Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Spring hit with a bang this week and many local residents found they no longer needed warm clothes or other furnishings of winter. A few folks decided they did not have to go to work and proceeded to hold a party near the square. The result was disrupted traffic and other inconveniences to many other citizens.

You would think that everybody would have more consideration for their fellow man. It may be hard to realize, but many people do not appreciate being interrupted as they go about their business. Let's hope we do not start out this summer season in a manner not conducive to easy town living. I hope everyone gives his actions and their effect on others some thought before they proceed with activity which brings them into contact with others.

Spring gets us to thinking about flowers. What better place to find them than in the Catoctin Mountain Park. The Catoctin Mountain Tourist Council and the Park are planning another Spring Weekend in May. It should bring a large group of tourists into the area so all of us should be thinking about how we are going to entertain them. Tourism continues as one of our biggest industries and offers a good deal of opportunity to local residents. The trick is to figure out how to take advantage of it.

I hate to tell you I told you so but it sure looks like the Rt. 97 bridge over Rt. 15 will not be finished by the first of May as predicted. We will probably get the same old excuses again. However we have had a couple of heavy rains, so maybe we should not be too critical. It just goes to prove that more work should have been done in that nice dry weather last fall.

The office of Mayor and one Commissioner will be filled in the election April 25. The two-year term of Mayor Samuel C. Hays and three-year term of President of the Board Ernest E. Rosensteel, expire this year.

Mayor Hays did not file for reelection. Commissioner Rosensteel withdrew his name from the list of candidates at the last minute Friday.

Ralph F. Ireland and William D. Smith joined Richard M. Sprankle in the race for the office of Mayor. J. Norman Flax filed for the office of Commissioner.

Candidates Offer Wide Backgrounds

Richard M. Sprankle announced as a candidate for Mayor of Emmitsburg last week. This week he was joined in the race by Ralph F. Ireland and William D. Smith.

Ireland served two terms as Mayor of Emmitsburg in which several projects for the benefit of the town were accomplished. These included expansion and refurbishing of Rainbow Lake and the water main system, installation of the mercury street lighting, negotiation of the Emmitsburg Gas Co. franchise and acquisition of the new Post Office.

William D. Smith has filed as a candidate for Mayor of Emmitsburg. He is a life-long resident of the town and employed with Hershberger Chevrolet in Waynesboro, Pa. Ernest E. Area Deaths

JAMES S. ARNOLD
James Samuel Arnold, 82, 328 E. Main St., Emmitsburg, died at his home Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

A life-long resident of Emmitsburg, he was the husband of the late Mary Pearl Topper Arnold, and son of the late James Joseph Arnold and Margaret Flout Arnold.

He was a retired mechanic at Sperry's Garage, a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society, the Knights of Columbus and the Vigilant Hose Co.

Surviving are three children: Francis S. Arnold, E. Main St., Emmitsburg; Mrs. Charles Pitzer, Shiremstown, Pa., and Mrs. Willard Weikert, Gettysburg. There are 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock with a requiem mass, with the Rev. Fr. John King, celebrant. Interment was in the new St. Joseph's Cemetery. Wilson Funeral Home, Fairfield, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Robert, Richard and William Pitzer, Thomas and James Weikert, all grandsons of the deceased, and Richard M. Sprankle.

The property ownership requirement has been struck down by the courts in other towns in Maryland. Emmitsburg's Commissioners will study these decisions in the future and determine if the Town Charter should be revised. The proximity of the court decisions to the Emmitsburg election prevented revision this year.

In incumbent Commissioners who are not affected by this year's election include E. Eugene Myers, whose term expires next year, and Philip D. Topper and F. Sterling Goulden, both of whom have two years remaining in their tenure of office.

The four citizens vying for the two posts offer a variety of occupational and government experience. Ireland and Flax have served the town before in the posts they seek. Sprankle and Smith are newcomers to public office, although Smith did run for the office of Commissioner last year.

Voting will take place in the Town Office. The polls will be open between 12 noon and 7 p.m. Tuesday evening, April 25.

