Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

If numbers are any criterion, there will be a real scramble for the numerous county offices to be filled this year in the coming gubernatorial election. With the filing deadline behind us, figures show that 76 candidates are mighty interested in the county offices up for grabs. To my knowledge, without actually checking the records, this is perhaps a record crop of candidates, one that will provide us with many interesting moments from now on until the Primary Sept. 15. The large field denotes greater interest in our county and state government and provides us with an excellent collection of material and talent otherwise not accorded us in some prior elections. The fact too, that the salaries for most of these jobs now have been pushed to the five-digit figure, undoubtedly brought out a lot of individuals who, otherwise, would not be interested. It is up to you to make an intelligent choice.

With inflation running rampant I am curious as to why our nation's women shoppers haven't as yet begun some kind of a boycott to help stem the ever increasing cost of living. Boycotts have been used effectively for situations not nearly so serious as they are today. Several years ago boycotts were responsible for reductions in prices of a few items of food, such as meat, coffee, etc. Right now a big fat boycott of almost anything you might want to choose, could be just as effective because it is apparent now that the Government is indifferent as to what anything costs and plans to do exactly nothing about it. How about it, girls?

Charnita has hit some serious snags these past few months and the sale of lots has been restricted because of court proceedings brought against the resort on account of sewerage, or lack of it rather, by neighboring property owners. This sprawling resort has been a boon to the economy of this area and it is hoped that the difficulties existing today can be remedied in short fashion so that all concerned can work together for their own mutual benefit. Several legal suits are hanging fire but progress seems to be forthcoming and we hope this is true. Most of our stores have benefitted from business connections with clientele from Charnita. Motels, filling stations, restaurants, etc., all have been making inroads to the business stream that Charnita draws to this section and it would be a mighty pleasant thought to believe that things will be righted soon and that we can resume our former ways and continue to share the benefits that are associated with enterprises of this sort. Lord knows, the business places of Emmitsburg need a shot in the arm.

Wallace Hutton, Commissioner, Files For House Seat

Wallace E. Hutton, incumbent Democratic Frederick County Commissioner, early this week filed for the Maryland State House of Delegates.

In declaring at the eleventh hour, Hutton commented that he had delayed announcing his candidacy as Delegate to the General Assembly until the final moment so as to avoid any possible conflict with the non-political, non-partisan Charter drive which he initiated earlier this year. He was joined in the Charter movement by J. Richard Hudson, a Republican candidate for the House of Delegates.

"I intend to devote all my time and energies the next few weeks to the Charter petition and seeing that it is timely filed," Hutton said. "Giving the people the opportunity to vote on the question of creating a Charter Board for Frederick County is by far the most important matter for the ballot in November and it takes precedence over all else at the moment," he said. "The Charter petitions must be filed by July 27 or the question will not even be on the ballot and the voters will not have the opportunity to choose."

Regarding his candidacy for the House of Delegates, Hutton stated, "It would seem to me that we should have at least one delegate who has been an elected official of the County governing body and who is intimately acquainted with the complexities and problems of local government in Frederick County."

Hutton said, on filing, that "In today's complex society, very few governmental functions can be allocated strictly to one level of government. Functions cannot be delegated to solely of Federal, state, or local concern. Most functions more appropriately should be performed at all governmental levels because the problems involved do not stop at local boundaries and cannot be governed solely by local ordinances. As an example, various aspects of the public health function today are exercised by local, regional, state, and national governments and even internationally by the World Health Organization."

"The federal system is not actually symbolized by a neat layer cake of three distinct and separate planes. A far more realistic symbol is that of a marble cake. Whenever you slice through it, you find an inseparable mixture of different colored ingredients. In this context, then, it would seem appropriate for Frederick County to have representation at the State level by one experienced in and knowledgeable of the difficulties of local government," Hutton said.

"The necessity for local governmental reform is a prime concern today, and so is the requirement that we must, section by section, improve our State Constitution," Hutton said. "I would like to lend my efforts to those reforms," he continued.

"Not only must the mechanical processes of government receive attention," he stated, "but there is an ever-increasing requirement to insure that the human needs of our population—the first order of concern for government—are met."

COUNCIL MEETS; HEARS PROBLEMS, PLANS ACTION

The Mayor and Commissioners heard a number of complaints and promised action on many of them at the regular meeting of the Town Council held Monday evening in the Town Office, President of the Board J. Norman Flax presiding.

Mrs. Charles W. Bollinger spoke to the board concerning surface water that was running across her property at times and also complained about a tree obstructing the visibility of a traffic sign at the corner of South Alley and S. Seton Ave. The tree is located in the yard of Mrs. Pearl Myers apartment building. Council said it would take remedial action after checking into the situation.

Eugene Newcomer also addressed the Council on the subject of surface water crossing his property on School Lane. Another resident complained about vending trucks operating here contrary to a Town ordinance which requires a peddlers' license. Cars parking all day in front of business places was also discussed. It was pointed out that although the motorist paid the meter fee it was still illegal to usurp the services of that same meter for an entire day.

Patrick B. Boyle called the Council's attention to several matters, one of which concerned the obtaining of water from a fire hydrant in Emmitt Gardens to fill a swimming pool located outside of Emmitsburg. A general discussion followed Mr. Boyle's complaint and it was agreed that in future matters of this type the entire approval of the Council must be given.

Representatives of the Potomac Edison Company, Frank Dunham and Fred Stenger, gave Council a report on the recent survey they made of the Town's street lighting, and made a number of recommendations for improvement. The Board will study the report before any action is to be taken.

Police Chief W. Henry Filler's monthly report was given and Council advised that several revisions be made to the police schedule. Also, the Chief suggested a change in the Town's curfew ordinance and the matter is being looked into.

A lengthy discussion was held on the subject of repairing the water line to the Little League field and it was voted upon that if the present line could not be repaired, then a new line would be installed as soon as possible.

