Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Every once in a while I get the wrong information. When that happens and I find it out, I'll be the first to admit it—and set the record straight. A couple of weeks ago I chided our new Mayor for skipping the Spring Athletic Banquet held at Catoctin High School. It seems that he did not attend, but he did send a representative, none other than his delightful wife. My story got started because apparently those in charge of the banquet did not know she was there representing the Mayor. They failed to introduce her, thereby recognizing Emmitsburg and its importance to Catoctin, although they did introduce Thurmont's Mayor Black. Maybe the Master of Ceremonies should have looked around a little bit before he passed us by.

I'm told that the Mayor has pledged there is a new era opening up for Emmitsburg. He is going to see that our town is represented in local activities and gets the recognition due her. That certainly will be an improvement over some periods in the past.

Congratulations to Mrs. Alma Jones for the completion of a long and distinguished career of service to our local school. Faculty and students will miss her. All of us appreciate the contribution she has made to the town over the years.

Who is the local businessman advocating that businesses other than his own stay open longer hours than they are now working? I'm told he works for a business that has been steadily decreasing the hours of its service to the public and now has them down to about thirty per week. Meanwhile he wants others to stay open all day Sunday!

Emmit Gardens residents seem to have stirred up a hornets nest with their complaints about the flooding in their area a couple of weeks ago. Compared to its performance on the broken sidewalks in town, the Town Council moved like lightning to get Flat Run creek bed cleaned out. Maybe this is symbolic that our new council will offer a little faster action on the problems of the town. This will be good for us all. Gardens residents also got the attention of the state politicians. Maybe they can help put a solution to this problem so that we won't have another repeat performance.

And speaking of action, what happened to the promises of new and expanded industry for our town? As I remember one local factory was going to expand, a group was going to start a new development and local citizens were going to work on bringing in other desirable industries. Is it too much to hope that lightning might strike again?

I'm told the new school planning is a little behind schedule but the Board of Education is working with the architect to speed things up. Fall 1973 occupancy is still the target. All indications are that this goal can be met, but those involved will have to keep on the ball. Maybe that special committee working with the Board of Education should wave a lightning rod in the direction of Hagerstown.

Vaccination Of Pets Urged By Vets.

With summer approaching, pet owners are urged to have their animals vaccinated against rabies, according to the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association.

Summer is the most likely time for rabies to occur, and the best prevention is to have your animal vaccinated, the veterinary association said.

Rabies is caused by a virus which can be transmitted only by a bite from an infected animal. Wildlife—particularly skunks and foxes—serve as a reservoir for the infection and these animals can transmit it to household pets.

There are several steps which will help prevent rabies.

1. Have your pet vaccinated.
2. Obey all leash and licensing laws in your community.
3. Make sure your pet is identified by a license tag and a rabies inoculation tag.
4. Report stray dogs to the police or local pound.

If a person is bitten by an animal, contact a physician immediately. If the animal was stray or wild, the police should also be contacted.

The wound should be thoroughly washed with soap and water. Bleeding should be encouraged to carry away any infected saliva that may be in the wound.

If possible, a stray animal should be captured and confined for 10 days to two weeks. If the animal develops rabid symptoms, it will die within that time.

If the animal remains alive and well during the time of confinement, it was not rabid at the time of biting and there is no need for vaccination.

On the other hand, if the animal shows definite signs of rabies, or if it cannot be captured and is suspected of being rabid, proper medical treatment should take place immediately.

In the case of one animal being attacked by another animal which is proved rabid, the safest course is to destroy the exposed animal in a humane fashion.

Summer Events Listed For Seniors

Sunday, June 11, the Senior Citizens Club members gathered at the Center at 12:30. All were armed with boxes and baskets ready to depart for the picnic held at the Paul Beale cottage on Lake Heritage. The day was ideal for the event, neither too hot nor too cool, and the location was beautiful. Tables were set up on the lawn and food quickly unloaded. After the bountiful meal was disposed of, the 35 members and friends spent the afternoon strolling about, visiting and boating.

All declared a wonderful adventure spent in the spring countryside and offered many thanks and much appreciation to the Beale's for their gracious gesture.

The official board of the Senior Citizens met Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The meeting was opened with a prayer by LaRue Harman.

Mount Receives $18,000 Grant

Mount Saint Mary's College has been awarded an $18,000 federal grant for use in establishing an audio-visual learning center on the Mount campus. According to Michael H. Scheerer, Director of Counseling Services, the college applied for the grant in September and now learned of its approval by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

As currently envisioned, the center will contain 32 carrels—stalls for individual work—each of which will be equipped with an audio cassette player and earphones, a rear-projection screen, and a 35-millimeter slide projector. Eight of the carrels would also house a super-8 cartridge motion picture projector. Other features would be a variety of camera and lens equipment, work tables, and a master audio cassette duplicator.