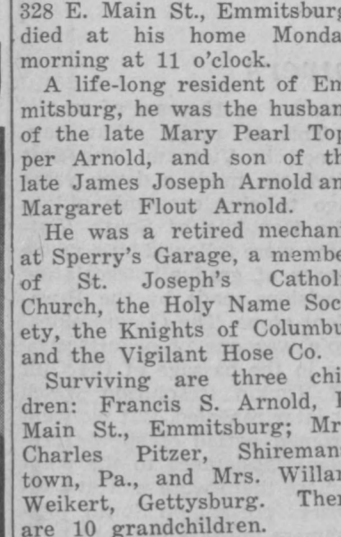

Judges of the election will be Josephine Steinberger, Mrs. Betty Goulden, and John D. White.

Mrs. Regina Rybikowsky, Town Clerk, announced this week that 40 new voters have been added to the list of registrations, 13 of whom are under the age of 21. Thirty-two voters have been removed from the list.

CHS Students Make Park Deer Survey

The Catoctin High School Science Club has undertaken a project for Catoctin Mountain National Park. Club members are conducting a deer survey or census for park officials. Every Saturday, small groups of students take a five mile hike in the park along a yet unopened riding trail. The groups leave at hourly intervals, starting at 6 o'clock in the morning and continuing into the afternoon.

On their census sheets students note such factors as cloud cover, temperature, barometric pressure and time. Whenever deer are spotted along the trail, the students place a tag on a nearby tree to mark the location.

After a few months of census taking, the information will be tabulated by the park rangers. The project is expected to yield a fairly accurate estimate of the deer population in the national park.

Students participating in the project are Nancy Adams, Anne Etheridge, Horace Beale, Guy Dayhoff, Diane Baker, Bob Henke, Skip Newcomer, Jackie Kos, Sigrid Botker, Rita Thompson, Jim Royster, Katie Marshall, Patty Cauthen and Tara Leahy.

Mrs. Kraus, a member of the Emmitsburg Social Ministry Council, was introduced, and offered three recommendations to the group for opportunities for Social Service to the Aging of the community by the Senior Citizens group.

1. Phone service from a list from which each member of the club might choose to call every day to cheer lonely persons.

2. Emergency service—Anyone needing help to get in touch with members of the council.

3. Proposal to implement a "Meals on Wheels" for Senior Citizens or other indigent persons.

The club members were reminded of the fact that April 29 was near at hand for the Annual Spring Festival.

The remainder of the evening was spent listening to the "Sunrise Singers", fifteen delightful youngsters who sang popular and religious songs to the accompaniment of guitars. Frequently the club members joined singing heartily. Mrs. Emma Eckenrode played and sang a few numbers to the delight of all present.

Capitol Comment

War Powers

The Senate has, by a vote of 68 to 16, passed a bill to establish a procedure under which the President will exercise his military powers in concert with the Congress' constitutional power to declare war.

The overwhelming margin by which the Senate passed this so-called War Powers Bill should do much to dispel the concern that this measure will in some way impair the powers of the President to command the nation's armed forces. The President derives his powers as Commander and Chief of the Army, Navy and Air Force from the Constitution and there is nothing that Congress alone can do to alter these powers.

Passage of the War Powers Bill does nothing to put the Constitutional duties of the President and the Congress in conflict.

In fact, it is absolutely necessary for the public safety that the President and the Congress act together in discharging their Constitutional functions. In the past, Presidents have felt it necessary to undertake armed hostilities in various parts of the world, sometimes without the sanctions of Congress, sometimes during a recess of the Congress, sometimes under urgent conditions without consultation with Congressional leaders. When these incidents have been of very short duration, such as our recent intervention in the Dominican Republic, there has been no longlasting result. But when we run into the more tragic prolonged kind of conflict which is represented by the war in Vietnam, then we see that the office of the President should not alone carry the responsibility for committing the country to 10 years of war.

This is really what happened in Vietnam. The first decisions made a dozen years ago to give economic aid to the Republic of South Vietnam were followed by a whole series of gradually escalating decisions made by the President alone. The Congressional role was one of acquiescence as in the passage of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution which it later repealed. But we went from a period of simple economic assistance to the point where there were military advisors present on South Vietnamese military missions until finally the President of the United States, at that time, President Johnson, gave the orders to American soldiers to fight as primary combatants in that war.

The War Powers Bill does not deprive the President of any military power he has—the chain of command is not altered. The sanctity of treaties which now exist is not changed. What the bill does is simply say to the President that when in his judgment he feels it is necessary to order the Armed Forces to commence hostilities, he shall then report the fact to the Congress and within thirty days Congress will then decide whether it concurs in the President's judgment and supports continued hostilities or whether it feels that the conflict should be brought to an end.

