Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

Was that snow I saw on the ground for a while this week? It's been so long since I've seen any, I wasn't quite sure. It came as quite a shock after the groundhog predicted an early spring. That was only last Friday, in case any of you have forgotten, that cloudy, gloomy day when no one in this area could have seen a shadow of any kind. Just trust to show you can't even guess groundhogs anymore, and we thought the weather forecasters were bad.

There was a news item last month that I think slipped right by a lot of folks. It seems that a burning dump had been covered over with dirt but had continued to smolder underground. The fumes (carbon monoxide gas) were invisible, odorless and deadly. The fumes apparently seeped through the ground into a home, caused the death of a 10-month-old child and left his 2-year-old brother and his parents in comas. The neighborhood was evacuated while authorities put out the fire before any more damage was done. This is one of the many hazards of burning dumps. Let us hope that there are not many more of these situations, not any more lives lost, before a way is found to safely take care of this nation's trash.

Which makes me wonder, what if anything is being done in the country now that the Cunningham Landfill project was disapproved. This county, this area, cannot afford to just sit back and ignore the problem until we, too, suffer a catastrophe.

I wonder, what, if any, effect the collapse of a Catoctin Furnace wall will have on the Rt. 15 project. The dualization has been held up partly because of concern for the Furnace and now it is falling down all by itself. I suppose each side will take the occurrence and use it to illustrate their particular point of view, either that dualization will harm the structure or that it won't. Funny how different a situation can look, it all depends on your viewpoint.

I understand that the Scouting organizations here in town are having trouble finding housing for their groups. I don't have any idea how many of our children are active in this organization, but it would seem that the number is fairly large for a town this size. Hopefully, resources will be found in the area to take care of this problem before it gets to be a more serious problem.

I heard there was a great many people in the town office Monday night. I wonder what our burgess and commissioners thought when they saw the folks coming in, probably that they were in the wrong place. Seems the last time that many folks showed up for a meeting was when part of the town was flooded and the residents all turned out to complain.

Under the terms of the peace agreement all troops must be out of Viet Nam by March 28 and all prisoners returned. Let us hope that it happens.

Other provisions of the agreement have been raising a great deal of disagreement all over this country. Most of the disagreement is over the idea of giving money to North Viet Nam to help them rebuild. I wish some historian out there would tell me if such a thing has happened before, we bomb the country, lose our own young men, kill their civilians, and then turn right around and give them money with which to rebuild. And we didn't even win the war!

FIREMEN TO MEET
The regular meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. will be held in the Firehall on Tuesday, February 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

This is the time of year when most families have a deficiency bill to deal with.

Scoutmaster Honored

Robert A. Rosensteel, Emmitsburg Scoutmaster, was honored last Sunday afternoon when he received the St. George Medal during ceremonies at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen, Baltimore.

The medal is a top Catholic scouting award given in recognition of leadership in advancing the spiritual as well as the physical development of young men. Rosensteel has been active in scouting in the Emmitsburg area for over 12 years and has served as Scoutmaster for the past four years.

Last fall, Rosensteel organized the first Catholic camping retreat in the Francis Scott Key District, an event which was attended by scouts from Western and Central Maryland. It took place on the campus of Mount Saint Mary's College and at the Grotto of Lourdes in the mountains back of the college. Mount seminarians helped in planning and carrying out the two-day program.

As a result of the retreat, Rosensteel has been asked to chair a 1973 workshop to train other area scout leaders who wish to encourage their troops in spiritual growth and in striving for the Ad Altare Dei emblem which recognizes such growth.

The award at Sunday's ceremony was bestowed by Rev. Joseph A. Davies, Archdiocesan Committee Chaplain of the Mason Dixon Council. Seven St. George Medalists were honored and the Pope Pius XII Awards, the Al Altare Dei Awards and the Cardinal's Unit Award were also given.

Among his scouting credits, Rosensteel lists: Co-chairman for the Francis Scott Key District Training Committee, member of the Order of the Arrow, Guidance Counselor for an Cub and Boy Scouts in Emmitsburg area and completion of all requirements for Scoutmaster's Key and for Wood Badge The International Wood Badge is a recognition given for scouting's highest and most rigorous leadership training experience.

Rosensteel is a lifelong member of St. Joseph's Church, a member of the board of directors of Mother Seton School, and a member of the Vigilant Hose Co. He is an active Third Degree Knight of Columbus and was sponsored for the St. George Medal by Brute Council 1860 of Emmitsburg. He is married to the former Patricia Jean Andrew and is the father of two children, Bob, Jr., and Laura Ann.

Set School Registration Day

Registration for children entering Kindergarten or Grade One at Emmitsburg School next September will be held February 21, 1973, at 2 p.m. at the school. It will not be necessary for parents to register a child for Grade One if he is currently attending Kindergarten at Emmitsburg School. However, children not enrolled in public school kindergarten who will be enrolling in Grade One should be registered at the time listed.

A child may enter first grade in September if his sixth birthday is on or before January 1, 1974. A child may enter Kindergarten in September if his fifth birthday is on or before January 1, 1974.

It is requested that the child's birth certificate be brought to school at the time of registration to verify the birthdate.

There's an art in saying no, that makes all the difference to the person hearing it.

Pictures To Be Taken Of Area Children Monday

For many years the Emmitsburg Chronicle has been running a pictorial feature of the youngsters in this area as "Citizens of Tomorrow". In the near future we will again be publishing free a picture of all the children who are brought by their parents or other guardian to the VFW Hall between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Monday, February 12.

An expert children's photographer will take the pictures to assure uniform quality and size for best reproduction . . . and this year will be taken in natural living color. Please dress your children colorfully to take full advantage of the beauty of color photography. The pictures will run in black and white in the newspaper.

There are absolutely no strings to this invitation nor are there any charges to the parents . . . they do not have to be subscribers or even readers of this newspaper to participate. Neither are the parents obligated to purchase any of the color pictures taken.

Those who might desire color photographs may obtain them by making arrangements with the Studio Representative when they select the pose they wish to see printed in the Chronicle.

Appointments may be made by calling Karen Adelsberger at 447-2560. While appointments are not necessary to have your children photographed it could avoid your having to wait. Check this date on your calendar now—Monday, February 12, and help us make this a memorable community feature.

Present Art Show At College

Irene Gayas-Jungwirth, an artist of international repute, will hold a one-man show featuring 35 of her paintings at St. Joseph College from Monday, February 12, through Sunday, February 25.

On exhibition in the Fine Arts Gallery in Brute Hall on campus, the show is open to the general public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Saturday and Sunday, and from 7 to 10 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings. An appointment to view the exhibit at other hours may be arranged by contacting Sister Anna Mae Schaben, director of the art department at the college.

An invitation is also extended to the public to meet the artist at a reception, Tuesday, February 13, 7 p.m. in the Fine Arts Gallery.

Mrs. Jungwirth, who moved her studio-residence from East Lansing, Michigan, to Emmitsburg last year, has exhibited widely in regional, national and international ecclesiastical shows. The recipient of many prizes, she is represented by the Purchase-Prize in the permanent collection of the Detroit Institute of Art and in private collections in the United States and abroad.