"We're trying to individualize teaching to serve students with a wide range of abilities," Scheerer said. "This system would serve students encountering difficulties as well as those with greater ability."

He said that students of foreign language and education courses have benefited greatly from individual approaches which have been restricted to those two curricular areas alone. The learning center would extend individual help through similar federal grants. Scheerer said he hopes the facility to be operational some time next year.

contributed to the problem, and indicated they were going to circulate a petition to get the State Highway Administration to study the situation. Dr. Emile A. Nakhleh, a Gardens resident, wrote to State Highway Administrator David H. Fisher, asking for his assistance.

This week Fisher replied to Nakhleh reporting that the matter has been referred to the Administration's Deputy Chief Engineer—Operations, who has been assigned to conduct a thorough investigation of the matter and furnish Fisher with a report and recommendations.

Bicycle riding along the beach is fast becoming one of the favorite pastimes on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Twenty-six miles of beach, plus scenic inland drives offer cyclists a wide variety of interesting places to enjoy this popular sport.

In addition to every seashore resort attraction, the Mississippi Gulf Coast offers visitors 300 years of history dating back to the eras of the French explorers, Indians and pirates.

Kids love the Gulf Coast with its Marineland, Deer Ranch, excursion boats, ole West frontier town, carnival and other delights for young and old alike.

SHA Promises

will result in a second bridge which will further contribute to the problem. This area has been flooded several times since the existing Route 15 bypass was completed.

Area residents are undecided as to the exact cause of the flooding. It is hoped the study promised by Fisher will clarify the problem.

The Town Council is studying the Town's sewage system in the area to determine if modifications would reduce danger from flooding. Commissioner J. Norman Flax said that installation of gate valves which could be closed in times of heavy rains would prevent creek water backing up into the sewage system serving the Gardens area.

Nakhleh sent copies of his letter to Fisher to several elected representatives. Senator Beal and Congressman Byron have replied to Nakhleh offering assistance and indicating they also will contact Fisher.

Charles Hartdagen, Emmitsburg's Fire Chief, and Thurmont's Chief Miller participate in a drill combining the efforts of the Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Fairfield and Rocky Ridge Companies. The practice was designed as a test to determine the amount of water available at the hydrants at Saint Joseph College. With four 2½ inch lines and two 1½ inch lines pumping, the 8 inch water main in the new system at the College still held 50 pounds of pressure. Fairfield and Thurmont Companies relayed to Emmitsburg and Rocky Ridge in the combined action.

Last week the "missing George Smith monument" located, at one time, in just about the center of the present area of the Tom's Creek Lutheran and Reformed churchyard, was mentioned — as a prelude to a genealogical study of the Smith family of the "Cattail Branch". Fortunately the inscription from this stone was copied some sixteen years ago—and it is as follows:

1. "George Smith — Born
1720—Died 1793."

George Smith, George Sheets, David Danner, whose tomb is the oldest in the community,
George Hockensmith, and George Row. The Hays patent was known as 'Brotherly Love,' while George Smith
called his the 'Cattail Branch'."

Mr. Helman goes on to say —"The first patent on record
in this vicinity is to George Smith, March 21st, 1746, for 500 acres. The survey is called 'Cattail Branch'. George and Christiana Smith were the parents of eleven children

—four boys and seven girls.
Their son, John Smith, was a sergeant in Captain William Blair's Game Cock Company
in the War of the American Revolution. George Smith had two sons-in-law in the same company, John Crabbs, corporal, and Jacob Hockensmith, Ensign."

John (2) Smith, son of George (1) and Christiana Smith, is interred near his parents in Tom's Creek churchyard. His grave is marked by a black slatestone on which is cut the following inscription:

2. In memory of John Smith, died May 12, 1783. (No age or date of birth given).

Note: This man was a soldier in the War of the American Revolution, a sergeant in the famous Game Cock Company. He died the year that the war ended—quite possibly from the effects of his service. Truly—one who gave his all—another life itself.

Another son of George (1)
and Christiana Smith, was Michael (2) Smith. This man is noted in the early history of Emmitsburg as a "Blacksmith." James Helman states that "Michael Smith was an artist at the anvil."

There is no record of the burial place of Michael (2) Smith. Probably he was interred in Tom's Creek churchyard, in a grave that is now unmarked.

Christiana (2) Smith, one of the seven daughters of
George (1) and Christiana
Smith, married Michael Row, the son of Anthony Row, and brother of Arthur Row. Michael and Christiana (Smith)
Row are interred in Tom's Creek churchyard. The inscriptions follow:

3. In memory of Michael Row, died June 14, 1837, aged 81 years.

Michael Row was a soldier
in the War of the American Revolution and was pensioned
by the Federal Government for his services.