Recreation Plans For County To Increase

The Frederick County Parks and Recreation Commission in cooperation with the Board of Education and neighborhood schools embark on the most extensive recreational coverage of Frederick County communities since the inception of the program four years ago. This is due in part to the support of the above mentioned agencies and the continued request for additional sites during the summer months.

The program consists of arts and crafts, individual, dual and team games as well as a variety of recreational type activities. Special events are being planned by various sites with the culminating activity tentatively scheduled for Monocacy-Pinecliff Park on Thursday, August 6.

Programed activities began on Wednesday, June 24 and will continue daily Monday through Friday, until August 6. Among the nine locations are: Emmitsburg Middle School, 9 to 2 daily with Dave Schrodel, director, assisted by Sheila Chatlos, and the Thurmont Park, 9 to 2 daily, Carlos Englar, director, assisted by Bill Baker.

Children, 6 years and up, may attend the sessions. Further information may be obtained through the Parks and Recreation office at Rose Hill Manor, 1611 N. Market St., Frederick, or by calling 662-6217.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By SAMUEL CARRICK
Another Old Family

It has been said, with some basis of fact, that "all fiction is not history but most history is all fiction." In the sense that all historical works reflect necessarily the individual opinions, prejudices, ideas and conclusions of their respective researchers and writers this aphorism is undeniably true. There is always a "slant" or bias—but in the main the historian tries to present the facts as they were with, perhaps, a bit of "embroidery" to add color and interest to the whole.

The "graveyard historian and genealogist" does not have much choice—the deeds or misdeeds of those who have long since gone to their reward cannot be tampered with and the facts cannot be blurred. "Ancestor worship" makes for "strange bedfellows" but in the long run the truth usually comes to light. Better to face things "as they are" rather than as one would wish them to be. The builders of this nation were human and should be seen in the light of their common humanity.

"Give credit where credit is due" but do not create demi-gods.

Before concluding the notes on Thorndale School—to make the account as complete as possible—a brochure, found with the original records, giving details of the course of study and other facts pertaining to the institution should be included. It reads as follows:

"Thorndale Seminary For Young Ladies Under the Care of the Misses Birnie At Their Residence, Near Taneytown, Carroll County, Maryland, Thirty-seven Miles from Baltimore.

"The Course of Instruction comprises the usual Branches of an English Education, with Needlework. The pupils have the advantage of daily association with the Faculty, and are under their constant care and supervision. Particular attention is given to religious instruction in the study of the Scriptures forming a part of the regular exercises of the School. Mathematics taught by Mr. Rogers Birnie.

"The year is divided into two Sessions of twenty-one weeks, one commencing on the second Thursday in May, the other on the second Thursday in November.

"Terms—

"Boarding and Tuition, per Session—$110.00.

"The above payable in advance.

"Music, and the use of Piano, per Session—$25.00.

"Drawing and Painting—$10.00.

"French—$10.00.

"Use of the Library—$—50.

"Pupils will be received at any time, but not for a shorter period than one Session. The number being limited, a notice of two months is required before the removal of a scholar.

"References—

"Rev. Dr. R. J. Breckenridge, Danville, Kentucky.

"Doctor R. J. Johns, Alexandria, Virginia.

"Rev. Dr. W. B. Dutton, Harpers Ferry, Virginia.

"Rev. Dr. Backus, Baltimore, Maryland.

"Mr. Joseph Cushing, Baltimore, Maryland.

"Dr. John Ridout, Annapolis, Maryland."

Included with the above brochure is an additional listing of some ten "scholars" as follows:

Note: There are members of the Landers family interred in Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard, located near Emmitsburg, Maryland. They, the Landers, intermarried with many of the old families within this district and their line extends into the present day.

June 1858—Susan Gibson, of Charlestown, Virginia—Left April 1860—Absent six months.

May 1861—Lillie Brettel, Williamsport, Md.—Left Oct. 1863.

May 1861—Mary Mingerd, of Greencastle, Pa.—Left Oct. 1863.

November 1858—Elmira Murray, Suffolk, Virginia—Left July 1860.

November 1858—Pauline Perry, Westminster, Md.—Left Apr. 1859.

November 1858—Lillie Stouffer, Washington County, Maryland —Left October 1859.

November 1858—Sophia Helm, Leesburg, Va.—Left April 1859.

This concludes, for the present, the notes on Thorndale Seminary, the school of the "Misses Birnie", and the young ladies who attended there.

Members of the Birnie family attended church at Piney Creek and the majority of the clan are interred in the burial ground. At a later date, in working through the graveyard, row by row, genealogical details pertaining to the Birnies will be given. They came to America from Northern Ireland and took up large tracts of land in what is now Carroll County, Maryland. There is a family tradition that because of the long trip every Sunday to Piney Creek Presbyterian church—the Birnies were influential in the founding of the Presbyterian church in Taneytown.

The next family encountered in the Piney Creek Presbyterian churchyard is the Galts. There are a number of Galt plots and to solve this genealogical tangle requires no little effort. Thanks to a descendant of the "Maryland Galts," a great deal of material has been made available and their "saga" is a most interesting one.

Before beginning the account of the Galts it might be well to point out that the late Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the second wife of President Woodrow Wilson, was first married to Norman Galt, of Washington, D. C., a descendant, in the fifth generation, of that Matthew Galt who "founded" the family in Maryland.

There are a number of people still living in Emmitsburg, Maryland, who remember the visit of Mrs. Galt and the President, during the period of their engagement, to the home of Sterling Galt, brother of the first husband of the President's bride-to-be. Mr. Sterling Galt was a resident of Emmitsburg during the greater part of his life and worked hard for the progress of the town and its residents.

The genealogical and historical data pertaining to the "Maryland Galts" and their Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, forebears will be continued in this series next week.

