Work on the local Scout house is continuing and when it is completed the Scouts will have a permanent home, one of which they can be proud of. The work is being done by volunteers of the Scout Committee and the Scouts are policing up the premises, grubbing out weeds and bad trees and replanting new ones. The area is fast developing into an asset to the Town and those responsible deserve a world of credit. It is hoped to have Town workmen install fireplace grills in the near future and this summer should see quite a number of persons using the picnic facilities there.

Don't forget to set that clock up an hour Saturday night folks. That's when Daylight Saving Time returns to the area and unless you do set the clock ahead you could be mighty embarrassed Sunday morning when you go to church, or anywhere for that matter. Yes, you will lose an hour's sleep, but then come again in late October, you will be given that precious hour back once again.

At long last, it has stopped raining and it appears that spring is here to stay (we hope). Temperatures are stealing into the 70-degree mark and there are many signs that perhaps that long hard winter has become a matter of history. Many gardens may be lost this year because of the lateness in getting started and farmers are already a month late in their work and their crops could run into serious trouble late this summer when it is hot and dry. Water still stands in many of the fields and it is impossible to get machinery in to begin plowing or planting operations. However, things are beginning to look up and it is expected that work will begin with full steam ahead.

Tuesday is Election Day folks and it is your moral obligation to go to the polls and vote for those you want to represent you. At the present time we need a cooperative Town Council, men that will work together for a common cause, because there's much work to be done and it can only get done by a solidified Council! There are a number of good men running for Town Office this year and who merit your support. So then, let's get out there on Tuesday and elect a slate of officers that will get the ball rolling in the right direction. Remember this: If you don't vote you don't have the right to criticize!

Local Laundry-Mat Changes Hands

An Emmitsburg business place changed hands this week when it was announced that the Laundry-Mat had been purchased by Colonial Launderette Inc. The transaction was effective April 15, it was learned. The local Laundry-Mat was opened approximately eight years ago by Samuel C. Hays, in the old Frizzell Warehouse on West Main St. Other comparatively recent owners of the building were Troxell Brothers and the Fiber Glass Awning Co. Mr. Hays completely remodeled the old building and emerged with a new and modern building equipped with the latest laundry coin-operated equipment. Under Mr. Hays' management the business flourished and prospered and became an important asset to the town. The new owners, Colonial Launderette Inc., will be managed by the Stover Brothers, with Joseph Stover assuming direct management. The new management promises to furnish efficient and modern service to its patrons.

Town Election Tuesday; Five In Running

Predictions are that voting will be moderate when the Town Election gets under way on Tuesday, April 28. Over 600 voters are registered and qualified to participate in the Election which will select a new Mayor and one Commissioner. The Mayor serves a two-year term while that of Commissioner is three years. For a while it looked as though there would be only one candidate for Mayor when J. Ralph McDonnell filed two weeks ago. However, Friday afternoon Samuel C. Hays announced his candidacy and near the eight o'clock deadline Friday night, Paul E. Humerick placed his name on the ballot, thereby making a three-way race for the top position of Mayor. McDonnell is currently completing his term of office as Town Commissioner and Chairman of the Board. Samuel C. Hays, no newcomer to local politics, has served part of an unexpired term as Commissioner, by virtue of an appointment several years ago when one of the Commissioners resigned. Paul Humerick, a newcomer to local politics, will be making his first bid for public office. In the contest for Town Commissioner, there are two candidates battling for the three-year term. They are Joseph E. Stover, Laundry-Mat operator, and E. Eugene Myers, local television and radio store operator. Both are newcomers to local politics. Voting will take place in the Town Office and the polls will open at 12 noon and continue open until 7 o'clock that evening. Judges of election are Josephine Steinberger, chief judge, Mrs. Sterling Goulden and Mrs. John S. Hollinger. Incumbent Mayor Robert A. Seidel declined to run again for office after serving for the past two years. Ralph McDonnell is vacating his office as Commissioner to run for the top slot of Mayor. Hold-over Commissioners are J. Norman Flax, Thomas W. Bollinger and Ernest Rosensteel.

Knights of Columbus Hold Meeting

The annual Communion Breakfast and Mass will be held Sunday, April 26 it was announced at the regular meeting to Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, held in the Council Home with Grand Knight Eugene R. Rosensteel presiding. The chairman of the breakfast, Stanley McIntire, gave a final report on the coming event. Donations were authorized as follows: Emmitsburg Little League, $100; St. Cyprian's Church, S. C., $10, and the Cancer Drive, $10. Deputy Grand Knight George L. Danner reported Carmel Kelly, Allen Kreitz and John Warthen as being hospitalized. Carl A. Wetzel, activities chairman, reported on the Awards Night held last Saturday and said it was a social success. Significantly honored at the affair were Clyde J. Eyer, Raymond L. Lauer, and a pin and certificate were presented to Jacob E. Baker for 51 years of continuous membership. Six-Point Committee Chairman Ray Lauer called upon the various committees for their reports. Paul A. Keepers, insurance and admissions chairman, reported on the John H. Griffin Award which gained 19 new members last year. New members voted into the organization were Joseph E. Fitzgerald and Phillip D. Topper. Clyde Eyer and George Danner were named as a committee to arrange a trip to Baltimore to witness a baseball game sometime this summer. A letter from Leonard Gmeiner, social action committee chairman, was read citing the activities of his committee during the past year. Another visit to Victor Cullen School is scheduled for May 16. Father John King, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, reported on the Summer Youth program planned by his parish and asked the assistance of the group in assisting the program. People are honest when trust is placed in them by someone they admire. Self-control is a virtue that individuals recommend to their friends.

Frederick County Backgrounds

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Further Genealogical Studies

In any study, historical and genealogical, of the "United Churches," that is to say the Tom's Creek and Piney Creek Presbyterian congregations, it might be well to investigate the reasons that lead to their founding.