This is really a restatement of the founding father's concept that the power of war and peace should not rest alone with the President, but should in fact be a coordinate power to be exercised jointly by the Congress and the President and this is why I supported this bill.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK

"This for Remembrance . . ."
"Beware the wild plum when her boughs are white If you would hide your grief.
Her perfume holds a poignant cry.
And sorrow hangs where brown boughs know no leaf.
But seek her quickly if your heart has song! She breathes for you, believing laughter.
Shares ecstasy of all the past,
Or gay hereafter."

The data pertaining to the Eichelberger family, of Pennsylvania—but later of Maryland—is continued at this time.

The Abram J. Eichelberger mentioned in last week's column could have been and, perhaps was, a son of Grayson and Amanda (Baugher) Eichelberger. The date of his birth and the location of his grave all point in that direction. But—and this must be stressed—there is no definite proof of this relationship.

Near the burial place of Grayson Eichelberger family is another grave that could also be that of another son. The inscriptions follow:

24. Francis M. Eichelberger, born May 14, 1859, died April 2, 1933.

Lillie M. Eichelberger, wife of Francis M. Eichelberger, born August 12, 1865, died February 14, 1932.

It will be remembered that two of the children of Grayson and Amanda (Baugher) Eichelberger were baptized in the Lutheran church at Creagerstown, Maryland. A search of the records brings to light quite a number of facts pertaining to the Eichelberger family—but the old burial ground surrounding the church is rich in Eichelberger lore. Here are interred many members of that clan and they must have been related to the Frederick and Emmitsburg branches—else why were members of the Grayson Eichelberger family christened by the pastor of that congregation?

In order that the genealogical notes pertaining to the Eichelbergers might be as complete as possible, the inscriptions from the marked graves of this family, in the old burial ground at Creagerstown, are given at this time.

25. In memory of Clara E. Eichelberger, daughter of Michael and Anna Eichelberger, died September 20, 1860, aged 3 years.

26. E. Gregg Eichelberger, died August 20, 1897, aged 30 years, 5 months and 22 days.

31. In memory of Anna F. Eichelberger, wife of Frederick Eichelberger, and daughter of G. Motter, born August 4, 1763, died March 19, 1813.

Note: It is interesting to note that Anna F. Eichelberger, the wife of Frederick, was a Motter before her marriage. This constitutes three Eichelberger-Motter intermarriages to date and there may have been others.

Rallying For Reds
The Communist - Planned "Peace Rallies" in New York and Los Angeles on April 22 have two functions in the strategy book of World Communism: (1) to once again use tens of thousands of American non-Communists to propagandize for U. S. surrender in Vietnam on Communist terms, and (2) as a Pilot-plant operation and stimulator for the still bigger anti-Nixon invasion of San Diego when the Republican National Convention convenes on August 23.

In spite of the overwhelming evidence of Communist plotting for the New York and Washington "demonstrations," the revolutionary press claims that the propaganda affairs are to be supported by prominent members of Congress and some Presidential candidates. The Militant, a Trotskyite publication, reports that Mayor John Lindsay and former Senator Eugene McCarthy are supporting the "rallies." The National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) reports that Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, Senator Vance Hartke, and Nick Johnson, a "Youth Co-ordinator for Senator Edmund Muskie," have endorsed the rallies. In a series of columns last February, we warned of the true nature of these forthcoming New York and Los Angeles "Rallies."

Totally Red Controlled
So that there would be no misunderstanding by the American public about the true origin, planning and objective of these two "rallies," Chairman Richard Ichord of the House Committee on Internal Security stated publicly: "The NPAC is totally controlled, in its every pulse beat, by the Trotskyite Communist Socialist Workers Party (SWP) and its youth arm, the Young Socialist Alliance. The presence of the key officials of the Communist Party USA on the National Steering Committee of the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) evidences the commitment of the Communist Party USA to the program and direction of PCPJ."

The NPAC and PCPJ are the two major agitation-propaganda (agitprop) organizations involved (under their present new names or under a number of previous identities) in mobilizing all the big "Peace Rallies" of the last five years. Congressional security committees have had their leaders under surveillance all along. Chairman Ichord's Internal Security Committee tracked the leaders to Versailles, France, where they met with Communists from all over the world in "The World Assembly for Peace and Independence of the Peoples of Indochina."