To achieve the fine detail and glaze technique in her work, Mrs. Jungwirth has developed a unique painting medium in which her colors are hand-ground in egg emulsion. Her creative talents extend to other media to include many commissions in gold and precious stones, stained-glass windows, stage sets and costumes.

Collaborating with her artist husband, the late Leonard D. Jungwirth, she worked on many civic, ecclesiastical and private commissions. A sculptor, architectural engineer and professor of art at Michigan State University at the time of his death, Mr. Jungwirth's works have also received international recognition. Together they often exhibited in museum and art galleries.

Trained in commercial art and fine art in Detroit, Mrs. Jungwirth did post-graduate work at Wayne State University and Michigan State University, and has studied abroad.

She is listed in Who's Who in American Art, Who's Who in American Women, and Who's Who in Michigan. Mrs. Jungwirth maintains a studio at her home, West Winds II, in Emmitsburg.

Warthens Return From Safari Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warthen At Acropolis in Athens, Greece.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Warthen, 82, Emmitsburg, were among a group of 168 persons enjoying a 10 day Midl Safari through Africa, Asia and Europe in late January.

The Warthens flew from New York to Casablanca, Morocco. In Morocco they enjoyed excursions to Rabat and Fez and as part of the festivities participated in a Moroccan Night.

Nairobi, Kenya, was their next stop. There they were guided through a game reserve and were amazed at the great number of wild animals able to be seen at close range. While there they enjoyed a Casino Night.

They next arrived in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, where they explored the country and shopped. One evening's entertainment consisted of a usual Ethiopian meal served to the group in huts typical of the native dwellings. During the meal the guests were entertained by native dancers.

A highlight of their journey was to Athens, Greece. There the Warthens saw the Ancient Corinth and museums along with the many ruins in Athens. They walked up hills to the Acropolis and were impressed with the detailed architecture of so many years ago. The Grecian Night was another spectacular event. All of the guests were attired in robes typical of early Grecians. For each evening's celebration, members of the entourage were attired in dress native to that land, which made each evening more enjoyable.

Enroute home the party had a short stop-over in Paris before returning to New York, and finally Emmitsburg.

Store Owners Aid Police

It was a very interesting and confusing afternoon around Emmitsburg Wednesday.

At one time six local and state police cars were lined up along Main Street causing residents to peer and wonder what was going on. It was still not clear Wednesday afternoon after the local excitement was over exactly what had been happening; hopefully law enforcement officials will be able to make some sense out of it.

Police converged on Myers' TV Shop about 3:30 p.m. and detained a man who gave the name of Eddie Williams. Mr. Williams had entered the store and attempted to purchase a radio using a Social Security check for $187.30 which was made out to another person. Less than a half hour before this, someone had tried to use apparently the same check to purchase a $30 electric watch from the store of Mr. Walter Crouse. Mr. Crouse was suspicious and refused to cash the check and then notified the State Police. Police were already in the area when Mr. Williams appeared at Mr. Myers' store. Mr. Myers stalled while Tommy White left by a rear door to notify the police. A man identified by Williams as Bob Miller had left the scene in his truck before the arrival of the police.

Police officers did not publicly state whether Williams was under arrest at that time or if he was, what the charges were. About 4 p.m., State Troopers, Mr. Williams, and the check left town to continue the investigation elsewhere. And that is what all the excitement was about.

A great many people have more faith in a good luck charm than in their own ability.

General speaking, one cannot psychoanalyze himself.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:
This is a copy of a letter I sent to Congressman Goodloe Byron. It expresses my feelings on several subjects.

Dear Mr. Byron:
I would like to express my views on a few items. First, the talk about giving North Viet Nam money to rebuild their country. I don't think we should give them anything. Russia supplied money for war material, so let Russia supply money to rebuild the country. As far as the peace agreement goes, I've never seen a Communist honor anything yet. The only language they understand is force. I feel the people of the United States should vote and decide whether or not money should be given to North Viet Nam.

Second, amnesty for deserters and draft dodgers. If this country was not good enough to serve for, then it certainly isn't good enough to come back and live in now. I served my time in the Army during the Korean War. It would not be fair to the thousands of boys killed in the line of duty for their country to let those deserters and draft dodgers come back.

One other thing amongst the many I could write about, our government seems too stupid to realize that the seven men on the Supreme Court are dominating this country against the wishes of the people. One example stands out—bussing. They know the people do not want it, but throw it at us anyway. It is not fair for a white or black child to travel 10 or 15 miles to school when there is a school right around the corner. I think our government, whom the people put in, should take more pains and efforts to find out what the people really want. It takes our money for taxes that could be doing it people here good and give it countries that hate our guts.

In closing I would like to say, wake up, stop trying to look good to other countries, and look out for our own people for a change.

Thanking you,
E. Eugene Myers

Editor's Note: Whether your opinions match those of Mr. Myers or not, you are urged to write your representative in Washington and inform him of your position on important issues of this type. Our representatives only know what we want if we take the time and trouble to inform them. You may write Congressman Byron, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Schedule Softball League Meeting

A meeting has been scheduled for 1:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 11 in the Emmitsburg Firehall for the purpose of forming a new fastpitch softball league in the Emmitsburg area.

Any team in the area interested in forming such a league is urged to attend this meeting.

Find Lost

Boy In Barn

Andrew Joseph Kuarta, 6 years old, was found Wednesday afternoon, apparently safe and unharmed. Young Andrew had gone outside with his first grade class at the Emmitsburg School at 1:45 p.m. for a play period. The boy was not with his classmates when they returned to the building. A search by school authorities and police found Andrew in Mrs. Trembley's barn, about 4 p.m. The young man resides with Joe Cool.

To Solicit For Heart Fund Here

The Ladies of Brute, under the general chairmanship of Loretta Sprankle, will again conduct the annual Heart Fund Campaign in Emmitsburg and its surrounding area. As heart and blood vessel disease, including heart attacks, cause more deaths than any other cause combined, this is an important drive for the Heart Association.

The month of February has been designated as Heart Month and therefore will see many willing volunteers out soliciting to make the drive more successful than in previous years. Collecting from the residents in and around (Continued On Page Eight)

TOWN DROPS PROPERTY OWNERSHIP REQUIREMENT

According to the resolution unanimously passed by the Burgess and Commissioners Monday night, persons wishing to run for election as town officials will no longer be required to own property in the town. (The full text of the resolution appears elsewhere in this paper). According to the Town Attorney, Frederick J. Bower, the new regulation brings the town into line with recent court decisions prohibiting such requirements. Those wishing to be elected to town offices must have been a resident for one year prior to their election and must continue to reside inside town boundaries during their terms of office.

Fifteen people appeared at the Commissioners' meeting, including a sizable delegation from the local Scouting programs.

George Danner, representative of the Knights of Columbus, proposed the start of a "Know Your Community" program as a part of the Knights Community Involvement Program. He proposed that a meeting be held Tuesday, Feb. 27, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at St. Joseph's High School, with town officials and police present to discuss with the community our local government and how it works. He emphasized that the meeting was not intended to be a complaint session, but rather an opportunity for citizens to become better informed about community affairs.

