Let's take a look at the mail bag:

As a newcomer in the town of Emmitsburg, I am inclined to believe everything I have heard wrong about the town.

I am speaking now about our youth organization of the Dynamics Majorette and Drum Corp. They have very few people that will come forward and help these kids in any way.

An organization run by four or five people with virtually no help.

Can someone get through to different businessmen in the area to stand behind our kids. Other towns do it, so why can't we?

This group has been told they would never make it, but they have proved them wrong. The kids really try but they need support. After all, when they go into different towns they are representing the town of Emmitsburg, our town, so let's give a little more effort to help these kids out. They need each and everyone who is willing in any way to help.

Thank you for hearing me out.

Mrs. R. W. Bennett
Dear Mrs. B.:

Your letter states you are a newcomer. As such, you may be receptive to a couple of suggestions from an old gray haired resident who has been writing this column for more years than I like to remember. (You can check that by asking the fellows down at the office to take a peek at the old files). Before you criticize the local business people too much, I suggest you find out the extent of their support to local activities in the past. It just may be that they are more active than you think. In addition, I would make specific requests rather than vague generalities. It is pretty tough for a business fellow to provide help if he doesn't know what is needed.

Looks like the new school is coming along just fine but I wish I knew where we are compared to where we are supposed to be. Some time ago I made a comment about a progress chart, per chart, or whatever it is called, and one showed up in the mail shortly thereafter. If I could get a new one showing where we are, I promise to ask the fellows to post it in the Chronicle window for all to extirpate. Then every one of the local sidewalk superintendents could make sure that the contractor stays on the ball.

Now that the town has said a resounding NO to Viking, I am wondering where the town is going to get the money to upgrade its sewer system. That $175,000 sure looked good, it is going to take some doing to raise it on our own.

Maybe the town fathers missed the boat (get it) by not going halves with Thurmont when they bought that new TV machine to check on water infiltration to our sewer system. Perhaps it is not too late yet to make a deal. Compared to the fancy price Fairfield paid to check out their sewers, it looks like Thurmont has the right idea.

I hear one of our quasi-public type citizens thinks there are permanent rights to a public type job, no matter how good a job gets done. Too bad some folks are so dense they don't realize the primary responsibility of a public employee is to the public and not to themselves.

Last week Father King gave us one of the best messages heard in years. We should all take it to heart and start figuring out how we can do something about the problem. Maybe there is some way we could start using the old school for the kids after hours this year, rather than wait until next year when the new school is in use and the old school unoccupied.

Charles Cullison Home Damaged By Gas Explosion In Basement

Charles E. Cullison, 31, Fairfield R2, is in a critical condition at Harrisburg General Hospital from burns over 80 percent of his body from an explosion which ripped apart his home along the Stultz Rd. in Liberty Twp., about two miles north of Emmitsburg at 5:45 p.m. Sunday.

Six units of the Emmitsburg and Fairfield Fire Companies responded to the scene. Cullison was rushed to the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance and then was transferred to the Harrisburg Hospital to become a patient in the burn unit there.

His wife, Gloria, was moved to the Warner Hospital in the Emmitsburg firemen's rescue truck for treatment of shock.

Emmitsburg Fire Chief Guy R. McLaughlin said he was told the Cullisons had had an antique car at a show in the Hershey area over the weekend. They returned home about 5:30 Sunday evening and noted the odor of gas as they opened the door of the house. While Mrs. Cullison and their young son remained outside the house, Cullison entered to determine the problem. He had apparently gone to the basement of the house when the explosion occurred.

McLaughlin said he was told a brother of Cullison, who resided nearby, had entered the building, and had found Cullison on the stairway to the basement. He removed his badly burned brother from the house and placed him on the lawn, where the ambulance picked him up, McLaughlin said he was told.

Fairfield Fire Chief Lawrence Eversole Monday morning was awaiting the arrival of State Police Trooper Thomas Minnich of the state fire marshal's office to conduct the investigation. At the scene Sunday firemen suggested the possibility that Cullison may have pushed the switch to turn on the light in the basement and a slight spark might have set off the explosion.