Destroy Tumors By Neutron Beam

A potential tool for use in the fight against cancer is being developed by a team of University of Wisconsin researchers. They are developing a machine to deliver high-energy neutron beams for cancer treatment. It may well make possible cure of many cancers previously untreatable by standard X-ray or gamma radiation. Many cancers contain clumps of cells that live without oxygen. These cells, resistant to X- and gamma rays, may survive such radiation treatment and cause regrowth of the tumor. However, they are not as resistant to neutrons, and a beam of the highly energized particles can destroy the entire tumor.

A unique method of "resurrecting" the voices of recording artists from the muted, hollow-sounding, antique phonograph records is being devised by a computer scientist at the University of Utah. The technique has already been dramatically demonstrated on the voice of Enrico Caruso, the great Italian operatic tenor who died in 1921. Sound waves from records are fed into a computer, converted into numbers and then re-recorded on numerical tapes. "By using a complex, delicate and precise program in the computer, we can manipulate these numbers with the hope of reversing the original recording process and coming back out with sounds that have objectionable resonances removed," he said.

A new safety rule that prohibits persons from using kites, balloons or model rockets in such a manner as to interfere with aircraft operations has been adopted by the Federal Aviation Administration. The FAA notes that kites and moored balloons flown near several airports in recent months have disrupted the flow of air traffic. It said such operations could pose a threat to air safety because of the possibility of engine ingestion with a resulting loss of power.

T-bolt closures are reported providing quick, easy access to manways, hand-holes, inspection and sampling ports and other openings in process vessels and equipment in desalination plants. The "Tube-Turn" fittings offer a number of advantages over blind-flanged covers, including lower initial and installed costs, leak-tight sealing in both pressure and vacuum service, reduced operating time, integral hinging, self-alignment of head and reusability of the gasket.

Skinny women should be encouraged to gain weight before becoming pregnant, to improve their chances of having a healthy baby, says an obstetrician and gynecologist at Georgetown University. He said that study showed that the likelihood of having a dangerously small baby or one that would die just before or shortly after birth was least if the mother was "of average weight before she became pregnant."

Mahoney Discusses Credit Cards; Blasts Tydings

Saying that the current practice of mailing credit cards to anybody and everybody is one of the prime reasons for inflation, George P. Mahoney, candidate for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate, said today that "It is unfortunate that too many people are unable to restrain their urge to buy, buy, buy! and they're in financial trouble."

Mr. Mahoney's statement follows:

This year 150 million credit cards will be mailed to consumers in the United States—more than one for every adult in the country!

Is there any wonder that 71 cents out of every take-home dollar has to go to pay credit card debts and the interest on these debts? Think of it—that leaves only 29 cents from each dollar to take care of current expenses! And yet that is the average that can be used for food, clothing and other necessities of life. No wonder we have a real bad case of inflation!

What can be done about this? I say that there should be laws which make it difficult—if not impossible—for the sponsors of credit card plans to force them on gullible consumers. I say that we must do something to make it less profitable for sponsors of credit cards to send cards through the mail without any investigation, without any concern about the economic future of the person who receives them. After all, it is possible for the sponsors to make 72 per cent per year on their investment—the payments they make on behalf of their card holders. This is enough to lure anybody into the habit of mailing cards out by the thousands.

These credit cards are not the full reason for inflation, of course, but I am sure they agree with me when I say that they can and have caused many innocent consumers to get into trouble, and have helped to get our economy in trouble, too. It is unfortunate that too many people are unable to restrain their urge to buy, buy, buy! and they're in financial trouble.

As a businessman I know that credit is necessary, but it must be used wisely. As your senator in Washington, I will work with people to show them how to use their credit wisely and save money at the same time.

Mahoney Says

'Tydings Is Running Scared'

"Senator Joseph D. Tydings shows that he is plainly running scared," George P. Mahoney, his opponent in the Democratic Primary for the nomination to the U. S. Senate said this week as he charged the incumbent with a "new low in Maryland politics" and predicted that the voters "will depudiate him at the polls."

Mr. Mahoney's statement follows: "The distortion of facts in Senator Tydings' speech today represents a new low in Maryland politics. Between his charges about the big lie and his loose connections between gun lobbies and muggings, Senator Joseph D. Tydings shows that he is plainly running scared.

"It is unfortunate that the Senator has to create monsters and boogey-men to get public sympathy. His lame lament that nameless groups are pouring outside money into Maryland to defeat him would be laughable except that he is still the duly-elected senator from Maryland and is presumed to be a dignified, honorable man.

"But how can a dignified, honorable man bewail the constitutional right of Americans to publicly declare who they are for and who they are against in politics? They have a perfect right to express their likes and dislikes, and they can even urge their friends to vote for or against these men. It's done every day and in every political campaign.

"There are so many reasons why the voters don't want Joe Tydings that it's obvious what he's doing—picking the gun issue and trying to make the voters forget his other failings.

"It won't work. The voters are too smart to fall for the line which has been the favorite of demagogues since the 1930's. They see through the smoke screen he has raised to belous his ultra-ultra-liberal leanings. They will repudiate him at the polls on September 15th."

Fish Farming Becoming Popular

Marine biologists at the University of Rhode Island are raising fish in captivity in much the same way as farmers raise chickens. The aquatic version of the chicken coop is a group of plastic-lined pools containing sea water. The fish are spawned in fresh water and later transferred to the outdoor salt water tanks. Similar experiments are going on in other parts of the country and of the world.

Researchers have succeeded in raising Atlantic salmon from an average weight of 1.5 ounces to a size of nearly 12 ounces in six months. According to the project director, Dr. Saul Salla, this was achieved under rather poor growing conditions. "We are convinced that with better environmental controls, it will be possible to effect even more growth than observed to date," he said.

So-called luxury fish such as rainbow trout, salmon, bluefish, and striped bass are receiving the most attention. There already is an extensive market for these high-quality fish, and Dr. Salla believes that the fish can be produced more cheaply through aquaculture than through commercial fishing.

