

FREDERICK COUNTY BACKGROUNDS

BY SAMUEL CARRICK

The Duphorne Family
"Thank God, a man can grow!
With earthward gaze to creep along the ground: Though his beginnings be but poor and low.
Thank God, a man can grow!
The fire upon his altars may grow dim,
The torch he lighted may in darkness fail,
And nothing to rekindle it avail—
And yet beyond his dull horizon's rim—
Arcturus and the Pleiads beckon him."

A few remaining notes pertaining to the Winter family, of Pennsylvania and Maryland, dealing with additional burials in the Winter's (Saint Luke's) churchyard.

31. In memory of John Winter, died June 3, 1827, aged 45 years, 5 months, and 26 days.

Note: This inscription was also taken from the list compiled by the historian Thomas Scharf. At the time, some ten or twelve years ago, when J. M. Holdercraft made his survey of Winter's churchyard, this marker had disappeared.

32. In memory of Joseph Winter, born February 9, 1797, died December 2, 1863.

33. In memory of Martin Winter, died July 7, 1876, aged 72 years, 6 months, and 6 days.
This concludes, for the present at least, the data on the Winter family, who were long residents of Emmitsburg and vicinity.

The Duphorne (Duphorn) family—
Interred in Elias churchyard are members of the John and Samuel Duphorne families. Others of this clan may well be buried in old Tom's Creek Lutheran and Reformed churchyard in graves long since lost to all memory and knowledge. It will be remembered that only one-third of this ancient ground remains a small part of the original "given acre."

Undoubtedly the Duphorne family were of French Huguenot extraction and mention is made of them in Stapleton's "Memorials of the Huguenots." It is reasonable to assume that the Duphornes came into Maryland with the Pennsylvania Germans, en route to Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Some of these people, as stated in previous columns, remained in Maryland, particularly in Frederick County, Pennsylvania, prior to the War of the American Revolution, had quite in influx of Holland Dutch and French Huguenot settlers. These people came into Penn's Province together from New Jersey to which colony they had emigrated from New York. Before and after the Massacre of Saint Bartholomew's day many of the French protestants, called Huguenots, fled to Germany and Holland. For this reason they were included in what was known as the "Low Dutch Settlement" which was located, at one time, in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania.

At present very little is known pertaining to the Duphorne family of Emmitsburg and vicinity. The material contained in the church records and the files of the "Emmitsburg Chronicle" appears to be all that is available. From these a skeleton may be put together.

Trinity Lutheran church, Taneytown—
1. Baptized—Franklin Dinwiddle Duphorn—son of John and Rosanna Duphorn—born January 28, 1841—baptized June 20, 1841.

2. Baptized—Eliza Ann Duphorn—daughter of Samuel and Maria Duphorn—born Aug. 2, 1841—baptized Oct. 24, 1841.
Note: There is a mistake as to this child's name—either as given in the church records or cut on her tombstone. She is interred in Elias churchyard and the inscription from the marker at her grave reads as follows:

1. In memory of Annie E. Duphorne, born August 2, 1841, died June 14, 1924.

Annie Eliza Duphorne is buried in the plot of her father and mother along with other members of the family.

3. Baptized, Robert John Duphorn—son of John and Rosanna Duphorne—born February 27, 1842—baptized September 11, 1842.

Note: This little boy lived less than a year. He is interred in Elias churchyard in the family plot. The inscription follows:

2. Sacred to the memory of Robert Duphorn, son of John and Rosanna Duphorn, died November 1842, aged 8 mos.

4. Baptized—Sarah Jane Duphorne—daughter of John and Rosanna Duphorne—born September 19, 1843—baptized April 6, 1844.

Baptized—Calvin Duphorne—son of Samuel and Maria Duphorne—born October 2, 1843—baptized February 23, 1846.

6. Baptized—Robert Samuel Duphorn—son of Samuel and Maria Duphorn—Born April 4, 1846—baptized December 14, 1846.

7. Baptized—Sarah Louisa Duphorne—daughter of Samuel and Maria Duphorne—born November 24, 1848—baptized November 23, 1850.
Note: This little girl lived less than five years and is interred with her parents in Elias churchyard. The inscription follows:

Area Residents Receive Safe Driving Awards At Ft. Ritchie

Several Emmitsburg area residents were among 26 employees at Ft. Ritchie who have received the National Safety Council's Safe Driving Award.