With the tide of immigration which flowed into the American colonies during the first half of the 18th century, came the settlers by whom these churches were organized. These people were of the same class and background as those who took possession of the Cumberland Valley, in the Province of Pennsylvania, and who planted, with the utmost piety, the Presbyterian church in that region. Many of the "meeting houses" remain to this day, surrounded by their ancient burial grounds, silent witnesses to a day that is long past and a way of life that was simple, yet adequate.

The people, in the main, who laid the "sure foundations" of the Presbyterian Church, came either from Scotland or the North of Ireland, and are frequently designated as "Scotch-Irish," but this term is as erroneous as that used to describe the Pennsylvania German — namely "Pennsylvania Dutch." A well known historian spent several years in Scotland and the North of Ireland and in all of his researches he could find no factual basis for the term "Scotch-Irish." There was, and is no record of a single intermarriage between one of Scotch blood with the Irish. The Scots were clannish and "lived to themselves alone." Their marriages took place within their own race — they lived in the North of Ireland because of religious and other persecutions in Scotland — but in a very real sense, they were never a part of Ireland. We beside the young man or woman who "strayed from the fold."

The Scot who had a neighbor within three miles felt crowded, so in the very beginning they sought the frontier — here there was plenty of room and man was free, not only to practice his religious beliefs in the way he saw fit, but to take part in politics well. They "planted" themselves in the "red lands" in the southeastern part of Pennsylvania, west of the Susquehanna River, then York County, now Adams, and their settlements, in time, began to expand and take in more territory.

Within a comparatively short time the Scotch had crossed the border between Pennsylvania and Maryland and settled in Frederick County. They were a moral, frugal, industrious people and they, so to speak, brought the church and school with them. In their own particular way they brought progress, but as other settlements, through the time, crept nearer and nearer, the Scot moved on — following the frontier. He left behind, as tangible reminders of his one-time home, his churches and burial grounds — any many of them remain on the old sites to this very day. Among these can be numbered Piney Creek Church and burial ground.

The historical and genealogical study of the McKaleb-Longwell family is continued at this time. Buried beside her brother Joseph, is a daughter of Major John and Mary All (Clingan) McKaleb, whose short life terminated in her 21st year. The inscription follows:

36. In memory of Mary Jane Annan, wife of Dr. Samuel Annan, and daughter of John McKaleb. Died July 23, 1825, aged 21 years and 11 months. Note: To present a clear picture of Mary Jane (McKaleb) Annan, it is necessary to go into the Annan family genealogy, which was given in some detail in this series in the articles on Tom's Creek Presbyterian Church and burial yard.

The Rev. Robert (1) Annan, the pioneer ancestor of the family in America, was twice married — first to Margaret Cochran and secondly to Elizabeth Hawthorne. The first child born to the second union was a son, Samuel (2) Annan (born 1797 — died 1868). Samuel (2) Annan studied medicine and in due time received his degree in M.D. His first marriage was to Mary Jane McKaleb and to this union two children were born — namely Emily (3) Annan and William Howard (3) Annan. Shortly after the birth of her second child the young wife died and was duly interred in the family plot of her father at Piney Creek.

After the death of his first wife Samuel (2) Annan became a resident of Baltimore City and after a "decent interval" he took unto himself a second wife — one Ann Buchanan, who was born in 1816 and died in 1864. Ann (Buchanan) Annan came from a fine old family and one of her ancestors was Dr. George Buchanan, one of the outstanding physicians in the early history of Baltimore County, Maryland.

Interred beside Mary Jane (McKaleb) Annan are Joseph and Mary McKaleb and two of their children. It is quite possible that Joseph McKaleb was the grandfather of Mary Jane (McKaleb) Annan and the father of Major John McKaleb. The dates as well as the place of burial present this as a strong supposition. The inscriptions follow:

37. In memory of Joseph McKaleb, died February 5, 1808, aged 75 years. Note: Probably the father of John McKaleb and one of the early settlers in that part of Frederick County, Maryland, that is now Carroll County.

38. In memory of Martha McKaleb, daughter of Joseph and Mary McKaleb, died January, 1791, aged 19 years.

Note: The inscription is self explanatory — Martha McKaleb was a daughter of Joseph and Mary McKaleb and a sister of John McKaleb.

39. In memory of Mary McKaleb, wife of Joseph McKaleb, died February 11, 1811, aged 75 years.

Note: The wife of Joseph McKaleb and the mother of John, Martha, and Jane McKaleb. Probably there were other children but if so, the names are not known at this time.

40. In memory of Jane McKaleb, the daughter of Joseph and Mary McKaleb, died June 1796, aged 33 years.

Note: Again a self-explanatory inscription — another spinster daughter of Joseph and Mary McKaleb, who died comparatively young.

It is interesting to note that Jane (Kleenhoop) Longwell, the wife and widow of Matthew Longwell, esq., merchant of Gettysburg, Pa., died at Taneytown, Md. and was interred at Piney Creek. The inscription from the marker at her grave follows:

41. Sacred to the memory of Jane Longwell, relict of Matthew Longwell. Died August 22, 1829, aged 45 years.

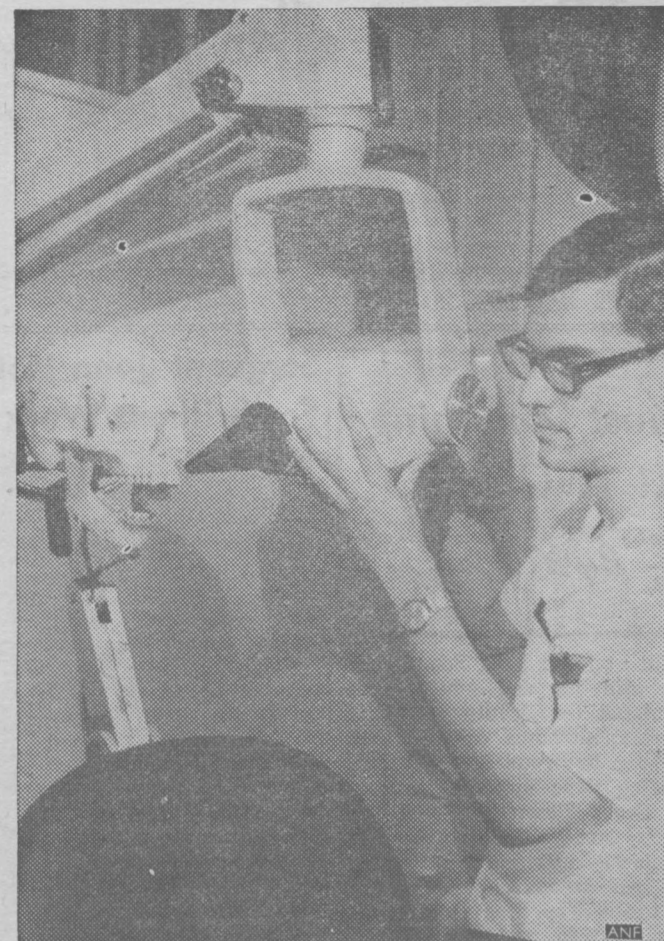

The historical and genealogical notes on Piney Creek Presbyterian Church and burial ground will be continued in this series next week.

Cancer Cures Are Increasing

We estimate there to be 629 persons in Frederick County leading normal active lives who are cured of cancer — that's what the 1970 educational and fund-raising Crusade of the American Cancer Society is all about.

Mr. Sterling L. Bollinger, chairman of the educational and fund-raising drive which began on April 5, explained, "By cured we mean they are without evidence of the disease at least five years after diagnosis and treatment."

He reported that there are 1.5 million Americans alive today who have been cured of cancer.

Pvt. Mark Graper, Los Vanos, Calif., a student in the Dental Specialist Basic Course, prepares to take X-rays of teeth in a skull model. Students learn to expose and develop radiographic film and to identify different parts of the oral region recorded on the film.

Red "United Front" Advancing "Faculty evaluation and the predisposition of the (U. S.) intelligence community to the philosophical conviction that it would be incompatible with Soviet policy to introduce strategic missiles into Cuba resulted in intelligence judgements, and evaluations which later proved to be erroneous."
—U. S. Senate Preparedness Subcommittee 1963
For nearly 30 years we have been trying to warn America that the internal danger from Communism is as great as or greater than the external danger. Because of the powerful influence of World Communism's propaganda efforts to discredit anti-Communists and their warnings, only a few in Washington and across the nation have recognized the internal danger. Most of the press has scoffed. But today millions of Americans are at last disturbed. And now much of the communications media, with subversion exploding on all sides, puts forth the fallacious idea that the revolutionary force which is daily disrupting America is a fragmented thing, not organized and therefore not a genuine threat to our survival.

"Oh, yes, we now know the bombs were made by revolutionaries trained in Cuba," the line goes, "but these are just individual saboteurs; there is no evidence of a united force at work to overthrow the U. S." If somebody were to ask the Kremlin leaders what they would wish to have Americans believe, the above line would be it. The Red bosses in Moscow and Peking can't say it with credibility; but influential Americans can. This is the same kind of aid the Communists have received from certain American sources during their incredible and frightening growth from a handful of Bolsheviks one generation ago to a mighty power dominating the world today.

Facts Challenge "Line"
Here are some facts that challenge the fallacious "line"—(and we ask anyone in America to refute what we are going to report here):

"Last July in Oakland, California, a conference was held advertised as "A Revolutionary Conference" to form "A United Front to Combat Fascism." "Fascism" was clearly identified as "the American system." "Combat" was clearly defined as "armed revolution." "United Front" was clearly defined as the mobilization of a "National Liberation Front" under central control.

At this three-day revolutionary mobilization conference were approximately 4,000 delegates, representing, the leaders said, about 300 organizations (with combined membership in the hundreds of thousands) dedicated to the overthrow of the U. S. government and its replacement with a Communist system identified as "Proletarian Internationalism."

Bolshevik Bombers
SDS Bolsheviks (advocating violent overthrow of capitalism) were delegates at Oakland. The SDS officials at Oakland pledged their tens of thousands of followers to violent overthrow of the American system as part of the Black Panthers' "National Liberation" army. This was after Bobby Seale, Black Panther national chairman, had said the "United Front" was a part of World Communism—Marxist-Leninist "Proletarian Internationalism."

Spokesmen for both Soviet and Chinese Communist officialdom were prominent in the conference leadership. Communist parties around the world sent pledges of "solidarity" and aid. It was made clear that the primary objective of all the Communist organizations around the world, including the Soviet "fatherland", is the violent overthrow of the United States.

Underground United Force
Much of the "United Front" organizational, training and logistics work went underground after the Oakland conference. We have communications and documentation which appears beyond doubt to link the Black Panthers, the SDS; the "Black Republic" forces headquartered in Detroit; and the Black Muslims who are presently establishing a "base" in the South, from which, one revolutionary Black leader has said, "with the protection of Red Chinese submarines in the Gulf of Mexico, the fighting could begin in earnest."

Did anyone see any TV network coverage of the Oakland revolutionary conference? Did you read about it anywhere? Chances are the answer is, No. Apparently not all of the security agencies of the U. S. Government, responsible for our internal security, knew it was being held. Our NEP tapes and other information secured inside the auditorium during the treasonable gathering were sought later by some of our most vital security agencies in Washington.

And now TIME magazine, prominent purveyor of the "no real danger" theory, reveals the extent of the revolutionary force behind one "fragment", the Panthers; 2,000,000 Black Panther followers are for violent overthrow (a TIME survey shows), nearly 10,000,000 believe violent overthrow "is necessary." From the Moscow, Peking and Havana citadels of world revolution, it is indicated, come money for arms and guerrilla training and guidance for a developing "National Liberation" army inside the U.S.A.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

Young fathers who feel they have lots of responsibility and little financial security for their families if they die or are disabled may have more protection than they think, according to Carroll A. Jones, social security manager in Frederick.