World Communist Plans
Chairman Ichord says: "The proposed peace offensive (rallies in New York and Los Angeles) was completely developed after lengthy deliberations by the World Assembly at Versailles (Feb. 11-13). Every single item on the agenda of demonstrations planned for the United States was debated, discussed and approved—not by a group of Americans alone—but by 1,200 delegates from 84 nations, including most of the countries controlled by Communist governments. There were also delegations representing the underground Communist guerrilla forces in South Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos. The American delegation numbered between 140 and 150."

Key members of both the NPAC and PCPJ led the delegations were passed unanimous-American delegation. Resolutely condemning the United States and backing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong "peace" demands (equivalent to surrender by the U. S. A.). According to the House Internal Security Committee a spokesman of the U. S. delegation was PCPJ official Professor Sidney Peck, cited by Congressional committees as a former member of the Wisconsin State Committee of the Communist Party. Also taking leading roles in the Assembly and the planning for Sister Jane Marie Perrot, assistant professor of music and fine arts coordinator at St. Joseph College, was presented with a special merit award at the 25th annual convention of the National Catholic Music Educators Association on April 3 at the Civic Center in Philadelphia.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Strong Truck Demand
By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., April 20, 1972—Truck manufacturers should experience gains in sales and earnings this year well above those recorded in 1971, especially in the area of heavier-duty trucks. Several favorable factors are making a healthier climate for this important industrial segment of 1972; Reinstatement of the investment tax credit, lower interest rates, the probable absence of labor difficulties, a more encouraging economic environment, continued strong demand for recreational trucks, and a sounder financial position for the companies involved.

Industry Make-Up
While there are several companies with operations in the general field of truck manufacturing, the Detroit Big Three—General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler—produce the lion's share of trucks in terms of numbers. In 1971, these three giants posted substantial gains in the total of trucks they manufactured. In fact, last year was a record-setter for the entire industry, with factory shipments breaking through the long-sought magic mark of 2,000,000 units. Additionally, in the heavier end of truck manufacturing, the three leaders International Harvester, White, and Mack (a Signal Companies division) all fared well during 1971. Although competition is increasing steadily in this heavy-truck area, the three aforementioned independents have been predominant and continue to maintain their leadership positions. It must be mentioned that these independents do not rely on automobile manufacturing for the bulk of their sales as do the car makers also involved in turning out trucks.

Although an industry engine supplier strike is retarding some heavy-truck production at this writing, demand continues strong and is building up because of strike conditions. The walkout referred to is at Cummins Engine; it began in the early part of March. However, as each day passes, the potential for settlement increases.

Little Foreign Intervention
In contrast to the auto makers, where an estimated 15% of the marketplace is currently controlled by foreign cars, the domestic truck manufacturers are relatively free from foreign competition, especially in the field of medium- and heavy-duty trucks. The foreign producers are at a distinct disadvantage when it comes to making the larger-size vehicles and exporting them to the United States, owing to this country's size, weight, and tax restrictions.

As for the lighter-weight trucks, the situation is somewhat different. In recent years, Japanese auto manufacturers—namely Datsun and Toyota—have made some inroads, although their percentage of the market so far is small. We do expect, however, that they will continue to make progress in this area, but we do not look for them to become involved in heavy-duty truck manufacture.

Sales And Profits In High Gear
This year the investment tax credit represents a strong plus for truck sales. Also, the current hue and cry about pollution which has led to the tightening up of regulatory standards concerning emissions and safety may spur purchases of new trucks to meet the more stringent standards. This will be especially true if periodic inspections are implemented for maintaining anti-pollution standards, thus hastening the prevailing process of obsolescence.

Another favorable factor for truck manufacturing is the expected strengthening of the economy as 1972 moves along. Sales of larger trucks traditionally increase during periods of stronger economic activity. The active truck market that began in 1971 has carried into the initial months of 1972, and sales and profits increases are anticipated for this year. At present, the Research Department of Babson's Reports favors purchase of the common shares of International Harvester and White Motor Corporation, both on the N. Y. Exchange.