Mike Fitzgerald and George Gernard appeared on behalf of the Catoctin Mountain Tourist Council. They asked that the town contact the State Roads Administration about the Information Building and rest area which are to be built on the west side of Route 15, north of the new overpass, with regard to water and sewage lines. According to Mr. Fitzgerald, the highway department is to start the widening of U. S. 15 from the Pa. line south sometime this summer.

The Tourist Council expressed their desire for closer cooperation with the town during Colorfest and Spring Weekends. It was suggested the Official Vendors Participation passes be issued in an effort to better control and organize these events. They asked that a member of the town commissioners be appointed to the Tourist Council committee in charge of planning these events.

Trojans 52-39 Over St. Mary's

Roy Adelsberger and Richie Williams combined their efforts to score 43 points as St. Joseph's defeated visiting St. Mary's of Annapolis, 52-39 last Sunday here. The win was the tenth of the year for the Trojans as they continued their fine play.

The victors broke on top by outscoring St. Mary's 33-19 in the first half and literally blowing them out of the gym. Roy and Richie were warm and tallied twelve field goals between them in the first half. Skip Flessner started in place of injured George Hemler, and played his best game so far. Hemler came in later and also played his usual fine game. Neighbors ran the offense and contributed five assists. Mike Myers scored six points and pulled down eight rebounds.

Sunday will see the swan song of Seniors Adelsberger, Hobbs, Flessner, Hemler and M. Myers. Emmitsburg will say goodbye to five young men as they play arch rival Maria Goretti of Hagerstown at Mt. St. Mary's gym. A victory in their farewell game would clinch second place in the Blue Ridge Conference for St. Joe's.

The JV game will begin at 2 p.m., followed by the Varsity game at 3:15 p.m.

Plan Events

For Scout Week

Troop 284 of Emmitsburg will participate in the observance of the 63rd anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America in the United States, by attending the services at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, February 11 at 11:00 a.m.

Members of the Emmitsburg Troop who are altar boys at St. Joseph's Church, will wear their official Scout uniforms for serving Masses on Saturday evening and Sunday morning, February 10 and 11.

The Troop is presently engaged in preparing a window display for one of the area businesses on Center Square in conjunction with National Scout Week. They are also taking a First Aid Course and will attend the First Aid Meet to be sponsored by the Francis Scott Key District in Frederick.

The Troop Committee recently agreed to purchase new tents for Troop 284 and has appointed Scoutmaster Robert Rosensteel as a leader of a delegation to attend the town meeting to look into the possibility of new housing for all scout troops in Emmitsburg.

Bad Week Here For Speeders

Four men were charged by Officer Fuss for exceeding the posted speed limit during the past week. Receiving summons were John A. Hudak, Pleasant Beach, N. J., Barry A. Rhinehart, Gettysburg, Pa., William F. Moran, Silver Spring, Md., and Frank M. Rock, Jr., Waynesboro, Pa. Possible fines range from $15 to $35.

Paul H. Sick, Fairfield, Pa., was charged with making an improper U-turn on the square, Paul B. Dern of Emmitsburg, was charged with parking on traveled portion of roadway in Emmitt Gardens, and Albert E. Springer of RI, Emmitsburg, was charged with having no registration card and no plate displayed on his vehicle.

It's trouble that's dumped on people, not the trouble they expected that is troubling.

Richard Fisher of Emmitsburg, asked for information on the availability of utilities for a house he intends to build on St. Joseph's Lane.

Burgess Sprankle announced the resignation of Mrs. Sheila Chatlos from the Planning and Zoning Commission for reasons of health. Rev. W. Ronald Fearer has been appointed as her replacement.

Town police reported that the dumping of trash around Rainbow Lake was a problem. One package of trash was found over a bank on the Hampton Valley Rd. at the west end of the reservoir contained mail addressed to Jimmie and Sharon Anderson, R2, Gettysburg. Police noted the dumping must have taken place sometime during the weekend and that a gas bill found in the trash was dated January 29.

The Council voted $20 to the Lifelong Learning Council and discussed improvements needed for the town-owned apartment.

Motorists are cautioned to wise up, check up, and fix up before they smash up.

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
John And Jane Gilliland
"The tumult and the shouting dies—
The Captains and the Kings depart—
Still stands Thy ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!"

"If, drunk with sight of power we lose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe—
Such boastings as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds within the law—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!"

—Rudyard Kipling

The historical and genealogical data pertaining to the Gilliland (Gilliland) family of Pennsylvania and Frederick County, Maryland, is continued at this time.

John (1) Gilliland, the pioneer ancestor of the family in America, came to William Penn's Province from the North of Ireland. This is not to say that he was of Irish descent by any manner of means. Many Scots fled to Ireland during the seventeenth century to escape religious and political persecution in their own land. King James I of England and Scotland, made lands available to them in the North of Ireland. However, they were not content in their new homes — the far horizon beckoned—and the New World appeared to be the answer to their particular prayer. By the thousands they came to America — in such numbers that the Quaker authorities became alarmed. As later events were to prove the good founding fathers had abundant cause for some disquiet. In the beginning, however, the Scotch settlers were too busy setting up homes, churches, and schools on the frontier of Pennsylvania to take a hand in political affairs—but all they needed was a little time before assuming the leadership. It is reasonable to assume that John (1) Gilliland—after his arrival in America—first settled on Sir John Keith's Tract, located in the Forks of the Delaware. Shortly thereafter he began, with his family, the long trek to the frontier, to settle on lands west of the Susquehanna River. In the vicinity of the present town of Biglerville, in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania, they took up "a plantation" and began to "carve a home from the wilderness."

Undoubtedly John (1) Gilliland was married before emigrating to Pennsylvania but all that is known of his wife is that her given name was "Jane". According to records in the Family Bible, John (1) and Jane Gilliland were the parents of at least four sons — of whom two—James (2) and Samuel (2) Gilliland, were listed in last week's column. 3. William (2) Gilliland was born February 12, 1753. Note: William (2) Gilliland was twice married—first to Catharine Fleming, the daughter of William and Mary (Kerr) Fleming, who was born Apr. 10, 1777 and died August 1, 1793. Catharine (Fleming) Gilliland, first wife of William (2), is buried in Great Conewago Presbyterian churchyard, at Hunterstown, Pennsylvania, and the inscription on the marker at her grave reads as follows: 1. Sacred to the memory of Catharine Gilliland, wife of William Gilliland, who departed this life, August 13th, 1798, aged 45 years. Some nine years after the death of his first wife, William (2) Gilliland was married, for

Perspectives In Learning By H. Brown

A Camera — A Tool For Learning Learning need not be a dull situation and several schools in the San Francisco area discovered this by using photography and cameras as motivational tools for learning. A grant from Eastman-Kodak funded this very interesting program and created the initiative for some very creative uses of the camera. Students from kindergarten through high school were involved in the program which had as its impetus the development of language arts and communication skills. The wide range of student involvement the second time, on June 23, 1807, to Mary Galbraith, Mary (Galbraith) Gilliland died in 1831 and her grave is also in the Gilliland family plot in Great Conewago Presbyterian churchyard. The inscription follows: 2. In memory of Mary Gilliland, wife of William Gilliland, died May 8, 1831, aged 87 years. William (2) Gilliland survived his second wife by less than two months. He is interred by the side of his first wife at Great Conewago. 3. In memory of William Gilliland who departed this life July 7, 1831, aged 78 years, 5 months and 25 days. 4. John (2) Gilliland was born April 13, 1750. Note: The record of John (2) Gilliland, the third son of John (1) and Jane Gilliland, and the namesake of his father, as recorded in the family Bible, is brief and to the point but a tragic note is added by the notation added to his name some years later. It reads as follows: "Went in the army (Revolutionary) and never heard from."

