

WASHINGTON REPORT
FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

The 92nd Congress: Summing It Up

The 92nd Congress has adjourned, and observers will now begin to sift through its record and try to assign it a place in history.

Much has been done over the past two years, but the initial evaluations could be deceptive because many programs are just being implemented.

Revenue sharing is the most obvious example of a program for which we have high expectations even though its full impact will not be known for some time.

We do know that it will bring $107 million to the state, county and local governments in Maryland this year. But it also brings a new approach to problem solving that will give local government officials more leeway in making decisions, and it makes an important departure from the maze of duplicated programs and red tape procedures that we now encounter all too often.

The Social Security legislation passed this year also contains a feature that, in the long run, will be more important than the 20 per cent increase in benefits. From now on, increases in Social Security benefits will be automatic whenever there is a 3 per cent change in the cost-of-living index.

This means that Social Security, which is the only income for millions of Americans, will no longer be eaten away by inflation or delayed by political bickering. There have been other important changes brought about in the 1972 Older Americans Act, which expands many programs to involve senior citizens in community and volunteer efforts.

Another totally new approach has been taken to help solve one of the major problems faced by younger Americans: the cost of higher education. The Education Amendments of 1972 authorize a financial assistance program of Basic Educational Opportunity Grants in amounts of up to $1,400 per year. The grants will be available to all students, and they will be based solely on the ability of the student and his family to contribute to his education.

There also is a new program of veterans benefits to help servicemen make the transition from military to civilian life, whether it means finding a job or going back to school. And people who have made a career in the armed forces will have an improved lot because of action taken this year to set up a survivor benefits program. This legislation, which I sponsored in the Senate, will make widows and dependents eligible for a portion of a retired serviceman's pension.

The 92nd Congress also affirmed its commitment to the environment by enacting an aggressive plan to clean up America's rivers, lakes and bays in the coming decade.

The Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 sets a strict timetable for requiring pollution control measures, and it also authorizes $18 billion to assist in the construction of sewage treatment plants, which will be 75 per cent federally funded. The legislation also includes authorizations to repay states, such as Maryland, which had previously advanced funds for sewage treatment projects but were not reimbursed.

There are other issues that are still before us, of course, and these will have to be taken up again when the 93rd Congress convenes in January.

Legion Auxiliary Plans For Game Night This Saturday

A 50-50 evening of games to be held on November 4 was the main project discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Francis X. Elder Unit 121, American Legion Auxiliary, held recently with President Carmen Topper presiding. Sixteen ladies were present for the meeting.

Both the minutes and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The Department Bulletin was then read by the president. A district meeting to be held on November 26 was announced with the location to be announced at a later date.

The games chairman agreed to make several posters to be placed at prominent places around town. The president was to contact WTHU radio station to have the games announced.

Membership Chairman Jessie Knipple reported that 65 members have paid their 1973 dues to date. The auxiliary voted to pay the 1973 dues for two members recently hospitalized. A fruit basket was given to another member recently hospitalized.

"JUST ONCE, MR. NIXON SHOULD DO HIS FAMILY SHOPPING. JUST ONCE AND HE WOULD HAVE A TOTALLY NEW VIEW OF WHAT IS HAPPENING IN THIS COUNTRY TODAY."

George McGovern, July 11, 1971

"He should plan a simple meal for four, push his cart through the lanes of any supermarket and he would understand how devastating inflation has become and how his own inaction is crippling every wage earner in the Nation today."

"Now for a man earning, as Mr. Nixon does, $200,000 a year plus expenses, that perhaps does not seem like very much money. But what I am asking Mr. Nixon to do is to put himself in the place of the wage earner who makes, as so many millions do, between $60 and $100 a week."

