Weather like we have had in Emmitsburg the last couple of days makes one think that spring is already here and winter can be forgotten. Folks have been seen around town washing windows and scrubbing away the winter's dirt. It's hard to believe that only a week ago some families in the outlying areas had just gotten back into their homes after leaving them as a result of losing heat and electricity in the storm. This winter certainly has had quick changing weather.

I'm will to bet that it's not over yet. What is that about the lion that follows the lamb?

Who is the local fellow that stayed up until 5 a.m. the other day and then began calling his friends to get them up and share his fellowship. When you have friends like that you don't need enemies.

I see elsewhere in the Chronicle where the County Commissioners are going to make a movie about the scenic and historic attractions of Frederick County. Now is the time for the Town Commissioners to get on the ball and be sure that the many attractions of Emmitsburg and surrounding areas are adequately covered. Our area has as much history and perhaps more than any other in the County and our town fathers should be able to get a chance to let others know about it.

With spring coming up soon it is time for the fathers to gear up to implement their plan of improving the sidewalks in town. Perhaps this is a suitable topic for the meeting Monday night. As many residents as possible should be there to give the Commissioners moral support in conducting the town's business. Then too, if you don't like the sidewalk program, you can tell them so.

The President is back from China and says that he made no secret deals. I'd like to think that is so. Only time will tell. It seems to me we heard the same story after Yalta where half of Western Europe was given to the Russians and after Potsdam where another fellow was charmed out of his pants. Maybe it is good that an election is coming up. We will have a chance to quiz all concerned more closely about the trip and take quick voter action if anything fishy turns up.

Congratulations to the County Commissioners for backing a MIDFA loan to a corporation interested in expanding in the Point of Rocks area. have trash can problems too particular can use some new industry to help provide more and better work for everyone. Each of us should be doing everything we can to start some action. What happened to the industrial development work the Commissioners were going to initiate. There is another subject for Monday's town meeting. If a few concerned residents got to the meeting and let the Commissioners know that they want action to help Emmitsburg grow and improve we might see more activity. Remember that these fellows are all elected and hopefully those that do the best job for the town are the ones that stay in office.

Gettysburg is running a contest to pick a new trash can design. The flying saucers are on the way out. Makes me realize that other towns have trash can problems too and appreciate even more the new paint job on our cans in the square. It is a small thing but little things like this can give visitors first impressions that stay with them forever. (Continued On Page Eight)

Douglas Valentine Promoted By SCS

Douglas Valentine

Douglas Valentine, who has served as a soil conservationist at Cumberland since September 1, was appointed district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service in Allegany County on Feb. 1.

Mr. Valentine replaces John Reckner, former district conservationist who was transferred to Garrett County in August and has been serving as acting district conservationist since that time.

Mr. Valentine, a native of Emmitsburg, began his soil service career in 1965 as a student trainee in Frederick County and a year later was a trainee at Westminster.

After graduation from the University of Maryland in 1967 with a B.S. degree in agronomy, he was named soil conservationist in Howard County and served there for about 18 months before entering the Army. Following two years of duty in Panama, he returned to Howard County and worked there until going to Cumberland last September.

Mr. Valentine and his wife, the former Toni Davenport, reside at 1514 Frederick St., Cumberland.

The Rev. Fr. Sylvester Taggart will preach on the subject: "The Passover: the Voice of Mockery." This is a continuation in the series, "People Around the Cross." All members of the community are urged to attend.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Eugene R. Ackerman, will conduct the service.

On Tuesday evening, February 29, 1972, the Executive Board of St. Joseph's High School PTA, Emmitsburg, met in joint conference with the annual bazaar committee. Following regular committee reports, plans for the March 11th bazaar highlighted the meeting.

The next general PTA meeting will be held March 14 in the school auditorium.

One way to become intelligent is not to believe everything you see in print.

Planners Study Attitude Survey

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Planning and Zoning Commission was called to order by Chairman Ernest R. Shriver at 8 p.m. on February 16, with all members present.

The final tabulation of the community attitude surveys which were prepared by the Frederick County Planning Commission, were reviewed by the Commission with a few minor corrections cited. Copies of the finished survey will be available to the public in the near future.

A Zoning Ordinance was reviewed to help orient the Commission with the terminology used in preparing our own master plan and Zoning Ordinance. The topics to be discussed at the next regular meeting will be the purpose of a zoning ordinance, general regulations, enforcement and definitions. The Commission was given a zoning ordinance to read to prepare for these topics.

Two annexations, which were referred to the Planning Commission by the Town Council, were discussed. The first proposal by Emmitt Ridge, Inc., was postponed pending additional information. The second proposal submitted by WESCO, Inc., was discussed at length and it was decided that a special meeting will be held on March 1 in order to give the Commission sufficient time to consider its decision.

Town Churches Plan Day Of Prayer

The annual World Day of Prayer will be observed this year in the community of Emmitsburg in Incarnation United Church of Christ at 7:30 p.m. this Friday night, March 3. Every one is welcome to attend and unite with women around the world in a session of prayer. The theme is "All Joy Be Yours."

The three subjects for special concern and prayers—migration, relationships between young and old, and secularization—were proposed by European women as they confronted the idea of joy and those aspects of life which seem to drive joy into the shadows. Although life includes privation and suffering as well as happiness, joy pervades all of existence. Joy is also fulfilled through death if we accept the Christian pattern of living. Therefore, these women are able to say to us: "All Joy Be Yours." The offering will be a way in which joy can fill the lives of others.

The service is sponsored by the women of the Protestant churches of the community but everyone is invited who believes in the power of prayer.