Nancy Dickerson To Discuss "Inside Washington" At St. Joseph College

Nancy Dickerson, nationally syndicated news correspondent, will lecture at St. Joseph College on Wednesday evening, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. in DePaul Auditorium on campus.

Mrs. Dickerson's lecture is entitled "Inside Washington", as are her syndicated news programs. She will speak on the current political scene and the upcoming elections. She will take questions after the talk.

Sponsored by the Cultural Events Committee, the lecture is open to the public without charge.

Nancy Dickerson is one of the nation's outstanding television news correspondents. In their book, "Don't Quote Me—Washington Newswomen and the Power Society," the authors say "By any standard one applies, Nancy Dickerson is one of the nation's top news correspondents and television personalities. . . . Washington doesn't have another woman television personality in Nancy's league. . . ."

Today, Nancy Dickerson can be seen on many stations across the country giving her syndicated news reports, "Inside Washington."

Mrs. Dickerson represented Public Broadcasting Corporation as one of four network correspondents in the historic "Conversation With The President," a live one-hour interview with President Nixon. She is the only woman ever to participate in such a broadcast with any President and is considered the "First Lady" of television news.

Mrs. Dickerson has received numerous awards for journalistic excellence. In addition, she was named "Woman of the Year" by "Radio TV Daily" for her outstanding reporting of President Kennedy's assassination. She was selected by "Harper's Bazaar" as one of the 100 Women of Accomplishment, and she was chosen by "Variety" as one of America's ten top reporters. Their headline: "9 Guys & a Doll."

Nancy Hanschman Dickerson was born in Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, attended Clarke College, Dubuque, Iowa, and graduated from the University of Wisconsin. She did graduate work at Harvard University and taught school in Milwaukee for two years before joining the staff of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington.

Three years later she became an associate producer for CBS's "Face The Nation" and later, a full producer for CBS News and Special Events programs. With that background, CBS in 1960 named her their first woman news correspondent. In 1963, Nancy moved to NBC, where she was the only woman to have a daily network television news show.

Mrs. Dickerson's scoops are legend: among them, she was first with the news that President Johnson would choose Hubert Humphrey as his running mate, and she was first with the news that HEW Secretary Robert Finch would ban cyclamates. She covered the inaugurations of Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon and had the unprecedented distinction of having each of them single her out to say

"Hello, Nancy," as a national television audience watched. Both Mrs. Johnson and Mrs.

Nixon granted her their first television interviews. Mrs. Dickerson is married to C. Wyatt Dickerson, Jr., a Washington businessman. They have five children, and live at Merrywood on the Potomac, where hospitality has played a significant part in Washington political life.

VA recently issued another reminder to veterans that the agency is not affiliated with private cemeteries offering burial plots free or at nominal costs.

Recently Mrs. Dickerson produced and moderated a TV special, "Conversation with Secretary Connally," seen across the country.

Is there any recourse for a passenger who is "bumped" from a flight because the airline has sold more tickets than there are spaces available on the plane?

Under Civil Aeronautics Board regulations airlines are required to compensate any passenger who has made a confirmed reservation but who cannot be accommodated on an oversold flight. "Denied boarding compensation," as it is called, is equal to the original ticket price and is sort of a refund. The difference is that the passenger does not have to hand in his ticket in order to be paid. He can get his "denied boarding compensation" and still keep the ticket for a later flight, or, if he wishes, cash it in for an additional refund. A passenger is not entitled to ticket compensation, however, if the airline can reroute him so that he arrives at his destination within 2 hours of the time originally scheduled (4 hours on international flights).

GRACIE FAYE McGRADY Route 1 Thurmont, Maryland Vs. CLARENCE E. McGRADY c/o General Delivery Independence, Virginia

ORDER OF PUBLICATION The Bill of Complaint is a suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Clarence E. McGrady.

Sculpture Exhibit At St. Joseph Col.