McLaughlin said there was a 500 gallon drum for propane gas underground in the back yard. He said he had been told that Cullison had turned off a valve from the drum to the house before leaving for the weekend.

According to Chief Eversole the home was a total loss and he estimated it had been worth $25,000 to $30,000. The house was moved a foot off its foundation. Bricks that had encased the house were thrown all over the yard. One wall blew out entirely. A large fireplace blew out. All of the windows of the house were blown out and a bay window, frame and all, was hurled to the gutter along the road passing by the house.

McLaughlin said the explosion apparently "hurled" fire everywhere, even up into the crawl space between the ceiling and roof. There was fire all over furniture, over everything in the kitchen, everywhere through the house. But there was no big fire. Furniture and wood charred, and there were little flames everywhere, but it had not ignited into a major blaze by the time we arrived."

Town Hose Company Team Wins Bucket Brigade Contest; Second In Hook Up

Terry Myers, Charlie Champlain, Larry Little, Mike Shorb, Pat Zimmerman, Larry Glass, Jim Grindler, Gary Glass and Dave Copenhaver ready gear for the hoop-up contest in Sunday's Fire Prevention Day activities. The team placed 5 second behind Greenmount to take second place.

The Vigilant Hose Company of Emmitsburg participated in the Fire Prevention activities in Biglerville, Pa., on Sunday afternoon, October 7. A parade started the afternoon's events at 1 p.m. with 21 fire companies participating. Queens from various Adams County Fire Companies, and the Biglerville High School Bands were among participants in the parade.

Following the parade, special events were held at the firemen's grounds, beginning with the "Hook-Up" contest which was entered by eight companies. Greenmount was first with a time of 45 seconds.

Emmitsburg's team placed second with 45.5 seconds, followed by Gettysburg with 47 seconds. The host team from Biglerville was timed at 37 seconds but due to pressure reaching 200 pounds instead of the required 150 pounds, they were penalized, thus losing the contest. Special demonstrations then

Letter To The Editor

An Open Letter To All:

After listening to the words of my pastor last Sunday in church, about the problems our community is having with the teenagers, and quite a few children not teenagers yet, I got to thinking that maybe we adults are to blame, period. No way out of it. Period.

The church clock rings 9 p.m. Do we know where our children are? It rings 10 p.m. and soon a lot of us don't know, and probably care less. Just go up on DePaul Street in the evening, not just once, but make several trips during the evening and see for yourself. It's bad enough loitering, but all the littering that is going on. The gutter, sidewalks, cemetery, convent grounds, St. Joseph's High School grounds, back on the basketball court—just full of litter, and down right disgusting.

The loiterers show no respect for the church, cemetery, the nuns, the priests, and especially the people living below the above areas.

I understand the Mayor and Town Police made a late trip recently one night and talked to a few of the loiterers. This is not enough, and I think the parents, the community, and service organizations should start some sort of a program that we can get these young people off the streets. I know we cannot satisfy all of the young but I think we all should make an attempt to do something.

The American Legion sponsors our most active Boy Scout Troop; the VFW sponsors the Cub Scouts; the Knights of Columbus sponsor the Columbian Squires. But then again, not all boys are interested in the above, so they have some free time. And the girls, I believe, the Girl Scouts are the only thing they have to join. Again all girls don't want to be Girl Scouts, so they have some free time on their hands, and so on.

I make the following suggestions:

I am a member of the American Legion, VFW, and the Knights, plus the Fire Co., which I am not too active in at the present. All above organizations have youth programs except the Fire Co. They are on the National and State levels, and can set up their own local programs to meet the needs of the community, and I feel very strongly that all three organizations are missing the boat in helping our teenagers, not with dollars, but bodies, time, and different programs.

I believe the Fire Co., with all its well trained firemen, could start a Junior Fire Brigade, with young boys in the community who are at least a year away from becoming an active fireman. Train them in the proper ways of using the equipment, and when they become of age, put them on the active list—get them off the streets.