Continuing the records from the Gilliland Family Bible — clan marriages are recorded as follows: 1. John Gilliland and Elizabeth McIlvain were married May 21st, 1807. 2. John Gilliland and Margaret McCurdy were married May the 9th, 1816. 3. Samuel Gilliland and Elizabeth Tate were married January 28th, 1817. 4. James Gilliland and Eleanor McClellan were married the 21st day of December, 1813. 5. William Gilliland and Jane Neely were married on the 23rd day of April, 1807. 6. Fleming Gilliland, son of William and Catharine (Fleming) Gilliland, and Sarah Gilliland, the daughter of Samuel and Eleanor (Vance) Gilliland were married December 31, 1818.

These notes will be continued in this series next week.

indicates the extreme variety of uses which photography can play in motivating learning. All ages found the camera fun. The kindergarten children used Kodak Instamatic cameras to photograph familiar objects, pets, scenes, activities and surroundings. They made charts of the pictures and told stories about them. They learned to arrange the photographs in sequence and interpreted the scenes or activities. What an excellent way to develop language and communication skills! Individuals learn best what is familiar to them and the photographs they had taken, developed and mounted certainly were familiar.

Children in the primary and middle grades used the cameras to help them learn the science of photography and film development. They also studied ecology, social problems, mathematics and science by using the cameras to document situations and observations. The cameras allowed the students to see things that they might otherwise have difficulty describing with only verbal language.

The high school teachers who had been teaching photography as a hobby or as extra-curricular activity began the many motivational uses of the camera and found that students who had little interest in History and English became interested in writing about their photographs. The photographs became the media through which the teachers could reach the students.

This innovative program is just one example of what can happen to a "dull" learning experience when teachers search for new tools to use in improving basic skills. The program was designed to improve the listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills through the means of photography, but it did much more than that. Some tests and evaluations were given to the students involved with results that the teachers called "gratifying". It would be difficult to measure growth in the areas most affected—interest, motivation, and desire to participate. These attitudes can not be adequately measured by a test, but they are the essentials for learning.

Schools can try projects like this one with little concern for excessive expenses. What a project for the PTA to sponsor! Wouldn't parents and volunteer tutors enjoy helping students take pictures? Think of the many interesting activities which could "develop" from such a project.

Bridge over troubled waters.

It's easy to forget that emergencies do happen. And when there is a crisis, you'll need a nest egg to fall back on.

The Payroll Savings Plan is one of the easiest ways to make sure you've something saved for when you need money fast. When you participate in the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside from each paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an effortless way to build up a reserve.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

U.S. ENERGY DEVELOPMENT SEEN BENEFITING NATION

America's potential energy shortages came into focus recently with completion of a two-year study by 200 experts. The report was prepared at the request of the Secretary of the Interior by the National Petroleum Council's Committee on U.S. Energy Outlook. At a conference held in the nation's capital, John G. McLean, chairman of the NPC committee and chairman and chief executive officer of Continental Oil Company, summarized the report's findings as follows:

WASHINGTON—The National Petroleum Council's studies reveal that U.S. requirements for energy will approximately double between now and 1985. During this period, we shall have to rely upon oil, gas, coal and uranium to meet over 95 percent of our requirements. New domestic supplies for these four basic fuels are not being developed fast enough to meet our needs.

The nation has three basic options: First, we could rely on increased imports of oil and gas from overseas to meet our requirements. This would provoke a burdensome deficit in our balance of trade in fuels and impair our national security.

Second, we could reduce the growth in energy demand through imposed restrictions or more efficient use of energy. Imposed restrictions would alter life styles and adversely affect employment, economic growth, and freedom of consumer choice. Such restrictions are not recommended. More efficient use of energy is clearly desirable, and some improvement is likely as energy becomes more costly and as technology advances. There are, however, inherent limitations on the amount of the im-level; development of realistic, graduated approaches to environmental goals; accelerated leasing of federal lands for exploration, particularly the outer continental shelf; continuation of tax incentives to encourage the finding and development of all energy supplies; maintenance of import quotas for oil and uranium; greater use of electricity generated from domestic coal and uranium; relaxation of controls in order that natural gas prices may reach a competitive market level; expanded research in certain carefully selected areas; and primary reliance upon private enterprise to achieve our energy goals.

Among other things, the Council urges coordination of energy policies at the national

U.S. Senator

Assault On A Senator

The nation was shocked to read in its newspapers, hear on radio and see on television that a member of the United States Senate had been accosted, robbed and shot in front of his home in the nation's capital. The attack on Senator John Stennis of Mississippi is a tragic example of our failure to make the nation's streets safe. Despite the millions of tax dollars invested in public safety, a distinguished public servant—one of the nation's finest legislators—is assaulted and robbed on his doorstep.

If Senator Stennis could be the victim of such an attack, similar assaults can—and too often do—happen to anyone. The Congress needs to move swiftly to adopt a comprehensive plan to deal with crime in our nation's cities, counties, and rural communities.

Last April, I, with a number of other senators, sponsored a massive bill that would reform our criminal justice system. Briefly, the bill would have:

—authorized special Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grants to encourage state and local governments to undertake programs to upgrade their police, court, jail and prison systems.

—authorized additional LEAA grants for high-crime areas to combat street crime.

—increased the role of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in the area of juvenile delinquency and required that a fixed percentage of LEAA funds be used to combat juvenile delinquency and youth crime.

—established a system of compensation to victims of violent crime who cannot recover from the offender.

—provided federal death benefits to the families of law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty.

—created a 75-cent-an-hour minimum wage and social security benefits for working prisoners.

As you can see, this legislation, which I intend to introduce in the 93rd Congress, attempts to encompass the full range of our criminal justice system. It deals with prisons, juvenile correctional systems, the courts, urban crime, prison systems and law enforcement. The bill seeks to deal with the nation's crime problems, not piecemeal.

If we are to tackle the criminal justice problem in the United States, we cannot do it in an isolated way. It is not enough to hire police and then not adequately train them. It is not enough to provide new court facilities and then not staff them adequately. It is not enough to build new jails if there are no rehabilitation programs.

