

State To Erect Tourist Information Centers

The State Roads Commission has moved to spur development of tourism in Maryland by finalizing an agreement with a private corporation for the construction and operation of a number of Information Centers in rest areas along Maryland highways.

The completed centers will then be turned over to the Commission and leased to Tra-Vel for a 25-year period. This plan will save Maryland taxpayers money since the estimated cost of operation for each center is $80,000 per year.

The Bill recites that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address is 21 North Broadway Avenue, West Pittsburg, California; that the parties to this cause were married on the 23rd day of April, 1954, at Midletown, Maryland, by Rev. filing of this Bill of Complaint, is deliberate and final, and that the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation. The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Robert Roy Minnick, may be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Shirley Ann Minnick; that he may be awarded the care and custody of Steven Roy Minnick, one of the infant children in these proceedings mentioned; and for such other and further relief as the nature of his case may require. Wildlife Weekend Set For Thurmont

At Catocin Mountain Park, a recreation area of the National Park System near Thurmont, final arrangements are being made for the season's first great influx of visitors next weekend. The occasion is the 7th Annual Catocin Mountain Wildflower Weekend, May 15, 16 and 17. "A cold, wet Spring held back the blooms," park superintendent Frank Mentzer reports, "but recent warm days are bringing them out in profusion. We are bracing for an all-time high in Wildflower Weekend attendance," he adds. A new feature, Indoor Campfire Programs, has been added to the annual celebration. Two outstanding guest speakers will present illustrated evening lectures in the park's recently completed Camp Peniel Auditorium. Biologist-nature photographer Robert Hoffman's Friday evening "Close-up Look at Nature" is an unusual study of the wildflowers and insects of Catocin Mountain and the nearby Monocacy Valley. On Saturday evening, naturalist Chester O. Harris takes a broad look at our environmental problems as they affect "The Management of Wildflowers in Our National Parks." Visitors are encouraged to hike the more than 14 miles of park trails and examine the wildflowers at their leisure. The park staff has even prepared a do-it-yourself identification folder to help you get the most out of this experience. For those who prefer conducted tours, four special walks are scheduled, all led by Park Service naturalists. On Saturday morning a Young People's Wildlife Walk will give parents a chance to go off to do their own exploring. Photographers will enjoy the Sunday morning Shutterbug Stomp. Expert assistance will be available to help camera enthusiasts bring back memorable pictures for their collections. Saturday and Sunday afternoon walks are intended for those who are willing to hike the mountain trails to discover this annual miracle of nature. Saturday's walk is through a wet habitat of the park, while the Sunday walk looks at the flowers of the dry mountain slopes.

Centers are being considered for the following general locations: south of the Maryland-Pennsylvania border in Baltimore County on Interstate 83; northwest of the Susquehanna River in Harford County, on Interstate 95; north of the Maryland-Virginia border in Worcester or Somerset County on U. S. 13; dual centers southeast of Baltimore, in Howard County, on proposed Interstate 95; south of the junction of Maryland Highway 234 and U. S. 301 in Charles County; west of the junction of U. S. 301 and U. S. 50, in Queen Anne's County, on U. S. Highway 50-301; south of Delaware State line in Kent County, on U. S. 301; east of Maryland-West Virginia border, in Garrett County, on the National Freeway; south of Maryland-Pennsylvania border, in Frederick County, on U. S. 15; east of Hancock, in Washington County, on Interstate 70, and east of Frederick in Frederick County, on Interstate 70N. The order of preference for the construction and operation of the rest area information centers will be established and modified by mutual agreement of the parties. Tra-Vel has been in the information center business since 1965. The corporation has talked with officials from many states concern-

NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

A 1970 Youth Crusade
We have just learned, in a dramatic manner, that the youth of America can smash the powerful, virulent, menacing spread of drug abuse in the schools and colleges of America—if given just a little understanding help. They can do it through example and with education. They want to do it.
These facts came as a dramatic climax of our Freedom XXXI finale April 23 in the big Municipal Auditorium in Little Rock. Nearly 3,000 youth leaders from the schools and colleges of Arkansas came to spend the full day at the Forum's final day—with the subject: "The Drugs of Disaster."

