Could be that some day soon you will see two nattily dressed school crossing young ladies on guard at our local schools. Present plans call for the Town to interview a number of young ladies for this type of work and if all goes satisfactorily, this fall will see the school crossings manned by females. Oh yes, it probably follows that just to round out a few hours work to make the job worthwhile, at least one of these girls could possibly fill in watching parking meters several hours a day. If any of you young ladies out there are interested in this type of work, better drop into the Town Office in the next couple of days and fill out an application.

It has been a long time since I have seen so much rain here as was deluged upon us last Thursday. As a matter of fact, I'd venture the opinion that perhaps it was the heaviest in 30 odd years. For some time Emmitsburg was inundated at three exits and/or approaches. Cars were stranded for several hours while waiting for the water to subside enough to allow safe passage over the roads. Flat Run at N. Seton Ave. was closed as was Flat Run in East End. Tom's Creek and surface water south to Toll Gate Hill was also impassable. Different figures turned in estimate the downpour at between five and eight inches for the day and brother that's a lot of rain for this area. A real thriller developed when a man and woman attempted to pass the swollen stream at Flat Run North. The car was swept into the swiftly moving stream and the turbulent waters carried it almost a quarter of a mile down stream to near the Flat Run bridge on East Main Street. Firemen were called and finally managed to extricate the almost drowned couple from the rampaging water. Their car was unable to be removed until the next day. Indeed, the Lord must have been with this couple because their escape was practically miraculous. Many property-owners in the area reported water in their basements, some several feet deep. At least two scores of houses had flooded basements and firemen worked the night around pumping cellars and trying to save property from flood damage. This area sure is getting its share of rain this summer and it appears that we're trying to make up the deficit for the past decade. This cannot be done, of course, all in a few months. Wednesday night of this week we were again visited by violent electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain. Oh well, at least we don't have to hear about the water ban this summer . . . not yet.

All members of the Emmitsburg Municipal Band are urged to be present at a very special practice on Wednesday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m. in preparation for the concert at the Lutheran Church Lawn Festival on Saturday, July 25. The next parade will be on Thursday, July 30, at Thurmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Boyle and family have returned to their home after spending a two-week vacation visiting Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bentley in Canada.

THURMONT MAN FILES FOR COUNTY OFFICE

Donald L. Lewis, well-known and respected Frederick County businessman, has filed his candidacy for County Commissioner, subject to the Republican primary election.

As former Mayor of Thurmont, Lewis served on the Council of the Maryland Municipal League where problems of cities and towns were constantly studied and appropriate legislation proposed and adopted for consideration at Annapolis. As a result of this valuable experience it is his desire to have the opportunity to serve the people of Frederick County in all matters coming before him, and hopefully, to offer during his term of office something constructive towards a better form of government for all of Frederick County.

Mr. Lewis is a Director of the Thurmont Bank and is a member of Acacia Masonic Lodge No. 155, Thurmont Fire Company and the Edwin C. Creger, Jr. Post 168 of the American Legion. He has served as President of the Thurmont Lions Club and is a Past President of the Brotherhood of the Jungle Cuck which is a nationwide Fishing Fraternity, whereby each member pledges annually to take at least one boy fishing, instructing him, as best he knows, in the responsibilities that are soon to be wholly his. Mr. Lewis served in active military service with the 4th Infantry Division and was honorably discharged. He received his education at Thurmont High School. Mr. Lewis is married to the former Freda Broadwater of Grantsville, Md. They reside at 2 East Main Street in Thurmont.

17 Die On State Roads In Week

Seventeen persons were killed last week on Maryland highways according to the survey published by the State Police. Six of those killed were drivers, four were passengers, and seven were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths, speed in eleven, and "driver error" in eleven. "Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the fatalities on Maryland highways last week," according to Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the Maryland State Police. "In all six instances speed was also a factor. "There's no question about it: Alcohol and speed are a deadly mixture."

The club discussed several money-raising events and Norman Flax was named chairman of a raffle committee while Norman Shriver was asked to investigate the possibility of holding a roadside barbecue sometime this fall. Miss Norris Is Wed To Eugene Lingg

The marriage of Miss Monica M. Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lumen F. Norris, Emmitsburg, to Mr. Edward Eugene Lingg, son of Mr. Edward G. Lingg and the late Mrs. Roselia Lingg, of Emmitsburg, was performed on June 20 in Saint Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg, Maryland.

The Rev. Fr. John E. Hurley officiated at the double ring ceremony with Danny and Steve Sprinkle serving as altar boys and Dr. Thomas J. Norris, uncle of the bride, acting as lector.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of Irish linen with yoke overlay of Venise lace that formed a demure Mandarin neckline and short sleeves. Appliques of the same exquisite lace scattered the sweeping silhouette of the bride's gown; she completed the picture with a full length veil of imported illusion which was bordered in matching Venise lace. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a pearl cluster pendant, a gift of the bridegroom. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of red roses.

Miss Norris was attended by her two sisters: Miss Loretta Norris and Mrs. Rebecca Ryan. The attendants wore flowing culotte dresses of imported chiffon in a hand-screened floral print. The gowns, in shades of pink and coral, were fashioned by the bride herself.

The best man was Dennis Stahley, Emmitsburg, cousin of the groom. Lumen Norris, Jr., brother of the bride, and John J. Dillon, III, of Blue Ridge Summit, were the ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Norris wore a dress of pink polyester double-knit, featuring a pleated skirt and long-sleeve lace bodice.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Student Center at Saint Joseph College. Music for dancing was furnished by the Andy Ray Quartet.

For a wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride wore a red, white, and blue knit dress with red accessories.

The bride is an instructor in the Home Economics Dept. at Saint Joseph College and the groom is in his Senior year at Mount Saint Mary's College.

Shenandoah Set For Opening Night

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. — The first three-way mutual ticket machines in this area will be in use at the Shenandoah Downs summer meeting which opens July 20. General Manager Robert G. Leavitt has announced.

