort to provide security but also the effort to provide for the needs of the people. I think we have to exercise a kind of leadership which keeps people moving forward toward the goal of a better quality of life.

I was very proud that in Maryland, in Dorchester County and the city of Cambridge, immediately after this despicable act which struck at the very heart of society, business was going on as usual and there was calm. There was a determination not only to rebuild the damage which had been done, but also to improve the quality of life and the way in which people live with each other. This is a hopeful and a necessary sign, because above all else in an age of violence people have to strive harder to understand and live with each other.

Howard K. Smith
Indicts Networks

A worried friend came to me a few days after the end of the trial of the "Chicago 7." At the moment, television news departments were devoting a substantial part of their programs to interviews with and speeches by the convicted criminals and their noisiest lawyer, William Kunstler. The networks seemed clearly to be sympathetic to the criminals convicted of deliberately fomenting riots. Very little rebuttal was carried to challenge charges they leveled against the U. S. Court system and our American society. During this glorification of the criminal, United States bombings in Laos—to protect our armies in South Vietnam—were being viewed by the TV news "experts" as dangerous; they were made to seem contrary to announced U. S. policy, the opening of "a brand new war" in Asia by trigger-happy U. S. Military forces.

My worried friend said: "The television networks seem to be against our American system. They are supporting criminals who are trying to tear up our country and they are trying to hamper America's efforts in the Vietnam war." Just three days after my friend expressed his anxiety, an interview with Howard K. Smith, ABC newsmen, was published in TV Guide (Feb. 28-Mar. 6). Mr. Smith, in a series of statements that ought to shock the TV networks to their foundations, charged that his network and the others practice a left-wing bias in news handling, that their emphasis in news reporting is "anti-American," and that "liberal" newspapermen describe revolutionaries and "militants" such as some of the "Chicago 7" as "our children."

Dishonest, Unfair Journalism
Mr. Smith is ABC's Washington-based "anchor man," former CBS European correspondent and winner of many journalism awards. Politically, he calls himself a "liberal." Here are some of his charges against individuals and news organizations responsible for giving the American people a true picture of world happenings:

1. "If Agnew says something, it's bad, regardless of what he says. If Ronald Reagan says something, it's bad, regardless of what he says. Well, I'm unwilling to condemn an idea because a particular man said it. Most of my colleagues do just that."

2. "The networks have never given a complete picture of the war. For example: that terrible siege of Khe Sanh went on for five weeks before newsmen revealed that the South Vietnamese were fighting at our sides, and that they had higher casualties. And the Viet Cong's casualties were 100 times ours. But we (TV networks) never told that. We just showed pictures day after day of Americans getting the hell kicked out of them. This was enough to break America apart. That's also what it did!" This is a significant charge: that unbalanced,

Headstart Program Registration Now

Pre-registration for the 1970 Summer Headstart Program is now being conducted in the following schools: Elm Street, South Frederick, East Frederick, Brunswick, New Market, Liberty, Emmitsburg, Sabillasville, Thurmont, Urbana, Carroll Manor, Lewistown and Valley. Headstart is a Federally funded pre-school program sponsored by the local Community Action Agency in cooperation with the Frederick County Board of Education and the Frederick County Health Department.

Hugh Nolan, Coordinator of Title I Programs, has urged all parents who have children that may be eligible to participate in the Headstart program to contact the principal of the schools involved immediately. According to Nolan, planning for the 1970 summer program is well advanced and an approval from the Washington Office of Economic Opportunity is expected prior to April 15.

Children to be eligible for participation in the program must be five to six years old and entering first grade in September, 1970. In addition, the family must fall within the economic guidelines set by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). Nolan stated that a concentrated effort is being made to get all children pre-registered as soon as possible. "It is important that we have a reasonably accurate idea of the number of children to be involved before we finalize plans for the summer," he concluded.

VA domiciliary care is provided on an ambulatory, self-care basis for qualified veterans disabled by age or disease, who are not in need of acute hospitalization, and who do not need the skilled nursing services provided in nursing homes.

3. A liberal Senator "maneuvered the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution through — with a clause stating that Congress may revoke it. Ever since, he's been saying: 'This is a terribly immoral thing.' I asked him: 'If it's that bad, aren't you morally obligated to try to revoke it?' He runs away! This liberal senator . . . is not criticized for his want of character. He is beloved by reporters, by everyone of my group, which is left-of-center."

4. "The New Left challenges America. They're rewriting the history of the Cold War. Some carry around the Viet Cong flag. Some shout for Mao . . . They've become irrational! But they're not portrayed as irrational. Reporters describe them as 'our children.' . . . If right-wing students had done what left-wing students have done, everyone, including the reporters, would have called in the police and beaten their heads in. But we have a left-wing bias now, that has 30 years of momentum behind it."

