- By Abigail -

Yesterday was Arbor Day and it seemed to pass without much notice from the local folks. This day is the perfect opportunity for the schools and politicians to get into the outdoor act and plant a tree or bush. I hate to see the day go by without more notice than it was given in Emmitsburg. We should have a tradition established similar to that in which the graduating classes in the various schools leave the town a growing remembrance.

Is it too late this year? Perhaps we could have a belated celebration, or at least begin planning for next year.

I'm told that we have a couple of signatures on record for the forthcoming election. That breaks the ice, now we need a few more so that we have two good contests. Serving on the town council is a lot of work but it also can be very rewarding. This is an opportunity to do something for your town, an opportunity to help make it a little better place in which to live. The town needs the help of all concerned citizens who are interested in seeing it grow and progress. Why not you?

I understand that a few local citizens recently spent some time on an island in the Caribbean. Must be nice to be able to drop the daily chores and just lay around in the sun. Too bad the army came along and made them come home.

Cool, mon!

This week is the first in April. As promised by District Engineer Mohler, there has been some activity on the Route 97 bridge over Route 15. You will remember that completion has been promised by May 1 if the weather holds up. Always seems to be that hedge in there one way or another. In any case, weather is the only logical excuse for not getting the job done in jig time. We have had enough delays because of too few men and not enough equipment at work on the job.

I hear that there was a sizeable crowd at the hearing on the dualization of Route 15 through the Catocin Furnace area. Many groups and several individuals had something to say. Seems to me that this project is very important to Emmitsburg. I wonder why a representative of the town did not put in an appearance or why the town did not establish a position. That road brings a lot of tourists to our doors. If our boys were looking after our best interests, they would be in there fighting to get the job done as quickly as possible in a manner that would offer the most benefit to all of us. I don't know who should have done the job, but it looks like somebody was asleep again. Perhaps we should blow the fire siren every day at noon to wake up the fellows who are supposed to be working for us.

Three general plans were offered for the Rt. 15 dualization. One moved the new lane west slightly, one moved either one or two new lanes east a good distance, and one put the new lane close to the existing lane.

I'm told that the state roads people were doing a selling job on the plan with the two lanes close to each other, but there was a lot of objection because it would destroy some of the furnace ore pits. The pits would be saved by the plan moving the new lane west of the existing lane, but that is unacceptable because the curves are too sharp.

You would think that the state engineers could find more than three solutions to this problem. Perhaps none of the solutions offered is the best answer. If all the problems of shooting a rocket to the moon and getting it back could be solved, you would think that this road could be placed so that it satisfies the highway requirements and still save the furnace ore pits.

Town Board Hears Maintenance Needs

The regular meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners was called to order at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 3, 1972, by Chairman Rosensteel with all members present. The clerk, Mrs. Rybikowsky, was absent due to illness. The minutes of the March meeting were read.

Mrs. Charles Bollinger appeared before the Board requesting that something be done about the water which runs down the gutter on South Alley and into her garage. It was suggested that the gutter be filled with blacktop. Mrs. Bollinger also remarked about dogs running loose in town. The County Dog Catcher will be contacted.

Mayor Hays read a letter from the Health Department suggesting that the Council send a man to attend a class on floridation and laboratory reports. These classes to be held at Hagerstown Junior College on April 18-20. No action was taken.

Mayor Hays reported that one of the chlorinators at the water plant was not operating. The Board approved the motion that Fischer and Porter Company be contacted to send a man to make repairs.

Mrs. Julius Siske appeared before the Board concerning problems which have arisen among the Majorette group. It was suggested that the group hold a meeting and try to iron out their problems, and if needed, the Council could perhaps help in an advisory capacity.

All broken water meters were ordered to be replaced with new meters.

Chief Filler requested that new tires be purchased for the police cruiser. This was approved. The chief also requested that he would like to take his vacation starting June 24 through July 10. This was also approved.

A discussion was held concerning complaints about noise and loitering on DePaul St. Chairman Rosensteel suggested that "No Loitering" signs be posted. No action was taken.

Commissioner Myers presented copies of Ordinance on Parks and Recreation to be posted. This Ordinance becomes effective May 13, 1972.

Commissioner Myers read a list of items needed at the sewer plant and reservoir. Most urgently needed was a new pump at the sewer plant and a small water pump at the reservoir. Mayor Hays agreed to check on prices for these pumps.

Commissioner Myers requested that two cub air packs be purchased as a safety measure to be used by the town employees when working in the pit at the sewer plant. This was approved.

Commissioner Topper reported that the state will furnish grades for anyone wishing to put down new sidewalks. A lengthy discussion was held concerning new sidewalks and curbing, and it was agreed to hold a special meeting for further discussion on these topics. The meeting was scheduled for Monday, April 10, at 7 p.m.

Attorney Bower, presented the Ordinance covering annexation of WESCO, Inc., which had been approved by the Council.

It was agreed to ask the same persons who acted as election judges last year, to serve in that capacity for the forthcoming election.

Chairman Rosensteel requested that a new chain saw be purchased. The Board agreed providing the use of the saw be under the supervision of Clarence Orndorff, work superintendent.

The Police report was read by Chairman Rosensteel.

All bills were approved for payment with the exception of Kootz Equipment Corp. for parking meter parts, pending advice from Mr. Norman Flax as to whether these parts should be returned to the company.

The meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Cub Scouts To Hold Thomas Pleased At Annual Celebration Curbs On Welfare

The Cub Scouts will hold their Blue and Gold Lunch on Sunday, April 9 at 1 p.m. at the VFW Hall. All Cub Scouts and their parents are invited to attend this event. The cost for each person is 50c. The Reverend W. Ronald Fearer has agreed to be the guest speaker at the lunch.