The American Totalisator Company is completing its first installation in the country at the night track here.

Three-way machines enable fans to purchase win, place, or show tickets on any variety of horses at all denomination windows, from $2 to $50. The familiar $6 combined window will be eliminated.

Raymond Kohlhepp, mutuels manager at Shenandoah Downs, said the three-way sellers will be backed up by three-way cashiers in all denominations. This will mean that a customer holding good tickets on several horses and in any position can cash them at a single stop, Kohlhepp explained.

"We anticipate a great speed up in handling business and much more convenience for our fans," Kohlhepp said.

Shenandoah Downs will race through September 26. Post time will be 7:15 nightly.

Totem Pole

To Open July 18

Excitement continues to mount at the new Totem Pole Playhouse in Caledonia State Park, where deadlines are being met for the opening July 18.

Producer-director William H. Putsch announces that he has signed actor John Beal for the initial offering, Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize-winning play "Our Town."

Mr. Beal, who has been labeled "one of the best actors in our theatre" by no less an authority than Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times, has played a wide range of comedies, dramas and musicals.

No stranger to "Our Town", Mr. Beal will re-create the role of the Stage Manager, which he portrayed in the highly-praised "Circle in the Square" production of "Our Town", staged by Jose Quintero. He also was in the first Plumstead Playhouse presentation in Mineola, L.I., with Henry Fonda in "Our Town" and Robert Ryan in "The Front Page."

He recently appeared in the revival of "In The Matter Of J. Robert Oppenheimer at Lincoln Center in New York. He was last co-starred on Broadway as Danks in "Billy," the musical based on Bill Budd. Off-Broadway, he was one of the original stars in "To Be Young, Gifted and Black."

Land Here Rezoned

The Frederick County Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday morning approved an application for rezoning a Keysville Road property from industrial to agricultural.

Unanimous approval was granted on the request by Sidney S. Sappington, represented by attorney W. Jerome Offutt, to the zoning change of a six-acre lot located on the south side of Keysville Road, east of Old Frederick Road. The change, from M-2 industrial to A-1 Agricultural, was requested according to Sappington to allow construction of a residence near his place of business.

The planning staff recommended approval of the request on the basis that the original zoning was a mistake. There was no opposition voiced at the hearing.

Brute Ladies Plan To View Stage Show

The July meeting of the Ladies of Brute Auxiliary took place on Monday evening in the Council Home with 20 members in attendance. President Lois Hartdagen presided.

The meeting opened with prayer led by the chaplain, Loretta Sprinkle.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and correspondence was received from the Grand Knight, George Danner, expressing his congratulations to the newly-elected officers and wishing them a successful year. A notice of the events at the Totem Pole Playhouse was read and also a letter from the Seton Center asking if the auxiliary would be interested in donating towards the operating expenses of the day care center.

The correspondence was discussed and it was decided to attend an evening show at the Totem Pole on August 14 to see the show South Pacific. Any member interested in going should contact Judy LaCroce at 447-4741 for tickets. The cost will be $4 including bus fare.

The August meeting will be held at Kump's Dam Park at the regular time with the Auxiliary furnishing hot dogs, hamburgers, chips and beverage. The members do not have to bring a covered dish as was previously decided. Any member needing a ride to the August meeting at Kump's are to call Lois Hartdagen at 447-2669.

The monthly trip to Victor Cullen in June was a great success. This month's trip will be July 19 and those donating cakes will be Frances Rosensteel and Ann Topper.

Joan Keepers, chairman of the Cake and Candy Table for the coming church bazaar on August 15, asked the auxiliary members for donations for her table and also help.

Installation ceremonies were held with the following members installed: Lois McIntyre, Mary Oster and Frances Rosensteel. After the ceremonies the new members were welcomed by the members present.

The monthly drawing was held and Carol Eiker's name was called for $6.00 but was not present.

The next meeting will be held August 10 at Kump's Dam Park at 8:15. The meeting adjourned with prayer after which refreshments were served in the social room.

Perfecting all-cotton durable press is a major objective of the industry.

NEW PHONE DIAL SERVICE STARTS SUNDAY

In the early hours on Sunday, July 19 — at approximately 2 a.m. — a new era in telephone service will begin here.

"The biggest change is that customers in the Frederick area will be able to dial their own long distance station-to-station calls," said C. V. Weakley, C&P Telephone Company manager.

Another new feature is the availability of Touch-Tone service for Mt. Airy, Middletown, and Braddock Heights residents and for customers with 662 and 663 telephone number prefixes in Frederick.

This service makes it possible to place a call by simply tapping out the number instead of dialing.

"But speed and convenience are only part of the story," Weakley noted. "Before long, the buttons on Touch-Tone phones will be used for everything from talking to your bank's computer to turning on your oven when you're out shopping."

The $4 1/2 million C&P project that makes these new services possible started almost two years ago, with the construction of the new telephone switching center on East Patrick Street.

"I guess it really all began in 1882," said Weakley. "That was when the first phone in Frederick County was installed. And the following year there was actually a pair of wires strung between Frederick and Hagerstown."

"Today we're serving 28,000 telephone subscribers just in the Frederick area," he noted. "With the cutover to the new kind of central office equipment, dialing procedures will be uniform in the Frederick area."

Callers will dial all seven digits of the phone number for a local call; "1" plus the phone number for a call within Maryland but outside the local calling area; and "1" plus the area code plus the phone number for a call outside Maryland.

Direct Distance Dialing means that a person in Frederick can dial a few digits or tap a few buttons and reach most of the 115 million telephones in this country.

"And on the horizon is an extension of DDD," said Weakley. "Then you'll be able to direct dial a call to a relative or a business contact overseas."

The complex switching network that makes all this possible has changed considerably in the 88 years since the phone came to Frederick — and the speed of change is increasing rapidly.

"By 1982," Weakley observed, "we'll probably have telephone services that haven't even reached the drawing board today."