Local Lady Takes Helicopter Ride

Mrs. Nathan Valentine

Congratulations to Mrs. Nathan Valentine for taking her first plane ride at age 86. Cora has always been a great fisherman but yesterday she used a helicopter to tour the local area and visit her children's and grandchildren's homes in Emmitsburg and Thurmont from the highest she has ever been in the air. Allen Davis went along to point out the highlights.

Financial advice: Save money now; it will be worth having a few years from now.

Miss Marshall Wins Oratorical Contests

Katie Marshall, a junior at Catocin High School, talked her way to a double award, last Sunday, in the American Legion annual Oratorical Contest. Speaking at the Legion Hall in Brunswick, on the topic, "The Constitution—Barrier Against Tyranny," Katie won both the County and District first prizes for a total of $75 in savings bonds to add to the $25 she won earlier in the month in the Thurmont Legion's elimination contest. Next Sunday afternoon she will participate in the state-wide competition to be held at the War Memorial in Baltimore at 2 p.m.

The 1972 competition is the thirty-fifth Annual National High School Oratorical Contest sponsored by the American Legion. Its purpose is to encourage young people "to study and understand the Constitution of the United States so as to enable them to be better citizens and fulfill their responsibilities of citizenship."

District winners who appear at the War Memorial, next Sunday, will each receive a $50 bond for participation. In addition, the young speakers will be eligible for scholarship awards of $500, first prize; $300, second prize; and $100, third prize.

The contest consists of a prepared speech of between 8 and 10 minutes on some phase of the Constitution followed by an extemporaneous talk of 3 to 5 minutes on an assigned subject relevant to the Constitution. Successful contestants at the state level go on to regional competition and may eventually enter the National contest which offers a total of $44,000 in scholarship prizes.

Arrangements at Brunswick were handled by Grover Fry, County Chairman for the Legion Oratorical Contest. Judges were: Bill Stoner, William Gross, Carlos Myers, Rev. Thomas Staup, and Charles Poe. Runner-up in the contest was Suzanne Schuster of Point of Rocks, a senior at Brunswick High School.

Katie, 16 and a straight-A student at Catocin, is college-bound, and plans to major in speech and drama. She is Catocin correspondent for the Frederick News-Post, co-chairman of the Junior Prom, and a member of the cast of "Anything Goes," which is now in rehearsal.

Katie seems to have a special knack for contests with patriotic themes. When she was an eighth grader at Mother Seton School in Emmitsburg she was a winner in the "Parade of Presidents" contest sponsored by Acme Markets. As a result of her essay on Abraham Lincoln, Katie enjoyed an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. for three days of sightseeing and attendance at the 1969 Presidential inauguration.

It makes her considerably more nervous to give a public speech than to write an essay, Katie claims, but despite this she is looking forward to the state competition next Sunday. Earl Ramsburg, commander of the Thurmont Legion, says he expects to journey to Baltimore to root for his Post's entry.

Katie is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Marshall of Mount Saint Mary's, Emmitsburg.

Auction Set For Sunday By Aux.

The February meeting of the Ladies of Brute was held recently in the Council Home with 25 members in attendance. Loretta Sprinkle, president, presided.

The chaplain, Jane Orndorff, opened the meeting with prayers, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Correspondence was received from the Emmitsburg Life-long Learning Council for a donation to continue the auxiliary's membership in the Council. A letter regarding a donation for a student from St. Joseph's High School to go to Europe this summer was also read. Joan Keepers will look further into the matter which will be discussed at the next meeting.

President Loretta Sprinkle reported that the auction was given coverage in the Knights of Columbus, Brute Council 1860, news letter. Members are reminded that the auction was postponed and will be held on March 5 beginning at 2 p.m. in the Mother Seton School auditorium. Lois Hart-dagen has accepted general chairmanship for the auction.

The chaplain reported that a fruit basket and card had been sent to Anna Brewer, and a card to Louise Adams.

The Ladies of Brute were asked to serve a wedding reception on March 4. Heart Fund kits were distributed to the volunteer workers. Two donations for the Heart Fund were received: one from the American Legion and the other from the VFW Auxiliary.

The Ladies of Brute also voted to give a donation.

New members voted into the Auxiliary were Bonnie Fitzgerald and Cheryl Topper.

The refreshment committee for the March meeting will be Theresa Hollinger and Carmen Topper. Carrie Austin's name was called for the draw prize but was not present.

The meeting adjourned with prayers, after which games for a variety of prizes were played. Refreshments were served by Frances Rosensteel.

The next meeting will be held on March 13 at 8:15 in the Council Home.

The article, which was nearly two years in the making, includes the names of 70 people, touches on 75 places in nine specific areas, and examines about 52 subjects. "Geographic" staffers were assisted by the Maryland Division of Tourism in both their statewide editorial appointments and their photographic assignments.

Garden Club Plans Annual Card Party

Eleven members of the Silver Fancy Garden Club of Emmitsburg and Taneytown, held their regular meeting February 17 at the home of Mrs. Thomas Frailey. Co-hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John White and Mrs. Charles Smith.

In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. Charles Smith, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Thomas Frailey was named to the committee preparing the club's entry for the Tables Extraordinaire Contest scheduled for April 20 in Hagerstown.

Mrs. Shower, chairman of the Year Book Committee, presented numerous ideas for club programs and requested members to choose those having special appeal. They were also given the opportunity to select the time best suited to serve as hostess and co-hostess during the coming year.