In memory of Christiana Row, wife of Michael Row, died June 7, 1842, aged 79
years.

Michael and Christiana (Smith) Row were the parents of at least twelve children—
as follows: Catharine (Row)
Henry, Michael Row, Mary
(Row), Hartzell, Elizabeth
(Row), Zollinger, Lucy Ann
(Row), Sollers, William Row,
Margaret Row, Sarah (Row)
Fisher, John Row, Christiana
(Row) Weant, Samuel Row,
Joseph Row, and George Row.

Of the above, Daniel Row
is interred in old Tom's Creek churchyard in the family plot with his parents. The inscription follows:

In memory of Daniel
Row, died February 16, 1831,
aged 43 years, 2 months, and 18 days.

Christiana Row married into the Weant family. Members of this clan are interred both at Tom's Creek and Elias churchyard. However, if Christiana (Row) Weant and her husband are buried at either place, their graves are now unmarked.

Susan, another daughter of
Michael and Christiana
(Smith) Row married John Sluss. Their graves are in Tom's Creek churchyard. The inscriptions follow:

6. In memory of John Sluss, died February 15, 1890,
aged 81 years, 2 months, and 1 day.

7. In memory of Susan Sluss, wife of John Sluss, died
January 25, 1896, aged 88
years, 9 months and 18 days.

Another daughter of George
(1) and Christiana Smith
married Corporal John Crabbs, Soldier of the American Revolution, and a non-commissioned officer in the famous Game

WASHINGTON
REPORT
FROM SENATOR J. GLENN
BEALL JR.

The Commuter Needs Help

The commuter problems of Baltimore and Washington
area residents are becoming more than just a time-consuming nuisance.

In recent weeks, we have heard from the Environmental Protection Agency that these two major urban centers of Maryland have yet to submit acceptable air pollution plans pertaining to automobile exhaust emissions. It has also been recognized that the problems of these two cities are so great that the 1975
deadline for meeting clean air standards has been extended to 1977.

I believe this situation has been brought on, in part, by a lack of comprehensive transit planning—at a time when the importance of urban mass transportation has become increasingly evident. We just cannot afford to put up with the pollution, congested highways, and the wear and tear on individuals as they crawl through traffic to their jobs.

Of the hundreds of thousands of commuters who pour into Washington and Baltimore each day, 70 per cent or more travel by car. In comparison with other major cities, this figure is astounding. Public transportation is used by 90 per cent of those working in New York, 80 per cent in Chicago, 75 per cent in Philadelphia and 70 per cent in Boston.

Subway construction is finally underway in Washington, and it certainly should help out commuters in the immediate vicinity of the city.
Baltimore also is getting close to starting on a long-delayed rapid transit system. But other modes of transportation should be considered to complement these plans.

Rail commuter service is just such an ingredient in a comprehensive transportation plan, but unfortunately it has been systematically neglected

by public planners. Nowhere has this been more evident
than in the Washington
Metropolitan Area Transit
Authority, a regional agency created five years ago by Maryland, Virginia and Congress, which acted for the District of Columbia.

Washington's suburban population is expected to double by the end of the century, and rail commuter service can play a major role in providing transit service to the people living in the outlying areas of greater Washington.

But a transit authority
representative tells us, "There is no mandate in our legislation that we are to be concerned with railroads. On the other hand, there is no prohibition."

To me, that is talking around the issue, so I have introduced legislation to require that this regional authority draw up a program for the development of rail commuter service in the Washington area.

A very thorough feasibility study was completed just about a year ago, and it concluded that rail commuter service could be established,
using first-class equipment.
It was estimated that, at the outset, between 12,500 and 14,400 trips per day would be made between Washington
and Montgomery County, Prince Georges County, Balti-
more City and the Virginia suburbs. A good growth potential also was anticipated.

This would not be the cure-
all to the commuter problem of our nation's capital or any of our other major cities. But it would be a practical alternative that could come close to paying for itself, and it is an alternative that deserves more attention than it is getting. I hope the transi-tary planners will pick up the ball without having to wait for my legislation to put them to work.

