

Holy Redeemer's Fifth Annual Benefit Antique Show To Be Opened By Mrs. Mathias March 3 In Kensington, Maryland

An ancient microscope of museum quality sold at last year's Holy Redeemer Antiques Show as just an old instrument was one of those rare finds which adds to the mystique of these shows. The dealer was not aware of the microscope's history until the buyer informed her after he had it inspected by a scientist friend.

What may turn out to be another find still in the process of authentication is an ancient painting which may be Sir David Wilkie's "The Card Players," painted in 1808, or it could be just a copy. The dealer who owns it was astonished to find another dealer at last year's Holy Redeemer Show in possession of a Staffordshire bowl with a copy by Clews of this very painting and identified in Ellouise Baker Larsen's book "Blue His tical Staffordshire" as from a Wilkie painting. The painting and the bowl will both be at this year's Holy Redeemer Show in March.

Mrs. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., wife of the senior Senator from Maryland, will cut the ribbon to open Holy Redeemer's fifth annual benefit Antiques Show in Kensington at 1 o'clock on Friday, March 3. The Senator and Mrs. Mathias are collectors and their home reflects the warmth of beautiful things, old and loved.

A set of 12 Holy Year commemorative plates from 1950 will be exhibited at the Show. Distributed under the auspices of the then Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, D.D., archbishop of Boston, the dinner-size plates were fashioned by the sixth Josiah Wedgwood in Edme-patterned ivory Queens-ware, each with a center design of Roman scenes taken from the etchings of the 18th century Venetian artist, Giovanni Battista Piranesi. At the time, the proceeds from the plates were used for the benefit of the physically and mentally handicapped of the poor of every color, creed and race.

You will find the trademark of the Show in the entrance hall, an 1890 Victorian child's carriage of gloriously intricate wicker, still wearing its original upholstery. The carriage was made by the Wakefield Rattan Company.

For the convenience of antiquarians, the Inn of the Two Marys will be serving luncheon, snacks and the dessert specialties of the Sodality women who are sponsoring the Show.

On stage in the dining room, Gwen Glahn has designed for the collecting man a room (study or den) which will display an unusual Victorian Desk in excellent condition. All furnishings on the stage are provided by the twenty-five dealers and are for sale.

Other items to be found at the show are a doctor's bag from the 1800's, every vial intact with original labels, a pair of Sandwich giant saw-tooth whale oil lamps, a group of all white Ironstone dating from 1843, two paintings of the French romantic school, 1860-187- in beautiful color signed by C. Briand, a Bristol finger bowl in amethyst and a signed Hawkes bowl. A Victorian doll house completely furnished with hand-made lace curtains and a frozen

Charlotte will also be for sale as well as penny toys made in Germany around 1910 for English country fairs.

The show at Holy Redeemer on Saul Road and Summit Ave in Kensington, one block west of Connecticut Ave., off Beltway exit 20 is just around a windy corner, the first weekend in March. Donation is $1.50. Show times are Friday, March 3, 1 to 10 p.m.,

Homemakers Study Carpet Shopping

"Shopping for Rugs and Carpets," was the topic of the demonstration at the February meeting of the Emmitsburg Homemaker's Club, held at the Senior Citizens Center.

Dian Small, lesson leader for the month, gave an informative report on different features one should consider when purchasing carpet for the home. Since this is a major investment, much examination and comparison should be done to receive the most for your money. She gave pointers on choosing the correct color, pattern and texture of carpeting, since it is wise to base your opinion on sound design elements and principals. As a summary to her report on choosing the right rug to fulfill a particular function in a room, Dian gave four decisions one should make. The first being color; the second, texture or pattern; the third, performance; and the fourth, price.

Mrs. Jean Harris who was hostess for the meeting, presented an interesting demonstration on "Cake Decorating." She very deftly turned a plain white cake into a masterpiece of art by applying hearts, roses and lace with icing tinted red which she had prepared. After this Valentine cake was created, it was cut and served to those present during the social period.

Mrs. Small, club president, announced some future county events as County Short Course Day in April, and the annual meeting at Hood College, May 25, at which time the 50th anniversary of Frederick County Homemakers will be celebrated.

A nominating committee was appointed with Mrs. C. A. Harner as chairman, Mrs. Hazel Caldwell and Mrs. Elmer Fuss. Mrs. Luther Cregger read a report from the American Cancer Society stressing the importance of periodic check-ups and examination for early symptoms of this dread disease.

Mrs. Chatlos requested each member to take special interest in the news items of the local paper concerning the Planning and Zoning Commission of which she is a member. Since the purpose of this commission is to improve the town of Emmitsburg, we should be interested in their plans and contribute our ideas and opinions.

A new member, Miss Vera M. Davis of Baltimore, was welcomed into the club, and Mrs. Jean Harris will be the club representative at the annual meeting in May.

Local Arrest Results In Dropped Charges

Because marijuana was not mentioned in the warrant February 4 when Maryland police raided a motel room in the Emmitsburg area, Elizabeth Ann Azzarello, 24, of Emmitsburg R2, was acquitted of a charge against her by District Court Judge Stanley Y. Bennett at Frederick Thursday.

The Azzarello woman was charged with possession of marijuana and David Lee Coleman, 23, Emmitsburg R2, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of firearms after conviction of a crime of violence, burglary and receiving stolen goods following the raid into Room 8 of the motel along Maryland Route 806, just outside of Emmitsburg.