Frederick County Backgrounds

By SAMUEL CARRICK

The Galt Family
The Galt family in Maryland was founded by one Matthew Galt who married Elizabeth Simpson. However, back of this Matthew Galt were the Galts of Denmark—of Scotland—of Ireland—and of Pennsylvania. That Matthew Galt of Maryland, emigrated from Pennsylvania is fairly certain—his immediate ancestors were the "Pequea" Galts of Lancaster County, Penn's Province. This being the case a brief study of the family background seems to be in order.

All the authorities seem to agree that the Galts originated in the Kingdom of Denmark. From that country at least one branch emigrated to Scotland but just when this took place is not known with any degree of certainty. The records may be summarized as follows:

"As early as A.D. 839 organized bands of Vikings (Danes, etc.) were visiting the eastern coast of England. The weight of the Danish attack fell upon Mercia and Northumbria. By 869 the Danish army had entered this region and settled permanently. The whole of the eastern coast, from the Thames northward, became a Danish region. During this period, the early part of the eleventh century, the southern part of Scotland, from the Firth of Forth southward, came under strong English or Danish influence, and the contacts with the Danish raiders and rulers must have been much the same on both sides of the Tweed."

From this sequence of historical events and geographical conditions it is quite possible that the Galts of Denmark became the Galts of Scotland—first settling on the southern borders of the latter country. By the sixteenth century the Galts were a part of Dregghorn Parish and the family name appears frequently in the "Kirk Session Records of the Parish." In addition there are grave markers in the churchyard bearing the name of "Galt."

From Scotland to Northern Ireland—following the tide of emigration—hoping to escape from conditions that seemed to them intolerable. Better to make a fresh start than suffer oppression.

In 1607 there happened in Northern Ireland what was known as the "Flight of the Earls." This event was the result of a conflict between the local rulers in the North of Ireland with the English authorities. This so-called flight left a great deal of land in the northern counties with no "overlordship" and but sparsely populated. As was to be expected the lands thus left without ownership were confiscated by the English crown and they proceeded to lay them out in "plantations." Large tracts of land were offered to English and Scotch emigrants on very favorable terms. As one historian puts it—"the practical success of the plantation was great, and for the first time a large part of Ireland was not merely owned by Saxon landlords, but was tilled and farmed by Scottish and Protestant farmers." It is reasonable to assume, therefore, that during the early part of the seventeenth century, a number of Galts emigrated from Scotland to Ireland—a distance of fifty to one hundred miles only. All went well for a time—but by the beginning of the eighteenth century serious trouble arose. A "Penal Code" was passed by the "Episcopal Ascendency" (Church of England party) about 1702. This was aimed against the Irish Roman Catholics, but the feeling against the Presbyterians was almost as strong. From this time onward the Protestant Scotch were subjected to harassing limitations and restrictions, religious and political. This, at times, amounted to direct persecution and this was intolerable to the "proud Scot." As was to be expected insurrections took place, and for some years the political conditions in the North of Ireland were akin to anarchy. This was the period that saw the most extensive migrations to America—once again the Scotch were seeking the freedoms they most cherished.

Robert (1) Galt, the ancestor of the Pennsylvania Galts, left Ireland in 1710 and came to the Province of William Penn. With the first Robert Galt came his son-in-law, William Wilson, and a grandson, Robert Armour. They landed at New Castle, Delaware, but had no intention of permanently settling there. The far horizon beckoned.

Robert (1) Galt left his family at New Castle while he journeyed into the Colony of Pennsylvania to seek lands for a plantation. He came, in due time, into what is now Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and on Peguea Creek, which drains the valley of the same name, he found "a suitable tract of land on which was a large spring of excellent water . . ."

The family chronicle continues: "He (Robert (1) Galt) selected a spot at the head waters of one of the branches of Peguea Creek. He went back to New Castle for his family, but on his return could not find the place, and eventually located on a well-watered tract further north. "Robert (1) Galt was probably well advanced in life when he settled in his new home . . . how many sons he had is now unknown, but they were all probably well grown and able to assist him in clearing his lands and erecting the necessary buildings. "One of his sons, James (2) Galt, married a Miss ---(?) Allison. To them five sons were born. They were named Robert (3), John (3), William (3), James (3) and Thomas (3) Galt. Of the history of Robert (3) Galt nothing is known. William (3) Galt married but left no children. And John (3) Galt remained a bachelor. Those two, William (3) and John (3) Galt, built what has for a hundred years and more been known as 'Galts' Old Mill' and they did most of the work themselves.

"Thomas (3) Galt, the other brother, married Miss Isabel Wilson and, went west to the Cumberland Valley, and founded a home, said to be not very far from Carlisle—

"But trouble arose with the Indians and Thomas (3) Galt and his family had to return to Lancaster County. "William (3) and John (3) Galt, the brothers of Thomas (3), seem to have prospered in business, for they purchased a tract of land in the Conestoga Valley of Lancaster County, located about three miles northeast of the village of New Holland. On this tract Thomas (3) Galt and his family lived after losing their home in the Cumberland Valley—He (Thomas (3) Galt) was a godly man and had a good Christian wife— They were members of the Pequea Presbyterian church, and enjoyed the ministrations of the Rev. Dr. Robert Smith who ministered to the church for forty-two years. "Thomas (3) and Isabel (Wilson) Galt had two sons, James (4) and Alexander (4) Galt. The descendants of Alexander (4) Galt are that branch of the family known as the 'Hill Galts' be-

Republican Candidate for Congress - 6 Dist.

1. I support President Nixon's efforts to protect America's fighting men and to turn the burden of war back to the South Vietnamese.

2. I support President Nixon's efforts to turn the U. S. Government back to the people.

3. As our society has grown more complex, additional services are required. An impersonal Bureaucracy has been created which through law and policy during the past 37 years has become deeply entrenched in every facet of our existence. Consequently it has grown less and less responsive to the needs of our people.