5. "The negative attitude (of the 'liberal' journalists) which destroyed Lyndon Johnson is now waiting to be applied to Richard Nixon. Johnson was actually politically assassinated. And some are trying to assassinate Nixon politically. They hate Richard Nixon irrationally."

Mr. Smith, worried by the power being exercised over news by "New Left" revolutionaries, says the remedy must come through public protest. "The networks have ignored this situation, despite years of protest," he says, "because they have power." He believes, however, that sufficient public protest can force the establishment of a "fair" and honest handling of news and comment.

Every Auto Needs Home Of Its Own

Does your car hate to go home at night because it has no place to park?

Despite spacious garages, a lot of cars get only curb-side accommodations when they reach home after a hard day on the road. The problem: garages so cluttered with storage that there's no room for the car. The solution: divide garage space equitably—walls for storage, floors for cars.

Key to the project is use of heavy-duty, 1/4 inch perforated hardboard paneling to provide wall storage. These versatile boards have perforations for hooks and heavy-duty fittings on which to hang a variety of equipment, from tools and garden hoses to weighty mowers and spare tires. Stackable items—paint cans, boxes and the like—fit snugly on shelves perforated on panel brackets. Everything is off the floor and conveniently stored on the walls.

Perforated hardboard can be installed by any do-it-yourselfer. The panels will not dent, mar or scuff, come in a number of sizes (including standard 4 by 8 feet) and can be cut and worked with ordinary carpentry tools.

Installation is over studs or furring strips. At least a quarter-inch clearance from walls must be left behind the panels to allow for insertion of fittings. Since hardboard is a wood product, it's best to allow for natural expansion by not butting panels too closely together. A good rule of thumb is to leave space for the thickness of a matchbook cover between each panel.

Perforated hardboard is readily available at local lumber dealers and building supply stores. It comes prefinished or ready-to-paint, and in random-grained or wainscot styles. Tempered panels are available for extra strength and moisture resistance.

For further information on the variety and uses of hardboard panelings (for garages, kitchens, living rooms, rec rooms, bathrooms, etc.) homeowners can refer to a new full-color, illustrated brochure, "New Dimensions in Living". It's available for 25 cents from the American Hardboard Association, 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

YOUR INCOME TAX

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is one of a series on ways you can save on your income tax returns this year. The articles are written by Henry Block, president of H & R Block, Inc., America's largest tax service.

Married Couples Can Help Each Other In Taxing Times

When both husband and wife have separate incomes, it is often necessary to figure their tax returns separately and jointly, and then choose the method which enables them to pay the least tax.

A husband and wife filing separate returns must each claim the same type of deductions, despite the fact that this limitation may require one partner to pay more taxes than the other. Therefore, it would be better for both to choose the type of deduction which results in the least taxes for each.

In most instances, and especially when the combined earnings are in higher income brackets, couples will find they owe less Federal taxes by filing jointly. Separate Return Sometimes Best

There are, however, some instances when filing separate returns will bring tax benefits. Take, for example, a couple who sells jointly-owned stock at a loss of $4,000, and the wife has income of her own which would permit her to file a separate tax return. If they file a joint return, they would be allowed to deduct a capital loss of only $1,000. However, if they file separate returns, each can deduct a capital loss of $1,000 and therefore reduce both separate tax payments. And the tax law permits them to carry over the remaining $2,000 of this loss on the stock sale to their next year's tax returns.

Medical Benefits Possible

Another tax savings which can result from a couple filing separate returns involves the medical expenses common to even the healthiest of families. Before claiming such expenses, each taxpayer is required to exclude 1% of his adjusted gross income for drug and medicine costs and 3% of his adjusted gross income for medical expenses. If either the husband or wife has the majority of such expenses, it could reduce their overall tax payments to file separate returns.

An example will illustrate. The husband's income is $5,000, and the wife's income is $3,000. If they file a joint return on their total income of $8,000, they could not count the first $320 (1% for drugs and 3% for medical expenses of $8,000) as a deduction for medical expenses.

However, if they file separately, the husband must exclude $200 (4% of $5,000) and the wife must exclude $120 (4% of $3,000). If the husband's drugs and doctor bills amount to $300, he could claim a medical deduction of $100 by filing a separate return, since his exclusions amounted to $200.

Should they file a joint return, they could not deduct anything because the medical expenses of $300 would be less than the $320 in exclusions which joint filing would require.

Choose Best Method

The above examples do not mean to imply that couples who have separate incomes are usually better off filing separate returns. They are merely cases where filing separately was advantageous. To repeat, it is advisable to figure your taxes utilizing both methods, and then choose the one which requires the least amount of taxes.