The annual card party was discussed with a decision to have an evening party open to men and women. Card party committee is: Mrs. Robert Clingan, Mrs. John Zent, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. John Klenoweth, and Mrs. Simon Shlosky.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. John Zent on March 21.

Town Majorettes Thank Contributors

The Emmitsburg Drum and Majorette Corps held a meeting on Tuesday evening, Feb. 29, with 73 members attending.

Present at this meeting was Miss Billie Jean Miller, her sister, Tanya, and her parents. The Millers are from Middletown, and will be helping our group to get on its feet. Billie Jean is an extremely talented majorette and will be a big asset to the girls in the group.

Next week the color guard, majorettes, and drummers will get down to routine planning.

The Millers used to be with the Accents, a well-known majorette group. Billie Jean and Tanya have 25 trophies between the two of them that they've won, so they will be able to help our girls get going.

We also wish to thank the following people for donations to the uniform fund: Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Seiss, Richard Andrew, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Griffin.

EDITORIAL

Local residents should be concerned that only a few inquiries for new jobs have been received by the Town of Emmitsburg in response to its current survey. It takes a great deal of effort to help an industry develop interest in a new facility and make new jobs available. The Town Commissioners have been working hard to obtain these new employment opportunities for Emmitsburg residents. They deserve the support of the townspeople.

An important part of the expansion plans of any company is the determination that prospective employees will be available in the area and development of the confidence the new plant will have an adequate number of employees. This does not mean the company wants to interview people. In early stages it merely wants only an expression of interest from as many people as possible.

It is an accepted fact that many people would not maintain interest after interviews, however a large initial group is required to provide a high degree of certainty that the desired number of people will be found. The Town Commissioners estimate at least 200 area people should participate in the survey. No one participating would be obligated to take a job but the opportunity would be available.

Now is the time for local people to speak up. The Commissioners have done their job by providing this opportunity. If the local residents are interested in any new opportunity, they should cooperate with the town in making this survey a success.

Lets all work together so that the next attempt to find an industry interested in Emmitsburg will be that much easier.

County Participates In Industrial Loan

The Frederick County Commissioners have tentatively agreed to participate in a Maryland Industrial Development Financing Authority (MIDFA) loan to finance expansion of a local industry.

The county officials Monday signed a letter of intent, contingent on MIDFA approval, to participate in a financing agreement for expansion of North American Housing Corporation of Point of Rocks. The loan, negotiated with the Maryland National Bank of Frederick, is not to exceed $618,000, according to the letter signed by the county officials.

MIDFA executive director Oliver H. Fulton said Monday that the state agency, a division of the Department of Economic and Community Development, will accept or deny the application at a meeting this week.

He explained that the function of MIDFA is to insure industrial mortgages on land and buildings to encourage economic growth in the state and to provide counties and municipalities with a financing tool to make them more competitive with surrounding states.

In this case, the Frederick County officials will agree to borrow money from the bank and re-loan it to the local industry for expansion. The county will, in effect, own the expanded facilities which it will lease to the company.

The contract, according to a county spokesman, will require the company to pay an amount in lieu of taxes so that the county will not lose tax revenues. After the loan is paid off, the contract will likely provide a "buy back" agreement permitting the company to obtain ownership of the facilities.

"Basically, this provides a means for Frederick County to attract more industry," according to the county spokesman.

Interest on borrowing by a local government is exempt from Maryland state and federal income tax and enables a bank or other lender in a high income bracket to make a tax exempt loan at a considerably lower interest rate than would be charged a non-governmental borrower.

This low interest rate makes the proposition more attractive to a business firm, and enables the county to place itself in a more competitive position for industrial development.

At the same time, the attraction of industry provides more jobs in the county and increases the county's tax base.

The county's participation in the MIDFA project does not jeopardize the county's credit, according to Fulton. If the industry fails to make its (Continued On Page Two)

It allows you freedom to fail if you choose to do so, and the freedom to succeed if you wish to. You have made your choice, and it is my wish that you will continue to assert yourself—to live by the virtues of courage, honesty, and industry—to plan your life with the sense of responsibility that you have just demonstrated, for you are, indeed, the true strength of this lease payments to pay off the loan, MIDFA assumes the payments. The state agency assumes all of the financial responsibilities of the insured portion of the loan, with the uninsured portion paid in by the business firm. The local government's borrowing ability or bond rating is therefore not affected.

County Loan

MIDFA first contacted the county several months ago, in conjunction with the local Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee, according to the county spokesman. The chamber, he said, endorses the MIDFA arrangement.

If the seven-man MIDFA board accepts the local application, the county will adopt a formal resolution and a contract between the bank, the county, and the industry will be drawn up. The MIDFA board, according to Fulton, includes five businessmen and two state officials.

MFB Opposes Air Quality Standards

Severe economic losses were predicted by leaders of Maryland Farm Bureau, Maryland Agriculture Commission, grain dealers and numerous elected members of the General Assembly if present air quality standards are maintained for grain dryers.

In a February 24 meeting with officials of the State's Bureau of Air Quality Control, it was pointed out that the regulation requiring the installation of a 50-mesh screen on permanent-type grain dryers would result in the closing down of many operations because of the high cost for the equipment and installation.

It was repeatedly pointed out that the "bees wings" or chaff from grain was not a health hazard, only a nuisance. Legal spokesmen pointed out that any person who has a legitimate complaint on a nuisance does have opportunity under Maryland's law to take action without regard to the present air quality law.

Legislators, in attendance from both the House of Delegates and the Senate, stated that they were prepared to file legislation to exempt grain dryers from the present law, if the matter could not be resolved.