LOOKING AHEAD

By George S. Benson, President, National Education Program
Searcy, Arkansas

Dr. Edward Teller is one of the greatest living physicists, one of the team who developed the Atom Bomb, and the leader of the team of nuclear scientists who developed the H-bomb. He is Associate Director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at the University of California, Berkeley, and the University Professor of Physics. For 10 years he has militantly sought to bring about nuclear warfare parity, if not superiority, for the United States as a deterrent to the massive build-up of strategic nuclear forces by Russia. In his speech to our 35th Freedom Forum, Dr. Teller said:

"When Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara took office (1961) this country had military leadership. This military leadership protected us from all-out war and served as a safeguard for other democracies—for instance, for our allies in Western Europe. When McNamara left office we no longer had superiority. At best we had parity. Today there is no question that the Russians are ahead of us in every important military field—very particularly in nuclear weapons.

Could Wipe Out U. S.

"If they were adventurous people like the Nazis were, they could wipe us out today, and we could not do much about it although our retaliation still would be painful. A few years from now even the bare sufficiency which we now have will be gone. It was at this thought that McNamara was most terribly wrong. He built . . . a retaliatory force which he said gave us assured deterrence. Who cares whether the Russians have more or we? (he asked) Each of us had over-kill. We had more than enough. Why do we want more still? We had sufficiency, according to McNamara's ideas, not only for the year 1963, but forever after. Nuclear weapons are absolute weapons and no one can withstand them. That is the idea.

"That, unfortunately, is not the fact. I say to you that in the '70's, America will be subjected to its most severe test—the most severe test in its whole existence, unless we begin to change course now.

A New Dark Age

"The United States will cease to exist as a power, as a State, as an idea, as a way of life. Freedom will cease to exist because, indeed, America, because of fate, is the last fortress of freedom. If it falls, freedom will vanish everywhere. The Russians have lived with lack of freedom ever since the times of Genghis Khan, near the year 200. What may well happen is the beginning of a new dark age.

"And now I should like to come to my last proposal. I told you that the Russians are ahead of us. The question is often raised: What will it take to become the stronger ones again? I give you my answer and you won't like it. It cannot be done in the 1970's. I doubt that even parity can be achieved before 1980. If it can be done in the long run, I see one hope for it, and that is the wholehearted cooperation of all the advanced democracies—western Europe, Canada, Australia, Japan. Our interests are identical. Our dangers are the same. Our total ability to work, to create, to defend ourselves could be overwhelming. This does not mean world government. It means maintaining variety and independence, with independence. It means that in the long run we can checkmate the danger that is Russia.

It Depends On You

"The question now is: Will the world be enslaved in this decade? If we can stop that menace, there may be some way, some peaceful way of persuasion backed up with strength where all the world may become free. But even to stop the present danger requires a miracle. In the 1940's, I had strong reason to believe that only a miracle could stop the Nazi menace. The miracle did happen, but miracles do not happen unless you work for them. We cannot achieve this goal unless we have with moderation and unless we apply great ingenuity.

"I want to conclude by making a prediction about the future. At the end of the century the world will be either much better or much worse than it is today, and which it will be, depends on you, the people."

Pro's And Con's Of Team Teaching

As we hear about the new innovations in education, team teaching seems to keep reappearing. It has been with us since the 1920's, but its full potential has probably not yet been reached. It is still considered as just another method of classroom organization and not fully accepted as a valuable technique.

The most common pattern of team teaching is the single-subject team in which at least two or three teachers teach the same subject to the same group of students at the same time. The teachers do cooperative planning, preparation and then teach as a team. All the students in the group are the responsibility of each teacher on the team.

The inter-disciplinary team is the other most often used pattern of cooperative teaching. In this pattern, the teachers of different subjects are each given a period of time in which to work with the same group of students but on different subjects.

Some studies have been done concerning team teaching but none of them have provided substantial evidence of its merit. It appears that the advantages just about balance the disadvantages.

The approach seems to be an excellent way for student teachers to become familiar

Perspectives In Learning By Hazel Brown

with teaching procedures. Many new teachers find opportunities for participating, although others use the situation as a crutch and become too dependent upon other team members.

The opportunities for cooperative planning of learning activities gives the teachers a chance to share ideas and explore topics more fully than they might do on their own. Group planning takes time and many teams find it very difficult to find enough time for the in-depth planning they would like. Some teachers begin to feel that some members of the team are less responsible, so that working as a true team can be very difficult.

The students in a team situation have the advantage of being taught by more than one teacher. Most students can adjust to the subject more readily if several personalities are associated with it. When the students know they are being evaluated by more than one teacher, they usually have a feeling of being fairly treated, but this same facet can be a disadvantage to the students who have difficulty adjusting to group situations. Some students need the feeling of individual rapport with one person, and for these students the team can be a very frustrating experience.

Economically the team approach can be advantageous. Several teachers in a team situation can teach more students and still create a low student-teacher ratio. It can also be used to help eliminate the shortage of skilled teachers, because a strong teacher can lead the team and be helped by less qualified teachers or teaching aides.