Deductions For Relatives

Most couples know they have a $600 exemption for each of their children they are supporting, but we frequently find husbands and wives providing more than half of the support for mothers, fathers and other relatives, and not claiming these relatives as dependents.

In fact, it is not always necessary to provide more than half of the support for a relative to claim him as a dependent (which would give you another $600 exemption). As long as you and one other person each provide more than 10% and no one else contributes more than 40% of the dependent's support, those who contribute as a group can agree to let any one of their members claim the dependent on his tax return. However, the others must furnish you with a Multiple Support Agreement (IRS Form 2120) showing they did not claim the individual as their dependent.

"Nonworking" Wife Important
If you are a housewife with no regular salary, you are what tax authorities call a "nonworking wife". Even though you are not regularly receiving a salary or other income, there are several ways you can help the family make tax savings.

The fact is that most wives are very much involved with some 90 per cent of the deductible items on Federal tax returns — items such as medical, dental and drug expenses, installment payments, and many other daily living expenses which, when properly reported, can cut your taxes. Therefore, serving as the family's bookkeeper and record collector can be a most valuable role which can return real benefits come taxpaying time.

Receipts And Records Necessary

Cancelled checks, paid receipts, your husband's paycheck stubs, and installment payment books are all acceptable proof of legitimate deductions for items such as doctor and dentist bills, medicines, local tax payments, and other expenses.

Local Taxes Deductible

State income, real estate, and personal property taxes are all fully deductible. Within the Federal Income Tax Instruction Booklet which is mailed to every taxpayer, the government has included state sales tax tables to determine your state sales tax deduction. If you bought a car in 1969 and paid sales tax on it, you should add this tax to the amount shown for your deduction on the government table. Sales taxes for gasoline are also deductible.

Here's a note of caution, however, on deductions for local taxes. The 1964 tax code revisions abolished deductions for the taxes on cigarettes, tobacco and alcoholic beverages, and you can no longer take deductions for taxes on vehicle licenses and driver's licenses.

Moving Is Deductible

If your family moved to a new job location during 1969 and you moved at least 20 miles from the former job and are employed (not necessarily with the same employer) for 39 out of the 52 weeks, you can deduct moving expenses for transportation of both your family and household goods, and for meals and lodging while en route.

Charity Work Can Pay
One frequently overlooked deduction many housewives can provide for the family tax return is expenses incurred while assisting in charitable causes. If you do volunteer work for your church, school, or Scout troop, for instance, you can deduct your transportation expenses (5¢ a mile, if you use your car), and your away-from-home payments for meals and lodging. Also deductible are the cost and upkeep of Red Cross, Girl Scouts, and similar uniforms which you use for your charitable work.

The tax law allows you to deduct up to 30 per cent of your taxable income for the contributions you make to churches, hospitals, state university endowment funds and certain medical organizations. The same goes for public organizations such as libraries, symphony orchestras, and other "charities" which receive most of their support from the general public or government.

The VA says veterans and dependents who did not return their income questionnaire by the January 14 deadline should do so immediately. Assistance in completing questionnaires may be obtained from the nearest VA office.

If these charitable contributions—including your out-of-pocket expenses—exceeded 30% of your taxable income, the law lets you carry the excess over as a deduction on your returns for the next four years, or until the excess is used up, whichever is earlier.

ated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., March 19, 1970—Detroit's "babies" for this model year debuted in grand style with well-equipped and accessory-loaded cars. But as a disappointing sales pattern evolved and inventories became burdensome, production adjustments became necessary much earlier than has been the case in previous years. The car industry, being highly sensitive to sales rates and keenly aware of the disadvantages of overstocking dealers when the cost of carrying inventories is high, began remedial action as early as last November.

Facing Reality
Revisions of sales estimates and projections led to the adoption of cutbacks amounting to some 10%-12% in output plans for the year as a whole. However, even with these production adjustments, by January 31 inventory holdings were at a record high for that time of year—enough autos to cover about 75 selling days. January and February, by a large, were dismal months for sales. Nevertheless, toward the end of January and continuing through February, moves to regulate inventories produced a somewhat better balance between output and sales. Thus, the situation, while still tenuous, gradually became less vulnerable than it had been earlier in the model year.

Question Marks

Inventory figures are now running at approximately 60 selling days, and sales have started to perk up slightly, aided by dealer contests. In this stormy year, however, car dealers have two giant dark clouds looming before them: (1) The introduction of the sub-compacts; and (2) a potential strike by the auto workers, with a costly settlement probable. As to the subs, the fact that they offer cheaper transportation (per pound) makes for greater appeal for auto purchasers in a year of tight money and spiraling costs on all sides. It should be remembered, though, that the subs are a less lucrative product.