The Blue and Gold Lunch is an annual occasion when the Cub Scout families can get together and celebrate the achievements of their sons and those associated with Cub Scouting. Cubs who have reached new levels of accomplishment since last summer will receive awards. Special congratulations will be extended to the Den Mothers, who have so constantly given their time, imagination, and patience to make Cub Scouting the success it is in Emmitsburg.

There are presently thirty-five Cub Scouts in the Emmitsburg Pack, participating in the activities of three dens. Cub Scout leaders Robert Preston and Thomas Leonard report that this figure is the highest for the Pack in over a year.

The Blue and Gold Lunch will be catered by the Ott House of Emmitsburg. The Ott House previously worked closely with the Cubs last August during the successful Cub Hoagie Sale.

Witness Mission Is Big Success Here

The Lay Witness Mission held at Emmitsburg and Tom's Creek United Methodist Churches on Palm Sunday weekend was a big success. The Friday and Saturday evening sessions were well attended. The combined congregations of the two churches on Sunday totaled approximately 250 people. Words cannot express the depth of Christian fellowship that was demonstrated during the mission.

The love of God was certainly evidenced in the various sessions as the phrase, "God loves you and I love you," was heard over and over again.

The members of the two churches worked as a closely coordinated team in providing the guests with delicious meals and comfortable housing and in so doing derived more benefits than were ever anticipated. Many who had taken guests in their homes found their lives had been spiritually enriched by the conversations and the fellowship of these dedicated Christian people.

Young people of the community felt the mission to be a total success, having met many new Christian friends who came to share their dedication to Christ. Discussions and activities led by youth leaders were well attended and enjoyed by all present.

All who participated in the Lay Witness Mission were rewarded by the sharing of faith and Christian experiences.

PIZZA DANCE

Questions Hold Up County Landfill

Frederick County's proposal to make a land fill on 57 acres of land in Cunningham Falls State Park may have run into snags as a result of questions on water pollution and improper use of state park land.

After a recent inspection trip to the proposed area, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein questioned how the county would pump water out of the large pools on the abandoned strip mine site. He made no other comment on the proposed landfill, although in other action he said he would recommend the sale of state land to the town of Woodsboro for a public park.

The State Board of Public Works must approve all sales of state property. The land in Cunningham Falls State Park is the only land in northern Frederick County known to be suitable for a landfill, a spokesman said.

Other sources questioning the landfill use include Park Superintendent Charles Sandy, who is concerned about the effect on area water. Numerous springs and three large pools in the landfill site empty into Muddy Creek which runs along the south side of the site and empties into Hunting Creek. Several of the families living across U. S. 15 from the park within 400 feet of the landfill use water directly from Muddy Creek.

Even if water from the existing springs and pools is pumped or drained out of the landfill, rain water percolating down through the garbage in a landfill might eventually drain into the creek.

The landfill is being requested by Commissioner Donald Lewis and county health and road officials to relieve an acute waste disposal problem in northern Frederick County. Five illegal burning dumps in the area have no legal replacement at present. The landfill would actually improve the park, according to Commissioner Lewis in that the deep ravines on the site would be leveled and replanted as a recreational area when the dumping is completed. The site is more than a mile from the nearest camping area.

Currently, the park uses only one small part of the area. Dead trees and brush from the park and trash from the park picnic areas and the State roads trash cans are dumped in another small part of the ravines near U. S. Route 15.

The County Engineer requested approval of the plan to use the site as a landfill from related state agencies last December and has heard no word from them since, he has said.

State Highway Administration Offers Benefits If Rt. 15 Dualization Plan Used

Officials of the Maryland State Highway Administration Wednesday night offered three general plans for solution to the controversy over the U. S. Route 15 dualization through the Catocin Furnace area.

An audience of 250 concerned citizens and officials from federal, state, and local agencies gathered at the Lewis-town Elementary School to hear the presentation, and offer views and comments for consideration of the officials.

The highway administration recommended a plan which would locate the second lane of Rt. 15 near the existing lane and offered a list of nine benefit commitments on the part of the administration in support of this plan. The commitments are:

1. Assist in archeological activities to obtain additional history and knowledge of the area;
2. Employ a full time archeologist during grading activities to: a, perform continuous archeological observation and salvage, and b, control construction practices;
3. Provide for drainage and excavation of pit area;
4. Return unused easement areas 1 1/2 acres at pit; 1/3 acre at house;
5. Construct a retaining wall at the race pond;
6. Construct a noise berm;
7. Construct a pedestrian bridge;
8. Develop a roadside park as combined rest area;
9. Remove Catocin Furnace Road (if requested by parks and approved by county commissioners).

These benefits would accrue to the Catocin Furnace area and to Cunningham Falls State Park, including the development of the present park area into a combined roadside park and rest area, if the dualization of U.S. 15 through the Furnace area is built as currently proposed.

State Officials present were: Thomas Mohler, district engineer who acted as the hearing officer; Walter Woodford, Jr., chief engineer of the Maryland State Highway Administration, and Philip R. Miller, chief of the Bureau of Special Services.

Specialists speaking on behalf of consultant studies which were prepared on the project were: J. Glenn Little of Contract Archaeologists Inc. of Alexandria, Va., and G. Allan Foster of Vibro-Tech Engineering of Hazelton, Pa.

Little discussed the archeological findings his concern had investigated, including water sources which were carried in part underground to service the furnaces. He also traced details of the furnaces, the ore pits, limestone pits, and other factors.

He said that his concern had "no doubt that dualization would destroy" some of the historical area. He said that they recommended that "extensive salvage archeology" should be done.