During a presentation ceremony held at the post, Col. Merman Ertlschweiger, commander, Ft. Ritchie, had this to say: "The National Safety Council Safe Driving Awards we are presenting today are a nationally recognized symbol of safe driving for personal whose regular employment requires the daily operation of organizational motor vehicles. It isn't just luck or chance that 78 civilian drivers of this command operated vehicles over 100,000 miles last year without having an accident."

Motion was made and seconded to buy frames for the certificates that the Auxiliary has received over the year.

The treasurer's report was then given.

Mrs. Chata Carr's name was called for the door prize, but was not present. There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Ups And Downs In Job Prospects

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., June 14, 1973—During the current business boom which is still bumping along its all-time ceiling the employment situation has been peculiarly difficult to predict, by both geographical area and industry. Even with the economy shuttering all previous records, jobless totals have held close to 5% of the labor force even as employment as a whole has touched one new peak after another. This has, of course, been due in large measure to the vast numbers of people entering the job market each year.

There has been the influx of high school and college graduates moving annually into the already enormous labor reservoir. Then, too, the revving up of our business motor has attracted back into the labor force many housewives whose families have grown up, long-time unemployed people whose hopes have been stimulated anew by the rise in economic activity, and older folk including restless retirees. Apparently there have not been enough positions emerging to absorb all these job aspirants, leaving unemployment substantially higher than the Administration had hoped for earlier.

Finding The Openings

But conditions have improved so much in many fields that employers are on the prowl for workers once more. During the recession, hiring policies became less active, competition less vigorous for the best graduates of leading colleges. The need for adding to personnel is now becoming more widespread, and recruiting at institutions of higher learning is more prevalent.

It should be noted, however, that the upsurge in costs of labor, materials, machines, and general operations has made most hiring officials more cautious in choosing new manpower. If efficiency is to be preserved, turnover must be held to a minimum, and the best way to achieve that is to make certain that only the most intelligent men and women of highest skill and adaptability are taken on. So today most employers are angling for only the best, and unskilled job seekers are finding it tough to get work with top firms.

Present Hiring Trends

Businesses going at top speed tend to hire back — where possible — workers they let go earlier when conditions were bad. But in many cases they have to reach well beyond this limit and recruit fresh talent at higher rates of pay. Demand is particularly heavy for engineers of various types including project, manufacturing, and process specialists. Accountants are widely sought, especially those thoroughly at home with computers. There is an increasing call for super-salesmen, those who are acquainted with mod techniques and who know the difference between "taking orders" and doing a real selling job.

In most areas where industrial and service operations are focused, there is sharp and continuing demand for office help. Gifted, experienced stenographers are usually at a considerable premium, while the same is generally true for clerks, computer programmers, and operators of sophisticated machines. As is usual during active times, employers put themselves out to retain their best people, often granting raises, incentive improvements, fringe benefits, and free choice of working time without union or other pressure.

Executive Demand On The Rise

There is no question but that executive genius is rare and must be well paid. For this reason wage-price administrators are frustrated by instances of salary hikes for top company officials way beyond those permitted for regular workers. John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, must face up to this

How much additional money are airline passengers charged to cover the cost of anti-skyjacking procedures?

The Civil Aeronautics Board has permitted domestic airlines to charge passengers a 50c surcharge (plus 4c Federal tax per ticket) to cover security screening and inspection costs at airports. The 63c total will be applied to each airline ticket and to each part of a flight when a flight involves changing planes.

Where can I get a list of toys the government has banned?

A monthly bulletin, "Banned Toys", may be obtained by writing the Bureau of Product Safety, Food & Drug Administration, 5401 Westbard Avenue, Bethesda, Md. 20016.

I receive a VA pension and would like to know if a person over age 72 has to file the annual income questionnaire?

A recent law excludes pensioners 72 years of age and older who draw benefits during two consecutive years from filing annual income questionnaires. However, you still must report changes in income.