Police had made the raid as part of an investigation into two burglary rings operating in Maryland and Pennsylvania in which approximately 14 have been arrested so far.

The district court judge ruled that the marijuana seized by Maryland State Police in Room 8 was inadmissible as evidence because the search warrant obtained by the officers prior to the raid was directed toward the recovery of two stolen guns and not to narcotics or drugs.

Assistant State's Attorney Lawrence Rosey had argued that obtaining the warrant to search for guns gave state police the right to search, seize and charge those present as a result of anything found.

Attorney Edwin Nikirk pointed to the fact that one small closed container in which marijuana was found, could not possibly have contained the guns which were the object of the original search. He added that there would also not be any necessary connection between possessing stolen guns and marijuana.

Judge Bennett agreed that the police had a right to seize the marijuana but questioned the use of such evidence. Moreover, he commented that the guns had been seen in Room 8 prior to obtaining the warrant as had the marijuana but the warrant specifically stated he search would be made to recover guns. No mention of marijuana or Miss Azzarello was made in the search warrant.

Dorsey asked, but was denied an opportunity to further research previous cases involving search and seizure before Judge Bennett ruled on the motion.

Police had listed among articles seized in the raid of the motel were pistols, shotguns, a color television set, a stereo system, a sewing machine, hypodermic syringes and a quantity of marijuana.

As of Saturday, a total of 14 persons had been arrested by the joint police effort. Some of the property stolen has been reported to have been stolen from Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Farmers Will See Improvements In Net Income In 1972 W. T. Steel, Jr. Tells Southern States Board

W. T. Steel, Jr.

Things should be better in 1972 for the American farmer—he should see an improvement in his net farm income, which may hit $16 1/2 billion, for the third highest year on record.

This forecast was reported by W. T. Steel, Jr., of Richmond, Va., the association's general manager, to a regional meeting of local board members in this area held at Cockeysville, Md., on February 17.

Steele headed a three-man team of cooperative officials that attended the session and participated with him in a panel discussion. Other team members were: John J. Feland, director, seed, petroleum and supply division and Preston Sale, director of the fertilizer division.

According to agricultural economists, Steele said, economic predictions indicate that beef prices will average $30 (choice Omaha) or above for every month of the year; hog prices will be stronger; dairy profits will continue to rise; and egg prices will rise slightly. The picture may not be so rosy for turkeys and broilers.

Unquestionably agriculture will receive attention from both political parties, Steele said.

"The 1972 presidential race may be decided in the Farm Belt and on farm related issues," he pointed out.

In referring to Southern States Cooperative's operations for the first six months of the 1971-72 fiscal year, Steele reported that dollar volume for the period totaled $61,239,000, down 3.1% as compared to the same period last year. Lower feed volume accounted for most of the decline.

Net savings for the period was $1,433,000, down $157,000 from the previous year. Food volume was 239,000 tons, down about 4,000 tons from last year.

Fertilizer tonnage was 146,000 tons as compared with 150,000 tons for the previous year.

Seed volume reached $2,800,000, up 7% over last year.

Miscellaneous farm supply volume was $14,700,000, just slightly below a year ago.

Petroleum volume for the first six months was about 63,700,000 gallons, as compared to 59,900,000 for the previous year.

Attending the session from this area were Alan Brauer, John A. Wivell, Kermit Glass and Robert Martin, all board members, and young farmers, Paul Baumgardner, Dennis McGlaughlin and Lee Bassler.

Mounties Win Sixth

The basketball fortunes at Mount St. Mary's continued to improve as the Mounties overcame a Washington College stall to gain their fifth win in six games, 69-64, Monday night here.

The win gives the Mount a 6-12 record and 5-4 mark in Mason-Dixon play.

With about eight minutes left the Mount's Jeff Molinaro hit on a field goal and foul shot to put the Mounties ahead by three, 62-59. Washington then called time out and then when it came back on the floor went into a stall for the next six minutes.

With about two minutes left and the score still 62-59, they finally came out of the stall and Bob Johnson tried a basket that missed.

The Mount got the rebound and controlled the game after that.

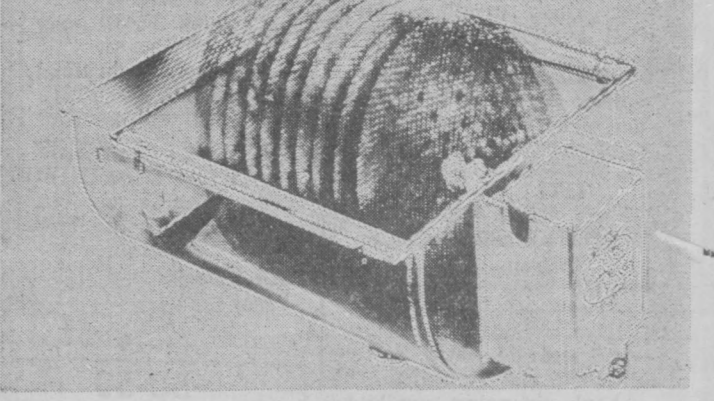

Kevin Kane led the winners with 15 points, while Molinaro had 12 points and Pete Goodwin collected 11.

The Mounties will play at Loyola Saturday night, and will close the regular season by hosting Gannon College here next Monday night. The playoffs will start March 2 at Towson State College.