The criminal justice system is a chain of people and institutions. The chain starts when a person is arrested and ends when he returns to the community. What happens during the time of detention, arraignment, trial, incarceration and release is important to both the individual and the community. To make our criminal justice system effective, we must make sure that each institution is working properly. If our prisons are workshops of crime, it makes the job of the police that much harder when the man they arrested a few years ago returns to the community from a crime apprenticeship in prison.

Crime cannot be solved by laws alone. Erasing crime means tackling the social conditions—from unemployment to mental disorder—that contribute to its cause. Until government and community join together to see that the institutions created to deal with these problems are doing their jobs, our troubles will increase. My legislation seeks to accomplish this goal. I hope Congress will consider such a measure rather than a collection of stop gap remedies that will be forgotten with yesterday's headlines.

The "Mini-Course"

About a year ago our National Education Program joined with the American Citizenship Center at Oklahoma Christian College in a project utilizing the "brains" of OCC's faculty to develop a pilot-plant "Mini-course" on the Declaration of Independence for use in junior and senior high schools throughout the country. Our thinking was that if a practical short course could be developed by professional educators which could be integrated into various classes without disruption it could become a "prototype" for short "Mini-courses" on all elements in the American system. In the opinion of a swiftly growing number of citizens and school authorities such "citizenship" education is America's greatest need today.

This week we have studied the resultant "Mini-course" on the Declaration of Independence. The kit was produced by nationally recognized pioneers in audio-visual education techniques, under the personal direction of Dr. Stafford North, Dean of OCC. Some of the facts brought dramatically to our attention in the course had either been forgotten by me or never learned. One of the most timely unspoken conclusions in the course is that the situation and events preceding the so-called "Revolutionary" war of 1776-1782 were entirely different from those loudly proclaimed by the American Left-wing forces in America today. Developed By Teachers

This pace-setting kit on the Declaration is already experiencing pilot-plant integration into four school systems and may be so tried out in several more before June. Shortly after the element in American history, government and economics will be developed in "Mini-course" form in our continuing project at OCC. Then, by next September, it is hoped that sufficient experience will have been obtained, refinements achieved in the courses, and a beginning made in a nationwide integration of this citizenship education project in secondary schools all across the nation.

The "mini-course" technique is designed by teachers for teachers. It requires a maximum of eight hours of studying for students; and this can be cut to four hours if absolutely necessary. With a few introductory remarks and explanatory remarks by a classroom teacher, students can work with and complete the course outside the classroom.

The "mini-course" on the Declaration consists of a Teacher's Guide which gives explicit instructions on how to handle each element in the course a student's Workbook which is a great aid to learning; three audio tapes carrying the course's lessons (which are integrated with the Workbook so that the student listens to the tapes while filling in his Workbook assignments); and, lastly, a short film produced by Encyclopedia Britannica: "The Declaration of Independence By the Colonies."

Along with the education materials, there are two series of test forms in the kit. One series of tests is given prior to the actual start of the course. If a student taking the pre-course tests shows adequate knowledge of any of the key facts about the Declaration he is not required to take that portion of the course dealing with that particular fact. But after my own experience in studying the course with its dramatized audio tapes and comprehensive modern Workbook, I dare say that few students will want to be excused from taking the full course.

Great Personal Experience

In a very short time working with the course, I heard and saw the whole colorful and exciting history of the beginning of our nation; the cruel despotic acts of a King (of England) ruling over 13 colonies which had been founded for the precise-purpose of establishing individual freedom; the British Parliament taxation of the colonists without representation; the refusal of the British monarch to listen to citizens complaints; the formation of the Continental Congress (a rebel Congress composed of delegates from all 13 colonies) and its futility in bucking the monolithic power of King George; the outbreak of military skirmishes as the "foreign" troops enforced British law; the writing of the Declaration, the ensuing military actions, and the war for independence; and the decision to establish a free and independent nation undergirded by a Constitution.

Byron Introduces Athletic Bill

Legislation encouraging development of extensive, nationwide physical fitness facilities has been recommended by Congressman Goodloe Byron.

Byron broadly outlined his proposal at a Washington press conference indicating he would draw up legislation for introduction in Congress later this term.

The bill would place emphasis on developing outstanding public physical fitness facilities, including a study of existing facilities with recommendations for future expansion.

Byron said the proposal provides for a non-profit Athletic Foundation funded by private, tax deductible contributions.

The Foundation would be responsible for all studies and recreation plans and would encourage such projects as the construction of athletic facilities built in accordance with Olympic standards.

The second of the "Mini-courses" will be on the Constitution and the actual unification under a Federal government with limited powers; the division of powers of the three divisions of the new Republic, the inaugural of President George Washington, and the birth of a great nation. If you and your community and schools are interested in integrating these courses into your schools—when they are ready next September—write me at American Heritage Center, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

FLOWERS UNLIMITED

Valentine's Day Is Only A Heart Beat Away

Valentine's Day is a day when "lovely" things happen to people, especially when they're in love.

In the late 1700's, sweethearts began penning elaborate Valentine's Day cards for one another. Many of these still survive as precious museum treasures, but the floral arrangements that accompanied the cards, being as fragile and delicate as love itself, regrettably have not.

But it wasn't always love and kisses on St. Valentine's Day. Though the origin of Valentine's Day is shrouded in mystery, it's generally associated with two martyred saints named Valentine whose celebration day happens to fall on February 14.

However, according to one belief, Valentine's Day is the modern equivalent of the Roman Lupercalian celebration, a gay holiday once celebrated on February 15. According to another belief, the custom of sending "valentines" or love-tokens had most probably only an accidental connection with St. Valentine and owed its origin to the conventional belief that it was at the start of February 14 that the birds began to mate. "For this was on seynt Valentynes day," wrote the poet Geoffrey Chaucer, "wher every foul cometh ther to ches his make."

Through the years flowers have often expressed the inexpressible even more eloquently than the written word. Today, saying, "Happy Valentine's" with flowers is as easy to do as sending a greeting card. For example, through local FTD florists, anybody can send a special "Love-Bundle" bouquet anywhere in the U.S. or Canada throughout the week preceding Valentine's Day.

The LoveBundle, designed in an exclusive Haeger container, is a radiant arrangement of fresh tulips, carnations, pompons and greenery, which also features a red ceramic heart and two white, ceramic angels.

As any Valentine's Day party-goer will tell you, he looks forward with a great deal of fluttering to the century-old tradition of a each blindfolded lass fishing in a Valentine Box for the name of the lad who would be her sweetheart until the next February 14. You don't know who you're going to get, but you cannot deny it's exciting!

The modern lass does have it easier because she usually knows who's sending her a valentine—a far cry from the old days when valentines were sent anonymously. And she's far better off than the 18th century Miss who kept her eyes shut tightly on February 14—out of a superstitious fear that she would fall hopelessly in love with the first man she chanced to see on Valentine's Day!

It may be true that most people marry on other days than February 14—but no lover will ever deny that it began on that day. To paraphrase the Romantic poet, Percy Shelley, "O love, if Valentine flowers come today, can marriage be far behind!"

"Adam was human; he didn't want the apple for the apple's sake; he wanted it because it was forbidden." (Mark Twain)

WASHINGTON REPORT

FROM SENATOR J. GLENN BEALL JR.