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
The Singer-Hoover Family
"Let me be quiet now, and kneel,
Who never knelt before;
Here, where the leaves
paint pattern light
On a leaf-strewn forest floor;
For I, who saw no God at all
In sea or earth or sky;
Baptized by Beauty, now
look up
To see God everywhere."
The data pertaining to the John Singer family and a few intermarriages of the same are

The inscriptions from the four marked Singer graves in Elias Churchyard were given in last week's column.
Susan (or Susannah) Singer, daughter of John and Sarah Singer, became the first wife of Samuel G. Ohler. The record of that marriage is included in the records (Book #1)
of Saint James Lutheran church, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. The entry, as copied from the original, follows:
1. Married — October 29,
1840—Samuel G. Ohler to Susan Singer—both of Frederick County, Maryland. (Ceremony performed by the Rev. Benjamin Keller).

Four days before she would have celebrated the first anniversary of her marriage, Susan (Singer) Ohler died in the 24th year of her age and was interred in Elias churchyard.
Some years later Samuel G.
Ohler married for the second time—into the Rowe family.
The first marriage entered into Book #1, of the Elias Lutheran records, by the Rev. Solomon Sentman, reads as follows:
2. January 8, 1851—Samuel G. Ohler to Susan Adaline
Rowe — both of Frederick County, Maryland.
Charlotte Singer, another daughter of John and Sarah Singer, became the second wife of Jesse Hoover. This marriage lasted less than a year for Jesse Hoover died the following October.

The Hoover family is a rather interesting one and is included among the founding members of the original Tom's Creek Lutheran and Reformed congregation. John (1) Hoover was apparently the pioneer ancestor of the clan in Tom's Creek Hundred and he, as well as some of his descendants, are interred in the old burial ground at Tom's Creek. Among the latter is listed the Jesse Hoover family. The inscriptions follow:
5. In memory of Jesse Hoover, died October 26, 1861, aged 56 years, 8 months, and 22 days.
6. In memory of Elizabeth Hoover, wife of Jesse Hoover, died March 7, 1859, aged 51
years and 5 days.
Note: The first wife of Jesse Hoover and the mother of his children. The records give no clue as to her "maiden name."

7. In memory of Sarah Ann Hoover, daughter of Jesse and Elizabeth Hoover, died October 1839, aged 3 years, 5
months, and 8 days.
Note: This inscription speaks for itself.
8. In memory of Mary Elizabeth Hoover, daughter of Jesse and Elizabeth Hoover, died August 30, 1846, aged 8
months and 28 days.
Note: This inscription is also self-explanatory and requires no further comment.
Facts regarding the Singer and Hoover families are found in both the records of the Lutheran and Reformed congregations of Emmitsburg.
From the records of the Church of the Incarnation the following were obtained:
3. Married — January 3, 1861—Jesse Hoover and Charlotte Ann Singer — both of Frederick County, Maryland.
Note: If these dates are correct and it is assumed that they are, Jesse Hoover died some ten months after his second marriage. He was interred by the side of his first wife in the old Tom's Creek churchyard.
4. Sarah Wilhelmina (Ovel-man) Singer was confirmed in the Reformed church at Emmitsburg, on October 22, 1859.
Note: This entry is somewhat of a puzzle. Sarah Wilhelmina (Ovelman) Singer could be the wife of John Singer and the mother of Susan (Singer) Ohler and Charlotte Ann (Singer) Hoover.
The Singer graves in Elias churchyard are near those of the Ovelman family.
However, no definite answer
can be given at this time.
Charlotte (Singer) Hoover survived her husband by some forty-four years. When she died in 1905 she was buried in the family plot of her parents in Elias churchyard.
This concludes—for the present—the historical and genealogical material pertaining to the Singer family.
Another interesting grave in the old section of Elias churchyard is that of Peter Grabill.

The marker here is a marble
"table tomb" of fine quality and design. The inscription follows:
1. Sacred to the memory of Peter Brabil, departed
this life October 25th, 1807, aged 72 years.
Note: According to a fairly reliable tradition this Peter Grabill was a soldier in the War of the American Revolution.
These notes will be continued next week.