Foster told of the effects that vibration might have on the existing facilities and told how, in cooperation with the highway department, tests were made in three locations to determine the effect weights up to 48,000 pounds would have.

He claimed that there was no possibility of damage to the existing furnace, although he admitted he could not say as to the several areas of "protruding masonry."

One who spoke against the highway department plans was Robert M. Vogel, curator of the Division of Mechanics and Civil Engineering of the Smithsonian Institution.

He said he was "alarmed" over the danger to the state's industrial-historical heritage and noted that much of the revolutionary war ordinance was produced in Maryland, and that Catocin was unique and was the most important one of the four (out of some 25 original furnaces in Maryland) remaining.

Vogel also called for "no further encroachments on the site." He said that dualization may help the traveling public but even with the nine point commitment "the plan will be a very considerable intrusion on the site."

Others who spoke in opposition to the plan were: Frank Mentzer, superintendent of Catocin Mountain Park; Mary Rae Cantwell, Mrs. Robert W. Leberz, Jr., of the Frederick County Landmarks Foundation; Floyd L. Lewis; Orlando Rideout IV, Director of Maryland Historical Trust; Edwin F. Westley, Jr.; and F. G. Layman.

Speaking for the west modification were: Donald R. Currier, president of the Catocin Mountain Tourist Council; George Gernand and Barry Lucey.

Those generally supporting the State Highway Administration's current proposal were: a spokesman for the Thurmont Board of Commissioners; Dr. Leonard C. Sisk, and Paul Jordan, residents of Catocin Furnace, and County Commissioner Donald L. Lewis.

Group Supports Sixes Bridge Dam

Concerned over the U. S. House Public Works Committee's action in refusing to consider two proposed reservoirs on the Potomac River, the Intertates Commission on the Potomac River Basin has reaffirmed its support of the two projects and pledged continuing action to secure their approval.

The two projects are the Verona Reservoir at Staunton, Va., on a tributary of the Shenandoah River, and the Sixes Bridge Reservoir on the Monocacy River near Emmitsburg, Md. In the Commission's view the two are vitally necessary to water supply both in the areas where they will be built and for increased flow of the river at Washington.

The two reservoir projects were included in the 1972 Omnibus Rivers and Harbors bill, as sent to the House by the Army Corps of Engineers. The committee then struck the two reservoirs from its list of proposed projects under the 1972 omnibus bill, reportedly because the same objections to the projects which surfaced two years ago are still being voiced today.

The Senate bill has not yet been written, but the Senate Public Works Committee will consider the two projects. Hearings are scheduled in May.

There are about four groups opposed to the projects. On the other hand, strong support for the projects has been poiced in both Maryland and Virginia. Both have been recommended to Congress by the Secretary of the Army, and the project in Virginia had the strong support of local officials and citizens as well as state support.

Farmers Plant Acres Of Trees In State

Farmers in Maryland this season just completed planting more than 3,400 acres of trees under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program, according to a report by Raymond F. Jaeger, Chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Tree planting is a long-term investment that in time adds to a farmer's income. Also, as the trees grow, they provide worthwhile conservation benefits by helping reduce flooding and erosion; stabilizing and improving water supplies, thus helping to provide clear, clean streams; providing hunting and other outdoor recreation opportunities. Under REAP, the public shares a part of the cost of planting trees and of other soil, water, woodland, and wildlife conservation measures. By sharing the cost of these practices, both the farmer and other taxpayers contribute to improvement and conservation of the Nation's vital natural resources. Both share in the benefits from this work.

Further information about forestry practices approved for REAP assistance may be obtained at county ASCS offices. In Maryland, REAP cost-sharing is available for such forestry practices as Planting Forestry Trees and Improving Stands of Forest Trees.

Farmers Must Tag Seed Sold In Md.

Seed sold in Maryland, including locally produced and processed seed, must be tested and labeled with an analysis tag.

Local farmers intending to sell any of their seed should forward a representative sample of the seed for testing to the Maryland Seed Laboratory, University of Maryland, College Park, Md. 20742.

State Board of Agriculture (SBA) Seed and Turf Programs supervisor M. H. Day says the following information should be sent with each sample:

Kind, variety names; net weight; name of fungicidal treatment (if any); number of tags needed; submitter's name and address.

To allow adequate time for testing before planting season, samples should be sent as soon as the seed is cleaned.

Your County Extension Office, listed under "Local Government" in your phone book can assist you in forwarding samples.

Supervisor Day urges growers to have ALL seed—for sale or not—tested before planting. The lab test determines purity, germination rate, other crop contaminants, and noxious weed and inert matter content.

"Only with a lab test can you be sure what you are planting—it's a small cost to avoid failure," Mr. Day adds.

Maryland Seizes Untaxed Cigarettes

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein this week announced the confiscation of the largest number of untaxed cigarettes in the seven-year history of Maryland's effort to break up illegal cigarette bootlegging. According to John Deinlein, Enforcement supervisor of the Tobacco Tax Unit, State Comptroller's Office, 12,272 cartons of cigarettes were confiscated. The value of these cigarettes in North Carolina was put at $28,500. Maryland State Police estimated the New York value at over $80,000.

Mr. Deinlein stated that the confiscation took place at the Perryville toll plaza of the Kennedy Highway at 4:42 a.m., March 17, following an informant's phone call to him. Thirteen East Coast States were alerted about the shipment.

Byron Plugs Nov. 11 As Armistice Day

Until 1954, November 11 was known and celebrated as Armistice Day, but in that year the holiday was renamed Veterans Day. In 1969, Congress adopted the Monday holiday bill officially changing Veterans Day to the fourth Monday in October.