"Social security can help support not only the worker, but also his wife and children if he is disabled," Mr. Jones said. "And it can provide monthly checks for his family if he dies."

"Each month nearly 2 1/2 million disabled workers and their dependents and over 3 million surviving children and widowed mothers get social security checks," said Mr. Jones.

Amounts of the checks depend on the worker's average earnings under social security.

Disability benefits for a worker with a wife and one child range from $96.00 a month to a maximum of $434.40, with the average about $273.00. Most young men whose annual salaries are in the $7,500 range and above would be eligible for benefit payments close to the maximum amounts, according to Mr. Jones.

Survivors benefits for a widow with two children range from a minimum of $96.00 a month to about $434.40, with the average about $292.00.

"A worker under 24 needs only 1 1/2 years work under social security to have disability protection. Between 24 and 31, he needs to have worked only half the time between 21 and the time he is disabled to qualify for monthly checks for himself and his family," Mr. Jones noted.

"Benefits in the case of a breadwinner's death are based on even more liberal standards. A man 25 or younger needs only 1 1/2 years of work for his family to qualify for survivors benefits."

Mr. Jones suggested that young people interested in learning more about their social security protection should request the booklet, Social Security for Young Families, from any social security office.

Mathias' Bill Would Pay Civil War Debt

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., has introduced legislation which would direct the United States to repay a Civil War debt to the City of Frederick.

Under the bill, the United States Treasury would be "authorized and directed to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to the City of Frederick, Maryland, the sum of $200,000 in full satisfaction of its claim against the United States for reimbursement for the amount of money paid to Confederate forces under the command of Lieutenant General Jubal Early on July 9, 1864, to prevent the destruction by Confederate forces of the town of Frederick, Maryland and certain Union supplies stored therein."

According to City records, Mayor William G. Cole, with the help of four City banks, raised the ransom within 24 hours after General Early threatened to "burn and sack" the town, Senator Mathias said.

The Maryland Republican reported that it took 87 years for the city to repay the four banks and Frederick believes the Federal Government should repay the Western Maryland community its $200,000 plus interest.

Senator Mathias pointed out that many historians believe that General Early's 24-hour stay in Frederick while awaiting the ransom allowed General Ulysses S. Grant time to mass sufficient forces to stop a later Confederate assault on Washington by General Early's troops.

According to a VA information sheet entitled "America's Wars," 539 widows and 400 children of Civil War veterans were on VA's compensation and pension rolls as of December 31, 1969.

The Cost of War

I was glad to join with Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr., in introducing a bill which would reimburse the city of Frederick for $200,000 paid in ransom to Confederate forces during the Civil War. The threat under which the city paid this large sum of money (even larger in terms of buying power 100 years ago than it is today) was that the Confederate forces would destroy the city and very valuable supplies belonging to the Federal government which were stored there. The payment of this ransom by the city of Frederick preserved not only the individual property of the local citizens but also saved the very valuable stores of the Federal government which were there. There has been no reimbursement of the city of Frederick for this valuable service rendered to the government, and I am hopeful that it can be considered by the Congress.

But perhaps the more significant and the more important point about the ransom which is now being presented once again for payment by the mayor and aldermen of Frederick is the persistent and continuing nature of the debts that are incurred in war. And this, of course, is highly significant for us today as we are trying to end a war in Southeast Asia. As a matter of historical record, the American Revolution, which lasted from 1775 to 1784, involved some 290,000 American soldiers, 4,000 of whom died in service. But the end of the war in terms of its lasting consequences—financially and personally—extended far beyond the years 1775 to 1784. In fact, the last veteran did not die until April 5, 1869. He was Daniel F. Bakeman of Freedom, New York, who lived to the great age of 109. But even after the death of the last Revolutionary veteran, the financial cost of the Revolutionary war continued. The last widow of a Revolutionary veteran died in 1906 at the age of 92, and the last dependent child of a Revolutionary veteran died in 1911 at the age of 90. The statistics which would involve similar figures for the Mexican War, the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, the first and second World Wars, the Korean War, and intervening engagements in which we have been involved would be astronomical.

So, as we consider the enormous cost of war, I think we can well ponder the way in which future wars can be avoided. There has been a time in almost every generation in which some great object of national purpose—perhaps the security of the nation itself, the integrity of the union, freedom of individual and political independence—has seemed to be reason for which war was necessary. But it would be the greatest contribution that our generation could make to the future if we can attain objectives of this sort by political action, without warfare and without all the encumbrance and mortgage which war lays upon succeeding generations.

Maryland Will Have First Spring Turkey Season Maryland's first turkey season scheduled for May 4 through May 9, in Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties is just around the corner, Joseph H. Manning, Director of Game and Inland Fish announced this week. The Director said "The possibilities for a good season are bright and shiny but only Mother Nature has the answer. Weather is perhaps the biggest factor. Cold, rainy weather in the spring makes a male quit gobbling." "Since this is our first experience of having a spring turkey season," Manning stated, "we are leaving no area uncovered in collecting information." "We consider the season an experiment and will collect data at checking stations, make hunting pressure surveys, record gobbling counts, interview hunters in the field, make summer brood surveys and compile fall harvest statistics to determine what effect spring hunting has on the turkey population."

To give added protection to the nesting hen, shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to 10:00 a.m. and only bearded birds may be taken. Occasionally a hen will exhibit secondary sexual characteristics of the gobbler, complete with beard. In order to avoid penalizing the hunter, any turkey with a beard will be legal.

Additional hunting restrictions to further reduce accidental killing of hens include the use of shotguns only or long bows. Also forbidden are organized drives, dogs, electronic callers and permanent blinds.