Emergency Health Care

As a member of the Health Subcommittee of the Senate, I have had the opportunity to work on legislation that is of vital interest to all Americans.

A great deal of this attention on breaking new ground in health and medicine. For example, tremendous commitments are being made for the prevention and cure of heart disease and cancer. And Maryland is playing a key role in these efforts through the work being done at Ft. Detrick and the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda.

There also is a growing movement to provide comprehensive medical care through health maintenance organizations, and also to formulate some kind of national standards on health insurance. These will be two of the major issues for the Health Subcommittee to consider during the 93rd Congress.

The National Catastrophic Illness Protection Act, which I have introduced in the past week, is in this category of legislation. My bill would enable citizens to buy, at a very reasonable cost, additional insurance to protect against the staggering expenses of a serious accident or prolonged illness.

These so-called catastrophic illnesses are relatively scarce, so a national insurance pool could be formed at a small cost to everyone, and it would have to be used only by the few unfortunate families who otherwise would face financial disaster along with personal hardships.

What has also been of great concern to me is the matter of making our present health system work better.

Emergency care is one aspect of health care where we already have the know-how and resources for dramatic gains, but the services are not being delivered to the American people.

The tragedy here is that the present situation, which has been called the hidden crisis in American health care, in general need not be.

The military has shown us—in World War II, Korea, and more recently in Vietnam—that trauma deaths are not unfortunate occurrences that are inevitable. Through speed and proper medical attention, the death rate in combat casualties in Vietnam fell to nearly zero.

I believe that the same could—and should—be true for accident victims here at home, and I have sponsored legislation to encourage states and communities to establish modern, well-equipped emergency medical systems. All of the ingredients are on hand; it is just a matter of getting them into use.

Maryland is fortunate to already have some of the best medical facilities in the United States for emergency care.

A highly-sophisticated trauma center is located at University Hospital in Baltimore, a pediatrics trauma unit is at Johns Hopkins Hospital, and there are special facilities for burns and neonatal intensive care at Baltimore City Hospitals.

All of these hospitals can be reached by the State Police Med-Evac helicopters, and they are now being linked with other hospitals and ambulances in the Baltimore region through a $1.25 million federal demonstration grant for a communications system.

But in Maryland's case, this should be expanded into a statewide system, and it eventually will. On the national level, other states and communities should be encouraged to establish similar systems.

The Health Subcommittee has been conducting hearings on this important legislation, so we can look forward to early action this year by the Senate.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Some Firms Still Dropping Workers

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., February 8, 1973—While the unemployment situation has seen some improvement over the past few years and the press coverage of this fact has been substantial, joblessness and placement problems are still found in some parts of the country and in various industries. This has been particularly evident in the case of certain large corporations and institutions that have been forced to reduce their personnel as a result of lost business, soaring expenses, and sagging earnings.

True, the past couple of years have seen a generally more encouraging job picture, but a closer look indicates that the better has been far from dynamic. It has, in fact, been more a case of rising employment totals than a big-scale erasure of unemployment. For 1971 the jobs made up 5.9 percent of the civilian labor force, a percentage that was viewed with uneasiness by both the Administration and its opponents. It should be noted that the 1972 average moved off only slightly to 5.6%, scarcely an impressive decline.

Occasional Pockets of Trouble
For the last two months of 1972, however, the unemployment rate stood at 5.2%. More significant was the fact that the average of employment for the nation as a whole had risen by 2.3 million in the course of 1972, representing the sharpest expansion for any single year since the end of World War II. So, while this did mean a solid absorption of manpower into the economy, it apparently did not much more than keep up with the long-term growth in the labor force as a whole.

And recent studies have revealed that some employers and workers are still beleaguered by an agonizing persistence in job losses and personnel cutbacks. Both blue-collar and white-collar employees are being affected, as well as highly paid professionals and executives. Some of the large companies snagged in the squeeze are accomplishing reductions through the process of attrition, trying wherever possible neither to hire nor to fire. But some firms are being forced to let workers go in considerable numbers.

More Jobs Obtainable
There is, of course, an aspect of the economy today which was not in evidence in the 1969-1970 recession pit. That is the greater availability of jobs in areas and industries where sizable recovery has more recently been enjoyed. In other words, the overall job picture is not nearly so grim as it was a while ago, with an improved business psychology making for less caution in hiring where profits are moving upward. In some cities, including New York City, there is a definitely increasing demand for skilled office workers such as typists, secretaries, and data processing operators.

But, even where some hiring is in progress, personnel directors and other executives are more demanding. They want—in fact, often insist upon—high productivity and top quality. As a rule, they would prefer not to take on anybody unless or until they can get precisely what they are seeking in the way of new employees. The day when there were job openings for just about any skilled employee or executive has gone, and may not soon reappear. Employment agencies and executive placement concerns declare that prospective employers are surveying job aspirants very carefully hiring.

Layoffs Affect Many Lines
A decline in the output of war materials has already affected some companies, and may spread to others before long. A switch from widespread active war needs to basic streamlining of our defense structure will help some firms and depress others. Anti-inflation and safety regulations are bound to up costs and deflect profits in many fields, preventing what otherwise might be a healthy rise in new employment. The job problem will be sticky for managements with operating outlays so exaggerated as to hold earnings down.

WINDOW WIZARDRY

Do you want to dress up a simple room? Hide a bad view? Give your windows a decorative face lift?

Roman Shades can provide the answers to all these decorating problems. Professional decorators often use them to give rooms a "custom" look. Yet, the do-it-yourselfer can make them easily and economically with modern sewing aids.

This room setting from "1,001 Decorating Ideas" is an eye-catching example of what Roman Shades can do for your decor. The lively patchwork fabric lends color and pattern to this understated living room. A coordinating fabric covers the lambrquin frame. Garlands of tasseled cotton rope create a young and festive look—just loop them on ordinary metal cup hooks. Conso's cotton rope trim #11855 and the 4" cotton tassels # 60749 are both available at your drapery trimming department.

The trimming department is also the place to look for Conso Roman Shade tape, the secret of doing it yourself. This special flat tape comes with pre-sewn rings to simplify making. The tape is sewn to the back of the shade, and cords pulled through the rings raise and lower the shade. On solid-colored fabrics, rows of decorative trimmings accent the shade and hide the areas where the tape was stitched.

For free instructions on getting it all together send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Booklet Distributors of America, 220 West 42nd Street, New York, New York 10036. In no time at all you'll have it made; the shade that can put your room in a whole new light.

The expression "I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream" is hardly a "scoop." It would be a mistake, however, to say that it cuts no ice, especially when it's dished out in Caramel Ice Cream Baskets.

The baskets are made of chow mein noodles... ideal for the homemaker who wants to use her own "noodle" in serving this frozen asset. Guests, who'll each have a ball, will be carried away by the caramel flavor.