Byron introduced the proposed measure last November along with Rep. Olin Teague, Chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee. The legislation would not effect the Veterans Day holiday in October nor create an additional holiday in November.

Rep. Goodloe Byron has urged Chairman Emanuel Celler of the House Judiciary Committee to hold hearings on a resolution recognizing November 11 as Armistice Day.

Citing support for the resolution among 6th District citizens and veterans clubs, Byron requested action on the legislation during the current session of Congress and before another Armistice Day has passed.

Hunting Seasons Hearing On April 8

The annual public hearing on Maryland hunting seasons and bag limits will be held April 8 at 1 p.m. in the Conference Room of the State Office Building in Annapolis, the State Department of Natural Resources has announced.

Several proposals to be presented at the meeting are certain to create "a lot of discussion" among Maryland's hunters, Ralph Bitely, Chief of DNR's Wildlife Management, says. Several of these have been suggested as helps to the hunter, he added.

One big change in procedure is the planning for an antlerless deer season. The Department of Natural Resources will not set a separate season for antlerless deer, by permit only, during the regular deer season which would be from November 25 through December 2. In effect, it would be hunter's choice for permit holders, since they would be allowed to take one animal of either sex.

A quota system would be set for all the counties in which taking of antlerless deer would be permitted. No antlerless permits would be issued for the Western Counties, including Carroll, Frederick, Washington, Allegany, and Garrett. Landowners will need no permit to take antlerless deer on their own land in counties where antlerless deer hunting is permitted.

Communists' Efforts Against Nixon

When the American people view (on TV) the "peace demonstrations" at the GOP's San Diego convention this summer and read about them in newspapers many will not know the true nature of the operation. It will largely be a Communist operation against the Republican incumbent Richard Nixon and the U. S. foreign policy of "no surrender" in Vietnam. The two big organizations that have mobilized all previous major "marches" and "demonstrations" are the Communist-connected People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) and the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC). Their political strategy for 1972 is best described in the news-weekly, Guardian, cited by a Congressional Committee as the intellectual mouthpiece and communications medium for all kinds of revolutionists and other-stripe "Marxists." "At least two sections of the U. S. anti-war movement," says Guardian political expert Carl Davidson, "are initiating political strategies designed in effect to elect Democratic party politicians to office — most important, the Presidency—in the 1972 elections. These first initiatives have come from a group of former Mayday activists and the Communist party, as well as a number of other less-organized forces. Most anti-war labor leaders and reform Democrats, will, of course, also support Democrats next year." All Anti-Communists Targets This column is not written to stigmatize the Democratic Party; very few, if any of its leading presidential candidates would welcome open endorsement by such Communist groups and be subservient to them; and several Democrat Party Senators, including Senator McClellan of Arkansas and Senator Eastland of Mississippi, both chairmen of powerful anti-Communist Committees, are targets of the Communists and other radicals.

However, the fact that the Communists believe their best interests nationally and internationally will not be served by re-election of President Nixon should be clearly understood by the people watching Communist activities such as the big one now being planned — to smear and disrupt — and to "use" for propaganda purposes the spotlight of the GOP nominating convention in San Diego. And it should be clear also that the immediate object is to swing the American public away from Mr. Nixon's "no surrender" policy in Vietnam. The Guardian's revelation that Communist forces are working to overthrow President Nixon is not news, of course, to the few journalists who for years have followed subversive activities closely. They are out to "get" any and all blocking their plans to take over the world.

The Real Significance

Here is some of Mr. Davidson's Guardian article, which is not published for the American public but for the comrades and their following: "An issue of PCPJ's newsletter, Movin' Together, has been circulated containing two unsigned articles that, in effect, urge giving a hand to the Democrats in 1972. 'It is apparent,' states one article, 'that some kind of program that creates the political context for defeating Richard Nixon, that raises the central issues that face the country in this election and maintains an independent posture toward the Democratic party is required.'"

And here is stated the real significance of the mammoth efforts to be put forth to defeat Mr. Nixon: "A defeat of Nixon could mean the end of the war and more space for radicals and revolutionaries to work." This is from the PCPJ article. PCPJ, according to Congressional investigating committees, is "Communist dominated." Arnold Johnson, Secretary of the Communist Party's National Peace Commission, writing in the Communist Daily World newspaper, confirms Mr. Davidson's revelations. "Evict Nixon!"

"In the course of demonstrations and peace actions in all areas," writes Communist Johnson, who is a high official in PCPJ, "the necessity has emerged for political action in the form of electoral activity that goes far beyond one sector of the movement. That kind of movement means Nixon cannot get by with efforts to diffuse and confuse the peace movement by his 'winding down' instead of ending* the war..." (*instead of surrender)

The Guardian's voice is raised to encourage and incite the revolutionaries to launch bigger and more all-embracing mass demonstrations such as is planned for San Diego. "The existence of the anti-war, opposition in the U. S. — expressed most vividly in the continuing mass mobilizations — has had a tremendous effect in limiting the ability of the imperialists (anti-Communist U. S. government) to wage the war," the Guardian's expert says.

We have it clear here that World Communism is certain it can make greater strides worldwide and within the U.S.A. with the defeat of President Nixon and that "peace" demonstrations are aiding the Communist cause. This does not necessarily mean a Democrat in the White House would do things more favorable to World Communism — but it does mean the Communists think so!

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

The Unstable Curriculum

Ever since man became concerned about learning and acquiring knowledge, he has disagreed on what knowledge was of the most value. Today, we are still uncertain of what knowledge should be of utmost importance. Educators have instituted many reforms as a result of determining the merits of certain subject matter. The subjects which are valued the most highly at any given time, become part of the school curriculum.

Remember when the 3R's — reading writing and arithmetic — were the basic subjects? Art, music, science, foreign languages, etc., achieved merit only after many battles.

