Why Communists Use Youth
There are several hundred organizations within America plotting and working for the overthrow of our governmental, economic and social systems. Although World Communism's revolutionary strategy from the beginning was to radicalize industrial workers (the proletariat) under so-called "intellectual" leadership, international Communist tacticians have learned that in the more advanced nations youth of all classes are the easiest to seduce ideologically, the easiest to incite with propaganda and violence, and the easiest to convert into revolutionary shock troops.

has provided the manpower and the revolutionary fervor for Communist manipulation. Today in America the most powerful "thing" the Communists have going for them are young "intellectuals" in college and just out of college whose dedication to creation of a new (Communist) world is deep-seated and who are fiercely committed to whatever violent action is required. There are many thousands of these.

"Old Heads" Rule
Youth now predominates in all the secret meetings of the comrades, in all the marching parades, and wherever violence is plotted and activated as a Communist tactic. But there is always present, to keep the overall strategy clear and make the major decisions, "old heads" of the Communist international conspiracy. Sometimes these are college professors, sometimes persons from the deep underground unknown to the public.

A year ago we made a nationwide survey of governmental and police authorities to assess whatever shifts were being made in Communist strategy in the U. S. We were told then that the revolution-power to be most feared resided in the youth "movement" in America. We were told by the subversive activities chiefs of police departments in New York, Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco that the veteran revolutionaries such as the Black Panthers' Bobby Seale, Huey Newton and Eldridge Cleaver, as well as Henry Winston and Herbert Aptheker of the Communist Party USA could not raise a threatening crowd for any kind of anti-social or anti-system mischief without the manpower aid of the revolutionary youth "movement."

American "Proletariat" Resists

Our current investigations lead to the conclusion that the Communist "old heads" who are calling the shots on strategy within the U. S. have about given up on inciting revolution among America's blue-collar workers and are committed to expand their work among our youth; while agitating and seeking to integrate into the "movement" the Negroes, the Mexican-Americans, the Puerto Ricans, the American Indians and other "minority groups." They are using at least 300 separate organizations in their conspiratorial apparatus. In this secret Communist Party, has its own plans and activities of some of the major subversive groups.

The Communist Party USA, an adjunct of the ruling Soviet Communist Party, has its hands in activities of every revolutionary group in the country. The Socialist Workers Party and its youth section, the Young Socialist Alliance, representing the Trotsky brand of Communism, also have a hand in revolutionary group planning and activities. When the chips are down, these two appear to be, on the basis of published reports, the most influential guidance forces working for the destruction of the American system.

And when their masters in Moscow and Peking are ready to strike at the heart of America, they probably will be working together, although on the surface today they are constantly squabbling with each other like China's Mao and Russia's Brezhnev.

The Major Ones
In recent years in America, the most important organization for both Soviet and Chinese Communism has been the "peace" movement led by David Dellinger, who has described himself as a "non-Soviet Communist" but who has been identified in most of the press merely as a "pacifist leader." Dellinger's "Mobilization for Peace" outfit has been able, with Communist and non-Communist backing, to mobilize as many as 500,000 people in Washington and at times virtually monopolize television newscasts and other media.

Beall Proposes More Help For Older Americans

Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md) urged Congress this week to take steps to assure financial security and adequate care for older Americans.

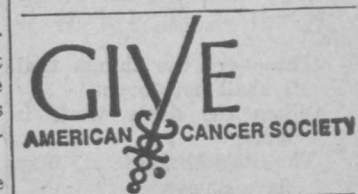

Speaking on the floor of the Senate on the subject of problems of the aging, Senator Beall called for improved Social Security and health care benefits, tax relief, and a commitment to keep older Americans actively involved in community life.

Improved ways to provide adequate long-term care for the elderly "without automatically resorting to the expensive and frequently unsatisfactory institutions which now seek to fulfill this need."

Special tax relief for senior citizens, whose income in most instances remains fixed while property taxes, sales taxes and other assessments constantly increase.

Senator Beall noted that the Senate already has taken a significant step in one area affecting the elderly by passing in December a nutritional program to provide hot meals on a daily basis at senior citizen centers.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Man's Battle With The Insect
By Babson's Reports, Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., February 10, 1972—What was once the routine use of chemicals to control insects has turned into a pitched battle between the environmentalists and the chemical companies. Those opposing the use of chemicals, particularly the chlorinated products, have managed to bring on the almost total demise of the universally known DDT insecticides in the United States. This group claims that there is a clear and present danger of the rapid rate at which DDT and other chemical insecticides in heavy use have been accumulating and poisoning our environment. On the other side of the fence are the insecticide advocates. They contend that there is a greater danger for humanity in the rate at which mosquitoes, grasshoppers, and other pests can spread disease and ravage crops, unless they are checked.

and mating. For the long range, a new insect control technique may evolve from this research. Such methods include killing pests by infecting them with certain bacteria and virus strains, using sex attractants to lure insects into traps, sterilizing insects by radiation or with chemical substances, releasing predators to kill off the pest population, and/or developing plant strains that resist insect attack.