Labor Demands

The labor problems coming in September will cause much concern during the interim. Early signs are that the union's primary aims are more than substantial. For example, the UAW wants an "unlimited" cost-of-living allowance to replace the present maximum of 8¢ per hour each year; a minimum pension of $500 a month after 30 years; and year-end bonuses, vacation bonuses, and a company-sponsored stock option plan.

There is a proposal for an "inverse seniority" system. This would permit companies to lay off (with just compensation) high-seniority workers during lean times, and reserve the jobs for those more recently employed. These demands represent only a fraction of what the union will call for when negotiations begin.

The Fight For Sales

To combat the buying hesitancy of the cost-conscious consumer, the car market is focusing at present on the lower price factor, via dealer incentive programs and removal of certain luxury equipment. With production figures down, the advent of the mini-priced sub-compacts may be a blessing for the car manufacturers. It is hoped that the emergence of these small autos may bolster overall production totals, especially if they can help reduce the encroachment of foreign cars and thus prevent even more drastic output curtailment and layoffs in the U. S. auto industry. While the issue is still in doubt, it will be very important to watch the spring automobile market. Should sales take an upturn, the economy could be given a much-needed assist and tide the industry over the pre-strike spring and summer period.

TB Association Changes Name

At a special meeting of the Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association last Wednesday, the members voted to change the name of the association from Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association, Inc., to the Frederick County Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, reported Dr. John D. White, President of the agency.

The change becomes effective immediately and was made to reflect the current program emphasis on the national, state and local levels, said Dr. White.

mortality rates of tuberculosis have slowly declined over the years the number of cases of emphysema is increasing more rapidly than any other known disease. In some areas of the United States emphysema cases have increased as much as 500% since 1965, it was stated.

Modern drugs effectively control the spread of tuberculosis once the disease is recognized but the problem in eradicating TB today is in educating the public to the importance of an annual physical examination, including a chest X-ray, if these unknown cases are to be detected in the early stages of the disease.

Dr. White continued by saying that little is known about emphysema which is the most serious lung crippler. As of now there is no cure for this disorder, however, it is hoped, with the research now in progress, that methods of cure and prevention will be found within the next few years.

Frank T. Jones, Executive Director of the Maryland Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, and William A. Parker, Representative Director to the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory tory Disease Association, attended the meeting.

Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Recently I had the privilege of listening to four of the most courageous Americans I have ever encountered. The Armed Forces Committee, of which I am a member, received stirring testimony from four wives of U. S. servicemen now held captive by the North Vietnamese who have traveled around the world in a valiant attempt to determine the fate of their husbands.

These brave ladies appeared before the Committee and produced, one by one, a detailed and fascinating account of their ultimately frustrating ordeal. In the beginning, there was hope in their hearts that their quest might succeed. They told, for instance, of their audience with the Pope in which he expressed sympathy for their cause and offered encouragement.

Although each of the four women recounted a different segment of the journey, I found it interesting that all of them mentioned that they were most warmly welcomed in India. They all spoke in glowing terms of their meeting with Indira Gandhi and of her promise to assist them in obtaining some word about their husbands. They also spoke of the very sympathetic treatment they received from Laotian Government officials in Vientiane.

Despite these kind expressions of sympathy and encouragement, and despite their steadfast dedication to their cause, the brave efforts of the four ladies were thwarted in attempts to deal with officials in Moscow and at the North Vietnamese Embassy in Laos. As you may have read, they were not even permitted to leave the airport in Moscow. Although American officials at the United States Embassy rushed to their assistance, they were still not granted permission to meet with high Soviet officials. In Laos, representatives of the North Vietnamese government rudely refused to cooperate with the women in any way and, as the ladies pointed out, actually made a point of being as discourteous as possible.

ted by her husband because he is a pilot in our armed forces.

All four of the women reported that they have received similar harassment over the telephone and that they have been going thru an extremely difficult time. As you can imagine, their situation works a particular hardship on their children, some of whom have never seen their fathers.

In spite of all this, it was heartening to hear the four ladies speak gratefully of the cooperation that they have been receiving from the United States Government. And it was equally gratifying to know that they are teaching their children that their fathers are absent because they have been trying to preserve freedom throughout the world. These wives are proud of their husbands, and we should be proud of them. As courageous and articulate advocates of our way of life, they have set personal examples which are unsurpassed by any in American tradition.

Blue Cross 65 Deadline Nears

Maryland Blue Cross and Blue Shield today reminded Marylanders that the open enrollment period for the special Blue Cross and Blue Shield 65 Program will end on March 31.

The enrollment period applies only to those senior citizens who are not now members of either Blue Cross or Blue Shield. Current members will automatically be converted from their present coverage to the special program when they reach age 65.