Maryland Farm Bureau leaders stated that farmers could lose up to 10c per bushel on corn during the 1972 harvest season because of the air quality regulation.

Remember Simas Kudirka! "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free."

—Goddess of Liberty
In all the captive nations under the cruel yoke of Communist oppression there are underground patriots working to keep a spark of hope alive in the breasts of their countrymen. In my travels in Eastern Europe and in Asia I have had the stimulating though disturbingly sad experience of visiting, underground, some of these people — from behind the "Iron Curtain" in East Germany, from behind the "Bamboo Curtain" in Red China, from other nations "prisons" kept by the Communist jail masters. Not many Americans will remember the name "Simas Kudirka" but every Lithuanian for generations to come will revere Simas Kudirka as the embodiment of Lithuanians' indomitable spirit. Thru the Lithuanian underground communications network the 3,000,000 Lithuanians in the little Baltic nation seized by Communist Russia in 1940 now know the second chapter in the dramatic Simas Kudirka story. And through the Lithuanian underground's contact in America (Assembly of Captive European Nations — ACEN), we now have the story. It has not been publicized in detail in the American press and it was, of course, suppressed in all Communist countries.

Unrecognized Facts

The story reflects three basic realities which our American governmental leadership, through six presidential administrations, has refused to recognize: (1) the genocidal nature of World Communism, bent on the utter destruction of all opposition to its political ideology; (2) the fact that the most powerful human impulse, particularly in the Communist Police — states, is for freedom; and (3) that in every Communist-held nation the overwhelming majority of the people have the courage to rise up and fight their captors anytime they might have the slightest chance for success, which has on several occasions been demonstrated.

The Simas Kudirka story should challenge every free man and woman on earth, and certainly all non-Communist governments of the world, to determine to stand together and support one another to make sure that Communism does not gain control of another free country, and certainly not our "Land of the Free."

Our Shame

Simas Kudirka is the Lithuanian sailor who attempted to defect from the Soviet vessel Sovetskaya Litva to the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Vigilant, off the coast of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., November 23, 1970. Simas, a 30-year-old seaman, came aboard the Vigilant with a Russian boarding party to discuss off-shore fishing rights. He made known his desire for asylum in America. The U.S. sailors took him below deck.

The Russian party left the Vigilant, but shortly another Russian party boarded her again. The Russians were permitted to drag Simas to the deck, beat him unmercifully (as he fought his captors) and take him back aboard the Communist ship, apparently in an unconscious state.

The American public was enraged when the dramatic incident hit the newspapers. President Nixon ordered an investigation and two top Navy officers involved in making the decision to reject Simas' plea for asylum were "persuaded" to resign. The news story held the attention of our nation for some time. Then we began to forget Simas Kudirka. A few months ago the New York "Times" reported briefly that he had been tried for treason (Soviet law holds that any person seeking to leave Soviet territory without permission is subject to the treason penalty if caught). The trial was held in a Soviet-run "Supreme Court of the Lithuanian Republic" in Vilnius, Lithuania. The "Times" reported he had received a sentence of 10 years imprisonment. The report said details of the trial were not made known.

Imprisoned Homeland

I have the full story, thanks to ACEN and ELTA Information Service, (organ of the Supreme Committee for Liberation of Lithuania).

"I do not consider myself guilty since I did not betray my homeland, Lithuania. I do not consider Russia, called the Soviet Union today, as my homeland." This was the opening statement of Simas as he stood before a monolithic Communist court which could condemn him to death or imprisonment in a slave labor camp on the charge of "high treason."

Prior to his opening statement, Simas rejected services of the court-appointed Communist attorney. In his defense he boldly identified Communism as enslavement. He made an eloquent presentation challenging the brutality and authority of the Communist regime in Lithuania. He seemed to be sure he would get the death penalty. He got instead 10 years in a slave labor camp — a sentence which few of the millions who have suffered through it have survived. Next week: Kudirka Speaks For Lithuania.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
More "Founding Fathers"

"Why should one fear the vague, oncoming years of courage speak the final, dauntless work that puts the shield of silence on our fears? For I can tell you this: that I have heard O wonderful melody on Hope's last string, Seen Winter's icy grip give way to Spring." There is always hope! No matter how badly man has muddled the world and all in it—there is for all mankind—that distant horizon—far away but attainable. Hope brought the pioneers to the new world—with their hearts full of hope they advanced the frontier—in search of a better way of life not only for themselves but for generations yet unborn.

How great a debt is owed the past. Not in dollars and cents but in sheer endeavor. Shoddy workmanship will not suffice—never accept more than you can give. There is a final reckoning—what judgement will be pronounced on you—your life—your contribution to this great nation?

Now to return to the study of the Monocacy Settlement in its relationship to the founding of Tom's Creek (now Elias) Lutheran and Reformed congregations. Of course the people of Monocacy and those of their countrymen who went on to the Valley of the Shenandoah were all Pennsylvania-Germans and the majority of them came originally from that part of Germany known as the Palatinate. Some were highly skilled artisans—the "Death List" of the Monocacy Settlement quite often goes into detail regarding a man or woman's background. There were, to mention a few, bookbinders, silversmiths, teachers, preachers, wheelwrights, and doctors "of physic." By far the greater number, however, were farmers and the vastness of the land both in Pennsylvania and Maryland was the answer to prayer. It must be remembered that the Monocacy Settlement was not a village in the ordinary sense of the word. It was a "string of plantations on both sides" of the Monocacy Road—with at least two taverns included in the line-up to offer rest and refreshment to the traveler. The Rev. Mr. Wildbalm, an early Lutheran minister, who preached for a time at the Tom's Creek church, travelled the Monocacy Road to and from the Shenandoah Valley and he always writes of "stopping overnight" at Monocacy. He apparently knew some of the families who lived there and was always sure of hospitality—"freely given."