Fish farming, however, is not just around the corner, and a number of problems remain. For instance, maintaining the sea water at the proper temperature and developing a diet for the fish which will be both economical and healthful are still unresolved.

Although Dr. Salla concedes that fish farms may never be as common as chicken farms, he believes that aquaculture will become "a relatively important business venture."

Enzyme Research

Recent advertising campaigns shout that enzymes are powerful little critters that eat up dirt or unlock stains, depending on the product purchased.

Scientifically, they are a bit more complicated—and more useful. They control vital life processes by acting as catalysts for chemical reactions.

Scientists have long been interested in enzymes, but only in recent years has there been a growth spurt in large-scale enzyme production for research purposes.

Robert D. Cole, a specialist in cell production at the University of Georgia, explains that these protein substances—enzymes—are the principal products sought in research-oriented fermentation. Fermentation is a decomposition process that gives energy for the growth of bacteria, he said. The enzymes are produced by the bacteria during fermentation.

At Georgia, Robert Cole has helped establish the nucleus of what may become "one of the finest enzyme production centers in the nation." It is the first campus-based fermentation plant in the Southeast, and will provide scientists with important biological raw materials for research.

George Washington's Advice Is Worthy of Review

As always, I looked forward to the celebration of Independence Day, July 4th, 1970. The Fourth is an old-fashioned day when families get together, when communities meet, when all Americans look back on the glorious history that has brought the United States to its position of world leadership. It is also a time to think about maintaining the independence which was bequeathed to us by our forefathers.

In thinking about the Fourth of July, I reviewed George Washington's farewell address, one of the documents which seems closely related to the revolutionary period although it followed the revolution by a number of years. In this address, made as he was leaving the Presidency and all public life, Washington gave a number of pieces of sound advice to the American people. One of them dealt with keeping ourselves, as he put it, "by suitable establishments on a respectable defensive posture." Just what should we be doing to keep ourselves on a respectable defensive posture in the years ahead? For there is no doubt that we will have to have a strong America if we are to maintain our position in the world.

Events in recent years have made it impossible to follow Washington's advice that we have little or nothing to do with the rest of the world. Our strength, wealth, and commercial activity place us face to face with every nation of the world. It is therefore more necessary than ever that we should follow very carefully Washington's advice that we keep ourselves in a "respectable defensive posture."

Our defense establishment must be kept ready and strong. However, ready and strong doesn't mean that we have to over build the Defense Department. We are now far ahead of any other nation in the world in military capacity. Not only do we have a greater variety of weapons but we have them in greater depth than any other nation. I do not believe that any other country in the world can compete with us militarily. This is a position that America should occupy, but that does not mean we should not consider the other elements of strength for security in the future. We should not over build the defense establishment and we should not over spend for defense hardware, for when we do we are giving a greater priority to the purely military side of defense than may be necessary.

We must remember that America's first line of defense in the years ahead will be the minds of bright young Americans who will be taking over the defense problems of the future. A front line of defense today is in our classrooms. We must insure that young Americans are able to get the best possible education because that is where our future security lies.

The health of our citizens is important and we should be insuring that the great health services which American medicine has developed can be extended to all Americans. In education, health, housing, and other social services, we must be strong if the nation is to be strong. As we are able to meet the housing, education and dietary needs of all Americans, we will be able to strengthen internally the fibers of the country.

I am sure George Washington would be pleased that the country he helped found now leads the world in practically every area of human activity, but I think all of us would do well to read again George Washington's farewell address and take to heart his counsel on maintaining the unity and the liberty of the people of the United States.

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

As was promised when the Cambodian operation was initiated, all American troops have been withdrawn as of June 30, 1970. Since the last of our 32,000 men came out of Cambodia to make the deadline, it might be helpful now to evaluate this operation in its entirety.

The essential question to be asked is: did we succeed in accomplishing our tactical objective, namely to eliminate long-standing Communist sanctuaries and supply bases just across the border from which the enemy has mounted countless attacks against American and Allied forces in South Vietnam, and by so doing, to protect American and South Vietnamese troops so that the program of Vietnamization could proceed more expeditiously.

Based on the latest figures available, the answer is yes. Information released last week by the Department of Defense indicates that the Cambodian operation has succeeded very well with regard to the tactical objective.

When we entered Cambodia we expected to find communications networks and supply bases, bunkers and other fortifications, food supplies, arms, ammunition, military vehicles, and so on. In short, we expected to discover and deprive the enemy of a vital part of his logistic lifeline—and we did. Furthermore, we did it at the beginning of the rainy season which means that it will be many months before the Communists can even begin to rebuild and resupply these now nearly impassable jungle areas.

The list of destroyed fortifications and captured supplies and equipment is long indeed. Over 11,600 bunkers and military structures were eliminated and 55 tons of medical supplies were captured. A total of 435 vehicles, 167 boats, 49 generators and 248 radios were removed from enemy bases.

Over 15 million rounds of ammunition of all types were seized—about what the enemy has fired into South Vietnam during the past year. Almost 23,000 individual weapons were found and removed—enough to equip about 74 full-strength North Vietnamese infantry battalions. In addition, over 2,500 crew served weapons such as mortars and machine guns were taken — enough to supply about 25 full-strength battalions. Rice, the enemy's main food staple, was taken in the amount of 14 million pounds, a quantity which could sustain for about 4 months all the enemy combat battalions estimated to be in South Vietnam.

The number of rockets, mortars, and recoilless rifle rounds captured—a total of 143,000 — is enough to stage attacks on bases in South Vietnam for 14 months at the enemy's usual rate of fire. Other munitions seized included 1,002 satchel charges.