The Biggest Political Scandal
The big guns of the eastern journalism concentration—including the New York Times, the Washington Post and the three nationwide television networks—can claim credit for keeping the Watergate affair alive day by day for a period of six months and finally tracking some of the tentacles of the octopus-like scandal directly to the White House. Their massive operation of "investigative" journalism, however, leaves them, in retrospect, out on what some people consider to be a partisan political limb.

News nine years ago, on the ramifications of what may have been the biggest political scandal in American history, in which Democrat bigwigs, including President Johnson, were clearly involved, was snuffed out by actions of the Democratic Congress, the White House, the Justice Department, and a failure of the Washington and New York press centers to pursue wide-open leads. In that last big Washington scandal, unearthed by Senator John J. Williams a few months before the 1964 Presidential campaigning, the eastern media went along with a cover-up and never a thought apparently of bringing "investigative" journalism into play.

The four major figures involved in the early disclosures were Robert G. Baker, Secretary to the Senate Democratic Majority and one of President Johnson's most intimate friends; Mr. Johnson himself, as Senate Majority leader, subsequently Vice President, and then President; Walter Jenkins, Mr. Johnson's intimate friend and right hand man in the White House and an associate with him in various business enterprises; and Matthew H. McCloskey, for years Treasurer of the National Democratic Party, subsequently Ambassador to Ireland, who, it turned out, made a fortune as a contractor building Federal Government buildings, the $20 million DC Stadium, the $100 million-plus Rayburn House Office Building, and others.

The inconsistency of the performance of the major news media in these two scandals was pointed out during the glow of satisfaction that some of the newsmen "stars" exuded when President Nixon was finally smoked out and surrendered to Watergate circumstances on last April 30. Two hours before the Presidential TV address on Watergate, Walter Cronkite, the CBS News star, ran down a list of historic Washington scandals without even mentioning the Baker-Johnson-Jenkins-McCloskey mess which had been buried with the help of a strangely tolerant press just nine years ago.

Far-Reaching Ramifications
Mr. Cronkite mentioned Teapot Dome (President Harding's onetime Interior Secretary got caught taking a $100,000 bribe for allocating government oil rights to a big oil company); the Harry Truman-General Vaughan et al "deep freeze" scandal; and the Eisenhower-Sherman Adams vicuna coat affair. But not a word did he say about the sordid machinations that nine years ago involved directly the Democrat President, the Democratic Party's biggest money raiser, the Get-Rich-Quick Secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority, and a seemingly endless array of lesser figures, including the handsome German woman who allegedly ran a "call girl" service exclusively for Democratic Senator friends of Bobby Baker and who was mysteriously shanghaied back to Germany.

Mr. Cronkite said there were "those" who would consider Watergate the worst scandal in history. Because of his obvious omission of the Baker-Johnson-Jenkins et al Democratic scandal, which was largely covered up, I have decided, for the sake of journalistic balance, to review the facts.

First let me say that Watergate, merely on the basis of what is known, is truly a scandal. Its future revelations may prove to be bad examples useful in improving the workings of our American political system. And the Washington and New York news media axis undoubtedly opened the door to its major ramifications. The question is, why did they not pursue with equally intensive aggressiveness these many fascinating trails that led off from the Baker-Johnson-Jenkins-McCloskey affair? The facts no doubt will suggest to many people that it was a case of political news blindness nine years ago when the Democrats were in the scandal soup, and a case of gleeful political crucifixion which carried the newsmen into a massive media investigative spree against the Republican Administration of Richard Nixon. The past will speak for themselves — here, in a review of the Democrat scandal which shriveled and died for lack of media attention, and what is to come out of the further Watergate explorations and court actions.

Local Author Writes Itinerary For County Mini-Tour

Local author Ann Burnside Love is shown in Sabillasville with the current issue of MARYLAND Magazine which contains a special feature by her entitled "A Mini-Tour of Upper Frederick County".

The would-be travel adventurer is offered "A Mini-Tour of Northern Frederick County" in the Summer issue of "Maryland" Magazine, now on sale locally.