It is interesting to note that the Rev. Wildbalm served the Lutheran congregation of Saint John's, located near what is now Littlestown, Pennsylvania, and while there he ministered to the people of Tom's Creek. The Emmitsburg records for this period are included in the Saint John's church records. It is apparent that for at least a hundred years, more or less, the church at Tom's Creek was a "preaching post" and was served by various ministers on their "missionary journeys." It seems almost incredible today that the early pastors and priests were able to cover such vast distances—found congregations—built churches and served the people. They were, in the main, truly men of God and they were builders of His kingdom. In America they had absolute freedom insofar as religion was concerned and this was an added impetus to their labors.

Many of the early congregations had a great desire for a pastor of their own—one to live among them—not just occasional visits when the hard-working missionary visited their congregations—perhaps three or four times a year. The people of the Monocacy church were by this desire, and will lead to accepting "imposters"—men who posed as ministers—and thus came to grief. The "Church Book" contains detailed accounts of these incidents. There were "wolves in sheep's clothing" even in that early day.

From a careful study of the record book of the Monocacy church it is reasonable to assume that the "founding fathers" of the Tom's Creek congregation, were, at least in part, at one time residents of the Monocacy Settlement. A list of the names proves that beyond the shadow of a doubt.

For instance, the Eichelbergers came from the vicinity of Hanover, York County, Pennsylvania, into Frederick County, Maryland. Apparently they spread into different parts of Maryland for Eichelberger baptisms are to be found in the record book of the old Lutheran and Reformed congregations at Woodsboro, Frederick County. In addition they were early members of Elias church and the Eichelberger family burial plot is immediately behind the church of Elias church in Emmitsburg.

The Weller family came into Maryland with the so-called Monocacy settlers—and undoubtedly members of this family are interred in the Monocacy churchyard. Johannes Weller lost two sons, both under the age of six years, to that dread plague, "smallpox." A number of people, both at Frederick and Monocacy, died of smallpox around the middle of the eighteenth century—there must have been quite an epidemic. It was noted that burials of

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

Is Education Tied Up In Nots?

Some students at the White House Conference on Youth stated that the schools as they now exist are stifling, unyielding institutions with little flexibility or humane-ness. Perhaps, this statement came about because of the corrosive negativism which exists in education today.

Anyone who has tried to develop a new program or initiate a new idea has heard the many negative comments around him. "What's the use?" "We tried that once before." These and similar comments come from negative individuals who live in a world tied up in "nots."

Pessimistic attitudes of many educators have kept education from moving forward. So many creative ideas have been discouraged by people who reject the new and turn to the comfortable old. New ideas are always challenging, but with challenge too often comes fear and anxiety. The individuals who fight change usually fear it. These are often the same people with negative attitudes.

Isn't it strange that educators title articles "Why Johnny Can't Read", and "Why Pupils Fail?" These titles ten took place the same day death occurred—particularly during warm weather.

The Whitmore family also came into Maryland with the Monocacy settlers and they, too, were early members of the Tom's Creek congregation. They had their own family burial ground on their own plantation—in ground formerly set aside by the Close family, the original owners of the land.

These notes will be continued in this series next week.

seem to reflect the trend of cynicism and negativism among professional educators.

What can be done about the pessimistic forecasts being made by educators? How can the cry from the young people who report that schools are stifling, inflexible and unyielding institutions be answered? If these indictments are true, then all the possible contributing causes need to be examined. Surely the negative attitude among educators is a significant factor.

There must be an effort among all educators to start turning each minus into a plus. The only way to correct the cynicism within education is to make discoveries about the profession and the school as an institution—a true self-evaluation. Only then can fears and anxieties be replaced with hopes and dreams. When educators stop dreaming of better conditions and opportunities, then the ever present problems will surely dictate the future.

The feelings of hopelessness, frustration and emptiness can be replaced with positive plans of action. "We can't do that" must be replaced with "Let's give it a try." Creativity and dreams for the future must eliminate the "nots" in education.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Stock Market In Election Years

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., March 2, 1972—Some investors place a great deal of emphasis on the potential influence of national elections in formulating their investment plans, especially when it comes to presidential election years. Studies made by the Research Staff of Babson's Reports indicate there is considerable valid reason for assuming that an upcoming presidential election will exert an influence on the behavior of the stock market for some months in advance.

During an election year, for example, stock market movements can and usually do reflect variations in investor sentiment as different forces come into play. Early in such a year, the ideas propounded by the presidential hopefuls, the results of primary elections, and other factors can spark market advances or dips. Later on, expectations as to the final candidates likely to be nominated at the conventions, and then the actual results, can have a definite effect on the stock market. Finally, the outcome of the election itself may exert a powerful impact—provided it is not a clear-cut runaway which has already been discounted by the market.

Mirror Of Wide Scope

It is, of course, perfectly logical for the stock market to reflect this significant quadrennial event. After all, the market is basically a barometer of investor sentiment affected by a broad spectrum of hopes and fears, whether related to monetary, business, political, or international considerations. The significance is obvious in the case of a presidential election since the victor can shape the policies of the nation for the ensuing four years. Then, too, if the incumbent president is a candidate in the race, he can try to the election to create a favorable economic climate and place himself in an advantageous light by voting time. Such efforts tend to generate optimism on the part of investors, even though an inimical Congress can frustrate his intentions.