To you, the business men and ladies, how about putting some thought into establishing a snack bar type restaurant for the kids in town, or use your business influence outside of town to inducing someone to put up a bowling alley, skating rink, etc. I am sure some of you have contacts in this type of venture. You, too, could get more involved in the community.

Someone is going to have to make a move and soon. Will it be you, the parent, or will it be you the organization? Whichever it is, I will be there to help.

PERSPECTIVES IN LEARNING

By Hazel Brown, President
Harry Lundberg School
Volunteering Is Fun

The school year is just beginning and teachers are finding their classrooms overcrowded with students. The dreams they had during the summer for this new year are slowly being put aside because there isn't enough time or there are just too many students. All the plans for creative projects and individualized instructions are put on the shelf for another year.

This situation could be corrected if parents showed some interest in helping teachers who are eager to teach and want to do an outstanding job. Parents can assist teachers and students in many ways if they first show some interest and are willing to discover that volunteering is really fun.

In many schools parent volunteers are going into the classrooms and helping the teachers with many types of educational activities. Parents are given the opportunities to work cooperatively with teachers and students in learning experiences.

Volunteers can free the teacher to work with an individual student or a group of youngsters while they manage the remainder of the class. Many group activities can be guided by a parent while the expertise of the teacher is put to a better advantage.

The schools which encourage volunteering are finding that students are receiving more individual attention than ever before. Parents who care enough to volunteer also care about youngsters and give their love and attention to needy students who are begging for help, recognition, and consideration.

Parents are finding that working in schools as volunteers is very exciting, challenging, and extremely rewarding. Helping a youngster who rarely gets attention can be a very rewarding experience. The love of a child is something that every human should experience and can be found in any classroom in every school in the country.

Most parents enjoy reading stories to the students, playing games, helping with arts and crafts activities, and helping the teacher with lessons in reading, arithmetic, and spelling. Some parents have helped students write stories, illustrate creative writing and make books to share with the entire class. There is no limit to the activities in which a creative and interested parent can participate.

Being a volunteer means giving of one's time and one's self, but this sharing process is what results in self-fulfillment and much fun.

Why not give volunteering a try this year? The schools in your community will be blessed with much needed help and you will be rewarded in ways you will never forget. Volunteering is fun!

Growth in the nation's veteran population, from 24 million to over 29 million since 1965, will continue until 1975, then begin a steady decline to the 1965 level by the year 2000, according to a VA projection.

Confirming Soviet Goals

My last week's column was entitled: "Communists are Not Trustworthy." It was the last of a series on the state of our national security in a world being dominated more and more by the USSR. The series mentioned the worsening state of our military might, the latest "peace offensive" dramatized by Soviet boss Leonid Brezhnev, and the danger of a weak America whose people and leaders believe the Russian bear has turned into a friendly kitty-cat.

After sending out the last of the series to the 2,000-plus newspapers that get the columns, I read the Associated Press' Soviet "expert" William L. Ryans' report on a recent significant development in Moscow. It confirms what we have been reporting for years—that the Russians have not changed their world goals. It is so important that I am devoting this column to it. From The Bear's Mouth Mr. Ryan reports that the official USSR Communist Party newspaper, Pravda, has published "an especially important message to the international Communist movement." He reports that the essence of the message — "signed 'I. Alexandrov' — meaning it was the Politburo speaking" — was that Brezhnev's highly advertised "peace offensive, detente, and peaceful co-existence" utterances were not to be taken seriously by the Communists, and that Soviet Russia still seeks to establish world Communism with the Kremlin as its citadel.

The Pravda article was a disguised message to Communist parties world-wide. In essence it said, "We must unite to overthrow the USA." The message was so contrived as to fool the Western world and yet restate for the Communists everywhere the unremittable goal of world conquest. Mr. Ryan dealt with significant portions. The message said that Brezhnev's policy of peaceful coexistence and detente with the United States is based in "the program of struggle against imperialism and for peace, a program worked out collectively at the international conference of Communists of 1957, 1960 and 1969." Communists throughout the world know that "the struggle against imperialism" means Communism's war to destroy the USA. They know also that "for peace" means for "peace" in a world in which Communism had destroyed all opposition everywhere. There would be peace—peace ruled by Red dictators whose basic rule is to kill off all opposition.