The 65 program combines with Medicare to provide broad hospital and medical care protection at a low cost. Medicare covers most hospital expenses and 80 per cent of medical expenses for eligible persons 65 years of age and older. Blue Cross and Blue Shield 65 helps pay most of the deductible and co-insurance features built into the Federal program.

Anyone eligible for Medicare over age 65 and not yet enrolled in Medicare are urged to check with their local Social Security district office about Federal coverage.

Computer Will Help Meet Challenges of Tomorrow

Editor's Note: This is the last of a three-part series on computers. It suggests some of the ways computers serve us today and may affect our future lives.

Within a half century, experts predict that the U. S. population of 200 million will double, necessitating the monthly construction of a city the size of Tulsa.

But population explosion is only one problem facing Americans in the second half of the twentieth century.

Consider the following:

- Each American disposes of five pounds of refuse daily, and by the year 2000 this output will double.
- In Los Angeles alone, motor vehicles daily exhaust 12,000 tons of waste into the air.
- In six years, nearly 35 percent more automobiles will be crowding our highways.

Science and Computers

What can be done? Scientists are increasingly using one of today's most powerful tools — the computer — to help find answers.

For example, a computer in Hartford, Conn., generates street-level pollution readings for 5,600 locations throughout the state. After analyzing pollution and identifying its sources, researchers are testing different methods of improving air quality—all within the confines of the computer.

A plan to load refuse on specially equipped incinerator ships used for burning and dumping trash far off-shore is also being studied with the help of computers.

Oceanographers hope to determine the effect of incinerated waste on seafood, the time it takes for waste to become harmless, and the best areas for refuse disposal.

Making Life Easier

Computers are serving us in hundreds of ways that make life simpler even as the world grows more complex. Computers are helping traffic-harassed motorists in San Jose, Calif., New York City and Austin and Wichita Falls, Tex., by regulating traffic lights.

A prototype computer-assisted technique regulating vehicles entering Houston's Gulf Freeway proved so successful that the system was extended to all of that city's freeways.

Many airlines around the world are using computers for virtually instantaneous passenger reservations and flight information, enabling agents to book travelers several months in advance.

In seconds, some of these same computers can also arrange hotel accommodations, air taxi services, car rentals, tours and special services.

And financial experts forecast that we are becoming a "cashless society." Computer handling of credit accounts has already enabled cardholders to replace bulky billfolds with "electronic money."

Tomorrow's Computer

Americans in the future will be as familiar with the computer as they are with telephones and television today.

Home terminals may well:

- Help students with their homework;
- Enable the family doctor to bring the knowledge of the medical centers to his patient's bedside;
- Make available a wide selection of literature and news from an "electronic library."

Today's speculation about the future applications of the computer can well become tomorrow's realities.

"Not one of them will come about, however, if we attribute to the technological wonders of the world—the computers and other marvelous machines of our time—more abilities, more potential, than they really have," said Thomas J. Watson, Jr., chairman of the board of International Business Machines Corporation, in a speech at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. Watson said, "Any machine is just an instrument, however sophisticated."

Emphasizing the vast capacities of the human mind, Mr. Watson said, "We need to remind ourselves that there really is no comparison between a normal mind and the most fantastic computer ever imagined."

Eastern Air Lines' computer-based system can store reservations for more than one million passengers at a time. Ten regional reservations centers are linked by telephone lines to three IBM computers at this Eastern data processing center in Miami.

CARD OF THANKS

The generosity and kindness of our friends have been overwhelming. I would like to take this space to thank publicly the Knights of Columbus, the Ladies of Brute, The American Legion, the Auxiliary of the VFW, the Victor Cullen School and all of its employees, especially Mr. Leonard Gmeiner. Thanks to the priests at St. Joseph's, especially Father King, to Saint Joseph's High School, Mother Seton School, Saint Joseph's Provincial House, the men who drove the ambulance, the blood donors and all the kind friends and neighbors who have shown concern for the welfare of the Warthen family. This could only happen in Emmitsburg!

on Motter Avenue.

"In 1949 this land was purchased for $38,692. In 1954 the building was completed at a cost of $544,174. In 1959, several classrooms, and a large gymnasium were added at a cost of $247,164. As it stands today, with a capacity of 600 students, it represents a total cost of $830,030, and is so designed to enable expansion to twice its present capacity, without disturbing the playground area.

"If the School Board had any inclination of economy, why haven't they used these plans and architectural blueprints for other parts of the County, instead of the palatial extravaganzas that are getting our taxpayers deeper and deeper in debt.

"Although we recently published the School Board's projection for 1970 showing a surplus of 1,649 pupil seats in both Elementary and High Schools, we recognize the need for further preparedness. But, we demand a better administrative school system, one that recognizes not only the needs, but also the economy, usefulness, and the sensible use of our tax dollars."

