Now that the furor of Mr. Groundhog and his legend has subsided somewhat we can sit back and take a realistic look at the weather picture. The legend says we'll have six more weeks of winter ahead of us, and believe me folks, you can rely on this, Groundhog or not. There is one comforting fact though and that is that we are well over the half-way mark and I believe the frigid temperatures are beginning to subside somewhat. Oh we'll have some more bitter weather for sure but the very thought of the end nearing is a comforting one to say the least. Have you noticed that already the days are getting longer? And also that the sun is getting a bit warmer. These are sure signs of a waning winter. So forget the Groundhog, folks, bundle up and keep warm and in about 6 to 8 weeks you'll have something to talk about.

Action Please! This is our plea to the lethargic State Roads Commission operating in Frederick County and under whose jurisdiction Emmitsburg comes. About 10 days ago, during the high winds, the two caution lights that blink you a warning as you travel east on Rt. 97, approaching the dangerous Rt. 15 intersection, were twisted in a backward or reverse position of operation by the high wind. The Emmitsburg Police Dept. notified the Commission Tuesday a week ago about the situation. Well, we are still waiting, the lights are blinking and the motorists are wondering what the Sam Hill it's all about. You'd think a State Roads man would travel the road once in a while and maybe catch this sort of thing, but after they have been warned by a Police Dept. there hardly seems to be any excuse.

I wanted to stay out of this one but when you are serving the public you are vulnerable and have a tendency to be sucked in. I am not taking sides with either faction. Anyway, for the past two Saturdays State Police have operated radar on cars in this area and it seems the majority of arrests were skiers going to or coming from nearby Charmita. Several local businessmen have expressed concern that such action has had detrimental effects on their trade and don't feel it is fair to nab the skiers. Police and many others feel that the law was made for everybody, with no exceptions. Now then, if your skiing friends are coming to Emmitsburg, why not warn them of the radar and help end these little unpleasanties for all of us. We don't want their money in fines and we don't want to spoil their fun. They do come here and spend money and this helps us all. But then all that is being asked is that they drive the same as any of us would do when traveling through a populated area.

ALLEN F. KREITZ

Allen F. Kreitz, 84, St. Anthony's, died Tuesday morning at the Veterans Hospital in Martinsburg. He was born in Frederick County, the son of the late John J. and Mary L. Warner Kreitz. He was employed at Mount St. Mary's College for many years and was a member of St. Anthony's Catholic Shrine and the Holy Name Society. He was also a member of Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, and Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus of Emmitsburg. He served in the Army during World War I. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Addie Peddicord, St. Anthony's; one brother, John Kreitz, of Waynesboro, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held this morning (Friday) with a Requiem Mass at 9 a.m. in St. Anthony's Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. F. Wayde Chrismar, Bel Air, Md., is reported recuperating from a recent heart attack.

Phelan Begins To Move Mount Squad

A two-week layoff proved profitable for the Mt. St. Mary's College basketball team which resumed action last Thursday evening by whipping Shippensburg State College 84-68 on the Red Raiders' floor before 2,000 fans.

The Mountainers got off to a sizzling start 22-11 due to the hot shooting of John Novey who finished the game with 30 points.

The Mount had a successful homecoming as the Mounties overcame a second half scoring slump to beat Catholic University, 70-65 Tuesday night.

It was the first home game for the Mounties since Dec. 8. They are now 5-9 on the year and have won two straight.

The Mount looked headed for an easy win as they led most of the first half and was up by 14, 50-36, with 16 minutes to go in the game.

But in the next 11 minutes they only scored nine points to 25 for Catholic as CU took a 61-59 lead with 5½ minutes left.

The Mount then scored seven straight in the next three minutes to take a 66-61 lead that they never lost.

John Novey again led the winners. He scored 15 points, pulled down a team high 10 rebounds and blocked four crucial shots in the final minutes of play.

Tony Kinn scored 18 points including the 1,001 point of his college career at the Mount and University of Virginia.

Kevin Kane had 10 points and Austin Leonard 16 for the winners.

Tonight, the Mounties play host to the Yellow Jackets from Randolph-Macon College in a Mason-Dixon Conference game. Game time is 8 p.m.

Scouts To Observe Anniversary

Traditionally we have celebrated February 7-13 as Boy Scout Week. This year we will enlarge on this aspect and consider the month of February as the anniversary celebration of the Boy Scouts of America.

Many units have, in fact, observed anniversary celebrations throughout the whole month in recent years, so it's really nothing new. Blue and Gold dinners, troop events, and Explorer posts' special activities, have extended over the entire month.

Our Scout slogan, "America's Manpower Begins With Boypower," gives packs, troops and posts an opportunity to dramatize the program of the Boy Scouts of America... which emphasizes character development, citizenship training, mental and physical fitness.

Well-planned unit activities will serve as the vehicle for reminding the community that February 1971, celebrates our 61st anniversary.

With nearly five million boys, eight through 17, in Scouting, we know that America's boypower will become America's Manpower.

The local Troop 284, sponsored by the Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, is planning the following activities in observance of this 61st anniversary month:

Feb. 6. Window display in Crouse's Store on Center Square.

Feb. 7. Attend 10:30 church service at the Elias Lutheran Church. (In full uniform).

Feb. 9. Troop meeting will begin instructions on standard First Aid.

Feb. 26. Winter campout with a Junior Leader training course planned.

The regular meeting night for Troop 284 is every Tuesday at 6:30, held at the Scout House, beside the ball diamond.

Says Gleemen Spread Goodwill

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

On Sunday, January 24, 1971 in the Eola Park Outdoor Theater, Orlando, Florida, the Gleemen of Mount St. Mary's College presented one of the most enjoyable afternoon's entertainment I have had the privilege of attending.

The young men, under the direction of Rev. Dr. David W. Shaum, are not only a credit to Emmitsburg and Mount St. Mary's College but to all youth of today. I had the pleasure of talking to Father Shaum and expressing my appreciation for the program. The program included a range of songs from "Ave Maria" to a drinking song attributed to Ben Franklin. There were medleys from "Camelet" and selections from "South Pacific".

The people of Central Florida will not soon forget the good-will ambassadors from Mount Saint Mary's in Emmitsburg. You all have a right to be proud of them.

A thankful former resident,
Richard B. Florence

Yes, January Was Really Cold

January weather was the coldest of the year but the month has been outdoing itself in that direction in the last decade.

The month that ended Sunday had below normal temperatures and was the fourth consecutive January with temperatures that averaged below the 68-year normal. It was the ninth January in the last 11 below average temperatures.

This year's record for the first month of the year was achieved without any extreme cold weather. The low was 10 above zero in a month that often sees readings below zero. But the mercury went below freezing every day of the month and on 14 days of the 31, "high" temperatures failed to get up to the freezing mark. There was no real "January thaw."

Daily high readings last month averaged 34.13 degrees while the daily lows averaged 18.03 degrees for a monthly average temperature of 26.1 degrees. Normal is 32.7 degrees.

Last month wasn't as cold as January of 1970 which had a below zero reading and proved to be the coldest January in 30 years. In the last 11 years, only January, 1967, had had above average temperatures.

Precipitation last month totaled 3.56 inches, a surplus of 0.64 inches and part of that was provided by 15.5 inches of snow.

The letter stated that the ground, if annexed, would be used for a Mobile Home Park. The matter of the request has been taken under advisement by the Council. Fred J. Bower, Town Attorney, was present at the meeting and discussed the annexation and also the possibility that the William Payne property might be included in any proceedings.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By SAMUEL CARRICK
Some Early Pastors

The Troxells, like many of the old families were in the habit of using the same "given names" from "generation to generation." This tends to lead to a certain amount of confusion—trying to sort out the "Jacobs, Josephs, Johns, Peters, and Georges" — just to mention a few.

Old tombstones have a tendency to disappear—therefore—inscriptions from the old markers are important. The ancient burial ground at Tom's Creek (Lutheran) and the churchyard (Elias) in Emmitsburg both contain Troxell family graves. In addition some few members of the same clan are interred in the Evergreen Cemetery at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, and a few of these were removed to that ground from the old Lutheran churchyard, located, at one time, east of the jail (now the County Library) at the corner of South Stratton and East High Streets. This data—since the family is one and the same—will be included with the notes on the "Troxells of Frederick County."

Now to return to the inscriptions from the Troxell grave markers in Elias Lutheran churchyard:

16. In memory of Joseph Peter Troxell, born May 19, 1822, died April 14, 1862.

17. Sacred to the memory of Joseph Zacharias Troxell, born October 20, 1819, died June 7, 1854.

18. In memory of Peter Troxell, son of Peter Troxell, born October 23, 1768, died December 4, 1856.

Note: A son of the pioneer, Peter Troxell, who first settled in Pennsylvania, but later came into Maryland, probably with the "Monocacy settlers." John Troxell, the brother of Peter (2), and another son of the old pioneer, was one of the first "residents of Gettysburg, after the town was laid out." He was first interred in the Gettysburg Lutheran churchyard but his body was later moved to the Evergreen Cemetery—where the grave can still be seen.

Abraham (3) Troxell, the son of John (2) and grandson of Peter (1), was, according to family tradition "the first child born in Gettysburg."

