SERVING THE WONDERFUL PEOPLE OF THE CATOCTIN MOUNTAINS

- By Abigail -

It was another great weekend for outdoor sports fans in the Catoctin Mountains. The dog sled races drew a large crowd of participants and on-lookers. They really did race, in spite of having no snow, which just shows how far determination can get you. They even had an event called "The Women's Liberation Race"; what will they think of next year?

I see where the folks down in Annapolis are considering new redistricting plans for this part of the state. As usual they (the General Assembly) are the only ones who seem to have some idea of what is going on. The rest of us will have to wait until it is all over before we see the effects of the plan.

In the spirit of thankfulness that is sweeping the country, the spirit of relief that our part in a most distasteful war is coming to an end, some folks appear to be losing their good sense. A group of cregymen has suggested that now is the time to extend amnesty to the young Americans who fled this country in their effort to avoid the draft. We may wish that clemency be eventually granted to these draft evaders, but to open wide our arms to them at the same time that others of our young men are returning from Prisoner of War Camps after having spent six or seven years there, has a bad ring to it.

Last week I noted that crime prevention should be left completely up to the police departments of the country. Several folks called my attention to the fact that it sometimes appears that our courts are doing more to help the criminal get out on the streets and stay there, than all other organizations put together. It would appear that the courts are bending backward more than is prudent in making sure that the "rights" of lawbreakers are protected. The pendulum seems to have swung in too large an arc, from presuming a person is guilty until he is proved innocent to the extreme of handing out hand slaps for offenses because the judge feels "they're really good boys," or men or women or whatever. Yes, we need a concerned citizenry, we need good, capable police officers, but we also desperately need good, capable, fair, firm judges who will hand out a fair penalty to those who have broken the law.

A psychologist recently conducted some tests and concluded that Peter does corrupt. He used two groups of students who were majoring in business; giving one group the power to hire and fire, administer pay raises and cuts, etc., the other group was not given these powers, they were only allowed to make suggestions to their group of workers. The end results showed, among other things, that the powerful group tended to see their people as objects of manipulation whereas the other group acted more humanely towards their employees.

Just shows that what a lot of us have been suspecting for years is true; it may account for the actions of some of those people who are elected to office to serve the people and then seem to do everything but what we want them to, we have given them too much power and it's gone to their heads.

Sr. Citizens Hold Annual Dinner

Tuesday evening, February 20, at 6:30, seventy members and friends of the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club, gathered at the VFW Hall for the sixth annual covered dish dinner. Before being seated the group sang one stanza of "America the Beautiful", followed by Father Stouter offering a few words of grace. The viands were all set forth on a large serving table where all helped themselves to all the good things provided. Chief articles were roast turkey, filling, gravy, baked potatoes and all the numerous salads and hot dishes brought by members.

At the end of the meal, President LaRue Harman announced special favors to be presented to members having February birthdays. First to be served were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dern, celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. The following received cupcakes bearing one lighted candle: Father Stouter, John Fuss, Mrs. J. L. Nester, Mattie Glass, Edith Kelly and Ethel Fuss.

Then came the surprise of the evening: The Rhythm-Makers Band from South Mountain Restoration Center, twenty-six in number, to furnish delightful music for the group. The music consisted of old familiar songs, such as "Grandfather's Clock," "He's Got the Whole World in His Hand," selections from "Sound of Music," "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze," with "God Bless America" as a closing number. The music makers were served punch and cake and a free will collection was presented for giving the Senior Citizens such a wonderful surprise of rhythm music.

On that occasion I received fifteen cents for riding my bicycle eleven miles across the city in sub-zero weather to deliver a telegram to one of the students. That was about forty years ago." Since that time he has served twenty years in the Marine Corps, returned to school and earned a bachelor and two master's degrees.

He is currently a Senior High School teacher in Hanover, Pennsylvania. The Bakers reside on Fish and Game Road, south of Littlestown.

LOOKING AHEAD

By George S. Benson, President, National Education Program
Searcy, Arkansas

The Arizona Challenge
The people of Arizona, acting through their legislature before the school-year 1971-72 began, did something that all the people in our 50 states should do. They enacted a law requiring that every high school child in Arizona must complete a semester course on "the essentials and benefits of the free enterprise system". The State Board of Education, also responsive to the wishes of the citizenry, added the requirement that each high school student must have a full year of study of American History, including "instructions in American institutions and ideals."