Among the several companies working in these areas are the well-established chemical and drug producers such as FMC Corp., International Minerals & Chemical, Pfizer, and Abbott Laboratories. A newer and smaller entrant is a publicly traded company called Zeecon, which was formed and is controlled (40%) by Syntex.

well entrenched in commodity chemicals, equipment, and health and dental products. Investors wanting an overall position in chemicals should consider Pennwalt for appreciation, since good earnings are expected for 1972.

The Insecticide Market
Despite its dilemmas, the industry shipped insecticides worth $294 million in 1969 and over $300 million in 1970. By 1974 shipments are expected to total close to $400 million. DDT output will be mostly for export and other chlorinated will probably decline to the 1964 level. But sales of phosphate and other insecticides — assuming they are not banned — are slated to grow at least 7% annually. Major chemical producers in this new product line include American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, Shell Oil, and Stauffer Chemical.

Current Advice
Organic phosphate chemicals seem assured of a major share of the insecticide business. These substitutes for DDT, while not as effective, will have to do until such non-chemical methods as described above become less expensive and more practical. Of the major producers cited, the Research Department of Babson's Reports earlier recommended Dow Chemical at considerably lower prices. An interesting firm breaking into the field is Pennwalt Corp.

Enjoy Sweet Spanish Onions

Meaty pork chops are special indeed when they're simmered slowly with Sweet Spanish onions in herb-flavored consommé.

If you've never tried Sweet Spanish onions, you have a treat in store. These giant-sized onions have an exceptionally delicate flavor which sets them apart from the other members of the onion family. Grown in eastern Oregon and southwestern Idaho, you'll recognize Sweet Spanish onions by their round shape and crisp golden-bronzed skin which crackles to the touch.

Enjoy Sweet Spanish onions in numerous ways until their season ends in March. You'll especially delight in their mildness when used raw, as in salads, sandwiches and relishes.

Pork Chops With Onions

1 Idaho-Oregon Sweet Spanish onion	1/4 teaspoon thyme
6 pork chops	1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 (10 1/2 oz.) can consommé	1 tablespoon flour
	2 tablespoons water

Peel and slice onion. Trim fat from chops. Heat fat in skillet to measure about 1 1/2 tablespoons. Add pork chops and slowly brown on both sides. Push chops to one side and saute onion. Arrange onion over pork chops. Add consommé thyme and pepper. Cover and simmer slowly 1 hour. Remove chops and onions to warm platter. Combine flour and water and thicken pan juices. Serve over chops. Makes 6 servings.

Perspective In Learning By Hazel Brown

BY HAZEL BROWN

The Atmosphere for Learning!
Most parents like to know that their children are receiving the best education possible. They are usually willing to support the school system in most ventures aimed at improving learning and incentives.

Why not give some thought to initiating an interior decorating job? Need that schoolhouse be so drab? It's amazing what a few changes will bring. The housewife knows how rewarding it is to rearrange the furniture. A teacher should have the opportunity for the same thrill. Seeing those rows of desks each day can become very depressing.

Many different activities take place within the classroom. Just to mention a few — discussing, experimenting, researching, debating, lecturing, evaluating, diagnosing, and counseling. It would seem difficult to accomplish all of these tasks in a standard classroom with four walls and rows of desks. Why not think of designing the environment to meet the needs of the students and the learning processes?

The environment should be psychologically safe. Learning is at its best when there are relaxing and non-threatening conditions. Just the presence of round tables with chairs, lounge furniture, and carpet makes any area seem more cozy and comfortable.

A classroom should provide opportunities for communication between students and the teacher as well as students with other students. How can someone sitting in the back row share ideas with someone sitting up front? It seems to me that most classrooms are organized for a preacher rather than the teacher and the students. Surely minor changes could take place so that students could at least see each other and not just the back of someone sitting in front of them.

A classroom should be stimulating as well as relaxing. Heat, light, color, decor and furniture could make the difference. Available materials and resources could make the difference. Available materials and resources are necessary. A history classroom should contain artifacts, maps and pictures which create a curiosity for learning. Can you imagine the many interesting possibilities for decorating a science classroom?