Perhaps you can recall the growth of science. The first science courses in the elementary grades were simply observing and discussing surroundings. Nature study slowly developed into more serious courses of geology, biology and chemistry. This is just one example of the evolution of curriculum content.

The unfortunate aspect about the development and refinement of the curriculum has been the tendency to move away from the concern of the student.

During the 1950's, our nation became very concerned about Russia's Sputnik. The entire country blamed the American system of education for the lag of the United States in space exploration. Therefore, school curriculum reforms occurred as a result of national concern. Curricula were revised with academic excellence in mind.

Modern math was initiated. Not just for college-bound students, but for all students. Now everyone needed the scientists' knowledge of mathematics. The same reforms occurred in the sciences. The course content became increasingly distant from the grasp and interest of many students.

What happened? Perhaps the functions and concerns of the school became an instrument for meeting the national goals with very little concern or consideration for the development of the individual student.

Today, we are beginning to see the results of those educational reforms of the 50's and 60's. Some high school students are telling us that the subject matter of many courses is irrelevant to their needs, while others are just giving up. Frustrated drop-outs can't understand why math is such a "drag" or why science class is so boring. Yet, they belong to an ecology group on the weekends.

Some educators are now attempting to evaluate curriculum with the possibility of personalized instruction in mind. There is some acceptance and recognition that students must have the opportunity to make choices in school according to their individual interests and abilities.

These concerns are certain to necessitate curriculum reforms. New approaches and techniques will be developed to encourage the divergent abilities and potentials of individuals. Surely, we are beginning to reverse our trend in education from developing academic excellence to encouraging self-actualization. And, none to soon.

Dairy Club Holds March Meeting

The March meeting of the Tom's Creek 4-H Dairy Club was held recently with Mrs. James Hill serving as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by President Lee Bassler. The 4-H and American pledges were read by Phil Wivell and Stanley Gregg. Roll call was answered with the name of a dairy product. Twelve members, two leaders, and three parents were present for the meeting.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and approved. Bob Wivell and Lee Bassler reported on the basketball games with the Junior team winning two and losing one while the Senior team likewise won two and lost one. The girls' basketball results were given by Susie and Naomi Weimer and Cathy Wivell, with the girls losing both games.

Stanley Gregg and Alan Bassler gave a very interesting report about a Jersey meeting held in Gaithersburg. The president reminded all about the Dairy Workshop and were urged to attend these sessions. Stanley Gregg is planning to participate in the Public Speaking contest held on March 29.

The County Council meeting was held March 21. The Dairy Club plans to join a 4-H mixed league.

Susie, Mike and Naomi Weimer gave talks on the Holstein breed while Stanley Gregg and Alan Bassler gave informative talks on the Jersey breed. Cathy Wivell and Lee Bassler told of the Brown Swiss Dairy breed.

Judging of the Hoards Dairyman followed the general meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Hill.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Grayson and Amanda
Eichelberger

"Ours is a dark Eastertide and a scarlet spring. But high up by Heaven's gate all the Saints sing. Glad for the great company returning to their King!"

"But out on the wet battlefields few the roadways kind

One to grief, one to death, no road that's kind. But the old road to Paradise—plain it is to find."

The notes pertaining to the Eichelberger family of Pennsylvania and Maryland are continued at this time.

The first Dr. James W. Eichelberger, of Emmitsburg, Maryland, was a direct descendant of that Philip Frederick (1) Eichelberger, who emigrated to this country in 1728 from Germany. Dr. James Eichelberger was born in Abbotstown, Adams County, Pennsylvania, on June 17, 1804. He was a son of James Eichelberger. The name of his mother cannot be ascertained at this time. Except for two years spent in Woodsboro, Maryland, Dr. Eichelberger lived all of his professional life in Emmitsburg and was highly respected—both as physician and man. Like his pioneer ancestor he was a staunch and loyal member of the Lutheran church and served the Emmitsburg congregation as an officer for some years.

Dr. James W. Eichelberger married Anna Margaret Motter, the daughter of Lewis Motter, who operated the first Tannery in Emmitsburg.

The first Dr. James Eichelberger and his wife, Anna Margaret (Motter), were the parents of at least eight children, whose names are listed on the back of the monument marking the graves of the pioneer physician and his wife. The inscription follows:

11. In memory of Dr. James W. Eichelberger, born June 17, 1804, died August 12, 1895.

Anna Margaret (Motter) Eichelberger, wife of Dr. James W. Eichelberger, born February 17, 1805, died August 19, 1888.

(On back of stone)
Matter E. Eichelberger, died December 17, 1850.

Columbia M. Eichelberger, died December 21, 1852.

Mary E. Eichelberger (no dates or age).
Note: Mary E. Eichelberger became the second wife of the "Rev. Professor" C. J. Eherhart. She is interred in the Eichelberger family plot in Elias churchyard and her grave is well marked.

Charles D. Eichelberger (no dates or age).

Note: This son is also interred in the family plot and the marker at his grave gives the date of his birth as March 2, 1835 and that of his death as October 18, 1910. Like his father and brother he, too, was a physician. He was unmarried.

Marian F. Eichelberger (no dates or age).

Note: This daughter of Dr. James W. and Anna Margaret (Motter) Eichelberger, is also interred in the family burial plot. She was born May 7, 1837 and died November 11, 1911. She was unmarried.

James W. Eichelberger (No dates or age).
Note: The second Dr. James W. Eichelberger. Received his degree in Medicine from the University of Maryland in 1870. Practiced in Emmitsburg. Married Sarah Minnie Hoke, who was born in 1868 and died in 1942. They were the parents of one son, another Charles Dicks Eichelberger, a pharmacist.