Near the end of the day's program — on which the best qualified authorities in America on dangerous drugs had spoken—the young people were asked a challenging question: "Will you stand up and be counted in acceptance of a pledge to abstain from all drug use not prescribed by a physician—and this includes Marijuana, LSD and all the rest?" The speaker said: "Let's really get with it —every person under 25 in this vast audience who will take this pledge will stand up."
Every youth in the auditorium stood. In doing so they raised a challenging banner behind which all the wholesome, clean-minded youth in America can march.
Youth Enlistment Required
Present in the audience were some adult observers from other midwestern and southwestern states. At the end of the Forum some of them came to me to petition our help in staging in their states such a one-day forum on Drug Abuse as they had witnessed. Really, this was a bonus payoff for our Forum staff. We had worked for several months on the Forum, knowing that it was to be the first statewide gathering of youth in a seminar on drugs and drug abuse. We only hoped it could become a pattern for the entire nation.

We felt that just the exposure of informational presentations to a selected group of youth leaders from all the school districts and colleges of the state wouldn't be enough. We were convinced that a continuing year-round program was needed, with a step-by-step blueprint as a guide, and with some organizational aspects. So we fashioned an ACTION KIT with carefully selected informational brochures on various drugs, with a step-by-step program of activities for each school district and local community, and with a Pledge Petition to be circulated to every youth, by fellow youths—everywhere—pledging abstinence from dangerous drugs, especially Marijuana.

Widest Sponsorship
For this so-important Forum we brought together all the educational, government and civic organizations of Arkansas. The co-sponsoring organization was Governor Winthrop Rockefeller's Task Force on Drug Abuse, headed by Dr. James E. Dusenberry of the University of Arkansas' Medical Center, one of the foremost authorities in America on the true nature of drugs. Cooperating organizations were:

The Arkansas State Department of Education, the Kiwanis Clubs and Lions Clubs throughout the state; the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation; the Arkansas Sheriffs' Association; the Arkansas State Law Enforcement Association; the Association of Arkansas Counties; all the Public School Districts of the state, and other groups. I mention them here to emphasize how universal is the recognition of the problem of drug abuse and how responsive the various service agencies of a state are when summoned and organized into a combatting force.

Carefully Planned
We had planned the Forum after visits with officials of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and the National Institute of Mental Health in Washington. They felt, as did we, that law enforcement agencies, however effective they might become, could never halt the present epidemic spread of drug abuse among our younger generation (and, alas, reports were given at our Forum of Third and Fourth graders not only using dangerous drugs but actually "pushing" them!). They felt, as did we, that education is the only possible bulwark against the continuing spread. And they felt, as did we, that the youth themselves could be the most effective leaders of an educational crusade.

In subsequent columns we will pass along some of the information that came from the drug experts on our Forum program. We will gladly provide additional information to any organizations anywhere in America who might wish to organize and sponsor such a Forum for their state. I told the gathering of Arkansas youth that they represented our brightest youth generation in history, and that only 10 per cent of our youth today are in the category of "disrupters" who form the "drug culture" and are agitating against our American system. The 90 per cent are able and anxious to preserve our great heritage and stamp out the spreading drug threat to it. Let's help them! Let's help spread this magnificent new youth crusade!

Give the other guy the benefit when driving. It just may save YOUR life.

Serve A Different Cheese Cake

Next time you're entertaining and don't mind fussing a little in order to come up with a great dessert, make this delicious new recipe for cheese cake. It's as different in flavor as its marbled appearance. In fact your guests will all agree that "it is really marbled."

Marble Cheese Cake
1 cup graham cracker crumbs 3/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons Parkay 1/4 cup flour
Margarine, melted 1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons sugar 3 eggs
3 pkgs. 8-oz. Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese 1 1-oz. square unsweetened chocolate, melted Combine crumbs, margarine and sugar. Press onto bottom of 9-inch spring pan. Bake at 325°, 10 minutes.
Combine softened cream cheese, sugar, flour and vanilla, mixing until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Reserve 1 cup of batter; pour remaining batter over crust. Add chocolate to reserved batter; mix well. Spoon chocolate batter into pan; cut through batter several times for marble effect. Bake at 450°, 10 minutes; reduce temperature to 250° and continue baking 30 minutes. Loosen cake from rim of pan; cool before removing rim of pan.