"We are ready for the opener," says Director Manning. "We trust the turkey hunter will cooperate by abiding to the ethics of good sportsmanship and to respect the rights of the landowner. If this is not done, it may result in the elimination of fu-

SATIN SHEEN

Godetia or satin flower is one of the less usual annuals you might try this year.

The satin-textured petals give this pretty flower the common name of satin flower. Native to California, it grows best in cool, moist soil and a semi-shaded place.

Seeds of mixed flower colors will produce blooms of rose, carmine, pink, lavender-blue, white and many combinations of these, all lovely to look at.

Grow some of these flowers in a border but try also using them as pot plants for strategic places near your house or on your terrace.

The blooms are handsome when cut and used with others but do not last long in water. Nevertheless, their effect is so lovely that they are worth replacing in an arrangement.

While seeds may be sown outdoors after frost danger is over, scattering them where the plants are to bloom, better results come from starting seeds indoors in March or April.

Cover the seeds with sieved soil, only to a depth of one sixteenth of an inch. They will sprout in 2 weeks.

When plants are 2 inches tall transplant or thin them to 3 inches apart. Increase this to 12 inches when transplanting them to the garden. They'll flower for several months.

ture seasons." "Gobbler hunting in the spring is designed to provide additional hunting recreation of a high aesthetic quality and we do not want the privilege abused," Director Manning continued. "Additional Wildlife Officers will be assigned to the three counties including a number of Marine Police to assist hunters and to enforce the game laws," Manning concluded.

Walkersville Gets Sewer Loan

In a statement issued last week, Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-6th-Md.) announced that the Frederick County Metropolitan Commission has been awarded $506,950 by the Farmers Home Administration, a Department of Agriculture credit agency, for the construction of additional waste disposal facilities to serve Walkersville, Maryland. Of the total Federal funding, $324,150 comes in the form of a loan to be repaid over 40 years at 5% interest while the remaining $182,800 represents an outright grant.

According to Rep. Beall, the authorization will supplement State of Maryland funds to be used in the development and construction of a sanitary sewage collection system which will include 344 sewer connections to individual Walkersville property owners and directly benefit over 1200 people. Sewage from the new connections will be treated by the regional sewage treatment plant of Frederick.

Financing of rural water and waste disposal projects is extended through the Farmers Home Administration to organizations operating on a non-profit basis, such as non-profit corporations, water supply districts, rural towns of not more than 5,500 population, and other political subdivisions. Loans are made only when adequate credit is not otherwise available at reasonable rates and terms.

The VA estimates that in Fiscal Year 1971 its Department of Medicine and Surgery will have an average employment of more than 142,000, the highest in its history.

Contaminated Meat To Be Held Back

The Consumer and Marketing Service during March detained 89,804 pounds of meat and poultry in the mid-Atlantic region.

Of the total, 55,979 pounds were meat or meat products. The remainder was poultry or poultry products, this U. S. Department of Agriculture agency said.

The detentions resulted from routine investigations made by compliance and evaluation officers of C&MS' consumer protection programs.

The Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Poultry Inspection Act authorize the detention of non-federally inspected meat and poultry products suspected of being unwholesome, adulterated or misbranded.

Only federally-inspected products are allowed to move in interstate commerce. Noninspected products found in interstate commerce are automatically disposed of for uses other than human food.

If a state-inspected product is found in interstate commerce and is in good condition, its disposition depends on the mutual decision of the originating state and the state in which the product is found.

If a federally-inspected product is detained and further inspection proves it to be wholesome and truthfully labeled, it is released into regular trade channels.

But, if an inspected product is found to be unwholesome, adulterated or misbranded, the owner has several recourses: The product may be moved to a USDA-inspected establishment for reinspection and processing for salvage purposes, or relabeling; the product can be decharacterized, identified as unfit for human food, and sold for use in animal food, and the owner can sign a release and voluntarily destroy the product in the presence of a C&MS official.

When an owner refuses to take any of the above steps, the case is turned over to the courts for final disposition. To date, all such cases have resulted in destruction of the product for use as human food. This is done in the presence of a court official so that there is documented proof of the product's disposition.

James A. Keith is officer-in-charge of the mid-Atlantic regional compliance and evaluation staff at Raleigh, N.C. This office is responsible for consumer protection compliance activities in Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Keith says he and his staff continually work with officials from other federal agencies and various state agencies in protecting the consumers' meat and poultry supply.

Protests Abortions

Peter James, Republican candidate for Governor, attacks Maryland's controversial Abortion Bill, James States, "I can't see why the extremely liberal attitude of a few continues to dominate the abortion picture in Maryland. I have spoken with hundreds of people in Baltimore City and County who are considered by some political authorities to be liberal and these people have overwhelmingly opposed this catastrophe on our society. The greatest number were (1) totally unfamiliar with the proposed abortion bill at all, (2) not aware of the ultra liberties it allows, or (3) unfamiliar about the present bill we have in effect now which is quite liberal in its own right."

Life is too short to be wasted trying to please or imitate other people.

The people of Maryland are being misled by publicity that the abortion controversy is based on Catholic vs. non-Catholic beliefs. This is a bald-faced lie! I have spoken with religious leaders of all faiths and they have assured me the abortion bill is a moral issue and is shunned by people of their faiths. A federation of churches in Baltimore claimed the protestant churches stand behind the bill, but my investigation in Montgomery and Prince George's County shows that the ministers overwhelmingly opposed the signing of the bill.

Most individual citizens of Maryland are against the signing of the abortion bill. When a very 'vocal' minority tries to push a vital bill on all the people without consulting the voice of the silent majority, to me, this is the worst form of steamrolling in the history of the Maryland Legislature.

In a telephone conversation I was told 75% of the people of Cambridge do not agree with what they call this 'ultra-liberal bill'. The people there, are, as I was informed, 'kind of amazed and bewildered that the Legislature would go so overboard on the abortion bill and yet could be so conservative in other issues that are more pressing.'