CARAMEL ICE CREAM BASKETS
7/8 cup (2 bars - regular size) coarsely chopped Peter Paul Power House bars
2 teaspoons milk
1 can (3 oz.) chow mein noodles
Ice Cream

Combine candy bars and milk in glass measuring cup or small saucepan. Heat in pan of hot water until candy is completely melted. Stir frequently. Combine melted candy with chow mein noodles. Mix until noodles are evenly coated.

Spoon noodle mixture into 6 (6 oz.) buttered custard cups. Keeping the fingers well buttered, press the noodles into the bottom and about half way up the sides of the cups to form a basket.

Let stand at room temperature 1-2 hours until hardened. Remove from custard cups by running a knife around the edge. Fill centers with ice cream. Serve immediately.
Yield: 6 servings.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

What kind of scholarships are available to colleges in Maryland?
Your question can best be answered by reading the booklet "Scholarships & Loans for Higher Education in Maryland" which is available from my office here in Washington.

How much financial aid did Maryland receive under the recently terminated Rural Environmental Assistance Program?
The 1973 State allocation for the soil and water conservation program exceeded $800 thousand, including $237 thousand earmarked for Garrett, Washington, Carroll, Frederick, Allegany and Howard Counties. Maryland received $1.2 million in aid in 1972.

I read recently that a retired person can now earn $2,100 a year and still receive full social security payments. Can you tell me if this amount will be increased?
Yes, as future earnings levels rise, the amount you can earn and still receive social security benefits will also rise. Under the new law, the first such automatic increase will occur in 1975.

Does the President's Council on Physical Fitness have any exercise booklets available for high school students?
Yes, just write to the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington, D.C. 20540.

ident's Council of Physical Fitness & Sports, Washington, D.C. 20202. Among the many pamphlets available is the well-known Swedish Fitness Book, which includes information on the Swedish training track and the human body and how it works. The book also discusses proper diet, motives for regular exercise and training advice and is especially recommended for persons working with young men and women at the high school level.

Would you please explain your pension exemption bill?
Briefly, this legislation would exclude from federal income tax up to $5,000 of retirement income. The exclusion covers any amount received as an annuity, pension or other retirement benefit during a taxable year up to this maximum amount. I believe this House bill is necessary for retired citizens, because living on a fixed income they are hit hard by many inflationary pressures such as food prices and property taxes. Congress must continually search for ways to make certain that America's elderly live their years in security and dignity and I think this measure is a step in that direction.

The business of developing one's personality is more important than that of regulating others.

THROWN FOR A LOSS? BE YOUR OWN BOSS!

More and more Americans — many of them veterans returning to civilian life — are finding themselves stranded in an economy that's short on jobs. To cope with this problem, a lot of people are becoming "their own boss."

Already, Americans own over 700,000 small businesses ranging from art galleries and pet shops to fast food stores, marketing an estimated $100 billion in goods and services. The service station business is another fast-growing segment of the business world where a man can be "his own boss." Over 200,000 enterprising persons with backgrounds ranging from milk routes to civil engineering are operating service stations in every corner of the nation. In the 1970's this industry alone will contribute some $34 billion in sales to the national economy and provide many successful individual operators with incomes from $12,000 to $25,000 and more.

In most cases only a small investment is required — usually between $5,000 and $15,000. And, if an applicant is qualified, some oil companies, like Shell, will finance part of the initial investment.

For more information send for Shell's free booklet. Address your request to: Q. P. Graves, Shell Oil Company, P.O. Box 2463, Houston, Texas 77001.

Another Excellent Year For Home Buying

Another 2 million housing start year is in prospect for 1973, with an abundance of new residential units in the early months. The experts predict the value of residential construction will approach $40 billion by the end of the year. Demand for mortgage money will be brisk.

This outlook emphasizes your purchase of a home. Land, labor, and material costs continue their upward trend so consider buying as soon as you can afford it. Chances remain favorable that the home you choose will be an excellent long range investment.

Whether you buy a single family home, condominium apartment, or town house, it probably will be the largest single investment you ever make. With this much of your money involved, it's wise to become well informed in advance on real estate purchasing. As you seek information, don't forget to obtain the facts on the closing—that's when the parties get together to complete the transaction.

When you're in the market, carefully consider the design, condition, age, and location of a home. Look into what's available in community facilities and municipal-type services. Check with the local planning department or its equivalent on the outlook for the neighborhood. Don't be rushed. Consider your purchase carefully.

After you've found the home you want, shop around before applying for mortgage financing. Ask lenders about the interest rate, penalty if payments are late, insurance required on the property, inclusion of taxes and interest in the monthly payments, and possibility of paying off the loan before maturity without penalty.

Before you go to the closing, consider purchasing owner's title insurance if it isn't provided by the seller as a matter of local custom. Lender's title insurance protects only your mortgage lender against possible land title hazards. For a one-time charge at the closing, title insurance pays for a defense against an attack on a title as insured and pays valid claims. A title search of many separately located public records, and the review of the information and evidence it discloses, serve as a basis for title insurance. As a result of the search, title hazards of record are pointed out so you or your representative can take appropriate action as necessary—before you complete your real estate transaction. Title insurance includes protection against problems even the most thorough search cannot reveal, such as a forged deed that transfers no title or a mistake in the records.

Your investigation of what's involved in home buying in your community will be aided if you ask a local real estate broker, mortgage lender, title company executive, attorney, or other expert to provide guidelines. Gathering the facts will help you prepare for the adventure of purchasing real estate—and will improve your chances for an enjoyable and profitable investment.

New Tags On Sale Feb. 13

The State Motor Vehicle Administration will begin mailing license tag renewal applications to Maryland's more than one and three-quarter million passenger car and motorcycle owners Friday, February 9, with actual sales beginning Tuesday, Feb. 13.

Motor Vehicle Administrator Ejner J. Johnson this week reminded motorists that they will receive tag validation stickers again this year in lieu of new tags.

Mr. Johnson cautioned all motorists, however, that under Maryland's compulsory insurance law, which became effective January 1, 1973, all

INSIGHTS FOR THE BLIND

Because of the efforts of a school which brings together blind persons and the guide dogs that will lead them, the outlook for thousands of sightless Americans is far from bleak. More and more blind people are seeing their way through truly independent living, because of the insights provided by instructors at the "Guiding Eyes for the Blind," in Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

After each student has been assigned the dog best suited to him, the actual training begins. The principal training city of Peekskill, New York. Here, on twice daily excursions, the students and their dogs face together the realities of crossing streets, boarding buses, riding in elevators, shopping in stores and just about everything a sighted person goes through in the course of a day. After an initial breaking-in period, the students and their dogs go to New York City, where they learn how to handle themselves in the clamor of traffic, in roaring subways and in fast moving crowds.

All the while the student and his dog are under the close, watchful guidance of an instructor who sees to it that the motto of the school—"mobility for the blind"—is transformed into reality.

The school with a bright future can help prepare the sightless for many walks of life. For further information write to Guiding Eyes for the Blind, 106 East 41st Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

motor vehicles registered in the state must be insured in the minimum amounts of $15,000/$30,000 for bodily injury and $5,000 for property damage. "Motorists who have had their policy cancelled or have been rejected by at least two private companies may apply to the Maryland Automobile Insurance Fund," Johnson said, "but, in any case, they must have the necessary insurance coverage before they will receive their 1973 tag validation stickers."