Written by local author, Ann Burnside Love, the guided driving tour starts just above Frederick and extends northward as far as Sabillasville (shown in a drawing on the front cover) and Emmitsburg and ends at Libertytown. Readers are invited to follow a pre-arranged route through scenic back roads, guided by detailed descriptions of the landscape and the interesting and historic sites en route. The tour is designed for an afternoon in the country and includes an easy-to-follow map plus directions and meal stops.

Another story of local interest in the new edition, "Truck Stop—a little world within itself", tells with words and dramatic photos what trucking means to Maryland. One of the largest truck stops in the State, located near Frederick, is included. A five-page article entitled "New Skills for Appalachia", details western Maryland's efforts to stem the out-migration of its young people in search of good jobs.

Single copies of the quarterly publication of the Department of Economic and Community Development, at $1.00 each, are available at the following area locations:

The Flower: "The Black-Eyed Susan." During the early years (the 1920's) some of the most interesting and basic demonstrations were:

- 1. The Making of Dress Forms—Cutting and Fitting Patterns.
2. Millinery—including the shaping and remodeling of old hats.
3. The Care of the Hair.
4. The Making of Silk, Organdy and Woolen Flowers.
5. Clothing—Fashions, Material Laundering, Storing.
6. Well Balanced Meals.
7. Caning and Weaving seats in Split-Bottom Chairs and Stools.

Note: Mrs. Higbee caned more than 100 chairs. It is perhaps interesting to note here that such demonstrations reflected the time and manner of living during these years.

Clothing was laundered at home, many times scrubbed on a wash-board and hung outside to dry.

Eggs were beaten by hand; Recipes made from "Scratch." The old ice box was still being used—"The Ice Man Cometh!"

The good old days had their attractions but how many of us would want to return to them? The club projects listed at this time were:

- 1. The purchase of 5 dozen "Easy-Seal" jars to can fruit and vegetables to be exhibited at the Frederick Fair.
2. The donation of Shrubbery from the Homemakers' gardens to be planted on the grounds of the High School.

3. The supplying of "Musical Programs" for the membership and the community by talented club members.

4. The establishment of a "Community Loan Closet" containing about 50 different articles which are used for the care of patients in a sick room. These articles were made available at all times to the people of the community if and when needed.

5. The presentation of Literary and Art Programs. Reports were given on: The First Dirigible and Lindbergh's Flight. Visits were made to Mt. Vernon, DuPont Gardens, Art Museums and places of historical interest.

6. The annual picnic was held each year at Braddock Heights. 7. The Exchange was open every Saturday afternoon for the sale of food and fancy work.

8. The Community Christmas Party given jointly by the Homemaker's Club and the Lions Club. The ladies served as many as 1200 lunches at these parties. A free movie was shown and the children treated by Santa Claus.

9. Delegates were sent to the Short Course at College Park. This Short Course was originated and organized by Miss Venia Kellar in 1923, the same year our club was organized, and the Emmitsburg Club was among the first to send delegates and participate in this program.

The club projects listed at this time were: 1. The purchase of 5 dozen "Easy-Seal" jars to can fruit and vegetables to be exhibited at the Frederick Fair. 2. The donation of Shrubbery from the Homemakers' gardens to be planted on the grounds of the High School.

week was the Bus Tour of the city of Washington on Friday afternoon after the Commencement Exercises.

Can you imagine nearly 1000 women on as many as thirty special buses escorted by a motorcade of D. C. policemen touring the city of Washington? Traffic would be tied up for blocks. Taxi drivers were infuriated, government workers looked in amazement. But Dr. Symans and Miss Kellar saw to it that we had the key to the city for one afternoon. We were the women of Maryland and we were entitled to see the White House, the Capitol, the Washington Cathedral, the Roman Catholic Monastery, the Shakespearean Library and Theater and the Pan American Building (to mention a few), then to Rock Creek Park for a picnic supper.

The 1930's or Second Decade of Homemaking, saw the beginning of many Community Projects. A splendidly equipped kitchen for the Firemen's Hall was the result of Kitchen Shower. Benefits were held for neighboring hospitals, the Library and Scouts. Funds were solicited for artificial limbs for a local boy. We sponsored the Girl Scouts and Children's Aid; also the Cancer Fund. Prizes were given to local school students outstanding in mathematics. The families of the community were receiving informative demonstrations on: (To Be Continued)