Changing U. S. — Japanese Relations

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., November 2, 1972—Japan is on the threshold of a new era that promises to bring many changes in her relations with her Asian neighbors and with the United States. She is rapidly emerging from American protection and domination to assert herself more positively in the fields of foreign affairs and foreign trade. The U. S. rapprochement with Mao's China has presented Japan with the chance to make new choices—many of them undreamed of even as recently as a year ago.

Trade With U. S.

Japan's trade with the U. S. is in serious imbalance and thus far we are low man on the totem pole. Actually, the imbalance threatens to get worse before it gets better, for recession in Japan (i.e., a measurable downturn from the long-term economic upturn she has been enjoying) has dried up domestic demand, making it necessary for Tokyo to beef up her exports in order to avoid more serious weakness in business at home.

As a consequence, Japanese foreign exchange reserves have been increasing, to the alarm of the U. S. and some of the other Western countries.

The U. S. wants Japan to import more U. S. goods, and give greater aid to the developing nations of Asia. So far, Japan has made no concrete move to do this on any continuing scale. However, she has agreed to buy $1.1 billion worth of U. S. farm, fishery, and aircraft products and has hinted that she might decide to cut tariffs unilaterally sometime before fiscal 1974 which begins April 1, 1973. The Ministry of International Trade and Industry is reported to be studying a plan by which Japanese tariffs would be reduced uniformly. Washington thinks Tokyo means business and looks for relief via tariff cuts.

Nuclear Armament, General Rearmament?

It is widely speculated that Japan is on the verge of undertaking nuclear armament. While Japanese advocates of such a course are not lacking, the Research Department of Babson's Reports does not feel that such a move is imminent. The issue will be hotly debated over the next two or three years, but unless Japan turns radically leftward or is made to feel isolated, there is a good chance she will eschew nuclear armament. Her 100 million people crammed into an area smaller than California, Japan is uniquely vulnerable to nuclear attack. Hence, she would require a huge nuclear potential for an adequate deterrent. This she cannot mount without inviting economic disaster.

More likely, instead, she will decide to rearm along traditional lines, placing emphasis on naval strength which many Japanese politicians and businessmen contend is already badly need to protect Nippon's far-flung commerce. A naval building program may also be spurred by the end of the Vietnam war, withdrawal of the U. S. fleet from South Asian waters and eventually from the Taiwan Straits. Mutual Security Treaty

However, a U. S. naval withdrawal from the Straits of Taiwan will not happen soon, and may not occur for two or three years or more. Thinking in Washington and in some circles in Tokyo is that Chairman Mao and Premier Chou will not insist on this or on reabsorption of Taiwan until they have neutralized the Russian threat in this offshore area and to China generally. The U. S. will not be pressured to sever diplomatic relations with Nationalist China or to abrogate its treaty with Chang's government. That would create a vacuum that might beckon Russian naval intervention.

Japanese rearmament may also be hastened by growing dissatisfaction on both sides with the present Japanese-American Security Treaty which will likely force big changes within the next couple of years. The days of U. S. bases in Japan are clearly numbered. Scrapping of the whole treaty would not be surprising. The big question: Can it be done intelligently, imaginatively—without a nasty confrontation?

burg community who contributed to the 1972 "Trick or Treat for UNICEF."

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

As a mother of three children I am very concerned about the high cost of food. Has any survey been done to figure out how much food prices have gone up during the past year?

According to the Office of Consumer Affairs meat prices rose 11.6 per cent; dairy products—1 per cent; and fruits and vegetables—2 per cent.

Where can I get a list of toys the government has banned?

A monthly bulletin, "Banned Toys," may be obtained by writing the Bureau of Product Safety, Food & Drug Administration, 5401 Westbard Avenue, Bethesda, Maryland 20816.

My husband was receiving black lung benefits until his death five months ago. I was told the payments would continue but they haven't. Can you look into the matter?