In traveling around the state, the singular impression I get is the people are starved for representation and attention. The citizenry, from every indication, is not being served. Some liberal minds admit the individual is not being served well but, to me, they are saying, at point blank range, "We have no voice in our State Government and the abortion bill is a classic example". The people of Maryland have not known, until now, that many less crucial bills take weeks and months of debate and discussion before passage or defeat. This monumental and all-encompassing bill was blasted through on the last day of the current session and was given only seven (7) hours for consideration on the floor. Action like this is totally unbelievable. The only conclusion I can draw from this type of action in Annapolis was the Democrat controlled Legislature knew the abortion bill was a hot potato and knew if proper time and consideration was given to all aspects it would have been defeated on the floor."

Opposes Abortion

Hon. Richard M. Nixon
President of the United States
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Three days ago, in a letter published in the Washington Evening Star, I maintained that the legalization of abortion in this country was a step backward—an abdication of sovereign responsibility.

Today, the New York Times, reports that Dr. Egeberg, another of your advisors, who endorsed abortions several months ago as a "back-up measure to birth control", reaffirmed his support of abortion reform legislation such as the New York and Maryland state laws. "I see abortion as a back-up for when contraception fails," Dr. Egeberg told reporters.

It is ironic and incongruous that participants in today's so-called "Festival of Life", held across the street from the White House, should have dealt entirely on our casualties in Vietnam. These casualties—much lamented—number 40,000 for the decade of the 60s. If Cardinal O'Boyle estimates correctly, relaxed abortion laws will account for this many casualties every four days, for a total of 7 million casualties during the next two years.

New Window Cuts Down House Care

You can update your life along with your home.

Just be sure—when installing new appliances, tearing down an old garage, or adding a family room—that you're also building in leisure, eliminating upkeep, and expanding opportunities for easy living.

Homeowners "contract" to do a lot of home maintenance when they sign a house deed. But today's new products and materials have made many upkeep jobs obsolete. For instance, there is now a full line of maintenance-free windows that eliminates virtually every upkeep chore except washing—and that has been cut in half.

The windows, called Andersen Perma-Shield, have a rigid vinyl cladding over sash and frames that requires no painting and will not pit, rust or corrode. A vinyl glazing bead does away with repainting. Welded insulating glass is standard, eliminating storm sash and its resultant chores. Window cleaning is reduced with only two glass surfaces per sash instead of four.

To complete the care-free package, the windows are available with removable vinyl grilles that don't need painting. They snap out for simple one-pane washing.

Perma-Shield windows are available in a full style line, including casement, awning, fixed-sash, gliding glass doors, and—the newest addition—a traditional double-hung unit which doesn't need painting for at least ten years.

Home Gardeners Fight Back!

Young homeowners by the score are declaring war on soaring food prices. They're picking up their hoes and marching to the garden.

Recent surveys show that more Americans than ever before are turning to gardening to fight high food prices. One study showed that the number of gardeners growing their own vegetables doubled between 1967 and 1969. And, with food prices continuing their climb, more "grow-it-yourselfers" are expected to crop up this spring and summer.

"The growth in seed packet purchases this spring is already indicating a trend," says one seed company executive. "Inflation appears to be behind it all. Young people who have never grown any sort of vegetable before are buying a few packets of seed and putting a bare spot to good use."

Today's new hybrid vegetables and new varieties have a lot to do with the growing trend. They're extremely high yielding, and can produce an abundance of vegetables in a space no larger than the average kitchen table.

One hybrid tomato plant, for example, can now produce 20 pounds of fruit a season. At 15¢ a pound, that's $3.00 worth of tomatoes from just one plant.

Many of today's vegetable plants are bred to be more "vertical" in stature, and this accounts for the compact proficiency of modern "mini-gardens". Even apartment dwellers, using window boxes or pots, are now enjoying "fresh from the garden" vegetables.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Statistics Misleading

So you want to own a Derby winner, or maybe just a winner. Some statistics appearing in the Blood-Horse magazine's supplement, "Sires of Runners of 1969," might be a bit discouraging.

While the tracks offered a total of $168,511,805 in purses last year, there were 45,817 horses competing for a share of the purse money and only 16 per cent of them earned their keep—(according to statistics). This isn't quite as 'bad as it sounds. That 16 per cent (7,347 horses) earned $6,000 or more ($6,000 being the estimated cost of keeping a horse in training for a year), and thus paid the feed bills for many of their less talented stablemates. Actually 24,681 horses were winners and others earned a share of the purse in some cases for finishing as far back as fifth.

Twenty years ago, 22,554 horses were competing for slightly over $50,000,000 in purses and the average earnings per starter was only $2,221. Foal registration in 1950 totaled 9,095; last year more than 23,000 foals were registered by The Jockey Club. For a statistically unprofitable enterprise the racing of Thoroughbreds has shown a tendency to grow and thrive.

FOWL PLAY—Hospital staff members pitch-in to de-feather 350 wild pheasants and ducks donated by eastern seaboard textile industry executives to the patients of Valley Forge General Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa. Some 135 members of the staff, including officers, enlisted personnel and civilians, volunteered to process the birds.

lament these casualties, they must not be ignored. Over the next decade they represent 17½ million young men who will not be available to meet the possible military demands of the nation.

What To Know Before Buying A Diamond

The purchase of a diamond—either as an engagement ring or as a special gift of love—is a momentous occasion in every man's life. Because of this, and because it will represent a significant sum of money, he will want to buy wisely and proudly. The American Gem Society, a non-profit association of gemologists and professional jewelers, offers the following advice to the most often asked questions.

Q. Is there a standard for establishing the price of a diamond?

A. Just as a suit of clothes can cost anywhere from $50 to $200, a diamond's price may vary too depending on size and quality. Jewelers use what is called the "Four C's" to determine price—Cutting, Color, Clarity and Carat Weight.