The necessity for hiring substitute teachers can be drastically reduced. If a member of the team is absent the other members can handle the lesson.

The team situation might create some rivalry among the staff. Sometimes this can be quite healthy, while at other times it can be a real deterrent to progress. Resentment among team members may develop, especially if they feel they are not being treated equally.

Most of the studies reveal that students are really benefiting from team teaching. The pupils are having more opportunities to participate in activities on an individual basis and are benefiting from the use of more audio-visual aids. They are able to associate with more teachers and thus witness various points of view, different backgrounds and broader experiences. Just meeting more individuals on a personal basis is a learning experience.

For this type of teaching and learning to be a true success, some real changes must take place in the mechanical problems of time, space, and the group situation. When teachers learn to be compatible and complementary, the students will be the ones who benefit.

Work For Welfare Law is Enacted in Maryland

Maryland Governor Marvin Mandel has signed into law a measure co-sponsored by Senator Edward P. Thomas (R-Fred-Carroll) calling for an experimental project requiring welfare recipients to work in order to receive public assistance.

The controversial bill signed by the governor originally would have required all welfare recipients to work in order to get welfare checks.

A compromise bill worked out in the Senate allows Mrs. Rita Davidson, the state's welfare secretary, to try out the project on a limited number (350) of recipients.

Mrs. Davidson vigorously opposed the Thomas measure in Annapolis last winter and earlier this week said she felt new federal legislation requiring able-bodied welfare recipients to register for jobs or work training will not reduce the state's welfare rolls and will only create another level of bureaucracy.

"We plan to keep a close watch on Mrs. Davidson and the manner in which she administers our new work fare bill. We certainly hope she doesn't try to get around the intent of the bill by employing welfare recipients in her kingdom—the Social Services Department," said Senator Thomas.

"She should know about state bureaucracy . . . her department is a prime example of it," said the Frederick Senator.

Under terms of the bill welfare recipients will work on state and local public projects. Senator Thomas says the intent of the bill is to have people work on such jobs as maintenance of schools, in parks and forests, recreation centers, hospitals and roads.

"We don't want Mrs. Davidson misinterpreting the intent of what was passed by the General Assembly," he said.

"There are plenty of jobs that need to be done and just don't get done because the local jurisdictions don't have the funds on the local level," he said.

Mrs. Davidson will report to the legislature on the progress of the pilot program during the next session of the General Assembly.

Thomas pointed out that members of the West Virginia and Pennsylvania state legislatures had contacted him for particulars of the measure his bill contained for Maryland. Legislators in those states are considering introducing similar measures, Senator Thomas said.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Data Communication Via Public Microwave Systems

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., June 15, 1972—In the past, almost all data was transmitted by ordinary telephone or telegraph channels provided by American Telephone, independent telephone companies, and Western Union. Some transmission was—and still is—handled by several corporations with their own microwave or cable facilities for their far-flung branches. Not until late 1969 did the Federal Communications Commission rule that a privately owned company, Microwave Communications, Inc. (MCI), could build and operate a microwave network for public use in competition with AT&T and Western Union. MCI recently filed a proposed securities offering with the SEC, and will be a publicly traded firm once its common stock is sold. Microwave data transmission offers huge potential for transmission companies and suppliers of related devices. It should unscramble telephone/telegraph delays and lower sending costs.

More Competitive Market

American Telephone, with its near monopoly over voice communications, has operated microwave networks on a limited scale for years. As long as there was no challenge from outsiders or any real pressure for alternative systems, AT&T saw no need to innovate or institute a public microwave network. MCI fought for six years before the FCC ruled that it could build and operate a public microwave network. It now has two systems and plans networks that will eventually serve 41 states through 17 affiliates (to be 20% to 51% owned). Since then, the FCC has been deluged with applications from other non-telephone firms. Among them is Datron—a subsidiary of University Computing Corp., a publicly traded firm—which may get approval next.

Glimpse At Potential Business

Computer manufacturers will derive an enormous impact from the growing data communications market. In 1970 there were 7,000 computers—some 13% of which were adaptable for communications transmission. By 1975 it is estimated that there will be 66,000 such adaptable computers, or a total of 60% of all those installed.

The data transmission market is expected, conservatively, to expand from a 1970 estimate of $250-$500 million to at least $2 billion by 1980. Some experts talk glowingly of a market topping $10 billion. Auxiliary or peripheral devices making data transmission possible even under current telephone systems will figure importantly in microwave communication between computers. These accessory electronic marvels represent fast-growing sectors, and the market should reach $500 million by the end of the present decade.