For instance, the Department of Transportation has a Highway Safety Service which has had a yearly budget of 29 million dollars for four years, and so far it has not even produced a uniform safety standard for the American consumer.

In the growth of this Bureaucracy the tendency has been to service itself rather than to serve people.

Sadly I have found that this attitude has spread like a malignant growth throughout the Government.

I believe my experience in the inter-workings of this same system will help me to serve you in making Government responsive to your needs. This is the reason I am seeking your support and votes.

Throughout my campaign I will present Position Papers on Taxes, Welfare, Pollution, gun control, foreign aid, Social Security and other important issues that affect your daily lives.

tinuing to slow and consumer spending lackluster, inventories may become a problem area in this third quarter.

Capital spending remains relatively strong despite lower corporate profits, more limited operations, and high interest rates. Babson's projection for the third quarter is for capital spending on an annual-rate basis to fall below the 7.8% increase indicated in the most recent survey. The liquidity squeeze and the Penn Central bankruptcy may also cause a more conservative expansion program. However, the uptrend in terms of dollars will continue as carryover projects prove more expensive than originally estimated.

Money Supply, Interest Rates

The Federal Reserve was forced to increase the money supply during the second quarter to rescue the Treasury refinancing. If the Fed had not increased the money supply — which expanded by more than 9% during this period — current interest rate would be higher and the strain on corporate liquidity even more severe. The Research Staff of Babson's Reports expects the Fed to limit growth in the money supply during the third quarter. There should be some easing in short-term interest rates, with long-term remaining close to current levels.

Employment And Consumer Spending

Joblessness will expand further in the third quarter. Babson's estimates that the unemployment rate will be 5.6% for this period. It is probable that the decline to 4.7% in June was a statistical fluke and not a change in the basic uptrend.

Confidence will be the key to consumer spending this quarter. Spreading unemployment and general concern about the economy have made individuals reduce spending as a percentage of total disposable income, and focus on repaying debts and saving more. Total consumer spending, though, will probably be higher this quarter because of larger Social Security benefits, expiration of the surtax, and continued wage hikes in union agreements.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

Business For Third 1970 Quarter

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., July 16, 1970 — The primary concern for the third quarter has changed from slowing inflation to preventing further recession. The economy is now in the midst of a setback brought about by the Administration's tight monetary and fiscal policies designed to check rising prices. Inflation has been more difficult to control than was anticipated, and the government strategy has resulted in increasing unemployment, sagging industrial output, and loss of consumer confidence. Currently there are some signs that inflation is becoming less intense, so the Administration can give more attention to stemming the business slide.

Gross National Product in terms of current dollars will be higher during the third quarter because of continued inflation. In constant dollars, however, GNP can be expected to move sideways or slightly lower. Industrial production for the July, August, and September span should begin to level off after declining since July of a year ago. Hedging against a potential auto strike next fall and catch-up efforts due to the prolonged truckers' strike should be helpful in this leveling-off process.

Profits And Dividends

Corporate profits will continue to shade off in the third quarter, but the losses should not be as great as those experienced during the second quarter. Comparisons with a year ago will, of course, be unfavorable. Dividends will drift somewhat lower in the July-September period. This is an extension of the current trend, with dividend reductions or omissions more than offsetting any advances.

Capital Spending And Inventories

In view of past and pending strikes, inventories have maintained a moderate growth rate without excessive accumulation. However, with the economy con-

You mean starting July 19 I can dial any telephone in the United States?

Sure, almost anywhere. With Direct Distance Dialing. And you have to use all 7 digits of the telephone number for all local calls.

Even to call next door?

Yes, even then.

What if I want to call Hagerstown?

Easy. Dial "1" to get outside your local calling area, then dial the 7-digit number. To call outside Maryland dial "1", the Area Code, and then the number.

Have you been taking lessons at the telephone company?

Nonsense! It's easy! Place we used to live had Direct Distance Dialing. I can hardly wait 'til we get it here.

The operator's still there for special calls, isn't she?

That's the point — she handles the special calls, you dial the regular calls yourself.

Why, I could call Uncle Charles in Baltimore --- dial it quick, you know, and surprise him.

You've got the right idea! Direct Distance Dialing, starting this Sunday, July 19.

VA OBSERVING 40th ANNIVERSARY

Forty years ago, on July 21, 1930, President Herbert Hoover signed an executive order creating the Veterans Administration as a new agency of the Federal government.

Prior to that time, the various benefits established for veterans had been under diverse bureaus which had grown from previous governmental activities.

Creation of the Veterans Administration brought all veterans programs under one jurisdiction. The number of veterans stood at about 4,000,000. Less than one million veterans and dependents were receiving direct financial aid and hospital care could be received by veterans in 54 veterans hospitals.

The VA expenditure for its first year was in the neighborhood of $786 million.

There was no way, in 1930, to forecast the amazing rise in veterans programs as the result of World War II, the Korean Conflict and the current commitments in the Far East.

Now in its fortieth year, the Veterans Administration is playing an important role in the lives of the more than 27,000,000 veterans of today. When their dependents are taken into consideration, these veterans and their families make up more than 48 per cent of the total population of the United States.

Today 4.5 million veterans and dependents received direct financial aid through the VA and the number of hospitals has grown to 166.

The original benefits offered by the newly established VA in 1930 were:

-medical and hospital care for veterans with service-connected disabilities and, under certain conditions, for non-service-connected veterans.

-Compensation and pension payments to eligible veterans and under certain conditions to dependent members of their families.

-vocational rehabilitation and training for veterans with service-connected disabilities.

-life insurance program for World War I veterans only.

-certain burial benefits.

Eligible for most of these programs were Civil War, Indian Wars, Spanish-American War and World War I veterans and a small number of peacetime service-connected cases.