19. In memory of Peter Troxell, died May 26, 1816, aged 39 years and 18 days.

20. In memory of Magdalena Troxell, wife of Peter Troxell, born April 3, 1719, died June 25, 1799.

Note: In Elias Churchyard, the third Peter Troxell, who died fairly young, lies buried between his father, Peter (2) Troxell, and his mother, Magdalena Troxell. The first Peter Troxell, together with his wife and other members of the family, are interred in Tom's Creek Lutheran burial ground.

21. In memory of Samuel Troxell, born June 2, 1823, died January 9, 1851.

There will be more data pertaining to the "Troxell family of Pennsylvania and Maryland" in future columns of this series.

Listed among the "early pastors" to serve Elias Lutheran church was the Rev. Solomon Sentman. In the history of the church, published in 1947, the following notes pertaining to Rev. Sentman are to be found:

"Sixth in order of time upon the ministerial roll is the Rev. Solomon Sentman, who preached his first sermon in Emmitsburg, January 17, 1841. Being a devoted and energetic pastor, his ministry among his people was characterized by untiring industry and fidelity.

"The Elder and Taney barn which stood in the Lutheran hitching ground burned in 1848, the cornice of the steeple caught fire from it, and the chance of the church burning was great as there was not sufficient force to throw the water up so high from the engine. Men were at the bell. Water was passed through the steeple to them. They flooded the roof, throwing empty buckets to the ground, but all to no purpose. When all hope of saving the church was gone, James Gallagher volunteered to cut the burning cornice away. They placed a rope around his body to support him. Stepping onto the roof, he cut the cornice. It fell to the ground and the steeple was saved.

"Before 1850, the Elias church had no pastoral record of its own. Whatever was recorded previous to this may be found in the Pastoral Record of the Taneytown congregation. After the meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Maryland in Washington, D. C., in October, 1850, a church register was kept in the Emmitsburg church.

"The Rev. Sentman signified to all his congregations his anxious desire for a division of the congregations into two distinct districts and with a view thereto actually resigned the Emmitsburg and Fountaindale charges, declaring his determination to resign the whole charge unless some arrangement for a division be amicably and satisfactorily made.

"This firm stand brought matters to a head. The division of the charge was amicably arranged."

The Rev. Solomon Sentman resigned the charge he had served so faithfully because of ill health. Many of the early ministers—and little wonder—broke under the strain of their duties. The majority served more than one congregation—and distance meant something in that day. Apparently Rev. Sentman labored at Fountaindale, Emmitsburg, and Taneytown. The heroic nature of man "is not always cast in bronze".

In the Sentman family Bible it is noted—"The Rev. Solomon Sentman died suddenly at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, December 10, 1871."

Rev. Sentman and his second wife, Sallie A. (Lehman) Sentman, are interred in the Evergreen Cemetery, Gettysburg. The graves of his first wife and two of their children are in the Lutheran churchyard at Taneytown, Maryland.

Through the courtesy of a reader of this column the records from the Sentman family Bible were made available. They throw light on the immediate family of this hard-working and faithful minister of the Gospel.

"Marriages—
"Married, in Saint John's Evangelical Lutheran church, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, by the Rev. C. W. Schaeffer, of Germantown, Pa., Solomon Sentman to Sallie A. Lehman, on July 13th, 1858."

Note: The first Mrs. Sentman, Eliza L. Sentman, died December 4, 1855, aged 44 years. The ministered almost four years before "taking unto himself another helpmate."

The notes on the old Tom's Creek burial ground and Elias Lutheran churchyard, the ministers and the families who "made their history" and laid the foundation stones—will be continued in this series next week.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Installs Officers

Installation of officers was the highlight of the January meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club held on January 18 in the Rocky Ridge Fire Hall. Those taking office for the coming year were: Mark Wivell, president; Mike Wivell, vice president; Vicky Wivell, secretary; Patty Keilholtz, treasurer, and Stanley R. Gregg, reporter. During the ceremonies, the gavel was turned over to the incoming president, Mark Wivell.

Each member answered the roll call by giving his or her birth date. Forty-four members were present along with five parents and two leaders.

Both the secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. Record books were collected. It was pointed out that all enrollment cards were due in the Extension Office.

Mr. Jim Wivell, coach for the 4-H's, said the first basketball game would be held on January 25. Stanley R. Gregg gave a report on the Dairy meeting.

Phyllis Wivell made a motion to have the meeting announced over radio station WTHU, thus eliminating the necessity of sending post cards to members. Families having the demonstrations and refreshments were to receive cards indicating his respective duty. It was announced that Beef, Sheep and Swine meeting would be held in the Walkersville Fire Hall on January 28.

The program schedule for the coming year was then presented to the members. One new member, Bruce Baust, joined the Club. The next meeting has been scheduled for Feb. 15 at the Fire Hall. Assistant Leader Mrs. Mary Wivell, and past president Phyllis Wivell, served refreshments to the group following adjournment at 8:30 p.m.

Princess Soya To Promote U.S. Soybeans In Europe

Adair Rountree, National Princess Soya, of Gatesville, North Carolina, will travel to England, Holland, Germany, and Spain in March 1971 as a goodwill representative for U.S. soybean farmers and the American Soybean Association.

Sponsor of the trip is Elanco Products Company, manufacturer of Treflan soybean herbicide. Princess Adair will be traveling with the Elanco/Treflan Soybean Champions Tour of Europe, made up of 20 farm couples who are winners of 1970 official state soybean yield contests.

Princess Soya's appearances in Europe will call attention to U.S. soybeans, which are becoming an even more important factor in European diets and animal production. She will also express the continuing interest of U.S. farmers in supplying the European market.

England, Holland, Germany and Spain import over $481,000,000 worth of U.S. soybeans—America's largest agricultural export—and soybean products annually.

Comeback For Beet Sugars
By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley, Hills, Mass.—During this century beet sugar has become steadily more important in the field of sweeteners. Part of this increasing significance has been due to the rapid growth of industrial usage of all types, with beet sugar taking over an ever larger portion of the market. Expansion of sugar consumption, in fact, has been phenomenally fast in beverages, baking and cereals. Prices On Par

In the highly competitive market for nutritive sweeteners, price variances have long played an outstanding role in determining demand for cane and beet sugar (both sucrose) and corn syrup (dextrose). In the more distant past, cane sugar sold at a considerably higher price than beet sugar. The great advances in industrial sugar usage, however, have pushed demand for beet upward to a point where the price gap between the two kinds has been practically closed.

During the 1960s, a catalytic event took place that helped to give a spectacular boost to the beet sugar business. This was the sudden exclusion of Cuban sugar from the U. S. domestic market, brought about when Premier Castro expropriated American-owned sugar properties on the island. Up to the time of the take-over and for many years before that, Cuba was the leading supplier of cane sugar to this country—constituting some 96% of the total. Along with cane sugar and corn syrup suppliers, beet sugar producers were quick to step into the gaping breach left by the Cuban shutoff.

Big Gains For Sugar Beets
Last year growers of sugar beets harvested a crop estimated at 26.0 million tons from some 1.4 million acres planted, a gain of 60% and 48% respectively over levels reached in 1960. This contrasted favorably with sugar cane harvestings that registered gains of only 54% and 33% in tonnage and acreage over the same span. Employing estimates of the Research Staff of Babson's Reports for sugar deliveries in 1970, it appears that tonnage consumption of beet sugar alone in the past decade has risen some 48% compared with 23% for cane sugar.

Overall consumption of sugar tends to reflect general expansion in the nation's population. But over the past ten years or so the accelerated growth of the most youthful segment of the populace has brought about an exceptionally broad step-up in utilization of industrial sugar. Then, too, there has been a transformation in traditional buying patterns, placing far greater emphasis upon pre-cooked and semi-prepared food items. The ban in late 1969 against cyclamate-based sweeteners in the beverage and food processing industries lifted sugar consumption in 1970 to a still higher plateau.

Quota Favors Beet Sugar
With 1971 sugar usage estimated at 10.9 million short tons, the percentage increment in the years' U. S. quota under the terms of the Sugar Act is beneficial to producers of beet sugar. An annual quota of 3.025 million short tons, raw value, is granted as long as U. S. total marketing stays within a range of 9.7 to 10.4 million short tons. When the national quota goes outside this range, quotas for beet and cane from mainland U. S. are adjusted, with about 75% of such alterations ascribed to beet sugar. The Sugar Act expires at the end of 1971, but provisions will be extended by Congress, probably with only a few mild modifications.

Investment Possibilities
After plummeting during the late 1968 - May 1970 period, stocks of most beet sugar firms have seen substantial recovery. Babson's Research Staff currently recommends purchase of the common stocks of Holly Sugar and Great Western United Corp. Worth continued retention in well-balanced portfolios are American Crystal Sugar, Amstar Corp., and Utah-Idaho Sugar.

to H & R Block, America's Largest Tax Service, many Americans—who in previous years had to worry their way through the last few days of the tax filing season, may no longer be required to file an income tax return.

The reason? The Tax Reform Act which brought about the most far-reaching changes in our Federal tax laws in recent years, has changed many of the basic requirements for filing a tax return. In prior years, anyone who had $600 or more gross taxable income ($1200 if 65 or over) was required to file a tax return, even if it was known that there would be no tax liability.