An exhibit of the sculptures of Leonard D. Jungwirth will be open for public viewing from Wednesday, April 26, through Saturday, April 29, in the art center at St. Joseph College. Gallery hours in Brute Hall are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. daily during the exhibit. The public is also invited to meet the sculptor's widow, Mrs. Irene Jungwirth, who will be at the art center on Thursday evening, April 27, at 7 o'clock. Also an artist, Mrs. Jungwirth is known principally for her paintings and jewelry designs. Mrs. Jungwirth recently moved to Emmitsburg from East Lansing, Mich., where she and her husband had adjoining studios in their home there. The artist will continue her work from a studio set up in her Emmitsburg residence. According to Sister Anna Mae Schaben, chairman of the art department at St. Joseph's, some 25 sculptures by Leonard Jungwirth are included in the exhibit. The sculptor, who died in 1963, worked in all media: clay, bronze, stone, marble and metal, but wood was his metier. Representative works on display are executed in walnut, maple, mahogany, oak, ebony, rosewood, hickory, cherry, terracotta, wire and lead, and bronze. The son of an Austro-Hungarian carver, Jungwirth was born in Detroit and during his youth worked part-time with the 25 carvers employed by his father. After high school and university training in architectural engineering, young Jungwirth left for Munich, Germany, in 1927 to study sculpture at the National Academy of Design and Art. He returned to the United States in 1931 where he worked with a W.P.A. project as Supervisor of Sculpture for Michigan. He later taught at Wayne University, and in 1940 joined Michigan State University as professor of sculpture. The next 23 years were the most creative period of his life. Over the years Jungwirth executed important civic, religious, and private commissions. His architectural engineering training proved invaluable in his large commissions and in his work with architects. Among his many awards and honors was a Purchase Award by the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Local Boys Join Holstein Assn.

David Hill, Charles Kaasing, and Robert Leo Wivell, all of Emmitsburg, have joined the junior membership ranks of Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Over 13,600 youngsters are now actively enrolled in the breed organization's program. Any young person, under 21 years of age, who is or has been a member of a 4-H Club or FFA Chapter is eligible for junior membership, providing they own in their name, at least one Registered Holstein. Junior members of the national Holstein Association are entitled to all privileges of adult members except voting.

STUDED TIRE DEADLINE

Motor Vehicle Administrator Ejner J. Johnson this week cautioned Maryland motorists that studded snow tires must be removed by April 30 to comply with State requirements which permit the use of such tires during winter months only. Nearly 53,000 young Holstein breeders have participated in the program since its start in 1923.

WASHINGTON REPORT FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Young Man—Old Man

It is a normal happenstance of our busy lives to think of pensions and retirement income as being of interest only to our senior citizens.

However, it is becoming more and more apparent that there can be a tragic ending with this kind of attitude. The unfortunate fact is that when many of our citizens finish their years of work, there is little or nothing for them in the employer's pension funds. But then it is too late.

The American people want the right to live their retirement years in human dignity and with financial security. Employers have responded to this by setting up more than 34,000 pension plans.

Understandably, confusion and uncertainty has resulted in this very important part of the lives of many working people. That is why Congress has become involved with seeking ways to assure an employee's rights to retirement benefits.

Serving on the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, which is considering pension legislation, has made me aware of the size and complexity of the task we will be facing in the weeks ahead.

Pension programs have become such an integral part of American life that they now represent the largest fund of virtually unregulated assets in the United States today. Their value totaled over $138 billion at the end of 1970.

Of the more than 75 million nonfarm workers in the United States, close to 30 million participate in private pension plans, paid in full or in part by their employers. The company pension has thus become a job benefit much like company-paid health plans for the worker and his family.

The problem often encountered with pensions, however, is that in order to receive any benefits at all, an employee may have to work for a long time and remain with the same firm until his retirement.

The unfairness of this approach can be seen in the imaginary case of a person who works nine years for each of five different employers. If all of them required at least 10 years of service for a pension, he would be left with nothing after 45 years of productive work.

The remedy for this may come through two concepts: "portability" and "vested benefits."

Vested benefits would make an employee eligible for a share of the standard pension amount if he left a job before becoming eligible for a normal pension. Portability means that the vested benefits from an old job could be credited to a pension plan in the employee's new job.

There are several pieces of legislation aimed at bringing about these reforms in pension reforms, but several other steps should be taken first.

Legislation is sorely needed to prevent dishonesty in the funding of pension plans and the misuse of pension funds. There also is a need for better disclosure rules—to keep the operation of a pension fund in plain view and to keep the participants in a plan fully informed of its features.

There also should be insurance features built into the pension laws to protect employees from losing their benefits if a plan is terminated.

The future well-being and security of many Americans will be affected by the decisions that will soon be made in Congress, and I am hopeful that private industry will help in bringing about these much-needed changes.

Career Education, What Is It?