Dr. James W. Eichelberger is also interred in the family plot in Elias churchyard—and the marker at his grave states that he was born December 5, 1841 and died February 23, 1913.

Anne M. Eichelberger. (No dates or age).
Note: Also buried in the Eichelberger family plot in Elias churchyard. Married Eugene L. Rowe, Esq. Had one child—a daughter—who lived only a few days. There is a memorial window in Elias church to the memory of "Anna M. Eichelberger, wife of Eugene L. Rowe."

Gustavus M. Eichelberger (No dates or age)—Died in infancy.

It would appear, from the above data, that this particular branch of the Eichelbergers has died out.

Now to backtrack to the Grayson Eichelberger family. It will be remembered that Grayson Eichelberger, Esq., a lawyer of note, married Amanda Baugher, the daughter of Isaac Baugher, a merchant of some standing in Emmitsburg. Isaac Baugher was the father of eleven children, several of whom died young and were interred in Elias churchyard. He must have been "quite well to do" for in his will he bequeathed three thousand dollars in cash to each of his daughters—four thousand dollars to Elias church—and his business to his sons, Isaac and James Baugher.

It is not known just how many children were born to Grayson and Amanda (Baugher) Eichelberger. The first two were baptized by the minister at Elias church while the records of two others were found in the Lutheran Church at Creagerstown, Md. Two sons, who died young, are interred with their parents in Mt. Olivet Cemetery at Frederick. Isaac Baugher does not mention any grandchildren in his will—so—unless more records can be found the study of this line must be left incomplete. These notes will be continued next week.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

The Drug Problem

Over 100 years ago, a costly and painful war was fought to rid our nation of slavery. But while the bondage of one man to another has become a thing of the past, many Americans have become slaves of another kind because of drug addiction.

Countless lives have been ruined by drug abuse, and the crimes committed by drug users to support their habit cost the American people billions of dollars each year.

Narcotics have been around for a long time, but the situation today is for the most part a phenomenon of the 1960s. What used to be a problem of inner city neighborhoods has broken out into the suburbs and all across the United States.

The estimated 50,000 heroin addicts of 10 years ago were a small group in comparison to the 400,000 to 500,000 people who are now enslaved by this drug.

In New York City alone last year, close to 1,000 young people between the ages of 15 and 35 died of narcotics-related causes. They were victims of drug overdoses, infections from contaminated needles and drugs, and from diseases brought on by drug use.

What is even worse than seeing the ruined lives of so many young people is the thought of a baby being brought into the world as an addict. Yet this is what happens when a mother is addicted to heroin during her pregnancy.

Our government and its law enforcement agencies have not been standing by and watching all this happen, but reversing the momentum of this drug explosion has been a slow and difficult process.

One of the most important steps toward breaking the chains of drug addiction came on March 21 when the Drug Abuse and Treatment Act of 1972 was signed into law by President Nixon.

This legislation, which I co-sponsored, authorizes $1 billion in federal assistance over the next three years to support state and local drug abuse programs of prevention, treatment and rehabilitation.

Its impact will soon be seen in Baltimore and Washington, which have just been chosen as target cities in a stepped-up attack on drug traffickers. This effort in 33 target cities around the nation will not be just a weeding out of some small-time neighborhood pushers, but a crackdown on the higher-up levels of importers and distributors who have been able to elude our enforcement machinery so far.

Initiation of this program fills a major gap in our effort to eliminate drug abuse.

We have already obtained new international agreements for curbing the production of heroin in foreign lands and its shipment to the United States.

Rehabilitation work and research to treat drug addiction have been going on for some time. Education and information programs also have been set up. In all, obligations for drug abuse prevention and treatment have increased from $46 million in fiscal 1969 to a requested $365 million in the President's proposed budget.

The remaining step is to cut the link between the drug and the user, and this is done by ridding our communities of the distributors and dealers.

It is a program that depends on the cooperation of everyone of us for its success, and I urge all Marylanders to give any aid they can.

Hill Herd Output Is Above Average

A report of milk production levels attained by dairy cows in the area has been received from Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The actual food production output, recorded in the DHIR program by these local Registered Holsteins is:

Hills-Hope FD Rachael 596-0219, a seven-year-old, produced 18,530 lbs. of milk and 823 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days. Hills-Hope Jess Pauline 697-2371, a four-year-old, had 19,100 lbs. of milk and 781 lbs. of butterfat in 359 days. Hills-

Hope S F D Elva 6517869, a four-year-old, had 22,310 lbs. of milk and 742 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days. Hills-Hope Jenny Rose 6780178, a four-year-old, had 19,660 lbs. of milk and 715 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days. Hills-Hope Rag Apple Shelia 6517873, a four-year-old, had 17,640 lbs. of milk and 691 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days. All included in the herd tested for Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hill, Emmitsburg.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 9,388 lbs. (4,366 quarts) of milk and 345 lbs. of butterfat by the average U. S. dairy cow, notes the National Holstein Association.

Production testing is made available through the cooperative efforts of the state and local testing associations and Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Dairymen enrolled in the program pay for the service.

CHS Drama Class Attends State Meeting

The Maryland and Washington, D. C. Division of the International Thespian Society held its 1972 State Conference Program on Saturday, February 26, 1972, at Randallstown Senior High School in Baltimore County. Eight members of the Catocin High Drama Class, accompanied by Mr. Michael Miller, instructor, attended. These were: Katie Marshall, Susie Mentzer, Paul Penwell, Patsy Brett, Kendi Fisher, Denise Fahnstock, Gary Kolb, and Susie Morningstar.