Under the new law, if you are a single person, you do not have to file a tax return if your gross income is less than $1700; if you are single and over 65, the amount is $2300; a married couple filing jointly, $2300; a married couple with one spouse over 65, $2900; and a married couple with both over 65, $3500.

Some of the rules still prevail, however. If you have self-employment income of $400 or more, you must file a return in order to pay your self-employment (Social Security) tax. If you are a married person filing separately, you must file a return if your gross taxable income exceeded $600.

H & R Block goes on to point out that even though you may not be required to file a return because of the new filing requirements, you will still want to file in order to get a refund of tax withheld from your pay. If you have any doubts about whether or not to file, you'd be wise to seek professional help.

St. Joe's Seniors Begin Teaching

They have been preparing since their sophomore year of college; now they face the real test.

Twenty-five elementary education students from St. Joseph College began their 8-week period of student teaching on February 1. A wide variety of schools—public and private schools in Baltimore, Waverly Elementary in Frederick County, Our Lady Queen of Peace School in Washington, D.C., and Mother Seton School in Emmitsburg—will be the site of their student teaching.

Already having observed their future pupils and having met with their associate teachers, the girls will teach from the 1st part of second semester until March 26. Each student has had five weeks' experience as a teacher aide this year.

Sister Mary Virginia Klisiewicz and Mrs. Madeline Ritter of the Education Department will observe and grade the students. Many of the girls have had experience working with children; some

Fight Against Drug Abuse Must Be Waged At Home

Newspapers recently carried the story of a young man who died tragically after coming down from a two-day trip on LSD. Alone in his bedroom at his family's fashionable suburban home, he shot himself in the head. According to those who knew him, he was an average guy; Boy Scouts in his youth, track team in high school, Eric Clapton on the stereo. His brother, a year younger, knew the victim had been on drugs. His parents did not.

Because of incidents like this, the drug question is seemingly on the minds of almost everyone. Drugs are a vexing problem not only to Americans, but also to citizens of other countries as well. Everyone who reads a newspaper or watches the evening news on television regularly is familiar with the seriousness of the drug problem. In Maryland courts there are drug charges pending against the sons and daughters of families who are listed in the social directory as well as those listed only in the telephone directory. There is not an individual, whether he lives in Bonn or Baltimore, Paris or Port Deposit, London or Leonardtown, who is immune. Drugs are a problem of our age against which there is no sure or certain defense and society must band together to combat it. All of the civilized nations of the world have become acutely aware and deeply concerned over the impact these drugs are having on their young people.

Earlier this month, I attended, by appointment of Vice President Agnew, a United Nations Conference on Psychotropic Substances, which is the technical term for mind-expanding drugs like LSD, barbiturates and amphetamines. The conference was called in an effort to, in these days of increasing international travel, restrict the free movement of drugs. The U.S. Department of Justice through John Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics, is cooperating with law enforcement agencies in other nations to prevent national boundaries from becoming a stumbling block to achieving this goal. I hope agreement can be reached on a treaty that provides for the strict control of the manufacture and distribution of chemical drugs. Once such a treaty is ratified by U.N. members, the world will have a mighty weapon with which to fight the drug problem.

However, all the legal weapons and international cooperation will not help resolve this problem if, while banding together to defend our young against this onslaught, we do not seek to understand the drug phenomenon. Until we do, we cannot hope to snap the string of saddened, bewildered parents whose child is suddenly snatched away by a strange intruder. It may not be possible for one person to solve the problems of another, but, in the case of our youth, we must keep the lines of communication open. This communication must be in the form of a dialogue, not a monologue.

In the room of the young man whose tragic case I described, there was a poster. It read: "Not everything that is faced can be changed. But nothing can be changed until it is faced." I hope that the problem of drug abuse is being faced not only at the conference table where this international meeting took place, but also in the households of Maryland where the battle will be won or lost.

Footnotes: Several new faces joined the Maryland delegation as the 92nd Congress convened. Former Congressman J. Glenn Beall Jr., of Frostburg, was sworn in as the state's junior senator. Goodloe Byron of Frederick, and Parren Mitchell and Paul Sarbanes, both of Baltimore, were sworn in as new members of the House. Early Senate action is expected—possibly by the time this is published—on President Nixon's nomination of Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Easton to be Secretary of the Interior. Senate Republicans re-elected Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Robert Griffin of Michigan as minority leader and minority whip, respectively. Senate Democrats re-elected Mike Mansfield of Montana majority leader and elected Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia to be majority whip. The House elected Carl Albert of Oklahoma to be speaker, succeeding John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, who retired. Hale Boggs of Louisiana is the new leader of the Democratic majority in the House; Gerald Ford of Michigan was re-elected leader of the Republican minority.

On Air Pollution

Warning—Stay Indoors

If you are a victim of chronic bronchitis, asthma, pulmonary emphysema or other chronic heart and lung conditions, your best means of protection during an air pollution crisis is to remain indoors.

The Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland advises persons suffering from any form of chronic lung diseases or whose lung disease has heart complications, to remain indoors with windows closed, preferably in an air conditioned room or in a room with a circulatory fan.

Such persons are also advised to stop smoking, to stay away from places where others are smoking, and to omit activities which raise dust such as vacuuming or dusting. During the heating season avoid starting fires in fireplaces and use extreme care in starting hot-air furnaces.

Avoid undue exertion and exposure to cold. The Medical and Chirurgical Faculty recommends that those individuals with severe lung or heart ailments should go to bed to relieve strain and improve their breathing capacity during an air pollution crisis.

If lung or heart symptoms increase, the individual should contact his physician at once.

It is also suggested that individuals with any of the above conditions clip and save this piece for reference in cases of intense air pollution.

D.M.V. REPORT

By DAVID H. HUGEL

Director, Public Information
Maryland Dept. of Motor Vehicles
Studded Snow Tires—
Legal Or Not
One of the more important questions to be resolved in 1971 in the field of highway safety involves the continued use of studded snow tires in Maryland. To clarify the status of studded tires in Maryland, we have asked Mr. Ejner J. Johnson, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, to restate the Department's position on these tires.

Q. Commissioner, what is the current law regarding the use of studded tires in Maryland?

A. Under the new Motor Vehicle Code which became effective January 1, 1971, studded tires are prohibited on Maryland highways unless specifically permitted by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. Pursuant to this Code, I have authorized their use this year until April 15th. This decision was made with some reservations, however, since there is a substantial body of evidence to indicate that studded tires cause considerable damage to highways. As a matter of fact, the Province of Ontario, Canada only recently outlawed the use of studded tires. I might emphasize at this point that although some people have misinterpreted my announcement placing an April 15th deadline for removal of such tires, had I not acted, they would have been banned in Maryland by statute on January 1st.

Q. Will studded tires be permitted in Maryland after April 15th?

A. If you mean will they be permitted next winter, the answer is a probable yes, but we have not yet made a final decision. I expect that we will reach a decision shortly, however. We are currently considering a regulation that would limit the use of studded tires to the winter months only because of the damage inflicted on the highways by the Tungsten-Carbide studs. A number of questions must be resolved, however, before a final regulation regarding the use of studded tires can be drafted. For example, there exists no legal definition of a studded tire, and there is strong evidence to indicate that studded tires are not effective unless used on all four wheels. I also want to examine in detail Ontario's decision to ban studded tires. When these matters are resolved, a final rule and regulation will be promulgated. In the meantime, what is generally regarded as a studded tire is being permitted to be used on Maryland highways because we feel that the importance of the highway safety aspect over-rides damage to highways considerations.

Your Maryland Tax

By LOUIS L. GOLDSTEIN
Comptroller of the Treasury

Who Is A Maryland Resident?

If you resided in Maryland on the last day of December, 1970, or you maintained a place of abode in the State for more than six months of 1970 whether you lived here or not, you are a resident of Maryland and must file an income tax return.

However, if you moved to Maryland from another state during 1970, with the intent of becoming a resident, your Maryland tax will be on the monies you earned after becoming a resident of Maryland.

On the other hand, if you moved from Maryland to reside in another state on or before the last day of December, 1970, you will be taxed on monies earned for the portion of the year you were a resident of Maryland, and as a non-resident for the balance.

Individuals who either establish or abandon residence in Maryland during a taxable year are taxable as non-residents for that portion of the year that residence status is not maintained.

Maryland residents in the armed services, or overseas, or working out of the State, on a temporary assignment, have an obligation to file a Maryland Income Tax Return to include all income, no matter where earned, or from whatever source.

A resident is subject to tax on his entire income though part may have been earned for services performed outside Maryland. An individual whose status changes from a resident to that of non-resident, or from non-resident to that of resident during the year is required to report his entire income for the portion of the taxable year in which he was a resident of Maryland.

The personal exemptions and dependent credits allowable to those whose resident status changes during the year are pro-rated according to the number of months of residence.

So be sure to clarify your resident status on your return.

Racing Starts Tonight At Charles Town

Thoroughbred racing returns to the Shenandoah Valley tonight (Friday, Feb. 5) when the Charles Town Turf Club opens a 67-night meeting. The 1971 inaugural session will run through April 24.

It will be the first of four meetings in this pioneer center of the sport: Charles Town and Shenandoah Downs will get together a 1971 season for 259 nights. Shenandoah will end its December 4.