This action, it taken by school systems nationwide, would guarantee the perpetuation of the American heritage of freedom and the economic system that has given us our incomparable economic system that has given us our incomparable economic well being. It would guarantee that as the present high school crop comes of age and begins shaping the course of our government, local self-government would be restored, freedom thus strengthened, and the fruits of everybody's work be enhanced greatly. It also would, I strongly feel, guarantee that there would be no social-communist revolution, and no take-over by any foreign power. A nation sold on its system—if it is a good system—can never be defeated.

Course In Jeopardy
But, alas, this Arizona action toward the goals we all want, may already be in jeopardy. A substantial force of teachers in Arizona schools, joined by college professors and all varieties of Left-wing activists are determined to repeal the "free enterprise education" law and overcome the Arizona School Board's determination that every Arizona child know the facts of American history, American institutions and American ideals.

Arizona Superintendent of Schools, W. P. Shofstall, who has been an inspiring force in passing the "free enterprise education" bill and instituting the compulsory course in American history, expressed to me his initial shock when confronted with organized teacher opposition to teaching the benefits of free enterprise and constitutional government. "It has been most disappointing for us to have the course fought so bitterly by the teachers in our public schools," he said.

What About Your State?
The fight goes on. Superintendent Shofstall strongly believes the legislature, in making free enterprise education mandatory, was responsive to the wishes of the overwhelming majority of Arizona Citizens. But the 1971 law is by no means secure. The opposition has mounted a statewide movement to get it repealed. If 10 or 12 other state legislatures this year would enact a similar bill—and they certainly should—we would have established a beachhead in this nation as important to its security as is our nuclear arsenal.

Superintendent Shofstall has sent me a copy of the "Free Enterprise Syllabus" which guides teachers in all the Arizona school systems in implementing the course. He also sent copies of the test forms used, plus the actual results of tests given 3,000 Arizona high school students who had had a semester in free enterprise education. Next week we will report on this test.

Meeting A Responsibility
We were delighted to have Superintendent Shofstall ask for 200 copies of our supplemental education pamphlet, "The Wealth Machine", to be distributed to the teachers conducting the free enterprise course. He said he was hopeful that sufficient copies would be ordered by all the school systems to permit distribution to all the high school students when they are taking the course. "The Wealth Machine" explains the five unique factors built into our economic system which give it its incomparable productive capability.

Since this column appears in newspapers in most of the states of the Union, perhaps some readers who are school patrons, or some teachers who appreciate the private enterprise system will get copies of the Arizona law and the Board of Education's "Free Enterprise Syllabus." A small group of earnest people in any state could start the ball rolling. Farm bureaus, chambers of commerce, civic clubs, patriotic organizations, and especially women's groups could find no more important project than getting legislation enacted making free enterprise education a required part of the school system's service to its students. As I have said for years, it is one of the most important responsibilities of an adult generation to its children.

Perspectives In Learning By H. Brown

Adults Have No Where To Go!
The educators are finally being awakened by the cries of hungry adults pleading for an opportunity to further their educations.

An academic commission on non-traditional studies has found after a two year survey that many adults desire educations which high schools, colleges and universities are not providing. The adults between the ages of 18 to 60 years are being neglected. About 79.8 million people are estimated to desire educational experiences if they were available and easily accessible.

The panel found that the existing college programs were not designed to meet the needs of most adults. It was found that most adults are seeking vocational subjects, hobbies and recreation, family life and personal development courses which are rarely offered at schools of higher education.

The desire for an education is there even when the people are not presently participating in any school. Many people gave reasons for not being in school, such as: excessive costs, insufficient time, not wanting to go to school full-time, courses offered at inconvenient times, and part-time courses not available. They did want an education but they could find no place to get it.

Many of the nation's adults were found to be interested in more flexible degree arrangements. About 32 million adults indicated an indifference to earning college degrees, instead they were more interested in acquiring knowledge. This could be the result of the difficulty they have experienced in trying to participate in the traditional degree granting programs, but in no way diminished the yearning to expand their knowledge of the world in which they live.

The members of the study made several serious recommendations to colleges and universities. Of these, the major theme was that current degree-granting institutions should shift their emphasis from providing degree programs to providing services to learners. It seems clear that the higher education institution must begin to satisfy the educational needs of adult learners.