Upon receipt of your letter, my office contacted the Social Security Administration and, as you are now aware, your black lung widow benefits have been approved. You will be receiving a five-month retroactive check and a regular monthly benefits check thereafter. Citizens experiencing similar difficulties receiving government benefits justly due them should feel free to contact my office for assistance.

Teen Challenge To Present Drug Abuse Program Here Saturday Night

A program concerning the dangers of drug abuse will be presented at St. Joseph's High School in Emmitsburg, on Saturday, November 4, at 7 p.m. Featured will be a team from the Teen Challenge Training Center in Rohrsburg, Pa.

The enlightening film, "Our High Society", which shows the drug scene, the search of the youth for something to fill the void of their life, will be part of the program.

It is a shocking, challenging, documentary presentation that shows it like it is. The scenes are real, for it was filmed on the streets of New York City and San Francisco. Some of those appearing in the film are already dead from an overdose. The desire is to show the reality of the drug scene in its habitants in the inner city, that has been made too glamorous for too long. Teen Challenge tries to awaken parents and young adults alike to the problems and the solutions. We cannot ignore the facts that are around us, even if they are not pleasant. The narration is written by the Rev. Don Wilkerson of Teen Challenge of Brooklyn, New York. The purpose is to be honest, straight-forward and frank to see the dangers of the drug scene.

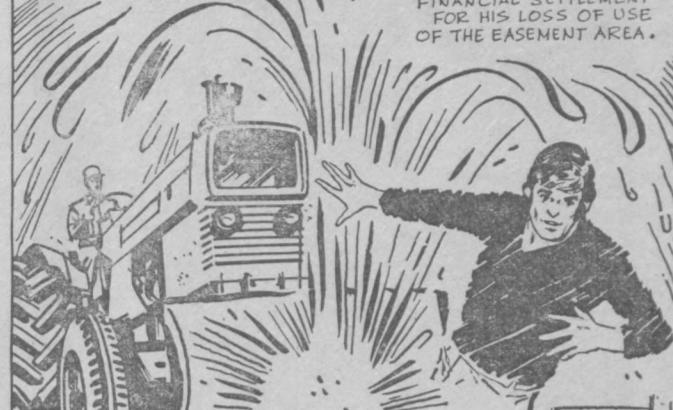

This film has been shown to many high schools to inform them of the drug scene. Teen Challenge feels the best defense is an honest appraisal of what is happening. This is shown very convincingly in "Our High Society."

Teen Challenge is a non-profit Christian oriented program dealing with the basic problems that turn young men and women to drugs and delinquency. Founded by the Rev. David Wilkerson in 1958, Teen Challenge has now become one of the largest drug rehabilitation programs in the world with fifty centers established throughout the United States and abroad.

For many years the best professionals claimed that there was no hope for a drug addict. At Teen Challenge this has become a great fallacy. Their belief is that thru a personal and total commitment to God an individual can be relieved of the problems that first led him to become involved with drugs. Approximately 65 to 70% of those completing the program, men, women, boys and girls, do not return to the bondage of drug addiction.

This program is being sponsored by the "House of Shalom," a coffee house, located in Emmitsburg, every first and third Saturday of each month.

Title Topics WESTERN REAL ESTATE OWNER DISCOVERED A WATER LINE EASEMENT ON HIS PROPERTY WHEN IT WAS DAMAGED DURING CONSTRUCTION AND HE SUBSEQUENTLY WAS PRESENTED WITH THE BILL FOR REPAIRS. FORTUNATELY HIS OWNER'S TITLE INSURANCE PAID THE BILL, AND PROVIDED A FINANCIAL SETTLEMENT FOR HIS LOSS OF USE OF THE EASEMENT AREA.

CHALLENGES AGAINST YOUR REAL ESTATE OWNERSHIP CAN EMERGE FROM A VARIETY OF PROBLEMS. POSSIBILITIES RANGE FROM UNPAID TAXES TO FORGED DEEDS AND MISTAKES IN THE RECORDS. SAFEGUARDS ARE AVAILABLE THROUGH A TITLE SEARCH AND OWNER'S TITLE INSURANCE.