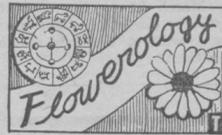

The focal point of the first track to operate in West Virginia again will be the clubhouse, hailed in 1970 as the showplace of East Coast racing. The structure, completed at a cost of $2.25 million, features dining for more than 1400 persons, chair seats for 800, elevator to upper levels, and this section's first escalator.

The entire Charles Town plant is heated and glass-enclosed, assuring patron comfort in any weather.

Racing in 1971 will follow virtually the same pattern that saw Charles Town and Shenandoah set four consecutive betting records last year. There will be big exacta wagering on the fifth and sixth races and three little exactas.

Charles Town will schedule nine races Monday through Friday with 10 on weekends. Post time will be 7:15 p.m.

Naturally rebellious, the Aquarian's temperament can be ruined by too conventional a life, but he is one of the most trainable, having brain to train and the swift flash of genius to bring ideas to use.

They are freedom-loving, original and independent but limited in that they often stress their ideas to the neglect of all else. They are also fixed and find it difficult to adapt themselves to other ways, or even to see that there are other points of view besides their own.

Aquarians have acquired the blue carnation as their flower, the sapphire as their birthstone and the ability to gather wisdom from knowledge their principal characteristic.

One way to nurture the human touch in Aquarians is to send them flowers from time to time. Florists with the FTD emblem in their windows stand ready to deliver floral gifts to Aquarians anywhere in the world.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Lucrative Legislation

Among the hardy perennials in various State legislative halls are bills to legalize and tax pari-mutuel wagering on Thoroughbred racing. Recent campaigns in this direction have been waged in Texas, Georgia and Connecticut and now other states are preparing their campaigns. Lest one get the idea that the countryside will have as many race tracks as hot-dog stands, it should be noted that in 1970 there were roughly one hundred tracks in operation in 30 states while in 1897 there were 314 tracks in operation in 29 states, the Oklahoma Territory and Washington, D.C.

About all that the State governments derived from racing in the 19th century, however, was entertainment. In 1969 the 29 states cut up a melon worth $461,498,886 from Thoroughbred racing along with harness racing, and Quarter Horse and Fair racing contributing another $147,518,108 and $10,775,110 respectively.

It is interesting, and probably distressing in some quarters, to note that while, in the past 25 years, pari-mutuel sales at the Thoroughbred tracks have increased by 179.8 percent, the revenue to the states derived therefrom has increased by no less than 364.6 percent. Nor has this been due entirely to the increase in racing; the actual number of days of racing has increased, but only by 170 percent.

Tomorrow's Housekeeping By Samantha

Have you ever dreamed about having one of those all-porcelain Super Modern bathrooms -- with built-ins and rounded edges and a drain in the floor so you could hose it down, ceiling, walls and all, every time the kids finish with it?

Well of course you don't have such a bathroom yet but you do have kids and they'll never change. So you have soggy towels, melting soap bars, greasy greasy streaks on the walls, floor and sink, toys in the bottom of the bathtub, etc., etc. Not exactly the scene for a lovely, luxurious bath when it's your turn.

The first thing you need is a heavy duty cleaner -- a single product that works equally well on ceramic tile, porcelain, painted surfaces, woodwork... quickly removes blobs of shampoo, toothpaste, grease-laden soap scum, and just plain dirt. Lestoil, with its grease-dissolving ingredient, makes light work of all bathroom cleaning, including toilet bowls. (Keep a bottle handy hidden away behind the window curtain, for quickie clean-ups anytime.)

The second thing you could use is a lidded basket to keep your personal items like bath oil, fancy soap, creams, etc., out of the children's reach. Try a bicycle basket painted to match the bathroom and hang it on the back of the bathroom door.

Have a net drawstring bag (the kind sold for machine-washing delicate lingerie) for the kids' bathtub toys. After each bath they can hang the bag of toys over the tub faucet, thereby keeping them more or less out of sight while they drain dry.

Getting rid of bathtub rings is a Lestoil specialty (its grease-dissolving ingredient quickly melts away the soap scum and body oils that cause dirty tub rings). Pour some on one of those stiff nylon net scouring pads (more heave-ho than a sponge), go over the ring and rinse.

Don't get into the habit of chueking clean-but-soggy towels into the laundry just so you can keep the bathroom neat. Give each child his own towel bar fixed at kiddie height so he can spread his towel out to dry each time he's finished with it.

Cleaning dirt from the crevices of a rubber tub mat is easy when you use your grime-dissolving cleaner and scrub it with a small brush. (An old nail brush works fine.) Rinse thoroughly with clear water. And you can use the same cleaner with a larger brush or a piece of rough textured cloth to remove the soap scum that accumulates on tile shower walls.

If your bath mat's too heavy to dry quickly, try covering it with a used towel each time the kids take a bath, so it won't get soaked through. The towel is easier to dry -- and much easier to launder.

Here's a fast way to get rid of that special kind of grime that attaches itself to plastic shower curtains. Fill the tub a third full with hot water and add a cup of Lestoil. Drop in the curtains, swish, rinse thoroughly and rehang, spreading them out full-width so they dry without wrinkles.

Tag Applications To Be Mailed

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Ejner J. Johnson announced this week that more than two million license tag renewal applications will be mailed out February 11, with sales beginning Tuesday, February 16.

He also reminded Maryland drivers that this year for the first time they will receive tag validation stickers instead of new tags.

The five-year tag program was created under legislation introduced in 1969 by Senator Harry Hughes, Maryland's new Secretary of Transportation, and became effective last year.

Under this plan, license tags are issued only every fifth year with validation stickers being used for the four intervening years. Mr. Johnson predicted that validation stickers would save the State nearly two million dollars over the five year life of the tags. He said these savings were possible because:

1. Validation stickers are small and much less expensive to manufacture than regular tags, costing only $.06 a set to produce, as compared with $.44 for tags.

2. Bein smaller and lighter in weight, they can be sent more economically by first class mail for $.06 than tags can be by third class mail at $.42 per set.

The Commissioner went on to say that tag validation stickers may be purchased by mail, at the Department's Glen Burnie Headquarters, or branch offices in Cumberland, Rockville, Salisbury and Waldorf, as well as through the County Treasurers of Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, and Worcester Counties.

The Department of Motor Vehicles' Glen Burnie offices and the branch offices will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily for the convenience of motorists, but Commissioner Johnson reminded motorists that all State offices, including the Department of Motor Vehicles, will be closed Maryland Day, March 25. Persons sending their tag renewal by mail are advised to do so by no later than March 19 to allow time for processing and delivery of the validation stickers.

Vehicle owners who do not receive their tag applications by February 20 are requested to write the DMV immediately, giving their present tag number, the title and serial numbers of their vehicles, their full name, and present address. All of this information is necessary to enable the computer-printer to print their correct applications.

Tag fees again this year will be $20 for vehicles with a gross weight of 3,700 pounds or less, and $30 for vehicles weighing more than 3,700 pounds.

Motorists are cautioned against displaying their new tags before March 1st, and reminded that midnight March 31 is the absolute deadline for displaying their present tags without the new validation sticker.

PE To Spend $60 Million This Year

The Potomac Edison Company plans to spend $60 million this year to strengthen service and reliability to its customers in parts of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Included in the construction budget are several million dollars for anti-pollution equipment.

More than half the $60 million will be used for construction or construction preparation of generating stations that will be needed to satisfy electrical demands of PE's 217,000 customers.

Bulk of the plant construction money is earmarked for the Harrison generating station now being built near Clarksburg, W. Va. This station will be owned by PE and the other two operating companies of the Allegheny Power System, Monongahela Power of West Virginia and West Penn Power of Pennsylvania.

The first of three 650,000-kilowatt units at the $370-million station is expected to go on the line in 1972, with the other units slated for completion in 1973 and 1975.

A third 540,000-kilowatt unit is planned for completion this year at the $260-million Hatfield's Ferry station near Masontown, Pa. This station, too, is owned by all three APS companies and all three share the output.

Power generated at these units is needed to satisfy the growing customer demand in the PE service area, which increases by about 10 per cent each year.

More than $8 million will be spent this year on devices to control pollution on the third unit at Hatfield's Ferry. More than $23 million will be spent for anti-pollution equipment at the Harrison Station by the time it is completed in 1975.

PE plans to spend about $700,000 this year for an additional electrostatic precipitator to remove dust particles from the stacks at the R. Paul Smith generating station at Williamsport, Maryland.

Additional money is included in the budget for extra-high-voltage lines to carry power to the areas of greatest need in the service area or to strengthen interconnections with other utilities.

More than half a million dollars will be spent at the Doubt-

Substation in Montgomery County, Md., to add equipment that will increase regional reliability.

Other transmission lines and substations will be built throughout the system to strengthen existing facilities and provide added capability for future loads. Distribution lines and substations used to reduce voltage and bring power directly to homes, business and industry here will cost PE about $12 million during 1971.

There's no rule in nature that requires an individual to say what he, or she, thinks.

EYE-METRICS
THE "NOW" LOOK

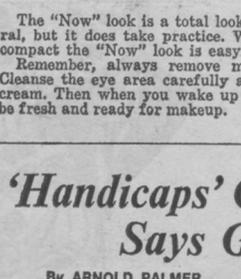

If you've been shy about eye makeup until now, don't hold back any longer. Here are a few hints for the "Now" look. It is more natural, more subtle, softer—more sophisticated. It is done with a lighter hand, a softer touch and believe it or not it's geometric. A new eye compact by Corsilk wraps up all the "know-how" in one tiny sophisticated "everything" kit.