According to Mr. Johnson, although the vast majority of Maryland motorists return their tag renewal applications and receive their validation stickers by mail each year, many others fail to heed this advice and find themselves standing in line at an MVA office as the tag expiration deadline approaches. Johnson said, "motorists need only complete the application form and return it by mail with the necessary fee and insurance information to receive validation stickers within a few weeks, and without inconvenience." Johnson cautioned that applications received later than March 22 may not be processed and returned before the March 31st tag deadline.

Vehicle owners who do not receive their tag applications by the end of February should contact the MVA immediately, giving their present tag number, the title and serial number of their vehicle, their full name and present address. This information is necessary to enable the correct printer to print their correct applications. For additional information, individuals should contact the Motor Vehicle Administration regional office in their vicinity or they may call the Glen Burnie tag renewal information number—768-1800.

There will be a one time only additional fee of $1.50 for every vehicle registered in Maryland during the 1973 registration year. Passenger car fees for this year will be $21.50 for vehicles with a gross weight of 3700 pounds or less and $31.50 for vehicles 3700 pounds or more. Mr. Johnson noted that this additional fee provides Maryland motorists with financial protection against uninsured motorists.

Tag validation stickers may be purchased from the MVA Headquarters in Glen Burnie or any MVA regional office which will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. Motorists are reminded, however, that all State offices, including the Motor Vehicle Administration, will be closed in observance of Lincoln's Birthday, Monday, Feb. 12, Washington's Birthday, Monday, Feb. 19, and Maryland Day, Friday, March 23.

Motorists are cautioned against displaying their new validation stickers before Mar. 1st, and reminded that midnight March 31st is the absolute deadline for displaying their present tags without the new validation stickers.

A "Get To Know Your Community Night" has been scheduled for Tuesday, February 27 at St. Joseph's High School, according to George L. Danner, Grand Knight of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, Emmitsburg. The night's panel type discussion will begin at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria. It has been planned by the Community Action Committee with Emmitsburg's town mayor and commissioners. The citizens of Emmitsburg are invited to attend this discussion in a relaxed atmosphere and ask questions that might give the individuals a better understanding of what the town fathers are doing and what is planned for the community's future. Suggestions might also be made at this meeting. Light refreshments will be served.

The Youth Activity Committee reported at this time that the Guy A. Baker, Sr. Columbian Squire Circle No. 2299 will hold its Charter Night program this Thursday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m., in the Council Home. Officers and members of the Council are urged to attend.

The social will be held on Wednesday evening, February 14, beginning at 8 p.m. All Brute Council members and their wives are invited to attend.

Mr. Eyer also reported that the next corporate Mass will be held on Sunday, February 25 at St. Anthony's Shrine, near Emmitsburg. Time for the Mass will be announced later.

Edward Myers, Council Activities Chairman, reported that plans have been made for the Oyster Feed on Saturday evening, February 17 in the Council Home. Tickets at $3 each, can be purchased at the door. The feed will be held from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Grand Knight Danner reminded the members that George Wireman's "This and That" program, will feature Mr. James Dean and Miss Gail Donus of Victor Cullen School on Saturday morning. Air time on WTHU radio station will be 9:15 a.m. and all members are asked to be "tuned in" for the program.

KINDEST CUT OF ALL

Whether you're cutting wood for your home fireplace or trimming a tree for a more attractive back yard, you can now avail yourself of an innovation in chain saws. It is purported to be the easiest-to-handle gasoline saw ever marketed, the world's first chain saw with a dual control system.

The Homelite XL-2 offers the user the option of which of two triggers to select for a specific cutting purpose. Its engine weight is seven pounds two ounces and the saw is priced at $119.95 retail.

The two triggers offer greater control in using a chain saw than ever before, also providing maximum cutting leverage where it is needed most. Use of the front trigger is recommended for easier control in close quarters and tricky angles, while the rear trigger is suggested for cutting firewood, lumber, felling, pruning and rough carpentry.

The saw's appeal is to the residential suburbanite who is an occasional user. Its features are made to order for the do-it-yourselfer in the market for his first chain saw.

"We feel the two triggers designed into the handle mark the beginning of a new era in lightweight chain saws," said Robert P. Straetz, Homelite President, who pegged the significance of the model's dual controls as benefiting the casual and first-time chain saw user. "The front and rear triggers provide firmer control over the entire saw as well as greater cutting leverage," he explained.

"The homeowner," added Mr. Straetz, "is demanding more and more value in saw features but at a price he feels will justify his buying a saw for use only a few times a year. Our XL-2 provides a rapid return on investment in addition to the convenience of two triggers, it weighs within a few ounces of the lightest saw and has many features as standard equipment."

He listed a true muffler for low noise level, automatic chain oiling for user convenience, ease of starting and operation as well as minimal and simple maintenance requirements.

SINUSITIS--OR A BAD COLD?

Many medical authorities claim that a true case of sinusitis is less common than supposed. However, in a survey of 3,000 people throughout the U.S., more than one-third said they were troubled by sinus-related problems, at least occasionally.

The survey and facts about "The Sinus Syndrome" were discussed recently in an article published in a magazine for pharmacists. Many of the symptoms of sinusitis are similar to those seen in a severe cold, the article's author points out.

The sinuses of the nose are spongy bone structure in the skull which are connected to the inside of the nose. There are the frontal sinuses (located behind each side of the brow); the maxillary sinuses (behind each cheekbone); the sphenoid sinus (behind the nose); and the ethmoid sinuses (beneath both sides of the bridge of the nose).

These sinuses are lined with mucus membranes which contain minute tendrils that sweep out accumulated mucus as well as any dust, dirt or germs that may find their way into the sinuses. When the sinuses become blocked pressure produces headache, post-nasal drip, difficulty in breathing, and sometimes facial swelling and pain.

What causes true sinusitis? According to the article, predisposing factors include a secondary bacterial infection following a common cold; poor drainage of the sinuses due to a deviated septum or polyps; chronic rhinitis; general debility, such as following serious illness; exposure to extremes in temperature and humidity; emotional upsets; acute changes in the intranasal pressure; maxillary abscesses; allergy; and exposure to air pollution, chlorine from swimming pools, or excessive cigarette smoke.

In an acute attack, there is usually a fever and a physician may prescribe an antibiotic or a sulfonamide to control the infection. To drain the sinuses he may advise the use of a tablet containing a decongestant and antihistamine, which may also contain an analgesic.

Or, he may recommend the use of vasoconstrictor nose drops or sprays. A nasal spray was judged preferable by a group of physicians reporting in an article for physicians. The panel recommended spraying with 1/4-1/2% phenylephrine hydrochloride (Neo-Synephrine). For children under six, a 1/4% Neo-Synephrine spray was recommended.

Vaporizers, heat pads, infrared lamps and towels wrung out in hot water all help to provide relief for some sufferers.

True sinusitis is a potentially serious problem and should be treated by a physician.