About 50 per cent of the high school graduates in this country are seeking employment rather than going onto higher education. Just what are the chances for these young people to meet success with their educational backgrounds? What salable skills have they acquired in high school?

Statistics show that 10 to 15 per cent of the average graduating high school class studied in some type of vocational-technical program which leads directly to qualifying for a job. This leaves about 40 per cent of the graduates who are really not qualified for the world of work. These are the young people who are struggling to obtain jobs which could lead to rewarding careers.

Some educators are discussing the possibilities of developing a program called "career education." The program would give exposure to work activities through the regular school curriculum. Rather than attending the unproductive general courses, the students would take courses related to various work categories.

These curricular systems, or "work clusters", would help prepare the students for basic understandings in major areas.

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

For example: The electronic cluster could have levels of understanding from putting in light fixtures to the construction or operation of electronic systems and computers. A category such as health sciences could begin with a hospital aide and go to the level of physician.

The program, as envisioned, would be a spiral system with the students having the opportunity to spin off at any level. They would, therefore, begin a life of productive work with the knowledge that they could return at a later time to continue their education and development.

This would help to eliminate the whole concept and problem of dropping out of school. Instead, the students would leave temporarily and could always return to upgrade themselves. Education would be a continual process.

Commissioner of Education, Sidney P. Marland, said recently: "With career education we will finally begin to motivate young people with good minds who are not learning effectively in school". He feels that parents as well as educators need to accept the fact that not all young people need or should go to college immediately after high school. There should be an acceptance that differences in individual needs and ambitions must be considered.

"Career Education" is still just a dream. It could become a reality if enough educators and parents were concerned about the 50 percent of high school graduates who are entering the world of work with few skills and little direction toward a career.

Chicken Pox Serum Offered By State

A new program to establish an anti-chickenpox serum bank has been announced by Maryland Health and Mental Hygiene Secretary, Dr. Neil Solomon. He said it will be a model after which similar programs in other states will be patterned.

"Chickenpox can be deadly for children who have to take certain drugs to combat arthritis, kidney disease, leukemia and other forms of cancer," the Secretary said. "These drugs produce a side effect which lowers the body's natural defenses against infection," he continued, "and under these conditions, exposure to another child who has chickenpox can be very dangerous for these children."

Dr. Solomon said the project is aimed at providing a stockpile of the serum to be used when children with chronic diseases are exposed to chickenpox.

Pat Ott Does Not Enter Election Race

Patrick E. Ott, Emmitsburg restaurant owner, said today that he has been told by Commissioner Philip Topper and Town Clerk Regina Rybikowsky, he could not file for election to town office in Emmitsburg because of non-ownership of property.

Although he has no plans to attempt to enter the current election, Ott said that the Town ordinance prohibiting his qualification for office on the basis of property ownership is unconstitutional.

Sister Frances Gilman Of SJC Elected President Of Mathematics Association

Sister John Frances Gilman, Ph.D., assistant professor of mathematics at St. Joseph College, was elected president of the Maryland School-College Mathematics Association, Inc. on April 8.

Held at the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting in Owings Mills, the theme of the Association's annual meeting was "Television as a resource in Mathematics Education."

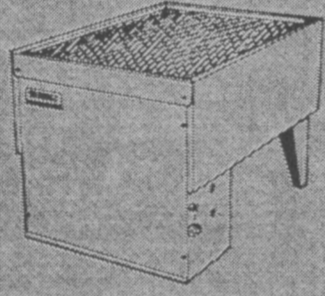

Also elected to the Board were: Vice President, Dr. Richard H. Brown, Washington College; Secretary, Mildred B. Cole, University of Maryland Mathematics Project; Treasurer, Dr. Robert B. Hanson, Towson State College; Member-at-large, Willie Lee Rapanna, Morgan State College; Ex-officio member, Dr. Thomas Howan, Mathematics Supervisor, Maryland State Department of Education.

The MS-CMA was founded in 1964 with a four-fold objective: 1. to promote greater cooperation and coordination between institutions concerned with the training of teachers of mathematics; 2. to stimulate greater articulation between elementary and secondary schools and institutions devoted to the preparation of teachers of mathematics; 3. to explore new directions and trends in the preparation of teachers; and 4. to bring about an exchange of ideas and information for the improvement of mathematics instruction at all levels.