Couple Celebrates 46th Anniversary

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell, Route 2, who recently celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary. The couple was surprised with a delicious turkey dinner given by their children at the Shamrock Restaurant, at Thurmont. Their daughter, Margaret, flew in from El Paso, Texas, for the occasion. After the dinner, an enjoyable evening was spent by all at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Topper, Federal Avenue. The couple has 19 living children and 82 grandchildren.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias
U.S. Senator

The Item Veto

In the closing days of the 92nd Congress, the Senate refused to allow the Executive to reduce expenditures to an aggregate amount of $250 billion by cutting individual appropriations at his discretion. That judgment was, in short, that the Senate must bear its share of the blame for the fix we are in, and that it must shoulder its responsibilities in finding a remedy.

The crisis is real. A $23 billion deficit in a recession was concerning, but a prospective $35 billion deficit in a rising economy is alarming. The decision of the Senate was not, therefore, predicated on the proposition that there was no cause of alarm, but rather that the remedy prescribed was even worse than the malady.

The question was not whether we should be fiscally responsible, for no one in the Senate advocates fiscal irresponsibility. Nor was the question whether there should be a limit to federal spending, for all of us recognize the need for tighter controls on the federal budget. The question was not even whether $7 or $10 or even $20 billion can be safely cut from the programs we have appropriated, for each congressman believes that he or she could make those cuts and improve our way of life in the process.

The question was who should have the power to decide what programs should be cut and by what amount. The bill sent to the Senate by the House provided that the President, acting alone, could cut any programs by any amount necessary to reduce federal expenditures to $250 billion. This would have been an unprecedented and unlimited delegation of federal power. The President could have deleted all funds for the administration of the U.S. Supreme Court and the other Federal courts. He could have deleted all funds for the operation of the so-called independent regulatory agencies — the FTC, FCC, ICC, CAB, and SEC. The President could have closed the independent Federal Reserve Board and its supporting boards around the country which guide our entire banking system. The President could have held back funds for development of missiles, bombers, and submarines so vital to our national defense. He could have closed diplomatic missions around the world. He could have eliminated programs to provide funds for school children, provide health care for the elderly, clean our air and waters, and aid the FBI and police forces throughout our land. He could have taken any number of other unwise actions.

I have the highest confidence in the wisdom and capabilities of President Nixon, but each of us must realize that most of the spending decisions would be made — not by the President — but by some unknown bureaucrat not answerable to the people of America. The Senate would have set a very dangerous precedent for the future.

Our duty to the people and the Constitution demanded that we make these fundamental decisions ourselves. The Constitution gives Congress the power of the purse, the power to raise revenues and to direct how those revenues are to be spent. Our Founding Fathers considered this power so vital that they spelled out in the Constitution that only the House of Representatives could initiate revenue and spending legislation. The purpose of that provision was made clear by Hamilton and Madison — the Representatives are more responsible to and more accessible to the people of the United States — and the power to make these critical decisions should be shared by a large number of elected officials close to the general populace.

To have accepted the House provisions would have been to have treated too lightly the lessons of years of experience of people trying to govern themselves. We could not, in the name of fiscal responsibility, surrender all power over vital public programs. To do so would have been to pass fundamental decisions to persons unanswerable to the people.

Book Suggestions

With school back in full swing, the students are bemoaning the fact that Mrs. English Teacher is requiring one book report a month. For the besieged student, here are some books they might find readable:

"Lord of the Flies," by William Golding, is an interesting analysis of human behavior. Is man really civilized or is civilization a thin veneer of habit?