The pride of the New York Mets, Tom Seaver, makes his pitch for support of the American Cancer Society's Crusade. The National League ace right-hander urges all his fans to give generously when the ACS volunteer calls.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

BY BETHAMI PROBST

With Every Breath You Take

To dramatize the gruesome effect of dirty air, a medical weekly recently put two lungs in living color on its cover—a revolting soot-blackened 'city' lung next to a freshly crimson, clean 'country' lung.
But why is the 'country' lung so tiny compared with the 'city' lung? Because, came the explanation, the search for a clean adult lung—a search that fanned out from rural Virginia to bucolic Vermont—proved so time-consuming that Medical World News settled for the tiny rosy lung of a baby dead of epilepsy at four months.
Even in rural areas these days, really clean air is hard to come by. No fewer than 7,300 communities, encompassing more than half the nation's population, suffer from marked degrees of air pollution, according to the U. S. Public Health Service.

In each of these communities, vulnerable people are sickening because of the dirty air they breathe. For some, pollution hastens their deaths.

No Pollution "Disease"

Although there is no such entity as "air pollution disease," inhaling soot, carbon, metal dust, lead, asbestos, carbon monoxide, sulphur dioxide and other noxious substances is unhealthy. It is particularly unhealthy for certain people:

—Smokers. The damaging substances in dirty air deepen the harm wrought by the damaging substances in cigarette smoke.

When a Canadian pathologist compared 300 lungs from sooty St. Louis with 300 from relatively pure-aired Winnipeg, Canada, he found four times as many severe cases of emphysema (a breakdown of certain lung tissue that results in shortness of breath and eventual death) among St. Louis smokers as among Winnipeg smokers. Among non-smokers, the results were similar.

—People suffering from heart disease, emphysema, chronic bronchitis or asthma. Severe pollution aggravates all these disorders. Death rates for heart disease are 37 per cent higher for men and 46 per cent higher for women in metropolitan areas than in communities with relatively clean air. There is also some evidence of a connection between air pollution and gastric cancer.

Air pollution can menace an entire community. When climatic conditions trap a city in a layer of heavily polluted air or fog, death rates soar—as they did in New York in 1953, 1963, and 1966. Among the first of these disasters was the Donora, Pennsylvania fog of 1948 which killed 20 people. Moreover, in that small mill town dominated by steel and chemical plants, nearly half the population sickened.

"Death Fogs"

These "death fogs" may be only the tip of an iceberg, however. "The methods we have for detecting excess deaths," warns Dr. Robert Horton, head of the government's Health Effects Research Program, "are so crude that there has to be a pretty big excess for us to realize that it's there at all. What we do know is that people get killed by air pollution."

As pollution intensifies and spreads, escaping to the suburbs or the country becomes only a temporary relief measure. The hard fact of the matter is that the earth's supply of air is finite, and only a shallow layer contains enough oxygen for men to survive. Most of the air we use extends up only 2000 feet above the oxygenated layer is 15,000 feet deep. If we keep pouring pollutants into this limited supply of air, it must reach a point of dangerous saturation just as surely as escaping gas eventually reaches a lethal point in a house.

Our ability to pollute is limited. Every car driven daily contributes more than one ton of carbon monoxide to the air in a year, and the number of cars in the U. S. increases twice as fast as the population explosion. The demand for electric power expands at a similar rate. Flights of jet aircraft landing in New York alone emit an estimated 36 million tons of carbon dioxide into the air annually. Meanwhile, more than 1 million acres of oxygen-producing trees are paved over each year.

Hive Of Activity

This wealth of activity, ingenuity and production makes the air pollution situation particularly troublesome in the United States. Semi-optimists say we will all be wearing gas masks within 10 years unless something is done. Pessimists say the earth will start to become uninhabitable in about 20 years.

Already, smarting eyes and vague chest pains are commonplace, some California school children must skip outdoor recesses when pollution becomes extreme and alarmed virologists decline to eat liver because that's where pesticides accumulate in animals. Emphysema has become the nation's fastest growing disease, up 500 per cent in the past 15 years. A study of Buffalo, N. Y., linked gastric cancer and pollution.

Even A Bit

Even low levels of pollution may be harmful. A high school cross-country team in San Marino, California, turned in measurably poorer performances on smoggy days. These young athletes were affected by the lowest measurable quality of pollution—one part per million, which looks and feels like a clear day to most people.