Q. What is the most important factor in the beauty of a diamond?

A. American Gem Society jewelers rank Cutting first since that much admired "fire" and brilliance of the diamond is revealed only when it is scientifically cut to correct proportions and with each facet highly polished. Poorly cut stones permit "light leakage" and have a dulled lifeless appearance.

Q. What is meant by the color of a diamond?

A. Nearly all gem diamonds have some slight yellowish body color. The degree of this color as it varies from "Colorless" or clear white to yellowish, affects the price you pay.

Q. Is clarity an important factor in the price of a diamond?

A. Clarity is one of the factors affecting diamond value. American Gem Society jewelers point out that minute inclusions seen only under 10-power magnification do not mar the beauty of the gem nor endanger durability, but will reduce the cost. Flaws which are visible to the eye obviously mar the diamond's beauty and may make it more fragile.

Q. What do the terms "Blue White" and "Perfect" mean?

A. Blue White refers to the body color of a diamond that shows a bluish cast. However, statistics have shown that one gem diamond in 500 will have this hue. This term has been so abused that it is seldom used by ethical jewelers. "Perfect" in jewelers' parlance means that a diamond is flawless (only) under magnification. A diamond so described may have inferior cutting and color, with a seriously reduced value, but technically may be called "perfect" since no flaws were in evidence. Since it is a misleading word, many jewelers such as those in the American Gem Society do not use the term.

Stock Dividends

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., April 23, 1970—Though the deadline for filing tax returns is now past, many investors are probably still smarting from the blow and looking for possible ways to reduce payments in the future. There is no denying that Uncle Sam takes a big bite out of cash dividends, which are regarded as ordinary income and are therefore taxable at higher rates.

There Is A Way

For those not dependent on generous cash dividends from common stocks there is a way to keep taxes down and still invest in commons; i.e. buy the shares of companies that pay stock dividends on a regular basis.

Distribution of an annual stock dividend is a policy followed by several leading companies. Oftentimes a modest cash payment is also made; but the attraction lies in the stock dividend. This is because stock dividends are generally not taxed as income. Under present tax laws taxation is deferred until the shares are sold, at which time the cost price must be adjusted to reflect the stock dividend. Moreover, the shares received qualify for long-term capital gains treatment if the stock on which the dividend has been received is held over six months. Thus, when the shares are sold (presumably at a profit) the maximum tax rate would be 20 1/2% (to reach 35% by 1972). Further Possible Benefits

Stock dividends are often, though not always, associated with growth companies that retain earnings to finance expansion programs to sustain the growth pattern. By paying stock dividends rather than making large cash payments a company can employ more capital in productive areas and be in a better position to consider mergers or build new plants.

From the investor's standpoint, when frequent stock dividends are received one's holdings in a particular company can increase rapidly due to the compounding factor.

Note Of Caution

As with any security, it is essential to investigate thoroughly before buying the stock of a company simply because it pays a stock dividend. One reason for this is a company may suffer reduced earnings, forcing omission or reduction of the cash dividend; the company might then declare a stock dividend to soothe disgruntled stockholders.

However, when a company is fundamentally strong, stock dividends provide an added incentive, especially when the company can earn much more on retained earnings than the investor can do if he receives cash, pays a tax on the income, and reinvests the remainder.

Some Stock Dividend Payers
The size of the stock dividends, of course, varies from company to company. For all practical purposes, a stock dividend of 25% or higher is equivalent to a stock split. In the following Table we have confined the stock-dividend-paying firms to those that usually make small stock payments (except for Combined Insurance) and have done so for several years, indicating that it is a rather permanent policy.

Shock Wave Used To Create Amino Acids

Amino acids, a basic molecule in the creation of life, have been synthesized by a team of Cornell University scientists by introducing a shock wave into gases. Amino acids are the building blocks of proteins and are necessary for the origin of life. It is the first time amino acids have been created by using a shock tube, although they have been synthesized before by use of electric sparks, heat and other methods. They said their work implies that shocks caused by thunder or by the entry of meteors or micrometeorites into the earth's atmosphere may have been the principal energy sources for the creation of life on the primitive earth.

On extended space journeys, sleeping may pose a real problem. Some of the Apollo moon astronauts have reported disorientation and sickness in relation to their efforts to sleep, and part of the trouble apparently lies in the space traveler's inner ear, say researchers at Emory University. They will study the inner ear's "vestibular system" which governs orientation of a human or an animal in space to determine if the system is the trouble spot. A special device called a rate table will be used to study monkeys under a simulated space-flight conditions. It will apply angular acceleration, programmed by a computer, to the animals while they are held in a restraining device.

Just as junked automobiles have cluttered much of America's landscape, junked aircraft are becoming an eyesore at many of the nation's airports. The Federal Aviation Administration is trying to persuade airport operators to get rid of these derelicts. The FAA program is aimed both at improving the appearance of our airports and maintaining public confidence in aviation. The FAA says the junked aircraft not only degrade the appearance of airports but tend to convey the erroneous impression to both the flying and nonflying public that aviation is inherently unsafe.

A machine so sensitive that it measures and continuously monitors the breath of newborn and premature infants has been developed by National Cylinder Gas, Chicago. The instrument is called a "Pediatric Minute-Volume Indicator" and has a built-in alarm that is activated if breath-breath volume falls below a predetermined volume. It is only seven inches long and weighs 3 1/2 pounds.

How fast is the deep interior of the moon losing heat to outer space? A Columbia University scientist will attempt to find out by taking the moon's temperature with very precise thermometers that astronauts will bury below the lunar surface.

Frederick Plans Bell & History Celebration

Frederick, Maryland's Bell and History Days will help this Central Maryland city celebrate the 225th anniversary of its founding. The week of June 8 thru 14 has been set aside to commemorate this important event, and committees are at work to make the week a memorable one.