Square Eye

If you were never any good at geometry anyway, get double-duty out of the pearlescent highlighter. Used over the lid and brushed from the inner corner out, it widens and brightens the eye. Used lightly under the eyes, it covers up tell-tale shadows and makes tired eyes look fresh, rested. (Sketch Right)

Round Eye

The "Now" look is a total look. It is glowing, fresh and natural, but it does take practice. With Corsilk's handy little eye compact the "Now" look is easy. It's got everything. Remember, always remove makeup before you go to bed. Cleanse the eye area carefully and pat on a rich, moisturizing cream. Then when you wake up in the morning, your skin will be fresh and ready for makeup.

Wide Eye

If the square eye intimidates you, try the round-shadowed eye. For the true Elvira-Madigan-young-love look, ring your eye with pale, misty shadow. Circle the eye completely, using the soft brush to blend the shadow artfully. (Sketch Left)

'Handicaps' Can Be Conquered Says Golf Champ Arnold Palmer

By ARNOLD PALMER
Honorary National Chairman
The National Foundation—
March of Dimes

Wouldn't it be great if medical science could be as successful in wiping out birth defects as it was with polio!

I have joined forces with the March of Dimes in the campaign to do this because I know of the good these people have done and the worthiness of their programs to help children born with defects.

I have seen my father, who was afflicted with polio at a very young age, live a completely normal life without encountering any real setbacks. He is still hard at work, though in his mid-60s, and still plays a pretty good game of golf.

A lot of children born with defects can overcome their handicaps and lead something close to a normal life if given the proper help. That is certainly one goal. But the mental part of being healthy is as important as the physical part, and it was that part that impressed me about Marty Mim Mack, the national poster child for the March of Dimes.

Living With Handicaps

Marty and I met when we worked together shooting a film for the 1971 March of Dimes campaign drive. There is quite a bit of difference between my father and Marty. Marty's handicap is far more serious. He was born without arms and with a hip defect that made his left leg three inches shorter than his right.

In my father's case, polio left him with a limp but no other severe physical handicap. He reacted normally, I think, to the fact that he would have to live with his handicap and decided to make every effort, physically and mentally, to overcome it. He has done so and I feel that taking this attitude at the start made it a lot easier for him.

This will be a lot harder for Marty, particularly as he grows older. So far, in the short time that I have known him, he seems to be able to handle his problems pretty well, which is a good sign for the future.

DETERMINATION is what it takes to overcome handicaps and prevent birth defects, says golf great Arnold Palmer, Honorary National Chairman for the March of Dimes.

Marty seems to have accepted with very little difficulty the fact that he is crippled and will be handicapped for the rest of his life. The first thing for a person with a handicap to do is to recognize that fact and what goes with it and make the very best of it. Marty has done this totally.

Making Those Putts

In fact, he seems to recognize and accept his situation much better than people who become handicapped later in life. One thing that is involved is the way people react to someone who is handicapped. Adverse reactions could easily get a youngster like Marty down a bit and perhaps lead him to put up a barrier between himself and others. I don't believe Marty has done this.

When we worked together making the film, I saw in Marty a determination to do all that he was asked to do. He was determined to make those putts. It's something a good golfer must have—determination to play to the very best of his ability. You can't take a half-hearted, disinterested attitude onto a golf course and play up to your ability.

I think that those of us who are trying to help Marty and other children handicapped by birth defects must anticipate that these young people are bound to have some difficulties in adjusting to their predetermined roles in life. Yet, at the same time, I don't think that these people want pity. They want to build up confidence that they can help themselves to some degree, as much as is physically possible.

It is the same with a golfer. You show me a golfer who is a winner and I'll show you a person who feels in his mind that he can make the difficult shots, cope with the pressures of the competition and defeat the course or the opponent.

That's how we have to feel about birth defects. Everybody in America and the world should be concerned with and support the efforts of the March of Dimes and its thousands of volunteer workers. You never know when the diseases and other causes of birth defects might strike home.

Specifications and proposal sheets may be obtained at the Board of Education Office. Sealed bids will be received at the Board of Education Office until 3:00 P.M. (EST), February 18, 1971. ing at the library on Tuesday, January 26. Those attending were Robert Holmes, chairman; Bernard Kaliss, treasurer; Mrs. John Chatlos, recording secretary; Mrs. William Carr, Miss Ruth Shuff, Mrs. Hazel Caldwell, Mrs. John Warthen and Mrs. Vernon Keilholtz. Mr. John White was unable to attend.

Mrs. Keilholtz gave the circulation report. There were 1994 books, films, records and periodicals loaned for the month of November and December. The movie projector was loaned 10 times and the slide projector 10 times, for the two-month period. 143 children from the neighborhood—Mrs. Chatlos' kindergarten, and the Seton Day Care Center—visited the library for story hours conducted by the library staff and each child selected his own book to take back to school. The Saturday morning story hour is still in progress also.

It was noted how well the library window looked all during the Christmas holiday. Much gratitude goes to the Garden Club for their generosity in decorating. The Board voted to sponsor the art show again this year. A new subscription to a Game news magazine was received by the library from Dr. Caulfield. This is a nice addition to the periodical collection as the library had no sports magazines of that type. Mr. Bernard Kaliss presented a proposed budget for 1971-72. It was approved and accepted by the board.

Mrs. Warthen asked if money could be appropriated for film strips and records to be used with the story hour that is conducted within the library. The board agreed to help when it is decided exactly what is needed. It was noted that the record player is in the shop for repair. Numerous books have been donated to the library. Mary Agnes Walter donated a new book on Antiques. Mrs. Mary Seese, donated two books by Kemelmans, "Saturday the Rabbi Went Hungry," and "Friday the Rabbi Slept Late." Timothy Keilholtz donated "Madame Bovary," and "Casino Royale," by Ian Fleming. Mr. Kaiser donated 12 paper backs of the larger easy eye paper type books, mostly Gothic originals. "Losing Battles," by Eudora Welty, was donated by Hazel Caldwell. The library is grateful for any books that enhance the use of the library. The library will accept any good children's records that your child may have outgrown.

The meeting was adjourned until the fourth Tuesday of February.

Miss Beverly Davis On Dean's List

An Emmitsburg student attending Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music was among 33 students earning spots on the conservatory Dean's List for the fall semester. Miss Beverly Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Davis, 28 West Main St., compiled a 3.28 academic average to be eligible for the honor covering the semester which ended just prior to Christmas.

A Shenandoah student must maintain at least a 3.25 average for 12 or more credit hours with no grade lower than 'C' to be included on the honor list.

A graduate of Catoctin High School, Miss Davis is a freshman piano major in Shenandoah's Bachelor of Music Education program. Shenandoah is a United Methodist junior college and a four-year conservatory of music located in Winchester, Va. Enrollment is 500.

TREAD AND TRUE ECONOMY

The current money pinch is prompting economy-minded motorists to take a long look at retread auto tires—both for winter and warm weather driving. The Tire Retreading Institute of Washington, D.C., says sports and conventional car drivers alike are discovering that the "new breed" of quality-certified retreaded tires available today give the same smart look, high safety performance and road mileage as comparable new tires—at half the cost. The "new breed" of retreads has been made possible by vastly improved retreading equipment, materials and techniques, and quality control, the Institute explains, adding that: "About 70% of the cost of a new tire goes into its casing. It makes good sense for motorists, from the standpoint of safety and economy, to have their tires retreaded by reputable quality retreaders. The Retreading Institute members guarantee their 'new breed' of retreads from coast-to-coast."

CYO To Entertain Senior Citizens

Tuesday, February 16, at 6 o'clock p.m., the Emmitsburg Senior Center will be the scene of the regular monthly meeting in the shape of a Turkey Dinner, the turkey furnished from club funds, and members will bring covered dish viands to round out the meal. Everyone come and join the feast.

The Senior Citizens Club has been the recipient again of upholstery materials suitable for sofa cushions, foot stool covering, toe bags and what have you, from the American Upholstery Co., of Westminster. These fabrics are now on sale for those interested, at the Center for quite nominal sums. The Senior Citizens are extremely grateful for these mill-end fabrics donated by the American Upholstery Company.

Saturday evening, February 13, 1971, at 8 o'clock, the CYO Club will entertain the members of the Senior Citizens Club at the Center. These young people have been gracious enough to plan a program and party for the Senior Citizens Club before, which have been thoroughly enjoyed by all. Every member come and enjoy the entertainment prepared by the CYO Club.

Teachers Exchange Knowledge

On Friday, January 29, several enthusiastic sisters and lay teachers from Frederick, Hagerstown, Westminster and Taneytown, brought the ice and snow to come to Emmitsburg. Here, at Mother Seton School, a day of sharing began at 9:00 a.m.

The teachers of the primary grades demonstrated some of their latest teaching techniques gained at a workshop last summer at St. Joseph College.

The upper elementary teachers enjoyed a film on the use of the inquiry method in teaching. Sister Joan and Sister Mary Aloysius gave a thorough and informative explanation of the Open Space Program they are presently using with the eighth grade students in social studies, science and religion.