Chief Contenders

Besides Western Union, MCI, Datron, and the telephone companies, those corporations with real depth in this burgeoning business include Collins Radio, General Electric, Martin Marietta, Microwave Associates, Milgo Electronics, Raytheon, Sanders Associates, Watkins-Johnson, and Varian Associates. These companies produce components, peripheral devices, or they are turnkey contractors.

The Research Staff of Babson's Reports recommends Raytheon as a seasoned company with expanding competence in data communication. Raytheon built, supplied, and was the turnkey contractor on MCI's initial microwave network between Chicago and St. Louis. Moreover, Raytheon will be a principal supplier for Datron, and expects to sell hardware to several new microwave data transmission firms whose applications are now pending before the FCC.

Our second recommendation is the common stock (conservative grade) of AT&T, which offers a high secure return and potential for good long-term appreciation. The Babson Research Staff is of the opinion that AT&T will meet the challenge of the specialized microwave carriers thru more aggressive development and marketing of new products via its own national public microwave transmission network.

The Salzburg Seminar Studies the U.S.

The Salzburg Seminar in American Studies is a unique institution which rose from the ashes of World War II to help Europeans learn more about the United States. Many distinguished Americans, such as the late Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Justice Byron White and Justice Potter Stewart, have taught at Leopoldsdorfer in Salzburg, Austria, and it was with a sense of both history and humility that I accepted the invitation to join the Seminar faculty.

Law, management, culture, urban and international affairs are among the subjects explored at previous seminars by the faculty, which is traditionally American, and the student body, which is chiefly European. This spring's seminar gave me a chance to explain to the students my views on the changing political scene in the United States. But as the lectures ended and discussion began, the teacher-pupil relationship shifted and I found myself confronting the issues which are of concern to the European community on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Chief among these issues was the fear that the superpowers, the United States, Russia, and China, would engage in another Yalta-type agreement which would enforce some arbitrary world order on smaller nations and independent peoples. I hope that I was able to dispel this fear with respect to the intent of United States policy, but we should recognize that such currents of opinion do exist in important areas of the world.

The student body also expressed interest in the European Security Conference which is now being debated in the United States and Canada, as well as in both Eastern and Western Europe. They welcomed the concept of a nation-to-nation meeting to discuss European security in contrast to bloc-to-bloc confrontation but, again, expressed the fear that such a conference would be dominated by the superpowers.

The European students were apparently as concerned about the question of secrecy in government as are many of my Maryland constituents. Our discussion started on the publication of the Pentagon Papers, but quickly broadened to focus on the classified document policies practiced by their governments.

Elias Lutheran Cites School Pupils

Children's Day was observed at Elias Lutheran Church recently with special recognition being given to the Sunday Church School pupils. Teachers of the various classes and their pupils attended the Worship Service together. Special music was provided by the Youth Choir, directed by Mr. Thomas D. Kittinger, and accompanied by Mrs. Donald Eyer.

Choir certificates were given to the following children who participated in the past year's choral work: Holly Andrew, Robert Andrew, Julie Eyer, Cathy Crum, Cheryl Crum, Nancy Crum, Daniel Fearer, Robert Leatherman, Brenda Leatherman, Todd Leatherman, Deborah Leatherman, Kim Leatherman, Denise Manahan, Randy Smith, Tina Smith, and Debra Small. Also recipients of Choir Certificates for their participation in "Jesus Christ, Superstar," were Peggy L. Long and Carol Eyer.

Acolyte pins, for those assisting during the year at regular worship services, and including Baptisms, weddings, and funerals, were presented to the following: Robert Andrew, Tina and Randy Smith, Robert Leatherman, Debra Small, Kim Leatherman, Todd Leatherman, Julie Eyer, Daniel Fearer, Brenda Leatherman, and Nancy Crum.

A Bible knowledge contest was concluded May 21, 28 and June 4 with silver trophies being awarded to contest winners. Classes, under the direction of their teachers, had been preparing since September for the culmination of the contest. Recipients of the trophies were Suzanne Althoff, Grade Two; Daniel Fearer, Grade Three, and John Holt, Grade Six. Runners-up in the contest who received prizes were Julie Eyer, Brenda Leatherman and Tina Smith.

Teachers present with their classes included: Mrs. Ethel Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Koontz, Mrs. Charles Long, Miss Betty J. Koontz, Mr. John Working, Mrs. Robert Saylor and Mr. and Mrs. John Reaves.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Would you please publicize the Heroin Hot Line and inform citizens of your district of its importance?