This impressive list of statistics has a profound significance for our prospects in Southeast Asia. To begin with, they indicate that we have eliminated an immediate threat to our forces and to the security of South Vietnam so that future American and Vietnamese casualties should be reduced considerably.

From over 6 tons of captured documents we have obtained conclusive proof that the Communists had relied on the area of Cambodia we entered as a secure logistic and troop infiltration corridor, immune from attack. By breaking up these Communist strongholds, we have undoubtedly disrupted Hanoi's strategy in the Seigon and Mekong Delta areas of South Vietnam. As a result, the enemy's potential capability to mount a major offensive in these vital areas has been greatly diminished.

The Cambodian operation has given us valuable time—time in which to consolidate and continue, with less enemy harassment, the efforts of Vietnamization which will, of course, lead to the withdrawal of all American combat troops from Southeast Asia.

I think it should be obvious by now that the President of the United States along with those of us who serve in the Congress, is quite anxious that our military involvement in Southeast Asia is brought to an end. The decision to send American forces into Cambodia took a lot of courage and hopefully, the result of this operation will mean a quicker realization of our objective of securing a peaceful settlement in this struggle.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS

Copyright 1970

A Look At The Cigaret Stocks

By Babson's Reports, Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., July 9, 1970—The steady growth that characterized domestic consumption of cigarettes during the 1950s and early 1960s was transformed into a two-year decline in 1968 as the anti-cigarette crusade gained momentum. Substantial increases in state and local taxes on cigarettes also contributed to the reduction in domestic consumption.

Helping to offset this cutback in domestic demand is the international market, which is growing at a rate of 4% a year. This market—about three times as big as that in the U. S.—is expected to receive increasing promotional emphasis and attention in the years ahead. For although diversification into non-tobacco products is proceeding at a rapid pace, the manufacturers are not overlooking the importance of tobacco to their operations (with most major producers, tobacco products still account for the biggest chunk of earnings). They are making every effort to maintain and possibly increase their tobacco business. To this end, the search for a "safe" cigarette continues to draw substantial research and development spending.

Off The Airwaves
A recently enacted law prohibits advertising of cigarettes on radio and television after January 1, 1971. It is likely that the absence of TV and radio ads will make it more difficult to introduce new brands, and the shifting of consumer preference from one brand to another may become less frequent. This could lead to some substantial cost savings for the industry. Spending on radio and television by the cigarette makers is estimated to exceed $200 million. Although a part of this spending may be shifted to print media such as newspapers and magazines, it seems likely that a large portion of the money will be used to help finance further diversification moves and some of it will undoubtedly filter directly into company earnings.

Recent Price Hikes

The latest round of cigarette price boosts, to as high as 45¢ a thousand cigarettes, is the first general increase since May 1969 when the manufacturers raised their prices 35¢ a thousand. It has been estimated that the latest round of increases will add about 35¢ to 40¢ a share this year to earnings of the major cigarette companies.

Profit margins should also get a lift from the first-half reduction of the surtax to 5% and the second-half elimination of this tax. In 1971, full-year absence of the surtax plus the twelve-month benefit from recent cigarette price boosts and the filtering down of savings from the TV and radio ban should lead to still higher earnings for the leading cigarette companies.

Good Income And Values

Currently, most cigarette stocks provide generous yields. Dividend increases have been frequent in the past; this year higher earnings are likely to lead to still further dividend boosts on the part of many of the outstanding manufacturers.

Ratio of prices to earnings for cigarette stocks ranged up to more than 20 times in the early 1960s. Although the smoking-health controversy will probably prevent these issues from rising to earlier peak multiples, it does seem that the approximate price-earnings ratio of 10 times now prevailing does not adequately reflect the favorable earnings outlook for the industry. Nor does it reflect the generally higher price-earnings multiples formerly applied to the non-tobacco companies acquired by the cigarette makers.

Our feeling is that although there is risk of increasing pressures from continuing anti-smoking health campaigns, cigarette stocks at present prices may be retained by investors seeking dependable income and appreciation potential. For purchase at this time, the Research Staff of Babson's Reports recommends the common stock of R. J. Reynolds Industries.

Golf Tournament To Benefit Heart Association

The fourth annual Heart Golf Tournament to benefit the Frederick County Heart Association will be held at the Frederick VFW Golf Course on Sunday, July 12. Competition for both men and women will be on a net score basis with trophies awarded the top club swingers. The date was announced last week by the planning committee, made up of Mrs. Lawrence Theis, Women's Golf Committee Chairman, Earl J. Rhoderick, Men's Golf Committee Chairman, Tom Hogan, Professional Golf Chairman, and Ronald E. Summers, Special Events Chairman for Heart.

Contestants may play several times during the day for a donation of $1.00 per round, and use their best scores in competition for trophies and prizes. Among the prizes for the tournament are golf balls and golf gloves donated by Western Auto Stores and B. F. Goodrich, golf club covers and golf balls donated by Arlan's, transistor radio from Shipley's, golf balls from Woolco and Firestone, and two Fried Chicken Dinners donated by Watson's Family Restaurant.

Golfers wishing to participate may obtain details from the pro and chairmen at the VFW Club.

All funds realized will be used to support the research, community service and public education programs of the Frederick County Heart Association.

Homemakers Quizzed About Water Pollution

Although most homemakers are highly concerned about water pollution, most of them don't realize that phosphate from their own laundry detergent is contributing to it.

According to consumer research findings disclosed by Sears, Roebuck and Co., only six percent of those interviewed named phosphate as a major contributor to water pollution. When asked what specific detergent ingredient contributes to water pollution, many gave incorrect answers, and 71 percent said they simply "don't know." Federal officials and scientists have blamed phosphate in detergents for excess plant growth which depletes oxygen in lakes and rivers.

The consumer survey was conducted in connection with the company's pending market introduction of a phosphate-free laundry detergent. The detergent is expected to be available nationally in the company's retail stores and catalog facilities by late summer.