The morning session culminated with the Eucharistic Sacrifice celebrated by Rev. John Quirk, C.M. A delicious luncheon followed, which was prepared by Mrs. Margaret Myers and Mrs. Loretta Adelsberger.

Our thanks to all who helped to make this a successful and inspiring in-service institute.

The Atlantic ocean area off Cape Hatteras, N. C., is known as the "Graveyard of the Atlantic" because more than 2,000 ships have been lost in the fierce storms and currents.

"Whenever you start nibbling away at freedom of the press, it's hard to know when to stop... We've got to have a free press, whether it's responsible or not and currents."

ZIP COLUMN

Our office will be closed on Monday, February 15th, in observance of George Washington's Birthday. Information concerning mail transportation, on this holiday, should be as yet been received.

Should we receive a morning mail, it will be sorted to the Post Office Boxes, and the box lobby would be left open. In the event our transportation is cancelled, and no mail received, we will be completely closed. I shall have this information in next week's column.

There will be no rural delivery service on this date.

Under a federal law, that became effective January 1, 1971, four holidays will be observed on Mondays, by District of Columbia and Federal Government employees.

A large number of states have also adopted laws that declare uniform Monday holidays.

The basic purpose of the Uniform Monday Holidays Legislation is to provide more three-day weekends and to eliminate the inconvenience of observing holidays in the middle of a week.

The following holidays will be observed under the new law, as follows:

Washington's Birthday—third Monday in February.

Memorial Day—last Monday in May.

Columbus Day—second Monday in October.

Veterans Day—fourth Monday in October.

Nun To Present Chemistry Paper

Sister Denise Eby, D.C., chairman of the department of natural sciences and mathematics and professor of chemistry at St. Joseph College, presented a paper at the 5th Middle Atlantic Regional meeting of the American Chemical Society on February 3 in Baltimore.

Sr. Denise's topic "Interaction of NAD Analogs With Glyceroldehyde Phosphate Dehydrogenase" is the result of her doctoral study in enzyme biochemistry. Dr. Mary E. Kirtley, associate professor of biochemistry at the University of Maryland, is co-author of the paper.

A graduate of St. Joseph's, Sr. Denise received her master's degree in chemistry from the Catholic University of America and her Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Maryland. Sr. Denise has been a full-time member of the faculty at St. Joseph's since 1950.

Msgr. Fox To Talk At St. Joseph College Feb. 9

Monsignor Robert J. Fox, director of Full Circles Associates, will speak at St. Joseph College on Feb. 9 in DePaul Auditorium. His lecture on "Social Action" begins at 7:30 p. m. and is open to the public.

Born and raised in the Bronx, Msgr. Fox attended the St. Columbian pre-seminary in Silver Creek, and Cathedral College and St. Joseph's Seminary in Dunwoody. After being ordained a priest in 1955 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, he served as a parish priest in Manhattan and then obtained a master's degree in social work from Catholic U in Washington, D. C. At this time he learned Spanish and began working extensively with Spanish-speaking people in New York's inner city and in Puerto Rico.

In 1963, after 18 months spent as a consultant and teacher in Uruguay under a Fulbright government grant, he was named Archdiocesan Coordinator for the Spanish Community Action.

Msgr. Fox is known for his efforts to set up language and culture training for New York's Spanish-speaking population and for his theories on community action. He has greatly influenced the New York Archdiocese's work with Spanish-speaking people. Among his nationally famous programs are "Summer in the City" and a "Thing in the Spring." He also was instrumental in ending the East Harlem riots of 1967.

Monsignor Fox announced the formation of the Full Circle Associates, a non-sectarian community action membership, in 1968. His philosophy of urban action is designed not to provide services for the poor, but to spark a whole new quality of life in the inner city and in suburbia by making man aware of his environment and teaching him to creatively respond to it in the context of true, strength - providing relationship with others.

Through his work, Monsignor has become convinced that it is necessary to form a community across religious, racial, class and generational lines and to work not just with the poor community but with the total community. His work and philosophy have come to national attention with articles on him appearing in Life, Time and Newsweek magazines and in the New York Times and the Christian Science Monitor.

The revised fees will be put into effect in September of 1971 for the 1971-72 academic year.

Catoctin High School Notes

Wednesday was Class Day. The Freshmen wore hats and non-matching socks; Sophomores wore bow ties and sneakers; Juniors wore shorts and T-shirts; Seniors wore red lipstick in a noticeable place. Thursday was Backwards and Insideout Day and Limitation Day. The students wore some article of clothing inside out or backwards. In homerooms, the students were given tags which had their grade number on it. After homeroom no one could talk to anyone outside of their class. If they did, that person took their buttons. That night there was a dance featuring the "Cherry Smash". Friday was School Color Day and Seniority Day. On this day the Seniors received the right to carry out any reasonable Senior right. The Juniors came in first place this year.

Charnita Hearing Set For Capital

The Federal Trade Commission in a notice issued recently has scheduled a hearing on a complaint filed in 1970 against Charnita, Inc., alleging violations of various "truth in lending" provisions of federal statutes.

The allegations included a charge the developer had failed to provide its customers with a required notice of their right to rescind credit transactions.

The hearing will be held before a specially assigned examiner on March 2 at 10 a.m. in the FTC offices in Washington, D. C.

The charges allege that in credit transactions, Charnita has not consistently disclosed credit information required by law. The cash price and cash down payment are not always designated and Charnita was not always identified as the creditor, it has been alleged.

HOW TO HANG ON TO A GOOD HUSBAND

How do you rate as a mate? Are you great—or are you a louse as a spouse? Though your best friends—including friend husband—may not want to tell you, you can arrive at a pretty accurate answer by quizzing yourself about the things you do and say.

Here are some questions to which you should be able to answer "I do!" But do you:

Spend his money wisely? Many a husband feels that one more "final sale" will be the last straw! Remember: a bargain is something you want and need, available at a lower-than-usual price; if it doesn't meet this test, it isn't a bargain. Remember, too, that there are times when the higher-priced of two items is the real buy: china costs more than earthenware, but is much less breakable.

Cook his favorite foods often? Even if he likes something you consider bad for him, he should be able to digest it once a week without dire effects. Besides, many low-calorie cookbooks offer non-fattening, nutritious ways to prepare old favorites.

Keep yourself energetic and even-tempered for him? He'll enjoy his leisure hours more if you are smiling and unfrazzled at the end of the day. No matter how hectic your schedule, make at least one hour of rejuvenating relaxation a part of it—either an afternoon nap or a feet-up-on-the-hassock "rest period."

Help him start the day right? Most men are grumpier when they wake up—so why add fuel to the fire? Make sure he sees a pretty sight: hair neatly combed, lips enlivened with a trace of lipstick, and soft skin he'll love to touch. And remember, this is the time of year that wind and weather team up with water and detergents to dry your skin. Do use special care preparations, like A and D Cream, to protect and restore its softness.

Entertain to do him proud? Treating his family and friends royally when they come to visit is a supreme compliment to him—and it's easier and less costly than you might imagine. Ample portions of simple fare usually make a better impression than a wide assortment of exotic foods with just a dab of each.

Just as important as your actions are your attitudes, as revealed in the things you say (or don't say) to and about your mate. Do you:

Build him up in public and keep his secrets? Fidelity is more than a matter of staying loyal each time you recite "cute" anecdotes that make him look small... correct or interrupt him in front of friends... or tell friends and relatives things they have no right to know.

Compare him favorably to other husbands you know? Instead of pointing out to him how much more other husbands in the neighborhood are making, etc.—concentrate on praising and polishing his good points. You may soon have something that Mrs. Jones will try to keep up with.

Accept him as he is without trying to change him? Any "reform" campaign is not only hard on the vocal chords and the marriage ties, but futile besides; the only person who can change your mate is friend spouse himself. You married him for what he was—or did you?

Tell him the good things that happened during the day? Avoid a long recital of the day's problems and woes—especially if there's a little or nothing he can do about them. Chances are he's had a heck of a day too. Try the same flattery you used before you married him? It worked then—why shouldn't it work now? Try it again... and really listen when your husband speaks. Both actions are great remedies for domestic headaches.

What are you waiting for?

- Are the new small cars a "tight squeeze" for you?
 - Clothes feel "snug"?
 - Do you avoid the bathroom scale?
- These are sure signs you're gaining unwanted weight! Do something about it—today. Weight Watchers can help you lose weight—and keep it off for good.
- Sensible, pleasant program includes 3 hearty meals a day plus snacks!
 - Skilled lecturer helps you every step of the way.
- You can join Weight Watchers this week—and be on your way to a slimmer figure.

COMMUNITY SHELTER PLAN FOR FREDERICK COUNTY

WHERE TO GO AND WHAT TO DO

In case of a nuclear attack upon the United States, you and your family would need to know where to go and what to do. This Community Shelter Plan, for Frederick County, contains this information for every citizen. It is based on making the best possible use of the fallout protection now available in Frederick County.

WHO HAS REVIEWED AND APPROVED THIS COMMUNITY SHELTER PLAN?

This Community Shelter Plan was approved by the Frederick County Commissioners on January 19, 1971.

John A. Berr President, Co. Commissioners

Donald L. Lewis Commissioner

Lawrence A. Doney Commissioner

Keep This Plan Handy. Be Able To Find It. You Will Want It In An Emergency.