Rocky Ridge Fire Termed Arson

A house fire Monday night near Rocky Ridge has been termed arson by state fire officials who have arrested a 15-year-old boy in connection with the one-alarm blaze and two barn fires last summer.

The Rocky Ridge youth was charged with juvenile delinquency Tuesday morning after an investigation of an 8 p.m. house fire near Rocky Ridge by Maryland State Fire Marshal Top E. Barnes and Tpr. Joseph Kuhn. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

According to police reports, a gasoline fire was started in the rear of Guy C. Angell's residence on Myers Road near Route 77 about 8 p.m. Apparently gasoline from a can was poured on the back porch and ignited.

The flames travelled underneath the rear door and into the kitchen where a curtain was ignited. Firemen from the Rocky Ridge Vol. Fire Co. extinguished the fire with a minimum of damage to the house.

Police said evidence obtained at the scene led to the subsequent arrest of the juvenile.

Completes Helicopter Course

Capt. Weldon B. Shank, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon B. Shank, R2, Fairfield, completed a 16-week helicopter pilot course at the Army Primary Helicopter School, Ft. Wurts, Tex., recently.

During the course, he was trained to fly Army helicopters and learned to use them in tactical maneuvers.

He will next undergo advanced flight training at the Army Aviation School, Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Tydings Fights

For Ft. Holibard

Senator Joseph D. Tydings, (D-Md.) has attacked the Defense Department's plan to close Fort Holibard and charged that the Pentagon withheld facts about its intentions concerning the Maryland military installation.

In a letter to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, the Maryland Senator said he saw no reason why the Army Intelligence School at Fort Holibard had to be transferred to Fort Huachuca, Arizona. "With other major Army bases such as Fort Meade and Aberdeen only a few miles way," he wrote, "even the closing of Fort Holibard does not seem to justify moving the 157 civilians and 2,472 military personnel all the way across the country."

Tydings said the recent announcement of plans to close Ft. Holibard "came as a shock" to him and contradicted what he was told on a visit to Holibard in January.

"On my visit to Fort Holibard on January 12th," he said, "no mention was made of any contemplated reduction in operations there but rather hopes were expressed that facilities at the Fort could be expanded and their use increased."

Noting that the Pentagon was fully aware of his visit, Tydings added: "To have your announcement of March 6 totally contradict all that I was told in January appears to be at best a case of incredible ignorance and at the worst, conscious deception."

He asked for a full report on the Pentagon's reason for closing Holibard and moving it to Arizona instead of to Aberdeen or Meade.

G. Washington Bet Here

One or more of the tracks operating this week may name one of their overnight events in his honor, but George Washington deserves more. The man who led this country in its war for independence and became its first President would probably prefer to be remembered by a sport in which he participated fully than for the numerous places where he slept or for his ax wielding prowess as a child.

According to his diaries General Washington was a frequent visitor to race tracks in Maryland and Virginia. He owned Thoroughbreds, he bet on them and he duly made note of his wagers in his diaries. One entry would indicate that he was better at poker than at picking winners; detailing expenses of a trip to the Maryland Jockey Club races at Annapolis General Washington noted: "... cash bet on races, one pound six shillings; and from all this was deducted 13 pounds won at cards." It is also recorded that he officiated at some meetings and on one occasion he matched his favorite horse, Magnolia, against an unnamed roan colt owned by Thomas Jefferson, then minister to France.

While few biographers mention Washington the horseman, George Sheldon, a New York philanthropist who commissioned Herbert Hazeltine to do the statue of Geo. Washington at the Washington Cathedral, specified that Hazeltine use Man o' War as a model for the mount because "the greatest American should be mounted on the greatest American horse."

CYO Entertains Senior Citizens

The Emmitsburg Senior Citizens were again entertained by the CYO youth group on Friday evening at the Center. About 20 Senior Citizens were in attendance and thoroughly enjoyed the Irish-flavored program in celebration of St. Patrick's Day with singing and playing of songs such as "The Wearing of the Green," and "Galway Bay." Refreshments were served by the CYO and the Senior Citizens contributed punch and coffee. It was another example of what youth and Senior Citizens can do to close the "generation gap." Each Senior Citizen was given a token of the evening of a green wrapped package of mixed candies. Thomas Eckenrode acted as M.C. as though "to the manner born." It was a most delightful evening and many thanks to the CYO.

Monday morning, March 16, 1970 at ten o'clock, the regular official board meeting of the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club was held at the Center. Those present were: Louis Stoner, treasurer; Mrs. Helen McNair, Coordinator; Sister Juliana, Advisor; Rev. Ronald Fearer, Rev. John Chatlos, Mrs. La Rue Harmon, and Hazel Caldwell, publicity. Mr. Stoner reported the finances of the organization in good shape due to assistance received from the various community organizations.