Of homemakers surveyed, 74 percent expressed serious concern about the pollution problem. And most of these women cited water pollution in particular.

But while the homemaker may not understand that phosphate in municipal sewage is a major contributor to water pollution, she does know that her detergent has something to do with it. The survey showed that 58 percent of those contacted shared a "serious" or "somewhat serious" concern about the effect of laundry detergent on water pollution. Survey findings also showed that:

• Homemakers concerned about pollution varies geographically. In the Cleveland and Pittsburgh areas, for example, 86 percent of those interviewed said pollution is a "serious" problem, while in Miami, only 57 percent agreed.

• Young women are more concerned about pollution than older homemakers. Eighty percent of women under 30 years of age said pollution is a "serious" problem, while 71 percent of women 50 years of age or older shared this view.

• Homemakers believe that business firms are most responsible for water pollution, that the individual consumer is least responsible for the problem, and that government should bear the most responsibility for correcting it.

A Spectacle Of Treason

David Dellinger, who has identified himself as a "non-Soviet" Communist, now out of prison on bail awaiting sentence for fomenting riots in Chicago at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, was never so happy or sure of himself and his "cause" as he was on May 9 as he stood before 100,000 "peaceniks" in Washington's historic Ellipse, with the classic colonnaded White House a stone's-throw behind him, and gave the principal address of the "demonstration." It was his third leading roll in three massive Washington propaganda affairs; but this one, he said, was different.

"We've got Richard Nixon on the run," he cried. Our reporting team had never seen Dellinger so carried away with the success of a moment. "This is the beginning of something new," he thundered. "A whole new ball game! We now have widespread support. We mustn't do a thing here today to disturb the situation growing throughout the country." He explained that he meant the climate (for revolutionary overthrow of fascist power in the United States, his "cause") was not only never better but was improving mightily by the hour. Destroyers Honored
This was Dellinger's big show.

And he made the most of it. Previously he had been a rather mild speaker. Now he was a ranting, fist-shaking firebrand. Jerry Rubin, his convicted comrade who advocates, in the process of violent overthrow, the killing of all non-revolutionary parents, stood beside Dellinger; and to accentuate his incitations, the bearded Rubin many times thrust his clenched fist aloft in the Communist salute. Renie Davis, another revolutionary convicted at Chicago, stood in the phalanx surrounding Dellinger on the platform, amidst Black Panthers and an assortment of other violent revolutionaries.

Next to the mike, and directing the entire "demonstration," stood Sidney Lens, identified by Congressional committees (but not by the press) as leader of the officially cited "Subversive and Communist" Revolutionary Workers League (House "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications" — Document No. 398). The press accounts we read did not mention Lens, although his name was prominent on press releases from the Communist-dominated New MOBE committee which called, mobilized, directed and financed the "demonstrations."

Obscenity Goes National
Black Panthers served as bodyguards for the "celebrities" standing and sitting on the platform. David Hilliard, Black Panther Chief of Staff, who identifies his group as "Marxist Leninist" revolutionaries dedicated to the overthrow of the American system, and who has vowed to "kill Richard Nixon," was scheduled to speak but sent Robert Scheer, free lance revolutionary and former editor of Ramparts Magazine, to speak for the Panthers.

To dramatically demonstrate the attitude of the Panthers, Scheer raised his clenched fist in the Communist salute and screamed into the mike the first of the afternoon's intermittent obscenities: "... Richard Nixon!" The crowd took up the chant, and the President, listening a few hundred yards away, heard the awful, vulgar condemnation. The chant went on for nearly a full minute. Hollywood star Jane Fonda, who also salutes with the Communist clenched fist; Judy Collins, the Left's favorite "folk singer;" Actress Shirley McLaine, presently notable for her night clubbing with a CBS commentator; distinguished Congressmen sitting on the platform and the 40- to 50,000 young women "peaceniks" in the vast gathering smiled and looked up into the blue sky as the horrible vulgarity rang out over the White House lawn and downtown Washington.

Their True Nature Exposed
This was the "free speech" Communists of the University of California (1960) finally winning their victory. Here in the nation's capital in 1970, they were polluting the air and getting on nationwide television with the obscene four letter word they have made their cry of defiance to traditional decency. Other speakers following Scheer became even more vile with their obscenities.

Mrs. Beulah Saunders, a big heavy woman with a powerful voice, vice president of the National Welfare Rights Organization, harangued the crowd to defy the law. She called for all draft registrants present to send their draft cards up to the platform so they could be burned. About 300 were collected in cardboard box. Allen Ginsberg, the movement's bearded poet laureate, author of some of America's most obscene verse, blasted out a guttural noise over the loud speakers as he was introduced as a celebrity. This one single vulgar sound was his entire speech. Senators Jacob K. Javits of New York, and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts circulated through the crowd, getting handshakes and ripples of applause.

Farm Safety Week Begins July 19

Noting that Farm Safety Week begins July 19, the Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, Raymond F. Jaeger, urged farmers to use the week to check on safeguards and safety practices needed on their farms.

"I especially want to remind them to think in terms of safety for the public as well as for themselves, their families, and their employees. The open spaces on farms become more attractive all the time to people in crowded areas. Farms have more visitors all the time, many of whom simply don't recognize the hazards of a farm-raised person automatically sees and takes precautions against.

"We are just beginning to learn how to use this resource — the open spaces on America's farms — for the benefit of rural and city people alike in developing recreation areas, hunting preserves, picnic spots, hiking trails, fish ponds, and the like. And right now is the time to apply the safety standards needed for this broader use of our farmlands," Mr. Jaeger said.

He pointed out that President Nixon has designated the week of July 19 as National Farm Safety Week, calling on "all farm families, and every person and group allied with agriculture, to make every effort permanently to reduce the number of accidents which occur at work, in homes, at recreation, and on the roadways."