The first big change came with the entrance of the United States into World War II when a new insurance program was added that soon outstripped in size and value its original counterpart. Today there are more than 5.5 million G.I. insurance policy-holders with coverage of more than $37.9 billion in face value. In addition, 3.6 million servicemen and veterans hold the more recent Servicemen's Group Life Insurance policies to the value of about $36 billion.

The nation's complete educational picture was changed when educational benefits for veterans was entrusted to the VA in the closing months of World War II along with an expanded vocational rehabilitation program for veterans with service-connected disabilities.

To date more than 12 million veterans have availed themselves of these programs with an additional 1.3 million participants expected during 1970.

Extension of the education program to the widows, wives and children of those veterans whose deaths or permanent total disabilities were service-connected has added more than 200,000 participants to this program.

Expansion of the VA hospital program began early in the 1940's and swelled the total hospital count from 54 to 166. More than 800,000 veterans are cared for each year in the VA hospital system with an average daily patient load of about 84,000.

More than 200 outpatient clinics complete the work of these hospitals.

As the result of VA's home loan mortgage guaranty program, one out of every seven single-family homes built in the United States since World War II was financed by a G.I. loan. More than 7.6 million G.I. loans have been made with a value of more than $78 billion.

Perhaps the biggest change in the Veterans Administration in the 40 years of its existence has occurred during the past three years when the entire philosophy behind the operation of the agency underwent a dramatic change. No longer content to wait until eligible veterans came to its doors seeking benefits, the VA has launched an "Outbreak Program" by which a determined effort is carried on to seek out the returning veteran and acquaint him with the various benefits to which he is entitled.

In 1969 alone, eight million veterans and servicemen, at home and abroad, received direct word about their rights under the many VA programs.

As far back as January 1967, the VA set up information and counseling service to military personnel within sound of the actual fighting in Vietnam. To date, more than 1,188,803 servicemen there, nearing discharge date, have been given on-the-spot orientation on VA benefits and instructed how to make application as soon as they become civilians. Those remaining in the service may launch their educational programs without waiting for discharge.

Briefings on benefits are also given at more than 300 military separation points in the continental United States. In addition, VA contact representatives regularly visit hospitalized servicemen in state-side military hospitals, counseling rehabilitation and other programs before the patients are discharged to civilian life.

In addition to its regular regional offices in each state, the VA has joined with other departments of the Federal government to set up Veterans Assistance Centers in key cities throughout the nation, usually in the urban areas where education and employment problems are the greatest.

To these during the past year have been added widely publicized "Job Fairs" where employers from industry, commerce, and Federal, state and local governments can meet with thousands of recently returned veterans to match skills with job opportunities. Where the skills are lacking the VA offers vocational or other training that will lead to hiring.

As part of this expanded "outreach" program, the VA gets in touch by phone, mail or personal contact with approximately 85,000 young men monthly to urge them to take advantage of these opportunities.

Since great numbers of returning veterans have been found to be drop-outs from high school or earlier elementary school programs, a persistent attempt is made to contact each one to show how they can pursue elementary or high school studies without jeopardizing later eligibility for higher education.

To help veterans get in touch speedily with VA regional offices, without the burden of long-distance telephone charges, the VA arranged with the telephone companies in 23 states to establish "Foreign Exchange" or FX service that will enable a veteran to call the VA in a distant city in his states in a toll-free method that costs him just the charge for a local call. These calls are now averaging 50,000 per month and reached the one million mark early in June 1970.

Thus, at the end of 40 years of continued service to the veteran and the nation, the Veterans Administration is pioneering new paths to serve in civilian walks of life those who served the nation in its time of need.

Local Holsteins High Producers

A report of milk production levels attained by dairy cows in the area has been received from Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The actual food production output, recorded in the DHIR program, by these local

Registered Holsteins is:

Hills-Hope FD Rachel 5960219, a four-year-old, produced 22,010 lbs. of milk and 911 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days. Hills-Hope Skokie Le Kol Eve 5524368, a six-year-old, had 23,820 lbs. of milk and 808 lbs. of butterfat in 344 days. Sills-Hope Waffles Star-dust 6234132, a three-year-old, had 18,990 lbs. of milk and 799 lbs. of butterfat in 355 days. Hills-Hope Admiral Wilma 5825868, a six-year-old, had 20,790 lbs. of milk and 774 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days. Hills-Hope Marquis Hull 6611440, a two-year-old, had 16,340 lbs. of milk and 629 lbs. of butterfat in 326 days. All are included in the herd tested for James R. Hill, Emmitsburg.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 8,821 lbs. (4-103 quarts) of milk and 425 lbs. of butterfat by the average U. S. dairy cow, notes the National Holstein Association.

Production testing is made available through the cooperative efforts of the state and local testing associations and Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Dairymen enrolled in the program pay for the service.