Some educators feel that the traditional educational institutions may be unable to provide the programs adults desire. New educational programs may be sponsored by industry, labor unions, foundations, and private schools, rather than the established colleges. The lack of flexibility in the present system makes the possibilities of change in traditional institutions difficult if not impossible.

Many existing colleges feel that they cannot take on more responsibilities or broaden their roles to include non-traditional programs for adults.

As an educator it is difficult for me to understand why colleges and universities are not eager to meet the needs of education-hungry adults. If the appetite is there, why not satisfy it?

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK
Once Again—The Gillelans
"God, I am travelling out to death's sea,
I, who exalted in sunshine and laughter,
Thout not of dying — Death is such waste of me!
Grant me one prayer:
Doom not the hereafter
Of mankind to war, as though I had dieg not,
I, who in battle, my com-rade's arm linking, Shouted and sang—life in my pulses hot,
Throbbing and dancing!
Let not my sinking In dark be for naught, my death a vain thing!
God, let me know

the end of man's fever!
Make my last breath a bugle call carrying Peace o'er the valleys and cold hills forever!"
—John Galsworthy
The notes pertaining to the Gilliland (Gillelan) family, of Pennsylvania and Maryland, are continued at this time with further study of records contained in the Family Bible.
Dr. Samuel (3) Gilliland, son of William (2) and Catharine (Fleming) Gilliland (first wife), was a veteran of the War of 1812-14. He died not long after his return to civilian life and lies buried in the family plot in Great Conewago Presbyterian Churchyard, at Hunterstown, was, like his brother, Samuel

(3) Gilliland, a physician. According to family records he attended Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania. He probably studied medicine, as was the custom in that day, under an older and experienced doctor.
Dr. Joseph (3) Gilliland is interred in the family plot in Great Conewago Prsebyter-ian churchyard. The inscription from the stone at his grave reads as follows:
9. In memory of Dr. Joseph Gilliland, died September 23, 1844, aged 52 years, 10 months, and 15 days.

The Gilliland (Gillelan) Family Bible also contains data regarding the family of Samuel (2) Gilliland, son of John
(1) and Jane Gilliland — as follows:
Samuel (2) Gilliland married Eleanor Vance. They lived on a farm located near the present town of Biglerville, in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania.
Samuel (2) and Eleanor (Vance) Gilliland were the parents of eleven children—
as follows:
1. Anna (3) Gilliland — born August 20, 1786—married Daniel Gibbing.
2. Jane (3) Gilliland—born July 20, 1879—married... (?)
Harlin.
3. Sarah (3) Gilliland—
January 16, 1796 — married Fleming Gillelan, her first cousin.
4. Mary (3) Gilliland — born October 24, 1797—married... (?) Biggs.
5. Maria (3) Gilliland — born September 7, 1808 — married but name of husband not known.
6. Hannah Lovina (3) Gilliland — born Novmber 12,
1804 — married Dr. . . . (?)
Thompson.
7. Eliza Eleanor (3) Gilliland—born July 20, 1806—
died unmarried.
8. John (3) Gilliland — born June 6, 1791—died unmarried.
9. Samuel Vance (3) Gilliland—born June 13, 1793—
died unmarried.
10. Ezekiel (3) Gilliland—born May 8, 1800—died unmarried.
11. David (3) Gilliland — born November 19, 1802 — emigrated to the State of Tennessee.
Note: Of this particular branch of the Gilliland family David (3) Gilliland and his sisters Eliza (3), and Maria (3) Gilliland, all sought new frontiers and in the course of time emigrated to the south and too kup lands in what is now the State of Tennessee.
There is no further data pertaining to them in the family records.
John (3) Gilliland, son of William (2) and Catharine (Fleming) Gilliland, married, first, Elizabeth McIlvain, and,

secondly, Margaret McCurdy.
No mention is made in the family records of the issue born to the first union but to the second marriage—the following were born:
1. John Samuel (4) Gilliland—born April 25, 1817.
Note: John Samuel (4) Gilliland died in November of 1832. He is probably interred in Great Conewago Presbyterian churchyard in a grave that is now unmarked.
2. James William (4) Gilliland died in November of 1824, aged just five years and 7 months. This child is probably interred in the family plot in Great Conewago Presbyterian churchyard in a grave that is now unmarked.
3. Margaret Catharine (4) Gilliland—born June 19, 1821
—died May 30, 1846—aged 24 years, 11 months, and 11 days.
Probably buried in Great Con-ewago Presbyterian churchyard in a grave that is now unmarked.
4. William Fleming (4) Gilliland—born June 30, 1824—
died February 14, 1848—aged 23 years, 8 months, and 15 days.
Note: It would appear that John (3) and Margaret (Mc-Curdy) Gilliland did not have "very good luck" with their children. All four died comparatively young.
The historical and genealogical study of the Gilliland family will be continued next week.