The date of May 2, 1970, was set for the annual Spring Festival, with Mrs. Harmon chosen as over-all chairman. Mrs. McNair announced that a group of Senior Citizens expected to supply food for the sale at Zora on March 28, 1970. Motion to adjourn was unanimous at 12 noon. Tuesday evening, March 17, 1970, thirty-five of the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club met at the Center for the regular monthly meeting. Sister Esther from St. Joseph College, opened the meeting with St. Patrick's blessing. A short business meeting followed. Mrs. McNair announced that on April 9, at 2 p.m., the Club would all make a tour of the Day Care School and of the Provincial House. On April 21, the regular monthly meeting night, Father Shaum will bring the Glee Club from the Mount to entertain the Senior Citizens Club. Three new committees were appointed: Travel, Mrs. Elmer Fuss and Mrs. Keilholtz; Visiting, Mrs. Virginia Ogle, Mr. and Mrs. John Fuss and Sister Juliana; Publicity, Mrs. Elizabeth Nester and Mrs. Hazel Caldwell. Permission was granted by the Club members to allow a teenage group, and sponsors, to use the Club rooms for an organizational meeting and perhaps later meetings until fully established. A film on the Near East, particularly Israel, was shown, after which the club enjoyed singing Irish songs, accompanied by Sister Esther. Mrs. Frances Stinson and Mrs. Elmer Fuss were in charge of refreshments, which delightfully carried out the St. Patrick's Day theme in decorations and food.

VFW Auxiliary Meeting Held

The regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Emmitsburg Veterans Memorial Post 6658, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held at the Post Home March 5 with President Gloria Martin presiding. A covered dish social preceded the meeting. Thirty-eight members were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Thank-you notes and other correspondence were read, and the bills were presented. Grace Vaughn's name was presented for membership and was voted into the organization. Evelyn Ott reported on the returns for the 50-50 raffle and the president thanked her for her work in this project. The following were selected for the nominating committee for the elections to be held at the next meeting: Dolores Henke, Dixie Vivaldi, Lois Hartdagen, and Mary Topper. The Auxiliary was asked to cater a dinner in June but due to the fact that it would be held on a week-day, the members felt it would be impossible to get sufficient help, and decided they would be unable to handle this affair. It was voted on by the members to send a letter to a local family. The treasurer's report followed. Catherine Hodge will serve refreshments at the next meeting.

Following the meeting, the name was drawn for the 50-50 raffle and the winner was Miss Regina Ott.

Hospital Report

Admitted Charles Baker, Jr., Emmitsburg, Md. Mrs. Louise Gillelan, Emmitsburg. Leo Topper, Sr., Emmitsburg. Discharged Charles Paul Humerick, Emmitsburg. Charles Brauer, Rocky Ridge. Mrs. Sterling Burrier, Rocky Ridge. Miss Elizabeth Myers, Emmitsburg. Miss Deborah Wetzel, Rocky Ridge. Thomas Eyler, Emmitsburg. Births Mr. and Mrs. Carson Kelly, R2, Taneytown, son, March 12.

Lutheran Women Hold Meeting

The Lutheran Church Women of Elias Church held their March meeting recently in the church with a Lenten Chancel drama being presented. "Love is Stronger Than Walls," was used to dramatize the Easter story which illustrated the struggle for light to overcome darkness. Participants in the drama were Miss Patricia Eyler, Mrs. James Small, Mrs. Elizabeth McCleaf, Mrs. W. Ronald Fearer and Mrs. Hazel Caldwell. Mrs. Donald Eyler, organist, provided Lenten and Easter music as well as portrayed the "unseen figure" who revealed the true meaning of the play. Plans were announced for the Good Friday Prayer Vigil to be held at the Presbyterian Church from 9 until 3. A social hour was hosted by Mrs. Esta Miller and Mrs. Harry McNair at the conclusion of the evening.

Scouts Place In First Aid Trial

The Buffalo patrol first aid team of Troop 284, Boy Scouts of America, took second place in the annual Francis Scott Key District first aid trial held at West Frederick Junior High School Saturday night. Buffalo Patrol, made up of Paul Antolin, patrol leader, Jim Gellwicks, assistant patrol leader, Perry Joy, Paul Carter, Jr. and Donnie Higgins, was one of 42 patrol teams who participated in the meet. All boys were confronted with ten hard first aid problems and were required by the judges to have all necessary equipment on hand, to render the proper first aid and particularly to know why they applied each technique and under what circumstances the victim should be moved. Recognition of symptoms telegraphing serious bone injury or internal injuries was stressed. In one problem, the ingenuity of the groups was challenged by making the patrol leader the victim and forbidding him to communicate with his team. Troop 284, under the direction of Robert Rosensteel, scoutmaster, has been operational only one year. The showing of the scouts from Emmitsburg is remarkable. Troop 284 entered four teams, Eagle taking 10th place, Flaming Arrow 14, and Panther 15th, out of a field of 42 competing teams. Scoutmaster Rosensteel has stated that there are still a few places open in Troop 284 for hard working boys.