Researchers at Stanford University School of Medicine found that unnoticeable amounts of carbon dioxide in the air cause a deterioration in student performance after 50 minutes. Yet such concentrations of 100 parts per million are frequently reached in garages, tunnels and traffic jams.

If a smidgen of smog makes a healthy teen-age athlete just a little more tired, what happens these days to older men and women running for buses? If students are affected by low-level concentrations of carbon monoxide, what happens to the man or woman who smokes while stuck in a traffic jam?

Where There's Hope

Since people have befouled the atmosphere, only people can clear it up. Progress is possible. A determined Pittsburgh is on the way to reducing a 1940 dust fall from 60 tons per square mile per month to 12 tons in 1975. Greater London has reduced ground level concentrations of pollution by one-third in 10 years.

But, ultimately, sticking to a zero population growth is vital if compulsory gas masks are to be avoided. So long as more and more people are born to make almost irresistible demands on the environment, the limited air must become increasingly unbreathable and fresh air a distant memory.

"Time has run out on the age-old idea that human progress means more people and more energy," says Botanist Ralph Emerson of the University of California at Berkeley. "First priority must be given to rigid birth control . . ."

Driving and drinking don't mix, reminds Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies.

Deplores Red Treatment of American POW's

There are many cross currents of opinion about the war in Southeast Asia. Some Americans believe the war should be stopped immediately. Many others believe that the war should be ended gradually while still other Americans believe that we should use the ultimate weapons in an attempt to gain a military victory at whatever risk to our international situation.

However, there is one facet of the war about which all Americans can agree. That is the fact that the government of North Vietnam is totally wrong in its handling of American prisoners of war.

There is at least one United States pilot who was shot down over North Vietnam and who has been a prisoner since August 1964—nearly six years. There are a number of others who have been in captivity for more than five years. Perhaps as many as 150 have either been missing or captured for more than four years and twice as many have been either missing or in captivity for three or more years. This is longer than any U.S. servicemen were held prisoner in World War II.

Whatever views the government of North Vietnam may hold about the policies of the United States, it should recognize as most nations of the world recognize that these prisoners of war were military men carrying out the orders given to them by their government. This treatment of prisoners is in total disregard of the Geneva Convention relative to the treatment of prisoners to which North Vietnam acceded in 1957. In spite of the agreement of the Government of North Vietnam to treat prisoners in accordance with the internationally recognized standards, they have totally disregarded the simplest requirements of the Geneva Convention.

They have not released the names of men held prisoner, they have not released sick and injured prisoners, they have not allowed the inspection of prison facilities by neutral organizations such as the International Red Cross, and they have prohibited the regular flow of mail between prisoners and their families.

I believe that this is a very serious situation, not only for the men that are involved, but for the entire country, because here is another instance in which the world in 1970 sees a breakdown of established conventions, of established practices which tended to make the human race not only more human but more humane.

This is one more instance of the application of force and even violence, if you will, to the affairs of man in total disregard of the lessons that have been learned from the centuries in which man has been slowly evolving.

I hope that this will only prove to be a monetary backward step and that mankind will once again begin to move forward towards a better and more ordered and a more humane world. I hope that this will not be a turning point in which we go back towards the days of barbarism. And I hope and pray that these Americans who are being subjected to this barbarous treatment will soon find freedom and return to home.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

Trucking Industry

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., May 7, 1970—In recent years the motor carrier industry has experienced excellent revenue growth. Although this trend may be resumed after the current labor dislocations, the 1970 earnings outlook is less impressive. Trucking is caught in a profit squeeze. Increased equipment costs, higher operating expenses, and rising taxes have narrowed profit margins.

Given reasonably early labor peace, trucking revenues in 1970 should rise 6%-7% over 1969's levels, but the industry's expenses will increase at an even swifter pace. Adding to the problem, tie-ups are still in progress and seem destined to constrict profit margins further. Although freight rate boosts granted last year may partially offset these higher costs, the truckers are going to have to seek additional rate hikes in line with contract settlements. However, rate relief notoriously lags behind cost increases on an industry-wide basis.