4-H Girls Share Home Sewing Boom One of the booming home arts today is sewing. Technology has made available a wide array of miracle fabrics, invisible thread, hidden zippers, and sewing machines that all but sew by themselves. Learning to sew is no longer the tedious, baste-and-rip, time consuming chore it once was. More young girls are making their own clothes today than ever before: In school, at home, and especially through 4-H Clubs. Nearly one million girls from 9 to 19 are engaged in 4-H clothing projects. This means they decide what to make, get pointers from their volunteer clothing project leaders, salesclerks, Extension Service personnel, sewing bulletins, and the educational department of Coats & Clark Inc. This 156-year-old firm, which started out making cotton thread and now is a leader in sewing notions, has a 30-year record as sponsor of the national 4-H clothing program. In this time span, company officials have personally congratulated some 1,500 teenage girls for excellence in making their own clothes. These talented young seamstresses were top state award winners and guests of Coats & Clark at the annual national 4-H Congress in Chicago. More than 300 received national clothing scholarships. Again this year, 51 girls, one from each state plus Puerto Rico, will travel to the Chicago congress at the expense of this faithful 4-H friend. Coats & Clark officials will be on hand once more to present $600 scholarships to six new national champions. It's clothes like these that 4-H girls love to make and wear. The garments have style, comfort and are perfect for most any occasion. 4-H has a program called Clothing wherein girls as young as 9 years learn to sew. Millions of girls can thank the Cooperative Extension Service, and Coats & Clark Inc., the clothing program sponsor of 30 years, for making possible this learn-by-doing project. The program is supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Let's Go Fishin' BY BOB BREWSTER Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards A FISH FOR ALL ANGLERS What's the first fish you ever caught? Chances are it was a member of the sunfish family, for no matter where you live, sunfish are found nearby. This abundance, and the fact that fishing for them requires only simple skills and tackle, accounts for sunfish holding the place of honor as the "beginning" fish for many anglers. According to information from the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, 25 species of this prolific family are found in North America. They fall into three major groups: the black basses, true sunfish and crappies. True sunfish are known to anglers as pumpkin-seeds, bluegills, longears, green sunfish and bream, and kids everywhere call them perch, definitely a misnomer. Spring is spawning season for sunfish, and anglers pursue them in lakes and rivers everywhere. In clear, gravel-bottom streams, spawning beds are seen as round depressions in shallow water. Here the male sunfish remains until the eggs have hatched. Fishing for these pugnacious characters is good during spring, and taking the more prolific species from the nest has no bad effect upon their population. Recognizing this, fishery departments in many states permit year around angling for many members of the sunfish family. Successful angling methods include live bait, flies and small spinning lures. A favorite southern method is to use crickets and cane poles. The gang at Mercury suggest an adaptation of this is to use a molded soft plastic cricket and a fly rod. From your boat, cast the imitation to the shore, letting it sink until it hits bottom. If no strike occurs, retrieve and cast again. When you get a strike, continue fishing in that spot as the chances are good you've located a colony of nesting sunfish.

Food Capsules Show Promise
As Shrimp And Crawfish Feed

Food scientists at Louisiana State University report initial success in experiments with food capsules for the feeding of shrimp and crawfish. Scientists are giving special attention to the nutritional requirements of invertebrates, particularly red swamp crawfish. Experiments with a food pellet and a food capsule have caused considerable excitement among the scientists. A fish protein concentrate and single-cell protein were found to result in significant weight increases in both crawfish and shrimp.

Curbing sexual "promiscuity" among red-winged blackbirds by drastically altering their environment is being attempted by a Cornell University researcher. By no means a moral crusade, the effort is simply an objective scientific experiment to determine how animal behavior, and by implication human behavior, has been influenced by environmental selection pressures.

Pipe testers think the "Swel-Flug" Pressure Tester is swell. It is inserted into the pipe by hand and has expandable sides that grab and hold the interior wall when inflated for testing pipe strength, says Tube Turns of Louisville, the manufacturer. It is easily removed and faster than other methods that involve welding on a metal cap that must then be cut off.

Potentially useful agents for controlling excessive bone destruction leading to one of the nation's most prevalent dental diseases in adults — periodontal disease — has been found at the Harvard School of Dental Medicine. The agents are five-membered ring structures that act to slow the transfer of calcium out of bone. The chemical structures of the derivatives are simple and therefore they offer promise as prototype compounds for the development of therapeutically useful agents.

Chlorinated Hydrocarbons similar to those found in DDT and other insecticides have been found by a University of Wisconsin scientist to alter the drug-metabolizing enzymes in the liver. The findings result from studies on rats, but similar changes are likely to occur in the tissues of other animals — including man — when exposed to high levels of these chlorinated hydrocarbons.

SPACE AND AERONAUTICS

A Year Ago

A year ago, July 20 at 10:56 p.m. EDT, to be precise, Astronaut Neil Armstrong placed his left foot on the surface of the Moon and uttered the now-famous words for all the world to hear, "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

Eighteen minutes later Astronaut Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin joined Armstrong on the lunar surface and together they read the plaque which remains on the Moon. Inscribed are these words: "Here Men From the Planet Earth First Set Foot Upon the Moon, July 1969, A.D. We Came In Peace For All Mankind."

July 1969, A.D., Anno Domini for the year of Our Lord—how will that year be recorded by the historians? Does that time, so precisely marked by that first footprint on the Moon, end one age for man and herald the beginning of a new one?

Historians have devised ways to reckon time and bracket eras and periods into neat packages. Religious historians use the Latin, Anno Mundi, for the Age of the World and the years in our time are Anno Domini years.

There have been other categories like the Prehistoric Age, the Age of Exploration and more recently the Machine Age, the Atomic Age and the Space Age.

But whatever the age or the period or the method of reckoning time, throughout the history of man he has always had his eye on the Moon wondering about its mysteries and dreaming one day to explore it. Now, just a year ago, man has done this, and this great dream and aspiration long held by man has been realized.

So now there are all those aeons before the lunar landing by man, and that short one year since this epochal event, the time when man left Earth and physically extended his influence to another planet.

We simply take note of the first anniversary of man's landing on the Moon. But some historians, exercising their prerogatives to mark that very precise date — July 20, 1969 A.D.—more auspiciously for the history books of tomorrow, may well devise another way of reckoning time after this event. Thus, it is not unlikely that our scholars may record time from the manned lunar landing as 1 A.L., for 1 Anno Adventus ad Lunam, which roughly translated from our even rougher Latin means the first post lunar year. Latin scholars may argue with our Latin, but historians will not quarrel with the fact that on July 20, 1969 at precisely 10:56 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, an era ended for man and a new one began.

Lobby Group Seeks Tydings Investigation

Morgan Norval, National Director of F.L.A., this week called for an investigation into Senator Tydings "using his office as a distribution point for anti-gun propaganda. Senator Tydings has been passing out in his office the brochure 'For Firearms Policies in the Public Interest'." This is being published by the National Council For a Responsible Firearms Policy, Inc. Many members of the board of directors of this group openly advocate the elimination of the private ownership of firearms.