This letter seeking help in publicizing the National Heroin Hot Line was sent to me by the Office for Drug Abuse Law Enforcement of the U. S. Department of Justice. The Hot Line was established as one of a number of techniques to significantly interrupt the street level distribution of heroin in communities throughout the nation. Public-spirited citizens having information on heroin traffickers are urged to dial the toll-free number 800-368-5363 and provide information that will enable law enforcement officers at all levels of government to seek out and eliminate the ushers. The Hot Line is manned 24 hours a day and is entirely voluntary, and the identity of callers will be protected. Information obtained over the Hot Line will be turned over to investigators who will consist of agents of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and State and other Federal agencies who will be assigned to this program.

Would you please explain your pension exemption bill? Briefly, this legislation

Hunting Licenses On Sale July 1

Maryland's 1972-73 hunting licenses will go on sale July 1, and this year's hunters will find a few changes in the rate structure, the Department of Natural Resources reminds.

The change that has caused the most comment is one that allows Maryland residents 65 years of age and over to hunt for only $1.00. The $1.00 fee also applies to all other licenses after a person reaches age 65, so that the "senior citizen" now can obtain a hunting license, fishing license, big game stamp and trout stamp, all for a $4.00 package. Until the Legislature passed the new license law this year such a package would have cost him $19.00.

This change by the Legislature did away with the free hunting license formerly granted to individuals over 70, but these oldsters still are ahead of the game. While they got fishing and hunting licenses for free they still had to pay $8.00 if they bought both the big game and trout stamps. Now they can get all for half that amount.

The main reason for doing away with the free licenses and installing the token $1.00 license for the "Golden age" group is to allow Maryland to qualify for more federal funds used in improving hunting and fishing. Grants are made on the basis of the number of paid licenses and give-aways don't count.

The legislature also abolished the $3.00 county resident hunting license, which allowed a hunter to take to the fields and woods only in his county of residence. The bill was sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources after the Court of Appeals ruled that county residence cannot be a requirement for obtaining a crabbing or oystering license.

The law covering non-resident hunting licenses also was changed. A reciprocal system becomes effective July 1 under which a non-resident pays the same thing for a Maryland license that a Maryland resident would have to pay in the State in question, or $25.00, whichever is greater.

All other fees remain the same as for 1971-72. Licenses will be available at county courthouses or from authorized license agents. Most leading sporting goods stores in the State will carry them.

TAX RECEIPTS UP

Maryland State Comptroller, Louis L. Goldstein, this week announced that net receipts from State and Local income tax for the month of May 1972, totaled $99,131,024.88 as compared to net receipts of $76,325,113.65 received for the month of May 1971.

Tabulations made for the eleven months of the State's current fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1972, shows net receipts from State and Local income tax to be $683,631,031.70 as compared with $605,681,387.63 for the same period last year.

Shrimp Cooked In Foil Bundles

Jumbo shrimp take to the outdoor grill when seasoned and then wrapped in strong heavy duty aluminum foil. Here's a very special entertaining idea, but one that can easily be converted to any kind of quick cooking meat, fish or poultry. Individual foil bundles cooked right on the grill! Be sure to serve grill-prepared bread, too.

Shrimp Bundles
2 lbs. large shrimp 2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced 1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter freshly ground pepper
1 teaspoon herbs for salads

Remove shell, leaving tail in place and devein shrimp. Combine garlic, butter and herbs; let stand over heat a few minutes. Add lemon juice. Arrange 5 to 6 shrimps on individual serving squares of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap. Top each with butter mixture; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bring foil up over shrimp, double folding edges together. Double fold ends, turning them up. Place on grill over medium hot fire and grill for 10 to 20 minutes. Serve packages on paper plates, letting each person open his own. Makes: 4 servings.

Hot Italian Bread
Slice Italian bread in 1-inch diagonal slices. Blend 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese with 6 tablespoons softened butter; spread between bread slices. Wrap in Reynolds Wrap, leaving partially open at top. Heat on grill, tipping occasionally from one side to another.

To a chemist, a ruby is nothing more than a red corundum with chromic oxide impurities.

Farm Visitation
Day June 25th

Farm Visitation Day will be held Sunday, June 25 this year in Frederick County and in many other areas of Maryland. Visiting hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m. on the five Welcome Farms in Frederick County.

The Welcome Farms are: Kenneth E. Burrier at Unionville, Dairy; Gilmore R. Flautt, III, near New Market, Horses; Edgar W. Heflin, near Woodsboro, Beef; and R. Eugene Myers at Thurmont, Dairy.

The primary purpose of the Farm Visitation Day is to provide an opportunity for city and other non-farm people to learn more about how the bountiful food supply in the United States is produced. Scientific farming and modern technology now allows one farm worker to produce enough food for himself and about fifty other people. Many farm people have thus been able to shift their productive abilities to other enterprises in our expanding economy.

Farm Visitation Day in Frederick County is planned by a committee representing many agricultural interests.