"The Word"—Conquest
The Associated Press' William Ryan notes that reference to the international conferences of 1957, 1960 and 1969 changes the whole thrust of Brezhnev's peace offensive. "That was news," Mr. Ryan said. "Until then (the Pravda article) the word had been that the peace offensive had been based on decisions of the Soviet Party's 24th Congress in 1971, when the East-West thaw had begun in those earlier years, particularly, the Russian attitude toward the United States and the West was hostile."

Mr. Ryan observes further: "It seems less than coincidence that two weeks after Brezhnev returned home from his United States visit, Pravda noted that 'of the highest importance at the 24th Congress was the conclusion that attempts by imperialism (USA) to adapt to new conditions are not altering its essence and are incapable of preventing the future deepening of the general crisis of capitalism.' The revival of the Leninist doctrine that capitalism would help dig its own grave had a ring—perhaps a hopeful one (to Communist strategy of world conquest)..."

The warning
And finally Mr. Ryan issued the warning that we have sounded throughout the years, long before Soviet Russia rose to such frightening military stature: "A year ago, when Brezhnev was painstakingly building his bridges to the West, he left the impression that world communism was a goal referred to the distant future. Now, perhaps, Moscow sees opportunities opened up in the light of United States troubles... Moscow does not want to wreck what Brezhnev built and jeopardize the benefits he hopes for from his approaches to the U. S. and the West. At the same time Communists are constantly admonished that 'peace must not be permitted to go too far'..." The 1960 Conference of world communist parties (as in 1957 and 1969) noted that "peaceful coexistence does not mean an armistice of the socialist and bourgeois (USA) ideologies; on the contrary it resupposes intensification of the struggle of the working class and all Communist parties for the triumph of socialist ideas."

It is encouraging to see the Associated Press opening its eyes to the realities of the Communist goal of world conquest. Our Congress, which continues to chop away our military might, needs to be awakened. Only the citizens of this nation can move the Congress out of its disastrous course of crippling our capability to survive. Real responsibility thus rests with each citizen.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Has Congress taken any action on metric conversion?

No action has been taken on a large number of bills providing for conversion to the metric system in the United States. The House Science & Astronautics Subcommittee on Science, Research and Development, however, has held preliminary hearings on the general proposal.

Is there a deadline for veterans to apply for VA hospital care?

There is no deadline or time limit if a veterans is eligible, needs it, and a bed is available. The Veteran's Administration informs me that beds are always available at VA hospitals for veterans with service-connected disabilities. Incidentally, Congress recently passed a bill that would reimburse veterans for medical expenses outside the VA system in cases where the VA was not able to provide the required care.

What is the status of anti-hijacking legislation?

Legislation ordering the federal government to set up transportation security forces at major national airports to prevent aircraft hijacking has been delayed by the House because of actions taken by airports themselves to beef up security forces. Last year the Department of Transportation issued emergency regulations requiring state and local governments at 531 airports to replace some 1,700 federal airport security officers at their own expense. The Senate, however, has passed a bill ordering the Department to set up a security force at the nation's major airports and authorizing $35-million for fiscal 1974-75 to fund the program. Local airports have already hired their own security forces with the cost eventually passed along to passengers through higher ticket prices.

Who can I write to in the Agriculture Department about a consumer matter?

Mrs. Nancy Steorts is the special assistant for consumer affairs on matters relating to agriculture programs. You may contact her at the Office of the Secretary, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, or phone 202-447-3165.

If I retire before 65 how much Social Security money will I lose?

The Social Security Administration tells me that you don't really lose—you just get it earlier. For instance, a worker retiring now at age 64 will get $248 for the rest of his life. He would be entitled to $266 at age 65. It would take 14 years until his monthly reductions equal the extra $18 per month he would have received.