Historical Pattern

Starting with the election of 1928 (the race which marked the twilight of the age when economic conditions could be automatically governed by the full gold standard), the past eleven presidential election years saw one only in which the Dow Jones Industrial Average changed the year virtually unchanged from twelve months before. In three of the years the Dow Average suffered a net loss. The remaining seven years were all on the plus side. Hence, there was a definite bias in favor of optimistically inclined investors. Generally speaking, for the election years studied, three phases of strength were noted: (1) A moderately extending from mid-winter through the early spring weeks, (2) a more pronounced gain from mid-spring through mid-summer, and (3) a post-election upward spurt.

If the foregoing composite pattern runs true to form, the 1972 stock market should make good overall progress. But the three years of down markets and the one with no progress are a reminder that an election year is not automatically profitable for investors.

New Twists

We could go back to presidential races before 1928, but historic changes since then have altered the picture. The appeal of pump-priming techniques and the deeply imbedded voter abhorrence of even a short, mild economic malaise have caused campaign promises of the two major parties to become similar in many important respects. This year there are innumerable other considerations that could affect the stock market beyond the matter of which party will win. There is acute public concern over preservation of the environment, as well as what forms of government spending will gain top priority. And, perhaps more than at any time in a number of years, the role of this nation in the troubled world is influencing investor sentiment.

CHS Entertains Co. Exchange Students

The first Frederick County Exchange Program was held recently. The Exchange Program, headed by Roxie Aubol of Catocin High School, endeavored to give students in Frederick County a chance to exchange ideas and suggestions with students from other schools.

At Catocin High, seven representatives from other schools came to observe. Don Anders and Patty Cline came from Linganore; Sharon Baker from Walkersville; JoEllen Nutter and Dennis Sherald represented Governor Thomas Johnson; Middletown sent Diane Stottemeyer as the representative, and Chastain Hobbs came from Frederick High School.

After their arrival, the exchange students were given a tour of the building by Roxie Aubol. The visiting students liked the way Catocin is divided into different departmental sections, and they also thought the idea of having the Social Studies and English departments close to the library was very sensible.

When the tour was over, refreshments were provided. A Student Council meeting was held third period, which all seven delegates attended. Next came lunch, courtesy of the Student Council, after which the students were free to attend a class of their choice. Home Ec, French, Social Studies, and Phys. Ed., were some of the courses chosen.

Catocin delegates to the Exchange Program were: Kathy Sixx, T.J.; Karen Kerns, Linganore; Debbie Sprinkle, Middletown; Bonnie Orndorff, Frederick; Shelia Chatlos, Brunswick; and Liz Anderson, Walkersville.

On the whole, it seems as though the Exchange Program was a success, and hopefully, will be continued next year with even more schools participating.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Transportation Needs

There are transportation problems that are just as much a problem to the American people as the prolonged strikes for which I proposed new remedies in another recent column.

I am referring to the frustrations encountered every day by millions of Americans as they go to and from their jobs, or on trips, or to stores and shops.

The problem in this case is the American transportation system itself. It is a network that was put together during the growth of the United States, meeting the new needs of the people as they arose.

But much of our surface transportation system has become outdated in today's jet age. It must be revitalized to meet the needs of 20th century travel and the demands of modern-day passengers.

New policies and practices have been implemented in some areas, but others are long overdue. In our own state of Maryland, we have seen the success of fast modern trains like the Metroliner in attracting passengers back to the railroads.

We have also just become involved with another railroad innovation: the TurboTrain between Washington, Cumberland and Parkersburg, W.Va. This is an experiment to test the efficiency of these high-speed trains on routes that cover all kinds of terrain and pass through both rural and urban areas.

Yet the problem of greater day-to-day significance in our urban areas—and a need that has not yet been adequately met—is the substitution of mass transit for the automobile.

There can be little doubt that the family car has become our primary means of travel, and most people probably consider the automobile a necessity in our way of life.

To make travel by car more practical, the federal government embarked on and is now nearing completion of the Interstate Highway construction program.

This network of expressways and urban bypasses was designed to make travel easier, but it has had some unexpected and undesirable side-effects.

These modern highways have attracted more automobile traffic into the cities from outlying areas, so instead of easing congestion these new roads have contributed to increasing it.

Meanwhile, public transportation too often has been allowed to deteriorate in terms of equipment and service. The loss of passengers means less revenue, which leads to further deterioration.

However, Congress took a major step toward improving this situation by enacting the Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1970, which committed $10 billion in federal assistance over the next 12 years for the expansion and improvement of public transportation.

Washington has finally gone ahead with construction of its long-overdue subway system, and we can only hope that Baltimore makes the same decision this year. I believe that solving the transportation problems of our cities will be a key factor in solving some of their other problems.

In his State of the Union address, President Nixon said he will propose an even greater national commitment for developing mass transportation systems. I will urge strong positive action in the Senate when these proposals come before Congress.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters may be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Is the Youth Conservation Corps going to operate again this summer?

The Departments of Agriculture and Interior have announced that the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) will operate 95 camps this summer for about 3,000 young men and women between the second year of a three-year

I am a 68-year-old veteran pilot program providing eight weeks of meaningful summer employment on public lands. Jobs include improving campsites, clearing trails, building picnic tables, planting trees, restoring historic structures and generally improving the outdoors in national parks, forests and wildlife refuges. Incidentally, openings are very limited and interested citizens should contact their school counselors for detailed information and camp locations.

I am a 68-year-old veteran with a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance term policy. Recently I suffered a disability which kept me from working of six months. Can't I qualify for a waiver of premiums on my insurance?