"That Senator Tydings would allow any special interest group, regardless of its policy, to use his office to distribute its propaganda is bad enough, but when this group advocates such restrictive, anti-gun measures must seem strange in view of the Senator's pious statements that he is the friend of the hunter and law-abiding firearms owner."

"At a time when Senator Tydings is comparing the sportsmen of Maryland to fanatic elements such as the Ku Klux Klan and the Black Panthers, his action is passing out anti-gun propaganda of a group advocating confiscation of firearms should surprise no one," Norval concluded.

What joy and triumph, after all, to be sincerely honored by the ones we loved

It's A Fact Emergency Service Can Kill You

We just read about a woman who was in an auto accident. In terms of accidents this was probably only a minor one. The woman's injuries were somewhat like the accident; they were minor, too. Today this young woman is paralyzed from the waist down.

Paralysis occurred when she was incorrectly lifted and transported to the hospital.

It is estimated that over 20,000 needless deaths occurred last year alone. Why? Because of poor communications facilities, inadequately equipped ambulances, untrained ambulance crews, unprepared hospital facilities and lack of emergency ordinances.

In many communities ambulances cannot communicate with the hospitals. Do you know if your emergency vehicles can? And that ambulance may be bright and shiny on the outside, but what's inside? Is there a law or ordinance that requires that specific emergency care equipment be carried? And is that ordinance enforced? What about the attendants? Are they trained? Do they really know what they are doing, or will we know some day like that young woman who is now paralyzed? Chances are pretty good that the least experienced beautician in your neighborhood hair salon has more hours of training than the person who might try to remove you from a wreck.

Have we failed to prepare for disaster?

It's worth looking into. Employers Insurance of Wausau, Wisconsin, has arrived at the same conclusion. They have made available to interested groups and communities a film called "BEFORE THE EMERGENCY," designed to motivate and educate all of us about upgrading emergency facilities. The film is really a tribute to how the community of Minocqua, Wisconsin, has prepared itself to meet almost any emergency situation.

Minocqua organized a community emergency council made up of medical and hospital personnel, police and fire department officials, ambulance attendants and concerned citizens.

This council has established a central dispatch communications system. It conducts training courses in emergency medical and rescue techniques. The group even simulates disasters to test and train the skills of the members.

Whatever the disaster, Minocqua is prepared. Are we? If the answer to that last question is "No," then let's get cracking . . . now!

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

Ma was a Cow, So What!

The busy season at the foaling barns is past its peak and another crop of Thoroughbreds, some 24,000 strong, is being registered by The Jockey Club. At one of these equine "maternity wards" back in 1967 there was some consternation when the mare Fair Forget in foal to Ambehaving, suddenly lost her powers of coordination.

Buck and Carol Harris, owners of Bo-Batt Farm in Marion County, Florida, recall that they gave her a "private nurse." The mare foaled easily enough but her own condition didn't improve and she finally lost her equilibrium and almost fell on her nursing foal.

Carol Harris recalled that at neighboring Jack Dreyfus's Hobeau Farm a few years before the mare Yankee Buckle had died after foaling twins and that the twins were raised by a cow. She further recalled that one of the twins, Yankee Dot, went on to be a good winner. She called up Hobeau Farm manager, Elmer Heubeck, and borrowed a cow. The cow took a dim view of her "adopted" child at first but a week later was licking and making over the filly as if it were her own calf.

The filly thrived and today is a 2-year-old named Fair Behaved and if anyone should ask she might say "So what if my ma was a cow; she was a registered Brown Swiss."

Dope And Guns For SDS
The "Weatherman" faction of the Communist SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) is no more or no less vicious in its commitment to the violent overthrow of the U. S. than other SDS factions and their comrades in revolution, the Black Panthers. Therefore, the latest information of "Weatherman" is of vital importance to the people of America and especially to the law enforcement forces responsible for our protection. "Weatherman" has gone underground, but a statement just issued from underground headquarters and the subsequent successful bombing of the Central Police Headquarters in New York City indicates their growing capability for serious destruction. "This is the first communication from the Weatherman underground," says the SDS group in an announcement entitled: "Declaration of War". The statement was issued to the Communist press on May 21. It said that within 14 days "we will attack a symbol or institution of American injustice." On June 9-18 days later—the Central Police Headquarters in New York was rocked by a bomb explosion; a detective, a police lieutenant, an elevator operator, and a newsman were injured. Damage was extremely heavy. "Violence—Only Way"

The SDS "Weatherman" declaration: "Black people have been fighting almost alone for years. We've known that our job is to lead white kids to armed revolution . . . We've been trying to show how it is possible to overcome the frustration and impotence that comes from trying to reform this system . . . Tens of thousands have learned that protest and marching don't do it. Revolutionary violence is the only way."

"Now we are adapting the classic guerrilla strategy of the Vietcong and the urban guerrilla strategy of the Tupamaros (in Brazil) to our own situation here . . . The 12 Weathermen who were indicted for leading last October's riots in Chicago have never left the country. Terry is dead (Terry Robbins, killed in a townhouse bomb factory explosion—he also had been active at Kent State University)."

Communist Bait: Drugs
"But the rest of us move freely in and out of every city and youth scene in this country. We're not in hiding, but we're invisible. We fight in many ways. Dope is one of our weapons. The laws against marijuana mean that millions of us are outlaws long before we actually split. Guns and grass are united in the youth underground."

"Freaks are revolutionaries and revolutionaries are freaks. If you want to find us, this is where we are. In every tribe, commune, dormitory, farmhouse, barracks and townhouse where kids are making love, smoking dope and loading guns—fugitives from American justice are free to go. For Diana Oughton, Ted Gold and Terry Robbins (the three killed in the bomb factory explosion) and for all the revolutionaries who are still on the move here, there has been no question for a long time now—we will never go back. Within the next 14 days we will attack a symbol or institution of American injustice. This is the way we celebrate the example of Eldridge Cleaver and H. Rap Brown and all black revolutionaries who first inspired us by their fight behind enemy lines for the liberation of their people. Never again will they fight alone. Will Americans Awaken?"