CYO Movie

The CYO will present a movie entitled "The Great Imposter," on Friday, March 20. The movie will begin at 8:00 p.m. Admission is 50c for CYO members, and 60c for guests. Everyone is welcome.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Club Meets

A flower meeting for members of the Rocky Ridge 4-H Club carrying flower projects, was held March 15 at 1:30 with all members present. The meeting began with a demonstration by Angela Wivell on "Constructing a Flower Arrangement." Angela showed the girls various materials needed and outlined points to remember while making a flower arrangement. Record forms for the coming year were then given to each girl by their junior leader, Phyllis Wivell. The guest for the afternoon was Miss Sue Fox, a 4-H president from Cecil County. Sue gave a very interesting and informative demonstration on how to make corsages, which flowers are most suitable for corsages, and ideas for novelty corsages. At the close of the meeting, a corsage, made by Sue, was presented to the mothers of Cathy Wivell, Chris Skybyk, Cindy and Vicki Long, and Viki, Angela and Cecilia Wivell.

Grass Fire Burns 15 Acres

Approximately 20 firemen of the Vigilant Hose Co. spent an hour battling a field fire that burned off 15 acres on the farm property of Mrs. John Long, tenanted by Maryland State Police Trooper Walter D. Drumm, on the Motter's Station Rd., two miles south of here at 1:15 o'clock, on Wednesday afternoon, March 11.

World Book Lore

NOTHING ELSE TO DO! Bobby Jones was the only golfer to win the United States Open, the British Open, the United States Amateur, and the British Amateur tournaments in one year. He won all four in 1930, and then retired from tournament play.

SOURCE: WORLD BOOK ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Fire Chief Guy R. McLaughlin said the fire originated from an incinerator fire at Drumm's home. Guests of wind hampered firemen's efforts to check the blaze. The fire was brought under control when it reached the Old Frederick Road, where a pumper truck put out the blaze.

APPRECIATES PRAYERS AND KINDNESSES

CAPITAL REPORT:

Skyrocketing Medicare Costs Can Be Cut

Washington - (HK) - Many aged citizens are being denied the benefits of nursing home care through unsound and arbitrary interpretation of regulations by Medicare authorities. The same actions are costing taxpayers and the Medicare fund unnecessary millions of dollars.

In an effort to correct these and other inequities and to provide throughout the country a professionally and financially sound health care program, a "new breed" of nursing home and extended care facilities has organized the National Council of Health Care Services.

In thousands of cases, says the Council, Medicare patients who no longer require the kind of care given in extremely high-priced acute hospitals—but still need a high level of care—are transferred to nursing homes only to be told by a "utilization review committee" that they are not eligible for extended care benefits. This despite the fact that the nursing home care would cost on the average from one-third to one-fourth of the cost in an acute hospital. Such rulings are made under Title 19 of the Medicare act.

Nationwide Support For Change

One estimate is that shaving just one hospital day from Medicare's national average would save $400 million.

A large part of the skyrocketing costs of Medicare are caused by such improper utilization, says the Council, which is seeking nationwide support for a clear cut change in the regulations.

Must Meet

High Standards

The National Council of Health Care Services was formed by multi-facility and publicly owned nursing homes—all of which must meet the highest standards in modern construction equipment, personnel and services. It is headquartered at 1625 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20006, with Berkeley V. Bennett as Executive Vice President.

How to tell a boy stereo from a girl stereo

Boy or Girl, Model 329 $64.95

V-M thinks there's more to enjoying good music than meets the ear. That's why we made a portable stereo with a boy-look and a girl-look. We call them the GT 329 Power Pack Portable (Boy), and the 329 Stereo Bug (Girl). On the Boy, bold red racing stripes accentuate the streamlined high-impact polystyrene case. While the Girl is finished in a soft, dreamy yellow and decorated with a flower-power daisy and a cute little orange "Stereo Bug." And they both boast the same quality performance: Dependable all Solid-State amplifier; 4-speed fully automatic drop-down changer with dynamically balanced tone arm; two, high-compliance stereo speaker systems that detach for true stereo realism. Boy or Girl, the choice is yours. They're both an ideal way to attain true stereo listening pleasure.

For those who would like a little more than a portable, V-M has a complete line of portable Stereo Compacts. And they all provide performance and beauty at a price you can afford.