Today the main topic of conversation regarding education is usually discipline. Do you believe that discipline problems would be less if the students were involved with school activities and interested in learning? Next time you visit a classroom, just look around and try to imagine how involved you would be if you had to sit there several hours each day. Maybe you will begin to realize the importance of the atmosphere for learning.

The Peace Corps 8-Cent Commemorative Stamp will be first issued in Washington, D. C. on February 11, 1972.

The United States established the Peace Corps in 1961, and over the years a total of 50,000 Peace Corps volunteers have aided newly developing countries.

At present there are 8,500 Peace Corps volunteers serving in 56 countries. Volunteers usually serve two years and are paid a modest living allowance.

Until last June, the Peace Corps had been an agency within the Department of State. Then it was transferred by executive order to the ACTION agency.

This stamp will go on sale at our office on Saturday, February 12, 1972.

Mount St. Mary's College Uses Alumni To Help With Admissions

Mount Saint Mary's College, through its 50-member National Development Council, is mobilizing alumni to help with the college's admissions program.

"In a very real sense, the quality of the student body is the paramount long-term ingredient in any educational institution," said H. James Maurer, president of Pet'm Laboratories Inc. in Philadelphia, who is chairman of the development council's new students committee.

Besides helping with the more obvious aspects of attracting new students, Mount Saint Mary's College alumni chapters have been asked to organize teams to personally follow up with applicants in their home areas.

"A person-to-person session with a local graduate of the Mount by the applicant and his or her parents can have a considerable influence on the applicant's ultimate college decision, since very often a student applies initially to several different colleges," Maurer explained.

Each of the Mount's alumni chapters has been asked to name a new students chairman to serve as an area coordinator for Lawrence J. Riordan, director of admissions at the college. Launching of the program coincides with Riordan's efforts to increase the number of female applicants for the Mount's freshman class for next September—the first class to have coed students on a resident basis.

In a special "alumni alert" letter, President John J. Dillon, Jr., asked graduates of the Mount to "pass the word in your community about the availability of openings at Mount Saint Mary's College for next September, and to encourage interested young women (and men) to immediately contact the director of admissions and request an application."

Dr. Dillon said Mount Saint Mary's is "well aware that private colleges face increasing enrollment difficulties and that much of the problem involves economics. The Mount continues to face up to the economic challenge by watching costs, holding down tuition, and keeping an eye on the quality of academic offerings. The Mount also continues an aggressive financial aid program, and has reason to expect substantially more funds than ever to be available this year through various government loan and grant programs."

The Mount Saint Mary's College National Development Council, which is mobilizing the college's admissions support program, was formed a year ago to give leadership and help to the college and seminary in areas of financial support, public relations and student recruiting. Its 50 members are alumni, parents, friends, businessmen, and clergy in various parts of the country under the leadership of Thomas S. Hogan, a prominent attorney in Providence, Rhode Island.

Emmitsburg Teen Center In Operation

Disc Jockeys Bill Boyle, Lou Fabbri, and Ed Wasilewski play music for Saturday night teen dancing.

Lisa Sweeney, Phyllis Shriner, and Sue Siske enjoy dancing at the Teen Center last Saturday night.

The Teen Center is back again in full swing. First we would like to welcome back all of the great guys and gals from Mt. St. Mary's and St. Joseph's that have helped us so much at the Teen Center. It's great to see your smiling faces again.

Something new will be added to our list of activities starting next Thursday, February 17 at 6:30 p.m. Tom Graham will start to organize and coach a basketball league at the Teen Center. All that join will get a uniform. Trophies will be awarded in the tournament. If you know how to play, come on out. If you don't, we'll teach you. We will be playing other teams in the area and we are looking forward to some great teams at the Center.

We were asked to have a ping pong tournament and if we get enough to sign up this Saturday night we will start it in a week or so.

This Saturday night will be dance night if we can complete our final arrangements. The theme will be Valentines Day. This past Saturday we had a record hop with DJ's Bill Boyle, Lou Fabbri, and Ed Wasilewski from Mt. St. Mary's and they did a real good job. Thanks a lot guys, we really appreciate it. Again we urge all to bring their membership cards when you come to the Teen Center. We'll see you all Saturday night.

EPA Brings Legal Action Against 7 Firms

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency is seeking legal action against seven companies in the Middle Atlantic Region for water pollution violations, according to Edward W. Furia, Regional Administrator for EPA's Region III.

"We are submitting one case to the U. S. Attorney in Philadelphia and one case to the U. S. Attorney in Baltimore, against two companies for violations under the 1899 Refuse Act. In addition, five companies are being served with 180-day Notices, as authorized under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act," Furia said.