WHAT IS FALLOUT ?

If a nuclear weapon explodes on or near the ground; tons of earth are drawn up with the "fireball" produced by the explosion. They mix with the radioactive materials produced by the explosion of the nuclear weapon, and eventually fall back to the ground as particles of "fallout".

Where these fallout particles come back to the ground depends on the winds.

Fallout may fall as far as several hundred miles from where the weapon exploded.

Fallout may arrive within 20 or 30 minutes, close to the place the weapon exploded. It may not arrive for several hours, farther downwind.

The primary danger from fallout particles is caused by the "gamma rays" they give off. Like X-rays, they can harm living things exposed to them.

Radioactive fallout decays. Seven hours after the burst, fallout is only 1/10th as radioactive as it was at 1 hour after the burst. After 2 days, it is only 1/100th as radioactive as it was at 1 hour.

PROTECTION FROM FALLOUT

You can protect yourself from fallout by getting heavy material (shielding) between yourself and the fallout particles giving off the gamma rays. The heavier the construction of a building you may be in the better protection it gives you.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

The purpose of these general instructions is to show each citizen how to determine where to go and what to do, if he is instructed to go to shelter.

To determine what to do if you are instructed to take shelter, first see whether there is a public shelter available to you. To do this:

1. Use the maps to find your location when at home, at work, or elsewhere.
2. Determine from the map whether a public shelter is available to serve that location.
3. Look at the list of shelters to determine if it is stocked or not. If it is not stocked you should prepare a list of items to take to shelters which you can use to insure you do not forget essentials.

In order to shelter and provide as much protection as possible for the maximum number of people the Government of Frederick County desires that you use your basement in event of emergency even though you could reach a public shelter. This plan has been based on those having basements using them so that public shelter will be available for those who have no other protection available.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR USING THIS MAP

- — 328 SHELTER FACILITY NUMBER
- — 438 SHELTER FACILITY NUMBER FOR "OCCUPANTS ONLY"

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS

1. Use the map to find your location when at home, at work or elsewhere.
2. If you are in a shaded or unshaded area, use your home shelter. If you are in a shaded area and have no shelter at home plan to go to the shelter nearest you in that area. From the list below you will find the name and address of your shelter, and also how you are to get there. You will find specific instructions for your individual area in the list below.
3. If you are not in a shaded area on the map and do not have shelter at home, you must protect yourself and your family by improvising shelter. See the instructions for doing this on pages 6 and 7 in this Community Shelter Plan.

Take Best Available Shelter at Once!

IF A VERY BRILLIANT FLASH OR HEAVY SHOCK OCCURS and you are not in a shelter, act as follows: If indoors, drop to the floor; get under a bed, desk, or heavy table; and stay on the floor out of line of flying glass, shielding face and head. If outdoors, quickly get behind a tree, into a ditch, or other protection. Then go immediately to the best shelter you can reach in no more than 30 minutes. If you cannot reach a public shelter or your home basement, choose any substantial building for protection.

WHAT TO DO

- Tune your radio to any local radio station for official instructions.
- Check your family emergency plan.
- Prepare your family shelter for occupancy.
- Check and replenish water and food supplies.
- Obey police and civil defense instructions.
- Do not use your telephone.

NOTE: When planning for your safety remember that two situations should be planned for: One for night and one for day.

IF YOUR CHILDREN ARE IN SCHOOL WHEN THE EMERGENCY HAPPENS, DO NOT GO AFTER THEM, THEY WILL BE SENT HOME, OR CARED FOR IN ACCORDANCE WITH EACH SCHOOL'S PLAN. YOUR SCHOOLS HAVE PLANS FOR MANY SITUATIONS.

YOUR FAMILY EMERGENCY PLAN

Fill out the family emergency plan below. This will tell each member of the family where to go and what to do in case of nuclear attack. Enter the names of all members of the family in the boxes at the left. In the next two columns, write in the place for each person to go. For example, if at work, father may take shelter at "1st National Bank," if at home, he may take shelter in "Home Basement," or at "Washington School."

Fill out the family plan on the basis of the information in this community shelter plan.

TRAVEL

People going to the public shelter from their homes or place of work must walk or drive as directed in the "Instructions" on the map side of this Plan.

Traffic control will be in effect if you are driving. If you have an accident you will probably not get to where you want to go. Remember that everyone is going to shelter, you can't get a tow truck. Ambulances will be busy moving the sick so drive carefully and insure you get where you are going.

PETS

Pets of any kind will not be permitted in public shelters. If you are going to a public shelter you should shut your pet in what you consider to be the best protected area of your home with plenty of water and some food. Water is most necessary to help your pet survive.

APPROVED FALLOUT SHELTERS

There are public fallout shelters in buildings in Frederick County which are marked by signs that look like this:

Follow Your Community
Shelter Plan!

It Gives You The Maximum Chance For Survival

In addition, many homes provide protection against fallout radiation. The purposes of this community shelter plan are (1) to match as many people as possible to public shelters which they can reach in a reasonable time; and (2) to recommend the best action to be taken by people for whom public shelter is not available. The overall aim is to recommend those actions which will give the best protection possible from fallout radiation for all of our citizens.

HOME SHELTERS

HOW TO IMPROVISE SHELTER AT HOME

If you take shelter in the best protected part of your home, you can add additional protection there. If your home has a basement, pick out the corner of your basement where the ground level outside is highest. This is the safest place in the basement. MAKE IT SAFER.

If you have a sturdy table or workbench, put it in the corner. Fill boxes or dresser drawers with the heaviest material readily available—sand or dirt, bricks—or if you have nothing heavier, newspapers or books. Stack these materials on the top of and at the sides of the table or workbench.

In belowground basements, it is most important to have shielding overhead. Place most of the material there.

If a workbench is not available, you can improvise a small shelter by using furniture, doors, dressers, or other materials. Make a sturdy table by removing doors from their hinges and placing them over supports in the safest corner of your basement. The supports for your table can be a chest of drawers or anything else which can take a heavy load. Use two or three doors for the top of this table, to provide enough strength to support the heavy load placed on them. Use anything with weight that can be moved. The heavier the material, the more the protection. But be careful not to overload the table to the point where it will collapse.

If your home does not have a basement, the safest place may be a crawl space under the house, or the central part of the home at ground level, farthest from the roof and walls. It is essential to make this area safer. Do this by placing boxes or drawers filled with heavy material on or around the space to be shielded. Illustrations of some improvising follow:

This sand-filled lean-to-basement shelter will accommodate three persons. The house itself gives partial shielding. Sandbags are used to block the end of the shelter.

If you have no basement, you can improvise a shelter by digging a trench next to the house, and making a lean-to structure with house doors. Pile the dirt from the trench and other heavy objects on top of the doors and at the sides for as much radiation shielding as possible.

FALLOUT SHELTERS

In selecting shielding material for any shelter, sand or earth can be substituted for concrete or brick, but for each inch of solid masonry you need an inch and a half of sand or earth. Adding shielding material to a shelter will improve the protection offered by the shelter, but it also may increase the cost of the shelter.

SHELTER IN A CRAWL SPACE

You should have foundation walls or use bricks, etc., for walls; add shielding material overhead as shown; if you can dig deeper do so so you can move around better.

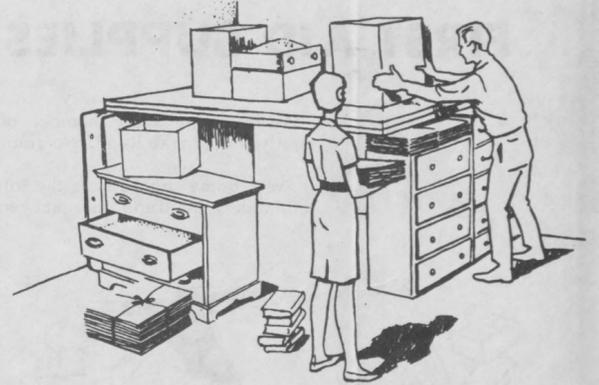

HOME FALLOUT PROTECTION

In 1968, a Home Fallout Protection Survey was conducted to determine the amount of protection existing in private homes. If you have a basement in your home, and filled out and returned the survey questionnaire, you received a booklet and card telling you which corner of your basement offers you the best protection against fallout. Only one, two, and three-family dwellings were surveyed. The card you received from the HFPS looked like this.

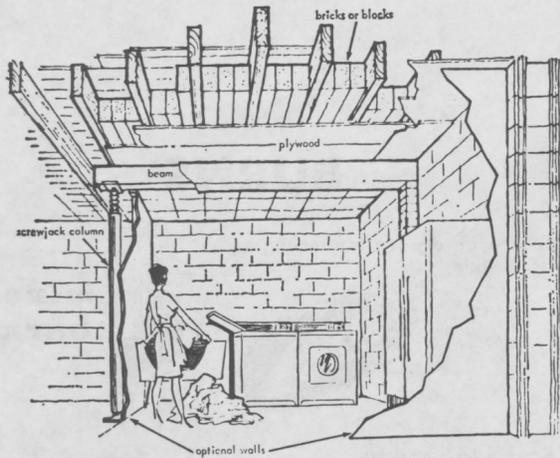

BASEMENT PF (Protection)		ADDED WEIGHT
Center	Best Corner

If your home has a basement and was constructed after the survey, or if you move into a home with a basement and cannot locate the survey data, request a Home Fallout Protection Survey form from your Civil Defense Office and submit it as directed.