The ASC Committee Chairman suggested that farmers observe the week by making up a checklist for their own farm. "Check farm equipment—and check out farm equipment operators, too. Look over farm buildings for hazards, including the chance of fire. Be sure fertilizers and farm chemicals are stored safely and handled safely.

"Is there life-saving gear at the farm pond? Have you posted warnings about hazards such as drainage ditches—or at fields and ranges which may have dangerous drainage ditches—or at fields Have you checked the purity of your farm water supply lately?" he asked.

The ASC Committee Chairman concluded his comments on Farm Safety Week by quoting from the President's Proclamation, which said: "The efficiency American agriculture and the quality of life for agricultural workers is threatened today by the continued high rate of farm accidents. Many thousands of farm residents lose their lives or are seriously injured in accidents every year. Both the human and financial costs of these accidents are intolerable."

EMMITSBURG, MD.

Found for pound, there are few fish the equal of a smallmouth bass. By many sportsmen, he's been called the poor fisherman's trout, but most look upon smallmouth as all fun and the cause of a lot of fishing trips. About the only similarities between largemouth bass and smallmouth bass is their last names and that they look a bit alike. From then on, everything is different.

The smallmouth bass is a fish of the northern portion of the eastern United States and southern Canada, from Ontario to New Brunswick. Unlike its southern cousin, the smallmouth likes colder and deeper water.

Taking a smallmouth means putting the bait or lure where the fish is most likely to be. You can do it trolling or casting, depending on what suits you best. Starting from the beach, a spinning or baitcasting outfit, like the new Garcia-Mitchell 510 reel on a 6 1/2-foot (2581) light action, fast taper rod makes an ideal couple. It can easily handle 4 to 8-lb. monofilament and take a bottom-hugging lure like the Pelet or Finlandia down to the fish.

If trolling from a boat is your preferred way of fishing, then you can troll the same outfit or better, match a Garcia Ambassador 1750 to a 6-foot, two-piece medium action (2521) baitcasting rod. It will handle lines up to 15-lb. test and lures up to 3/4-oz. in weight.

If you've got the spinning rod in the boat, cut the outboard. With the wind in the right direction, make a drift parallel to the beach, casting onto the shore and working the lure deep toward the bottom. Let the lure follow the contour of the bottom as it deepens. Use a good fish finder-fathometer combination. It will keep you directly over the 10 to 20-foot smallmouths prefer.

I try all kinds of water for smallmouth bass and would be hard-put to say which method and conditions I like best. I might lean, however, to river fishing for bass where I can wade among the fish and work the rapids and currents in search of bronzebacks.

One of my favorite rivers in the East, and probably the best smallmouth bass stream in the country, is the Delaware River. With a fly rod, like the Garcia 8 1/2-foot, two-piece 2405 and a Garcia-Mitchell 110 automatic fly reel, loaded with plenty of backing and a B or D line, I can handle the fast sections of the river or reach with a bug or popper into the eddy on the other side of swift water.

Large bass flies are something seldom seen or used in bass fishing today. But just a half-century ago, it was the only way considered sporting to take smallmouths. The 2405 fly rod will take the bigger flies or streamers and put them where the bass are. Needless to say, you can also take bass on live bait. But if you do, you can't consider them poor man's trout.

Dr. Robert D. McCullough of Tulsa, Oklahoma, was elected President of Lions International at the Association's 53rd Annual Convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey, July 1-4. Serving as the 54th President of the world's largest humanitarian service organization, McCullough leads some 932,000 members in 24,400 clubs located in 146 countries and geographic areas throughout the world.

Lions International is best known for its aid to the blind and sight conservation activities, international relations programs, and its many community service projects. "Involvement Now" will be the primary theme during Dr. McCullough's 1970-1971 Presidential Year. The importance of taking an active interest in the welfare of the community and the necessity for increased international understanding will both be emphasized.

County Receives Police Money

Frederick County law enforcement agencies have received grants totaling $48,455 from the Federal Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

The formal announcement was made by Governor Marvin Mandel Tuesday afternoon. Mandel said Baltimore City and the 23 counties have received grants of more than $3.3 million for the coming year.

Speaking of the crime rate in Maryland, Mandel said about half the crime takes place in Baltimore and that more than one-third of the safe streets money is going to the city. He said Prince Georges County, another high crime area, will get about 10 percent of the money.

Frederick County ranked sixth out of 23 counties in the state in receiving federal safe streets funds. A breakdown for Frederick County shows: $11,500 granted to the county commissioners for consolidation of law enforcement agencies, $11,077 for the Frederick City Police for police training equipment, $25,821 to the State's Attorney's office for general improvements and $7 to Thurmont

Cozy Restaurant Continues Its Expansion Schedule

In recent weeks there has been much activity at Cozy Restaurant, located on Rt. 816, just south of Thurmont. This activity has been in the form of construction work as the management is presently undergoing its 10th addition since 1929 when Cozy was first established by its founder, the late Wilbur R. Freeze.

Ground-breaking ceremonies were held recently for this newest addition since 1968, which promises to bring to Frederick County many new ideas in the restaurant business and will add much to the "Cozy Complex" when completed. Designer of the project is Tom King of the Charles F. Bowers architect firm, Frederick. Construction work is being done by Frank C. Long, Jr., Construction Co., Thurmont.

The management is indeed fortunate in having obtained the services of Vicki Wenger, a prominent and well-known interior decorator in the Baltimore and Washington area. The many new and unique ideas being incorporated in the plans will be most attractive and blend well with the present scheme of things.

As one enters the main entrance he will walk down a "street of by-gone days" before entering the dining area proper. Included in the present addition will be a cocktail lounge, coffee shop lounge, a Surf and Turf Room, the Cozy Hearth, and a new improved Country Kitchen.