Brighter Future

Although 1970 prospects for the trucking firms are lackluster, the industry's longer-term growth outlook remains favorable. In the future the motor carriers should be able to acquire an ever-increasing share of the transportation dollar. The American Trucking Association, in fact, predicts that by 1980 truckers will account for 61% of freight revenues, with railroads commanding only 29% of the total.

The trucking industry is changing. The existing profit squeeze is forcing many marginal carriers either to go out of business or to merge. Better management, computerized operations, and streamlined technology should create a viable trucking industry for the future.

In 1945 there were 25,000 truckers; today there are less than 14,000 companies. There is little doubt that this trend will continue; many, in fact, believe that there could be a very substantial reduction in motor carriers in just the next few years. As more truckers follow the merger or acquisition route, they will be in better shape to achieve major operating economies.

Labor Problems

Terms of the 3-year labor contract, when finally accepted, are going to be exceedingly costly. It looks at this writing as though the Teamsters will end up with an agreement providing a raise of $1.65 an hour over 36 months, as opposed to an earlier settlement of $1.10 for 39 months. Currently, at least, large sections of the Teamsters Union are ready to hold out for the top-package figure. Ratification of such a pact will make it more certain than ever that companies will seek new freight-rate increases. However, there is a lag factor between rate-boost requests from the ICC and time of approval. Thus, relief may not show up in profits until late 1970.

In the trucking industry labor is an outstanding expense, accounting for 65% of total operating costs. So the upcoming raises and benefits will be a heavy burden for trucking. The 3-year contract which expired at the end of March increased wages 5 1/2% a year. But final provisions, when they are ratified, may be slightly better than 9% annually for the 3-year span, including wage lifts and fringes.

Market Action

Most trucking stocks have fallen badly in the current weak market, owing largely to the industry's near-term prospects, which are still clouded by labor uncertainties. However, most of the truckers' problems appear to have already been discounted by the stock market. We recommend retention of common stocks of the leading truckers at their present levels because of their long-term growth potentials. Indeed, many issues look very tempting at this point. We feel it best to postpone buying temporarily until a clearer picture of the settlement pattern emerges. Investors may then have an even more golden opportunity to go bargain hunting in this sector of the stock market.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Now you can apply for social security benefits over the telephone. Carroll A. Jones, social security manager, urged residents of Frederick County to take advantage of this new service.

"Call first. Call 663-5124. You may save yourself a trip to the office," he suggested. "Most social security business can be transacted over the telephone. For instance, we can help you fill out an application for monthly benefits, change your address for delivery of your social security checks if you are moving, and, of course, answer your questions about the whole social security program, including Medicare. So try a phone call first. Chances are that we can take care of your social security questions without the need for you to visit the office."

Be sure to get plenty of sleep before long drives on vacation trips, suggest Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies.

A Secret Formula

Kids have been eating pellets or a variation of pelletized grain for years, thriving on it and enjoying the rewards to be gained by sending in box tops. Dairy and beef cattle too have long been fed pellets of compressed hay, alfalfa, minerals, etc., but only in recent years has the pellet become popular on the Thoroughbred's menu.

Feed pellets have some obvious advantages such as the elimination of waste, ease of storage and the elimination of grain dust which, in an allergy-prone horse, can result in the "heaves," a respiratory complication that can be serious.

The equine version of the famed "breakfast of champions" is made up in various mixtures, and one prominent Kentucky Farm developed its own secret formula which it was convinced produced not alone a high gloss on their yearlings' well-filled out frames but high bids for those yearlings in the auction ring.

Giving a less secret formula to a commercial pellet manufacturer the Farm manager found that it was being sold "under the counter" to rival farms. Their pellets are now manufactured by the Trappist monks of the Abbey of Getsemani, near Bardstown, Kentucky, perhaps on the theory that the Trappist vow of silence is good insurance for their feed formula.

Charles Town Shows Off New Facilities

Charles Town Turf Club opened its spring meeting April 27 with a new $2.2 million clubhouse that includes everything from the community's first escalator to an old fashioned ice cream bar.

The track, which has raced since 1933, opened a 72-night spring meeting with clubhouse facilities hailed by officials as "the finest in racing."

Racing fans this year will find a plant that bears little resemblance to the modest frame structure that pioneered thoroughbred racing in West Virginia 37 years ago.