The VA informs me that your disability must have been incurred before your 65th birthday in order to qualify for such a waiver.

Does the National Park Service have any films available for showing to junior high school students?

Sale and rental of some 33 National Park Service films covering a wide range of scenic, natural history, historic site preservation and other subjects, are handled by the Harpers Ferry Historical Association. A catalog describing each title and detailing ordering procedures is available on request by writing to: Film Librarian, Harpers Ferry Historical Association, P. O. Box 147, Harpers Ferry, West Virginia 25424.

My husband and I receive monthly social security benefits on my husband's earnings record. I have been told that if I should die my husband would not receive a death payment from Social Security. Is this true?

Yes because you received retirement benefits on your husband's record but were not yourself insured under social security. If your husband died however a lump-sum death payment would be made to you because he was insured under social security.

Recently the rent on our apartment was increased sharply in what I believe is a violation of Phase II wage-price-rent guidelines. Can you help me find out if this is so?

On receipt of your letter my office contacted the Price Commission in your behalf. We have been advised that the proposed rent increase has currently been deferred. Citizens with similar wage-price questions should fee free to contact my office here in Washington or the IRS offices in Cumberland Hagerstown, Frederick and Baltimore.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The Bill of Complaint is a suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII
from the Defendant, Linda Louise Warfield.

The Bill recites that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address was 7 Glow Lane, Hicksville, New York; that the parties to this cause were married on the 13th day of April, 1969, at Damascus, Maryland, by Rev. Depro, a regularly ordained minister of the Gospel; that as a result of the marriage between the parties to this cause no children were born; that the Complainant has discovered that between the time of the said marriage and filing of the Bill of Complaint the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery with a certain man whose name is Frank Austin; and that since discovery of said adultery your Complainant has not lived with the Defendant
as husband and wife,

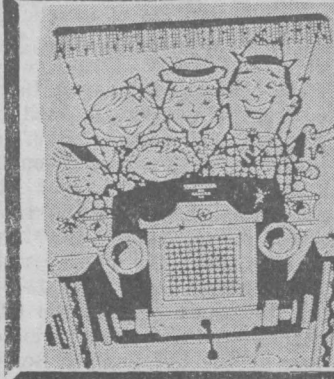

nor has he forgiven or condoned her actions in any way.
The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Terrance Wayne
Warfield, may be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII
from the Defendant, Linda Louise Warfield; and for such other and further relief as the nature of his case may require.

COURT ORDER

It is thereupon this 14th day of February, 1972, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, by Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks before the 18th day of March, 1972, commanding her to be and appear in this Court in person, or by Solicitor, on or before the 18th day of April, 1972, and show cause, if any she has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

218 Preakness Nominees

The surprising conquest of unfashionably-bred Canonero II last year apparently has given many horsemen with three-year-old thoroughbreds more optimism than ever they can win the famed $150, 000 Preakness Stakes this year.

A record 218 nominees have been registered for the May 22 classic at Pimlico Race Course, 39 more than the previous high last year, when Venezuela-owned Canonero II came to this country an unknown with a $1,200 yearling price tag and captured the hearts of millions of racing fans by winning the Preakness in record time after his upset victory in the Kentucky Derby.

CHS Cougars Lose
The Francis Scott Key Eagles whipped the Catocin Cougars, 91-65 Feb. 26 on the Eagles home court.
It was the final Monocacy Valley League game of the year for the two teams as the Eagles finished with a 5-7 record. Catocin finished a disappointing league season with an 0-12 record. The Cougars are 2-16 on the year.
Despite explosive Eagle outbursts in the first half, the Cougars managed to stay close behind the sharp outside shooting of guard, Kip Merritt.
But a fired up Eagle squad outscored the Cougars 23-13 in the third period to blow the game open.
Merritt was not to be outclassed by the antics of Bill Hill, the MVAL's leading scorer, as the Catocin guard demonstrated some artful moves of his own. Merritt wound up with 24 points, compared to Hill with 28.

Commission Lists Environmental Plan

A pioneering program designed to keep Marylanders of all ages informed about their environment was recommended today by the Governor's Commission on Environmental Education.
In its report, the Commission which was chaired by Edward H. Morse, Baltimore County businessman, made six major recommendations including one to establish "environmental centers" throughout the state.
"As far as the commission can determine," the report stated, "the concept and scope of this plan for Environmental Centers is unique to Maryland."
Mr. Morse, in his letter transmitting the report to Governor Mandel, said the recommendations require both executive and legislative action "plus a strong moral commitment" by both to the development of environmental education.
Besides the plan for environmental centers, the committee recommended that:

St. Joseph Parochial School In Taneytown Will Close Shortly

St. Joseph School, a Taneytown parochial school attended by 74 young people, will close its doors following this semester and the students who want to continue their parochial education will be bused to either Emmitsburg or Westminster.

The announcement, made last weekend, is the latest in a series of announced school closings in the Catholic Archdiocese of Baltimore. Not only was the closing of St. Joseph announced but also that of Blessed Sacrament School, Baltimore.

This follows the closing last fall of two other Baltimore parochial schools and speculation that three other schools in the archdiocese — Frederick's St. John the Evangelist, Baltimore's St. Leo, and Midland's St. Joseph—face closing.

The deepening financial crisis faced by parochial schools was named as the reason for the closing of St. Joseph School by Msgr. William C. Newman, superintendent of the 133-school archdiocesan system.

But he also said St. Joseph had been hard hit by the withdrawal of the School Sisters of Notre Dame, the largest provider of religious instructors to the parochial school system.