These improvements, like those of the past, are being made by management with but one thought in mind, to make dining out more enjoyable in a homey and relaxed atmosphere for which Cozy Restaurant has become famous over the years.

in the growth of her establishment, which has become one of the finest of its kind in the State of Maryland, serving only the best in home-cooked food.

Mrs. Freeze, assisted by her son, Gerald, is constantly striving to improve upon their food and service. This 10th addition is but another step in following the traditions instituted by her late husband in 1929.

Yes, there is much activity at Cozy Restaurant and when the present work is completed there will be more activity. The new facilities will enable Cozy Restaurant to serve a group of 300 persons or several individual parties consisting of 30, 35, 75 or even 125 persons, all at the same time.

Cozy Restaurant is indeed making a name for itself in the restaurant business and is widely known throughout the eastern part of the United States. Just recently the management received top recognition from the Mobil Travel Guide for its outstanding role in making dining in America more rewarding and economical.

For those patrons who are regular in attendance there are many pleasant surprises coming with the completion of this new addition. To those who will be stopping for the first time, it is hoped that the good home-cooked food, the friendly service, surrounded by a homey, relaxed atmosphere, will be the invitation to return again and again.

The ZIP Column

A recent Supreme Court case, Rowan v. Post Office Department, decided on May 4, 1970, has caused some misunderstanding.

This decision does not affect the procedures that have been followed in the administration of the statute involved in this case, 39 U. S. C. 4009, commonly known as the Pandering Advertisements Statute. To obtain a 'Prohibitory Order' under this law, it is still necessary for an addressee who has received an advertisement in the mail to determine that the matter advertised is 'erotically arousing or sexually provocative.' Upon such determination, the addressee may request the issuance of a Prohibitory Order against the mailer. The question whether the mailing piece constitutes an 'advertisement' is determined by the Post Office Department. If both of these determinations are affirmative, then a Prohibitory Order will be issued.

The decision in the Rowan case does not mean that postal customers may stop delivery of any undesirable mail merely by notifying their postmaster or the Post Office Department, that they don't want to receive it.

There is no law which allows mail customers blanket authority to stop delivery of a total class of mail. However, a patron may refuse mail at the time it is offered for delivery, except that registered, certified, insured and COD mail may not be returned after delivery has been effected.

George E. Rosensteel, PM.

Hutton Files

dence on Elm Street, first ran for public office in 1966 when he was elected County Commissioner.

Hutton was, for several years, a supervisory attorney with the Federal Communications Commission. He then moved to and began his private law practice in Frederick, immediately following a year of studying Congress under a fellowship sponsored by the American Political Science Association and the Civil Service Commission. During his fellowship, he worked for Carl Albert, Majority Leader of the House of Representatives and its probable next Speaker.

He is a member of the Frederick County, Maryland State, and American Bar Associations and American Trial Lawyers Association.

He was graduated from Indiana University with a B.A. degree in Journalism and Literature, served as an Army Infantry Officer in Korea during the War, and returned to Maryland in 1952 to continue his education. He obtained a Juris Doctorate degree with distinction in 1956 from George Washington University. He has been active in Democratic party politics since his return from Korea, including Frederick County and State Young Democrats.

Prior to his election as a County Commissioner, he was active in the Frederick County Community Action Committee, VFW, Human Relations Council, Toastmaster Club, and Sertoma Club.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Red Cross; Kids, Inc.; Counseling Services, Inc.; and the Frederick County Chapter for Epilepsy.

He is a Lieutenant Colonel in the Army Reserve Judge Advocate General Corps, and he and his wife, Portia, are both licensed private pilots. He is also a member of Civil Air Patrol and serves as Legal Officer for the Frederick CAP Squadron.

Hutton is married to the former Portia Lyon, daughter of an Indiana farm family, and the couple has two sons, Brock, 15, and Shane, 14.

Seeking Seat In Congress

Mr. Elton R. Wampler, a resident of Frederick County, has declared his candidacy for the election to the Maryland Sixth Congressional District seat.

Mr. Wampler is presently the Chairman of the Frederick County Republican Research Committee. He has been actively engaged in the Republican Party since he first worked for the second election of Dwight Eisenhower while a student at college in California in 1956. To accomplish this he had to organize a Young Republican's Club on campus over the opposition of other existing political clubs.

Mr. Wampler is a combat decorated veteran who received a field commission in the U. S. Marine Corps. He left military service to obtain a college education at UCLA and the University of Miami Law School. He has also studied at the Naval Post Graduate School, the Department of Agriculture Graduate School and Penn State University. Mr. Wampler has eleven years experience as a local and federal government executive and administrator. He was a member of the Federal Housing Council for the 1970 Census.

He also was a member of the Federal Regional Data Processing Task Force to investigate personnel displacement and other problems arising from automation. In addition to his broad experience, Mr. Wampler has been active in various organizations dedicated to the improvement of government representation. He has pledged himself to work with and continue the fine representation of the Sixth District as heretofore carried out by Senator Mac Mathias and Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr.

Enjoy Recreation At Local School

Painting, crafts, softball and dodgeball games are some of the things that the children of Emmitsburg are participating in daily at the Emmitsburg Middle School. Over thirty children a day are enjoying "fun in the sun", engaging in their favorite games. Thanks to Mr. Van Tries, principal at the local school, and the Frederick County Parks and Recreation Department, the children of this area have a place to congregate during their summer vacation.

A Pet Show was held July 8 with dogs, cats, fish, rabbits, and a gerbil being some of the entries. Other events being planned are a scavenger hunt, bicycle decorating contest, treasure hunts, and apple bobbing. A picnic will be held at the new county park at Pine Cliff on August 6.

The supervised program is directed by Dave Schrodell, Driver Education teacher and football coach at Gov. Thomas Johnson High School, and Shelia Chatlos, a junior at Catocin High School. The program will run until Aug. 6 for all children from grades 1 to 8. Hours are from 9 to 2 p.m., Monday through Friday.