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

Are Low Price/Earnings Ratio Stocks Good Buys

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 4, 1973—Any follower of the stock market knows that 1973, thus far, has been a bad year for most stocks. In the first half of the year alone, 1,357 issues on the New York Stock Exchange declined while only 100 showed advances. Up to this time in the second half there has been only moderate improvement in most stock prices. Thus, a tremendous number of securities, especially those of medium to lower grade, are priced very low relative to earnings. It would be safe to say that the P/E ratios of quite a few companies are near the lowest levels since they began trading on a major exchange. This is disheartening, of course, not only for owners of such stocks but also for the managements, which are usually extremely stockholder-conscious.

For example, there are currently hundreds of common stocks priced at from 6 to 9 times earnings; and recently there were more than 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange selling at 5 times earnings or less. Of these, one was priced at 2 times earnings, seven at 3 times earnings, and a great many more at 4 times. Not many years ago such low P/E ratios were practically unheard of. When a stock did get very depressed, it was usually regarded as a real bargain and thus attracted considerable buying interest. As a result it did not as a rule remain in the low P/E category for very long.

Many of the stocks that were recently priced at 5 times earnings or under are well-known issues. Among these were such substantial firms as Ford, Chrysler, Goodrich, City Investing, Avco, U. S. Industries, White Consolidated, General Tire, Trans World Airlines, Manhattan Industries, McCrory Corporation, and others.

Are They Really Bargains?

Although there may be some outstanding buys among the low P/E stocks, they should certainly not be bought indiscriminately. Each one should be thoroughly investigated. There are usually some valid reasons for their being priced so low. It could be that future earnings are expected to turn downward, so the present depressed P/E's of some stocks may not look so low in the future; the company may be in a highly cyclical industry; the firm may be in for serious labor troubles; a company's major customers may be on a downswing, etc. It must be recognized, of course, the price/earnings ratios as listed in most financial papers are based on earnings for the latest twelve months. There is no consideration given to probable future earnings. In other words, they are figured solely on past results. Furthermore, a stock's P/E ratio is only one part of the picture when an investor is seeking "buys." There are many other factors which are often of equal and sometimes of even greater importance.

While corporate earnings have been on the rise this year, the stock market for the most part has been in the doldrums as a result of the rampant inflation, high money rates, the Watergate scandals, a weak dollar in foreign financial markets, government controls, concern about the economy in 1974, and absence of the small investor from the marketplace.

This special combination, therefore—good earnings in a down-trending market—has made for some very low P/E ratios.

What To Buy

At the present time the Research Department of Babson's Reports does not happen to be recommending for purchase any issues that are priced at 5 times earnings or less. While we may do this sometime in the future, it will of course depend on the general outlook for the company as well as on a number of other relevant factors. As of now, we are recommending many promising issues which are at present carrying comparatively low price/earnings ratios of from 6 to 9. Included in this group are such highly regarded stocks as PPG Industries, Rockwell International, Woolworth, Champion International, Texaco, and Firestone Tire & Rubber—all on the New York Stock Exchange.

Firemen Win

without dropping a bucket in the least amount of time, was the winner. Emmitsburg's team A placed first with 58 seconds. Aspers followed with 60.5 seconds and Brunshtown took third place with 64 seconds. Each team received a trophy for their efforts. During this event a member of the Bendersville Fire Co. suffered a nose injury and was taken to the Warner Hospital for treatment.

Among those in charge of the days' activities were Robert E. Baker, and George Eck-enrode of Biglerville; Calvin Cook of Bendersville; Guy R. McClaughlin of Emmitsburg; John Murren, Adams County Fire Marshal, and Robert Smith, president of the Adams County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Among the judges for the hoop-up contest and bucket brigade contests were: Harry O. Miller, Chief, Guardian Hose Company, Thurmont, and John Murren, Adams County Fire Marshal.

Monday evening, firemen took over 400 youngsters for a ride through Emmitsburg. Flashing lights and sirens were seen and heard for two hours as firemen cheerfully paraded the youngsters slowly through town on two of the pumpers. Each child was given a fireman's hat and pop-sicle after a ride on the truck. Serving on this year's committee for the children's event were Harry Green and Thomas White. Many members of the fire company turned out to assist with the youngsters on the pumpers at the event.