There's a place for everyone in this life — find your place and see that your part is well done.

matter of life or death—some times it happens to be just that.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

What were the major accomplishments of the Environmental Protection Agency in 1972?

Your question can best be answered by reading the detailed and authoritative, 450-page third annual report of the Council on Environmental Quality. A few copies are still available free from my office in Washington.

What is the status of your bill exempting pensions from federal income tax?

This legislation would exclude from federal income tax up to $5,000 of retirement income and I plan to reintroduce the bill in the House in the near future.

Please tell me what summer jobs are available with the Federal government, and how do I apply?

Each summer there are a limited number of opportunities for jobs with the Federal government. These positions vary from office jobs to Park Rangers and are located throughout the United States. Interested citizens may write my office here in Washington for a copy of the pamphlet "Summer Jobs in Federal Agencies", which outlines the available jobs and application requirements. The Civil Service Commission tells me, however, that the number of jobs is relatively small and that chances of appointment depend upon the number and kind of summer jobs in the area where you apply, the number of applicants in that area and your qualifications. Based on these facts, the commission suggests that applicants would be wise not to apply for summer work solely with the Federal government.

Doesn't the Truth-in-Lending Act require that consumers be given a full statement of all closing costs in real estate transactions, prior to a downpayment?

This is a common business practice but is not required under the Truth-in-Lending Act. The National Commission on Consumer Finance, however, has made a recommendation to Congress to amend the Truth-in-Lending Act to include the stipulation you have outlined.

Can a parent receiving social security apply for benefits on behalf of her 21-year-old son who is also disabled?

Under recent changes in the Social Security law children who become disabled after 18, but before age 22, may qualify for social security payments under the circumstances you have outlined. I would suggest you contact your local Social Security office for complete details.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

The Magic Returns To Chemicals

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., February 22, 1973—The phasing out of marginal and obsolete facilities, rigorous cost-cutting, reducing of personnel, trimming in basic research, and renewed emphasis on immediately marketable products were all basic factors in the recovery affecting the chemical industry in 1971 and 1972. Such stress on practical business management, coupled with selective price boosts in some strong sectors and price stabilization in weaker areas, reversed the ominous downturn which had led to widespread disenchantment with the industry as a whole.

Overall, the chemical makers have been buoyed by a strong demand for both basic and specialty items, decreased competition from petroleum companies, and an almost zero market entry by newcomers. For the first time in many years, demand is outpacing supply. The Research Department of Babson's Reports sees the chemical industry as being in a powerful new upswing, aided by a robust U. S. economy.

All Records Shattered in 1972 Breaking all records last year, chemical producers scored gains in sales, earnings, and productivity. Output of major industrial chemicals and synthetics was up about 14%. Sales actually grew more rapidly than the Gross National Product. Most significant of all, profits were up more than 20%—the largest gain in 10 years. These advances exceeded the long-term average trend for the entire industry. The comeback — begun in 1971 and since accelerated — has convinced the doubters that the making of chemicals has not yet turned into a stodgy, commodity-type operation with little growth. In fact, a major feature of the performance in 1972 and into 1973 has been the resurgence of many products which had been showing relatively little or below-average growth in the years just before.

Phase III A Further Blessing Although many chemical stalwarts were still far from bumping up against Phase II ceilings on profit margins in 1972, the probability of such a happening in 1973 was developing. But Phase III provides somewhat greater flexibility, it now seems to the Babson Staff, making it easier to prevent price dislocations and achieve reasonable price adjustments — more so than under Phase II, at least.

In the absence of mandatory controls, producers should be able to hike prices on those products which have been in short supply. Specifically, companies have the option of making 1971 one of the two base years, and an average price increase of 1.5% is now permitted without regard to the profit-margin test.

With industry shipments slated to advance by 15% in 1973, operating rates by 86% or more, and capital spending also on the rise, experts foresee profit margins reaching the 1966 record again. Babson Investment Candidates

For the majority of stocks of chemical companies we are currently advising a Hold position. The Babson Staff does, however, consider that Culligan International, Monsanto Company, and Pennwalt Corporation are worthwhile recommendations for new commitments. At present, all three are selling at relatively low price/earnings multiples on the New York Stock Exchange.