Sister Mary Francis Regis, provincial leader of Notre Dame's Eastern Province, speaking of the decision to withdraw all its teaching personnel from St. Joseph, said, "This is kind of an agonizing thing for us."

She said what she called the "retrenchment," not only from St. Joseph but from other schools, was due to the numerous deaths, retirements and resignations her order and others have experienced. Rev. John T. Kerr, of St. Joseph, said the withdrawal of teaching personnel had forced the school's administration to end some of its services a little bit at a time.

Rev. Kerr, stating the school recently had three nuns and one lay teacher, said, "When one religious was taken away, we eliminated the seventh and eighth grade. But now that we're losing the other two sisters, we just can't afford to replace them."

However, Charles H. Dorsey, president of the Central Catholic School Board which oversees many independent schools and has some power to end the closing of the schools, said that no school closing has been given official approval.

Dorsey said he and other board members, as well as Msgr. Newman and his staff, are seeking ways to keep St. Joseph and Blessed Sacrament open.

Dorsey said he wished there was a way the archdiocese "could take over and operate the schools, but there's no way that we can do it."

Dorsey also criticized some parents, saying that as soon as they heard a rumor about the demise of a school they withdraw their children from the school and "make a critical situation even more critical."

Town Library Offers Ideas To Young

Some suggestions for our young adult patrons come from the Page at the local library. Vida Antolin is an avid reader and offers a few selections she has enjoyed recently. Science fiction is usually a favorite of Vida's but she takes a break from her steady diet to read a variety of books that follow.

"Vanished," by Fletcher Knebel. The President's closest adviser disappears. The story is written from the press secretary's view. This book gives one an interesting view into CIA and other Federal Agencies.

"Mr. and Mrs. Bo Jo Jones," Ann Head. A young girl gets pregnant and marries a boy who is from a lower income class family. The problems they encounter are interesting and very realistic. This novel reads more of truth than fiction. Recently seen on television, it is a novel compatible with the times.

"Mash," by Richard Hooker. The adventures of three doctors in Korea. It is bold and hilarious.

"Where Eagles Dare," by Alistair MacLean. The story centers around a group of spies in German territory. Their mission is to rescue General Carabry (who has complete plans for D-day) from German hands. True mission revealed.

"Flowers For Algernon," by Daniel Keyes. Charlie Gordon is suddenly made a genius by an operation.

"Lord Of The Rings," by J.R. Tolkien. Middle Earth is threatened by the evil from Mordor. The little Hobbits at the Shire must save the day, assisted by Gandalf the Wizard, Aragorn—the King of a lost people, dwarfs, men, Ents, Elves and other good creatures.

"The Andromeda Strain," by Robert Crichton. A strange germ from outer space threatens the Earth. Four scientists work to discover a way to stop it.

Girl Scout Cookies Sales To Start

This year for the first time, Brownie Girl Scouts are joining Junior, Cadette, and Senior Girl Scouts in selling Girl Scout cookies during the annual Cookie Sales. Between March 2 and March 22, girls of participating Troops will be selling cookies and filling orders taken previously.

Five varieties of cookies are available: chocolate chip, peanut butter patty, sandwich cream, sugared shortbread, and thin mint. The newly designed, flower-print Economy Pack boxes sell for $1 apiece.

For the Central Maryland organization, which includes Frederick County, the Cookie Sales combine order taking and direct sales. Troops wishing to do so took orders between Jan. 22 and 28. During the official Cookie Sales period, March 2 through 22, Troops will both fill those orders and sell cookies direct.

Commissioners OK promotional Film

Plans for a movie—starring Frederick County—have been approved by the county commissioners. The county officials will pay a Westminster film maker $13,000 to produce the promotional documentary.

The commissioners have agreed to pay L. Earl Griswold of Stave Films in Westminster to make a 26-minute color and sound feature about the scenic and historic attractions of the county. The film, according to a county spokesman, will be suitable for use on television and will be made available to clubs and organizations.

The commissioners decided to invest in the film after seeing a production Griswold produced for Carroll County. The county will pay the film maker over a three year period beginning in the present fiscal year. The $4,333 first installment will come from the county emergency fund, with subsequent installments to be budgeted in FY 1973 and 1974.

Griswold is expected to begin the 14-month project within the next two months. In his proposal to the county officials, he said his price is about half the normal rate since he is presently involved in filming at the Maryland School for the Deaf in Frederick County.

The tourism subjects to be included in the film will be chosen by the local officials, according to Griswold's agreement with the county commissioners. The film will cover all four seasons in the

Potomac Edison Thanks Area Customers For Understanding During Recent Storm

Officials of The Potomac Edison Company issued a statement of thanks and appreciation to customers for their "patience and understanding" during the recent snow emergency.

G. P. Bohn, division manager for PE, said "we know it is an inconvenience to be without electricity for even a short time, so for that reason, and the fact that some customers were without service for extended periods of time in some areas, we are most appreciative of the patience and understanding they showed."

An estimated 27,000 customers in PE's four-state service area were without service for varying times as a result of the storm, PE officials said, with the Frederick, Hagerstown and Martinsburg areas being particularly hard hit. About 4,000 customers were affected in this division, he said.

daily from daylight to dark in their restoration efforts, while engineering crews and employees from other departments staffed the emergency operations centers, the division manager reported. In addition, he said that assistance to PE was obtained from line crews from the Baltimore and Washington areas, numbering about 70 men. Crews from PE's affiliate, West Penn Power at Greensburg, Pa., were dispatched to assist, but were unable to get through closed highways.