The delegates attended seminars; visited exhibits; listened to a talk by the guest speaker; and observed a troupe chartering and state initiation program, followed by entertainment.

A total of 23 seminars, encompassing such subjects as Auditioning, Styles of Acting, Arena Staging, Musical Theatre, Improvisation, Theatre Games, Creative Puppetry, Contemporary Theatre, Make-up, Free-Style Scenery, and Lighting the Stage, were offered. Seminars were conducted mainly by speech and drama teachers from colleges and universities of the surrounding area.

In the lobby of the school, many exhibits had been set up, from such places as Center Stage, Baltimore; The Catholic University of America, Washington; Music Theatre International; Samuel French, Inc.; Brooks - Van Horn, Costumes; and Paramount Theatrical Supplies.

Mr. Jon DeHart was guest speaker for this year's conference. Mr. DeHart is currently Manager for the Eisenhower Theatre in the new John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Washington. His career over the past 17 years has carried him from Baltimore to Broadway in such diverse positions as designer, stage manager, casting assistant, and general manager. DeHart's talk was followed by a question and answer period.

After the state initiation and troupe chartering ceremonies, various forms of entertainment, several modern dances, a monologue, an operetta entitled "The Telephone", and an original ballad, were presented.

The conference chairman for the 1972 state conference was Mr. Neal Haynie, state director of the International Thespian Society. Student chairman was Scott Wentworth, president to the Maryland-D.C. International Thespian Society, and his assistant was Debbie Piferort, vice president for the Maryland-D.C. division.

Many Summer Jobs

Open For Youth

A record number of summer job opportunities for 1,070,400 youths between 14 and 21 years of age has been announced by The White House.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said the Administration is speeding plans to make available more than $319 million, also a record amount (including a supplemental appropriation requested of the Congress), to provide nearly 89,000 more jobs than last summer.

Neighborhood Youth Corps funds will provide nine weeks of summer employment to 609,300 disadvantaged boys and girls in community service activities, paying $1.60 an hour.

The U. S. Labor Department's Philadelphia regional office is contacting local Neighborhood Youth Corps program sponsors now to inform them of their slot and fund allocations. In many communities, the mayor's office will play a greater role than in past years in coordinating summer activities for youth.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

The Silver Situation

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., April 6, 1972—Silver prices moved off during 1971 contrary to many forecasts, and by early November the price had fallen to 128.8c per troy ounce, the lowest level since 1963. The drop in quotes occurred in spite of the fact that weekly silver sales by the General Services Administration were ended on November 10, 1970.

Lower Consumption

According to Handy & Harman's annual review of the silver market, industrial consumption of the precious metal in the U. S. last year moved off about 4% from the revised 1970 figure. The major categories registering losses were photography, brazing alloys, and jewelry. The photography business still ranked first in silver consumption but accounted for only 35 million ounces last year or 28% of the total, vs. 38 million ounces or 29% in 1970. The electrical and electronic category ranked second, accounting for 33 million ounces or 26% of the 1971 total as against 32 million ounces or 24% of the total in 1970. World consumption of silver (for industrial and coinage uses) dipped less than 1% last year from the 1970 level.

Production-Consumption Gap

New production of silver last year (excluding Communist-dominated areas) receded to 239.7 million ounces from 251.1 million the previous year. Thus, the production-consumption gap in 1971 amounted to 136.8 million ounces. This gap was filled from other sources of supply, including demonetized coins, reduction of speculative holdings and inventories, silver from India and Pakistan, and salvage and miscellaneous sources. Handy & Harman estimated that total silver and bullion holdings by speculators and investors on December 31, 1971, amounted to 350 - 400 million ounces, a decline of about 60 million ounces from levels of the previous year.

Firmer Price Trend

After reaching a yearly low of 128.8c in November of last year, prices in the N.Y. market displayed a firming trend toward year end which carried over into the early part of 1972. The rebound occurred just as the prices of silver was approaching the 125.0c-per-ounce level at which price the Treasury is required to buy the newly mined domestic metal under the provisions of the Moinage Act of 1965. Aside from technical considerations, the firmer price trend reflected the jittery international monetary situation and the introduction of legislation which would permit the Treasury to purchase silver at prices higher than the 125.0c-per-ounce mark.

Favorable Long-Term Outlook

The Research Department of Babson's Reports feels that the price of silver will trend somewhat higher during the current year. Barring further upheavals in the international monetary situation, however, the price rise will probably be moderate. While industrial demand for silver should increase as the economy gathers momentum, there appear to be enough supplies to keep prices from running away on the upside over the near term. The longer-term outlook is brighter.

Aside from monetary factors, the important consideration over the long term will be the production-consumption gap. Unless there are great technological strides which permit the substitution of other materials, silver prices should move considerably higher at some point over the long term. Once prices are headed definitely higher, we expect some supplies will be withheld from the market in anticipation of a move toward still more advanced quotes. This process could feed on itself, pushing prices well above present levels.

At this time, the Babson's Reports Research Department recommends purchase of Hecula Mining common stock for investors interested in silver. Hecla is the leading domestic silver producer and normally derives about half of net income from this source.

Md. Spring Turkey Season Opens Soon

The Maryland hunter's annual spring bonus is just around the corner. This is the season that extends a chance to get into the deep woods in the spring. Which is just another way of advising hunters that Maryland's bearded turkey season will open a half hour before sunrise on May 1. The season continues through May 6.

Hunting for bearded turkeys will be legal only in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Montgomery, Harford and Dorchester Counties. The bag limit on turkeys is one per season, which means that anyone who took a turkey during the regular fall season can take another in the spring.

Shooting hours are half an hour before sunrise until 10 a.m. Only shotguns are permitted.