Culligan holds a prime position in the water-treatment equipment field and is expected to increase earnings materially for the 1973 fiscal year ending April 30, bolstered by quickening European operations. Monsanto is a well-diversified producer with earnings slated to advance sharply this year. The company has succeeded in making significant inroads on many markets, which should make for revitalized growth. Pennwalt is a leader in chemicals, pharmaceuticals, dental products, and specialized instrument equipment. Management's programs to reduce costs and restructure its operations should be translated into higher earnings for the present year.

Celebrate School Spirit Week Here

The students of Emmitsburg School celebrated the end of the first semester with a School Spirit Week organized by the Student Council. On each day of the week classes five through eight were asked to dress in a certain way according to rules set by the Council. There was a lot of fun generated and the classes cooperated well.

Thursday afternoon the Student Council sponsored a talent show with over a hundred students from grades one through eight participating. Talent ranged from skits, songs, dancing, solos on piano, drum, harmonicas, to pantomimes.

Even the school staff took part in the fun by preparing a display of their baby pictures for the students to identify.

A very successful School Spirit Week came to a happy close Friday afternoon with the entire student body enjoying a Walt Disney movie, "Grey Fox and Sam Davenport".

The FFA provides an opportunity for youth in agriculture to learn, to do, to earn, and to serve.

Post Office Releases New Stamp Honoring Composer George Gershwin

An 8-cent stamp will be issued February 28, 1973, commemorating George Gershwin, an American Composer. In a brief career—he died at 38 in 1937—George Gershwin composed the music for some 400 songs and for the non-song "Rhapsody in Blue," which in 1942 brought him world acclaim. He had named it "American Rhapsody," but his brother, Ira, his collaborator for eleven years, convinced him to rename it. Gershwin's folk opera, "Porgy and Bess," produced in 1935, re-enforced his fame. The small figures on the stamp show the principals and Sporting Life, who took Bess away from the poignant cripple who lived in Charleston's Catfish Row. Gershwin, born on New York's East Side, early showed talent. At 15, he was pounding a piano as a song plunger for Tin Pan Alley. His first published song, "When You Want Them You Can't Get Them," brought him total royalties of $5.00. This stamp will be placed on sale at our office on Thursday, March 1, 1973. George E. St. Joe's Clinches Second Place In BR Conference With 51-39 Win

St. Joseph's High School closed out its regular season in fine style with a 51 to 39 win over arch rival St. James of Hagerstown. The victory clinched second place in the Blue Ridge Basketball Conference as the Trojans finished with a 6 and 2 league record.

Roy Adelsberger, County leading scorer, in action.

St. James had jumped to an early lead of 12 to 6 but St. Joe's switched their defense and began to press. The quarter ended 14-12, and the winners were never headed. George Hemler played his best game as he scored 21 points and gathered in a game high of 16 rebounds. Rich Williams continued his good play with another all around game as he tallied 12 points with 9 rebounds. County scoring leader Roy Adelsberger, chipped in with 15 points. Mike Myers and Joel Neighbors were as consistent as usual doing everything right.

Mar-Lu-Ridge Camp Director Guest Speaker At Elias Lutheran Church

Mr. Philip Brohawn, Director of Mar-Lu-Ridge, was the guest speaker during the Sunday School hour last Sunday at Elias Lutheran Church. When he spoke to the pupils and their parents and other interested adults, regarding the summer camping program at Mar-Lu-Ridge. The camp, located at Jefferson, Md., is owned and operated by the Maryland Synod and has participants from Washington, Delaware and Maryland Lutheran congregations.

Mr. Brohawn presented a slide talk regarding the camping opportunities that are available to every Maryland Synod Lutheran, active in his respective congregation, from the age of nine through the adult years. He mentioned the camping availabilities of sessions for confirmands, blind, handicapped, underprivileged as well as family camping. Each year Elias Church participates fully in the camping program at Mar-Lu-Ridge in June for a week of Junior with Fourth Graders leaving Camping. The Church Council, following a precedent set several years ago, will pay one half of each camper's camping fees.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. Can I designate $1 of my tax to go to a particular presidential candidate? A. No. However, if you wish, $1 of your tax ($2 if you are married and filing a joint return) may be paid over to presidential candidates of a specific political party. Just check the box on IRS Form 4875 (in your tax forms package), fill in the name of the party, and attach this form to your tax return.