The Black Panthers, now an international force in the Communists' expanding mobilization to tear-up and seize the United States, do not permit "dope" usage within Panther ranks. As the "vanguard" of the growing revolutionary force, the Panthers decree penalty and perhaps even death for continued use of drugs by any Party members. With drugs, however, widely spread-out "Weatherman" youth cadres can lure thousands of American youth into the drug trap and put guns in their hands. That's what they now say they are doing.

A large portion of the Black Panther Party now is underground. Panther officials, in their nationally circulated newspaper, now claim a dedicated following of several million. This fall, as colleges open, they hope to see the most widespread campus and street strife witnessed in America. If lax law enforcement permits such destructive "strikes", the Panther and Communist timetable for the big blow against America will be shortened. Will American citizens wake up to this growing menace in time?

Meat Inspection Standards, A Question of Equality

Increasing numbers of Americans who visit grocery counters and supermarkets are shocked by the high price of meat and meat products. There are many reasons for the inflation of food prices, food of all kinds, but an examination of some aspects of the meat industry makes me feel that something can be done to help provide the consumers with a larger market and a larger supply of healthful and safe food products. I believe that by expanding the commodities available in the meat market, we should be able to begin to control the continuing increase in price of this vital item in every American family's food budget.

It goes without saying that the first requisite is that the meat which is available in grocery stores must be safe and healthful. The Government has an obligation for the health of its citizens and to insure that food is sanitary and healthy. To this end, the United States Government has established an important and very efficient meat inspection service. However, U.S. inspection has been conducted only at relatively large meat plants located in various parts of the country and the products of these federally - inspected plants have been admitted to interstate commerce which means they can be processed in one state and sold in another.

There are smaller meat packing plants and butcher shops which do not attempt to cross state lines with their products at the present time.

These plants are inspected in accordance with the local health laws of the state and localities in which they do business. Many of these plants are of a very high quality and many equal the standards of sanitation which prevail in federally - inspected meat plants. The operators of these plants have made the improvements at their own expense and at the urging of state officials who feel that the public will benefit from these higher health standards and the resulting wider selection of products available in the market.

I agree, and believe that federal law should recognize the higher standards which prevail in state-inspected meat producing plants. I have urged that plants which have upgraded their health standards to the federal level be given equal treatment with federally - inspected plants. They should be allowed to deal in interstate commerce. I also believe that the states which have upgraded their inspection process should receive the assistance of the Department of Agriculture.

I hope these steps will insure that consumers have a larger supply of good meat products available to them and encourage the states to upgrade the standards under which meat is slaughtered, packed and processed. I also hope that the larger supply of healthful meat products which will result from the marketing of state-inspected meats on the interstate market will help to stabilize the price of meat products.

Red China Releases Bishop Walsh

Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-6th-Md.) reported this week that a State Department spokesman has assured him that Bishop James Edward Walsh is "in reasonably good health and is very lucid" following his release from 12 years of imprisonment in Red China.

"As a close friend and neighbor of the Bishop's family," Representative Beall said, "I have shared their profound concern for his well-being for many years. I am today delighted to report to the citizens of our state that despite his long ordeal, Bishop Walsh is in good health and should rejoin his family soon."

Congressman Beall said that the Roman Catholic prelate, a native of Cumberland, Maryland, is now undergoing a physical examination at the Maryknoll Hospital in Hong Kong, where he was freed Thursday.

According to the Sixth District Representative, American Consulate officials there report that Bishop Walsh has complained of a slight backache, a condition which his doctors feel will improve with rest, and that during 12 years in Communist prisons, he has lost only 10 pounds.

"Bishop Walsh is now awaiting instructions from Church officials," Congressman Beall said, "and he does plan to return to the United States in the near future."

The State Department spokesman informed Representative Beall that the Bishop was given a physical examination on July 8 and then, to his surprise, told to prepare to leave within 30 minutes. Taken to a railroad bridge which links the China mainland with British-held Hong Kong Island, Bishop Walsh walked unaided to freedom.

Representative Beall said that he was told that during his imprisonment, Bishop Walsh was not subjected to intensive interrogation or brutal treatment, and that he was not required to sign a confession or make a formal statement prior to his release.

The first successful cotton textile mill in the U. S. was built in 1970 by Samuel Slater, an Englishman.

Quota Referendum To Be Mailed

The proclamation of a mail referendum on 1971-crop wheat marketing quotas has been made, according to Raymond F. Jaeger, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, with the dates set for July 27-31.

"As most wheat growers know, the Agricultural Act of 1965 specifically suspended marketing quotas for wheat producers only for the duration of the Act. Now we go back to the previous law, which requires the marketing quota referendum—unless, of course, Congress should act to change or postpone these provisions," Mr. Jaeger said.

"As it stands now, we're planning for a referendum in which wheat producers will decide whether or not they want marketing quotas. If two-thirds or more vote yes, there will be quotas, which would mean loans available on all production on allotted acres, wheat certificates on the domestic portion of allotments, and marketing quota penalties on excess production.

"If more than one-third vote no, then there would be no marketing quotas, and price support loans at 50 per cent of parity would be available to wheat producers complying with their farm allotments," the ASC Committee Chairman said.

Before the referendum is held, announcement will be made of the price support loan rate for 1971-crop wheat, estimated domestic certificate value, required acreage diversion percentages, and other program details. A national wheat marketing quota of 1,210 millions bushels and a national allotment of 43.5 million acres for 1971-crop wheat have already been announced.

Wheat growers will receive farm allotments, a program information leaflet and a ballot in the mail before the July 27-31 referendum.

Dates Changed

The following dates for events scheduled for Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, have been announced: Family Picnic, August 23 at Big Pipe Creek Park, Taneytown; August 29, Crab Feast, Kump's Dam Park.