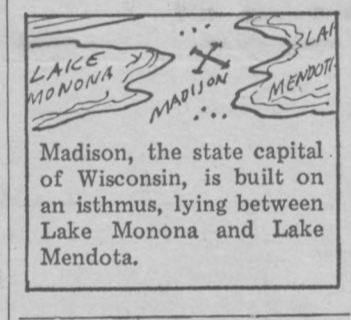

"Brave New World," by Aldous Huxley, is one of those "required" books that is quite fascinating, particularly to the reader who has any interest in science fiction. The story deals with the future, a Utopia, where the gods are the geniuses of mechanization and pleasure is the chief occupation.

Leaving "serious" fiction behind, the student might like to pick up "Vanished," by Fletcher Knebel. What happened to the President's friend, Steven Greer? The story provides some interesting looks into secret negotiations and into the rivalry between governmental agencies. The book is especially relevant in view of the Kissinger peace efforts.

A purely fun novel is P. G. Wodehouse's "Do Butlers Bur-Englishman, and "improper" ish thief, a bankrupt young American robber, come to the historic romantic reader. result in total and hilarious chaos.

"Sword at Sunset," by Rosemary Sutcliff, is a book for the historic romantic reader. Dealing with the "Camelot" triangle, the old story of Arthur, Guenever and Lancelot is transferred into a more plausible era. The book vividly portrays the life in the transition period from Roman civilization to the Dark Ages from whence the English culture arose. It also has a lot to say to the romantic, who doesn't mind his tales of valor interspersed with a touch of history.

I hope that I've managed to find a book for you. If not, stop in your local library and ask the librarian for a suggestion. Or else pick a book out yourself.

Home Dry Cleaning Tips Presented To Homemakers Club

Homemakers intent on cutting down on dry cleaning bills were interested to learn of the simple methods for removing stains at home at the demonstration given at the recent meeting of the Emmitsburg Homemaker's Club which was held at the Senior Citizens Center.

Mrs. Harry Hahn, as lesson leader, showed the members how to make up a handy kit to keep on hand to remove stains from fabrics, carpeting and upholstery. Many of the items she used in the kit were simple household items such as Vinegar, ammonia, detergents, corn starch, bleaches, etc. Many stains can be removed easily when they are fresh, especially if they can be identified as to whether they are greasy or non-greasy, or a combination of both. Mrs. Hahn said to be prepared to remove all different kinds of stains, one will need to keep on hand four types of removers — absorbent materials, detergents, solvents and chemical stain removers, such as bleaches. A stain removal kit should be kept in a convenient place, out of reach of children and each item labeled carefully if poisonous or flammable.

President, Mrs. Luther Cregger, opened the meeting with devotions from Psalm 91, followed by prayer. Mrs. Arvin Jones read an article from a current newspaper entitled: "The Jesus People: A Plan for Action," by Rev. David Poling. Mrs. Cregger said that as we as homemakers strive to improve the quality of our homes, responsible young people are improving the quality of our nation.

A letter was read from the Emmitsburg Community Fund requesting support toward their work and the club voted to contribute toward their organization.

After an announcement from Mrs. Jones about the "Walk for the World's Hungry," the club members donated money to sponsor a child in the walk from the Emmitsburg area.

After the meeting was adjourned a social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. James Nester serving refreshments, assisted by co-hostesses Vera M. Dorn and Nellie Mackall.

The next meeting will be held on November 9 at the home of Mrs. Verne Ray, when Mrs. James Harris will demonstrate on Making Dried Flower Gifts.

This is the space where the ad for MOUNTAIN LIQUORS should appear. Telling you about the 21 different kinds of cheese, the cold cuts, beerwurst, pepperoni, hot dogs, and all the other goodies they carry to make your entertainment as fun and simple as possible. And it would tell you about the almost most unlimited varieties of beer, wine and liquors available.

HOWEVER

We're not going to run that ad this week; cause Pat didn't put one in.

SO

When you folks drop in to see Pat at MOUNTAIN LIQUORS and pick up all those goodies for your party — ask him why he didn't put his ad in? OK?