LAST-MINUTE IMPROVED MEASURES

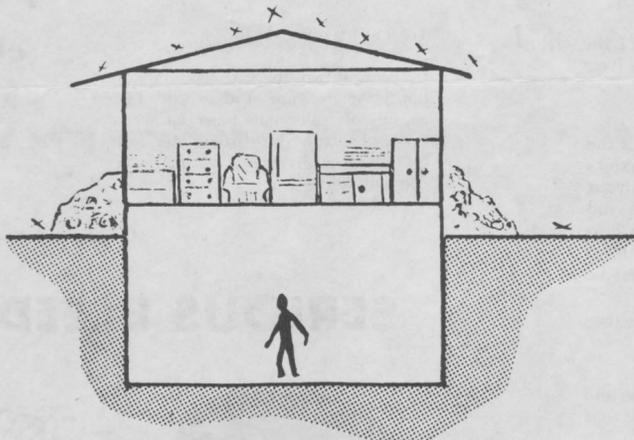

Improving fallout protection in the best protected part of a home without a basement.

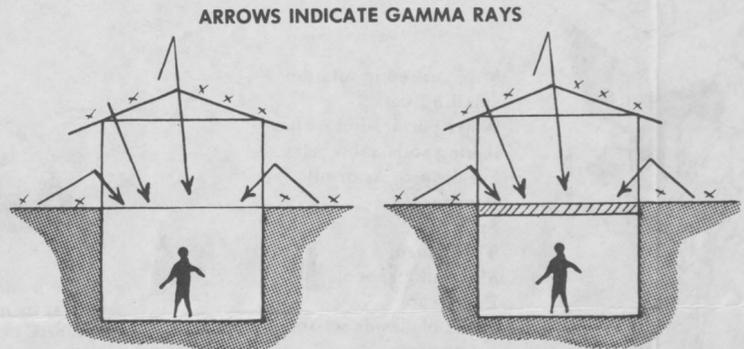

The above illustration shows one method of increasing protection in a home basement by adding dense material overhead. This is a simple and easy way to increase your protection.

BASEMENTS

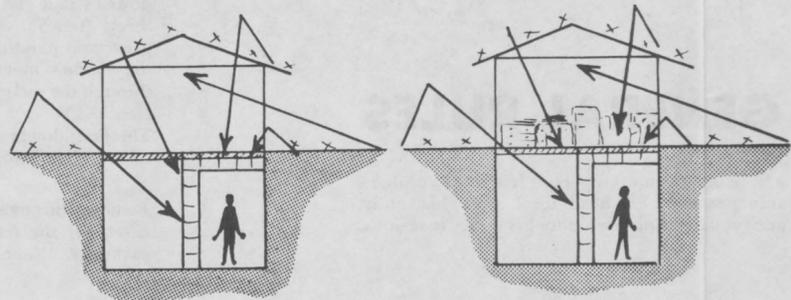

Typical shallow basement — Windows should be blocked with earth, concrete block or brick; heavy materials placed overhead of portion to be used.

Typical basement—Wooden floor, sheetrock ceiling, and shingle roof above basement.

Good basement — Concrete floor, sheetrock ceiling, and shingle roof above basement.

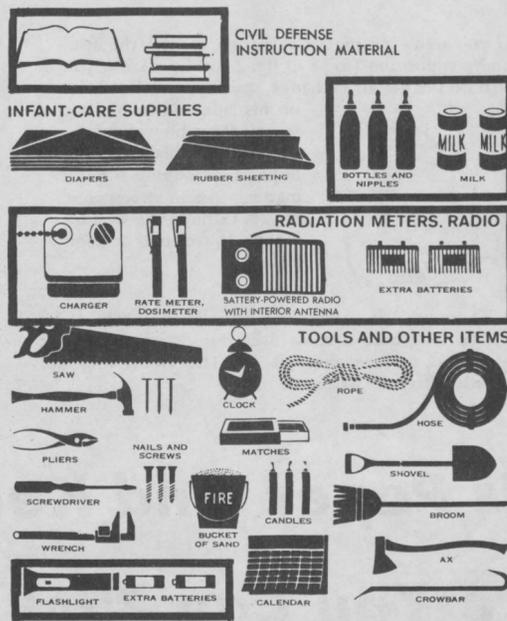

Better basement — Concrete floor, sheetrock ceiling, and shingle roof with concrete tile wall partition.

Best basement—Any combination of other basements with heavy household furniture or appliances placed over the ceiling of the basement portion of the house.

SUPPLIES FOR HOME SHELTERS

Not every item on this chart is vital to life. (The most essential ones are outlined in black borders.) But even though you might be able to leave your shelter briefly after a day or two, you should prepare to be COMPLETELY self-sustaining for at least two weeks.

SUPPLIES TO TAKE TO PUBLIC SHELTERS

1. Special medicines and foods.
2. Blankets.
3. Baby supplies, food and other baby needs.
4. Transistor radio with interior antenna and batteries.
5. Flashlight.

Your County Civil Defense also has additional information on all aspects of Civil Defense. Visit or call them.

FIRST AID

FIRST AID SUPPLIES

At least one adult member of every family should take Red Cross training.

Every home should have the following minimum first-aid and emergency supplies:

- Mild antiseptic solution
- Smelling salts
- Water purification tablets
- Baking soda, table salt
- Eye drops: Castor oil
- Bandages
- Splints
- Toilet soap
- Measuring spoon
- Paper cups
- Razor blades or scissors
- Safety pins
- Flashlight

GENERAL RULES

1. Keep an injured person lying in a comfortable position, his head level with his body, until you determine whether his injury is serious.

2. Examine for serious bleeding, stoppage of breathing, and poisoning. These must be treated immediately.

3. Keep him comfortably warm.

4. If possible, send someone to call a doctor or ambulance. In a war emergency trained medical help may not be available. You must be prepared for self-sufficiency in emergency health treatment.

5. Keep calm. Do not be hurried into moving an injured person unless it is absolutely necessary.

6. Never give an unconscious person anything to drink.

STOPPAGE OF BREATHING

American National Red Cross mouth-to-mouth (mouth-to-nose) method of artificial respiration

If there is foreign matter visible in the mouth, wipe it out quickly with your fingers or a cloth wrapped around your fingers.

1. Tilt the head back so the chin is pointing upward (fig. 1). Pull or push the jaw into a jutting-out position (fig. 2 and fig. 3).

These maneuvers should relieve obstruction of the airway by moving the base of the tongue away from the back of the throat.

2. Open your mouth wide and place it tightly over the victim's mouth. At the same time pinch the victim's nostril's shut (fig. 4) or close the nostrils with your cheek (fig. 5). Or close the victim's mouth and place your mouth over the nose (fig. 6). Blow into the victim's mouth or nose. (Air may be blown through the victim's teeth, even though they may be clenched.)

The first blowing efforts should determine whether or not obstruction exists.

3. Remove your mouth, turn your head to the side, and listen for the return rush of air that indicates air exchange. Repeat the blowing effort.

For an adult, blow vigorously at the rate of about 12 breaths per minute. For a child, take relatively shallow breaths appropriate for the size of the child, and blow at the rate of about 20 breaths per minute.

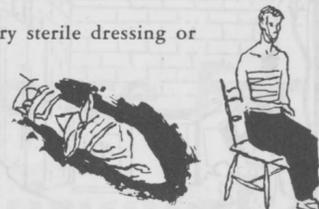

4. If you aren't getting air exchange, recheck the head and jaw position (fig. 1 or fig. 2 and fig. 3). If you still do not get air exchange, quickly turn the victim on his side and administer several sharp blows between the shoulder blades in the hope of dislodging foreign matter. Again sweep your fingers through the victim's mouth to remove foreign matter.

Those who do not wish to come in contact with the person may hold a cloth over the victim's mouth or nose and breathe through it. The cloth does not greatly affect the exchange of air.

BURNS

Cover with dry sterile dressing or clean cloth.

minor burns

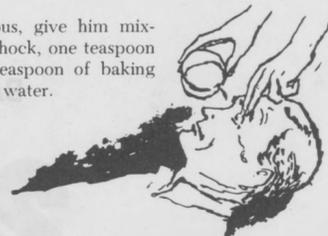

Keep victim lying down.

Remove clothing from burned area and cover with clean dressing.

If burn covers large area, take victim to nearest hospital.

severe burns

If victim is conscious, give him mixture prescribed for shock, one teaspoon of salt and a half teaspoon of baking soda to one quart of water.

Treat as for severe burn.

If chemical is in the eye, have the victim lie down. Turn head to side. Pour cupfuls of water into inner corner of eye so that water runs from outer corner. Lift lids gently while washing. Cover eye with sterile gauze.

chemical burns

external bleeding

Apply pressure directly over wound with clean cloth. If bleeding continues, apply pressure with fingers or heel of hand.

If bleeding stops, bandage cloth firmly into place. If wound is in arm or leg, raise it, using pillows or similar padding.

tourniquets

Only in rare cases should you use a tourniquet. Improper use can cause loss of a limb. When a tourniquet is used, the victim must have proper medical attention at once.

internal bleeding

If internal bleeding is suspected, treat as for shock