Culminating the celebration will be the opening of Frederick's historic treasures on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, from 1 until 5. Special bus and walking tours are being planned, and those attending will be visiting many of the spots where history was written. Included in the tours will be the home of Barbara Fritchie, the grave of Francis Scott Key, the home of Chief Justice Roger Brooke Taney, Rose Hill Manor, the Hessian Barracks, Court House park and vicinity, the Historical Society Home and Museum, Steiner House, Visitation Convent Gardens, and many of Frederick's famed churches, which form the "Clustered Spires". Bells will ring out from city churches to mark the days. Residents in costume will conduct tours and act as guides around the city.

A special feature of the tours will be displays and demonstrations of crafts associated with the way of life in bygone days. Many local craftsmen will be at work, and many merchants will be cooperating with window displays.

Activities are being planned for the entire week, with a pageant scheduled for several evening performances. Out-of-town visitors are welcome at all events, and especially for the week-end tours which have been designated to give everyone a panoramic picture of Frederick's rich heritage. Alderman Glenmore Rice is serving as chairman of the committee arranging for the 225th Anniversary Celebration. Chairman of Bell and History Days is Mrs. Charles S. V. Samner, with Mr. Richard R. Kline serving as her co-chairman.

Green Thumb Tips

Among many dwarf marigolds, the 6-inch-tall Petites are most useful. Yellow, gold and orange-flowered varieties are listed and a bicolor, Petite Harmony, has blossoms with mahogany guard petals surrounding a gold-crested center.

Would you believe! There's a pumpkin especially selected for easy carving—for jack o' lanterns, of course.

Named Spookie, it is a cross between the varieties Early Sugar Pie and Jack O'Lantern. With small fruits, about 6 inches deep and the same in diameter, weighing about 6 pounds, it can be used for pies as well as carving.

Sometimes gardeners complain about the number of seeds in a packet—there are either too few or too many.

This misunderstanding comes about because gardeners don't realize the great difference in seed sizes.

For instance, there are about 115 seeds of beans, either bush or pole, to the ounce while the same weight of turnip seeds would total 15,200.

Watering newly sown seeds, whether indoors or outdoors, is extremely important. Although drainage must be good, especially indoors, the seedbeds must never be allowed to dry out. Dryness would be fatal to the sprouting seeds.

Iceland poppies, although perennials, will bloom the first year if seeds are sown at the earliest possible date.

Rutabagas or Swedish turnips take longer to mature than regular turnips so seeds should be planted earlier—mid-June to early July.

Annual sunflowers are excellent as backgrounds for other flowers. Be certain to select a tall-growing kind as there now are dwarf varieties.

If you like radishes and object to paying high prices for them in the market during winter, grow Round Black Spanish, a winter radish.

Seeds are sown as late as August for winter use and roots are stored in moist sand. They keep all winter.

What is a garden without mignonette? Flowers are not showy in any way but they are delightfully fragrant, with a scent that is different from any other flower.

Garden Club Plans Card Party

The Silver Fancy Garden Club held its April 16 meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Robert Clingan, Taneytown with 18 members in attendance.

The president conducted the business meeting during which committee reports were made. The card party co-chairmen, Mrs. John Chenoweth and Mrs. John White, reported on plans for the upcoming Annual Card Party to be held on May 21 at 1 p. m., at the Mt. Manor Motel, Emmitsburg.

The program was "Conservation-Trees." The speakers were Mr. Yingling and Mr. Lewis of the U. S. Dept. of Forestry and Parks, who spoke on the care of trees—ecology and environment. A question and answer period followed which was very informative.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Andrew Eyster and Mrs. Vernon Keilholz. The Annual Card Party will be held on the next regular meeting date.

Mount Students Hurt In Wreck

Four Mt. St. Mary's College students received treatment at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, for injuries they sustained when their car crashed into a tree off Route 806, just north of the college campus at 3 a. m. Saturday.

Treated at the hospital were Robert Leonard, 20, Waterford, N. Y., driver of the car, lacerations of the eye and contusions of the shoulder and his passengers, Alan Schalabba, 20, Rutherford, N. J., injuries to right hand and abrasions of the back; Anthony Chismark, 20, Troy, N. Y., slight injuries to his shoulder and back, and Robert Uidulich, 20, Amsterdam, N. Y., face injuries.

All were taken to the hospital in the VFW ambulance. State Police said that Leonard swerved his south-bound vehicle to avoid hitting an unidentified animal in the path of his car. Leonard's vehicle ran off the left side of the highway and crashed into a tree. Damage to his 1965 Ford Mustang was estimated at $800 by police.

Many people hurry to catch up where one hurries to get ahead.

Beverly Davis Receives High Student Award

By Roxie Aubol

Catoctin High School Senior Beverly Davis, was presented the second Catoctin High School John Phillip Sousa Band Award at the Spring Concert held Tuesday.

Bob Black, a graduate from the Class of '69, received the first award from Catoctin High. Bob played trumpet.

Bev, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Davis, of Emmitsburg, was selected by her fellow bandmen as the most outstanding senior in the band.

The selection of Miss Davis as the Sousa Band Award recipient was on the basis of her musical ability and contributions she has made to the band.

Beverly has served her band well, not only being its clarinet section leader and student conductor, but also its first president. She is one of Catoctin's representatives to All - County Band and has been a member of this selective band for five consecutive years.

Aside from being a member of the band, Bev is active in other musical aspects at school. Miss Davis is an alto in the Mixed Chorus in which she is also the accompanist. Bev also is a member of the Senior Girls' Ensemble.

Bev has been a member of the All-County Chorus since eighth grade and represented Catoctin High in the All-State Chorus this past fall. She has been Business Editor of the "Cougar Crier," the school newspaper, and also Catoctin's past school reporter. She is a member of the Student Council in which she is the chairman of the Activities Committee.

Beverly is the organist for the Incarnation United Church of Christ and has held this position for five years. Miss Davis holds membership in the Emmitsburg Community Chorus and Band. She plans to pursue her musical talents by attending the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Va., after graduation.

Congratulations Bev, from Catoctin High!