Of contemporary design and constructed of brick, masonry and steel, the new clubhouse is built on three levels. It contains the largest dining room in area racing, seating for 2000, elevator and an escalator, a free chair seating section, and three betting levels.

President Irvin Kovens and General Manager Charles Funk, conducting a tour of the clubhouse, pointed out the following details. Entrance: A canopied main entrance with three-lanes for automobiles. The entrance is reached via a parking lot that has been completely rebuilt and re-surfaced.

Dining Terrace: More than 1000 fans can be accommodated at tables in the terraced portion of the dining room. In addition, a large third-level area will seat 500.

Free Seat Section: More than 600 fans can be seated in a terraced chair section overlooking the race track. This area also contains 54 box seats.

Weatherizing: Charles Town's new clubhouse is fully air conditioned and heated as the weather demands. Equipment is the most modern yet developed.

Mutuel Facilities: Mutuel windows are found on all three levels of the clubhouse. Bank-type counters for cashiers and sellers are used on all levels.

Accesses To Upper Levels: An escalator carries fans from the main floor to the dining room and second floor. An elevator also serves the second floor and continues to the third level. In addition, there is a service elevator for the Harry M. Stevens kitchens.

Kitchens: The world famous Harry M. Stevens organization has spent $250,000 on its kitchen and other Clubhouse facilities. The latter includes an ice cream bar which will serve up old-time concoctions.

Cozy Restaurant Cited; Given Rating

The Cozy Restaurant and Motel, Thurmont, has won a listing in the twelfth edition of the Mobil Travel Guide, the country's best-known national travel guidebook, it has been announced by the Guide's editors.

Over 24,000 restaurants, hotels, motels and resorts are listed and rated on a one to five star basis in the seven volume travel guide which has been compared to the famed Guide-Michelin by travel experts. Cozy received, in addition to its starred rating, a rarely given mark that symbolizes an unusually good value.

This mark was received by only 116 other establishments in the United States. To win a listing in the Mobil Guide, an establishment must be personally inspected by an impartial, trained inspector who reports his findings to an editorial board. Mobil has given complete independence to this group in deciding on listings and ratings.

Each of the seven regional editions gives valuable information on local history, sightseeing, amusements, sports, and recreation facilities. They also include regional road atlases and detailed maps of major cities, special auto-tour sightseeing routes, and advice to travelers.

The books will be available at Mobil stations and bookstores in May.

Mount Runners Win In Quantico Tourney Saturday

A victory in the 440 relay gave the Mt. St. Mary's College trackmen their first triumph in the Quantico Relays as the Mountaineers were clocked in 41.8 in the 14th annual affair Saturday.

Ralph Santoro, Pete Schwartz, Anthony Ambush and Bill Johnson made up the winning team. Johnson pulled up lame in the last few yards and was replaced in the 880 event by Bob Acampora. The 880 outfit was second but set a new Mount school record of 1:27.4.

Other entries from the Mount failed to place in Saturday's finals. The mile relay squad of Harry Torham, Mike Leinz, Bob Manculich and Bob Lewandowski was second in its heat at 3:27.2.

Chet Bieganski finished 11th in the 3,000 meter steeplechase in 10:15.5 and Lewandowski recorded a 42-6 in the triple jump. Ambush was scratched from the 100-dash semi-finals.

This Friday and Saturday the Mountaineers will take part in the Mason-Dixon championships at Roanoke, Va.

Majority Rule Not Always Right, McGucken Says

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Your correspondent, Mr. Smith, suggests that, right or wrong, it is the prerogative of a majority to rule. This argument would allow wives and children to rule fathers, instead of the other way around; it would permit a police force to dictate to the chief of police; a congregation to determine the content of the pastor's sermon; and passengers to decide a captain's course. I do not buy! This nonsense has gone far enough!

It was not a majority votes of women that propelled the woman's suffrage amendment through the U. S. Senate and the House of Representatives; it was entirely the votes of men! And when that amendment went to referendum and was finally ratified by 36 states (Aug. 26, 1920) it was again entirely the votes of men.

Today, when the Woman's Liberation Movement invades the halls of Congress, parading, agitating and claiming a 'right' to abortion . . . to kill the sons of men, it is time for men to reconsider — unilaterally—if that amendment ought not to be repealed.