Instead of designating $1 of your tax for a particular party, you can designate it for a non-partisan general account for all eligible candidates. Just check the box provided.

Q. My adjusted gross income is $13,000. Can I take the $2,000 standard deduction on my return.

A. No. The standard deduction is 15 per cent of your adjusted gross income up to a $2,000 maximum. Fifteen per cent of your adjusted gross income is $1,950. This is your standard deduction, not $2,000.

Q. My son turned 20 in 1972. Does this mean that I cannot claim him as a dependent any more?

A. No. If your son did not have a gross income of $750, or more or was a full-time student for at least five months of last year no matter how much money he made, you may still claim him as a dependent, regardless of his age, if all the other dependency tests are met, including furnishing over one-half of your son's total support.

Q. Are scholarships taxable?

A. No. In general, if you receive a scholarship or fellowship grant, you may exclude all or part of that amount from your gross income, depending upon whether or not you are a degree candidate. If you are a degree candidate, there is no limitation on the amount that may be excluded from your income. However, if you are not a degree candidate, the amount you receive as a scholarship or fellowship may be excluded up to $300 times the number of months for which you receive amounts under the grant during the tax year.

A scholarship that is compensation for past or future services or primarily for the grantor's benefit, is not excluded from gross income.

For more information, see IRS Publication 520, "Tax Information for American Scholars in the U.S. and Abroad." A free copy can be obtained by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Q. I installed a new water heater in my home last year. Can I deduct the cost on my tax return?

A. No, but you may add the cost of this item to the basis of your property, so that it will be taken into account in the event that you sell your home.

Q. Are gambling losses deductible?

A. If you itemize, you may deduct your gambling losses incurred during the year, but only to the extent of your winnings. Gambling winnings must be reported as income. Q. I still haven't gotten my W-2 form from my employer. What should I do? A. Contact your employer. He is required by law to furnish his employees W-2 forms by the end of January. Your return must be filed on time. If you do not have all your Forms W-2, report all of your income and attach a statement explaining how you computed any tax withheld for which you claim credit, but for which you have no Form W-2.

If, after you have filed your return, you receive a Form W-2 for income that you did not include in your return, or if you find your estimates of income and withholding tax to be incorrect, file an amended return, Form 1040X. This form is available at any IRS office.

Contentment is just a matter of hoping for the best and making the best of what you get.

NOTHING'S ECSTATIC ABOUT STATIC

You can hear it. You can surely feel it. You cannot taste or smell it, but you often see its effect. This is static electricity, and it causes clothing to cling and snap. It's with us all year long but is especially noticeable in dry climates and in cold weather.

Although static electricity can be in all clothing, it's usually a problem only with synthetics because there is no moisture on which the charge can travel. Static electricity builds up in the form of shock, a snapping noise and an uncomfortable cling. This is especially true of synthetics and permanent press dried at a high temperature.

The only good thing you can say about static is that it can be easily eliminated—right in the washing machine. Just add one to two capfuls of NuSoft fabric softener to the final rinse, and you'll be ecstatic about the results.

This fabric softener also helps keep permanent press garments truly wrinkle-free and eases the ironing of all fabrics; keeps corduroy garments soft, smooth, wrinkle-free, and puts an end to stiff blue jeans and scratchy towels, making them more comfortable to wear and use.

And a fabric softener is something you don't mind getting in your hair—if you're wearing a synthetic hairpiece—because it eliminates static electricity from that too!

Brute Ladies Plan Spring Dance Apr. 28

Committees were appointed for the first annual spring dance to be sponsored by the Ladies of Brute at the February meeting of the auxiliary, held on February 12 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The dance will be held on April 28 at the VFW Annex, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., with music by the Champagne III. Tickets will be $5.00 per couple and will be available for 75 couples due to the limited space. Publicity will be handled by Cheryl Topper. Susan Sanders will be chairman of the decorations and Loretta Sprankle and Dolores Davis will take charge of refreshments which will be provided by the auxiliary.

Fr. Groppi Speaks At Gettysburg

On Friday, Feb. 16, Father James Groppi, an activist priest from Milwaukee, spoke at a press conference held at Gettysburg College prior to a lecture he was to give on "Civil Rights and Human Rights — The Movement Today." The interview was wide-ranging and covered such diverse subjects as unemployment, education, politics and racism.