Wildlife biologists at the Department of Natural Resources feel that the bearded turkey season in the spring has been a success. In addition to adding an extra outdoor recreational opportunity, they believe that removing surplus gobblers has aided in making the State's flock stronger.

There were an even 50 gobblers harvested during the 1971 season. By far the best hunting was found in Allegany County last spring, with 26 bearded birds checked in. Most of them were taken on opening day, when 13 birds were bagged. The second highest bag was reported in Washington County, 15. Only scattering birds were taken in the other three counties open in the Spring of 1971. They were Garrett, 2; Frederick, 3 and Montgomery, 4.

Hold State Environmental Conference

The Maryland Department of Education began a five-day conference Monday at Catocin Mountain National Park to bring state supervisory teachers up-to-date on environmental problems.

Teachers from all jurisdictions in Maryland are listening to experts so that they in turn may carry the message about the environment and its implications for education, world population, aesthetics and politics back to their fellow teachers.

Principal speaker Monday was Dr. John Cairns, director of environmental studies at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, who discussed the state of the environment and stressed the need for an interdisciplinary approach.

Representing Frederick County at the environmental education conference were Roy Okan, environmental education coordinator; Marvin Spencer, science dept.; Joseph Ozag, social sciences; and Robert Hess, arts and humanities.

In attendance were four educators in similar disciplines from the state's other 23 school systems. The evening speaker Monday was Frank Mentzer, Catocin Mountain National Park superintendent, who described "An On-Site Cultural and Environmental Program."

A principal speaker on Mar. 17 will be Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., who is scheduled to discuss political factors that influence environmental decisions.

At a work session on Mar. 14 conferees discussed ways of including environmental studies in science, social science, and arts and humanities courses.

Transportation Crisis

Practically every American today has some complaint on the subject of transportation. You and I have each been delayed by some sort of traffic jam or road block on our highways or streets. Many citizens have had some annoying or perhaps even dangerous experiences as a result of overcrowded airports.

We have all been disappointed when some item of freight that we expected, and looked forward to receiving, has been delayed. These are all symptoms of a transportation crisis which is rapidly growing in the United States. While this crisis is affecting everybody in the country, it affects the commuter within a large metropolitan area more than it does the farmer who dwells in an uncluttered rural area. Although the farmer occasionally may have transportation problems in securing things that he needs or in delivering his produce to the markets, the city commuter most likely faces his problem more often, every working day in fact.

The collapse of the Penn Central Railroad indicates that rail transportation is in serious trouble. AMTRAK's slow start indicates the difficulty we face in attracting passengers back to railroad travel. The gradual attrition of commuter rail service is a danger sign for people who depend on trains to get to and from work. The enormous crush on holidays and weekends at airports and on the highways is an indication that we are not balanced in our approach to transportation. The difficulties faced by truckers in competing with bureaucratic controls and in delivering goods in spite of conflicting state laws is another symptom of this crisis.

The time has come to take a look at the whole transportation picture in America. I would like to see the Congress follow the example which was set some years ago, during President Eisenhower's administration in setting up the Highway Trust Fund. The Congress should expand that concept to cover other forms of transportation. We can do this without dipping into the Treasury or raiding the existing Highway Trust Fund. There are those who feel that the monies now in the fund are held in trust for the purposes of highways and should not be diverted for other uses. I respect their feelings.

We can adopt this principle which has proved so successful in developing the interstate highway system and other federally financed roads and create a special fund to insure that the transportation crisis is resolved before it becomes an obstacle to progress instead of an instrument of progress in America.

How can I as a consumer make sure that my credit rating has been fairly established by a credit bureau?

Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act a consumer must be notified if an investigative report is being prepared on him. The law also allows an individual to request a consumer reporting agency to clearly disclose the nature and substance of all information in its files on him, as well as the recipients of any report on him which it was furnished. If the completeness or accuracy of any item of information contained in the files is disputed, the consumer reporting agency must reinvestigate and record the current status of that data. And if an error has been made the information must immediately be struck from the records and the consumer may request notification of the deletion be sent to any persons he may designate.

Owners of more than 30,000 acres of privately owned woodlands last year received assistance from trained personnel of the Forestry Division, Department of Forests and Parks, it was announced this week by William A. Parr, Acting Director of the Department. In chalking up nearly 2,400 instances of such help to landowners, Mr. Parr pointed to woodland examinations leading to recommendations for constructive land management; marking of tree stands for harvest cutting or timber stand improvement; drawing up plans for reforestation and measures for control of destructive grazing of woodlands. Plans were also prepared for establishment and installation of fire, log, and access roads as well as the protection of other environmental values.

When are you going to start salting away some of your good intentions?

Everybody wants to save money. Unfortunately, most of us seem to have a rough time actually doing it. We start, then we stop. The money never piles up.

The Payroll Savings Plan is the easy way to start saving; the painless way to keep saving. Your money gets a chance to pile up because the amount you specify is automatically set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U. S. Savings Bonds.

You actually salt away savings, paycheck after paycheck. And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U. S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year).

That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970. ... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. It's a great way to make today's good intentions pay off tomorrow.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with The Department of the Treasury and The Advertising Council.

Backs Bill To Curb Peep Shows

Senator Edward P. Thomas (R-Fred.-Car.) has strongly endorsed a Senate bill he is co-sponsoring that would regulate coinoperated motion picture "peep shows" in Maryland.

The measure calls for stiff penalties for any person who shows any film in a coin-operated machine without first having secured approval thereof and a license in accordance with provisions of the law.

Any person whose name appears on any trader's license issued under the provisions of the law and issued for the location of the intended exhibition or use of the film or to the machinery used to show the movie shall be presumed to have a financial interest, and shall be subject to prosecution for violation.