Still to come is the firemen's annual Colorfest Parade and the Block Party to be held on DePaul Street, throughout Saturday.

School PTA Honors New Teachers

New teachers were welcomed to the Emmitsburg School with a gift of flowers. Pictured (l-r) in the front row are: PTA President Mrs. Gail Graff, Mrs. Pamela Gibbney, Mrs. Rebecca Ferguson, and Mrs. Emily Faust. In the back are Mr. Bob Brake, Mr. Richard Van Tries, Principal, and Mr. Ray Barrett.

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg School PTA was held on September 26 in the school cafeteria with guests from Mother Seton School. During the business meeting, the operating budget was approved and committee reports were presented by Velma Stambaugh, room mother chairman; Ottolene Hewitt, book fair chairman, and Sandra Shriver, reading chairman.

Ways to raise funds were discussed and tabled for later decisions. The faculty was introduced with new members receiving a rose or carnation. Each faculty member also received a monetary gift from the PTA for classroom use.

The room banner, presented to the class with the most parents present, was won by Mrs. Whitaker's kindergarten class.

Mr. Meade Felton, an assistant to the superintendent of schools, presented slides and a tape introducing the concept of year-round school. A question and answer period with all present invited to comment in writing on the ideas presented.

Refreshments were served by the first grade mothers. The next meeting will be held on October 24, when the Book Fair will be in full swing in the school library.

A piece of the Roaring Twenties will be brought to life this week when Sock 'N Buskin, the drama club at Mount Saint Mary's College, will present "The Front Page."

Written by Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht, the comedy conjures up the image of newspaper reporters, dressed in sloppy raincoats, sporting pencils behind their ears and cigarettes in their mouths, phoning their editors to "stop the presses" for the "big scoop."

The fast-paced play is deplete with action and humor as star reporter Hildy Johnson tangles with gangster Earl Williams, who has escaped from prison on the day of his execution.

Directing the play is Philip Wychodzki, the Mount's new drama professor, who is well-known for his work in theater and television. Mr. Wychodzki won Emmys for three television shows he wrote, and he is now working on the New York showcase production of his play, "Dickens." He has also been producer-director of the Carousel Dinner Theater in Ocean City, Md., and manager of Edison Theater in New York City.

Lou Fabri stars as Hildy Johnson and Steve Colfray plays his boss, Walter Burns. Scott Bloom appears as Earl Williams, Vicky Consentino as Peggy, and Terry Mnsker as Molly Molloy. Ed Horn is the technical director.

"The Front Page" will be presented Friday, Oct. 12, thru Tuesday, Oct. 16, in Flynn Hall. Except for Sunday, Oct. 14, curtain time will be 8:00 p.m. On Sunday it will be at 2:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or during the week before at the Student Union Building. Admission is $1.00 for students and $1.50 for adults.

On December 11-13, Sock 'N Buskin will present its annual one-act play festival. The student-directed plays will include entries from Hood College, Mount Saint Mary's Seminary, and the college.

Bud 'N Vase Adds Teleflora Service

The Cozy Bud 'N Vase Shoppe in Thurmont, is now a member of "Teleflora Wire Service". This is the second largest floral wire service. The Bud 'N Vase Shoppe is the only flower shop in Frederick County with both FTD and Teleflora. FTD and Teleflora are both world wide organizations. Each organization publishes a monthly membership list that goes to all members.

The idea of sending flower orders from a florist in one city to another florist hundreds or thousands of miles away, first came up in 1892 at a meeting of the Society of American Florists in Washington, D. C. The idea became a reality in 1910 as an outgrowth of these meetings.

Florists Transworld Delivery Association (FTD) was the first such organization to offer this service. More recently Teleflora Wire Service has come into being with a similar purpose to that of FTD—that is to provide extensive service to the florist industry, including helping customers send flowers to recipients in other parts of the United States and throughout the world.

Members of the Vigilant Hose Company Bucket Brigade team hand water up the ladder to fill 50 gallon barrel on platform. Emmitsburg's Team A took first place in 58 seconds.