From the very beginning, though, the subject of unemployment seemed to claim priority over all the rest, and Father Groppi pointed out three particular aspects of unemployment as an especial cause for concern.

First, Father Groppi said he thought unemployment was one of the chief causes of crime in the streets; second, he felt many whites fear black competition in an already tight job market; and third, he saw many employment agencies as unsuccessful because of their dependency on church and state for funding. This last problem he said could be remedied by setting up private, independent employment agencies that would be self-supporting and therefore need never be subject to financial and personnel cut-backs.

Asked if his religious affiliation has affected his "rights" work, Father Groppi responded affirmatively, and added that, if anything, it has aided him in his efforts. He also insisted that the church has a moral obligation to be socially aware and responsible.

Racism, according to Father Groppi, is not dead, and he proceeded to verify this claim with an account of racial violence that took place in his home town several weeks ago. It began when two white policemen, placed in a black community, were stereotyped as "whites" and later killed. This provoked the anger of white citizens who subsequently overreacted in acts of violence, too. Racism, of course, exists in less drastic forms, also, i.e. insensitive name calling, job discrimination, and more.

Overall, Father Groppi seemed to feel there must be changes in society's values in order to establish real justice and equality for all its citizens.

A total of 18 of these meetings are being held this month by the cooperative across the five states in which it operates. The association serves over 238,000 farm-members in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and Kentucky.

In commenting on the increased cost of protein and mixed feeds as well as high grain prices, Givens said, "they are likely to be around awhile. Prices for some protein sources, notably soybean meal are at the highest level in history. Exports to Communist bloc countries, combined with a virtual breakdown in transportation and an extremely bad harvest season have created this condition."

The energy crisis, according to Givens, "will affect farming operations and the living habits of all of us in the future. The day of cheap energy is probably past and we can look forward to higher electric bills, higher priced gasolines, fuel oil and natural gas. Natural gas is scarce and its shortage will likely increase."

Givens urged those attending the session to place their fertilizer and seed orders early so as to avoid shortages at the peak of the spring planting season.

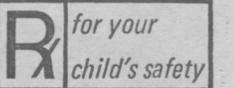

In looking at agriculture in 1973, Givens said, it appears that "grain prices should be strong. Hog and beef cattle prices should remain strong throughout the first half of the year; the dairy industry is in a favorable position with the prospect of net income gains, although higher feed, replacements and labor costs could take some of the edge off profit margins. Egg prices look fairly good for the year while the outlook for improved prices on broiler and turkeys is good although it may not be enough to offset increased feed costs. Tobacco sales are expected to be larger this year along with a 5% increase in support levels." Correspondence was received from Joan Keepers and an application for membership was received from Holly Keepers and favorably voted upon. Mary S. Scott's name was called for the draw prize but was absent. Louise Adams and Alice E. Boyle will have refreshments for the March meeting. This month's refreshment committee included Frances Rosensteel and Anna Gerken.

Area Men Attend SS Conference

Southern States Cooperative's dollar volume for its purchasing operations for the first six months of the 1972-73 fiscal year showed a 16.1% increase as compared with the same period last year. All commodity divisions also showed increases for the period.

This was reported by J. E. Givens, assistant general manager of the organization, to a regional meeting of local board and committee members held at Ellicott City on February 15. Givens headed a three-man team of cooperative officials that attended the session. Other team members were: F. M. Armbricht, controller, and M. A. Tomlinson, director, feed division.

Needless childhood tragedies could be prevented by responsible screening and educating of baby sitters, according to Albert H. Domm M.D., child safety specialist and medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company.

"The baby sitter should be as aware of potential dangers and as capable of handling emergency accident situations as the child's own mother," Dr. Domm said. Dr. Domm suggests that the parent spend some time with the sitter and the child before leaving the house.

"Give the sitter an opportunity to get to know your child and your home while you are still on the scene to discuss your child's needs and answer questions," he said.

Always leave a list of emergency telephone numbers, including the number where you can be reached, the number of a trusted friend or relative, and numbers for the fire department, police department, emergency ambulance, and family doctor," Dr. Domm said.

Dr. Domm recommended that written authorization for emergency medical treatment should be left with the sitter when the parents expect to be out of town for any period of time.

"Doctors are not legally permitted to treat minors without parental consent except in the most extreme emergencies," he said.

Attending the session from this area were board members: Alan Brauer, Harry Swomley, James F. Wivell and John A. Wivell.