Mathias Backs Bill For Relief Corps

Senator Charles McC. Mathias (R-Md) this week introduced legislation to create a noncombatant corps to aid United Nations relief operations following natural disasters.

The unit would be known as the FIRST Brigade, Forces for International Relief on Standby. Its 1,000 noncombatant, technical personnel would be provided by the Department of Defense, Senator Mathias said in remarks prepared for delivery on the Senate floor.

Senator Mathias' joint resolution urges President Nixon to instruct our U.N. delegation to prepare and submit to the U.N. General Assembly "an offer to provide support to the United Nations Office which will coordinate disaster relief to any country or region of the world which has been affected by a disaster and solicits such relief."

However, the resolution provides that the President can rescind the offer if he determines that the brigade's presence would endanger the security of the United States or if the brigade was ordered into an area beset by civil disorders or active military hostilities, Senator Mathias said.

Milford Lake, 16,189 acres, is Kansas' largest. Four miles northwest of Junction City, the popular lake offers good walleye, white bass, northern pike, crappie and bass fishing, plus large flathead catfish. — Sports Afield.

Reading Program Offered By Library

Parents are finding their children are unable to read up to standard. There is a summer reading program conducted through your local library that may help your child to improve his reading skills and put him in a higher level come fall. Pertinent information to joining the Reading Club for Summer is listed below. For any other information you are requested to call the library at 447-2682 any afternoon other than Thursday or Saturday from 1-5 or in the evening 6:30-9.

The program is for children up to grade 6. It involves reading eight books for the Summer, preferably one a week. The only reporting to be done is a brief one if given orally and a short written one if one prefers to write. Smaller children may draw a picture of their favorite character. A certificate is given on August 25. The club is under way as of June 12 and runs or eight weeks. Any child who is interested should call or visit the Public Library.

Books To Help Pass Tests Available

Among the many helpful books available at your local library, just to mention a few, are: books to help pass a "Federal Exam"; books to help a person obtain a high "School Equivalency Test" to obtain a diploma. Also books to assist one in passing a "Practical Nurses Test," "Entrance Examinations," and Graduate and Registered Nurses Examinations. These plus books on "College Entrance Examinations," "Graduate Record Examination," and National Merit Scholarship Tests."

These books are invaluable to those interested in passing the above tests.

Millions Of Menhaden May Die In Bay

The kill of Menhaden in Chesapeake Bay, first reported June 3, may run into the millions before it ends and will be a nuisance on some beaches, the Fisheries Administration of the Department of Natural Resources said this week.

While the kill is extensive, fish management experts discount it as of any serious import on the ecology of the Chesapeake. It is not the most serious kill the Bay has experienced, nor even the most serious in recent years, they say.

Almost all the fish, which began dying in Bear Creek, northwest of Sparrows Point, are menhaden of the same size, 6 to 10 inches. They are one to two years old when they reach this size.

The kill extends about 35 miles from Baltimore Harbor to Holland Point in southern Anne Arundel County. In minimizing the effects of this widespread mortality, fish biologists point out that big kills of menhaden occur every year, particularly in the late spring and early summer when sudden changes in water temperature occur.

Nor are such menhaden kills peculiar to the Chesapeake. They occur from Nova Scotia southward, wherever the species occurs in large numbers.

Catoctin Students Give To Bussard

A check for $436.97 was recently presented to Mrs. Helen Nussear, director of the Jeanne Bussard Workshop, by the Student Council of Catoctin High School.

The money was raised in January through the Student Council's efforts to promote School Spirit at Catoctin. All of the money was obtained through the Spirit Week fundraising activities, including an auction of cheerleaders and girls and boys basketball team members, a penny a vote for the most school spirited person and a nickel a link for a spirit chain.

Because of its interest in contributing to a worthy cause and helping out a local organization, the Catoctin Student Council selected the Jeanne Bussard Workshop as the recipient of the donation. Mrs. Nussear, in accepting the check, noted the generous nature of the gift and the "no strings attached" basis for its donation and promised the funds would be put to good use in the workshop's expanding activities.

Urged To Employ Youths For Summer

Rita C. Davidson, State Secretary of Employment and Social Services, announced this week that Governor Mandel has proclaimed June as Summer Youth Employment Month in the State of Maryland. In his proclamation, the Governor called on Federal, State and local government agencies and private employers to cooperate in providing Summer employment opportunities for young Marylanders.

Noting that more than 30,000 young men and women from 16 to 21 years of age are seeking summer jobs this month the Governor said, "I join with the government leaders in the 23 counties and the City of Baltimore in supporting this endeavor. I also encourage all citizens to join with me in developing work and job opportunities this summer for these youth who represent this great State's future."
